Reasons Behind "Crusades": Money, Money, Money

AC 1095-1270: The need to transfer large sums of money to finance the Crusades provides a stimulus to the re-emergence of banking in Western Europe.

The Masonic Khazars were behind the instigations that led to the ancient Crusades (see the section on fake terror) and are behind the renewed empire building events. The Illuminist or Satanic conspiracy reorganized after Prophet Noah's Flood with the secret societies that arose in Babylon through the knowledge transplanted by Ham, whose son, Cush (also known as Hermes), claimed to be the interpreter of the gods. We may call these Luciferians Illuminati (meaning "illuminated ones"), a name that describes the followers of Lucifer, who was "the sum of wisdom and beauty" (Ezekiel 28:11). Satanists believe that Lucifer's rebellion against God had its first manifestation in the Garden of Eden where he "illuminated" Eve, causing the fall. The Bible (Torah & New Testament) and the Babylonian Talmud (the book of fake-Jews, Pharisées) portray Rome and the "Pharisées" as mortal enemies. What the protagonists do not realize is that they are each ruled by the same masters under Satan-Lucifer-Illuminati, and are brought into planned conflict in order to produce a predetermined outcome ultimately intended to destroy and demoralize God-worshipping groups and their beliefs. Pharisées were behind the murders and attempted murders of some of the descendants of Abraham who were Prophets and Messengers of God, were behind turning the Israelites towards pagan (nature or self-) worship of the calf after collecting their gold, were behind the drive to crucify Yashua-Joshua-Jesus when he started opposing their evils of usury and occultism, were behind the creation of the hate literature known as the Babylonian Talmud, were behind establishing the Bank of Rome's tight control over Europe, were behind the mediaeval Crusades, the private central banks such as the Federal Reserve, and are behind today's barbaric Crusades!

In The Lost Science of Money by Stephen Zarlenga, American Monetary Institute, NY, we find the following: "The advantage to society of having enough rule of law [slavery] to create fiat money is enormous and not just a matter of degree." Before the crusades, the breakdown of law and of money continued to operate negatively, the one upon the other for centuries, in a slow downward spiral of societal decay, as the Pope amassed Europe's wealth. "Creating such commodity moneys requires expending a great deal of work in prospecting, mining, refining and minting. Maintaining that money against the attacks of coin clippers, metal exporters and normal wear and tear over the decades also requires great energy. "These heavy burdens tend to neutralize the benefits eventually derived from such money systems, leaving mankind trapped on an economic treadmill. This is especially true considering the low state of resources that societies had available to deploy in those darkest ages of Europe. At first the precious metals systems continued well into the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries. Modern 19th and 20th century money systems, which claimed to be precious metals systems, generally depended on an element of fraud rather than force, as we shall see. "An early attempt to rebuild the money system was made by Charlemagne (742-814), often credited with establishing a new monetary standard and with re-instituting weights and measures in the West, from which the pound, shilling and pence notations evolved. More accurately, Charlemagne's system was a revival of some Roman coining traditions. Charlemagne's system of Livres, Sols and Deniers had existed from at least 418 AC as seen in the Roman Code of Theodosius. This 'money of account' system had served to unify different Roman Coinages issued over time. The alternative would have been an expensive re-minting and the loss to the melting pot of the numerous historical commemorations in the old coins.

"The basis of Charlemagne's Empire was military conquest and the enslavement of subjugated people, mostly Saxons. Using this extensive slave labor he re-started or intensified precious metal mining at Chemnitz, Kremsnitz, and Rauthenberg, mostly of silver, working the slaves to death in the mines. Those slaves not needed for mining were sold through Jewish and Venetian intermediaries. To mint Charlemagne's silver into pennies, many new mints were opened at Dorestad, Aachen, Bonn, Cologne, Maastricht and Namur. At one point he considered producing all the coinages at his Palace mint at Aachen." That, of course, indicates how much wealth and effort was dedicated to provide the semblance of a commodity currency. "However, the coinage was still scarce as indicated by taxes being collected mainly in services and produce, rather than coinage." And in the well-known fact that for centuries later, royal courts moved around from royal domain to domain as they consumed the resources grown locally. All this indicated the crushing cost of trying to maintain a commodity money system when there were neither the precious metals nor skills and institutions available for that or the alternate fiat currency." Zarlenga traces the different ways in which successive regimes exploited the discrepancy between the gold-silver ratio in India and Europe. The Venetians learned to live with the Muslim conquest of the Eastern Mediterranean, by adapting their trading to the Muslim injunctions against the taking of interest. The Venetians replaced it with profits by the Venetian financiers who shared with the active entrepreneurs the actual risks. But those profits included the huge discrepancy in the gold-silver ratio between Europe and Asia. The basis for this collaboration was in Egypt which was kept isolated from the rest of the Muslim World. The Portuguese by discovering the route around the Cape of Good Hope cut into Venice's monopoly which had brought Italy the Renaissance and the European basis for the collection of the ratio bonus shifted from Pavia to Antwerp. The European Jews came to play an increasing part in communications across the ratio frontier. From Portugal it shifted to Holland, largely because of its prowess in shipbuilding. And from there to England. Then with the discovery of America, far cheaper sources of gold became available.

Byzantium (Eastern Roman Empire) was the original name of the modern city of Istanbul. Byzantium was originally settled by Greek colonists from Megara in 667 BC and named after their king Byzas. The name "Byzantium" is a Latinization of the original Thracian-Greek name Byzantion (Βυζάντιον). After siding with Pescennius Niger against the victorious Septimius Severus the city was besieged by Rome and suffered extensive damage in AD 196. Byzantium was rebuilt by the now Roman Emperor Septimius Severus and quickly regained its previous prosperity. The location of Byzantium attracted Constantine the Great who, in AD 330, refounded it as Nova Roma (New Rome) or Constantinopolis (Constantinople, Greek Κωνσταντινούπολις) after a prophetic dream was said to have identified the location of the city. The East Roman Empire which had its capital in Constantinople from then until 1453 has often been called the Byzantine Empire or Byzantium by modern scholars. By extension, the name Byzantium is often used to refer to the Byzantine Empire, its territory, and its customs. The Byzantine Empire is the term conventionally used to describe the Roman Empire during the Middle Ages, centered at its capital in Constantinople. In certain specific contexts, usually referring to the centuries that marked the fall of the Western Roman Empire, it is also often referred to as the Eastern Roman Empire. There is no consensus on the starting date of the Byzantine period. Some place it during the reign of Diocletian (284-305) due to the administrative reforms he introduced, dividing the empire into a pars Orientis and a pars Occidentis. Others place it during the reign of Theodosius I (379-395) and "Christendom's triumph over paganism", or, following his death in 395, with the division of the empire into Western and Eastern halves. Others place it yet further in 476, when the last western emperor, Romulus Augustulus, was forced to abdicate, thus leaving to the emperor in the Greek East sole imperial authority. In any case, the changeover was gradual and by 330, when Constantine the Great inaugurated his new capital, the process of Hellenization and Christianization was well underway. There evolved a rift caused by the 9th century dispute between Romans (East Byzantines as we render them today) and Franks, who, under Charlemagne's newly formed empire, and in concert with the Pope (West), attempted to legitimize their conquests by claiming inheritance of Roman rights in Italy thereby renouncing their eastern neighbors as true Romans. The Donation of Constantine, one of the most famous forged documents in history, played a crucial role in this. Henceforth, it was fixed policy in the West to refer to the emperor in Constantinople not by the usual "Imperator Romanorum" (Emperor of the Romans) which was now reserved for the Frankish monarch, but as "Imperator Graecorum" (Emperor of the Greeks) and the land as "Imperium Graecorum", "Graecia", "Terra Graecorum" or even "Imperium Constantinopolitanus".

Map of the Byzantine Empire around 550. Green indicates the conquests during the reign of Justinian I.

In 1095 Pope Urban II passionately called for an expedition to take Jerusalem from the Muslims. 'It is the will of God' chanted the multitude, and every village in Europe was affected by this greatest undertaking of any kind since the time of Imperial Rome. "But after all Moslems had ruled Palestine for over 400 years. The Emperor asked for help in retrieving the holy lands to remove the military pressure the Seljuk Turks placed on Byzantium. At the time the larger part of the Jewish [actually Khazars] population had moved from Asia to Europe. The occupation of Spain by Islam had brought a wave of Jews with it. Much of the East-West trade was in their hands through Spain. The massacre of Jews in Europe by Crusaders as they left on the first Crusade may indicate that constricting the Jews was a motivation on more than one level. "But the Papacy also wanted to end the dominance of the Basileus Emperor in Constantinople which was apparently still recognized as the supreme religious authority by most of the Western leadership. Or if a large Western force could be moved near Constantinople without raising alarm over the many years it would take to assemble, that force could ultimately be used to topple the Emperor." All these high level objectives and more were in fact achieved during the Crusades. The Basileus succeeded in dislodging the Moslems from Jerusalem for almost 100 years and forever from Spain. The Mediterranean was reopened to general Papal traffic. The significance of the Jews in international trade was 'drastically reduced' after the Crusades broke the Moslem-Christian barrier, breaking the trading links of the Jews in Europe with the Radanites of Egypt, who held long-standing trade relations with India. Many Crusaders were responsible for the massacres of the Jews. The attacks were said to be religiously motivated in that anyone who accepted baptism was not harmed – for example all the Jews of Trier. However, many massacres occurred elsewhere: in the Church at Rouen; at Speyer 800 Jews killed each other to avoid baptism In Mainz, 1014 Jews similarly died together, and massacres occurred at Altenauhr, Xanten, Mors, Kerpen, Gelden and Cologne (James Parkes, The Jew in the Medieval Community, Hermon Press, New York, 1976).

"When the Crusaders reached Constantinople they were awe-struck by the sight of the great walled city. Nothing like it existed in the West. The various leaders took oaths of loyalty to the Emperor and agreed to give him all conquered territories. The Army went on to Jerusalem, remaining orderly in spite of poorly planned logistics. There was no fodder for the animals. Sheep, dogs, and even pigs were used as pack animals. Desertions were heavy. The Emperor had been advancing behind them to take possession of his new lands, but heard of their problems and turned back to Constantinople. Somehow on July 15, 1099, they took Jerusalem, and an ecclesiastical Kingdom was set up there with Godfred de Bouillon as king. They then took one city after another, perpetrating many horrors in the name of Christianity. "Christian behaviour contrasted poorly with that of the Muslims, especially Saladin the Great. A Kurd born at Takrit, Saladin had united the Muslims to fight the Crusaders. In 1183 he retook Jerusalem, granting merciful terms. Saladin's guards kept such order that no Christian suffered any ill usage. "Over time the Crusaders, always a small minority in the cities they conquered, became orientalized. They inter-married with the 'infidels,' and didn't think much of home. Christians came to boast of Moslem descent. The Moslems had preserved elements of Greek learning and Roman law in a better form than the West. Despite the Clergy's falsified reports on conditions in the Holy Land, the fame of Saladin the Great spread throughout the West and members of the educated classes desired to convert to Islam. "The Crusaders also came into closer contact with the origins of Judaism and Christianity and some found reason to question their faith. This led to a new freedom of mind in some individuals.

Map of the Byzantine Empire around year 1180.

One important result of the 1st Crusade was the formation of the Masonic Knights Templar, originally called the Poor Knights of the Temple of Solomon as a front. They were formed in 1114-18 to supposedly protect pilgrims in the Holy Land. Questions have arisen as to their humble origin and goal. "The evidence suggests that this avowed goal was a facade and that the Knights were engaged in a much more ambitious, grandiose geopolitical enterprise (The Temple and the Lodge, Arcade, Little Brown, 1989). The Templars' original membership simply appears too high-powered and their growth too rapid. They were involved with the Cistercian order, which became a primary promoter of the 4th Crusade. The nine Knight members in 1128 included Fulk, Comte d'Anjou (father of Geoffrey Plantagenet and grandfather of Henry II, King of England), Comte de Champagne; and Hughes de Payens, who became the order's first Grand Master. Within one year they owned lands in France, England, Scotland, Spain and Portugal. Within a decade their possessions would extend to Italy, Austria, Germany, Hungary and Constantinople. By 1150 the Temple had begun to establish itself as the single most wealthy and powerful institution in Christendom, with the sole exception of the Papacy (Dana Carlton Monroe, The Kingdom of the Crusades, Port Washington, Kennikat, 1966).

Germany, Hungary and Constantinople. By 1150 the Temple had begun to establish itself as the single most wealthy and powerful institution in Christendom, with the sole exception of the Papacy (Dana Carlton Monroe, The Kingdom of the Crusades, Port Washington, Kennikat, 1966).

And here the plot thickens to father a thousand forgotten novels. "Byzantium had obstructed the 3rd Crusade and formed an alliance with Salihuddin, who held Jerusalem. Elements in the West, including the leadership of Cluny, France's greatest religious house, and especially members of the Cistercian Order, plotted Byzantium's downfall. The plan was to divert the 4th Crusade into an attack on Constantinople under the pretext of re-instating Emperor Isaac and his son Alexis, who had been deposed in a palace coup. Venice's fleet would be crucial. 95-year-old Enrico Dandolo readily agreed to lead the expedition. He had been partly blinded by Byzantine officials, a favorite method of torture. The appearance of the Venetian fleet in the harbour of Constantinople was enough to make the acting emperor flee and have the deposed Emperor Isaac reinstated, but when his son told him of the agreement made to cede religious sovereignty to Rome, he objected. When the Byzantines learned of the agreement in January 1204, they murdered both father and son and installed Canibus as Emperor." With sovereignty, Rome and countless principalities in Europe would revert to do their own coining of gold and silver."On April 9th, the Crusaders attacked and defeated the Byzantines. From April 13 to 15 the Christian invaders were turned loose on the greatest Christian city in the World. They went wild. They preserved the foolish relics – the bones of the Saints, pieces of the Cross, milk from the Mother of God, and destroyed the great artworks: the bronze charioteers of the Hippodrome; the She Wolf suckling Romus and Romulus; Paris presenting the apple to Venus; an exquisite statue of Helen of Troy; statues commissioned by Augustus; all the great works taken by Constantinople over nine centuries from the ancient temples. All were melted down into bullion or coin. Thousands of manuscripts and parchments from many personal libraries were now burned and from that time on the works of many ancient authors disappeared altogether. "Baldwin of Flanders was elected Emperor and Venice took control of the Patriarchy and Churches. The loot was gathered up and divided. The Pope ratified these decisions.

"The fall of Constantinople in 1204 formally ended the Empire's monetary powers, which had held sway in Europe from the time of the Caesars. "The 'secret' dynamic behind this 'sacred' monetary system was that the Basileus would be ready to exchange centrally minted gold Bezants for locally minted silver coinage at a 12 to 1 ratio, when it could exchange that same silver for up to twice as much gold bullion in India and points east. When Byzantium fell, control of money slipped from sacred hands into secular hands. While the Lateran Council would soon (1211) declare the Papacy's supremacy over all earthly sovereigns, they couldn't make it stick. Frederick 2nd assumed the sacred prerogative of the Basileus and minted gold coins at Naples in 1225. Local rulers all over Europe began minting gold coinage. "Vast amounts of spoil were brought back to Europe from Constantinople, more than the official figures, because the marauders cheated their fellow Christians and did not put all their loot into the official pool, which totaled about 400,000 marks weight worth of silver. Forty barrels of gold were found beneath the altar of St. Sophia alone. The plunder of Constantinople by the Venetians and other of the Crusaders probably transferred more metallic wealth to Western Europe than all the commerce of the centuries that preceded it (William Jacobs, The Precious Metals). The return of this metallic plunder to Europe gave a crucial monetary boost to European life and was probably the main factor in Europe finally reaching the magic threshold, the critical monetary mass where a truer, more advanced monetary system could function. Nomisma could be introduced. The hoarded coinage and bullion had been less than useless in Constantinople, where it required heavy storage expenses and served as a magnet attracting conquest. In Europe it would be put to much better use: by Venice in her commercial activities, by the Princes in their realms, by the Church in helping to finance construction of the great cathedrals of Europe by individual crusaders and by the Knights Templar in their growing financial activities."

The schisms between the Latin and Orthodox churches became irrevocable. Michael 8th recovered Constantinople from the Latins in 1261. It fell to the Ottoman Turks in 1453. "The fall of Constantinople in 1204 formally ended the Empire's monetary powers, which had held sway in Europe from the time of the Caesars. "The 'secret' dynamic behind this 'sacred' monetary system was that the Basileus would be ready to exchange centrally minted gold Bezants for locally minted silver coinage at a 12 to 1 ratio, when it could exchange that same silver for up to twice as much gold bullion in India and points east. When Byzantium fell, control of money slipped from sacred hands into Masonic hands. While the Lateran Council would soon (1211) declare the Papacy's supremacy over all earthly sovereigns, they couldn't make it stick. Frederick 2nd assumed the sacred prerogative of the Basileus and minted gold coins at Naples in 1225. Local rulers all over Europe began minting gold coinage. "Vast amounts of spoil were brought back to Europe from Constantinople, more than the official figures, because the marauders cheated their fellow Christians and did not put all their loot into the official pool, which totaled about 400,000 marks weight worth of silver. Forty barrels of gold were found beneath the altar of St. Sophia alone. The plunder of Constantinople by the Venetians and other of the Crusaders probably transferred more metallic wealth to Western Europe than all the commerce of the centuries that preceded it (William Jacobs, The Precious Metals). The return of this metallic plunder to Europe gave a crucial monetary boost to European life and was probably the main factor in Europe finally reaching the magic threshold, the critical monetary mass where a truer, more advanced monetary system could function. Nomisma could be introduced. The hoarded coinage and bullion had been less than useless in Constantinople, where it required heavy storage expenses and served as a magnet attracting conquest. In Europe it would be put to much better use: by Venice in her commercial activities, by the Princes in their realms, by the Church in helping to finance construction of the great cathedrals of Europe by individual crusaders and by the Knights Templar in their growing financial activities."

Before the time of Henry II it was normal in England, as in other feudal countries, for the king's tenants-in-chief and their retainers to owe him a period of military service, usually 40 days annually. Henry replaced this obligation with cash payments known as scutage and used the money to pay for a permanent professional army of mercenaries or soldiers as they commonly became known after this time from the solidus or king's shilling that they earned. England's participation in the Crusades required additional expenditure which Henry II financed by levying heavy taxes on all movable property and all incomes. But, although huge sums accumulated in Henry's eastern account he refused to let anyone spend them until after the disastrous battle of Hattin in 1187. Henry's successor, Richard I (the "Lion Heart") raised money for the 3rd Crusade partly by the sale of as many publicly owned assets as possible (a measure which the author compares to Margaret Thatcher's "privatization" policy in the 1980s which has been copied by governments around the World). On his return journey he was captured in Vienna and imprisoned by Emperor Henry VI. The ransom demanded far exceeded the average revenue of the Kingdom of England but nevertheless a high proportion of it was raised quite quickly (through special taxes and gifts) and he was released. Payments for supplies, equipment, allies, ransoms etc. required safe and speedy means of transferring vast resources of cash. Consequently the Masonic Knights of the Temple (Templars) and the Hospitallers began to provide some banking services such as those already being developed in some of the Italian city states where the need to transfer sums of money for trading purposes led to the development of financial services including bills of exchange. Banking had been invented in the Middle East long before the invention of coins but was abandoned and forgotten after the collapse of the Roman empire. The Crusades gave a great stimulus to its re-emergence. Davies, Glyn. A history of money: "The military ratchet was the most important single influence in raising prices and reducing the value of money in the past 1,000 years, and for most of that time debasement was the most common, but not the only, way of strengthening the 'sinews of war'."

Medieval England was primarily an agricultural society; hence investment in capital did not come readily to them. 1W.J. Ashley, An Introduction to English Economic History and Theory (New York, 1905). Close Yet, because they could not own land in England the only profession in which Jews could participate was money-lending. Israel Abrahams, Jewish Life in the Middle Ages (London, 1896), 241. The kings of England would use the Jews as a way of indirectly taxing their servants. The king could tax the Jews, which in turn would cause the Jews to demand payment on their loans from their debtors. If the Jews and their debtors could amass the necessary funds, then the king had his revenue. If the Jews could not secure the tax, then the king could imprison them and seize their property. This property was in many cases the deeds to land, which debtors had used as collateral. Therefore, the king, through the taxation of the Jews, was able to enhance his absolute power. In 1230, Henry III requested £6000 for army pay. Michael Adler, Jews of Medieval England (London, 1939), 147. In 1236, ten of the richest Jews were used as a security deposit to force their brethren to pay £10,000. In 1240, the Jews were called upon to pay a tax of £20,000 or about one-third of their property. When the Jews refused to pay, the crown took their property as payment for the tax and arrested them, along with their wives and children. In 1251, a new tax of £10,000 was issued. Between 1227 and 1259, Henry III taxed the Jews of England £250,000. The historian Cecil Roth claimed "The King [Henry III] was like a spendthrift with a cheque-book, drawing one amount after another in utter indifference to the dwindling of his resource." Cecil Roth, A History of the Jews in England, 2nd ed. (Oxford, 1949), 44-6, 51. In partial defense of Henry, the Jewish exchequer—the department of the royal government that dealt with keeping track of the finances of Jews—was not very efficient, and so it was difficult for Henry to get a good assessment of what he could tax his Jewish servants. Moreover, the prevailing stereotype that the word Jew was synonymous with wealth may have blinded Henry. The Jews continued as moneylenders until 1274 when King Edward returned from a crusade. The crusades had ironically allowed the Jews to make a great deal of money. W. Cunningham, The Growth of English Industry and Commerce: during the early and middle ages, 4th ed. (Cambridge, 1905), 205. The Jews did this by lending money to the English knights who wanted to wage war against the Muslims in the East. Moreover, monasteries borrowed money as well to create new churches. 6Ashley, English Economic History and Theory, 155. In one instance, "27 pounds were borrowed from a Jew and 4 years later 880 pounds were owed." 7Ibid.

In ancient times the City marshals and sheriffs were employed to ensure that all the "council" rates and taxes were paid to the City on behalf of the king. After the conquest of William the Conqueror in 1066, who first brought the European Babylonian Jewish bankers to London from France, the Jews developed written credit agreements for the king, (in French called "mort-gages" – mort 'death' gage 'bond') and it was the marshal's and sheriff's jobs to ensure that all the interest payments of these "death-bonds" were paid to the Jews on behalf of the king. During the reign of Richard I (the Lionheart) after the serious downturn in the economy as the result of the cost and tax impositions of the Crusades, many farmers, business people and peasants had defaulted on their "mort-gages" throughout England. As the result, the Jews promptly commenced seizing the commoner's property for not paying the interest, rates and taxes to the City and King. Subsequently, a rapid increase in hate against the "King's Jews" was initiated. This led to the massacre of common Jews at York in 1190. However, the Banklord "Jews" always survived with increased wealth. New York in America was later named by British Jewish immigrant bankers in memory of the event.

When Edward returned from the East, he created The Statute of the Jewry. In the statute, Edward dictated, "from henceforth no Jew shall lend anything at usury, either upon land, or upon rent, or upon other thing." The Statute of the Jewry; quoted in Robin R. Mundill, England's Jewish Solution: Experiment and Expulsion, 1262-1290 (Cambridge, 1998), 291-3. This was a severe blow to the Jews of England. The statute further attacked the Jews, proclaiming "that each one after he should be twelve years old, pay Three pence yearly at Easter of tax to the king of whose bond man he is." 9Ibid. England's improved foreign relations allowed relations with Italian moneylenders, who maneuvered their way around the usury laws. They would offer loans with grace periods. When these grace periods elapsed, normal interest would accrue. This payment of interest could be written off as an expense for the sending of the money. Ibid., 208. In addition, as long as Italian merchants allowed these grace periods, they were allowed to loan money at 60% annual interest, 17% higher than Jewish moneylenders. Ashley, English Economic History and Theory, 200. The Statute of the Merchants, or Acton Burnell (1283), gave foreign merchants avenues of relief to which Jewish moneylenders never had access. The statute stated that merchants arriving in ports could take up their claim of debt with the mayor. The first trip to the mayor would result in a date by which the debtor had to repay the mayor. If the merchant was not paid by this date, the mayor had the power to sell the property of the debtor to repay the merchant. 16Statutes Of The Realm; quoted in Ashley, English Economic History and Theory, 200. The factors which had the greatest impact that led to the "expulsion of European Jews" from England were religious persecution and economics, insofar as after the Jews had ceased to be able to lend money, the Crown no longer had reason to keep the Jews around. Economic obsolescence and bigotry forced the Jewish population from England for some time (Exile from England: The Expulsion of the Jews in 1290 by Gregg Delgadillo).

The Tally Sticks (1100 - 1854) And The Bank Of England 1694

AC 1100s-1300: Rise of European merchant class; a social and economic group whose function in the World is to move merchandise from one locale to another - who make their living buying and selling goods, instead of making things or growing food. A rising merchant class and a new rise of cities, also meant a rising interest in the outside World.

AC 1156: Earliest known foreign exchange contract Two brothers borrow 115 Genoese pounds and agree to reimburse the bank's agents in Constantinople the sum of 460 bezants one month after their arrival in that city. In the following century the use of such contracts grows rapidly particularly when profits from time differences are seen as not infringing canon laws against usury.

AC 1160 - 1200: English wooden tallies evolve into instruments of credit Tallies were wooden sticks originally used as receipts. Notches whose sizes represented a particular sum of money would be cut into the stick which would then be split down the middle. One part would be kept by the creditor, the other by the debtor. Sometimes the loans were fictitiously swollen to get round the prohibition of usury. During the 12th century the English Exchequer starts issuing tallies as a form of credit. Tallies were not finally abolished until 1826.

AC 1166 : Hyperinflation in China The nominal value of the official paper note issues reaches 43,600,000 ounces of silver. In addition there are various local note issues.

AC 1215: The Magna Carta signed. Among its provisions were restrictions on the right of the king to raise taxes without the consent of the Barons AC 1232-1253: Gold coins are issued by several Italian states Under the influence of Byzantine and Arab coinage Messina and Brindisi (1232), Florence (1252) and Genoa (1253) issue gold coins. The type minted in Florence, the florin, becomes widely copied in other parts of Europe.

AC 1275: Edward I forbids the Jews to exact usury The resulting shortage of money leads to an increase in clipping and a decline in the quality of the coinage. The Jews get blamed and suffer wholesale arrests in 1278 and expulsion from England in 1290.

AC 1275-1292: Marco Polo lives in China From his subsequent account of his Travels, Europe learns of paper money.

AC 1397: Founding of the Medici Bank

AC 1403: Charging interest on loans is ruled legal in Florence Despite the traditional Christian prohibition of usury, Italian banks such as the Lombards, who have agents in the main economic centres of Europe, have been making charges for loans. The lawyer and theologian Lorenzo di Antonio Ridolfi wins a case which legalises interest payments by the Florentine government

AC 1450: Portuguese start voyages along the coast of Africa In the 14th and 15th centuries Europe suffers from a "Great Bullion Famine." This is partially alleviated as the Portuguese open up a new route for sub-Saharan gold via Ghana and Mali.

AC 1452-1519: Life of Leonardo da Vinci Among Leonardo's drawings are designs for a press to produce more uniform coins quickly using a water driven mill. This innovation is widely adopted and the new money is termed milled money.

AC 1455: China abandons paper money There are no known references to paper money being in circulation after this date. Thus after well over 500 years of experience with paper currencies, during which there have been repeated episodes of inflation and currency reform, China ceases to use paper money.

AC 1494: First book on double entry bookkeeping is published in Italy Double entry bookkeeping has been in use for probably well over a century in Italy before the publication of the Summa de Arithmetica, Geometrica, Proportioni et Proportionalita by Friar Luca Pacioli.

King Henry I of England decided to try to wrestle the power away from the Goldsmiths around 1100 A.D. He produced sticks of polished wood, with notches cut along one edge to signify the denominations. The stick was then split full length so each piece still had a record of the notches. The King kept one half for proof against counterfeiting, and then spent the other half into the market place where it would continue to circulate as money. Because only Tally Sticks were accepted by Henry for payment of taxes, there was a built in demand for them, which gave people confidence to accept these as money. He could have used anything really, so long as the people agreed it had value, and his willingness to accept these sticks as legal tender made it easy for the people to agree. Money is only as valuable as peoples faith in it, and without that faith even today's money is just paper. The tally stick system worked really well for 726 years. It was the most successful form of currency in recent history and the British Empire was actually built under the Tally Stick system, but how is it that most of us are not aware of its existence?

The gold that flooded Europe after the Spanish conquest of America was not mined by the Spaniards but stolen – once by the Spaniards from the Amerindian civilizations that they destroyed for the purpose, and then much of it by English pirates from the Spaniards. Two radically different social systems reigned on either side of the equality symbols. Moreover the same scenario had been reenacted three hundred years earlier fuelled by the same famine for an exchange medium in Europe that had been bleeding its scant silver into Asia. In the 16th century as the gold and silver the Spanish had stolen from the American Indians poured into Europe, coins grew larger, more plentiful and heavy. Merchants needed a safe place to keep them when they weren't needed. The goldsmiths had large safes and fierce dogs and it became customary to leave coins on "safe deposit" with them. Next people saw that a "gold certificate" or warehouse receipt signed by the goldsmith was more convenient to circulate than those heavy coins made of soft metals that quickly wore out if they passed hand to hand. So the smiths printed up receipts in convenient denominations promising payment in gold to whoever presented the receipt. Some people took to writing notes to the smith ordering him to transfer the ownership of some of their coins to someone else. Thus the personal check was born. During the English Civil War, 1642-1651, the goldsmith's safes were secure places for the deposit of jewels, bullion and coins. Instructions to goldsmiths to pay money to another customer subsequently developed into the cheque (or check in American spelling). Similarly goldsmiths' receipts were used not only for withdrawing deposits but also as evidence of ability to pay and by about 1660 these had developed into the banknote. Then one day one of the smiths had a brilliant, and wholly dishonest, idea. He noticed that people so much preferred his paper money to its "gold backing" that the gold in his vault hardly circulated-some of it hadn't moved in years. So he thought, "I could print up some extra gold certificates and lend them out to gain the interest." The idea was irresistible, and thus banking was born!

Many are not aware of the permanent financial revolution that is being fought over the World's monetary system since 1694 when the Bank of England was created. At that time, a group of private individuals decided that they could make a great deal of money if they changed the laws of the land to shift control of the country's finances from the government to them. Just 300 years ago, in 1694, William Patterson talked King William III into chartering a private bank with the official sounding title of "The Bank of England." The King had another war to fight with France's King Louis XIV and not much money to pay for it. Being a Dutchman, he was unpopular with the British Parliament and it balked at voting the needed taxes. The royal credit was zilch because of his predecessors' extravagance. What to do? He jumped at Patterson's promise to lend him lots of "Bank of England Notes"-which had little or no gold "backing"-at a reasonable sounding 3 percent interest. Thus national debt was born. King William seems never to have asked His Royal Self the obvious question, "Why the hell should I pay William Patterson interest to print money for me? Why don't I get a printing press and print some money myself?" Nor did he notice that his humble subjects in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, in what would one day become the United States, had already come to just this solution to solve a similar problem. The Bank of England was a private corporation which earns a continuous stream of income when the British government borrows from it. The owners of The Bank that recognized they could run the World's finances if they established private corporations in all the countries of the World. The combined debt of all the World's countries would create an income stream of unbelievable amounts.

In 1690, the Massachusetts Bay Colony decided to do its bit in King William's War by invading Canada. The soldiers were told, "We can't pay you, but the French have lots of silver. So beat them out of it and we will pay you with the spoils." But the French won and the soldiers came back to Boston sore, mean and unpaid. Necessity being the mother of invention, a bright Yankee named Benjamin Franklin thought of printing up government "promissory notes," declaring them "legal tender" and using them to pay the soldiers. That worked so well that the other colonies copied the idea. From that day until the American Revolution (1775-1782) there were no banks in the 13 British North American colonies. By the time of the Revolution, Pennsylvania was the richest place on earth. Franklin liked to boast that part of the credit was due to the government money he printed. As he pointed out, the government could spend the money into circulation for a new bridge or school, then tax the cost back over the useful life of the project. It could also lend the money to businessmen at 5 percent interest instead of the 10 percent the British banks charged. Or it could transfer the money into circulation to take care of widows, orphans and other unfortunates. Pennsylvania made so much money out of creating money-and selling off lands stolen from the Indians-that it hardly had to levy any taxes. When word of this reached Great Britain, the Bank of England decided to destroy the competition of the colonial money. It got Parliament to forbid the colonies to produce any more of the stuff and the fat was on the fire. The Continental Congress met and defied Parliament and the King by issuing its own currency-the Continental. As Franklin saw it, the attempt of Britain to restrict the colonies from issuing paper money was one of the main causes of the Revolution. The Continentals paid for most of the cost of the revolution. Since they had to be overissued, prices rose greatly. Much of the inflation, however, was caused by massive British counterfeiting of the Continentals. "You revolting Yankees like paper money? Here! Have lots of it!" So Americans still have a saying. "Not worth a Continental." After the war banking came to America.

Some historians have much criticized this method of financing the American Revolution and held up British practice as a model of "sound finance." However, as William Hixson shows in his book, Triumph of the Bankers, those historians have it backwards. According to Hixson, the total cost of the war to the Americans was about $250 million and much of this was financed by the "Continents" and other paper monies. An additional war debt of $56.7 million accumulated some $70 million in interest before it was all paid off in 1836. The direct war costs to the British government came to about $500 million. However, the British financed their side of the war almost entirely with borrowed money. Since they have never since reduced their national debt below $500 million, they still owe this money! Assuming a modest average interest rate of 4 percent, the British taxpayer has by this time paid the British bondholder over $4 billion in interest on the initial $500 million loan-and is still paying! Sound finance? What a pity that King William did not have a Benjamin Franklin to advise him! What a pity that the wisdom of Franklin was lost and Alexander Hamilton was able subsequently to charter the Bank of The United States modeled directly on the Bank of England! What a pity that many historians, like many non-historians, so badly misunderstand money and banking! Perhaps the fact that in 1694 the Bank of England at its formation attacked the Tally Stick System gives us a clue as to why most of us have never heard of them. They realised it was money outside the power of the money changers, (the very thing King Henry had intended). What better way to eliminate the vital faith people had in this rival currency than to pretend it simply never existed and to not discuss it? That seems to be what happened when the first shareholder's in the Bank of England bought their original shares with notched pieces of wood and retired the system. You heard correctly, they bought shares. The Bank of England is a privately owned bank which was actually set up by investors buying shares.

These investors, whose names were kept secret, were meant to invest one and a quarter million pounds, but only three quarters of a million was received when it was chartered in 1694. It then began to lend out many times more than it had in reserve, collecting interest on the lot. King Henry I, son of William the Conqueror, ascended the English throne in AD 1100. At that time, long before the invention of the printing press, taxes were generally paid in kind, i.e., in goods, based on the productive capacity of the land under the care of the taxpaying serf or lesser noble (Since ancient times, the elites have developed and evolved systems for controlling and ripping-off the masses whom they view as slaves, serfs, knaves, peasants, etc. in order to live like gods on Mount Olympus! Remember, its only recently that the European, Russian, American serfs were freed from bondage and that slavery was outlawed!!). To record production, medieval European scribes used a crude accounting device: notches on sticks, or 'tallies' (from the Latin talea, meaning 'twig' or 'stake'). Tally sticks worked better than faulty memory or notches on barn doors, as were sometimes used. To prevent alteration or counterfeiting, the sticks were cut in half lengthwise, leaving one half of the notches on each piece-one of which was given to the taxpayer, and could be compared for accuracy by reuniting the pieces. Henry adopted this method of tax-record-keeping in England. Over time, the role of tally sticks evolved and expanded. By the time of Henry II, taxes were paid twice a year. Giving the taxpayer a tally stick notched to indicate partial payment received, with the same lengthwise split to record, for both parties, the payment made evidenced the first payment, made at Easter. These were presented at Michaelmas with the balance of taxes then due. It takes only a little imagination to arrive at the next step: for tallies to be issued by the government in advance of taxes being paid, in order to raise funds in emergencies or financial straits. The recipients would accept such tallies for goods sold at a profit or for coin at a discount, and then would use them later, at Easter or Michaelmas, for payment of the taxes. Thus, tallies took on some of the same functions as coin: they served as money for the payment of taxes. . .After 1694, the government issued 'paper tallies' as paper evidence of debt (i.e. government borrowing) in anticipation of the collection of future taxes. Paper could be made easily negotiable, which made paper tallies the full equivalent of the paper banknote money issued by the Bank of England beginning in 1694. By 1697, tallies, banknotes and bank bills all began to circulate freely as interchangeable forms of money. Wooden-stick tallies continued to be used until 1826. Doubtless, ways were found to make them circulate at discounts, too, like the paper tallies.

One particular tally stick was quite valuable. It represented £25,000. One of the original stockholders in the Bank of England purchased his original shares with such a stick. In other words, he bought shares in the World's richest and most powerful corporation, with a stick of wood. It's ironic that after its formation in 1694, the Bank of England attacked the tally stick system because it was money issued outside the control of the Money Changers. Why would people accept sticks of wood for money? That's a great question. Throughout history, people have traded anything they thought had value and used that for money. You see, the secret is that money is only what people agree on to use as money. What's our paper money today? Its really just paper. But hem's the wick. King Henry VIII ordered that tally sticks he used to evidence tax payments received by the government. This built in the demand for tallies and eventually made them circulate and be accepted as money. And they worked well. In fact, no other money worked for so long as in the British Empire. In the 1500s, King Henry VIII relaxed the laws concerning usury, and the Money Changers wasted no time reasserting themselves (in fact, King Henry the Eighth, founder of the Church of England, actually had a so-called "counterfeiter" horribly executed in public while the acceptable counterfeiters, i.e. the money changers, were issuing paper receipts for non-existent gold deposits). They made their gold and silver money plentiful for a few decades. But when Queen Mary took the throne and tightened the usury laws again, the Money Changers renewed the hoarding of gold and silver coin, forcing the economy to plummet. When Queen Elizabeth I, Mary's half-sister, took the throne in 1558, she was determined to regain control over English money. Her solution was to issue gold and silver coins from the public treasury and thus take away control over the money supply from the Money Changers. Although control over money was not the only cause of the English Revolution in 1642 (religious differences also fuelled the conflict), monetary policy played a major role. Financed by the Money Changers, Oliver Cromwell finally overthrew King Charles I (Stuart), purged Parliament and put the King to death. The Money Changers were immediately allowed to consolidate their financial power. The result was that for the next fifty years the Money Changers plunged Great Britain into a series of costly wars. In the centre of London they took over a square mile of property, known as 'the City'. Today, this semi-sovereign area is still one of the two pre-dominant financial centres of the World (with Wall Street, New York City).

Conflicts with the Stuart Kings led the Money Changers in England to combine with those in the Netherlands (which already had a central bank established by the Money Changers in Amsterdam in 1609) to finance the invasion of William of Orange who overthrew the legitimate Stuarts in 1688. England was to trade masters: an unpopular King James II for a hidden cabal of Money Changers pulling the strings of their usurper, King William III ('King Billy'), from behind the scenes. This symbiotic relationship between the Money Changers and the higher British aristocracy continues to this day. The monarch has no real power but serves as a useful shield for the Money Changers who rule the City-dominated by the banking House of Rothschild. In its 20 June 1934 issue, New Britain magazine of London cited a devastating assertion by former British Prime Minister David Lloyd George, that "Britain is the slave of an international financial bloc". It also quoted these words written by Lord Bryce: "Democracy has no more persistent and insidious foe than money powers" and pointed out that "questions regarding Bank of England, its conduct and its objects, are not allowed by the Speaker" (of the House of Commons). This is not something you could just impose on people without preparation. The money changers needed to create the climate to make the formation of this private concern seem acceptable. Later, we explain how they did it.

1300s De Menici, the Florin & Mercenary Wars

Excerpted from a review by James Buchan Medici Money: Banking, Metaphysics and Art in Fifteenth-Century Florence, by Tim Parks. W.W. Norton & Company/Atlas Books, 273 pages, $22.95. The Medici bank, which was founded in Florence in 1397, was one of the most powerful business enterprises of the Renaissance years in Italy. It operated branches all over Western Europe, financing the cloth and luxury trades and the ambitions and extravagances of princes, mercenary generals, popes and lords. The model of a modern holding company, the Medici bank was the stronghold from which five generations of the Medici family manipulated the political life of the Florentine Republic and promoted the most brilliant flowering of the arts and literature since classical antiquity. They are the example to every business family, whether Rockefeller or Gates [or Rothschilds], that hankers after immortality. Tim Parks is a British novelist. His balance sheets come from Raymond de Roover's great The Rise and Decline of the Medici Bank 1397-1494, published in 1963 and a relic of a now-lost species of American historical diligence and industry. Mr. Parks' interest is the clash and interplay of money, religion and power in the Renaissance: the "useful exchange between metaphysics and money ... in the ambiguous territory of art." Their political power shaped history: two Medicis sat in the Vatican; Machiavelli dedicated The Prince to a Medici, Lorenzo the Magnificent, in vain hopes of getting his job back; and the Medicis may have been indirectly responsible for the invasion of Italy in 1494 by Charles VIII of France.

For Mr. Parks, the bankers' money mobilizes property, demolishes ancient distinctions of class and occupation, undermines liberty, dissolves eternity into the moment. The Madonna becomes more and more beautiful, her breast more rounded, her neck ever longer. The Medici were already well established in the turbulent Florentine Republic when Giovanni di Bicci de' Medici capitalized the bank in 1397 with 10,000 florins. A florin was a large gold coin, named for the city, first minted in the 13th century and used only for the largest transactions. In 1410, Giovanni di Bicci became banker to one of the contenders for the papacy in that chaotic period, Giovanni XXIII, collecting his tribute and paying his bills. The Rome branch of the bank, Mr. Parks tells us, in time was so profitable that it operated without capital of its own. In the Middle Ages in Christendom, interest on money was still a deadly sin, and it remains so in Islam. By the time of the Medici, both businessmen and some church casuists were coming to grips with a form of lending that actually helped families to run or expand their businesses. In an excellent chapter, Mr. Parks shows how men such as Giovanni could both believe in the ban on usury and get round it, largely by converting an interest payment into a gain on exchange on the different currencies of Europe. Sometimes, it seems, fictional exchange gains were booked on what really were simply loans, a phenomenon criticized by some casuists as "dry exchange" or cambio secco. In truth, the church's usury doctrine may actually have stimulated such late-medieval innovations as the bill of exchange, joint-stock companies, fractional reserve banking and marine insurance. Even so, it helped for a family to commission an altarpiece or two. Giovanni di Bicci, who advised his family to "stay out of the public eye," died in 1429 and was succeeded at the bank by Cosimo di Giovanni de' Medici, who did the opposite. Under Cosimo the Elder, as he was known, the bank grew to its greatest extension, with branches in Rome, Venice, Ancona, Pisa, Milan, Geneva, Bruges and London, and agents in Luebeck, Barcelona and Antwerp. In Florence itself, the Medici operated factories for silken and woolen cloth. It was Cosimo who financed the completion of the dome of the Florence Cathedral, built the Palazzo Medici and restored the monastery of San Marco. He had a monk's cell built for his own use, with two rooms instead of one and above the door, engraved in stone, the terms of the Papal bull absolving him from his sins in return for his outlay on the project. "Never shall I be able to give God enough to set him down in my books as a debtor," he said. God must have been relieved. The rich Italian city-states had pioneered a new form of warfare, in which mercenary captains offered their swords and contingents to the highest bidder. Their wars in the 15th century were neither glorious nor sanguinary, but they were expensive.

It was the Florentine Republic's incessant need for cash that raised the Medici from being just prominent local businessmen to merchant princes. Cosimo was adept at manipulating the Florentine constitution, and at his death he was named, in imitation of the ancient Roman Emperor Augustus, Pater Patriae or "Father of the Nation." As his grandson Lorenzo was to put it, "In Florence things can go badly for the rich if they don't run the state." Cosimo's son, Piero "the Gouty," ran the banking operation for just five years; he was followed by Lorenzo—a brilliant patron and skillful politician, but no banker. Cosimo loved the business so much, he once said, that "[e]ven if money could be made by waving a wand, I would still be a banker"; Lorenzo, on the other hand, married a Roman princess and was more interested in commissioning artists, writing indecent verses and conducting love affairs. The medieval dilemma—how do you make money and still get to heaven?—becomes that of modernity: How do you make money and still enjoy the applause of the finest society? (Or rather, in the deplorable phrase Mr. Parks must have heard in the stands watching Hellas Verona, how do you "have your wife drunk and the wine keg full"?). From the 1460's, the banking business went downhill, a prey to weak central control, branch fiefdoms and aristocratic pretensions.

In 1466, the Medici, in conjunction with the Papacy, attempted to corner the market for alum (the key in those days to fixing color dyes in cloth); their method was a mixture of commercial bullying and the threat of Hell and excommunication. According to Mr. Parks, this was not a success. The death in 1492 of Lorenzo—"the Magnificent," as he was known—was followed in short order by a French invasion of the Italian peninsula, the flight of Piero de' Medici (nicknamed "the Fatuous") and the collapse of the bank. In fact, the family's eclipse was temporary: As Cosimo the Elder had told the memoirist Vespasiano da Bisticci, "Before fifty years are up we'll be expelled, but my buildings will remain." The Medici were back in Florence within a generation, and were to produce three popes and one Queen of France. Mr. Parks' conclusion shows how carefully he has studied the Florentine Republic. What survives the Medici era in Florence is "a new kind of society where public life would always involve a surrender of honesty, if only because the basis of power would always be suspect, always require a constant effort of propaganda to assert its legitimacy." That, in short, is the modern world, where both salvation and liberty have vanished—but who cares when we have money and pleasure and art?

Origin Of The U.S. Gold Supply

AC 1500-1540: Huge supplies of New World gold reach Spain On average between 1,000 and 1,500 kg. of gold reach Spain each year during this period. Initially these supplies are obtained by plunder, especially from the Aztecs and Incas, and later by applying new mining methods to the New World gold deposits. AC 1519-1521: Cortés conquers Mexico Before the arrival of the Spaniards the Aztecs and Mayas used gold dust (kept in transparent quills) and cocoa beans (kept for large payments in sacks of 24,000) as money. In the year of our Lord 1579, Sir Francis Drake, sailing in his ship The Golden Hind, landed on the Western shore of North America and claimed that land for Queen Elizabeth I. Drake called the land Nova Albion. Sir Francis Drake was a fearless soldier/sailor and a devout Protestant Christian. There were NO Incas or Mexicans there at that time. 269 years later the heirs of Protestant England finally took possession of the land

Gold was discovered in California the very year the Mexican-American war of 1846-1848 ended. California was annexed to the United States following that war. For centuries before its annexation, the Vatican had missions all over the State and they knew all about the location of the gold by torturing the Indians to make them reveal the locations of the mother lode. Monks tortured the Indians to make them reveal the location of the gold. Cities like Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Santa Barbara, San Jose, etc., etc., were begun as "missions" — not to tell the Indians the "good news" of the Gospel — but as slaving centers to collect the gold and ship it to the Vatican. The monks used the Indians as slave laborers to mine the gold and ship it back to the Vatican. At that time, the Papal States were besieged on all sides and they desperately needed the gold to hire mercenaries to fight General Garibaldi.

Rome Has Insatiable Lust For Gold especially from the Americas

Go all the way back to the time of Julius Caesar and you will find the same unchanging feature of Rome namely a LUST FOR GOLD. The gold-rape of the New World began with Christopher Columbus, Francisco Pizarro, and Hernando Cortez. Together these men killed millions of peaceful Indians to gratify their lust for gold. These three men had ONE thing in common: They all had an insatiable lust for gold and they all had the EVIL EYE: "He that hasteneth to be rich hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him" (Proverbs 28:22). Despite the vast quantity of gold stolen from the Indians by the Conquistadors, Spain became a very poor country within a century of the theft. This is the one unchanging characteristic of the 4th wild beast. St. Paul describes her in vivid terms: "For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows" (I Timothy 6:10).

"Gold is most excellent; gold constitutes treasure; and he who has it does all he wants in the World, and can even lift souls up to Paradise." -- Christopher Columbus, 1503 letter to the king and queen of Spain.

The Illuminati controlled UNITED STATES government policies, including the European ancestors who created its basic ideas, values and forms, were born in arrogance and a racism that manifested in behavior nothing short of barbarism and terrorism. It was expressed brutally at gunpoint against the Hemisphere's original Indigenous inhabitants, enabling early settlers to obtain virtually "free" land upon which to live and work. Multiple millions were killed. Then "free" labor was acquired at gunpoint through participation in the African slave trade. Again, multiple millions were killed. Holocaust number three took place from the late 1890s to the present, what some call "The American Century." During this period the United States, through over 300 overt military actions and an estimated 10,000 covert interventions, acquired its expanding resource base at gunpoint from "Third World" countries, killing and maiming dozens of millions, assuring impoverishment of billions. This helps explain "American" exceptionalism. It has murdered, pillaged, and plundered its way to having what is claimed the highest standard of living in the World. After all, "there is no way like the American Way." Over the last several decades, a number of individuals, organizations, and written reports have increasingly exposed this fraudulent, make-believe version of exceptionalism, such that larger numbers of U.S. citizens either know of the lie, or are having to work much harder to remain in denial about it. Indeed, facing the truth--a huge shadow that hangs over us like a dark thundercloud--takes a bit of courage, maybe even an epiphany here and there. The fantasy that Bush II is masterfully attempting to carry out--the final stage in which the Illuminati civilization model is carried to every nook and cranny on the globe--if successful, will likely provoke the cataclysmic collapse of life as we have known it for thousands of years...
<http://www.brianwillson.com/shadow.html>

George Kennan, former head of the US State Department Policy Planning Staff, exposed: "We have about 60 per cent of the World's wealth but only 6.3 per cent of its population... Our real task in the coming period is to devise a pattern of relationships which will permit us to maintain this position of disparity. We need not deceive ourselves that we can afford today the luxury of altruism and World benefaction. We should cease to talk about such vague and unreal objectives as human rights, the raising of living standards and democratisation. The day is not far off when we are going to have to deal in straight power concepts. The less we are then hampered by idealistic slogans, the better." (Document PPS23, 24 February 1948). The Illuminati who control many governments have implemented this disparity as well between themselves (trillionaires) and the masses (penny-pinchers).

"We Think the Price Is Worth It": Lesley Stahl on U.S. sanctions against Iraq: We have heard that a half million children have died. I mean, that's more children than died in Hiroshima. And, you know, is the price worth it? Secretary of State Madeleine Albright: I think this is a very hard choice, but the price--we think the price is worth it <http://informationclearinghouse.info/article12701.htm>

"As fake as his codpiece was, so was his "cakewalk" of an invasion. Over 2000 thousand dead soldiers, billions of wasted dollars, thousands of maimed young people, innocent Iraqis dead by the hundreds of thousands, still no consistent electricity or clean water in their country, later, and this swaggering imbecile of a "leaker in chief" has the nerve to be trying to sell all of us on a new war in Iran": Cindy Sheehan
<http://informationclearinghouse.info/article12709.htm>

Stolen Gold Financed The Spanish Inquisition!

The vast hoard of gold stolen from the Indians of the New World was used by the Spanish Inquisition to fight the Reformation in the Old World. This included the St. Bartholomew's Day Massacre, the Invincible Spanish Armada, the 30 Years' War, the Gunpowder Plot etc., etc. In the year 1588, the invincible Spanish Armada, financed by stolen gold, set sail to conquer Protestant England. Raging storms helped Sir Francis Drake send it to the bottom of the sea. The annexation of California stopped this gold train dead in its tracks. Rome never forgave the United States and was determined to get the gold back. Here is how she pulled it off: Rome began her 100 Years' War on the United States with the assassination of President McKinley by a Jesuit assassin in 1901. Theodore Roosevelt succeeded President McKinley and was the first of what we call the Imperial Presidents. His Attorney General, Charles Bonaparte, founded the Bureau of Inquisition later called the Federal Bureau of Inquisition.

President Taft was assured of re-election in 1912 but Roosevelt "threw his hat into the ring" and ran against him thus guaranteeing the election of Democrat President Woodrow Wilson. President Woodrow Wilson succeeded President Taft. This man was a real tool of the Jesuits. He signed the Federal Reserve Act on Dec. 23, 1913. This Act was the brainchild of Paul Warburg, a German immigrant (all with roots in Germany's Zionist families just like the British Royal family, Bush, Rumsfeld, Clintons, the Nazis that were brought into the CIA, etc.). It created a private central bank independent of Congress. Even though it was called FEDERAL Reserve it had nothing to do with the Federal Government being a tool of Wall St. and the New York Bankers. In 1917, Wilson vetoed legislation that would have lifted the ceiling on the Postal Savings Bank. In the same year, he got the U.S. involved in World War I. Paul Warburg (WARbucks) emigrated from Germany in 1902. He is known as the "Father of the Federal Reserve Bank." Wilson appointed him a member of the Federal Reserve Board. His brother, Max Warburg, was chief of the secret police in Germany during World War I.

The Act establishing the Federal Reserve Banks says: "To provide for the establishment of Federal reserve banks.....and for other purposes". The other purposes include: financing wars, creating revolutions, devaluing currencies, creating depressions, causing inflation andstealing the gold reserves of the United States!! This man was the 5th cousin of Theodore Roosevelt and Assistant Secretary of the Navy during the Wilson Administration. He knew that the surest way to destroy a Republic was through entangling alliances and foreign wars. President Roosevelt confiscated the people's gold supply in 1934 under the Gold Reserve Act. In other words, it was illegal for the citizens of the land of the free to own GOLD. All the gold that was collected at that time was stored in Fort Knox. Now that Rome's boys had stolen all the gold from the people, the next task was to get it out of the country. Since 1971, when the U.S. Government refused to back the dollar with gold, vast quantities of gold have been taken from Fort Knox and deposited in European banks. Nobody is allowed access to the gold supply and they refuse to submit to a full AUDIT by an INDEPENDENT Auditing Company.

Here is a quote from a gold market watch website called Zeal.com: "In a gold lease transaction, a central bank loans gold out to a high-quality borrower, usually called a "bullion bank." The central bank physically delivers real physical gold from its vaults to the bullion bank, creating a gold loan. The central bank then gets to keep the gold on its books as an asset, because the loan is contractually supposed to be paid back in the future, and fee simple title never technically changes on the fungible gold. The end result is the central banks can dump gold and depress the gold price while at the same time maintaining the fiction that the gold is on hand in their vaults to back their fiat currency experiments."

"Official" U.S. gold reserves as of May 2001 are about 8000 tonnes. Total amount of gold leased out is 15,000 tonnes. Where did all the gold come from?? Quoting again from the Zeal website: "Estimates of the total amount of gold leased run from 5,000 tonnes from the anti-gold partisans to 16,000 tonnes from pro-gold factions. After all of our research, we certainly believe that number is on the high end of the scale. If, for example, 15,000 tonnes of central bank gold has been flooding the global gold market in the last decade that would explain much of the drop in the gold price. This is the equivalent of six YEARS worth of TOTAL World gold production being dumped on the open gold markets. Natural economics laws dictate that when a wave of artificial marginal supply temporarily overwhelms natural demand, prices plummet."

<http://www.gata.org/cnn042301.html> Gold Anti-Trust Action Committee: Exchange Stabilization Fund/Bundesbank Gold Swap Operation Exposed
Source: Business Wire Publication date: 2001-04-23

DALLAS--(BUSINESS WIRE)--April 23, 2001--The Gold Anti-Trust Action Committee will reveal proof of the suppression of the gold price by the U.S. and German governments and bullion banks at the GATA African Gold Summit on May 10, 2001, in Durban, South Africa. Attending will be government officials from South Africa and other African gold-producing countries, representatives of South Africa's National Union of Mineworkers, major gold producers, and the World press. For more than two years GATA has claimed that the gold market has been manipulated lower by a faction of the U.S. government and a cartel of bullion banks to the detriment of mostly poor gold-producing nations. One of the speakers at the Durban conference, GATA consultant Reginald H. Howe, has brought suit in U.S. District Court in Boston, against participants in the scheme. The defendants are: the Bank for International Settlements; Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Board of Governors of the U.S. Federal Reserve System and a director of the BIS; William J. McDonough, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and a director of the BIS; five major bullion banks, J.P. Morgan & Co., Chase Manhattan Corp., Citigroup Inc., Goldman Sachs Group Inc., and Deutsche Bank; and Lawrence H. Summers, former secretary of the treasury, who by law exercised control over the U.S. Exchange Stabilization Fund (ESF), subject only to approval by the president.

On April 19, 2001, Reg Howe presented the following to the court. It is posted at <http://www.gata.org/lawsuit.html> . "The Department of Justice's memorandum on behalf of the Secretary of the Treasury's motion to dismiss asserts and re-emphasizes the secretary's contention 'that in fact the ESF has no holdings of gold and has not traded in gold or gold derivatives since 1978.' "The plaintiff has recently discovered a highly relevant statement in the transcript of the Federal Open Market Committee's meeting on January 31, 1995. Responding to a question by then Fed Governor Lawrence Lindsey about the ESF's legal authority to engage in a financial rescue package for Mexico, J. Virgil Mattingly, the Fed's general counsel, stated: "'It's pretty clear that these ESF operations are authorized. I don't think there is a legal problem in terms of the authority. The statute (31 U.S.C. s. 5302) is very broadly worded in terms of words like 'credit' -- it has covered things like the gold swaps -- and it confers broad authority.'" James Turk, who also will speak at the Durban conference, revealed the following in a recent commentary, "Behind Closed Doors," which also can be read at <http://www.gata.org/lawsuit.html>.: "The Treasury Department has changed the designation of nearly 1,700 tonnes of inventoried gold at the U.S. Mint's facility in West Point, N.Y., which is approximately 21 percent of the total U.S. gold reserve, from 'Gold Bullion Reserve' to 'Custodial Gold.' "The August 2000 Status Report on U.S. Treasury-Owned gold stored at West Point has a designation of 'Gold Bullion Reserve.' But the September 2000 and subsequent status reports inexplicably designate this same gold that is stored at the U.S. Mint at West Point as 'Custodial Gold.' "This change in the descriptive label for nearly 1,700 tonnes of gold at West Point from 'Gold Bullion Reserve' to 'Custodial Gold' was purposeful. It happened for a reason. This conclusion is all the more plausible because the Treasury did not change the classification from 'Gold Bullion Reserve' to 'Custodial Gold' to describe the gold stored in Fort Knox or at the U.S. Mint at Denver."

Turk goes on to establish "that the ESF has 'gold swaps' with the Bundesbank. According to Turk, "It therefore does not require much conjecture to add one supposition to the equation by concluding that the gold at West Point has been swapped with gold owned by the Bundesbank, thereby necessitating its reclassification from 'Gold Bullion Reserve' to 'Custodial Gold.' The Treasury Department wanted to make gold available to some bullion banks." "We now know what has happened. The Bundesbank has loaned 1,700 tonnes, half its 3,400 tonnes reserve; the other 1,700 tonnes were swapped for gold in the U.S. reserves, requiring the change in the West Point vault from 'Gold Bullion Reserve' to 'Custodial Gold.' "In other words, the Bundesbank's vault is empty because half its gold is stored at West Point, not Europe, and the other half has been loaned out." Further evidence of the validity of the GATA/Turk claims come from the Bundesbank itself at <http://www.bundesbank.de/ezb/de/publications/pdf/statintreserves.pdf> . On Page 37 on the PDF file, some numerical examples of how the accounting for gold reserves is done are given. Example 3 states: "3. 20 Dec. 1999: 'A' undertakes a gold swap with the United States Federal Reserve in which 'A' provides the Federal Reserve with 1,000 ounces of gold in exchange for USD 300,000, in currency. The transaction will be reversed on 20 January 1999, at the spot price of the gold prevailing in the market at that moment."

GATA chairman Bill Murphy says: "The New York Federal Reserve is an agent for the Exchange Stabilization Fund, and while these numbers are small, it is clearly more evidence of a substantial ESF/Bundesbank operation that James Turk refers to." This is most troubling, since both Mr. Greenspan directly and Mr. Summers indirectly have asserted that neither the Federal Reserve nor the secretary of the treasury acting through the ESF has authority to manipulate dollar gold prices. In a letter to Sen. Joseph I. Lieberman dated January 19, 2000, Greenspan stated that transactions by the Federal Reserve "aimed at manipulating the price of gold or otherwise interfering in the free trade of gold, would be wholly inappropriate." Similarly, officials who worked under Secretary Summers, though not Summers himself, denied any interventions in the gold market by the ESF and have made those assertions in dozens of letters to congressmen and to inquiring individuals all over the World." Murphy continues: "What is so disturbing is that a few bullion banks and the ESF have made a State Department decision that a privileged few in the financial World count, while the economies and hundreds of millions of citizens of the poor gold-producing countries in Africa do not. The ESF operation has suppressed the price of gold hundreds of dollars below its natural equilibrium price and deprived the natural resource-rich sub-Saharan African countries of desperately needed money to fight crime, disease, and unemployment. "In the end this gold market collusion will make Watergate look like child's play, as it impugns the proposal by the Clinton administration to sell the gold of the International Monetary Fund in the name of helping poor countries. It also may affect the governments of Britain, Germany, and Switzerland in regard to the motives of their recent gold sales and lending." Publication date: 2001-04-23 ©2001, <http://www.yale.edu/lawweb/avalon/presiden/veto/ajveto01.htm>

The Imperialists under Charles V Sack Rome and The Jesuits Rise

Ignatius LIEola before Pope Paul III 1540. Jesuits' Insignia.

The Imperialists under Charles 1527 and stole most of the Swiss mercenaries and as a to guard the "Bank". The the gold and silver in against another repeat of the establishment of the Jesuits Catholic universities

V sacked the city of Rome in gold. The city was defended by result they were commissioned "Bank" also decided to store Switzerland as a precaution sack of 1527. After the by Pope Paul III, all the Roman throughout Europe were thrown open and they were given carte blanche to recruit the sharpest brains in order to stop the financial hemorrhage. The newly formed Jesuits were particularly ruthless in the field of "education" and the Counter-Reformation led by LIEola quickly moved to dominate all the schools and colleges. This "new learning" soon discovered that aside from direct warfare and brutal conquest nothing could replace the millennia old USURY as a destroyer of freedom-loving nations.

According to some researchers, it is the Jesuits who are at the top of the control pyramid. Ignatius LIEola was the founder of the reorganized "Bank" of Rome. The Jesuits were founded on August 15, 1534, and LIEola was officially commissioned to reorganize the almost bankrupt "Bank" of Rome in 1540. At the time that LIEola appeared in Rome, the "Bank" of Rome was on the verge of BANKRUPTCY due to the withdrawal of millions of accounts. The Imperialists under Charles V., actually invaded and sacked the city of Rome in 1527. They stole most of the wealth, destroyed priceless art treasures and even tortured Cardinals to make them divulge the secret hiding places of their riches: "The Spaniards were the most brutal, it was generally agreed. In the destruction of Rome the Germans were bad enough, the Italians were worse, but worse of all were the Spaniards. They practiced unheard of tortures to compel their victims to disclose where they had hidden their treasures" (Rome, the Biography of a City, p. 159).

Emperor Charles V; The Sack of Rome by Dutch artist Martin Van Heemskerck.

Imperial troops parody a papal procession and blessing during the Sack of Rome in 1527.

King Henry VIII (Relaxes Usury Laws in the early 1500's)

With King Henry VIII relaxing the Usury Laws in the 1500's, the money changers flooded the market with their gold and silver coins becoming richer by the minute. The English Revolution of 1642 was financed by the money changers backing Oliver Cromwell's successful attempt to purge the parliament and kill King Charles. What followed was 50 years of costly wars. Costly to those fighting them and profitable to those financing them. But King Henry VIII's legitimate son from Jane Seymour, King Edward VI outlawed usury. This was short lived though as the banksters gangsters devised plans to grab their cash cow again.

Usury is outlawed by English Parliament (1550's) !!

During the reign of King Edward VI (1547-1553) the door was closed and locked against the "Bank" of Rome setting up a branch office in England. Parliament outlawed USURY and made it a criminal offense: "(Act relating to Usury.) Another bill was brought in against usury, which passed both houses, and was made a statute. By it, an act passed in the 37th of the late king (Henry VIII), that none might take above 20 per cent on money lent, was repealed; which they said was not intended for the allowing of Usury, but for preventing farther inconveniences. And since Usury was by the word of God forbidden, and set out in diverse places of Scripture as a most odious and detestable vice, which yet many continue to practise, for the filthy gain they make by it; therefore, from the 1st of May, all usury or gain from money lent was to cease; and whosoever continued to practise to the contrary, was to forfeit both principal and interest, to suffer imprisonment, and to be fined at the king's pleasure." (Cobbett's Parliamentary History of England, vol. I, p.596). King Edward VI (1547-1553) outlawed usury by Parliamentary decree. You can be sure that his reign was cut short because he opposed the moneylenders. The moneylenders persevered however and the anti-usury law was eventually repealed. The clear teaching of Scripture on usury was undermined among the Christians. During the reign of the womanizing, gambling drunkard Charles II, the Crown went bankrupt, due to his habits, so he approached the East India Company for a loan; they gave him the loan but demanded in return (William Patterson was the President) that the King grant them a National and exclusive charter as the Bank of England. This opened the door to the establishing of the Bank of England in 1694. The Bank of England was incorporated on July 27, 1694, as a private joint-stock association, with a capital of £1.2 million. In return for the loan of its entire capital to the government it received the right to issue notes and a monopoly on corporate banking in England. Of course they only lent the principal so the interest would keep accumulating by compound interest. Since the loans could NEVER be repaid, the moneylenders had complete control of the government and people.

"Bank" of Rome opens a branch office in England 1694 and the Stuarts killed

AC 1603: The first auction sale (as we would understand it) held at Leiden.

William Patterson (1658-1719) founder of the Bank of England.

Bank of England headquarters in London on Threadneedle St. is also the British Government's Headquarters since 1694.

This reorganized Bank of Rome soon began to start branch offices in various cities. Venice in 1587, the Wisselbank in Amsterdam in 1609, Hamburg 1619, Nuremberg 1621, Rotterdam 1635 and last but not least the Bank of England in 1694. Shortly after it started up in business there was a run on the banks gold (and of course in a fractional reserve system, public or private, there is never enough gold to cover outstanding issues of bank notes). To stave off the run, they took the unusual step of hiring the foremost alchemist of the realm, Isaac Newton, as the first warden of the Mint, that clever PR move, did the job, the crowds backed off because Isaac could of course transmute base metals into gold, so they thought. He then got into an affair with a real slut name of Barbara Villiers, whose demands, coupled with his habits, soon bankrupted him again, so he went back to the East India Company. This time they demanded that he put up as collateral the symbols of sovereignty, the globe, scepter and crown. Now symbols are more than just symbols in the sovereignty business, whoever holds the symbols is actually the sovereign. Charles II of course defaulted on the loan and thus the sovereignty of England passed to the Bank of England. It's interesting to note that during the 119 year period from the founding of the Bank of England to Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo, England had been at war for 56 years, while the rest of the time preparing for it. In the process the money changers had been getting rich. After the Battle of Waterloo, the Rothschilds managed to take ownership of the Bank of England from its former private owners. Its shares were privately held, eventually by the Rothschild family (after Napoleons defeat at Waterloo), until 1947. Although it was given a face of government ownership in 1947, the former owners from the Rothschilds' gang were given an undisclosed amount of Fiduciary bonds bearing 12% interest tax-free which can never be paid off because they never mature and give the owners a say in the affairs of the Bank and have first claim on England ahead of the shareholders, i.e. it amounts to the same as private ownership.

So profitable that it allowed the money changers to take over a square mile of property still known as the City of London, which remains one of the three main financial centres in the World today. The 50 years of war left England in financial ruin. The government officials went begging for loans from guess who, and the deal proposed resulted in a government sanctioned, privately owned bank which could produce money from nothing, essentially legally counterfeiting a national currency for private gain. This privately owned bank was and still is known as The Bank of England. Now the politicians had a source from which to borrow all the money they wanted to borrow, and the debt created was secured against public taxes. You would think someone would have seen through this, and realised they could produce their own money and owe no interest, but instead the Bank of England has been used as a model and now nearly every nation has a Central Bank which is privately controlled. These central banks have the power to take over a nation's economy and become that nation's real governing force. What we have here is a scam of mammoth proportions covering what is actually a hidden tax, being collected by private concerns.

The country sells bonds to the bank in return for money it cannot raise in taxes. The bonds are paid for by money produced from thin air. The government pays interest on the money it borrowed by borrowing more money in the same way. There is no way this debt can ever be paid, it has and will continue to increase. If the government did find a way to pay off the debt, the result would be that there would be no bonds to back the currency, so to pay the debt would be to kill the currency. With its formation the Bank of England soon flooded Britain with money. With no quality control and no insistence on value for money, prices doubled with money being thrown in every direction. One company was even offering to drain the Red Sea to find Egyptian gold lost when the sea closed in on their pursuit of Moses. By 1698 the UK national debt expanded from £1,250,000 to £16,000,000 and up went the taxes the debt was secured on. As hard as it might be to believe, in times of economic upheaval, wealth is rarely destroyed and instead is often only transferred. And who benefits the most when money is scarce? You may have guessed. It's those controlling what everyone else wants, the money changers. When the majority of people are suffering through economic depression, you can be sure that a minority of people are continuing to get rich. Even today the Bank of England expresses its determination to prevent the ups and downs of booms and depressions, yet there have been nothing but ups and downs since its formation with the British pound rarely being stable.

A British Member of Parliament said this about the Bank of England in 1810: "There is something so consummately ridiculous in the idea of a nation's getting money by paying interest to itself upon its own stock, that the mind of every rational man naturally rejects it. It is, really, something little short of madness to suppose, that a nation can increase its wealth; increase its means of paying others; that it can do this by paying interest to itself. When time is taken to reflect, no rational man will attempt to maintain a proposition so shockingly absurd" (William Cobbett, M.P., Paper Against Gold, p.83). This monetized debt scam that the Bank of England started in 1694 was copied exactly by the "Federal" Reserve Bank system in the U.S. It seems that the usurers have absolutely no originality or creativity even with all the brains their ill-gotten gains enable them to buy.

The first banks were moneychangers' benches. "The term BANK is derived from banco, the Italian word for bench, as the Lombard Jews in Italy kept benches in the market place, where they exchanged money and bills, When a banker failed, his bench was broken up by the populace; and from this circumstance sprang the term bankrupt" (Francis, History of the Bank of England, p.15). However, the private owners of the Bank of England kept the hangman working day and night. The philosophy of the Bank or any bank is: LET THE MONEY DO THE WORK. However, the banksters worked the hangman to death because forging the counterfeit money was punishable with death. Men and women by the hundreds were hanged and even after the repeal of the law, the punishment was exile for life to Australia. If the banksters had lived at the time of Edward VI, they would have been the ones behind bars because they are the biggest counterfeiters of money!!

Picture of an evil spirit or demon directing the banker from The English Usurer or Usury Condemned, 1634
John Blaxton preacher of God's Word London.

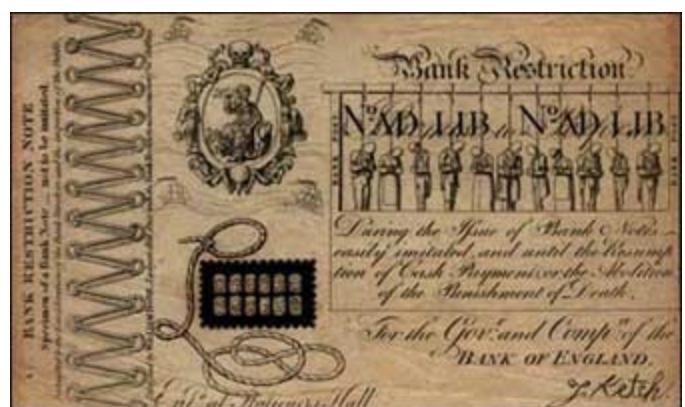

James Charles Stuart was born on June 19, 1566 at Edinburgh Castle in Scotland. His father, Lord Darnley, was murdered in early 1567 before young James was 1 year old. His mother, Mary Queen of Scots, subsequently ascended to the Scottish throne. Her reign however was short lived and she was forced to abdicate in favor of her son on July 24, 1567. Little James was crowned King James VI of Scotland five days later at the tender age of 13 months. Reformation leader John Knox preached the sermon at his coronation. A close alliance has ALWAYS existed between the Scots and the French. The mother of Queen Mary and grandmother of King James was French by birth. In 1620, the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth Rock, Massachusetts, They were Protestant Christians sent out by that great Scot -- King James VI & I. They were the CHOSEN PEOPLE and God gave them the best land in the World because He always saves the best for last and as a heritage because they came to seek GOD . . . not GOLD. Most of the Pilgrims were poor and brought very little money with them from the Old World. The Pilgrim Fathers faced a great howling wilderness when they reached North America.

Above is a copy of the famous Bank Restriction Note that helped end the death penalty for forging the "counterfeit" money since only the moneychangers were allowed to counterfeit money, i.e. create it from nothing!

Bank Underground station is named after the Bank of England. All roads and rails lead to THE BANK.

King James I & VI

James VI of Scotia Minor, and I of England, founder of the British Empire. He sent the Pilgrim Fathers to America. The King James Bible is named after him. Prince Henry (1594 -1612) was the oldest son of King James and first in line to the throne. Like his father, he was a devout Protestant Christian and a very unlikely candidate to charter a bank. For that reason, he was given the poison cup at the young age of 18 years. Henry Frederick Stuart, Prince of Wales. Cape Henry in Virginia is named after him.

The English Civil War caused by the Bank of Rome in England!!

Gerrard Winstanley: "The New Law of Righteousness", 1649 "In the beginning of time God made the earth. Not one word was spoken at the beginning that one branch of mankind should rule over another, but selfish imaginations did set up one man to teach and rule over another."

Charles Stuart (1600-1649) was the second son of King James and succeeded his murdered brother. During his reign, civil war broke out in England between Parliament and the king. Oliver Cromwell led the Parliamentary army (Roundheads) against the king's army (Cavaliers) and soundly defeated the king's forces. The king was arrested and beheaded in 1649, the only king of England to be beheaded.

Wars always incur huge debts and of course the moneylenders were just waiting for their Bank to be officially chartered before they would lend at usury to repay the debts. None of the Stuart monarchs would grant a charter to the Bank of England!! None of the Stuarts would grant the fervent desire of the "Bank" of Rome and charter an English national bank. That is why murder, civil war, and religious conflicts plagued their reigns. The Jesuit worked behind the scenes to get them to charter the Bank. Nothing succeeded however and finally King James II was deposed and Dutchman William of Orange was invited to take the throne. William was a tool of the powerful Wisselbank of Amsterdam: "Central to the success of the Dutch was the Amsterdam Wisselbank, which had been founded in 1609. It provided the motive power for the Dutch economy by lending to the City of Amsterdam, the State in the form of the Province of Holland and trade in the shape of the Dutch East India Company as well as being responsible for coinage and, of course, exchange. Much later, in 1683, it was empowered to lend to private customers. Payments over a certain amount

"England is not a free people, till the poor that have no land, have a free allowance to dig and labour the commons..."

Gerrard Winstanley, 1649

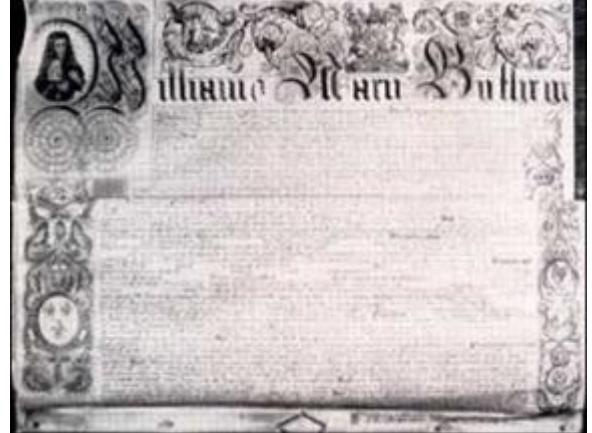

had to pass through it and it therefore was convenient for the important finance houses to hold accounts with it. Thus not only was it in a position to oversee the Dutch financial scene, it was also able to act as a stabilising influence on it" (The Bank of England pictured top right).

King Charles II (1660-1685) was the second son of the beheaded Charles I. Left: King James II (1633-1688), was the third son of King Charles I. He was forced to abdicate in 1688. He was the last male Stuart to sit on the throne of England.

The King and Queen of Usury — the

inglorious Revolution!!

The Charter of the Bank of England (1694) with the Great Seal of William and Mary. The first usury central bank to be incorporated in England. On the right is the Threadneedle Street front of the Bank of England in 1797. The First Bank of the U.S., 2nd Bank of the U.S. and the "Federal" Reserve Bank are all copied from this Bank. (Copy of Charter at right).

King William of Orange \(1650-1702\) & Queen Mary \(1662-1694\), wife of William of Orange.

After the incorporation of the Bank, peace and quiet returned to merry old England while the owners took timeout to plot their future schemes for enriching themselves more and strengthen their monopoly on the creation and issuing of money. No more royal heads rolled and no more civil wars. After that it didn't matter what was the religious beliefs of the monarchs. The Jesuits preferred that they were "Protestants" as they could take the blame for the wars, poverty and pauperism which inevitably followed usury and money lending. Since the king was also head of the "Church" of England, this gave legitimacy to USURY and silenced most of the sermons against that diabolical practise. A Catholic monarch would not have been able to charter the Bank because officially the Vatican was still against usury.

Before the American Revolution, the Bank financed 4 wars with France known in America as the French and Indian wars and others around the World including: 1689-1697 King William's War of the League of Augsberg, 1702-1713 Queen Anne's War of Spanish Succession, 1739-1742 The War of Jenkin's Ear, 1744-1748 King George's War of Austrian Succession, 1754-1763 The French and Indian War 1793-1801, The War against Revolutionary France 1803-1815, The Napoleonic Wars, Wars in India, Opium Wars with China, and wars with America: the War for Independence and the War of 1812. In the 126 years between 1689 and 1815, England was at war 63 of them. That is one out of every two years in combat. The others were spent preparing for combat. The mark of the Rothschild Formula is unmistakable in these conflicts. The monetary scientists often were seen financing both sides. Whether ending in victory or defeat, the outcome merely preserved or restored the European "balance of power." And the most permanent result of any of these wars was expanded government debt for all parties and the acquisition of lands at rock bottom prices.

As was previously stated, the colonists were very poor and took little money with them from England. The settlers bartered their goods and services with each other. Later, Indian Wampum, black and white shells, tobacco etc., etc were used as currency. Eventually a circulating medium called Continental Colonial Scrip was printed by the Governors of the various Colonies. With this release of purchasing power, great prosperity came to the Colonies since they had an abundance of produce and goods available. The greedy banksters of the Bank of England soon took steps to destroy the U.S. even before it was born.

Genocide & Enslavement of Native Americans in the Early 18th Century By Daniel Stirewalt

The estimate of Native Americans that occupied the continental United States and Canada ranged from 1.8 to over 18 million. The number of Native Americans dropped to around 237,000 after the massive genocide of the native people. It is also said that the region of Mexico had 30 million Native Americans pre-contacts; and was reduced to 3 million after contact. European persecution of Native Americans started with Christopher Columbus in 1492. While some were exterminated directly by the Europeans, other Native Americans died from disease such as: smallpox, influenza, and measles. Later European invaders systematically killed the aboriginal people because they felt that their beliefs were "ungodly." The invaders started the genocide of the Native Americans by using warfare, death marches, destruction of their food supply, and poisoning. The genocide against the Native Americans was one of the most lucrative, destructive, longest lasting genocides in the history of the Earth. Paul Harvey on his radio talk show boasted that it was the first case of BIOLOGICAL GERM WARFARE! In the early 18th century states such as: Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New Jersey promoted vigilantism of the settlers. The government feared the Native people and felt that they were a threat to society so they began "scalp bounty" on dead Indians. In many areas the killing of Indians became a business to the point where a person would be paid 100 pounds for killing a Native American. In the 18th century George Washington called the Native Americans "beasts of prey" and called for their total annihilation. In 1814, President Andrew Jackson watched as his men brutally murdered 800 or more Creek Indians. Extermination of all surviving Indians was encouraged publicly by the Governor of California in 1851. In 1867, General William Tecumseh Sherman said, "We must act with vindictive earnestness against the Sioux even to their extermination: men, women and children."

From 1848 to 1870 over 120,000 Native Americans in California died, over 60 percent of those died from disease. However, the diseases were brought by the "49ers" so in a way the settlers were still killing the Indians, just in a different way. Most of the massacre happened while the government was making "treaties" with the Native Americans. For example, the Wintu people of the South went to a "truce talking" meeting with the United States government and the soldiers fired at the Indians killing 45 of them. Also, in the northwest the Modoc were tricked into a cold blooded ambush after accepting an invitation to a peace-making feast. Ben Wright, an infamous hunter of Native communities, invited them to a truce at Tule Lake in 1852 and tried to feed them strychnine-laced food. When they grew suspicious and refused to eat, he and his men whipped out pistols and massacred 41 out of the 46 that attended. Some communities were wiped out completely by the English settlers, because they believed that the Indians were a "lesser" race and did not deserve to live on the land that they had occupied for generations. The massive killing of an entire race is said to be genocide, the pure hatred that spewed from the English settlers hearts will never be forgotten by the Native American people.
<http://eee.uci.edu/clients/tchorne/anthro/indiantimes/index.html>.

Currency Act of 1764

"III. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any governor or commander in chief for the time being, in all or any of the said colonies or plantations, shall, from and after the said first day of September, one thousand seven hundred and sixty four, give his assent to any act or order of assembly contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, every such governor or commander in chief shall, for every such offence, forfeit and pay the sum of one thousand pounds, and shall be immediately dismissed from his government, and for ever after rendered incapable of any public office or place of trust."

Many of the powerful Roman Catholic lords in the English Parliament had money in the Wisselbank which was used to finance the inglorious (usury) Revolution of 1688. "Amongst those thought to have "provided for a retreat" in this way were members of the English Commonwealth Parliament and the Danish court, the Prince Palatine and the Republic of Venice. The Wisselbank was also used by the Spanish crown to pay subsidies to Sweden in the 1660's. To this extent the Wisselbank was not only a public bank for Amsterdam and its citizens but also a secure haven for other European governments and political interests. Its success continued well into the eighteenth century, even after Amsterdam's ascendancy was coming to an end, and it survived until 1820." (Edwin Green, Banking An Illustrated History, p.33). The Bank of England financed Jenner and vaccination, ape-man Charles Darwin and Jesuit futurism etc., etc.

The Bank of England circa 1890

The Bank of England 1694 History of Banking

Further to the information presented in the previous section on how the creation of this private bank was concocted in 1694, here is some additional history on the Bank of England. In the old days there was no paper money. The accepted token of exchange was precious metal minted into coins by the Church and the Crown. Because there was only a limited amount of gold and silver available, the economic life of the nation had a certain regularity. An even greater restriction existed throughout Christendom. This was a prohibition against usury, or charging interest. The Church held it to be a grave sin and the code was upheld by the civil powers. There were harsh penalties for those who broke the law. The regulation of usury was to prevent the separation of money from reality. Money is not "goods", it is a measure. It is fraud to pretend otherwise, and constitutes theft. Usury is making money from lending money; it is making money from nothing. This is exactly what is happening today on a colossal scale.

Several important things arose from the prohibition of usury in medieval Christendom. Firstly European Jews, who had taken to wandering around Europe in the Middle Ages, began to specialize in money-lending and other practices which were forbidden to Christians. Exploited Christians, both peasants and aristocracy, found themselves being bled dry by usurers, which is why there were sporadic uprisings, imprisonments and expulsions of Jews throughout Europe. It is one reason why King Edward I expelled these perfidious people from England in 1290. Oliver Cromwell allowed them back when the moral authority of the Church was undermined and the King was beheaded in 1649. Secondly, gold coins, jewels and other valuables were deposited with people who held strongboxes. This was usually with goldsmiths and money-lenders who, more often than not, were one and the same. These loan-sharks and scriveners realized that, without much chance of being found out, they could charge people for looking after their deposits and then use those deposits - which did not belong to them - to make loans to other people at interest. They soon became rich and powerful. Gold coins are heavy and awkward to carry around so the custom arose whereby the money-lenders would issue credit notes to depositors who began to trade these notes between themselves in commercial transactions. Paper money had come into existence.

A new form of usury developed as the swindling money-lenders realized the immoral advantages that could be made from such a situation. It became apparent to these thieves that they could go one step further than dishonestly using other people's money for financial advantage at no cost to themselves. They could invent money from absolutely nothing. They could issue credit notes with nothing to back them up and put them into circulation as interest-bearing debts. No-one would be any the wiser. They calculated that they could safely issue notes for up to 10 times more than the gold deposits they held, because all the depositors would never ask for their deposits back all at the same time. The principle of modern banking was formed: invent money from nothing, put it into circulation as "running cash notes" that have to be paid back with real wealth that is produced from our labour, sit back and become unbelievably wealthy and powerful men: hidden rulers of nations. In England this deceitful system was officially sanctioned in 1694. The usurper of the throne, William of Orange, had overthrown the legitimate King James II with the financial backing and plotting of powerful Jewish financiers in Amsterdam. In return he gave the sovereignty of England to a group of financiers by means of a Charter allowing them to call themselves the Bank of England. The Charter made no mention of issuing the nation's money but within minutes of signing the new Bank officials were discussing the form of their "running cash notes." The same system was adopted in every country by a process of Masonic revolution and manipulation.

By the end of the 1600s, England was in financial ruin. Fifty years or more or less continuous wars with France, and sometimes the Netherlands had exhausted her. Frantic government officials met with the Money Changers to beg for the loans necessary to pursue their political purposes. The price was high: a government-sanctioned, privately owned central bank, which could issue money---created out of nothing-as loans. The Bank of England was to be the modern World's first privately owned, national central bank in a powerful country, though earlier deposit banks had existed in Venice from 1361, in Amsterdam from 1609 and in Sweden from 1661-where the first banknotes in Europe were issued that same year. Although it was deceptively called the Bank of England to make the general population think it was part of the government, it was not. Like other private corporation, the Bank of England sold shares to get started. The investors, whose names were never revealed, were supposed to put up one and a quarter million, (British pounds) in gold coin to buy their shares in the Bank. But only £750,000 pounds was ever received.

Despite that, the Bank of England was duly chartered in 1694 and started out in the business of lending out several times the money it supposedly had in reserves, all at interest. In exchange the new bank would lend British politicians as much as they wanted. The debt was secured by direct taxation of the British people. So, legalization of the Bank of England amounted to nothing less than legalised counterfeiting of a national currency for private gain. Unfortunately, nearly every nation now has a privately controlled central bank, the local Money Changers using the Bank of England as the basic model. Such is the power of these central banks that they soon take total control over a nation's economy. It soon amounts to nothing but a plutocracy, rule by the rich, and the bankers soon come to be the dominant super-rich class. It is like putting control of Army in the hands of the Mafia. The danger of tyranny is extreme. Yes, we need a central monetary authority-but one owned and controlled by the government, not by hankers for their private profit.

In 1770, Sir William Pitt, speaking to the House of Lords, said: "There is something behind the throne greater than the king himself."

This reference to the Money Changers behind the Bank of England gave birth to the expression, 'the power behind the throne'.

In 1844, Benjamin Disraeli, in a veiled allusion to this same power, wrote: "The World is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes."

On 21 November 1933, US President Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote in a letter to a confidant: "The real truth of the matter is, as you and I know, that a financial element in the large centers has owned government ever since the days of President Andrew Jackson..."

The central bank scam is really a hidden tax, but one that benefits private banks more than the government. The government sells bonds to pay for things for which the government does not have the political wisdom or will to rise tax to pay. But about 10 per cent of the bonds are purchased with money the central bank creates out of nothing. The government then spends this new money. Once deposited, private banks use these new deposits to create ten times as much in new fractional reserve loans. This provides the economy with the additional money needed to purchase the other 90 per cent of the new bonds without drying up capital markets and forcing up interest rates. By borrowing the money (i.e., selling new bonds), the government spreads out the inflationary effects over the term of the bonds. Thus, there is little or no immediate inflation. More money in circulation makes your money worth less. The politicians get as much money as they do want, and the people pay for it in inflation-which erodes the purchasing power of their savings, fixed income and wages. The perverse beauty of the plan is that not one person in a thousand can figure it out because it's deliberately hidden behind complex-sounding economics gibberish. The full effects of the inflation are only experienced much later-too late to stop. With the formation of the Bank of England, the nation was soon awash in money. Prices throughout the country doubled. Massive loans were granted for just about any wild scheme. One venture proposed draining the Red Sea to recover gold supposedly lost when the Egyptian Army drowned pursuing Moses and the Israelites. By 1698, just four years later, government debt had grown from the initial one-and-a-quarter-million pounds to £16 million. Naturally, taxes were increased and then increased again to pay for all this. With the British money supply firmly in the grip of the Money Changers, the British economy began a wild roller-coaster series of booms and depressions-exactly the sort of thing a central bank claims it is designed to prevent.

Richard Greaves explains from Prosperity, January 2005, that there is no great mystery today surrounding the Bank of England - its annual report, which anyone can obtain, contains full sets of accounts and is quite clear and explicit about its composition and functions which, incidentally, have changed substantially since its formation back in 1694. In its early days, it was owned by William Patterson (who was also the owner of the imperial colonizing East India Company), and it lent to the King and to British overseas enterprises such as the East India Company and the Hudson's Bay Company - as well as slave traders, all of which brought in big profits to both the bank and the entrepreneurs concerned as the money was created from nothing by merely issuing paper notes. As the government's banker it also profited by lending to government to finance a series of costly wars during the eighteenth century. National debt increased dramatically as a result, and taxation went up to pay the interest. However by the mid-nineteenth century, as well as being the government's sole banker, the Bank of England had become the bankers' bank. It only made loans to government and to commercial banks. It held the nation's gold reserves and regulated the flow of money in the form of the bank notes - still theoretically redeemable for gold at this time. Today, operating as it does as the bankers' bank, it is to the commercial banks (i.e. the High Street banks) what the commercial banks are to the public. The owners of the Bank of England now own the major commercial banks. Just as we may deposit money with commercial banks, so commercial banks in turn keep deposits with the Bank of England. The amount of cash that a commercial bank can buy up from the Bank of England to meet its customers' cash withdrawals is limited to the amount of deposits it has in its account at the Bank of England and/or what it can borrow from the Bank of England or from other banks. Both the Bank of England and commercial banks created money from nothing. Commercial banks borrow from the Bank of England in exactly the same way that individuals and businesses borrow from commercial banks. The reason they borrow from the Bank of England is that they must have some reserve ratio to match the money they created from nothing. The Bank of England can create as much money from nothing as it deems necessary.

Nationalising the Bank of England in 1946, which might seem at first sight to be a far reaching measure, made little difference in practice? Yet, the state did acquire all the shares in the Bank of England -- they now belong to the Treasury -- and are held in trust by the Treasury Solicitor. However, the government had no money to pay for the shares, so instead of receiving money for their shares, the shareholders were issued with government stocks. Although the state now received the operating profits of the bank, this was offset by the fact that the government now had to pay interest on the new stocks it had issued to pay for the shares. It is much more significant to note that whilst the Bank of England is now state-owned the fact is that our money supply is once again almost entirely in private hands, with 97% of it being in the form of interest bearing loans of one sort or another, created by private commercial banks. Indeed this is now where the real power resides: with commercial banking. The Bank of England is now essentially a regulatory body that supports and oversees the existing system. It is sometimes referred to as "the lender of last resort" in so far as one of its functions as the bankers' bank is to support or maybe not to support any bank or financial institution that gets into difficulties and suffers a run on its liquid assets. In these circumstances, it is not obliged to disclose details of any such measures, the reason being so as to avoid a crisis in confidence -- confidence being something on which the current system is very dependent. However beyond that, it is no longer a major player in the lending/money creation market which is where the immense profits, influence and control powers are exercised. Its annual accounts reveal that its loans and profits are only a fraction of those of a major commercial bank such as Barclays, and it only holds a very small amount of government stocks, so it is no longer really lending to government either -- that function has largely passed to the merchant banks. Most of its profits come from what is known as the "issue department" --the department of the bank which is responsible for printing and distributing bank notes and coins. These are purchased by the high street banks to meet their customers' demands for cash and the various banks have their accounts at the Bank of England debited accordingly. Basically, the profits from this operation belong to the state and are transferred to the Treasury, thus being added to the public purse.

Nevertheless, although owned by the state, the bank is largely controlled and run by those from the World of commercial banking and conventional economics. The members of the Court of Directors, who set policy and oversee its functions, are drawn almost entirely from the World of banks, insurance, economists and big business. They will keep squeezing out the minor banks. On the other hand, the responsibility for setting interest rates and controlling money supply has always remained with bankers and economists through the Monetary Policy Committee headed by the Governor and the two Deputy Governors. The day to day management and running of the bank is in the hands of a team of professional managers headed by the Governor, the Deputy Governors and four Executive Directors. From 1946 to 1997 many decisions, especially those relating to interest rates, were made jointly by the Treasury and the Bank, but of course Treasury officials and the Chancellor of the Exchequer and other treasury ministers frequently have close ties with the World of commercial banking. Since May 1997, the Bank's Monetary Policy Committee has had exclusive control over setting interest rates -- although it still takes into account government inflation targets in reaching its decisions. It can be noted that the formal removal of the Treasury from this decision making process was an essential step prior to incorporating the Bank of England into the European System of Central Banks under the control of the European Central Bank -- which is what would happen should Britain enter Economic and Monetary Union and replace the Pound with the Euro.

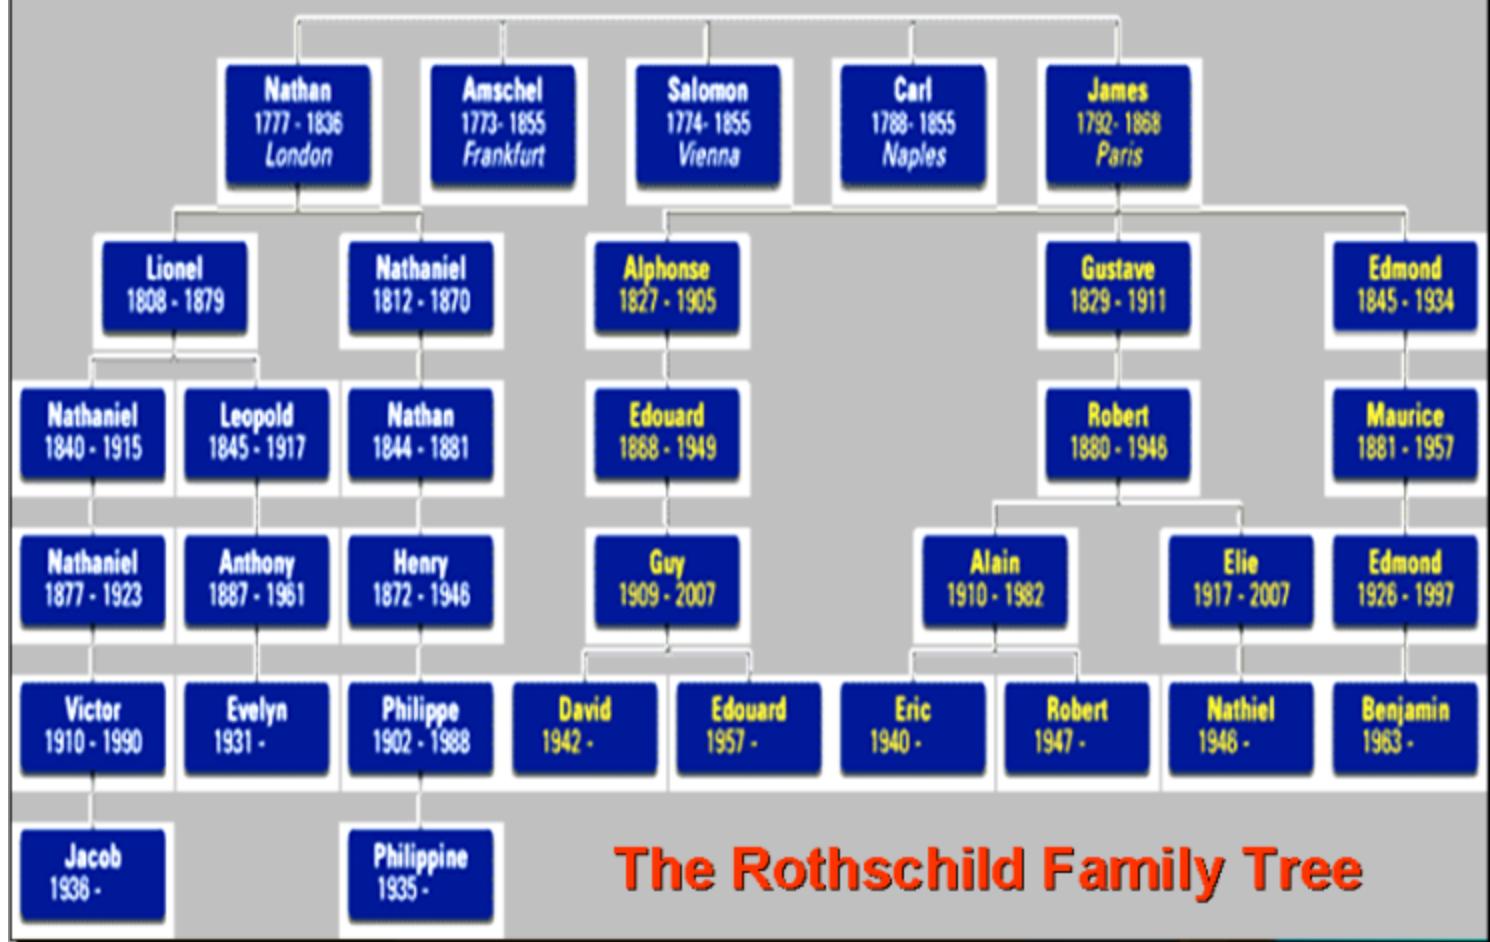

Since the creation of the Bank of England in 1694, one thing however has been stable and that is the growing fortune of:

Enter The Dragon Rothschilds \(1743\)

This is Frankfurt, Germany. Fifty years after the Bank of England opened its doors, a goldsmith named Amschel Moses Bauer opened a coin shop-a counting house-in 1743, and over the door, he placed a sign depicting a Roman eagle on a red shield. The shop became known as the Red Shield firm or, in German, Rothschild. When his son, Mayer Amschel Bauer, inherited the business, he decided to change his name to Rothschild.' Mayer Rothschild soon learned that lending money to governments and kings was more profitable than lending to private individuals. Not only were the loans bigger, but they were secured by the nation's taxes. Amschel Moses Bauer, a Jewish goldsmith, settled in the Judenstrasse district of Frankfurt in Germany and opened a Counting House, hanging a red shield (with witchcraft's hexagram on it, symbol of Masonry as on the Israeli flag) up as his shop sign. Twenty-two years after his death in 1754, his son Mayer Amschel (at the age of 33) took control of the business and then changed his name to reflect the red shield, which is "in German ... roth schild and thus The House of Rothschild" was born in 1776• "... European Jews in Eastern Europe... also adopted The Red Flag as their emblem because it represented Blood." ("Pawns In The Game", page 25,26). Bavaria (in Germany) spawned the main branch of modern Illuminism, which was begun May 1st 1776 (May Day) by "Adam Weishaupt, a student of the Jewish philosopher Mendelssohn, and funded by the Jewish banking family of Rothschild" ("God - the Ultimate Paradox", p.75). Members included Emmanuel Kant, Voltaire, Moses Mendelssohn and the bankers Iztig, Freilander and Rothschild. Weishaupt, an ex-Jesuit who embraced Satanism pre-1770, helped to formulate the plans that would allow the Illuminati to have eventual World control.

Mayer Amschel Rothschild

(1743 - 1812)
"The Founder"

The Hexagram (note Hexa in German means witch) on the Israeli flag is a pictorial representation of 666 as well as being the logo of the House of Rothschild.

The basic principles involved "...dividing the masses into opposing camps..." on various issues, arming both sides and contriving to have an "...incident" provided which would cause them to fight and weaken themselves..." ("Pawns In the Game" pX). To achieve this Weishaupt needed influential people in all countries and devised the following selection process for his Illuminati to use:

- Bribe those already in key positions
- Award special scholarships to selected tertiary students with which they could be brainwashed for the coming One World Government
- Those bribed and the indoctrinated students are moved into place as government and business advisors
- News agencies are controlled to limit flow of information and brainwash the public.

Mayer's marriage to Gutele Schnaper produced at least 5 children who, once they had matured, were married by arrangement to noble families (Rothschild symbol below represents these 5 sons). He then moved his entire family (1785) to a larger house, known as the Green Shield house, a five storey dwelling he shared with the Schiff family. Schiff's grandson, Jacob, later moved to New York to act as a Rothschild banking agent and provided John D. Rockefeller the money with which to monopolise the oil refinery business via Standard Oil. He trained his sons all in the secret techniques of money creation and manipulation, then sent them out to the major capitals of Europe to open branch offices of the family banking business. His will directed that one son in each generation was to rule the family business; women were excluded. Mayer's first son, Amschel, stayed in Frankfurt to mind the home town bank. His second son, Salomon, was sent to Vienna. His third son, Nathan, was clearly the most clever; he was sent to London at age 21 in 1798, a hundred years after the founding of the Bank of England. His fourth son, Karl, went to Naples. His fifth son, Jakob (James), went to Paris. In 1785, Mayer moved his entire family to a larger house, a five-storey dwelling he shared with the Schiff family. This house was known as the Green Shield house. The Rothschilds and the Schiffs would play a central role in the rest of European financial history and in that of the United States and the World. The Schiffs' grandson moved to New York and helped fund the Bolshevik coup d'état in 1917 in Russia. The Rothschilds broke into dealings with European royalty, in fact, the wealthiest monarch in all of Europe-Prince William of Hesse. At first, the Rothschilds were only helping William speculate in precious coins. However, when Napoleon chased Prince William into exile, William sent £550,000 (a gigantic sum at that time, equivalent to many millions of today's US dollars) to Nathan Rothschild in London with instructions to buy consols-British Government bonds or government stock-but Rothschild used the money for his own purposes. With Napoleon on the loose, the opportunities for highly profitable wartime investments were nearly limitless. William returned some time prior to the Battle of Waterloo in 1815. He summoned the Rothschilds and demanded his money back. The Rothschilds returned William's money, with the eight per cent interest the British consols would have paid him had the investment actually been made. But the Rothschilds kept all the vast wartime profits they had made using Wilhelm's money-shady practice in any century. Partly by such practices, Nathan Rothschild was able to brag later that in the 17 years he had been in England he had increased his original £20,000 stake given to him by his father by 2,500 times, i.e., to £50,000,000-a truly vast sum at that time, comparable in purchasing power to billions of US dollars today.

The director of the Prussian Treasury wrote on a visit to London that Nathan Rothschild had as early as 1817: "...incredible influence upon all financial affairs here in London. It is widely stated.., that he entirely regulates the rate of exchange in the City. His power as a banker is enormous".

Austrian Prince Mettemich's secretary wrote of the Rothschilds, as early as 1818, that: "...they are the richest people in Europe."

By cooperating within the family, using fractional reserve banking techniques, the Rothschilds' banks soon grew unbelievably wealthy. By the mid-1800s, they dominated all European banking and were certainly the wealthiest family in the World. A large part of the profligate nobility of Europe became deeply indebted to them. By virtue of their presence in five nations as bankers, the Rothschilds were effectively autonomous, an entity independent from the nations in which they operated. If one nation's policies were displeasing to them or their interests, they could simply do no further lending there, or lend to those nations or groups opposed to such policies. Only, they knew where their gold and other reserves were located, thus they were shielded from government seizure, penalty, pressure or taxation, effectively making any national investigation or audit meaningless. Only, they knew the extent (or paucity) of their fractional reserves, scattered in five nations-a tremendous advantage over purely national banks engaging in fractional reserve banking. It was precisely their international character that gave the Rothschild banks unique advantages over national banks and governments, and that was precisely what rulers and national parliaments should have prohibited, but did not. This remains true of international or multinational banks to this very day, and is the driving force of globalisation-the push for one-World government. The Rothschilds provided huge loans to establish monopolies in various industries, thereby guaranteeing the borrowers' ability to repay the loans by raising prices without fear of price competition, while increasing the Rothschilds' economic and political power. They financed Cecil Rhodes, making it possible for him to establish a monopoly over the goldfields of South Africa and DeBeers diamonds. In America, they financed the monopolisation of railroads. The National City Bank of Cleveland, which was identified in congressional hearings as one of three Rothschild banks in the United States, provided John D. Rockefeller with the money to begin his monopolisation of the oil refinery business, resulting in the formation of Standard Oil. Jacob Schiff, who had been born in the Rothschild Green Shield house in Frankfurt and who was then the principal Rothschild agent in the US, advised Rockefeller and developed the infamous rebate deal which Rockefeller secretly demanded from railroads shipping competitors' oil. These same railroads were already monopolized by Rothschild control through agents and allies J. P. Morgan and Kuhn, Loeb & Company (Schiff was on the Board) which, together, controlled 95 per cent of all US railroad mileage. By 1850, James Rothschild, the heir of the French branch of the family, was said to be worth 600 million French francs-150 million more than all the other bankers in France put together. Mayer Amschel had established James in Paris in 1812, with capital of $200,000. At the time of his death in 1868, fifty-six years later, his annual income was $40,000,000. No fortune in America at that time equaled even one year of James' income.

Referring to James Rothschild, the poet Heinrich Heine said: "Money is the god of our times, and Rothschild is his prophet."

James Rothschild built his fabulous mansion, called Ferrires, 19 miles north-east of Paris. Wilhelm I, on first seeing it, exclaimed: "Kings couldn't afford this. It could only belong to a Rothschild!"

There is no evidence that the Rothschilds' predominant standing in European or World finance has changed. To the contrary, as their wealth has increased, they have simply increased their passion for anonymity. Their vast holdings rarely bear their name.

Author Frederic Morton wrote that the Rothschilds had: "...conquered the World more thoroughly, more cunningly, and much more lastingly than all the Caesars before..."

So, to recap, a goldsmith named Amshel Moses Bower opened a counting house in Frankfurt Germany in 1743. He placed a Roman eagle on a red shield over the door prompting people to call his shop the Red Shield Firm pronounced in German as "Rothschild". His son later changed his name to Rothschild when he inherited the business. Loaning money to individuals was all well and good but he soon found it much more profitable loaning money to governments and Kings. It always involved much bigger amounts, always secured from public taxes. Once he got the hang of things he set his sights on the World by training his five sons in the art of money creation, before sending them out to the major financial centres of the World to create and dominate the central banking systems. J.P. Morgan was thought by many to be the richest man in the World during the second World war, but upon his death it was discovered he was merely a lieutenant within the Rothschild empire owning only 19% of the J.P. Morgan Companies.

"There is but one power in Europe and that is Rothschild." 19th century French commentator.

We will explore a little more about the richest family a little later, after we've had a look at the American Revolution of 1764-1781.

AC 1791: June: King's portrait engraved on paper money enables citizens of Varennes to recognize and halt the fleeing monarch, King Louis XVI

AC 1816: the first savings bank in the United States, the Philadelphia Savings Fund Society, opened for business.

AC 1836: Coin Press was invented by Franklin Beale, produced first batch of coins for the U.S. Mint.

AC 1862: in U.S., paper money.

The Rothschild's Colonization of India and Looting its Gold

To start with, it's no coincidence that British imperialism expanded further after the Bank of England's Illuminati bankers (who conveniently claim to be Jewish but are actually Luciferians) became established in Britain and realised that they could not easily exploit the rest of the World in the same way they did in England since the usual tactic of infiltration into corridors of power would not work in foreign lands. They therefore simply appropriated the British flag as theirs and used the British as their extensions in non-Western lands (the Rothschilds banking dynasty is the real Crown and now also using the United States for their purpose). The British were dosed with pride in the "empire", "race", "Christianity" and "Queen" whereas it was really Rothschild's empire they were making. The greatest evidence of collusion between Illuminati and early Imperialists is the great friendship between racist colonizer Cecil Rhodes and the house of Rothschild. This has been detailed in Fritz Springmeier's "Bloodlines of the Illuminati". Let's zoom in on the colonization of the Indian subcontinent (India, Pakistan and Bangladesh). The British East India Company who snuck into India under the guise of traders first initiated colonization (and then intensified with the chartering of the Bank of England in 1694 which was owned by William Patterson who also owned the East-India Company). You can read about the Illuminati Chapter Five: The Council on Foreign Relations which says that "They were closely related to the Levant Company, and the Anglo-Muscovy Company, and spawned the London Company, which was chartered in 1606 by King James I, to establish the Virginia Plantation on a communistic basis, and the Plymouth Colony in 1621." And again "Every year, 24 Directors were elected by the Court of Proprietors (or shareholders, a majority of which were English Masons)."

They (East India Company) arrived claiming to be traders, but constantly plotted and eventually, colonized the entire continent and plundered its resources; proving to be pirates disguised as businessmen. At that time, India was a fairly prosperous nation, as testified by Lord McCauley, by the time the occupiers people left in 1947/48 it was one of the poorest. Unlike the Mogul rulers that they replaced, they never settled into the country, but pillaged its abundant raw materials, following the footsteps of their Dutch (Dutch East India Company) rivals in Indonesia. The building of roads and railways in India leading to the ports had one central purpose, transporting India's rich raw materials, which gave employment to your populated cities. The goods manufactured in England were sold back into the Indian market. It made everyone wealthy, except the Indian population who owned those resources in the first place.

Likewise, in South Africa, all the Gold and Diamond mines has effectively been stolen, this naturally made your ancestors very rich but left the native Africans very poor. Then the missionaries tried to sugar-coat the grand theft by selling them the Bible. Those who resisted British Imperialism physically, like the Zulus were no doubt the 'terrorists' of that time, in their own lands, and those who opposed using political means must be the preachers of 'hate'!

Many of the indigenous members who personally benefited from your rule, naturally argued in favour of British Imperialism, there are always profiteers selling their loyalties in every society. However, the Muslim power was still seething, and in 1857, an all-out war of independence broke out. Few know that the British beheaded the sons of the Last Mughal emperor Bahadur Shah Zafar and presented their heads to him on platters! Bahadur Shah was later exiled to Burma where he spent the remainder of his life in a 4'x4' windowless jail cell. Afterwards, there was a grand ball held at the Red Fort.

The Rothschilds ensured that the original solid gold coated spires of the Taj Mahal were shipped off to Britain and replaced with brass ones. Instrumental in the success of the British were rail, telegraph and certain princely states. However, the Muslim power was still seething, and in 1857, an all-out war of independence broke out. Instrumental in the success of the British were rail, telegraph and princely states like the Nizam of Hyderabad. India serves as a great example of how literature and language can be exploited and created for furthering Illuminati interests. Wilkie Collins of the Illuminati Collins bloodline started publishing imaginary tales of Muslim atrocities against Hindus and temple trashing by Muslim rulers in his famous novel, the Moonstone. Hindus who were a non-cohesive group living peacefully with Muslims for years were suddenly pitted against Muslims. An Englishman (from the Jesuit secret society) started the original controversy of the Babri mosque being built on the birthplace of Hindu god Ram. To further distance Muslims from their Persian language and therefore Islamic roots, the British popularized the Urdu language as a mass language for Muslims. The reason was that Urdu while sharing the script of Persian happened to be littered with native Indian words, making it more localized in its nature; and inheriting all the class bias of Indian language as well. Then the British created the Hindi language out of thin air as a national language for Hindus. Hindi was spoken like Urdu but had the script of Sanskrit, a Hindu script which had gone extinct centuries ago. Hindi would make Hindus antagonist to Muslims' and Muslims would be encouraged to abandon Urdu for Hindi, breaking complete contact with the Islamic script. A certain John Gilchrist of Fort William College, Calcutta, directed these language politics. Mr. Gilchrist can be aptly called the father of Hindi language.

For example today, the likes of Khalid Mahmood (Birmingham MP) who passionately supports 'your' (or the US) foreign policies; he supports the actions of your armies that are helping the larger US armed forces to invade nations that have not attacked or threatened the UK or US, consequently, men, women and children in Iraq and Afghanistan have been murdered in their tens of thousands. The latest reports from Iraq, confirmed by humanitarian organisations, [1] highlight that even children are being imprisoned, raped and tortured at the hands of foreign forces, including at Abu-Ghraib, the latest new pictures of which the Pentagon has refused to release. So now you are 'liberating' Iraqi children to deliver them into the clutches of sadists and paedophiles that fill that ranks in your armies, something you can't deny, as the World has seen the Abu Ghraib evidence. From Abu-Ghraib to children, surely you have now excelled Saddam Hussein.

The self-serving individuals in our midst are like the coolies that served your forefathers in the British Raj. They argue in collusion with some of the Muslim "moderates" in favour of deportation, desperately trying to preserve their self-interest. How is it that immigrants are now behaving like those on the far right, by using a language that is racist? Too often, I get asked the same question by those so-called 'free' thinkers with a coolie mindset - why do you live here if you oppose the policies of the British government. Am I obliged to agree with the government on every issue or leave? I thought all citizens were equal and had right to disagree, the right to speak freely against wrongs, which is also an evidence of a free democratic society? In reality questions of "what are you doing here then?" are posed in desperation when they are unable to intellectually answer the arguments posed to them. It would be far more accurate to call such people non-thinkers, the neo-coolies of today who believe the only legitimate view, is that of "their masters."

The so-called 'golden' Dutch 17th century was after Jews expelled from present Portugal and Spain arrived in the present Netherlands. Jews had money and knowledge of trade to the far East and the Americas, the Dutch had the best ships, that is fast, they were built in a short time, and they needed the lowest crew number. For ordinary Dutch the century was not very golden, ships leaving for what now is Indonesia left with some 350 men aboard, IF (not when) they returned they were lucky if 100 had survived. But pepper was so precious at the time when meat rotted soon that it was sold per grain. Overseas trade from W Europe to present Indonesia, India, Sri Lanka and such regions made the overland trade through the Middle East superfluous. The decline of the Ottoman empire thus began.

The second factor in the relative decline of the ME is the absence of coal and iron ore, one needs these substances to make cannon. Churchill in his first book, on the British genocide in 1897 in what now is NE Afghanistan, defined 'superior civilisation' as 'having the most effective weapons. A book on the history of the British empire states that after the British robber trade company had beaten Indian princes in the 17th century 'the local population paid for their own occupation through taxes'. It is not that the British were worse than other European robber nations, they just were more effective, being an island at the time made it possible not to have an army, the navy could be used anywhere, close to home, and far away. Transport over the sea at the time was ten times as cheap as transport overland. The British also were more ruthless, as far as I know there never was a British Multatuli, a man who in a famous novel written at the end of the 19th century that described Dutch colonial brutality. Multatuli, his real name was Eduard Douwes Dekker, is buried in Venice, we Dutch did not like what he wrote. We even around 1947 fought a bloody colonial war in present Indonesia, we lost while the US was busy with subjugating the whole World.

What exactly was the lure of India which set Columbus sailing? The answer is that the Mughal (muslim) rulers had achieved a sophisticated urban society with a degree of opulence in gold and spices never before seen in history. According to European Crusades, Christianisation, and Colonisation What happened to India when the British arrived? "A report on Indian Industrial Commission published in 1919 said that the industrial development of India was at any rate not inferior to that of the most advanced European nations. India was not only a great agricultural country but also a great manufacturing country. "It was the lure of Gold which attracted the Illuminati. The British traders were not allowed to own property in India but one of them managed to gain the favors of Mughal emperor Aurangzeb by curing his ill wife. In return, he asked for land. This piece of land became the Madras Headquarters of the East India Company. After that, the East India company used the policy of divide and rule, creating divisions and pitting one group against the other. Robert Clive was an ambitious Englishman. Though not Illuminati, his ambitions made him a pawn in the hands of the Illuminati and his efforts are single handedly credited with establishing a British empire in India. Yet, once he succeeded in doing that, The Illuminati had him removed like a hair in the butter; even had him court-martialed and replaced with one of their operatives! 'The vacuum created by the contrived ruin of the Indian handicraft industries, a process virtually completed by 1880, was filled with British manufactured goods. Britain's industrial revolution, with its explosive increase in productivity made it essential for British capitalists to find new markets. India turned from exporter of textile to importer.'

As Indian Hindus still didn't have much of a concept of idealism or nationhood and the masses generally considered the new rulers not much different from the previous rulers for the last 1000 years, the British recognised their greatest enemy as Muslims and Mughal rulers. The Mughals still existed but their power had waned to within Delhi. A new threat arose in the South where a pious Muslim ruler, Tipu Sultan bearing the ancestry of the Prophet Muhammad, decided to unite all local powers against the British. He fought bravely but, due to not receiving the expected support from the Nizam of Hyderabad, had to sign a humiliating treaty under which the Illuminati took his children as a security deposit! Lord Cornwallis (Illuminati) was involved in signing of the treaty. (Yes, he's the same Cornwallis we later saw colonizing America). Despite these hardships, Tipu fought back and died with a sword in clutched in his hand surrounded by the bodies of dozens of Englishmen he had overpowered. After Tipu's murder in 1799, it was open season on India. The Rothschilds ordered the British to snatch and ship out every piece of gold they could lay their hands on. They started annexing princely states left and right. Lord Dalhousie (Illuminati) was appointed Governor General in 1848. Though there is a University built in Halifax in his name, few know that he started a policy by which any princely state devoid of official heirs would be annexed by the Rothschild British agents. This policy proved very successful.

Although there is no solid evidence that Lord McCauley said the following in a speech Feb 2, 1835, to the British Parliament, however, it embodies the diabolical Rothschild plan for India: "I have traveled across the length and breadth of India and I have not seen one person who is a beggar or who is a thief. Such wealth I have seen in this country, such high moral values & people of such calibre, that do not think we would ever conquer this country, unless we break the very backbone of this nation, which is her spiritual and cultural heritage."

"Every civil building connected with Mahomedan tradition should be levelled to the ground without regard to antiquarian veneration or artistic predilection." -British Prime Minister Palmerston's Letter No. 9 dated 9 October 1857, to Lord Canning, Viceroy of India, Canning Papers.

Languages were not the only tools the Illuminati created. Realising the danger posed by the call for working for their freedom from British occupation during Muslim Friday sermons, the British created a several bogus versions of Islam complete with their very own false prophets! This new cult would preach a "Colonial Occupation friendly version of Islam" and at the same time engage in assassinations of real Muslim intellectuals. Illuminati Masonist/racist Rudyard Kipling would settle in India to further provoke the English to further colonialism by penning racist epithets like 'White Man's burden' (should be called "Rothschild's burden"). Kipling's seemingly innocent novels contain subtle anti-Islamism and his epic "Jungle Boy" carries the Disney- Illuminati theme of man and civilisation being shunned for animals. Kipling would even attempt to justify colonialism by pointing towards the British instruments of plunder such as railroads, telegraphs and the ports of Bombay, Calcutta and Madras as some landmarks of civilisation which the Indians could not construct themselves. Such a claim is dubious since the India on the eve of British arrival was a prosperous one; and there is no way to tell how things would have been in the absence of the British. What can be said is that the Indians failed to offer the illuminati effective resistance; and were no match to their cold-blooded calculations. A very negative legacy left behind by the British was the culture of bribery and corruption in the administration lower levels. Since this corruption translated into very little when compared to the Illuminati stakes in India, The British preferred to keep an administration of bribe taking yes men rather than focus on clean administration. We find this culture continues to thrive in all areas of British imperialism; India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Egypt and Nigeria.

The Opium Wars With China

Hidden Holocausts: The Opium War – Today's hidden Holocaust is the war against Arabs and Muslims.

http://www.fiba-filmbank.org/dev/fiba_2003/opium_wr/fiba_04_opium_war.html

India became the focal point of the Opium Wars waged by The Crown for money and power. There are reports that opium, which was bringing the decay of Oriental society and brought the downfall of the Chinese empire was actually being cultivated by the British in Patna and Afghanistan. The British did not sell it to Indians however. Instead they started giving away free tea at railway stations. Once the Indian population was hooked, they put a price on it. Realizing the need for local Indian Illuminati operatives, Masonry made its entry into India. The first Lodge was established at Fort William, Calcutta in 1730. (The same fort William from which Hindi arose). Interestingly, its coat of arms was the lion on the seal of the British East India Company! Masonry was gradually established in all major Indian urban focal points. The Opium War, also called the Anglo-Chinese War, was the most humiliating defeat China ever suffered. In European history, it is perhaps the most sordid, base, and vicious event in European history, possibly, just possibly, overshadowed by the excesses of the Third Reich and Lenin/Stalin and The Allies in the twentieth century. By the 1830's, the English had become the major drug-trafficking (in addition to slave trading) criminal organization in the World; very few drug cartels of the twentieth century can even touch the England of the early nineteenth century in sheer size of criminality. One wonders what is going on today in Afghanistan, another opium war?

The British wanted Emperor Tao Kwong to legalize opium and collect a tariff, but he replied, "It is true I can not prevent the introduction of the flowing poison; gain-seeking and corrupt men will for profit and sensuality defeat my wishes, but nothing will induce me to derive a revenue from the vice and misery of my people." According to Boothe, three of the Emperor's sons became addicts and the drug killed each one. Queen Victoria was The Opium Queen -- read on... <http://www.the7thfire.com/Victoria/DrugTrade.html> "Justice, in my opinion is with them; and whilst they, the Pagans, the semi-civilized barbarians, have it on their side, we, the enlightened and civilized Christians, are pursuing objects at variance both with justice and with religion...a war more unjust in its origin, a war calculated in its progress to cover this country with a permanent disgrace, I do not know and I have not read of." said William Gladstone, then a member of the Tory opposition -- regarding the Opium Wars on China <http://www.pekingduck.org/archives/003057.php>. Note the statement by a British MP: "Pagans, semi-civilized barbarians". Such a statement is actually a Freudian self-projection by the self-proclaimed "enlightened and civilized British"! "There is not in the history of any country, nor in criminal annals anywhere a record of crimes so shameful, so callous, so vile as England's opium war or England's present opium trade, or the rape of the Boer Republics, of the crimes in India and in Persia and in Ireland and in Egypt, of Amritsar and of Congo." O'Connell Fenian -- an Irish-American attorney and director of the American Friends of Irish Freedom http://gothamimage.blogspot.com/2005_08_28_gothamimage_archive.html

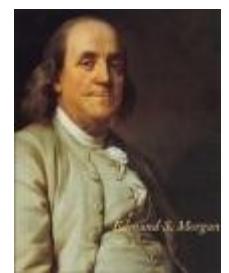

"These crimes against humanity were the real foundation of the British Empire which is really the owners of the Bank of England who print paper money from nothing thus usurping the credit from the people. For the Chinese, the Opium Wars of 1840 and again in 1856 were catastrophic. This 2000 year old civilisation, remarkable for its rich culture and relative equanimity, was unable to match the military technology of its oppressor, a warring nation that had, in contrast, acquired an empire overnight, as a result of its ruthlessness, exploitation and conquest...." By the 1830's, the English had become the major drug-trafficking criminal organization in the World; very few drug cartels of the twentieth century can even touch the England of the early nineteenth century in sheer size of criminality. Growing opium in India, the East India Company shipped tons of opium into Canton which it traded for Chinese manufactured goods and for tea. This trade had produced, quite literally, a country filled with drug addicts, as opium parlors proliferated all throughout China in the early part of the nineteenth century. This trafficking, it should be stressed, was a criminal activity after 1836, but the British traders generously bribed Canton officials in order to keep the opium traffic flowing. The effects on Chinese society were devastating. In fact, there are few periods in Chinese history that approach the early nineteenth century in terms of pure human misery and tragedy. In an effort to stem the tragedy, the imperial government made opium illegal in 1836 and began to aggressively close down the opium dens.

The key player in the prelude to war was a brilliant and highly moral official named Lin Tse-hsü. Deeply concerned about the opium menace, he maneuvered himself into being appointed Imperial Commissioner at Canton. His express purpose was to cut off the opium trade at its source by rooting out corrupt officials and cracking down on British trade in the drug. He took over in March of 1839 and within two months, absolutely invulnerable to bribery and corruption, he had taken action against Chinese merchants and Western traders and shut down all the traffic in opium. He destroyed all the existing stores of opium and, victorious in his war against opium, he composed a letter to Queen Victoria of England requesting that the British cease all opium trade. His letter included the argument that, since Britain had made opium trade and consumption illegal in England because of its harmful effects, it should not export that harm to other countries. Trade, according to Lin, should only be in beneficial objects. The British, however, had been nursing several grievances against China, and Lin's take-no-prisoners enforcement of Chinese laws combined to outrage the British against his decapitation of the opium trade. The most serious bone of contention involved treaty relations; because the British refused to submit to the emperor, there were no formal treaty relations between the two countries. The most serious problem precipitated by this lack of treaty relations involved the relationship between foreigners and Chinese law. The British, on principle, refused to hand over British citizens to a Chinese legal system that they felt was vicious and barbaric. The Chinese, equally principled, demanded that all foreigners who were accused of committing crimes on Chinese soil were to be dealt with solely by Chinese officials. In addition to enforcing the opium laws, Lin aggressively pursued foreign nationals accused of crimes and rightly so.

The English, despite Lin's eloquent letter, refused to back down from the opium trade. In response, Lin threatened to cut off all trade with England and expel all English from China. Thus began the Opium War. War broke out when Chinese junks attempted to turn back English merchant vessels in November of 1839; although this was a low-level conflict, it inspired the English to send warships in June of 1840. The Chinese, with old-style weapons and artillery, were no match for the British gunships, which ranged up and down the coast shooting at forts and fighting on land. The Chinese were equally unprepared for the technological superiority of the British land armies, and suffered continual defeats. Finally, in 1842, the Chinese were forced to agree to an ignominious peace under the Treaty of Nanking. The treaty imposed on the Chinese was weighted entirely to the British side. Its first and fundamental demand was for British "extraterritoriality"; all British citizens would be subjected to British, not Chinese, law if they committed any crime on Chinese soil. The British would no longer have to pay tribute to the imperial administration in order to trade with China, and they gained five open ports for British trade: Canton, Shanghai, Foochow, Ningpo, and Amoy. No restrictions were placed on British trade, and, as a consequence, opium trade more than doubled in the three decades following the Treaty of Nanking. The treaty also established England as the "most favored nation" trading with China; this clause granted to Britain any trading rights granted to other countries. Two years later, China, against its will, signed similar treaties with France and the United States.

Lin Tse-hsü was officially disgraced for his actions in Canton and was sent to a remote appointment in Turkestan. Of all the imperial officials, however, Lin was the first to realize the momentous lesson of the Opium War. In a series of letters he began to agitate the imperial government to adopt Western technology, arms, and methods of warfare. He was first to see that the war was about technological superiority; his influence, however, had dwindled to nothing, so his admonitions fell on deaf ears. It wasn't until a second conflict with England that Chinese officials began to take seriously the adoption of Western technologies. Even with the Treaty of Nanking, trade in Canton and other ports remained fairly restricted; the British were incensed by what they felt was clear treaty violations. The Chinese, for their part, were angered at the wholesale export of Chinese nationals to America and the Caribbean to work at what was no better than slave labor. These conflicts came to a head in 1856 in a series of skirmishes that ended in 1860. A second set of treaties further humiliated and weakened the imperial government. The most ignominious of the provisions in these treaties was the complete legalization of opium and the humiliating provision that allowed for the free and unrestricted propagation of Christianity in all regions of China.

China's defeat at the hands of England led to the publication of the Illustrated Gazatteer of Maritime Countries by Wei Yüan (1794-1856). The Gazatteer marks the first landmark event in the modernization of China. Wei Yüan, a distinguished but minor official, argued in the Gazatteer that the Europeans had developed technologies and methods of warfare in their ceaseless and barbaric quest for power, profit, and material wealth. Civilization, represented by China, was in danger of falling to the technological superiority of the Western powers. Because China is a peaceful and civilized nation, it can overcome the West only if it learns and matches the technology and techniques of the West. The purpose of the Gazatteer was to disseminate knowledge about the Europeans, their technologies, their methods of warfare, and their selfish anarchy to learned officials. It is a landmark event in Chinese history, for it was the first systematic attempt to educate the Chinese in Western technologies and culture. This drive for modernization, begun by Lin Tse-hsü and perpetuated by Wei Yüan would gain momentum and emerge as the basis for the "Self-Strengthening" from 1874 to 1895.
<http://www.wsu.edu/~dee/CHING/OPIUM.HTM>

The American Revolution (1764 - 1781)

By the mid 1700's Britain was at its height of power, but was also heavily in debt. Since the creation of the Bank of England, they had suffered four costly wars and the total debt now stood at £140,000,000, (which in those days was a lot of money). In order to make their interest payments to the bank, the British government set about a programme to try to raise revenues from their American colonies, largely through an extensive program of taxation. There was a shortage of material for minting coins in the colonies, so they began to print their own paper money, which they called Continental Colonial Scrip. This provided a very successful means of exchange and also gave the colonies a sense of identity. Colonial Scrip was money provided to help the exchange of goods. It was debt free paper money not backed by gold or silver. The Bank of England asked Benjamin Franklin how he would account for the new found prosperity in the colonies. Franklin replied: "That is simple. In the colonies we issue our own money. It is called Colonial Scrip. We issue it in proper proportion to the demands of trade and industry to make the products pass easily from the producers to the consumers. In this manner, creating for ourselves our own paper money, we control its purchasing power, and we have no interest to pay to no one."

America had learned that the people's confidence in the currency was all they needed, and they could be free of borrowing debts. That would mean being free of the Bank of England. In response, the World's most powerful independent bank used its influence on the British Parliament to press for the passing of the Currency Act of 1764. This act made it illegal for the colonies to print their own money, and forced them to pay all future taxes to Britain in silver or gold. Here is what Benjamin Franklin said after that: "In one year, the conditions were so reversed that the era of prosperity ended, and a depression set in, to such an extent that the streets of the Colonies were filled with unemployed." "The colonies would gladly have borne the little tax on tea and other matters had it not been that England took away from the colonies their money, which created unemployment and dissatisfaction. The inability of the colonists to get power to issue their own money permanently out of the hands of George III and the international Bankers was the PRIME reason for the Revolutionary War." Benjamin Franklin's autobiography

By the time the war began on 19th April 1775 much of the gold and silver had been taken by British taxation. They were left with no other choice but to print money to finance the war. What is interesting here is that Colonial Scrip was actually working so well, it became a threat to the established economic system of the time. The idea of issuing money as Franklin put it "in proper proportion to the demands of trade and industry" and not charging any interest, was not causing any problems or inflation. This unfortunately was alien to the Bank of England which only issued money for the sake of making a profit for its shareholder's.

More on The American Revolution, the "Bank" of Rome and Benjamin Franklin

Now let's take a look again at the results the Bank of England produced on the British economy and how, later, this was the root cause of the American Revolution. By the mid-1700s, the British Empire was approaching its height of power around the World. Britain had fought four wars in Europe since the creation of its privately owned central bank, the Bank of England. The cost had been high. To finance these wars the British Parliament, rather than issuing its own debt-free currency, had borrowed heavily from the bank. By the mid-1700s, the British Government's debt amounted to £140,000,000-a staggering sum for those days. Consequently, the government embarked on a program of trying to raise revenues from its American colonies in order to make the interest payments to the bank. But in America it was a different story. The scourge of a privately owned central bank had not yet landed in America, though the Bank of England exerted its baneful influence over the American colonies after 1694. Four years earlier, in 1690, the Massachusetts Bay colony had printed its own paper money-the first in America-and was followed in 1703 by South Carolina and then by other colonies. In the mid-1700s, pre-revolutionary America was still relatively poor. There was a severe shortage of precious metal coins to trade for goods, so the early colonists were increasingly forced to experiment with printing their own home-grown paper money. Some of these experiments were successful. Tobacco was used as money in some colonies, with success. In 1720, every colonial Royal Governor was instructed to curtail the issue of colonial money, but this was largely unsuccessful. In 1742, the British Resumption Act required that taxes and other debts be paid in gold. This caused a depression in the colonies, and the rich for one-tenth its value seized property on foreclosure.

Benjamin Franklin was a big supporter of the colonies printing their own money. In 1757, Franklin was sent to London to fight for colonial paper money. He ended up staying for the next 18 years-nearly until the start of the American Revolution. During this period, more American colonies ignored Parliament and began to issue their own money, called 'Continental colonial scrip'. The endeavor was successful, with notable exceptions. Colonial scrip provided a reliable medium of exchange and it also helped provide a feeling of unity between the colonies. Remember, most Colonial Scrip was just paper money, debt-free money, printed in the public interest and not really backed by gold or silver coin. In other words, it was a fiat currency. Officials of the Bank of England asked Franklin how he would account for the newfound prosperity of the colonies. Without hesitation he replied: "That is simple. In the colonies, we issue our own money. It is called Colonial Scrip. We issue it in proper proportion to the demands of trade and industry to make the products pass easily from the producers to the consumers... In this manner, creating for ourselves our own paper money, we control its purchasing power, and we have no interest to pay to no one."

This was just common sense to Franklin, but you can imagine the impact it had at the Bank of England. America had learned the secret of money, and that genie had to be returned to its bottle as soon as possible. Therefore, Parliament hurriedly passed the Currency Act of 1764. This prohibited colonial officials from issuing their own money, and ordered them to pay all future taxes in gold or silver coins. In other words, it forced the colonies onto a gold and silver standard. This initiated the first intense phase of the First Bank War in America, which ended in defeat for the Money Changers, beginning with the Declaration of Independence and concluding with the subsequent peace deal, the Treaty of Paris, in 1783. For those who believe that a gold standard is the answer for America's current monetary problems, look what happened to America after the Currency Act of 1764 was passed. In his autobiography, Franklin wrote: "In one year the conditions were so reversed that the era of prosperity ended and a depression set in, to such an extent that the streets of the Colonies were filled with unemployed." Benjamin Franklin claims that this was even the basic cause of the American Revolution. As Franklin put it in his autobiography: "The Colonies would gladly have borne the little tax on tea and other matters had it not been that England took away from the Colonies their money, which created unemployment and dissatisfaction."

In 1774, Parliament passed the Stamp Act which required that a stamp be placed on every instrument of commerce, indicating payment of tax in gold-which again threatened the colonial paper money. Less than two weeks later, the Massachusetts Committee of Safety passed a resolution directing the issuance of more colonial currency and honoring the currency of other Colonies. On 10 and 22 June 1775, the Congress of the Colonies resolved to issue $2 million in paper money based on the credit and faith of the "United Colonies". This flew in the face of the Bank of England and Parliament. It constituted an act of defiance, a refusal to accept a monetary system unjust to the people of the colonies. Thus the bills of credit [i.e., paper money] which historians with ignorance or prejudice have belittled as instruments of reckless financial policy were really the standards of the Revolution. They were more than this: they were the Revolution itself.

Alexander Del Mar, historian: By the time the first shots were fired in Concord and Lexington, Massachusetts, on 19 April 1775, the colonies had been drained of gold and silver coin by British taxation. Consequently, the continental government had no choice but to print its own paper money to finance the war. At the start of the Revolution, the American colonial money supply stood at $12 million. By the end of the war, it was nearly $500 million. This was partly a result of massive British counterfeiting. Consequently, the currency was virtually worthless. Shoes sold for 55,000 a pair.

As George Washington lamented: "A wagon load of money will scarcely purchase a wagon load of provisions."

Earlier, colonial scrip had worked because just enough was issued to facilitate trade, and counterfeiting was minimal. Today, those who support a gold-backed currency point to this period during the Revolution to demonstrate the evils of a fiat currency. But remember, the same currency had worked so well 20 years earlier during times of peace that the Bank of England had Parliament outlaw it, and during the war the British deliberately sought to - undermine it by counterfeiting it in England and shipping it 'by the bale' to the colonies. England possessed the fairest portion of the earth in the American Colonies but lost them all because of the greed of the moneylenders. The early colonists were Protestant Christians who hated usury and money lending. They were mostly poor and brought little ready money with them from Europe. There were no gold or silver mines so each Colony issued non interest bearing paper notes. The blessing of God and their hard work soon enabled them to overtake the mother country in industry, commerce and wealth. The greedy moneylenders of the Bank of England soon cast covetous eyes on the Colonies. Their first attempt to destroy the Americans with usury was made in 1765. It was called the Stamp Act. Payment of various taxes was required in specie or coin. Since they had no English coins to pay the tax that meant that they would have to borrow at usury from the Bank. Soon they too would be reduced to penury, pauperism, and destitution like their cousins in England.

Benjamin Franklin said that the American war for Independence was fought over money and currency (like every war) and the right of the Colonies to issue their own usury free currency apart from the Bank of England, i.e. the Revolution was caused by the Bank of England: "That is simple. In the Colonies, we issue our own paper money. It is called 'Colonial Scrip.' We issue it in proper proportion to make the goods and pass easily from the producers to the consumers. In this manner, creating ourselves our own paper money, we control its purchasing power and we have no interest to pay to no one." (Benjamin Franklin on Colonial Scrip). "The Colonies would gladly have borne the little tax on tea and other matters had it not been the poverty caused by the bad influence of the English Bankers on the Parliament, which has caused in the Colonies hatred of England and the Revolutionary War." (Benjamin Franklin on Colonial Scrip) "9th. That the duties imposed by several late acts of Parliament, from the peculiar circumstances of these colonies, will be extremely burthensome and grievous, and, from the scarcity of specie (coins), the payment of them absolutely impracticable." (The Declaration of Rights of the Stamp Act Congress)

After the Revolution, the Bank of England still retained a stranglehold on the country by the chartering of the First Bank of the U.S. in 1791. The charter was to last for 20 years and expire in 1811. Congress refused to renew the charter and war was declared by the Bank of England in 1812. General Jackson said this about the international central bankers in 1832 (the 2nd Bank of the U.S. was re-chartered in 1816): "YOU ARE A DEN OF VIPERS AND THIEVES. I INTEND TO ROUT YOU OUT, AND BY THE ETERNAL GOD I WILL ROUT YOU OUT." And our HERO did exactly as he promised. He refused to renew the charter of the 2nd Bank and it died an unnatural death in 1836. The people were finally free of the Bank of England alias the "Bank" of Rome until the Civil War began in 1861. General President Andrew Jackson was the hero of the war of 1812. He also won the war against the crooked banksters.

The Bank Of North America (1781-1785)

If you can't beat them, join them, might well have been his argument when arms dealer, Robert Morris suggested he be allowed to set up a Bank of England style central bank in the USA in 1781. Desperate for money, the $400,000 he proposed to deposit, to allow him to loan out many times that through fractional reserve banking, must have looked really attractive to the impoverished American Government. Already spending the money they would be loaned, no one made a fuss when Robert Morris couldn't raise the deposit, and instead suggested he might use some gold, which had been loaned to America from France. Once in, he simply used fractional reserve banking, and with the banks growing fortune he loaned to himself, and his friends the money to buy up all the remaining shares. The bank then began to loan out money multiplied by this new amount to eager politicians, who were probably too drunk with the new 'power cash' to notice or care how it was done. The scam lasted five years until in 1785, with the value of American money dropping like a lead balloon. The banks charter did not get renewed. The shareholder's walking off with the interest did not go unnoticed by the governor.

Governor Morris: "The rich will strive to establish their dominion and enslave the rest. They always did. They always will... They will have the same effect here as elsewhere, if we do not, by (the power of) government, keep them in their proper spheres."

First Bank Of The United States (1791-1811)

Towards the end of the Revolution, the continental Congress, meeting at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, grew desperate for money. In 1781, they allowed Robert Morris, their Financial Superintendent, to open a privately owned central bank in the hope that this would help. Incidentally, Morris was a wealthy man who had grown wealthier during the Revolution by trading in war materials. The new bank, the Bank of North America, was closely modeled on the Bank of England. It was allowed to practise (or rather, it was not prohibited from practicing) fractional reserve banking; that is, it could lend out money it didn't have, then charge interest on it. If you or I were to do that, we would be charged with fraud-a felony. Few understood this practice at the time, and, of course, it was concealed from the public and politicians as much as possible. Further, the bank was given a monopoly on issuing banknotes, acceptable in payment of taxes. The bank's charter called for private investors to put up $400,000 worth of initial capital. But when Morris was unable to raise the money, he brazenly used his political influence to have gold deposited in the bank-gold, which had been lent to America by France. He then lent this money to himself and his friends to reinvest in shares of the bank. The Second American Bank War was on and the Rothschilds were behind it as was commonly known in Europe. Soon, the dangers became clear. The value of American currency continued to plummet. Four years later, in 1785, the bank's charter was not renewed, effectively ending the threat of the bank's power. Thus, the Second American Bank War quickly ended in defeat for the Money Changers. The leader of the successful effort to kill the bank was a patriot named William Findley, from Pennsylvania.

William Findley explained the problem this way: "This institution, having no principle but that of avarice, will never be varied in its object... to engross all the wealth, power and influence of the state." Plutocracy, once established, will corrupt the legislature so that laws will be made in its favour, and the administration of justice will favour the rich only."

The men behind the Bank of North America-Alexander Hamilton, Robert Morris, and the Bank's President, Thomas Willing-did not give up. Only six years later, Hamilton, then Secretary of the Treasury, and his mentor, Morris, rammed a new privately owned central bank, the First Bank of the United States, through the new Congress. Thomas Willing again served as the bank's president. The players were the same, only the name of the bank was changed. It worked once, it will work again. It's been six years. There are a lot of new hungry politicians. Let's give it a try. And so there it was, in 1791, the First Bank of the United States (BUS). Not only deceptively named to sound official, but also to take attention away from the real first bank which had been shut down. Its initials however gave a clear indication that Americans were once again being taken for a ride. And true to its British model, the name of the investors was never revealed. Although it was called the First Bank of the U.S., it was not the first attempt at a privately-owned central bank in this country. As with the first two, the Bank of England and the Bank of North America, the government put up the cash to get this private bank going, then the bankers loaned that money to each other to buy the remaining stock in the bank, i.e. the stockholders never paid the full amount for their shares. The U.S. government put up their initial $2,000,000 in cash, then the Bank through the old magic of fractional reserve lending, made loans to its charter investors so they could come up with the remaining $8,000,000 in capital needed for this risk-free investment. Like the Bank of England, the name of the Bank of the United States was deliberately chosen to hide the fact that it was privately controlled. And like the Bank of England, the names of the investors in the Bank were never revealed.

1790: Amshel (Amschel) Mayer Rothschild "Let me issue & control a nation's money..."

"Under the surface, the Rothschilds long had a powerful influence in dictating American financial laws. The law records show that they were the power in the old Bank of the United States" - Myers, History of the Great American Fortunes. Having gotten away with it a second time, some of them probably wished Amshel Rothschild had picked a different time to make his pronouncement from his private central bank in Frankfurt. "Let me issue and control a nation's money and I care not who writes the laws." Not to worry, no one was listening, the American government borrowed 8.2 million dollars from the bank in the first 5 years and prices rose by 72%. This time round the money changers had learned their lesson they had guaranteed a twenty year charter. The president Thomas Jefferson, who could see an ever increasing debt, with no chance of ever paying back, had this to say: "I wish it were possible to obtain a single amendment to our Constitution - taking from the federal government their power of borrowing." We should remember the words of Thomas Jefferson: "I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. Already they have raised up a money aristocracy that has set the government at defiance... If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks will deprive the people of all property until their children wake-up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered... The issuing power should be taken from the banks and restored to the government to whom it properly belongs."

"The modern theory of the perpetuation of debt has drenched the earth with blood, and crushed its inhabitants under burdens ever accumulating". ~ Letter to the Secretary of the Treasury Albert Gallatin (1802) and later published in The Debate Over The Recharter Of The Bank Bill (1809)
While the independent press, who had not been bought off yet, called the scam "a great swindle, a vulture, a viper, and a cobra." As with the real first bank, the government had been the only depositor to put up any real money, with the remainder being raised from loans the investors made to each other, using the magic of fractional reserve banking. When time came for renewal of the charter, the Bankers were warning of bad times ahead if they didn't get what they wanted. The charter was not renewed. Five month later Britain had attacked America and started the war of 1812. In 1787, colonial leaders assembled in Philadelphia to replace the ailing Articles of Confederation. As we saw earlier, both Thomas Jefferson and James Madison were unalterably opposed to a privately owned central bank. They had seen the problems caused by the Bank of England. They wanted nothing of it.

Many believed that the Tenth Amendment, which reserved powers to the states which were not delegated to the federal government by the Constitution, made the issuance of paper money by the federal government unconstitutional, since the power to issue paper money was not specifically delegated to the federal Government in the Constitution. The Constitution is silent on this point. However, the Constitution specifically forbade the individual States to "emit bills of credit" (paper money). Most of the framers intended the Constitution's silence to keep the new federal government from having the power to authorize paper money creation. Indeed, the Journal of the Convention for 16 August reads as follows: "It was moved and seconded to strike out the words 'and emit bills of credit' and the motion... passed in the affirmative."

But Hamilton and his banker friends saw this silence as an opportunity for keeping the government out of paper money creation which they hoped to monopolise privately. So both bankers and anti-banking delegates, for opposing motives, supported leaving any federal government authority for paper money creation out of the Constitution, by a four-to-one margin. This ambiguity left the door open for the Money Changers-just as they had planned. Of course, paper money was not itself the main problem. Fractional reserve lending was the greater problem, since it multiplied any inflation caused by excessive paper currency issuance by several times. But this was not understood by many, whereas the evils of excessive paper currency issuance were. In their belief that prohibiting paper currency was a good end, the framers were well advised. Prohibiting all paper currency would have severely limited the fractional reserve banking then practised, since the use of checks was minimal and arguably would have been prohibited as well. But bank loans, created as book entries, were not addressed and so were not prohibited. As it happened, the federal and state governments were widely regarded as prohibited from paper money creation, whereas private banks were not-it being argued that this power, by not being specifically prohibited, was reserved for the people (including legal persons, such as incorporated banks). In 1790, less than three years after the Constitution had been signed, the Money Changers struck again. The newly appointed first Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, proposed a bill to the Congress, calling for a new privately owned central bank. Coincidentally, 1790 was the very year that Mayer Rothschild made his pronouncement from his flagship bank in Frankfurt: "Let me issue and control a nation's money and I care not who writes its laws."

Alexander Hamilton was a tool of the international bankers. He wanted to create another private central bank, the Bank of the United States, and did so. He convinced Washington to sign the bill, despite Washington's reservations and Jefferson's and Madison's opposition. To win over Washington, Hamilton developed the "implied powers" argument used so often since to eviscerate the Constitution. Jefferson correctly predicted the dire consequences of opening such a Pandora's box, which would allow judges to "imply" whatever they wished. Interestingly, one of Hamilton's first jobs after graduating from law school in 1782 was as an aide to Robert Morris, the head of the Bank of North America. In fact, Hamilton had written a letter, saying: "A national debt, if it is not excessive, will be to us a national blessing." A "blessing" to whom? Who is us? The owners of the private central bank of course!

After a year of intense debate, in 1791 Congress passed Hamilton's bank bill and gave it a 20 year charter. The new bank was to be called the First Bank of the United States, or FBUS. Thus the Third American Bank War began. The First Bank of the United States was headquartered in Philadelphia. The bank was given authority to print currency and make loans based on fractional reserves, although private investors would hold 80 per cent of its stock. The other 20 per cent would be purchased by the US Government, but the reason was not to give the government a piece of the action: it was to provide the initial capital for the other 80 per cent owners. As with the old Bank of North America and the Bank of England before that, the stockholders never paid the full amount for their shares. The US Government put up its initial $2,000,000 in cash; then the bank, through the old magic of fractional reserve lending, made loans to its charter investors so they could come up with the remaining $8,000,000 in capital needed for this risk-free investment. As with the Bank of England, the name of bank-the Bank of the United States-was deliberately chosen to hide the fact that it was privately controlled. And, as in the case of the Bank of England, the names of the investors in the bank were never revealed. The bank was promoted to Congress as a way to bring stability to the banking system and to eliminate inflation. So what happened? Over the first five years, the US Government borrowed $8.2 million from the First Bank of the United States. In that period, prices rose by 72 per cent.

Jefferson, the new Secretary of State, watched the borrowing with sadness and frustration, unable to stop it: "I wish it were possible to obtain a single amendment to our Constitution, taking from the federal government the power of borrowing."

President Adams denounced the issuance of private banknotes as a fraud upon the public. He was supported in this view by all conservative opinion of his time. Why continue to farm out to private banks, for nothing, a prerogative of government?

Millions of Americans feel the same way today. They watch in helpless frustration as the federal government borrows the American taxpayer into oblivion, borrowing from private banks and the rich, the money the government has the authority to issue itself, without debt. (how we know why liberals and globalists always scream: "we don't want government control, we don't want governments to be involved") So, although it was called the First Bank of the United States, was not the first attempt at a privately owned central bank in the US. As with the first two, the Bank of England and the Bank of North America, the government put up the cash to get this private bank going, then the bankers lent that money to each other to buy the remaining stock in the bank. It was a scam, plain and simple--and they wouldn't be able to get away with it for long. Meanwhile a short time earlier, an independent Rothschild business, the Bank of France, was being looked upon with suspicion by none other than Napoleon.

Napoleon Cancels Debts and Usury \(1803 - 1825\)

Napoleon, a sympathizer for the international bankers, turned against them in the last years of his rule. He said: "When a government is dependent upon bankers for money, they and not the leaders of the government control the situation, since the hand that gives is above the hand that takes... Money has no motherland; financiers are without patriotism and without decency; their sole object is gain." Some historians say that he actually converted to Islam (Usury is forbidden in Islam).

Napoleon Bonaparte didn't trust the bank saying: "The hand that gives is above the hand that takes. Money has no motherland; financiers are without patriotism and without decency: their sole object is gain."

Next, we have to travel back to Europe to see how a single man was able to manipulate the entire British economy by obtaining the first news of Napoleon's final defeat. In Paris in 1800, the Bank of France was organised, along similar lines to the Bank of England. But Napoleon decided France had to break free of debt. He never trusted the Bank of France, even when he put some of his own relatives on the governing board.

Napoleon declared that when a government is dependent upon bankers for money, the bankers-not the leaders of the government-are in control: "The hand that gives is above the hand that takes. Money has no motherland; financiers are without patriotism and without decency: their sole object is gain." He clearly saw the dangers, but did not see the proper safeguards or solution.

Back in America, unexpected help was about to arrive. In 1800, Thomas Jefferson narrowly defeated John Adams to become the third President of the United States. By 1803, Jefferson and Napoleon had struck a deal. The US would give Napoleon $3,000,000 in gold, in exchange for a huge chunk of territory west of the Mississippi River: the Louisiana Purchase. With that three million dollars in gold, Napoleon quickly forged an army and set off across Europe, conquering everything in his path. But England and the Bank of England quickly rose to oppose him. They financed every nation in his path, reaping the enormous profits of war. Prussia, Austria and finally Russia all went heavily into debt in a futile attempt to stop Napoleon.

In 1804, Napoleon declared himself Emperor and appointed his three brothers as Kings of Naples, Holland, and Westphalia. Mayer Amschel's five sons were simultaneously sent to various European capitals: Amschel (first-born), at home - in Frankfurt; Salomon, to Vienna; Nathan (smartest) to London; Karl, to Naples; James (last-born), to Paris. The Rothschilds became linchpins in a giant financial octopus, naming Switzerland to be kept neutral and Geneva to be the capital of their empire" of industrial cartels including "munition plants, mining industry, chemical plants, etc. (Pawns In The Game" p.42). Four years later, with the main French Army in Russia, thirty years old Nathan Rothschild-the head of the London office of the Rothschild family personally took charge of a bold plan to smuggle a much-needed shipment of gold right through France to finance an attack from Spain by Britain's Duke of Wellington. Nathan later bragged at a dinner party in London that it was the best business he'd ever done. He made money on each step of the shipment. Little did he know then that he would do much better business in the near future.

More importantly, the Rothschild family manipulated the stock market and thus gained control over the main Central Banks of Europe, the prime example being that of the Bank of England. By means of cutting Napoleon's supplies (but increasing his opponent Wellington's funding) and triggering an English stock market crash, Nathan got rid of the problematic Napoleon and made a financial "killing"! And thus, "Through their dealings, by 1820 the Rothschilds had amassed a fortune exceeding 5 billion pounds' ("God - the Ultimate Paradox", page 115; Sir W. Scott's "Life of Napoleon", in State Library, on microfiche) The Rothschild family even had an intelligence network (later becoming the Israeli Mossad) which used Hebrew letters as a code and was fast! In 1829, a New York Illuminati meeting was addressed by a British Illuminist named Wright. He informed those present that Atheist groups were to be united with Russian Nihilist and other subversive groups into an international movement called "Communism" which would be used to foment wars. "Clinton Roosevelt (a direct ancestor of FDR)...." and others were appointed to raise funds which "... financed Karl Marx and Engels when they wrote 'Das Capital, and the 'Communist Manifesto, in Soho, England." (Pawns In The Game", page XIV) Wellington's attacks from the south, and other defeats, eventually forced Napoleon to abdicate. Louis XVIII was crowned King and Napoleon was exiled from France to Elba, a tiny island off the coast of Italy, supposedly for ever.

For both sides of a war to be loaned money from the same privately owned Central Bank is not unusual. Nothing generates debt like war. A Nation will borrow any amount to win. So naturally if the loser is kept going to the last straw in a vain hope of winning, then the more resources will be used up by the winning side before their victory is obtained more resources used, more loans taken out, more money made by the Bankers; and even more amazing, the loans are usually given on condition that the victor pays the debts left by the loser. In 1803, instead of borrowing from the bank, Napoleon sold territory west of the Mississippi to the 3rd President of the United States, Thomas Jefferson for 3 million dollars in gold; a deal known as the Louisiana Purchase. Three million dollars richer, Napoleon quickly gathered together an army and set about conquering much of Europe. Each place he went to, Napoleon found his opposition being financed by the Bank of England, making huge profits as Prussia, Austria and finally Russia all went heavily into debt trying to stop him. Four years later, with the main French army in Russia, Nathan Rothschild took charge of a bold plan to smuggle a shipment of gold through France to finance an attack by the Duke of Wellington from Spain. Wellington's attack from the south and other defeats eventually forced Napoleon to abdicate. He was exiled to Elba, an Island off the coast of Italy. However in 1815 he escaped from exile and returned to Paris. The French soldiers sent out to capture him instead, rallied round their old leader. By March of that year Napoleon had equipped an army with the help of borrowed money from the Eubard Banking House of Paris. With 74,000 French troops led by Napoleon, sizing up to meet 67,000 British and other European Troops 200 miles NE of Paris on June 18th 1815, it was a difficult one to call. Back in London, the real potential winner, Nathan Rothschild, was poised to strike in a bold plan to take control of the British stock market, the bond market, and possibly even the Bank of England.

Nathan, knowing that information is power, stationed his trusted agent named Rothworth near the battle field. As soon as the battle was over Rothworth quickly returned to London, delivering the news to Rothschild 24 hours ahead of Wellington's courier. A victory by Napoleon would have devastated Britain's financial system. Nathan stationed himself in his usual place next to an ancient pillar in the stock market. This powerful man was not without observers as he hung his head, and began openly to sell huge numbers of British Government Bonds. Reading this to mean that Napoleon must have won, everyone started to sell their British Bonds as well. The bottom fell out of the market until you could hardly give them away. Meanwhile Rothschild began to secretly buy up all the hugely devalued bonds at a fraction of what they were worth a few hours before. In this way Nathan Rothschild captured more in one afternoon than the combined forces of Napoleon and Wellington had captured in their entire lifetime. The 19th century became known as the age of the Rothschild's when it was estimated they controlled half of the World's wealth. While their wealth continues to increase today, they have managed to blend into the background, giving an impression that their power has waned. They only apply the Rothschild name to a small fraction of the companies they actually control. Some authors claim that the Rothschild's had not only taken over the Bank of England but they had also in 1816 backed a new privately owned Central Bank in America called The Second Bank of The United States, causing huge problems to the American president.

As Napoleon pointed out: "Terrorism, War & Bankruptcy are caused by the privatization of money, issued as a debt and compounded by interest "- he cancelled debt and interest in France - hence the Battle of Waterloo.

Demise Of The First Bank Of The United States And The War Of 1812

While Napoleon was in exile, temporarily defeated by England with the financial help of the Rothschilds, America was trying to break free of its central bank as well. In 1811, a bill was put before Congress to renew the charter of the Bank of the United States. The debate grew very heated and the legislature of both Pennsylvania and Virginia passed resolutions asking Congress to kill the bank. The press corps of the day attacked the bank openly, calling it "a great swindle", a "vulture", a "viper", and a "cobra". Oh, to have an independent press again in America. Prospects didn't look good for the bank. Some writers have claimed that Nathan Rothschild "warned that the United States would find itself involved in a most disastrous war if the bank's charter were not renewed." (do you see the similarities here? If you don't play the game an economic disaster will fall on you and you will be destroyed. Well, the brave, little Malaysia proved them wrong.) But it wasn't enough. When the smoke had cleared, the renewal bill was defeated by a single vote in the House and was deadlocked in the Senate. By now, America's fourth President, James Madison, was in the White House. Remember that Madison was a staunch opponent of the bank. His Vice President, George Clinton, broke a tie in the Senate and sent the First Bank of the United States-the second privately owned central bank based in America-into oblivion. Thus, the Third American Bank War, lasting 20 years, ended in defeat for the Money Changers. Within five months, as Rothschild was said to have predicted, England attacked the United States and the War of 1812 was on. But the British were still busy fighting Napoleon, and so the War of 1812 ended in a draw in 1814. It is interesting to note that, during this war, the US Treasury printed some government paper money, not bearing interest, to fund the war effort-an act not repeated until the Civil War. Though the Money Changers were temporarily down, they were far from Out. It would take them only another two years to bring in a fourth private central bank, bigger and stronger than before.

The Battle Of Waterloo, 1815

But now, let's return for a moment to Napoleon. This episode aptly demonstrates the cunning of the Rothschild family in gaining control of the British stock market after Waterloo. In 1815, a year after the end of the War of 1812, Napoleon escaped his exile and resumed to Paris. French troops were sent out to capture him, but such was his charisma that the soldiers rallied around their old leader and hailed him as their Emperor once again. Napoleon returned to Paris a hero. King Louis fled in to exile and Napoleon again ascended the French throne-this time without a shot being fired. In March 1815, Napoleon equipped an army which Britain's Duke of Wellington defeated less than 90 days later at Waterloo. He borrowed five million pounds from the Ouvard banking house in Paris in order to re-arm. Nevertheless, from about this point on, it was not unusual for privately controlled central banks to finance both sides in a war. Why would a central bank finance opposing sides in a war? Because war is the biggest debt-generator of them all. A nation will borrow any amount for victory. The ultimate loser is lent just enough to hold out the vain hope of victory, and the ultimate winner is given enough to win. Besides, such loans are usually conditional upon the guarantee that the victor will honour the debts of the vanquished. Only the bankers cannot lose.

The site of the Waterloo battlefield is about 200 miles north-east of Paris, in what today is Belgium. There, Napoleon suffered his final defeat, but not before thousands of Frenchmen and Englishmen gave their lives on a steamy summer day in June 1815. On that day, 18 June, 74,000 French troops met 67,000 troops from Britain and other European nations. The outcome was certainly in doubt. In fact, had Napoleon attacked a few hours earlier, he would probably have won the battle. But no matter who won or lost, back in London Nathan Rothschild planned to use the opportunity to try to seize control over the British stock-and-bond market. The Rothschilds hotly dispute the following account. Rothschild stationed a trustee agent, a man named Rothworth, on the north side of the battlefield, closer to the English Channel. Once the battle had been decided, Rothworth took off for the Channel. He delivered the news to Nathan Rothschild full 24 hours before Wellington's own courier. Rothschild hurried to the stock market and took up his usual position in front of an ancient pillar. All eyes were on him. The Rothschilds had a legendary communication network.

If Wellington had been defeated and Napoleon were loose on the Continent again, Britain's financial situation would become grave indeed. Rothschild looked saddened. He stood there motionless, eyes downcast. Then, suddenly, he began selling. Other nervous investors saw that Rothschild was selling. It could only mean one thing: Napoleon must have won; Wellington must have been defeated. The market plummeted. Soon, everyone was selling their consols - their British government bonds and other stocks-and prices dropped. Then Rothschild and his financial allies started secretly buying through agents. Myths, legends, you say? One hundred years later, the New York Times ran a story which said that Nathan Rothschild's grandson had attempted to secure a court order to suppress a book containing this stock market story. The Rothschild family claimed the story was untrue and libelous, but the court denied the Rothschilds' request and ordered the family to pay all court costs.

What's even more interesting about this story is that some authors claim that the day after the Battle of Waterloo, in a matter of hours, Nathan Rothschild and allied financial interests came to dominate not only the bond market but the Bank of England as well. (An interesting feature of some consols was that they were convertible to Bank of England stock.) Intermarriage with the Montefiores, Cohens and Goldsmiths-banking families established in England in the century before the Rothschilds-enhanced the Rothschilds' financial control. This control was further consolidated through the passage of Peel's Bank Charter Act of 1844. Whether or not the Rothschild family and their financial allies seized outright control of the Bank of England (the first privately owned central bank in a major European nation, and the wealthiest) in this manner, one thing is certain: by the mid-1800s, the Rothschilds were the richest family in the World, bar none. They dominated the new government bond markets and branched into other banks and industrial concerns Worldwide. They also dominated a constellation of secondary, lesser families, such as the Warburgs, Sachs' and Schiffs, who allied their own vast wealth with that of the Rothschilds. In fact, the rest of the 19th century was known as the "Age of Rothschild". One author, Ignatius Balla, estimated their personal wealth in 1913 at over two billion dollars. Keep in mind, the purchasing power of the dollar was over 1,000 per cent greater then than now. Despite this overwhelming wealth, the family has generally cultivated an aura of invisibility. Although the family controls scores of banking, industrial, commercial, mining and tourist corporations, only a handful bear the Rothschild name. By the end of the 19th century, one expert estimated that the Rothschild family controlled half the wealth of the World.

Whatever the extent of their vast wealth, it is reasonable to assume that their percentage of the World's wealth has increased dramatically since then, as power begets power and the appetite therefore. But since the turn of the century, the Rothschilds have carefully cultivated the notion that their power has somehow waned, even as their wealth and that of their financial allies increases and hence their control of banks, debt-captive corporations, the media, politicians and nations, all through surrogates, agents, nominees and interlocking directorates, obscuring their role.

The Irish Potato Famine (1845)

David Kynaston: "The City of London, 1815-1890", 1994: William Huskisson was the "key figure" in calling for a return to Cash payments ie gold in 1818, i.e. paper currency notes are "I owe you" and not cash. Ricardo supported him with an attack on the "greed" of the Bank of England which was primarily owned by the Rothschilds.

Nathan Rothschild said to the Commons Secret Committee on the question early in 1819: "In what line of business are you? - Mostly in the foreign banking line. "Have the goodness to state to the Committee in detail, what you conceive would be the consequence of an obligation imposed upon the Bank [of England, which he owned] to resume cash payments at the expiration of a year from the present time? - I do not think it can be done without very great distress to this country; it would do a great deal of mischief; we may not actually know ourselves what mischief it might cause. "Have the goodness to explain the nature of the mischief, and in what way it would be produced? - Money will be so very scarce, every article in this country will fall to such an enormous extent, that many persons will be ruined."

Of course, the Bank of England was running on the fractional reserve system which creates money without any assets, i.e. from nothing, the biggest fraud on Earth from which the Rothschild's were profiting immensely. Robert Owen supported him. However, on 25th May, urged on by Lord Liverpool and Robert Peel, the House of Commons voted unanimously to return to gold. In June it was law that by 1823 the country would be back on the gold standard. Also, since Ireland had no gold, it was condemned to the Potato Famine and "North and South" described its consequences to the North-West. When people speak of "The Irish potato famine", or "an Gorta Mor", (pronounced, 'on gore-ta more') they nearly always mean the one of the 1840s, even though a similar Great Famine in fact hit in the early eighteenth century. Another source of information is Sir John Clapham's "Bank of England", 1944. The Official History.

Captain Wynne, Inspecting Officer, West Clare, 1846: "I ventured through that parish this day, to ascertain the condition of the inhabitants, and although a man not easily moved, I confess myself unmanned by the extent and intensity of suffering I witnessed, more especially among the women and little children, crowds of whom were to be seen scattered over the turnip fields, like a flock of famished crows, devouring the raw turnips, and mostly half naked, shivering in the snow and sleet, uttering exclamations of despair, whilst their children were screaming with hunger. I am a match for anything else I may meet with here, but this I cannot stand."

Note that at this time, Irish were forbidden to speak their language, to practice their faith, to attend school, to hold a public office, to hold certain jobs, to own land, or to. In 1846, the British government repealed the "Corn Laws" to open "free trade" in agriculture. This further increased Ireland's potato famine (Timeline of important dates in the history of Anglo-American oil politics, from A Century of War by F. William Engdahl 1992, Böttiger Verlags-GmbH, pp. 255-264). Also, a fungus that destroyed much of the potato crop hit Ireland making things worse. The 1840s Irish Potato Famine was the culmination of a social, biological, political and economic catastrophe, caused by both Irish and British factors, which would have had sharp and lasting influence on the World. The Famine was at least fifty years in the making, due the disastrous balance between British economic policy, destructive farming methods, and the unfortunate appearance of "the Blight" —the potato fungus that almost instantly destroyed the major food source for the majority population. The net result was that the Irish population on the island was reduced by almost a third. One Million died in Ireland alone....On September 9, 1845, the Irish newspapers first reported the potato blight. When a fungus Phytophthora infestans destroyed, the potato crop, a million starved and tow million survivors left the island, many destined for America, Britain, the United States, Canada and Australia (see the Irish Diaspora). By 1850, the Irish made up a quarter of the population in Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. "Famine fever"--cholera, dysentery, scurvy, typhus, and infestations of lice--soon spread through the Irish countryside. Racial and Religious persecution resulted in a legal system that took away the rights of Irish Catholics to own property creating a de facto slave class. Excessively large tracts of prime land had been granted by Britain to British lords, effectively forcing the indigenous Irish farming community to rent back and work the land their forefathers had worked for generations before them. This act of oppression led to cheap labour and increased revenue for 'absentee' British landlords, some of whom managed their affairs very badly, and cared little for the plight of their 'tenants'. The increased pressure on the native Irish meant long hard toil, and bare subsistence living. Traditional methods of supplementing the diet, such as game hunting and fishing often resulted in imprisonment and deportation to other parts of the British colonies (notably Australia and Tasmania), because the land and the wildlife thereon now belonged to the British landlords. Excessive rents often led to massive evictions and compounded the problems, with many Irish families left homeless.

British residents of the island had no trouble obtaining sufficient food. Thousands of bushels of grain and thousands of head of livestock were forcibly exported by Ireland to England during the famine with the help of British troops. The British "charity" workhouses were predatory attempts to obtain slave labor from people too desperate to seek better employment. The Irish underclass' dependence on potatoes was a result of not permitting Irish Catholics to obtain gainful employment or invest in any significant storehouse of wealth such as real property or joint stock corporations. Without savings, the Irish were forced to grow the majority of their own food for families that average a size of 6 on a single acre while still producing enough of a cash crop to pay the rent owed to their British landlords. Potatoes were the only crop that could produce sufficient calories on such small plots in the Irish climate. The British were far more concerned with the potential loss of rents to their British subjects on the island than the loss of life among Catholics. Depopulating Ireland improved the financial stature of England by increasing the island's ability to export high value crops and foodstuffs to London. There was no shortage of food on the island during the years of the Famine except that which was created by shipping foodstuffs for the benefit of rich British landowners. A disastrous Gregory Clause of the Poor Law Extension Act was introduced, limiting aid to those who owned less than one quarter of an acre (1,000 m?) of land. This forced poverty-stricken starving tenants either to give up their homes and land, and so become destitute after the famine, or hold on to them and risk starvation. Thousands of Irish were buried without coffins because there was not enough money to pay for the lumber. The landowners who demanded rents from starving people who had no legal rights to own or sell anything except food did not even have the grace to pay for boxes to bury the children of those who starved after being evicted. Irish emigrants to America were now sending money back home by drafts and cash.

If Irish nationalism was dormant for the first half of the nineteenth-century, the Famine convinced Irish citizens and Irish-Americans of the urgent need for political change. Each time the rebellion was put down savagely, and each time further measures were taken to keep the Irish in submission, which merely strengthened Irishmen in their hatred for England, contempt for the law, and willingness to go to any lengths to get revenge or independence. The Irish parliament had been hamstrung since the end of the fifteenth century by Poynings' Law, which gave the English Parliament power to legislate for Ireland, no matter what the Irish parliament had done. Irish linen manufacturing met with the same fate when the Irish were forbidden to export their product to all other countries except England. The time of the Potato Famine coincided with the era of Pax Britannica between the Congress of Vienna (after the defeat of Napoleon) and the Franco-Prussian War. Britain then reaped the benefits of being the World's sole modern, industrial nation. Following the defeat of Napoleon, Britain was the "workshop of the World", meaning that its finished goods were produced so efficiently and cheaply that they could usually undersell comparable, locally manufactured goods in other markets. The notable difference between the Famine and other humanitarian crises was that it occurred so apparently close to the imperial homeland, at a time well into the modern prosperity of the Victorian and Industrial age. Even today, such crises tend to be far away from centers of power such that the subjects of empire, almost by definition, are of distant cultures, languages and religious beliefs. Within the imperial culture, the reportage of a crisis among its subjects more often uses dismissive and dehumanizing terms, and treats otherwise urgent matters with little relevancy or interest. The Great Famine however represents a rare example of "imperial treatment" towards a people so apparently similar, according to the apparent common criteria. Although human suffering during the Great Famine itself was never photographed, it immediately and profoundly altered the course of generations of Irish and Irish Diaspora —for whom history has a rich record.

President Andrew Jackson's Veto of the Bank of the United States; July 10, 1832

It is important to note that until the 1830's, newspapers served the elite - the wealthy and the well educated. Most newspapers cost six cents a copy and emphasized serious articles about business, politics, and foreign affairs. Because the newspapers were so expensive (and dull), they attracted only a few thousand readers. The masses were in the dark. Then, with the advent of cheap newspapers owned by the elite, the masses were manipulated easily. When the American congress voted to renew the charter of The Second Bank of The United States, Jackson responded by using his veto to prevent the renewal bill from passing. His response gives us an interesting insight. "It is not our own citizens only who are to receive the bounty of our government. More than eight millions of the stock of this bank are held by foreigners... is there no danger to our liberty and independence in a bank that in its nature has so little to bind it to our country?... Controlling our currency, receiving our public moneys, and holding thousands of our citizens in dependence... would be more formidable and dangerous than a military power of the enemy. If government would confine itself to equal protection, and, as Heaven does its rains, shower its favour alike on the high and the low, the rich and the poor, it would be an unqualified blessing. In the act before me there seems to be a wide and unnecessary departure from these just principles." President Andrew Jackson. In 1832 Jackson ordered the withdrawal of government deposits from the Second bank and instead had them put into safe banks.

Nicholas Biddle: "This worthy president thinks that because he has scalped Indians imprisoned Judges, he is to have his way with the Bank. He is mistaken."

The Second Banks head, Nicholas Biddle was quite candid about the power and intention of the bank when he openly threatened to cause a depression if the bank was not re-chartered, we quote. "Nothing but widespread suffering will produce any effect on Congress... Our only safety is in pursuing a steady course of firm restriction - and I have no doubt that such a course will ultimately lead to restoration of the currency and the re-charter of the bank."

By calling in existing loans and refusing to issue new loans he did cause a massive depression, but in 1836 when the charter ran out, the Second Bank ceased to function. When asked what he felt was the greatest achievement of his career President Andrew Jackson replied without hesitation "I killed the bank!" However we will see this was not the end of private financial influence passing itself off as official when we look at. William Henry Harrison, was killed by being poisoned, in 1841, a month after being inaugurated as President because he continued the policies of Jackson. U.S. Senator Thomas Benton in his book stated as to President Harrison, "that the deceased President had been closely preceded and was rapidly followed by the deaths of almost all of his numerous family, sons and daughters." Only one of President Harrison's eight children, a son, was permitted to live. "Thirty Years' View From 1820-1850" by Thomas Benton. When the 1816 charter expired in 1836, President Andrew Jackson vetoed its renewal. It was then that he made two famous statements: "The Bank is trying to kill me - but I will kill it!" Later he said "If the American people only understood the rank injustice of our money and banking system - there would be a revolution before morning..."

WASHINGTON, July 10, 1832. To the Senate: The bill "to modify and continue" the act entitled "An act to incorporate the subscribers to the Bank of the United States" was presented to me on the 4th July instant. Having considered it with that solemn regard to the principles of the Constitution which the day was calculated to inspire, and come to the conclusion that it ought not to become a law, I herewith return it to the Senate, in which it originated, with my objections. A bank of the United States is in many respects convenient for the Government and useful to the people. Entertaining this opinion, and deeply impressed with the belief that some of the powers and privileges possessed by the existing bank are unauthorized by the Constitution, subversive of the rights of the States, and dangerous to the liberties of the people, I felt it my duty at an early period of my Administration to call the attention of Congress to the practicability of organizing an institution combining all its advantages and obviating these objections. I sincerely regret that in the act before me I can perceive none of those modifications of the bank charter which are necessary, in my opinion, to make it compatible with justice, with sound policy, or with the Constitution of our country. The present corporate body, denominated the president, directors, and company of the Bank of the United States, will have existed at the time this act is intended to take effect twenty years. It enjoys an exclusive privilege of banking under the authority of the General Government, a monopoly of its favor and support, and, as a necessary consequence, almost a monopoly of the foreign and domestic exchange. The powers, privileges, and favors bestowed upon it in the original charter, by increasing the value of the stock far above its par value, operated as a gratuity of many millions to the stockholders.

An apology may be found for the failure to guard against this result in the consideration that the effect of the original act of incorporation could not be certainly foreseen at the time of its passage. The act before me proposes another gratuity to the holders of the same stock, and in many cases to the same men, of at least seven millions more. This donation finds no apology in any uncertainty as to the effect of the act. On all hands it is conceded that its passage will increase at least so or 30 per cent more the market price of the stock, subject to the payment of the annuity of $200,000 per year secured by the act, thus adding in a moment one-fourth to its par value. It is not our own citizens only who are to receive the bounty of our Government. More than eight millions of the stock of this bank are held by foreigners. By this act the American Republic proposes virtually to make them a present of some millions of dollars. For these gratuities to foreigners and to some of our own opulent citizens the act secures no equivalent whatever. They are the certain gains of the present stockholders under the operation of this act, after making full allowance for the payment of the bonus. Every monopoly and all exclusive privileges are granted at the expense of the public, which ought to receive a fair equivalent. The many millions which this act proposes to bestow on the stockholders of the existing bank must come directly or indirectly out of the earnings of the American people. It is due to them, therefore, if their Government sells monopolies and exclusive privileges, that they should at least exact for them as much as they are worth in open market. The value of the monopoly in this case may be correctly ascertained. The twenty-eight millions of stock would probably be at an advance of 50 per cent, and command in market at least $42,000,000, subject to the payment of the present bonus. The present value of the monopoly, therefore, is $17,000,000, and this the act proposes to sell for three millions, payable in fifteen annual installments of $200,000 each.

It is not conceivable how the present stockholders can have any claim to the special favor of the Government. The present corporation has enjoyed its monopoly during the period stipulated in the original contract. If we must have such a corporation, why should not the Government sell out the whole stock and thus secure to the people the full market value of the privileges granted? Why should not Congress create and sell twenty-eight millions of stock, incorporating the purchasers with all the powers and privileges secured in this act and putting the premium upon the sales into the Treasury? But this act does not permit competition in the purchase of this monopoly. It seems to be predicated on the erroneous idea that the present stockholders have a prescriptive right not only to the favor but to the bounty of Government. It appears that more than a fourth part of the stock is held by foreigners and the residue is held by a few hundred of our own citizens, chiefly of the richest class. For their benefit does this act exclude the whole American people from competition in the purchase of this monopoly and dispose of it for many millions less than it is worth. This seems the less excusable because some of our citizens not now stockholders petitioned that the door of competition might be opened, and offered to take a charter on terms much more favorable to the Government and country.

But this proposition, although made by men whose aggregate wealth is believed to be equal to all the private stock in the existing bank, has been set aside, and the bounty of our Government is proposed to be again bestowed on the few who have been fortunate enough to secure the stock and at this moment wield the power of the existing institution. I can not perceive the justice or policy of this course. If our Government must sell monopolies, it would seem to be its duty to take nothing less than their full value, and if gratuities must be made once in fifteen or twenty years let them not be bestowed on the subjects of a foreign government nor upon a designated and favored class of men in our own country. It is but justice and good policy, as far as the nature of the case will admit, to confine our favors to our own fellow-citizens, and let each in his turn enjoy an opportunity to profit by our bounty. In the bearings of the act before me upon these points I find ample reasons why it should not become a law. It has been urged as an argument in favor of rechartering the present bank that the calling in its loans will produce great embarrassment and distress. The time allowed to close its concerns is ample, and if it has been well managed its pressure will be light, and heavy only in case its management has been bad. If, therefore, it shall produce distress, the fault will be its own, and it would furnish a reason against renewing a power which has been so obviously abused. But will there ever be a time when this reason will be less powerful? To acknowledge its force is to admit that the bank ought to be perpetual, and as a consequence the present stockholders and those inheriting their rights as successors be established a privileged order, clothed both with great political power and enjoying immense pecuniary advantages from their connection with the Government. The modifications of the existing charter proposed by this act are not such, in my view, as make it consistent with the rights of the States or the liberties of the people. The qualification of the right of the bank to hold real estate, the limitation of its power to establish branches, and the power reserved to Congress to forbid the circulation of small notes are restrictions comparatively of little value or importance. All the objectionable principles of the existing corporation, and most of its odious features, are retained without alleviation.

The fourth section provides " that the notes or bills of the said corporation, although the same be, on the faces thereof, respectively made payable at one place only, shall nevertheless be received by the said corporation at the bank or at any of the offices of discount and deposit thereof if tendered in liquidation or payment of any balance or balances due to said corporation or to such office of discount and deposit from any other incorporated bank." This provision secures to the State banks a legal privilege in the Bank of the United States which is withheld from all private citizens. If a State bank in Philadelphia owe the Bank of the United States and have notes issued by the St. Louis branch, it can pay the debt with those notes, but if a merchant, mechanic, or other private citizen be in like circumstances he can not by law pay his debt with those notes, but must sell them at a discount or send them to St. Louis to be cashed. This boon conceded to the State banks, though not unjust in itself, is most odious because it does not measure out equal justice to the high and the low, the rich and the poor. To the extent of its practical effect it is a bond of union among the banking establishments of the nation, erecting them into an interest separate from that of the people, and its necessary tendency is to unite the Bank of the United States and the State banks in any measure which may be thought conducive to their common interest.

The ninth section of the act recognizes principles of worse tendency than any provision of the present charter. It enacts that " the cashier of the bank shall annually report to the Secretary of the Treasury the names of all stockholders who are not resident citizens of the United States, and on the application of the treasurer of any State shall make out and transmit to such treasurer a list of stockholders residing in or citizens of such State, with the amount of stock owned by each." Although this provision, taken in connection with a decision of the Supreme Court, surrenders, by its silence, the right of the States to tax the banking institutions created by this corporation under the name of branches throughout the Union, it is evidently intended to be construed as a concession of their right to tax that portion of the stock which may be held by their own citizens and residents. In this light, if the act becomes a law, it will be understood by the States, who will probably proceed to levy a tax equal to that paid upon the stock of banks incorporated by themselves. In some States that tax is now 1 per cent, either on the capital or on the shares, and that may be assumed as the amount which all citizen or resident stockholders would be taxed under the operation of this act. As it is only the stock held in the States and not that employed within them which would be subject to taxation, and as the names of foreign stockholders are not to be reported to the treasurers of the States, it is obvious that the stock held by them will be exempt from this burden. Their annual profits will therefore be 1 per cent more than the citizen stockholders, and as the annual dividends of the bank may be safely estimated at 7 per cent, the stock will be worth 10 or 15 per cent more to foreigners than to citizens of the United States. To appreciate the effects which this state of things will produce, we must take a brief review of the operations and present condition of the Bank of the United States.

By documents submitted to Congress at the present session it appears that on the 1st of January, 1832, of the twenty-eight millions of private stock in the corporation, $8,405,500 were held by foreigners, mostly of Great Britain. The amount of stock held in the nine Western and Southwestern States is $140,200, and in the four Southern States is $5,623,100, and in the Middle and Eastern States is about $13,522,000. The profits of the bank in 1831, as shown in a statement to Congress, were about $3,455,598; of this there accrued in the nine western States about $1,640,048; in the four Southern States about $352,507, and in the Middle and Eastern States about $1,463,041. As little stock is held in the West, it is obvious that the debt of the people in that section to the bank is principally a debt to the Eastern and foreign stockholders; that the interest they pay upon it is carried into the Eastern States and into Europe, and that it is a burden upon their industry and a drain of their currency, which no country can bear without inconvenience and occasional distress. To meet this burden and equalize the exchange operations of the bank, the amount of specie drawn from those States through its branches within the last two years, as shown by its official reports, was about $6,000,000. More than half a million of this amount does not stop in the Eastern States, but passes on to Europe to pay the dividends of the foreign stockholders. In the principle of taxation recognized by this act the Western States find no adequate compensation for this perpetual burden on their industry and drain of their currency. The branch bank at Mobile made last year $95,140, yet under the provisions of this act the State of Alabama can raise no revenue from these profitable operations, because not a share of the stock is held by any of her citizens. Mississippi and Missouri are in the same condition in relation to the branches at Natchez and St. Louis, and such, in a greater or less degree, is the condition of every Western State. The tendency of the plan of taxation which this act proposes will be to place the whole United States in the same relation to foreign countries which the Western States now bear to the Eastern. When by a tax on resident stockholders the stock of this bank is made worth 10 or 15 per cent more to foreigners than to residents, most of it will inevitably leave the country.

Thus will this provision in its practical effect deprive the Eastern as well as the Southern and Western States of the means of raising a revenue from the extension of business and great profits of this institution. It will make the American people debtors to aliens in nearly the whole amount due to this bank, and send across the Atlantic from two to five millions of specie every year to pay the bank dividends. In another of its bearings this provision is fraught with danger. Of the twenty-five directors of this bank five are chosen by the Government and twenty by the citizen stockholders. From all voice in these elections the foreign stockholders are excluded by the charter. In proportion, therefore, as the stock is transferred to foreign holders the extent of suffrage in the choice of directors is curtailed. Already is almost a third of the stock in foreign hands and not represented in elections. It is constantly passing out of the country, and this act will accelerate its departure. The entire control of the institution would necessarily fall into the hands of a few citizen stockholders, and the ease with which the object would be accomplished would be a temptation to designing men to secure that control in their own hands by monopolizing the remaining stock. There is danger that a president and directors would then be able to elect themselves from year to year, and without responsibility or control manage the whole concerns of the bank during the existence of its charter. It is easy to conceive that great evils to our country and its institutions millet flow from such a concentration of power in the hands of a few men irresponsible to the people.

Is there no danger to our liberty and independence in a bank that in its nature has so little to bind it to our country? The president of the bank has told us that most of the State banks exist by its forbearance. Should its influence become concentrated, as it may under the operation of such an act as this, in the hands of a self-elected directory whose interests are identified with those of the foreign stockholders, will there not be cause to tremble for the purity of our elections in peace and for the independence of our country in war? Their power would be great whenever they might choose to exert it; but if this monopoly were regularly renewed every fifteen or twenty years on terms proposed by themselves, they might seldom in peace put forth their strength to influence elections or control the affairs of the nation. But if any private citizen or public functionary should interpose to curtail its powers or prevent a renewal of its privileges, it can not be doubted that he would be made to feel its influence.

Should the stock of the bank principally pass into the hands of the subjects of a foreign country, and we should unfortunately become involved in a war with that country, what would be our condition? Of the course which would be pursued by a bank almost wholly owned by the subjects of a foreign power, and managed by those whose interests, if not affections, would run in the same direction there can be no doubt. All its operations within would be in aid of the hostile fleets and armies without. Controlling our currency, receiving our public moneys, and holding thousands of our citizens in dependence, it would be more formidable and dangerous than the naval and military power of the enemy. If we must have a bank with private stockholders, every consideration of sound policy and every impulse of American feeling admonishes that it should be purely American. Its stockholders should be composed exclusively of our own citizens, who at least ought to be friendly to our Government and willing to support it in times of difficulty and danger. So abundant is domestic capital that competition in subscribing for the stock of local banks has recently led almost to riots. To a bank exclusively of American stockholders, possessing the powers and privileges granted by this act, subscriptions for $200,000,000 could be readily obtained. Instead of sending abroad the stock of the bank in which the Government must deposit its funds and on which it must rely to sustain its credit in times of emergency, it would rather seem to be expedient to prohibit its sale to aliens under penalty of absolute forfeiture.

It is maintained by the advocates of the bank that its constitutionality in all its features ought to be considered as settled by precedent and by the decision of the Supreme Court. To this conclusion I can not assent. Mere precedent is a dangerous source of authority, and should not be regarded as deciding questions of constitutional power except where the acquiescence of the people and the States can be considered as well settled. So far from this being the case on this subject, an argument against the bank might be based on precedent. One Congress, in 1791, decided in favor of a bank; another, in 1811, decided against it. One Congress, in 1815, decided against a bank; another, in 1816, decided in its favor. Prior to the present Congress, therefore, the precedents drawn from that source were equal. If we resort to the States, the expressions of legislative, judicial, and executive opinions against the bank have been probably to those in its favor as 4 to 1. There is nothing in precedent, therefore, which, if its authority were admitted, ought to weigh in favor of the act before me. If the opinion of the Supreme Court covered the whole ground of this act, it ought not to control the coordinate authorities of this Government. The Congress, the Executive, and the Court must each for itself be guided by its own opinion of the Constitution. Each public officer who takes an oath to support the Constitution swears that he will support it as he understands it, and not as it is understood by others. It is as much the duty of the House of Representatives, of the Senate, and of the President to decide upon the constitutionality of any bill or resolution which may be presented to them for passage or approval as it is of the supreme judges when it may be brought before them for judicial decision. The opinion of the judges has no more authority over Congress than the opinion of Congress has over the judges, and on that point the President is independent of both. The authority of the Supreme Court must not, therefore, be permitted to control the Congress or the Executive when acting in their legislative capacities, but to have only such influence as the force of their reasoning may deserve.

But in the case relied upon the Supreme Court have not decided that all the features of this corporation are compatible with the Constitution. It is true that the court have said that the law incorporating the bank is a constitutional exercise of power by Congress; but taking into view the whole opinion of the court and the reasoning by which they have come to that conclusion, I understand them to have decided that inasmuch as a bank is an appropriate means for carrying into effect the enumerated powers of the General Government, therefore the law incorporating it is in accordance with that provision of the Constitution which declares that Congress shall have power "to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying those powers into execution." Having satisfied themselves that the word "necessary" in the Constitution means needful," "requisite," "essential," "conducive to," and that "a bank" is a convenient, a useful, and essential instrument in the prosecution of the Government's "fiscal operations," they conclude that to "use one must be within the discretion of Congress" and that "the act to incorporate the Bank of the United States is a law made in pursuance of the Constitution;" "but," say they, "where the law is not prohibited and is really calculated to effect any of the objects entrusted to the Government, to undertake here to inquire into the degree of its necessity would be to pass the line which circumscribes the judicial department and to tread on legislative ground."

The principle here affirmed is that the "degree of its necessity," involving all the details of a banking institution, is a question exclusively for legislative consideration. A bank is constitutional, but it is the province of the Legislature to determine whether this or that particular power, privilege, or exemption is "necessary and proper" to enable the bank to discharge its duties to the Government, and from their decision there is no appeal to the courts of justice. Under the decision of the Supreme Court, therefore, it is the exclusive province of Congress and the President to decide whether the particular features of this act are necessary and proper in order to enable the bank to perform conveniently and efficiently the public duties assigned to it as a fiscal agent, and therefore constitutional, or unnecessary and improper, and therefore unconstitutional. Without commenting on the general principle affirmed by the Supreme Court, let us examine the details of this act in accordance with the rule of legislative action which they have laid down. It will be found that many of the powers and privileges conferred on it can not be supposed necessary for the purpose for which it is proposed to be created, and are not, therefore, means necessary to attain the end in view, and consequently not justified by the Constitution. The original act of incorporation, section 21, enacts "that no other bank shall be established by any future law of the United States during the continuance of the corporation hereby created, for which the faith of the United States is hereby pledged: Provided, Congress may renew existing charters for banks within the District of Columbia not increasing the capital thereof, and may also establish any other bank or banks in said District with capitals not exceeding in the whole $6,000,000 if they shall deem it expedient." This provision is continued in force by the act before me fifteen years from the ad of March, 1836.

If Congress possessed the power to establish one bank, they had power to establish more than one if in their opinion two or more banks had been "necessary" to facilitate the execution of the powers delegated to them in the Constitution. If they possessed the power to establish a second bank, it was a power derived from the Constitution to be exercised from time to time, and at any time when the interests of the country or the emergencies of the Government might make it expedient. It was possessed by one Congress as well as another, and by all Congresses alike, and alike at every session. But the Congress of 1816 have taken it away from their successors for twenty years, and the Congress of 1832 proposes to abolish it for fifteen years more. It can not be "necessary" or "proper" for Congress to barter away or divest themselves of any of the powers-vested in them by the Constitution to be exercised for the public good. It is not "necessary" to the efficiency of the bank, nor is it "proper" in relation to themselves and their successors. They may properly use the discretion vested in them, but they may not limit the discretion of their successors. This restriction on themselves and grant of a monopoly to the bank is therefore unconstitutional. In another point of view this provision is a palpable attempt to amend the Constitution by an act of legislation. The Constitution declares that "the Congress shall have power to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever" over the District of Columbia. Its constitutional power, therefore, to establish banks in the District of Columbia and increase their capital at will is unlimited and uncontrollable by any other power than that which gave authority to the Constitution. Yet this act declares that Congress shall not increase the capital of existing banks, nor create other banks with capitals exceeding in the whole $6,000,000. The Constitution declares that Congress shall have power to exercise exclusive legislation over this District "in all cases whatsoever," and this act declares they shall not. Which is the supreme law of the land? This provision can not be "necessary" or "proper" or constitutional unless the absurdity be admitted that whenever it be "necessary and proper" in the opinion of Congress they have a right to barter away one portion of the powers vested in them by the Constitution as a means of executing the rest.

On two subjects only does the Constitution recognize in Congress the power to grant exclusive privileges or monopolies. It declares that "Congress shall have power to promote the progress of science and useful arts by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries." Out of this express delegation of power have grown our laws of patents and copyrights. As the Constitution expressly delegates to Congress the power to grant exclusive privileges in these cases as the means of executing the substantive power "to promote the progress of science and useful arts," it is consistent with the fair rules of construction to conclude that such a power was not intended to be granted as a means of accomplishing any other end. On every other subject which comes within the scope of Congressional power there is an ever-living discretion in the use of proper means, which can not be restricted or abolished without an amendment of the Constitution. Every act of Congress, therefore, which attempts by grants of monopolies or sale of exclusive privileges for a limited time, or a time without limit, to restrict or extinguish its own discretion in the choice of means to execute its delegated powers is equivalent to a legislative amendment of the Constitution, and palpably unconstitutional. This act authorizes and encourages transfers of its stock to foreigners and grants them an exemption from all State and national taxation. So far from being "necessary and proper" that the bank should possess this power to make it a safe and efficient agent of the Government in its fiscal operations, it is calculated to convert the Bank of the United States into a foreign bank, to impoverish our people in time of peace, to disseminate a foreign influence through every section of the Republic, and in war to endanger our independence.

The several States reserved the power at the formation of the Constitution to regulate and control titles and transfers of real property, and most, if not all, of them have laws disqualifying aliens from acquiring or holding lands within their limits. But this act, in disregard of the undoubted right of the States to prescribe such disqualifications, gives to aliens stockholders in this bank an interest and title, as members of the corporation, to all the real property it may acquire within any of the States of this Union. This privilege granted to aliens is not "necessary" to enable the bank to perform its public duties, nor in any sense "proper," because it is vitally subversive of the rights of the States. The Government of the United States have no constitutional power to purchase lands within the States except "for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings," and even for these objects only "by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be." By making themselves stockholders in the bank and granting to the corporation the power to purchase lands for other purposes they assume a power not granted in the Constitution and grant to others what they do not themselves possess. It is not necessary to the receiving, safe-keeping, or transmission of the funds of the Government that the bank should possess this power, and it is not proper that Congress should thus enlarge the powers delegated to them in the Constitution.

The old Bank of the United States possessed a capital of only $11,000,000, which was found fully sufficient to enable it with dispatch and safety to perform all the functions required of it by the Government. The capital of the present bank is $35,000,000-at least twenty-four more than experience has proved to be necessary to enable a bank to perform its public functions. The public debt which existed during the period of the old bank and on the establishment of the new has been nearly paid off, and our revenue will soon be reduced. This increase of capital is therefore not for public but for private purposes. The Government is the only "proper" judge where its agents should reside and keep their offices, because it best knows where their presence will be "necessary." It can not, therefore, be "necessary" or "proper" to authorize the bank to locate branches where it pleases to perform the public service, without consulting the Government, and contrary to its will. The principle laid down by the Supreme Court concedes that Congress can not establish a bank for purposes of private speculation and gain, but only as a means of executing the delegated powers of the General Government. By the same principle a branch bank can not constitutionally be established for other than public purposes. The power which this act gives to establish two branches in any State, without the injunction or request of the Government and for other than public purposes, is not "necessary" to the due execution of the powers delegated to Congress.

The bonus which is exacted from the bank is a confession upon the face of the act that the powers granted by it are greater than are "necessary" to its character of a fiscal agent. The Government does not tax its officers and agents for the privilege of serving it. The bonus of a million and a half required by the original charter and that of three millions proposed by this act are not exacted for the privilege of giving "the necessary facilities for transferring the public funds from place to place within the United States or the Territories thereof, and for distributing the same in payment of the public creditors without charging commission or claiming allowance on account of the difference of exchange," as required by the act of incorporation, but for something more beneficial to the stockholders. The original act declares that it (the bonus) is granted "in consideration of the exclusive privileges and benefits conferred by this act upon the said bank," and the act before me declares it to be "in consideration of the exclusive benefits and privileges continued by this act to the said corporation for fifteen years, as aforesaid." It is therefore for "exclusive privileges and benefits" conferred for their own use and emolument, and not for the advantage of the Government, that a bonus is exacted. These surplus powers for which the bank is required to pay can not surely be "necessary" to make it the fiscal agent of the Treasury. If they were, the exaction of a bonus for them would not be "proper."

It is maintained by some that the bank is a means of executing the constitutional power "to coin money and regulate the value thereof." Congress have established a mint to coin money and passed laws to regulate the value thereof. The money so coined, with its value so regulated, and such foreign coins as Congress may adopt are the only currency known to the Constitution. But if they have other power to regulate the currency, it was conferred to be exercised by themselves, and not to be transferred to a corporation. If the bank be established for that purpose, with a charter unalterable without its consent, Congress have parted with their power for a term of years, during which the Constitution is a dead letter. It is neither necessary nor proper to transfer its legislative power to such a bank, and therefore unconstitutional.

By its silence, considered in connection with the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of McCulloch against the State of Maryland, this act takes from the States the power to tax a portion of the banking business carried on within their limits, in subversion of one of the strongest barriers which secured them against Federal encroachments. Banking, like farming, manufacturing, or any other occupation or profession, is a business, the right to follow which is not originally derived from the laws. Every citizen and every company of citizens in all of our States possessed the right until the State legislatures deemed it good policy to prohibit private banking by law. If the prohibitory State laws were now repealed, every citizen would again possess the right. The State banks are a qualified restoration of the right which has been taken away by the laws against banking, guarded by such provisions and limitations as in the opinion of the State legislatures the public interest requires. These corporations, unless there be an exemption in their charter, are, like private Bankers and banking companies, subject to State taxation. The manner in which these taxes shall be laid depends wholly on legislative discretion. It may be upon the bank, upon the stock, upon the profits, or in any other mode which the sovereign power shall will. Upon the formation of the Constitution the States guarded their taxing power with peculiar jealousy. They surrendered it only as it regards imports and exports. In relation to every other object within their jurisdiction, whether persons, property, business, or professions, it was secured in as ample a manner as it was before possessed. All persons, though United States officers, are liable to a poll tax by the States within which they reside. The lands of the United States are liable to the usual land tax, except in the new States, from whom agreements that they will not tax unsold lands are exacted when they are admitted into the Union. Horses, wagons, any beasts or vehicles, tools, or property belonging to private citizens, though employed in the service of the United States, are subject to State taxation. Every private business, whether carried on by an officer of the General Government or not, whether it be mixed with public concerns or not, even if it be carried on by the Government of the United States itself, separately or in partnership, falls within the scope of the taxing power of the State. Nothing comes more fully within it than banks and the business of banking, by whomsoever instituted and carried on. Over this whole subject-matter it is just as absolute, unlimited, and uncontrollable as if the Constitution had never been adopted, because in the formation of that instrument it was reserved without qualification.

The principle is conceded that the States can not rightfully tax the operations of the General Government. They can not tax the money of the Government deposited in the State banks, nor the agency of those banks in remitting it; but will any man maintain that their mere selection to perform this public service for the General Government would exempt the State banks and their ordinary business from State taxation? Had the United States, instead of establishing a bank at Philadelphia, employed a private banker to keep and transmit their funds, would it have deprived Pennsylvania of the right to tax his bank and his usual banking operations? It will not be pretended. Upon what principal, then, are the banking establishments of the Bank of the United States and their usual banking operations to be exempted from taxation? It is not their public agency or the deposits of the Government which the States claim a right to tax, but their banks and their banking powers, instituted and exercised within State jurisdiction for their private emolument-those powers and privileges for which they pay a bonus, and which the States tax in their own banks. The exercise of these powers within a State, no matter by whom or under what authority, whether by private citizens in their original right, by corporate bodies created by the States, by foreigners or the agents of foreign governments located within their limits, forms a legitimate object of State taxation. From this and like sources, from the persons, property, and business that are found residing, located, or carried on under their jurisdiction, must the States, since the surrender of their right to raise a revenue from imports and exports, draw all the money necessary for the support of their governments and the maintenance of their independence. There is no more appropriate subject of taxation than banks, banking, and bank stocks, and none to which the States ought more pertinaciously to cling. It can not be necessary to the character of the bank as a fiscal agent of the Government that its private business should be exempted from that taxation to which all the State banks are liable, nor can I conceive it "proper" that the substantive and most essential powers reserved by the States shall be thus attacked and annihilated as a means of executing the powers delegated to the General Government. It may be safely assumed that none of those sages who had an agency in forming or adopting our Constitution ever imagined that any portion of the taxing power of the States not prohibited to them nor delegated to Congress was to be swept away and annihilated as a means of executing certain powers delegated to Congress.

If our power over means is so absolute that the Supreme Court will not call in question the constitutionality of an act of Congress the subject of which "is not prohibited, and is really calculated to effect any of the objects entrusted to the Government," although, as in the case before me, it takes away powers expressly granted to Congress and rights scrupulously reserved to the States, it becomes us to proceed in our legislation with the utmost caution. Though not directly, our own powers and the rights of the States may be indirectly legislated away in the use of means to execute substantive powers. We may not enact that Congress shall not have the power of exclusive legislation over the District of Columbia, but we may pledge the faith of the United States that as a means of executing other powers it shall not be exercised for twenty years or forever. We may not pass an act prohibiting the States to tax the banking business carried on within their limits, but we may, as a means of executing our powers over other objects, place that business in the hands of our agents and then declare it exempt from State taxation in their hands. Thus may our own powers and the rights of the States, which we can not directly curtail or invade, be frittered away and extinguished in the use of means employed by us to execute other powers. That a bank of the United States, competent to all the duties which may be required by the Government, might be so organized as not to infringe on our own delegated powers or the reserved rights of the States I do not entertain a doubt. Had the Executive been called upon to furnish the project of such an institution, the duty would have been cheerfully performed. In the absence of such a call it was obviously proper that he should confine himself to pointing out those prominent features in the act presented which in his opinion make it incompatible with the Constitution and sound policy. A general discussion will now take place, eliciting new light and settling important principles; and a new Congress, elected in the midst of such discussion, and furnishing an equal representation of the people according to the last census, will bear to the Capitol the verdict of public opinion, and, I doubt not, bring this important question to a satisfactory result.

Under such circumstances the bank comes forward and asks a renewal of its charter for a term of fifteen years upon conditions which not only operate as a gratuity to the stockholders of many millions of dollars, but will sanction any abuses and legalize any encroachments. Suspicions are entertained and charges are made of gross abuse and violation of its charter. An investigation unwillingly conceded and so restricted in time as necessarily to make it incomplete and unsatisfactory discloses enough to excite suspicion and alarm. In the practices of the principal bank partially unveiled, in the absence of important witnesses, and in numerous charges confidently made and as yet wholly uninvestigated there was enough to induce a majority of the committee of investigation-a committee which was selected from the most able and honorable members of the House of Representatives-to recommend a suspension of further action upon the bill and a prosecution of the inquiry. As the charter had yet four years to run, and as a renewal now was not necessary to the successful prosecution of its business, it was to have been expected that the bank itself, conscious of its purity and proud of its character, would have withdrawn its application for the present, and demanded the severest scrutiny into all its transactions. In their declining to do so there seems to be an additional reason why the functionaries of the Government should proceed with less haste and more caution in the renewal of their monopoly. The bank is professedly established as an agent of the executive branch of the Government, and its constitutionality is maintained on that ground. Neither upon the propriety of present action nor upon the provisions of this act was the Executive consulted. It has had no opportunity to say that it neither needs nor wants an agent clothed with such powers and favored by such exemptions. There is nothing in its legitimate functions which makes it necessary or proper. Whatever interest or influence, whether public or private, has given birth to this act, it can not be found either in the wishes or necessities of the executive department, by which present action is deemed premature, and the powers conferred upon its agent not only unnecessary, but dangerous to the Government and country.

It is to be regretted that the rich and powerful too often bend the acts of government to their selfish purposes. Distinctions in society will always exist under every just government. Equality of talents, of education, or of wealth can not be produced by human institutions. In the full enjoyment of the gifts of Heaven and the fruits of superior industry, economy, and virtue, every man is equally entitled to protection by law; but when the laws undertake to add to these natural and just advantages artificial distinctions, to grant titles, gratuities, and exclusive privileges, to make the rich richer and the potent more powerful, the humble members of society-the farmers, mechanics, and laborers-who have neither the time nor the means of securing like favors to themselves, have a right to complain of the injustice of their Government. There are no necessary evils in government. Its evils exist only in its abuses. If it would confine itself to equal protection, and, as Heaven does its rains, shower its favors alike on the high and the low, the rich and the poor, it would be an unqualified blessing. In the act before me there seems to be a wide and unnecessary departure from these just principles. Nor is our Government to be maintained or our Union preserved by invasions of the rights and powers of the several States. In thus attempting to make our General Government strong we make it weak. Its true strength consists in leaving individuals and States as much as possible to themselves-in making itself felt, not in its power, but in its beneficence; not in its control, but in its protection; not in binding the States more closely to the center, but leaving each to move unobstructed in its proper orbit.

Experience should teach us wisdom. Most of the difficulties our Government now encounters and most of the dangers which impend over our Union have sprung from an abandonment of the legitimate objects of Government by our national legislation, and the adoption of such principles as are embodied in this act. Many of our rich men have not been content with equal protection and equal benefits, but have besought us to make them richer by act of Congress. By attempting to gratify their desires we have in the results of our legislation arrayed section against section, interest against interest, and man against man, in a fearful commotion which threatens to shake the foundations of our Union. It is time to pause in our career to review our principles, and if possible revive that devoted patriotism and spirit of compromise which distinguished the sages of the Revolution and the fathers of our Union. If we can not at once, in justice to interests vested under improvident legislation, make our Government what it ought to be, we can at least take a stand against all new grants of monopolies and exclusive privileges, against any prostitution of our Government to the advancement of the few at the expense of the many, and in favor of compromise and gradual reform in our code of laws and system of political economy. I have now done my duty to my country. If sustained by my fellow citizens, I shall be grateful and happy; if not, I shall find in the motives which impel me ample grounds for contentment and peace. In the difficulties which surround us and the dangers which threaten our institutions there is cause for neither dismay nor alarm. For relief and deliverance let us firmly rely on that kind Providence which I am sure watches with peculiar care over the destinies of our Republic, and on the intelligence and wisdom of our countrymen. Through His abundant goodness and their patriotic devotion our liberty and Union will be preserved. PRESIDENT ANDREW JACKSON.

Doc 100.0.5.2.....10 of 37...About Fort Knox Gold: <http://www.fgmr.com/right2know.htm>

In the 1970's a very courageous gentleman named Edward Durrell claimed that substantially all of the US Gold Reserve being stored at Ft. Knox was gone. Only 1,000 tonnes or so of the 8,500 tonnes supposedly being stored there remained. The rest had been secretly taken from Ft. Knox and shipped to London in 1967 and early 1968 for sale by President Johnson in an ill-fated attempt to keep the price of Gold at $35 per ounce. <http://hardtruth.topcities.com/nelsonrockefellerandfortknoxscandel.htm>

First, about Fort Knox. You know, the Fort Knox Gold Scandal is just like the Watergate Scandal in one respect: There is a desperate cover-up going on right now just as happened with Watergate. The Fort Knox Gold Scandal cover-up really passed the point of no return last September when the United States Treasury perpetrated the Fort Knox gold inspection hoax in an attempt to discredit my charges that there's no gold in Fort Knox because it had all been illegally removed. Since that time the Government has been getting in deeper and deeper and deeper, involving more and more people in all sorts of maneuvers to try to keep the lid on. For example, when the Congressmen and newsmen visited Fort Knox last September, news stories promised everybody that the visit would be followed up by an audit of the Fort Knox gold by the General Accounting Office, but what they actually did was just a very superficial exercise just to make the record look good, and the group of 15 men that did it had only two (2) General Accounting Office representatives on it. All the rest were from the Treasury itself--in other words, the fox went into the henhouse to count our chickens for us. <http://www.skolnicksreport.com/hoodwink.html>. It may come as a shock to some, but the U.S. has very little so-called "U.S. government" gold bullion in Fort Knox. A brave outspoken journalist, Tom Valentine, in the 1970s, exposed as a fraud that there was World-trade-quality gold at Fort Knox. All they have left are poor quality, orangish-looking, melted down coin metal from the seizure in 1934, of gold coins from America's common people. [The American aristocracy, warned in advance, shipped THEIR gold out of the U.S.] The U.S. government gold is gone. Why? Because it was shipped, under the supervision of a pliable U.S. General, to the private central octopus called the Bank of England, in 1968, to stem a run on that bank which had somehow lost all their own gold.]<http://www.freedomdomain.com/News/norfed.html>. The organization chaired by Alan Greenspan is a coalition of private international banks, that does not answer to the United States Government. And there is no precious metal warehoused in Fort Knox or elsewhere that backs the money that they issue. <http://www.anomalous-images.com/text/NAZNWO08.TXT>. Large shipment of gold leaves Fort Knox, public doesn't know that their national gold 'reserves' are being secretly depleted by one-World national socialist agents working in U.S. government. Gold at Fort Knox replaced with gold-plated lead bars, making it the biggest heist in history. Rockefellers involved. James MacDonald becomes critical of

Air Force and the CIA. http://hardtruth.topcities.com/treason_new_World_order.htm

Throughout the 20th century this movement toward a one World government has been marching on. This is not new or recent. In his book Critical Path Buckminster Fuller gives a very impressive sweep of the 20th century, about the large corporations and their agents and the lawyers who basically control the country far more than the people understand. He talked about how all the gold was removed from Fort Knox by the 1960's. Where did it go? It went to the banks. They own the country. Fuller called the CIA, "capitalism's invisible army." We have a Constitution and our Bill of Rights (the first 10 amendments) that makes us free. Right? Then visit:

<http://www.trimonline.org/> <http://www.getusout.org/> <http://www.thenewamerican.com> <http://www.givemeliberty.org/>

<http://www.jbs.org/> <http://www.getawarrant.com/> <http://www.dixierising.com/> <http://www.dixienet.org/> <http://www.palmetto.org/>

<http://www.southerncaucus.org/> <http://www.spofga.org/> <http://www.southern-style.com/> <http://www.nca.mybravenet.com/>

John C. Calhoun's "Speech to Separate Government from the Banks." 1837

Note that in this November 3, 1837 speech, Calhoun is arguing against a motion to replace his "bill" for free banking without a central bank with a "substitution" amendment which would centralize banking power and mingle it with government power which was the BankLords' half-way measure towards restoring their private central banking system which was ended with the famous veto by President Andrew Jackson in 1832. Calhoun was the great expositor and elaborator of the thought of Thomas Jefferson. It was against these views that the American Civil War was fought. The speech is as appropriate for our time as it was for Calhoun's -- if only we had men to utter it.

.. but the danger which an excited imagination anticipates hereafter from the [anti-central bank bill Calhoun was proposing] would exist in sober reality under the substitute [a half-way house measure on the way to a full-blown central bank]. There it would require neither fancy nor conjecture to create one. It would exist with all its faculties and endowments complete: discounts, deposits and all. With immense means guided by a central and directing hand and blended and united with the government so as to form one great mass of power.... What a contrast to the [Calhoun's separation of government from the banking system] bill. How simple and harmless the one with its four simple receivers, twice as many clerks and five inspectors compared with this complex and mighty engine of power. And yet there are many, both intelligent and patriotic, who oppose the bill and support the substitute [pro-central bank] on the ground that the former would give more patronage and power than the latter. How strange and wonderful the diversity of the human mind.

So far from being true the very fact of the separation of the government from the banks provided for in the bill would of itself be the most decisive blow that can be given to government patronage. And the union of the two the most decisive in its favor. When their notes are received in the public dues as cash and the public money deposited in their vaults the banks become the allies of the government on all questions connected with its fiscal action. The higher its taxes and duties the greater its revenue and expenditure and the larger its surplus and the more their circulation in business and, of course, the greater their profit. And hence on all questions of taxation and disbursements and the accumulation of funds in the treasury their interest would throw them on the side of the government and against the people.

All this is reversed when separated. The higher the taxation and disbursements and the larger the surplus the less would be their profit. And their interest in that case would throw them with the people and against the government. The reason is obvious. Specie [gold -- Constitutional "Eagle" gold coin etc.] is the basis of banking operations and the greater amount they can command the greater will be their business and profits. But when the government is separated from them and collects and pays always its dues in specie instead of notes it is clear that the higher the taxes and disbursements and the greater the surplus in the treasury the more specie will be drawn from the use of the banks and the less will be as the basis of their operations and consequently the less their profit. Every dollar withdrawn from them would diminish their business fourfold at least [Calhoun understood the money multiplier] and hence a regard to their own interest would inevitably place them on the side of to which I have assigned them.

The effects on the politics of the country would be great and salutary...The weight of the banks would be taken from the side of the tax consumers where it has been from the commencement of the government and placed on the side of the tax payers. This great division of the community necessarily grows out of the fiscal action of the government.

Take taxation and disbursement together and it will always be found that the one portion of the community pays into the treasury in the shape of taxes more than it receives back in that of disbursements, and that another receives back more than it pays. The former are the tax payers and the latter the consumers, making the great essential and controlling division in all civilized communities. If with us the government has been thrown on the side of tax consumers as it has it must be attributed to its alliance with the banks whose influence has been in consequence at all times steadily and powerfully on that side.

It is to this mischievous and unholy alliance that may be traced almost all the disasters that have befallen us and the great political degeneracy of the country. Hence the protective system, hence its associated and monstrous system of disbursements, hence the collection of more money from the people than the government required, hence the vast and corrupting surpluses, hence legislative and executive usurpations and finally hence the prostration of the currency and the disasters which give rise to our present deliberation.

Revive this fatal connection, adopt this substitute and all this train of evils will again follow with redoubled disasters and corruption....Refuse this connection, adopt this bill and all will be reversed and we shall have some prospect of restoring the constitution and country to their primitive simplicity and purity. The effect of the reversal on the patronage of the government would be great and decisive.

Burk has wisely said that the revenue is the state in modern times. Violence and coercion are no longer the instruments of government in civilized communities. Their reign is passed. Everything is now done by money. It is not only the sinew of war, but of politics over which in the form of patronage it exercises almost unlimited control. Just as the revenue increases or diminishes almost in the same proportion is patronage increased or diminished. But admit for a moment that neither the separation nor the connection would have any sensible effect to increase or diminish the revenue and that it would be of the same amount whether the bill or substitute should be adopted. Yet even on that supposition the patronage of the latter would be an hundred fold greater than the former. In estimating the amount of patronage growing out of any measure three particulars must be taken into calculation: the number of persons who may be affected by it, their influence in the community and the extent of the control exercised over them. It will be found in comparison that the substitute combines all these elements in far greater degree than the bill as I shall now proceed to show.

...

(end of excerpt) johnccalhoun@yahoogroups.com

President Abraham Lincoln And The Civil War \(1861 - 1865\)

With the Central Bank killed off, fractional reserve banking moved like a virus through numerous state chartered banks instead causing the instability this form of economics thrives on. When people lose their homes someone else wins them for a fraction of their worth. Depression is good news to the lender; but war causes even more debt and dependency than anything else, so if the money changers couldn't have their Central Bank with a license to print money, a war it would have to be. We can see from this quote of the then chancellor of Germany that slavery was not the only cause for the American Civil War. "The division of the United States into federations of equal force was decided long before the Civil War by the high financial powers of Europe. These Bankers were afraid that the US, if they remained as one block, and as one nation, would attain economic and financial independence, which would upset their financial domination over the World." Otto von Bismarck chancellor of Germany.

On the 12th of April 1861 this economic war began. Predictably Lincoln, needing money to finance his war effort, went with his secretary of the treasury to New York to apply for the necessary loans. The money changers wishing the Union to fail offered loans at 24% to 36%. Lincoln declined the offer. An old friend of Lincoln's, Colonel Dick Taylor of Chicago was put in charge of solving the problem of how to finance the war. His solution is recorded as this: "Just get Congress to pass a bill authorising the printing of full legal tender treasury notes... and pay your soldiers with them and go ahead and win your war with them also." Colonel Dick Taylor

When Lincoln asked if the people of America would accept the notes Taylor said: "The people or anyone else will not have any choice in the matter, if you make them full legal tender. They will have the full sanction of the government and be just as good as any money; as Congress is given that express right by the Constitution." Colonel Dick Taylor

Lincoln agreed to try this solution and printed 450 million dollars worth of the new bills using green ink on the back to distinguish them from other notes (green backs). "The Government should create, issue, and circulate all the currency and credit needed to satisfy the spending power of the Government and the buying power of consumers.... The privilege of creating and issuing money is not only the supreme prerogative of Government, but it is the Government's greatest creative opportunity. By the adoption of these principles... the taxpayers will be saved immense sums of interest. Money will cease to be master and become the servant of humanity." President Abraham Lincoln

From this we see that the solution worked so well Lincoln was seriously considering adopting this emergency measure as a permanent policy. This would have been great for everyone except the money changers who quickly realised how dangerous this policy would be for them. They wasted no time in expressing their view in the London Times. Oddly enough, while the article seems to have been designed to discourage this creative financial policy, in it's put down we're clearly able to see the policies goodness.

Times of London: "If this mischievous financial policy, which has its origin in North America, shall become endurated down to a fixture, then that Government will furnish its own money without cost. It will pay off debts and be without debt. It will have all the money necessary to carry on its commerce. It will become prosperous without precedent in the history of the World. The brains, and wealth of all countries will go to North America. That country must be destroyed or it will destroy every monarchy on the globe."

From this extract its plan to see that it is the advantage provided by the adopting of this policy which poses a threat to those not using it. 1863, nearly there, Lincoln needed just a bit more money to win the war, and seeing him in this vulnerable state, and knowing that the president could not get the congressional authority to issue more greenbacks, the money changers proposed the passing of the National Bank Act. The act went through. From this point on the entire US money supply would be created out of debt by Bankers buying US government bonds and issuing them from reserves for bank notes. The greenbacks continued to be in circulation until 1994, their numbers were not increased but in fact decreased.

John Kenneth Galbraith: "In numerous years following the war, the Federal Government ran a heavy surplus. It could not (however) pay off its debt, retire its securities, because to do so meant there would be no bonds to back the national bank notes. To pay off the debt was to destroy the money supply."

The American economy has been based on government debt since 1864 and it is locked into this system. Talk of paying off the debt without first reforming the banking system is just talk and a complete impossibility. That same year Lincoln had a pleasant surprise. Turns out the Tsar of Russia, Alexander II, was well aware of the money changers scam. The Tsar was refusing to allow them to set up a central bank in Russia. If Lincoln could limit the power of the money changers and win the war, the Bankers would not be able to split America and hand it back to Britain and France as planned. The Tsar knew that this handing back would come at a cost which would eventually need to be paid back by attacking Russia, it being clearly in the money changers sights. The Tsar declared that if France or Britain gave help to the South, Russia would consider this an act of war. Britain and France would instead wait in vain to have the wealth of the colonies returned to them, and while they waited Lincoln won the civil war. With an election coming up the next year, Lincoln himself would wait for renewed public support before reversing the National Bank Act he had been pressured into approving during the war.

Salmon P. Chase (secretary of the Treasury under Lincoln): "My agency's role in promoting the passage of the National Banking Act was the greatest financial mistake in my life. It has built up a monopoly which affects every interest in the country."

Lincoln's opposition to the central banks financial control and a proposed return to the gold standard are well documented. He would certainly have killed off the national banks monopoly had he not been killed himself only 41 days after being re-elected in 1865. German Chancellor Otto Von Bismarck said upon Lincoln's assassination: "I fear that foreign bankers with their craftiness tortuous tricks will entirely control the exuberant riches of America and use it systematically to corrupt modern civilization. They will not hesitate to plunge the whole of Christendom into wars and chaos in order that the earth should become their inheritance." The money changers were pressing for a gold standard because gold was scarce and easier to have a monopoly over. Much of this was already waiting in their hands and each gold merchant was well aware that what they really had could be easily made to seem like much much more. Silver would only widen the field and lower the share so they pressed for...

More on The American Civil War, the "Bank" of Rome and President Abraham Lincoln

In order to finance the war, President Lincoln approached the banksters. They wanted usury of 28% which Lincoln refused to pay. In order to circumvent the banksters he issued $450,000,000 in GREENBACKS or U.S. Notes. These GREENBACKS were non usury paying notes and were backed by the credit of the nation. Of course the banksters were furious. Had President Lincoln lived and finished out his 2nd term he would have forever closed the door to the malicious influence of the "Bank" of Rome. On April 15, 1865, he fell a victim to the leaden bullet of the assassin John Wilkes Booth — another tool of the moneylenders!! Canadian Member of Parliament in 1934 said "...Lincoln was assassinated through the machinations of a group representative of the international bankers who feared the United States President's national credit ambitions and the plot was hatched in Toronto and Montreal... There was only one group who had any reason to desire the death of Lincoln. They were the men opposed to his national currency program and who had fought him throughout the whole of the civil war on his policy of greenback currency. They were the men interested in the establishment of the gold standard [as long as they controlled all of the gold] money system and the right of the [private] bankers to manage the currency and credit of every nation in the World. With Lincoln out of the way, they were able to proceed with that plan and did proceed with it in the United States. Within eight years of Lincoln's assassination, silver was demonetized and the gold standard money system setup."

President Andrew Jackson said, and we might remember, "If congress has the right under the Constitution to issue paper money, it was given them to use themselves, not to be delegated to individuals or corporations." And particularly, not to be delegated to individuals or corporations for profit manifested in such a way as multiplies profit in proportion to the circulation until due collapse of the system under insoluble debt.

President Abraham Lincoln said, "The money powers prey upon the nation in times of peace and conspire against it in times of adversity. The banking powers are more despotic than a monarchy, more insolent than autocracy, more selfish than bureaucracy. They denounce as public enemies all who question their methods or throw light upon their crimes. I have two great enemies, the Southern Army in front of me and the bankers in the rear. Of the two, the one at my rear is my greatest foe. [As a most undesirable consequence of the war...] Corporations have been enthroned, and an era of corruption in high places will follow. The money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until the wealth is aggregated in the hands of a few, and the Republic is destroyed. The Government should create, issue, and circulate all the currency and credits needed to satisfy the spending power of the Government and the buying power of consumers. By the adoption of these principles, the taxpayers will be saved immense sums of interest. Money will cease to be master and become the servant of humanity." President Abraham Lincoln — money martyred. The perfect monetary system of free coinage of silver and gold was destroyed in 1873 by the private bankers. Silver was harder to monopolize than gold. Lincoln's greenbacks were in circulation until 1994 when they were replaced with the debt-based Federal Reserve Notes. John Surratt, a coconspirator in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, was photographed wearing the uniform of the Papal Zouave while hiding out in Europe after the assassination under the protection of the Roman Catholic Church as a member of the pope's personal guard.

President Abraham Lincoln: "The Government should create, issue, and circulate all the currency and credits needed to satisfy the spending power of the Government and the buying power of consumers. By the adoption of these principles, the taxpayers will be saved immense sums of interest. Money will cease to be master and become the servant of humanity...I am a firm believer in the people. If given the truth, they can be depended upon to meet any national crisis. The great point is to bring them the real facts."

As Lincoln Warned: "I see in the future a crisis which unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. Corporations have been enthroned, an era of corruption will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people, until wealth is aggregated into a few hands and the Republic destroyed." He had also said - 3 days before they shot him in 1865 that - "Money will no longer be master but become the servant of humanity"

District of Columbia Act 1871: Enslaved by BankLords "Divine Rights of Kings" Roman Maritime Laws

http://www.serendipity.li/jsmill/us_corporation.htm The United States Isn't a Country — It's a Corporation! by Lisa Guliani <http://www.teamlaw.org/HistoryOutline.htm> [click on "Follow this link to see the effect of the District of Columbia Act of 1871."] This Act turned the United States into a Private Corporation with the right to sue and be sued. When you consider the historical facts, the only meaning left for the terms given in the opening paragraph of the District of Columbia Organic Act of 1871 (and that which follows) is the "municipal corporation" that was created is a private corporation owned by the existent municipality. And the only government created in that Act was the same government any private corporation has within the operation of its own corporate construct. Thus, we call it Corp. U.S. We also note Congress reserved the right, granted them in the Constitution, to complete dictatorial authority over their Corp. U.S. construct, without regard for its internal operations or officers. Thus, Congress can use it within the ten mile square as they see fit to both govern the municipality as if it were the municipal government and to use it to do things the Constitution did not grant them the privilege of doing (similar to the London square mile for the BankLords).

Please note that although the info presented below from NESARA is accurate, some people think that NESARA is using this info to defraud people, so please read with caveat.

NESARA billboards in front of Capitol Building in Washington D.C. <http://www.nesara.us/pages/home.html>

To help NESARA, Join the NTAT. NESARA Also called the Reformation Act: PLEASE NOTE THAT THIS WEBSITE Could POTENTIALLY be FRAUDULENT see <http://www.quatloos.com/NESARA.htm> see also <http://www.nesara.ca> . 1871, February 21: Congress Passes an Act to Provide a Government for the District of Columbia, also known as the Act of 1871* With no constitutional authority to do so, Congress creates a separate form of government for the District of Columbia, a ten mile square parcel of land (see, Acts of the Forty-first Congress," Section 34, Session III, chapters 61 and 62) (sounds similar to the one square mile City of London section for the Bank of England). The act -- passed when the country was weakened and financially depleted in the aftermath of the Civil War -- was a strategic move by foreign interests (international bankers) who were intent upon gaining a stranglehold on the coffers and neck of America. Congress cut a deal with the international bankers (specifically Rothschilds of London) to incur a DEBT to said bankers. Because the bankers were not about to lend money to a floundering nation without serious stipulations, they devised a way to get their foot in the door of the United States. The Act of 1871 formed a corporation called THE UNITED STATES. The corporation, OWNED by foreign interests, moved in and shoved the original Constitution into a dustbin. With the Act of 1871, the organic Constitution was defaced -- in effect vandalized and sabotage -- when the title was capitalized and the word "for" was changed to "of" in the title.* Info from yet unpublished book, "Pentimento: Freedom Revisited." As you will see when reading, just as much of my knowledge of the Trading with the Enemy Act came from Gene Schroder, et al. this, too, came from elsewhere -- from Lisa Guilian of Babel Magazine, whom I first "met" by way of an article by Patrick Bellringer. So, we cooperate as we study and learn the truth. C. E.

Proposed Reformation ACT initiates and demands PEACE IMMEDIATELY and to overturn the Admiralty/Roman/Maritime Laws of Commerce enslaving us

1. Provides forgiveness of credit card, mortgage, and other bank debt as remedy for bank and government frauds;
2. Abolishes the IRS; creates flat rate non-essential "new items only" sales tax revenue for government;
3. Initiates U.S. Treasury Bank System, which absorbs the Federal Reserve, and new precious metals backed U.S. Treasury currency;
4. Restores Constitutional Law;
5. Requires resignations of current administration to be replaced by Constitutionally acceptable President and Vice President Designates until new elections within 120 days;
6. Requires the President Designate to declare "Peace" enabling international banking improvements to proceed smoothly; ends U.S. aggressive military actions immediately, and many more improvements.

There are actually two instances of the US and the US citizens operating under two different sets of laws, i.e. one is the Republic's Laws (The Republic of the United States) and the other is the Admiralty/Maritime/Divine Right of Kings/Roman/Canon/Corporate commercial laws (THE UNITED STATES). One instance is "The United States" and the other one is the capitalized version "THE UNITED STATES". The same goes for the names of US citizens, one is regular like "John Doe" and the other is "JOHN DOE". The capitalized form is the one used for the CORPORATE FORM OF GOVERNANCE wherein the US citizen is a slave to the BankLords as shown on your birth certificate. "Our Corporate form of governance is based on Roman Civil Law and Admiralty, or Maritime, Law, which is also known as the 'Divine Right of Kings' and the 'Law of the Seas' -- another fact of American history not taught in our schools. Actually, Roman Civil Law was fully established in the colonies before our nation began, and then became managed by private international law. In other words, the government -- the government created for the District of Columbia via the Act of 1871 -- operates solely under Private International Law, not Common Law, which was the foundation of our Constitutional Republic.

"This fact has impacted all Americans in concrete ways. For instance, although Private International Law is technically only applicable within the District of Columbia, and NOT in the other states of the Union, the arms of the Corporation of the UNITED STATES are called 'departments' --i.e., the Justice Department, the Treasury Department. And those departments affect everyone, no matter where (in what state) they live. Guess what? Each department belongs to the Corporation -- to the UNITED STATES. "Refer to any UNITED STATES CODE (USC). Note the capitalization; this is evidence of a corporation, not a Republic. For example, In Title 28 3002 (15) (A) (B) (C), it is unequivocally stated that the UNITED STATES is a corporation. Translation: the corporation is NOT a separate and distinct entity; it is not disconnected from the government; it IS the government -- your government. This is extremely important! I refer to it as the 'corporate EMPIRE of the UNITED STATES,' which operates under Roman Civil Law outside the original Constitution. How do you like being ruled by a corporation? You say you'll ask your Congressperson about this? "Congress is fully aware of this deception. So it's time that you, too, become aware of the deception. What this great deception means is that the members of Congress do NOT work for us, for you and me. They work for the Corporation, for the UNITED STATES. No wonder we can't get them to do anything on our behalf, or meet or demands, or answer our questions.

"Technically, legally, or any other way you want to look at the matter, the corporate government of the UNITED STATES has no jurisdiction or authority in ANY State of the Union (the Republic) beyond the District of Columbia. Let that tidbit sink in, then ask yourself, could this deception have occurred without full knowledge and complicity of the Congress? Do you think it happened by accident? If you do, you're deceiving yourself. Since the Act of 1871 which established the District of Columbia, we have been living under the UNITED STATES CORPORATION which is owned by certain trans-Atlantic international bankers and aristocracy of Europe and Britain. After passage of the Act of 1871, Congress set a series of subtle and overt deceptions into motion, deceptions in the form of decisions that were meant to sell us down the river. With the fleecing of the flock in 1929 and the surrender of the people's gold in 1933, the 'common herd' was handed over to illegitimate law. "It was also a strategic maneuver by British and European interests (international bankers) intent on gaining a stranglehold on the coffers of America. And, because Congress knew our country was in dire financial straits, certain members of Congress cut a deal with the international bankers (in those days, the Rothschilds of London were dipping their fingers into everyone's pie). . . . There you have the WHY, why members of Congress permitted the international bankers to gain further control of America. . . . Then, by passing the Act of 1871, Congress formed a corporation known as THE UNITED STATES. This corporation, owned by foreign interests, shoved the organic version of the Constitution aside by changing the word 'for' to 'of' in the title. Let me explain: the original Constitution drafted by the Founding Fathers read: 'The Constitution for the united states of America.' [note that neither the words 'united' nor 'states' began with capital letters] But the CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA is a corporate constitution, which is absolutely NOT the same document you think it is. First of all, it ended all our rights of sovereignty [sui juris]. So you now have the HOW, how the international bankers got their hands on THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA." To fully understand how our rights of sovereignty were ended, you must know the full meaning of sovereign: SOVEREIGN "Chief or highest, supreme power, superior in position to all others; independent of and unlimited by others; possessing or entitled to; original and independent authority or jurisdiction." --Webster--

In short, our government, which was created by and for us as sovereigns -- free citizens deemed to have the highest authority in the land -- was stolen from us, along with our rights. Keep in mind that, according to the original Constitution, only We the People are sovereign. Government is not sovereign. The Declaration of Independence says, "government is subject to the consent of the governed." That's us -- the sovereigns. When did you last feel like a sovereign? As Lisa Guliani explained: "It doesn't take a rocket scientist or a constitutional historian to figure out that the U.S. Government has NOT been subject to the consent of the governed since long before you or I were born. Rather, the governed are subject to the whim and greed of the corporation, which has stretched its tentacles beyond the ten-mile-square parcel of land known as the District of Columbia. In fact, it has invaded every state of the Republic. Mind you, the corporation has NO jurisdiction beyond the District of Columbia. You just think it does.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA is the constitution of the incorporated UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. It operates in an economic capacity and has been used to fool the People into thinking it governs the Republic. It does is not! Capitalization is NOT insignificant when one is referring to a legal document. This seemingly "minor" alteration has had a major impact on every subsequent generation of Americans. What Congress did by passing the Act of 1871 was create an entirely new document, a constitution for the government of the District of Columbia, an INCORPORATED government. This newly altered Constitution was not intended to benefit the Republic. It benefits only the corporation of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and operates entirely outside the original (organic) Constitution. Instead of having absolute and unalienable rights guaranteed under the organic Constitution, we the people now have "relative" rights or privileges. One example is the Sovereign's right to travel, which has now been transformed (under corporate government policy) into a "privilege" that requires citizens to be licensed. By passing the Act of 1871, Congress committed TREASON against the People who were Sovereign under the grants and decrees of the Declaration of Independence and the organic Constitution. [Information courtesy of Lisa Guliani, www.babelmagazine.com. The Act of 1871 became the FOUNDATION of all the treason since committed by government officials.] The UNITED STATES Isn't a Country - It's a Corporation!

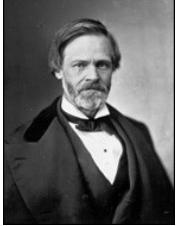

Prior to 1913, most Americans owned clear, allodial title to property, free and clear of any liens or mortgages until the Federal Reserve Act (1913) "Hypothecated" all property within the Federal United States Corporation to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve in which the Trustees (stockholders, i.e the BankLords) held legal title. The U.S. citizen (tenant, franchisee) was registered as a "beneficiary" of the trust via his/her birth certificate with the name in upper case (aka "strawman"). If you become damaged, they refer to it as collateral damage. The elected and appointed administrators of government United States government have been filing certified copies of all our birth certificates in the United States Department of Commerce as registered securities. These securities, each of which carries an estimated $1,000,000 value, have been (and still are) circulated around the World as collateral for loans, entries on the asset side of ledgers, etc., just like any other security. There's just one problem—we didn't consciously authorize it. Now that you know, you can choose to let them use you for collateral and pay interest on the debt or you can take back your power and sovereignty.

In 1933, the federal United States hypothecated all of the present and future properties, assets and labor of their "subjects," the 14th Amendment U.S. citizen, to the Federal Reserve System under the Admiralty/Maritime Law. In return, the Federal Reserve System agreed to extend the Federal United States Corporation all the credit "money substitute" [money created from nothing, i.e. paper fiat money which could only be created by the BankLords under the fraudulent 1913 Federal Reserve Act legislation] it needed. Like any other debtor, the federal United States government had to assign collateral and security to their creditors as a condition of the loan. Since the federal United States didn't have any assets, they assigned the private property of their "economic slaves", the U.S. citizens as collateral against the un-payable federal debt. They also pledged the unincorporated federal territories, national parks forests, birth certificates, and nonprofit organizations, as collateral against the federal debt. All has already been transferred as payment to the international bankers. Unwittingly, America has returned to its pre-American Revolution, European British feudal roots whereby all land is held by a sovereign and the common people had no rights to hold allodial title to property. Once again, We the People are the tenants and sharecroppers renting our own property from a Sovereign in the guise of the Federal Reserve Bank which uses the IRS to collect tithes. We the people have exchanged one master for another. The federal United States is bankrupt. Our children will inherit this un-payable debt, and the tyranny to enforce paying it. See Traficant congressional March 17, 1993 Vol. 33, page H-1303 address.

How the "Bank" of Rome assassinated silver in 1873

By 1872 the American public was beginning to feel the squeeze, so the Bank of England, scheming in the back rooms, sent Ernest Seyd, with lots of money to bribe congress into demonetising silver. Ernest drafted the legislation himself, which came into law with the passing of the Coinage Act, effectively stopping the minting of silver that year. Here's what he said about his trip, obviously pleased with himself. Ernest Seyd: "I went to America in the winter of 1872-73, authorised to secure, if I could, the passage of a bill demonetising silver. It was in the interest of those I represented the governors of the Bank of England to have it done. By 1873, gold coins were the only form of coin money."

Before 1873, most nations of the World except Great Britain had free coinage of silver and gold. That meant that anybody could bring bullion into the government mint and have it coined into money for free. Free coinage was like a reservoir connected by a pipe. Both metals always maintained a perfect parity or equilibrium. When silver was demonetized in 1873, it destroyed this monetary system for the entire World and gold became the sole standard. This caused a great depression in 1873, 1893, and the panic of 1907 led to the creation of the Rockefeller/Rothschild "Federal" Reserve paper, debt and usury "money" system.

Senator John Sherman of Ohio led the fight to demonetize silver after receiving bribes!!

Senator John Sherman of Ohio introduced the Bill that demonetized silver after receiving huge bribes from the Bank of England. Senator John Sherman of Ohio (brother of Civil War hero General William Tecumseh Sherman), was the powerful head of the Senate Finance Committee. In 1869 he stopped in London on his way to a monetary conference in Paris, France. While in England he was wined and dined by Baron Rothschild and the very crème de la crème of English society. At a private dinner in the Baron's mansion in London this conversation took place between the Baron and Senator Sherman:

"Five thousand pounds each year," went on the Baron quietly, "placed in your hands, and supplemented by sums which you would consider necessary, I am satisfied would produce the conditions in the public mind desired. No accounting, you understand, would be required, absolute reliance to be placed in your wisdom and ability" (William Harvey, A Tale of Two Nation, p.51).

With the huge sums of money from the Bank of England, Sherman was able to BUY the members of Congress and The Bill to Reform the Coinage Act was passed by stealth in 1873. The dual system of bimetallism was abandoned for the monometallic or gold standard. This put the U.S. on the gold standard and soon all the nations of the World followed the example of the U.S. and abandoned silver. The World economic order was CRIPPLED when silver was demonetized in 1873 and the World was left with a monometallic gold standard. It was like a man with ONE leg; or ONE eye, or ONE arm. Gold was measured in its ratio to silver and silver was measured in its ratio to gold at 15 to 1.

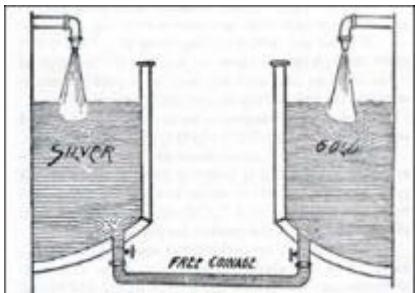

The Return Of The Gold Standard (1866 - 1881)

"Right after the Civil War there was considerable talk about reviving Lincoln's brief experiment with the Constitutional monetary system. Had not the European money-trust intervened, it would have no doubt become an established institution." W.Cleon Skouse. Even after his death, the idea that America might print its own debt free money set off warning bells throughout the entire European banking community. On April 12th in 1866, the American congress passed the Contraction Act, allowing the treasury to call in and retire some of Lincoln's greenbacks. With only the banks standing to gain from this, it's not hard to work out the source of this action. To give the American public the false impression that they would be better off under the monometallic gold standard, the money changers used the control they had to cause economic instability and panic the people. This was fairly easy to do by calling in existing loans and refusing to issue new ones, a tried and proven method of causing depression. They would then spread the word through the media they largely controlled that the lack of a single gold standard was the cause of the hardship which ensued, while all this time using the Contraction Act to lower the amount of money in circulation. It went from:

$1.8 billion in circulation in 1866 allowing $50.46 per person, to $1.3 billion in 1867 allowing $44.00 per person, to $0.6 billion in 1876 making only $14.60 per person and down to $0.4 billion only ten years later leaving only $6.67 per person and a continually growing population.

Most people believe the economists when they tell us that recessions and depressions are part of the natural flow, but in truth the money supply is controlled by a small minority who have always done so and will continue to do so if we let them. After silver was demonetized, gold was measured by itself. This reduced the amount of money in the World by half and doubled the wealth of the bond holders. Gold today has absolutely no ratio to silver and the current price of gold is about $360 an ounce. The gold standard led to the establishment of the private Rockefeller/Rothschild "Federal" Reserve

Bank in 1913 based on a monetized debt-usury system. Within three years of 1873, with 30% of the work force unemployed, the American people began to harken back to the days of silver backed money and the greenbacks. The US Silver Commission was set up to study the problem and responded with telling history: "The disaster of the Dark Ages was caused by decreasing money and falling prices... Without money, civilisation could not have had a beginning, and with a diminishing supply, it must languish and unless relieved, finally perish. At the Christian era the metallic money of the Roman Empire amounted to $1,800,000,000. By the end of the fifteenth century it had shrunk to less than $200,000,000. History records no other such disastrous transition as that from the Roman Empire to the Dark Ages..." United States Silver Commission

Despite this report, Congress took no action. While they obviously could see the problems being caused by the restricted money supply, this declaration did little to help the problem, and in 1877 riots broke out all over the country. The bank's response was to do nothing except to campaign against the idea that greenbacks should be reissued. The American Bankers Association secretary James Buel expressed the Bankers' attitude well in a letter to fellow members of the association. He wrote: "It is advisable to do all in your power to sustain such prominent daily and weekly newspapers, especially the Agricultural and Religious Press, as will oppose the greenback issue of paper money and that you will also withhold patronage from all applicants who are not willing to oppose the government issue of money. To repeal the Act creating bank notes, or to restore to circulation the government issue of money will be to provide the people with money and will therefore seriously affect our individual profits as Bankers and lenders. See your congressman at once and engage him to support our interest that we may control legislation." What this statement exposes is the difference in mentality between your average person and a banker. With a banker 'less really is more' and every need an opportunity to exploit.

James Garfield became President in 1881 with a firm grasp of where the problem lay. "Whosoever controls the volume of money in any country is absolute master of all industry and commerce... And when you realise that the entire system is very easily controlled, one way or another, by a few powerful men at the top, you will not have to be told how periods of inflation and depression originate." Within weeks of releasing this statement President Garfield was assassinated. The cry from the streets was to....

International Bankers' Manifesto Exposed in 1892 by Lindbergh

<http://www.redicecreations.com/specialreports/2005/07jul/bankersmanifesto.html>

This was revealed by US Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh Sr. from Minnesota before the US Congress sometime during his term of office between the years of 1907 and 1917 to warn the citizens.

"We (the bankers) must proceed with caution and guard every move made, for the lower order of people are already showing signs of restless commotion. Prudence will therefore show a policy of apparently yielding to the popular will until our plans are so far consummated that we can declare our designs without fear of any organized resistance. The Farmers Alliance and Knights of Labor organizations in the United States should be carefully watched by our trusted men, and we must take immediate steps to control these organizations in our interest or disrupt them. At the coming Omaha Convention to be held July 4th (1892), our men must attend and direct its movement, or else there will be set on foot such antagonism to our designs as may require force to overcome. This at the present time would be premature. We are not yet ready for such a crisis. Capital must protect itself in every possible manner through combination (conspiracy) and legislation. The courts must be called to our aid, debts must be collected, bonds and mortgages foreclosed as rapidly as possible.

When through the process of the law, the common people have lost their homes, they will be more tractable and easily governed through the influence of the strong arm of the government applied to a central power of imperial wealth under the control of the leading financiers. People without homes will not quarrel with their leaders. History repeats itself in regular cycles. This truth is well known among our principal men who are engaged in forming an imperialism of the World. While they are doing this, the people must be kept in a state of political antagonism. The question of tariff reform must be urged through the organization known as the Democratic Party, and the question of protection with the reciprocity must be forced to view through the Republican Party. By thus dividing voters, we can get them to expand their energies in fighting over questions of no importance to us, except as teachers to the common herd. Thus, by discrete action, we can secure all that has been so generously planned and successfully accomplished."

American Bankers Association as printed in the Congressional Record of April 29, 1913 for 1891: "On Sept 1st, 1894, we will not renew our loans under any consideration. On Sept 1st we will demand our money. We will foreclose and become mortgagees in possession. We can take two-thirds of the farms west of the Mississippi and thousands of them east of the Mississippi as well, at our own price... Then the farmers will become tenants as in England..."

THE BANKERS' MANIFESTO OF 1892

Capital must protect itself in every way, through combination and through legislation. Debts must be collected and loans and mortgages foreclosed as soon as possible. When through a process of law, the common people have lost their homes, they will be more tractable and more easily governed by the strong arm of the law applied by the central power of wealth, under control of leading financiers. People without homes will not quarrel with their leaders. This is well known among our principle men now engaged in forming an IMPERIALISM of capital to govern the World. By dividing the people we can get them to expend their energies in fighting over questions of no importance to us except as teachers of the common herd. Thus by discrete action we can secure for ourselves what has been generally planned and successfully accomplished. from: <http://www.mayanmajix.com/art430.html>

Free Silver and the Panic of 1893 (1891 - 1912)

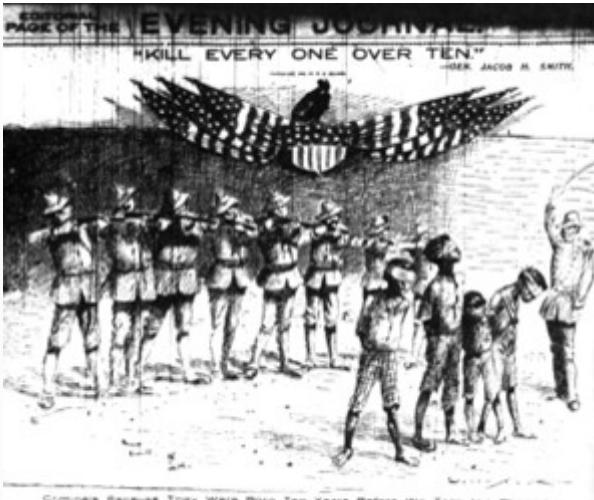

Fleecing of the flock is the term the money changers use for the process of booms and depressions which make it possible for them to repossess property at a fraction of its worth. In 1891 a major fleece was being planned. "On Sept 1st, 1894, we will not renew our loans under any consideration. On Sept 1st we will demand our money. We will foreclose and become mortgagees in possession. We can take two-thirds of the farms west of the Mississippi, and thousands of them east of the Mississippi as well, at our own price... Then the farmers will become tenants as in England..." 1891 American Bankers Association as printed in the Congressional Record of April 29, 1913. The continued gold standard made this possible. The Panic of 1893, initiated by failure of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad in February 1893, was followed by a four-year depression. Underlying causes were rapidly decreasing gold reserves, industrial overexpansion, poor crop harvests in the South and West, and an economic slump in Europe. Thousands of business (including a quarter of the railroads) worth hundreds of millions of dollars went bankrupt. Riots broke out in Chicago. Jacob Coxey organized 100 jobless for a march on Washington in Massillon, Ohio. By the time they got there, their numbers had swelled to 500, all of whom unsuccessfully petitioned for a $500 million public works program. William Jennings Bryan was the Democratic candidate for president in 1896, campaigning to bring silver back as a money standard. (free Silver) "We will answer their demand for a gold standard by saying to them: You shall not press down upon the brow of labour this crown of thorns, you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold." William Jennings Bryan

Of course the money changers supported his opposition on the Republican side so long as he wanted the gold standard maintained. The factory bosses were somehow convinced to tell their work force that business would close down if Bryan was elected, and everyone would lose their jobs. The Republicans won by a small margin. Bryan tried again in 1900 and in 1908 but lost both times. He became secretary of state under Wilson in 1912 but became disenchanted and resigned in 1915 under suspicious circumstances connected with the sinking of the Lusitania which drove America into the First World War. It will come as a big surprise to many to find that the World's leading bankers financed the Russian Revolution and took an active part in it. But it is true. Modern banking was founded by Meyer Amschel Rothschild in Frankfort, Germany. The Rothschilds, Warburgs, and Schiffs intermarried and spread their banking throughout the World. Paul M. Warburg married Jenney Nina Loeb and Jacob Schiff married Therisa Loeb, thus in combination they gained control of the American banking house of Khun, Loeb and Co. Paul M. Warburg came to the United States in 1906 to oversee the writing of the Federal Reserve Bank Act. He became a citizen in 1911, was decorated by the Kaiser in 1912, and was appointed Vice-Chairman of the new Federal Reserve Board in 1914.

BankLords use US to Capture More Foreign Lands and Commit War Crimes in Philippines (1900's)

The Philippines, rich in resources and gold and oil, is a US neo-colonial state since 1899 when the US invaded and suppressed the Philippino's independence struggle. US aggression in the Philippines has claimed millions of lives. The Filipino-American War a century ago was a witness to the millions of Filipinos slaughtered in an imperial expansionism. During the first two days of the war since its outbreak on Feb. 3, 1899, a total of 3,000 Filipinos were slain. Roughly 1.4 million Filipinos were killed in that war. This figure does not include the 100,000 lives claimed by General Bell's military campaigns from 1899 to 1903. Two-thirds of the entire United States Armed Forces, or roughly 125,000 US soldiers, were deployed in the Philippines at the start of the war. This carnage was highlighted by the infamous Balangiga massacre on Samar Island, in which 50,000 Filipinos were butchered. American soldiers, headed by General Jacob Smith, turned Samar into a "howling wilderness" by burning and killing everything in sight, notwithstanding the age or gender of the individual. Some who did not die in the bloodbath eventually passed away because of malnutrition or infections during hamletting. The population of Samar was reduced to 257,715 from 312,192 before the massacre. http://www.inq7.net/opi/2003/oct/16/letter_3-1.htm

Filipino casualties on the first day of war. National Archives Photo No. 111-RB-1037. General Jacob H. Smith's infamous order, "Kill everyone over ten," was the caption in the New York Journal cartoon on May 5, 1902. The Old Glory draped an American shield on which a vulture replaced the bald eagle. Caption is: "Criminals because they were born ten years before we took the Philippines." The general was court-martialed.

Similarly, records from the Philippine Centennial War Initiative revealed that 100,000 civilian Muslims were killed during the American conquest of Mindanao at the early phase of US occupation. Several statutes that bluntly violated basic human rights, like the 1901 Sedition law and Reconcentration Act of 1903, legitimized the killings and human rights abuses all over the archipelago. After its occupation of the Philippines, the US made sure that it would retain control by the signing of prejudiced military treaties. Among these were the Military Bases Agreement and the Mutual Defense Treaty. These gave way for continued exploitation and other criminal acts. Even after the turnover of US military bases to the Philippines, former employees and nearby residents of the bases continue to suffer from the deformities and other diseases brought about by the presence of toxic wastes inside the bases' facilities. This despite the resolutions of the Philippine Congress for the US Armed Forces to immediately remove and clean their former bases of any toxic material. But the exodus of US soldiers from Philippine soil was short-lived as the Philippine Senate ratified the Visiting Forces Agreement in 1997 and secretly signed the Military Logistics Support Agreement. The two agreements paved the way for waves of joint military exercises with US troops, thus further intensifying the militarization in the countryside as a result of counter-insurgency programs of different administrations. The recent sellout was Foreign Affairs Secretary Blas Ople's, a known "Am-boy," in a non-surrender agreement on US soldiers who committed crimes in Philippine soil to the International Criminal Court. http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Philippine-American_War

General Jacob H. Smith's infamous order, "Kill everyone over ten," was the caption in the New York Journal cartoon on May 5, 1902. The Old Glory draped an American shield on which a vulture replaced the bald eagle. Caption is: "Criminals because they were born ten years before we took the Philippines." In 1908, Manuel Arellano Remondo, in a book entitled General Geography of the Philippine Islands, wrote: "The population decreased due to the wars, in the five-year period from 1895 to 1900, since, at the start of the first insurrection, the population was estimated at 9,000,000, and at present (1908), the inhabitants of the Archipelago do not exceed 8,000,000 in number."^[8] U.S. attacks into the countryside often included scorched earth campaigns where entire villages were burned and destroyed, torture (water cure) and the concentration of civilians into "protected zones" (concentration camps). Many of the civilian casualties resulted from disease and famine. Reports of the execution of U.S. soldiers taken prisoner by the Filipinos led to savage reprisals by American forces. Many American officers and soldiers called war a "nigger killing business". From almost the beginning of the war, soldiers wrote home describing, and usually bragging about, atrocities committed against Filipinos, soldiers and civilians alike. Increasingly, such personal letters, or portions of them, reached a national audience as anti-imperialist editors across the nation reproduced them. Once these accounts were widely reproduced, the War Department was forced to demand that General Otis investigate their authenticity. For each press clipping, he forwarded it to the writer's commanding officer, who would then convince the soldier to write a retraction.

Private Charles Brenner of the Kansas regiment resisted such pressure. He insisted that Colonel Funston had ordered that all prisoners be shot and that Major Metcalf and Captain Bishop enforced these orders. Otis was obliged to order the Northern Luzon sector commander, General MacArthur, to look into the charge. Brenner confronted MacArthur's aide with a corroborating witness, Private Putman, who confessed to shooting two prisoners after Bishop or Metcalf ordered, "Kill them! Damn it, Kill them!" MacArthur sent his aide's report on to Otis with no comment. Otis ordered Brenner court-martialed "for writing and conniving at the publication of an article which... contains willful falsehoods concerning himself and a false charge against Captain Bishop." The judge advocate in Manila convinced Otis that such a trial could open a Pandora's box, as "facts would develop implicating many others."

General Otis sent the Brenner case to Washington writing: "After mature deliberation, I doubt the wisdom of court-martial in this case, as it would give the insurgent authorities a knowledge of what was taking place and they would assert positively that our troops had practiced inhumanities, whether the charge should be proven or not, as they would use it as an excuse to defend their own barbarities;" and Otis went on, justifying the war crimes, "and it is not thought that his charge is very grievous under the circumstances then existing, as it was very early in the war, and the patience of our men was under great strain." Towards the end of 1899, General Otis attempted to repair his battered image. He began to work to win new friends among the journalists in Manila and bestowed favors on any journalist who gave him favourable press. As one historian wrote about Marinduque, the first island with concentration camps: "The triple press of concentration (camps), devastation, and harassment led Abad (the Marinduque commander) ...to request a truce to negotiate surrender terms... The Army pacified Marinduque not by winning the allegiance of the people, but by imposing coercive measures to control their behavior and separate them from the insurgents in the field. Ultimately, military and security measures proved to be the (essential element) of Philippine pacification."^[13] This assessment could probably be applied to all of the Philippines.

During the closing months of 1899, Emilio Aguinaldo attempted to counter General Otis's account by suggesting that neutral parties—foreign journalists or representatives of the International Red Cross inspect his military operations. Otis refused, but Emilio Aguinaldo managed to smuggle in four reporters—two English, one Canadian, and a Japanese into the Philippines. The correspondents returned to Manila to report that American captives were "treated more like guests than prisoners," were "fed the best that the country affords, and everything is done to gain their favor." The story went on to say that American prisoners were offered commissions in the Philippine army and that three had accepted. The four reporters were expelled from the Philippines as soon as their stories were printed. Emilio Aguinaldo also released some American prisoners so they could tell their own stories. In a Boston Globe article entitled "With the Goo Goo's" Paul Spillane described his fair treatment as a prisoner. Emilio Aguinaldo had even invited American captives to the christening of his baby and had given each a present of four dollars, Spillane recounted. Naval Lieutenant J.C. Gilmore, whose release was forced by American cavalry pursuing Aguinaldo into the mountains, insisted that he had received "considerable treatment" and that he was no more starved than were his captors. Otis responded to these two articles by ordering the "capture" of the two authors, and that they be "investigated", therefore questioning their loyalty. When F.A. Blake of the International Red Cross arrived at Emilio Aguinaldo's request, Otis kept him confined to Manila, where Otis's staff explained all of the Filipinos' violations of civilized warfare. Blake managed to slip away from an escort and venture into the field. Blake never made it past American lines, but even within American lines he saw burned out villages and "horribly mutilated bodies, with stomachs slit open and occasionally decapitated." Blake waited to return to San Francisco, where he told one reporter that "American soldiers are determined to kill every Filipino in sight."

J.P.Morgan And The Crash Of 1907

If you want to work out the cause of the crash of 1907, checking who benefited is where you might like to look first. With the stock market slump causing most of the over extended banks to falter, in steps J.P. Morgan offering to save the day. People will do strange things when in a panic, and this might explain why Morgan was authorised to print $200 million from nothing, which he then used to prop things up. Some of the troubled banks with less than 1% in reserve had no choice. It was accept this solution or go under. Even if they had worked out that their problems had been caused by the same people now offering the solution, there is not a lot they could have done about it. J.P.Morgan was hailed a hero. "All this trouble could be averted if we appointed a committee of six or seven men like J.P.Morgan to handle the affairs of our country." President Woodrow Wilson (total sellout to the BankLords!). The Conspiracy wished to take control of American money, "mobilize its credit" to finance World War I and overthrow the Czar (for Russian money and creation of their private central bank). And it needed America to assure victory over Germany and control of the Bundesbank. President Woodrow Wilson was pressured into signing the Federal Reserve Act and to declare war on Germany. Later he was to say, "I have involuntarily ruined my government". Ominously, he warned, "Some of the biggest men in the United States...are afraid of something. They know there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it." (And it has grown enormously from a century of war.) But not everyone was fooled at that time.

"Those not favourable to the money trust could be squeezed out of business and the people frightened into demanding changes in the banking and currency laws which the Money Trust would frame." Rep. Charles A. Lindbergh (R-MN)

Causing booms and busts is a tried and proven method of raking in massive wealth, and what people often forget when they lose what they have, is that in the process someone else has won it. Apart from making a small number rich at the expense of the many, in this case the instability also served the second purpose of encouraging the public to believe that they would be better off living under a Central Bank and a Gold Standard. Desperate people have little time for logic. In his book Tragedy and Hope, Quigley says this: "The Rhodes scholarship established by the terms of Cecil Rhodes' seventh will are known to everyone. What is not so widely known is that Rhodes, in five previous wills, left his fortune to form a secret society, which was to devote itself to the preservation and expansion of the British Empire. This secret society continues to exist to this day."

The structure of the secret society was formed along classical, conspiratorial lines. If you study any of the better-known conspiracies of history, you find that they often are structured as rings within rings. Generally there's a leader or a small group of two or three people at the center. They form a ring of supporters around them of perhaps eight or ten or twelve, and those people think they are the total organization. They are not aware that two or three of them are in control. And then the twelve are instructed to create a larger ring around them of perhaps one- or two-hundred people who all think they are the total organization, not realizing there are twelve who are really directing it. These rings extend outward until, finally, they reach into the mainstream community where they enlist the services of innocent people who perform various tasks of the secret society without realizing who is creating the agenda or why. The Rhodes organization was set up exactly along those lines. Quigley tells us this: "In the secret society, Rhodes was to be leader. Stead, Brett, and Milner were to form an executive committee. Arthur Balfour, Sir Harry Johnston, Lord Rothschild, Albert Grey, and others were listed as potential members of a Circle of Initiates, while there was to be an outer circle known as the Association of Helpers."

After the death of Cecil Rhodes, the organization fell under the control of Lord Alfred Milner, who was Governor General and High Commissioner of South Africa, also a very powerful person in British banking and politics. He recruited young men from the upper class of society to become part of the Association of Helpers. Unofficially, they were known as "Milner's Kindergarten." They were chosen because of their class origin, their intelligence, and especially because of their dedication to collectivism. They were quickly placed into important positions in government and other power centers to promote the hidden agenda of the secret society. Eventually, this Association of Helpers became the inner rings of much larger groups, which expanded throughout the British Empire and into the United States.

This is what Quigley says: "Through Lord Milner's influence, these men were able to win influential posts in government, in international finance, and become the dominant influence in British imperial affairs and foreign affairs up to 1939. In 1909 through 1913, they organized semi-secret groups known as known as Round Table Groups, in the chief British dependencies and the United States. Once again the task was given to Lionel Curtis who established, in England and each dominion, a front organization to the existing local Round Table Group. This front organization, called the Royal Institute of International Affairs, had as its nucleus in each area the existing, submerged Round Table Group. In New York it was known as the Council on Foreign Relations, and was a front for J.P. Morgan and Company."

Finally, we begin to understand the significance of an obscure organization that plays a decisive role in contemporary American political life, The Council on Foreign Relations. Now we see where it came from, who controls it, and how its rings within rings fit into the global strategy for ruling class collectivism.

Lincoln' Statue Watches The Fed

In Washington the statue of Lincoln sitting in his chair is facing a building called the Federal Reserve Headquarters. This institution would not be there if Lincoln had lived to finish his second term in office. It is not Federal and it has doubtful reserves. The name is an open deception designed to give this private bank the appearance that it is operating in the public's interest, when in fact it is run solely to gain private profit for its select stock holders. It came into being as the result of one of the slickest moves in financial history. Here's how. A secret meeting was held on Jekyll Island (owned by J.P. Morgan) in Georgia (around 1910) at which the roadmap towards creating the Federal Reserve was finalized. It included the birth of a banking cartel to protect its members from competition; the strategy of how to convince Congress and the public that this cartel was an agency of the United States government, etc.. At this meeting were seven men who represented an estimated one forth of the total wealth of the entire World:

1. Nelson W. Aldrich, Republican "whip" in the Senate, Chairman of the National Monetary Commission, business associate of J.P. Morgan, father-in-law to John D. Rockefeller, Jr.;
2. Abraham Piatt Andrew, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury;
3. Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, the most powerful of the banks at that time, representing William Rockefeller and the international investment banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Company;
4. Henry P. Davison, senior partner of the J.P Morgan Company;
5. Charles D. Norton, president of J.P. Morgan's First National Bank of New York;

6. Benjamin Strong, head of J.P. Morgan's Bankers Trust Company; and
7. Paul M. Warburg, a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Company, a representative of the Rothschild banking dynasty in England and France, and brother to Max Warburg who was head of the Warburg banking consortium in Germany and the Netherlands.

The Illuminati interests wanted to create a Central Bank in America. They wanted to create the privately owned Federal Reserve modeled on the privately owned Bank of England. First, they needed a bunch of banking crisis' that would push public opinion towards a Federal Reserve system. These were provided by the Illuminati, including J.P. Morgan's Knickerbocker Panic of 1907. Second, they needed a favorable U.S. president in office. Rothschild agent Colonel House provided this by getting President Woodrow Wilson elected. The American people were being conditioned. To provide the 'reform of the American banking system" a congressional National Monetary Commission was created and a man related to the Rockefellers, Nelson Aldrich, was put in charge. For two years this Commission traveled around Europe hob-nobbing with the Illuminati and getting directions as to how the central bank should be set up. Then the Commission returned in 1910, and Nelson Aldrich went to a secret meeting at the Jekyll Island Hunt Club in Georgia to write the legislation for an American central bank to be run by the Illuminati. Others at the Jekyll Island meeting were these Illuminati men - A. Platt Andrew, Frank Vanderlip (of a Kuhn-Loeb & Company bank), Henry Davidson (of J.P. Morgan), Charles Norton (of a Morgan bank), Paul Warburg (of Kuhn-Loeb & Company and brother-in-law of Schiff), Benjamin Strong (of another Morgan company). Most of these men were connected to Jacob Schiff or J.P. Morgan, who in turn were agents for the House of Rothschild.

Below are the list of people whom many Good Free American Protestant Bible Believing Christians called them as Children Of Lucifer. These people are the ones masterminded and conspired for the creation of illegal FEDERAL RESERVE BANK: Theodore Roosevelt, Paul Warburg - Representative Of Rothschild, President Woodrow Wilson - U.S. President Signed FED Into Act, Nelson W. Aldrich - Representative Of Rockefeller, Benjamin Strong - Representative Of Rockefeller, Frank A. Vanderlip - Representative Of Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller - Rockefeller Himself, Henry Davison - Representative Of J. P. Morgan, Charles Norton - Representative Of J. P. Morgan.

All the wealthy and powerful men who were against forming the centralized banking cartel we now call FEDERAL RESERVE BANK.and whom the Jesuits wanted to get rid of were invited to take the 1912 Titanic cruise. Three of the richest and most important of these were Benjamin Guggenheim, Isador Strauss, the head of Macy's Department Stores, and John Jacob Astor. Jesuits made a sinister plan, i.e. "SINKING OF THE TITANIC", where Jesuit Fr. Francis Browne boarded the Titanic with the wealthy Jews who opposed the Fed and was later ordered by the JESUIT GENERAL to disembark as the ship will be sunk intentionally by Capt. Edward Smith - a fanatic follower of the Jesuits.

The Titanic which sank in 1912 was carrying the richest men on earth who were opposed to the BankLords' plans to create their private central bank in the US (some say that the recent videotapes of the sunken ship suggest that an explosion took place aboard, otherwise this was a great stroke of luck for the Jesuit society operative who was supposed to accompany these men on board but did not). These men who went down with the Titanic were wealthy Jews who were resisting the establishment of a private centralized bank by defying Zionist Masons in America, particularly John Jacob Astor, who was a personal friend of Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis. Brandeis greatly resisted the establishment of the private Central Bank. Astor, Guggenheim, and Straus were three extremely wealthy Jewish men who went down with the Titanic. Astor was some say the wealthiest man in the World other than the Pope. However, he was NOT using his wealth in accord with the Rothschild Order. After his death in the Titanic, his son, John Jacob Astor IV, took over his money trust (see Eugene Sue's The Wandering Jew). John Jacob was willing to go along with being part of the privately owned central bank system.

The Republicans, dedicated to grafting themselves to these wealthy BankLords, proposed a most incredible solution of The Federal Reserve Act in 1911: concentration of these same bankers' powers under one "central" bank comprised of a collection of the perpetrating banks together. Understandably, the Democrats were elected to power in 1912 on a platform explicitly declaring opposition to the establishment of a central bank. The Republicans were defeated in this election for strong public distrust of their proposal to concentrate powers beyond democracy or any thought of representative government in the central bank advocated by their Aldrich Plan. Just such powers however, were eventually inherited in an incredible chain of events which soon afterward created the Federal Reserve on the eve of December 23, 1913 — circumventing unlikely passage by a contrived, orchestrated emergency session predominantly marked by the Christmas absence of those who opposed the incredibly corrupt proposition. Representative government was usurped; and never again would the public be permitted, by the perpetual servants of the usurers, to contest the rectitude of that oppressive system. Despite the explicit 1912 platform of the Democrats being declared opposition to the creation of a central bank, the "Federal Reserve" nevertheless — virtually the same Aldrich/Republican entity re-dressed under a purposely misleading name — was created only a year later, in 1913, as an energetic project under Democrat President Woodrow Wilson.

Actually, the Republican Party of betrayers proposed consolidating powers in the same 12 private banks as we "know" today as "The Federal Reserve," and the Democrat Party of betrayers promised never to do such a thing. The Federal Reserve System began operation in 1914, and, true to vigilant public anticipation, accomplished both principal ownership and ruin of the economy in 1929 — just 15 years afterward. The careless rode a wave of inflation, straight to the doom of all. The collapsing of the securities market is the same takeover ruse which the proposed Aldrich Central Bank was promised to prevent in the propaganda of the carefully re-named "Federal Reserve" System. As history continues to prove, a huge volume of unrepealed, financial legislative acts were thus based on purposed deception.

The Federal Reserve Act of 1913

Finally, the BankLords, those who profit by creating and manipulating the amount of money in circulation, had their privately owned central bank installed again in America, the very banking model that the founding fathers wanted to escape from when they left Britain. The major newspapers (which they owned or heavily influenced through their advertising) hailed passage of the Federal Reserve Act of 1913, telling the public that "now depressions could be scientifically prevented." The fact of the matter was that now depressions could be scientifically initiated by the BankLords. By bribery, deceitful political manipulation and abuse of their press influence and ownership, they had usurped the monetary function of government. The U.S. government was left with only trivial relics of its sovereign monetary power: the minting of coins (a tiny fraction of the money supply, but a debt-free one); the re-printing of Lincoln's U.S. notes (Greenbacks, but limited to $300,000,000 total); and issuing a limited number of gold and silver certificates.

Now, the BankLords create money by merely creating paper credits in the central banking cartels which they own or in the local banks which they own. The Federal Reserve Act stipulated that the interest on the debt was to be paid in gold. There was no stipulation in the Federal Reserve Act for ever paying the principle.

As Mr. James Rand, former President of Remington Rand, Inc. well said: "No government should permit such coercive power over its own credit to be held by any one group or class as the privately owned Federal Reserve System holds today. No government should delegate to private interests the control over the purchasing power of money. The issue must be faced and settled. There can be no complete restoration of confidence until the conflict between private and government control over money is ended."

The Private Federal Reserve Bank HQ (right next to the US Treasury, established in 1913 for the 3rd time by Act of Congress) The 5th American Bank War ended in victory for the Money Changers and the defeat of the American people. In the interim, the Money Changers' grip has gradually tightened, hiding this history, propagandizing our people to support their various nefarious activities through their media control, and choking our liberties by degrees.

Article 1, Section 8 of the Constitution states that Congress shall have the power to coin (create) money and regulate the value thereof. Today however, the FED, which is a privately owned company, controls and profits by printing money through the Treasury, and regulating its value. The FED began with approximately 300 people or banks that became owners (stockholders purchasing stock at $100 per share - the stock is not publicly traded) in the Federal Reserve Banking System. They make up an international banking cartel of wealth beyond comparison. The FED banking system collects billions of dollars in interest annually and distributes the profits to its shareholders. The Congress illegally gave the FED the right to print money (through the Treasury) at no interest to the FED. The FED creates money from nothing, and loans it back to us through banks, and charges interest on our currency. The FED also buys Government debt with money printed on a printing press and charges U.S. taxpayers interest. Many Congressmen and Presidents say this is fraud.

Who actually owns the Federal Reserve Central Banks? The ownership of the 12 Central banks, a very well kept secret, has been revealed: Rothschild Bank of London, Warburg Bank of Hamburg, Rothschild Bank of Berlin, Lehman Brothers of New York, Lazard Brothers of Paris, Kuhn Loeb Bank of New York, Israel Moses Seif Banks of Italy, Goldman, Sachs of New York, Warburg Bank of Amsterdam, Chase Manhattan Bank of New York (all interconnected by German Zionist ancestry). These bankers are connected to London Banking Houses which ultimately control the FED. When England lost the Revolutionary War with America (our forefathers were fighting their own government), they planned to control us by controlling our banking system, the printing of our money, and our debt. The individuals listed below owned banks which in turn owned shares in the FED. The banks listed below have significant control over the New York FED District, which controls the other 11 FED Districts. These banks also are partly foreign owned and control the New York FED District Bank. First National Bank of New York, James Stillman, National City Bank, New York, Mary W. Harnman, National Bank of Commerce, New York, A.D. Jiullard, Hanover National Bank, New York, Jacob Schiff, Chase National Bank, New York, Thomas F. Ryan, Paul Warburg, William Rockefeller, Levi P. Morton, M.T. Pyne, George F. Baker, Percy Pyne, Mrs. G.F. St. George, J.W. Sterling, Katherine St. George, H.P. Davidson, J.P. Morgan (a lieutenant of the Rothschild dynasty) Equitable Life/Mutual Life, Edith Brevour T. Baker.

The matriarch of the Rothschild banking dynasty is quoted as saying "permit me to control a nation's money supply and I care not who makes its laws. Those few who can understand the system (check book money and credit) will either be so interested in its profits, or so dependent on its favors, that there will be little opposition from that class, while on the other hand, the great body of people mentally incapable of comprehending the tremendous advantage that capital derives from the system, will bear it burdens without complaint, and perhaps without even suspecting that the system is inimical to their interests." Time and again the founding fathers (especially Jefferson) warned of this. He said that if ever we allowed the trans-Atlantic Bankers to control the issuance of currency, our children would wake up homeless (mortgage, not own your home) on the continent their forefathers conquered. We have ignored the fathers of our country and we are paying a dear price in continuous cycles of inflation and depression from their manipulation of the "money" supply. The Federal Reserve Bank is actually not a part of the U.S. government --- it is a corporation owned by foreign trans-Atlantic mega-banking dynasties. http://land.netonecom.net/tlp/ref/federal_reserve.shtml

How did this come about? Lets go back in the ancient past (17th century and before) when anyone that people would trust could be a "money changer" or banker, say for example a goldsmith. People would deposit their gold with the trusted banker and in return would get a token or paper note as a symbol of their asset. The symbol would identify the banker who issued it (the symbol of the Rothschilds' Bank is the 6 pointed Star of Moloch and you can see it as 13 stars on the Federal Reserve one dollar note). They would trade with that symbol with others who trusted it. The banker soon realized that he could issue more symbols than he had on deposit and even charge an interest on that symbol. This was fine as long as there wasn't any "rush on his bank" (i.e. everyone coming at once to redeem their symbol for their gold!). So, just like man discovered fire several thousands of years ago, the banker discovered "fiat" money several centuries ago!

John Kutyn (2000), a former Canadian banker explains that government-created money (legal tender, notes, currency): "are not credit money. They are pieces of paper on which the government places its stamp making them legal tender". They are not redeemable, nor do they have to be paid back. They continue to exist and circulate throughout the economy. Again, these can be created in unlimited amounts simply by printing another note, which themselves can have as many zeros at the end as the government may desire. However, because they are created on a piece of paper, they affect the economy in a very different way than money that is created through the creation of a loan.

A government note once created and injected into the economy has a one-time effect when it increases the quantity of money. When a new loan is given and money created through the banking system, it too causes an increase in the money supply. However, since loans require the payment of interest and principle, they also act to contract the money supply. It is important to note that the creation of money, whether through the printing of

Sixty-third Congress of the United States of America:

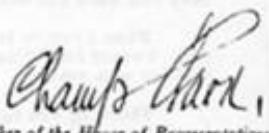

At the Second Session,

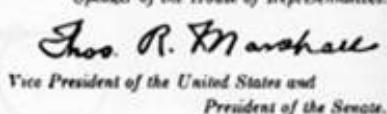

Begun and held at the City of Washington on Monday, the first day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

AN ACT

To provide for the establishment of Federal reserve banks, to furnish an elastic currency, to afford means of rediscounting commercial paper, to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the short title of this Act shall be the "Federal Reserve Act."

Champ Clark,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Theo. R. Marshall
Vice President of the United States and President of the Senate.

Approved 23 December, 1913.

Woodrow Wilson

For complete set of printed and final copies of Federal Reserve Act of 1913 noted that while we can use mathematics and logical reasoning to show the errors of Keynesian economic theory, it is Keynesian theory that provided the theoretical and moral justification for the massive increase in government debts this century. This has allowed Bankers to exert significant influence over governments, while transferring trillions of dollars from taxpayers to Bankers to pay the interest on these loans. Has all of this happened because of an innocent error?" or was it planned by the Illuminati banksters?

We must have a clear understanding of what actually happens when a new loan is created. Many people are under the mistaken belief that a bank is lending some of the money that it holds as deposits. This is not what happens. When a new loan is created, a bank completes two bookkeeping entries. It credits the borrowers account with the amount of the loan, and it creates a loan account of an equal amount. The effect on the bank's balance sheet is that total deposits have increased by the amount of the loan, and the banks total loans have increased by the amount of the loan. Since we are talking of the creation of two equal and offsetting accounting entries, it does not matter how small or how large these numbers are, hence the concept of an unlimited supply of credit. No matter how large the loan created, the bank's balance sheet will remain balanced. A picture of the fraudulent, horrible, enslaving and tyrannical Federal Reserve Act. Are there any practical limits to credit growth? The fact that banks are allowed to create an unlimited amount of loans and money is an accounting truism. Consider for a moment loans involved in the Yen-carry trade. Here, loans are created in Yen within the Japanese banking system. A borrower's account is credited with Yen, and an equal loan account is created, on which the borrower pays a very low rate of interest. These Yen are then sold for U.S. dollars and invested in the U.S. bond market earning 6% or the U.S. stock market earning 20%. These loans were created in such massive amounts since 1995 that they drove up the value of the U.S. dollar in spite of large trade imbalances. Money from nothing in the truest sense of the word.

David Korten (1999, 0. 34) elaborates further on the nature of mortgages (the word "mort-gage" comes from the Latin meaning "death-pledge" or "death grip" (Rowbotham, 1998): "Say a bank provides me with a $100,000 mortgage. It opens an account in my name and credits it with the amount of my loan. In so doing it creates $100,000 that I then spend into circulation. So far, so good. The catch is this: the bank expects to be repaid with interest, which on a long-term mortgage might require repayments of $200,000 or more above the loan capital. Because all the other money in circulation was also created through lending by banks that also expect to be paid back with interest, there simply isn't enough money in circulation to pay the banks their dues – unless the economy grows fast enough to expand borrowing a rate sufficient to create the money required to repay the principal and interest on previous loans. The banks check of your credit worthiness is in fact your ability of competing and winning against other players and if you fail in that game you lose your house or whatever other collateral you had to put up."

Evidence of this process of money creation through debt is best portrayed in a picture. The graph below shows a huge mountain of debt since 1950 in the US. Notice the small sliver that represents government notes (seigniorage) that can be created at no cost to citizens while debt imposes an obligation to repay the principal plus interest on money created out of nothing to finance the purchase or production of something. The total outstanding debt of the US (total credit market debt, domestic non-financial federal government, state and local government, household, and business, and financial, has grown from $425 billion in 1950 to an astounding $25.6 trillion by the end of 1999 (Federal Reserve System, 1999)). The majority of this credit market debt is owed by financial institutions ($7,606 billion), households ($6,466 billion, in mortgages and consumer debt), business ($5,986 billion), and federal, state and local governments ($4,932 billion). Foreign debt has also been rising and stands at $622 billion by end of 1999. Most troubling is the government notes or through the creation of a loan is totally outside of the operating economy (though it can have a very significant effect on the economy).

The manufacture of a car or production of wheat does not create money. Today, almost all money is created through the creation of loans (very little of what we call money is in the form of government notes). With similar reasoning, the payment of interest or principle on a loan can only be made with money, and in the process destroys or reduces money by the amount paid. Again it is not the manufacture of a car or production of wheat that repays a loan, only money can do this.

1913 Federal Reserve Act

"Whenever, a new loan is given, new money is created, the result is offsetting paper entries on a banks financial statement. Both deposits and loans increase by equal amounts. Similarly, money is destroyed whenever loans are repaid with deposits and loans decreasing by an equal amount. In theory, there is no limit to the amount of money that can be created or destroyed".

When money is allowed to be created through the banking system, it has various significant consequences. It must be recognized that deposits and loans only represent bookkeeping entries. As such, when a bank charges interest on a new loan, it is receiving income on a bookkeeping entry that it created out of nothing. Thus over time, it oversees the transfer of wealth to the banking dynasties of the World. Of special significance, are bank loans to the governments. Money is whatever governments define it to be, and when governments desire to spend more than they receive, the shortfall could be covered by printing notes or by borrowing from the banks. Both methods involve creating money out of nothing. However, borrowing money through the banks makes the governments dependant on the Bankers while over time transferring wealth from the taxpayers to the Bankers to pay the interest on these loans that were created out of nothing. Today, this interest represents a large percentage of all taxes collected, with most tax departments now representing a collection agency for World Bankers. In this regard, it must be trend is the mounting debt by the financial sector and the soaring amount of margin debt. Margin debt has grown from a mere $1.4 billion 1950 to $278 billion by March 2000, an increase of 20,410% or increased 10 fold in the last 10 years of the US stock market bull run! The mountain of US debt is in fact greater than the entire Third World nations ($2.5 trillion) combined. How can the richest and most economically powerful nation on earth be so indebted and to whom? These are complex issues but demand inquiry. What is immediately apparent from the debt chart is that the mountain of debt never ceases growing reflecting the perpetual motion nature of money creation in parallel with debt and the "magic" of compounding interest. It is important to realize that because of the nature of the debt laying claim to real wealth, in excess of the physical supply of real wealth, means the debt effectively unrepayable. There is only one conclusion to this journey, the repudiation of all debt or the collapse of the entire oikonomia as the debt becomes impossible to repay, and a subsequent deflationary cycle in prices as liquidity falls.

Debt-write-offs have no capital affect on banks overall since the money was created out of nothing. The only affect is that they don't get to collect interest anymore on the written-off debt. Since all debt is borrowed money, in order to write off a debt, it is necessary to destroy part of the money supply. Actual and impending losses give rise to a desire for additional liquidity in the financial system in the form of more "fiat" money. Until that liquidity is obtained, bankruptcies and price deflation will set in. The losers are always the employees, shareholders, tax payers and the masses when public assets have to be sold off for a penny on the $. With this backgrounder, let's start our journey into the history of money and explore what some interesting people have been saying about money and power! after this aside note. The Federal Reserve bill was sneakily passed through congress in the winter of 1913 and President Woodrow Wilson signed the bill into law. The Illuminati, particularly the Rockefellers and Rothschilds, had usurped the financial power of the United States. The first governor of the New York branch of the Federal Reserve was Benjamin Strong. The first governor of the FED's board of directors was Paul Warburg. Both connected to Schiff, J.P. Morgan, Jr, and the House of Rothschild. The FED has been an effective tool of the Illuminati and the Rothschilds, creating crisis such as the Great Depression (which J.P. Morgan, Jr was very involved in creating). Apparently (according to Congressman Louis McFadden), the Depression helped consolidate financial power over the US., putting it in the hands of the Rothschild banking alliance between J.P. Morgan's First National Bank group and Schiff's Kuhn, Loeb-run National City Bank. The Great Depression also led to Roosevelt's New Deal. On 23rd December 1913 the House of Representatives had past the Federal Reserve Act, but it was still having difficulty getting it out of the senate. Most members of congress had gone home for the holidays, but unfortunately the senate had not adjourn sine dei (without day) so they were technically still in session. There were only three members still present. On a unanimous consent voice vote the 1913 Federal Reserve Act was passed. No objection was made, possibly because there was no one there to object.

Charles Lindbergh would have objected: "The financial system has been turned over to... the federal reserve board. That board administers the finance system by authority of... a purely profiteering group. The system is private, conducted for the sole purpose of obtaining the greatest possible profits from the use of other people's money." Rep Charles A, Lindbergh (R-MN)

Louis T. McFadden would have objected. (see details of his speech later in this document): "We have in this country one of the most corrupt institutions the World has ever known. I refer to the Federal Reserve Board... This evil institution has impoverished... the people of the United States... and has practically bankrupted our Government. It has done this through... the corrupt practice of the moneyed vultures who control it."
Rep. Louis T, McFadden (R-PA)

Barry Goldwater would also have objected: "Most Americans have no real understanding of the operation of the international money lenders... The accounts of the Federal Reserve System have never been fully audited. It operates outside the control of Congress and... manipulates the credit of the United States." Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-AZ)

The banking dynasties benefited from the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 as follows:

1. It misdirected banking reforms away from the people's right to issue debt-free money.
2. Prevented the greenbacks from making a comeback.
3. Delegated to the private bankers to create & contract 90% of the money supply.
4. Centralized overall control of the US money supply in the hands of a few men.
5. Established a privately owned central bank with a high degree of independence from effective control by the people and its just gotten worse by amendments passed after 1913. Soon after its creation, the owners of the Fed manage to create a boom by increasing the money supply and then created the great depression by contracting the money supply and then bought properties for a penny on the dollar from bankrupt Americans (they call it fleecing of the flock).

The Board of Governors is politically appointed. This is true and it is supposed to make us feel safe in the thought that the President responds to the will of the people and that he selects only those who have the public interest at heart. The part of the story omitted is that the President does not select these people from his own personal address book, nor does he ask the public to submit nominations. With few exceptions, he makes appointments from lists given to him by the staffs of banking committees of Congress and from private sources that have been influential in his election campaign. The most powerful of all these groups are the financial institutions (including prominent members of the Fed itself) and the media corporations over which they have effective control. One does not have to be a so-called conspiracy theorist to recognize the tremendous influence that these institutions have over the outcome of presidential campaigns, and anyone with knowledge of how our current political system works will understand why the President makes exactly the appointments that the banks want him to make. All one has to do to see the accuracy of this appraisal is to examine the backgrounds and attitudes of the men who receive the appointments. While there is an occasional token individual who appears to come from the consumer sector of society, the majority are bankers deeply committed to the perpetuation of the system that sustains them. Anyone who would seriously challenge the power of the banking cartel would never be appointed. So, the IMPLICATION that the Fed is subject to control of the people through the political process is entirely false.

It is true that some of the money paid by the government for interest on the national debt is returned to the government by the Fed. That is because the Fed's charter requires any interest payments in excess of the Fed's actual operating expenses to be refunded. However, before we jump to the conclusion that this is a wonderful benefit, we must remember that the banking cartel is able to use our tax dollars which go towards interest to pay 100% of its operating expenses with few questions asked about the nature of those expenses. After all of those gigantic and luxurious expenses are paid, what is left over is rebated to the Treasury. Technically, there is no "profit" on this money. However, remember that creating money for the government is only one of the functions of the Fed. The real bonanza comes, not from money created out of nothing for the government, but from money created out of nothing by the commercial banks for loans to private and corporate borrowers. That's where the real action is. This is the famous slight-of-hand trick. Distract attention with one hand while the coin is retrieved by the other. By focusing on the supposed generosity of the Fed by returning unused interest to the Treasury, we are supposed to overlook the much larger river of gold flowing into the member banks in the form of interest on money created from nothing.

The current average ratio (it varies depending on the bank) is about ten-to one and moving higher. In other words, for every one dollar on deposit and held in reserve, the bank can create up to an additional nine dollars out of nothing for the purpose of lending. The statement that the banks must pay a competitive interest rate on those deposits is humorous when one considers the math. For example, let us assume for the sake of illustration that the bank pays 1.5% interest. Then it turns around and charges, let's say 6.5% interest. That's a spread of 5%. Although that's a pretty good brokerage commission, it doesn't sound exorbitant. But, don't forget that the bank uses each deposited dollar as a so-called reserve for creating up to an additional nine dollars in loans. It collects interest on these loans as well. Let us assume that the bank is not fully loaned up, as they call it, and has an average of only eight dollars in magic-money loans for every one dollar on deposit. In that case, it will collect 6.5% interest on all eight of those dollars. That means, based on each dollar placed on deposit, the bank will collect 52% in interest. After paying the original depositor the generous "competitive" amount of 1.5%, the bank actually receives a brokerage fee of approximately 50%. The Fed resists external full audit; If it were fully audited by an independent party, I suspect there would be nothing illegal found; The problem is not that it steals from the American people illegally but that it does so legally; Therefore, we do not need to audit the Fed, we need to ABOLISH it.

Established by the 1913 Federal Reserve Act (secretly drawn by the BankLords in 1911 at Jekyll Island) The Federal Reserve System <http://www.federalreserveonline.org/> consists of 12 privately owned central banks (with 25 regional branches). Member banks hold the shares of the district central banks: <http://woodrow.mpls.frb.fed.us/>

| | |
|---|---|
| Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta | Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis |
| Federal Reserve Bank of Boston | Federal Reserve Bank of New York |
| Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago | Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia |
| Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland | Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond |
| Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas | Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis |
| Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City | Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco | and a federal government agency with 7 governors called the Federal Reserve Board of Governors Board of Governors Fed [overview]. The New York Fed is the largest and most important of the district banks. The New York Fed reports that its eight largest member banks on June 30, 1997 were: Chase Manhattan Bank, Citibank, Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, Fleet Bank, Bankers Trust, Bank of New York, Marine Midland Bank, and Summit Bank.

"The claim that the "advice" of the council members is not binding on the Governors or that it carries no weight is to claim that four times a year, twelve of the most influential bankers in the United States take time from their work to travel to Washington to meet with the Federal Reserve Board merely to drink coffee and exchange pleasantries." (Eustache Mullins in Secrets of the Federal Reserve, p. 45). The presidential appointments, the Congressional hearings etc. are all a joke.

Note that 6 or 7 US presidents (William Henry Harrison, poisoned, in 1841, Zachary Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and John F. Kennedy 1963; 7 if we count FDR's poisoning) have been assassinated in relation to the issue of the BankLords' control over the issue of credit. The history of the Federal Reserve System in the U.S. is a study of money and power and its ability to determine World events. A small group of elitists, their successors and assigns have been able to influence public opinion through control of the media, elect or discharge Presidents and politicians, make wars and cause economic booms and busts. Neither the President of the U.S., nor the Chairman of The Federal Reserve Board act independently. They both hold office at the discretion of those who control the Federal Reserve System and those wealthy elitists who are intent on establishing a New World order. Alan Greenspan said in 1966 "The abandonment of the gold standard made it possible for the welfare statists to use the banking system as a means to an unlimited expansion of credit." Greenspan's view changed dramatically after he became a director of J.P. Morgan and Co. and later the Fed Chairman.

Member banks receive a fixed 6 percent dividend annually on their stock and elect six of the nine members of the Reserve Bank's board of directors. To carry out the day-to-day operations of the Federal Reserve System—the nation's central bank—the United States has been divided into twelve Federal Reserve Districts, each with a Reserve Bank. Reserve Banks provide many services to depository institutions and to the public, such as processing electronic payments, currency, and checks. They carry out many of the System's responsibilities for supervising banks. They also help in framing monetary policy, in part by reporting on economic developments in their regions.

Section 5 of the Act calls for a member bank to buy and hold stock in a district Federal Reserve Bank equal to 6% of its capital and surplus. For example, as of 1983, ten major New York City banks owned approximately 66% of the outstanding stock in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. That Bank in turn owns a portion of the stock in the Federal Reserve Bank of the U.S. together with the eleven regional member banks. A review of the major stockholders of the ten New York city banks clearly shows that a few families related by blood, marriage or business interests control those 10 New York city banks, which in turn, hold the controlling stock in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. In addition, approximately 38% of the stock of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York (as of 1983) was held by banks that are subsidiaries of foreign banks, namely the House of Rothschild which controls the Bank of England. The fact that the Federal Reserve System is controlled by private interests is one of the best kept secrets in American history.

As required by the Federal Reserve Act of 1913, each of the Reserve Banks is supervised by a board of nine directors who are familiar with economic and credit conditions in the district. Similarly, each of the twenty-five Reserve Bank Branches has a board of five or seven directors who are familiar with conditions in the area encompassed by the Branch. Selection and Representation Reserve Bank boards of directors are divided into three classes of three persons each. Class A directors represent the member commercial banks in the District, and most are bankers. Class B and class C directors are selected to represent the public, with due consideration to the interests of agriculture, commerce, industry, services, labor, and consumers. Class A and class B directors are elected by member banks in the District, while class C directors are appointed by the System's Board of Governors in Washington. All head office directors serve three-year terms. Two directors of each Bank are designated by the Board of Governors as chairman and deputy chairman of their nine-member board for one-year terms.

Directors cannot be members of Congress, and class B and class C directors cannot be officers, directors, or employees of a bank. Nor can class C directors own stock in a bank. In addition, all class C directors must reside in the District for at least two years before their appointment. Because a Reserve Bank directorship is a form of public service, directors are also expected to avoid participation in partisan political activities. For purposes of electing directors, District member banks are grouped by amount of capital into three categories—small, medium, and large. Each group of banks elects one class A and one class B director. Branches of Federal Reserve Banks also have directors. These directors are not elected; the majority are appointed by the Reserve Bank, and the rest are appointed by the Board of Governors. The chairman of a Branch board is selected from among those appointed by the Board of Governors. Branch directors serve for either two- or three-year terms, depending on the size of the Branch board. Directorships generally are limited to two successive terms, to ensure a diversity of backgrounds and experience among the individuals who serve the Federal Reserve System.

Although directorships are not full-time jobs, the responsibilities of directors are broad, ranging from the supervision of the Reserve Bank—assigned by the Federal Reserve Act—to making recommendations on monetary policy. The directors appoint the Reserve Bank presidents (the chief executive officers) and the first vice presidents (the chief operating officers) to five-year terms, subject to approval by the Board of Governors. The Reserve Bank directors also appoint all officers of the Bank. Annually, the directors appoint the District's representative to the Federal Advisory Council, which confers four times a year with the Board of Governors on business conditions and makes recommendations on issues affecting the System. Directors review their Reserve Bank's budget and expenditures. They are also responsible for the internal audit program of the Bank. The Federal Reserve Act also requires directors to set the Bank's discount rate every two weeks, subject to approval by the Board of Governors in Washington. The discount rate is the interest rate depository institutions pay when borrowing from the Reserve Banks. By raising or lowering the rate, the System can influence the cost and availability of money and credit. Directors bring to the Federal Reserve a regional perspective, an independent assessment of the business outlook, and judgment and advice on the credit conditions of the Districts they represent.

Don't Try to do a Full Audit on the Fed or else....

According to the Board's 1999 Annual Report, the System had net income after luxurious "expenses" totaling $26.2 billion, which would qualify it as one of the most profitable companies in the World. How were these profits distributed? $342 million, or 1.4% of the profits, were paid to member banks as dividends. Another $479 million, or 1.8%, was retained by the 12 Reserve Banks. The balance of $25.4 billion -- or 96.9% of the profits -- was paid to the Treasury voluntarily although they are not under any obligation to do so but have been rebating the system's profits to the Treasury since 1947. During this process, the Fed issued about $500 Billion worth of credit with money created out of nothing (either printed at a cost of 3 cents per note or a cyber entry in a computer database) in exchange for Government Bonds. The Fed owners then create further credit through their local commercial banks. A nice banking cartel money making machine for the Fed owners! The Fed owns only about 8.7% of the total national debt, so the vast bulk of the interest payments are going to the other banks or individuals who buy government debt. The private sector must surrender Fed funds in paying Federal taxes. Conversely the government must borrow Fed funds as it spends.

Prior to 1933, the Federal Reserve Act required that a portion of the earnings of the Federal Reserve Banks go to the government, but the banks never complied. The Banking Act of 1933 legislated that all earnings of the Federal Reserve Banks go to the banks themselves. The assets of the Federal Reserve Banks increased from $143 million dollars in 1913 to $45 billion dollars in 1949, which enriched all of the shareholders of the banks. There is no evidence that the law or the method of accounting of earnings has changed since 1949. The Fed has no restriction on the amount of money it can create since the U.S. went off the gold standard in the 1930's. As Congressman Wright Patman said in 1964, "The dollar represents a one dollar debt to the Federal Reserve System. The Federal Reserve Banks create money out of thin air to buy Government Bonds from the U.S. Treasury...and has created out of nothing adebt which the American people are obliged to pay with interest." In 1958 the U.S. owned $700 million ounces of gold. Today the nations bullion reserves have dwindled to a mere 281,000,000 ounces ($100 billion dollars) which is minuscule in relationship to the amount of paper currency in circulation and the amount of Treasury debt. The goal of the Fed is to make gold irrelevant as a measure of monetary value so it can continue to print an unlimited amount of paper currency.

The auditors do NOT have complete access to all aspects of the Federal Reserve System. The Federal Banking Agency Audit Act of 1978 stipulates the following areas are to be excluded from GAO inspections:

- (1) transactions for or with a foreign central bank, government of a foreign country, or non-private international financing organization;
- (2) deliberations, decisions, or actions on monetary policy matters, including discount window operations, reserves of member banks, securities credit, interest on deposits, open market operations;
- (3) transactions made under the direction of the Federal Open Market Committee; or
- (4) a part of a discussion or communication among or between members of the Board of Governors and officers and employees of the Federal Reserve System related to items.

The fed has acted directly as bank of "last resort." Normally, loans to other countries would be made by the International Monetary Fund, the Bank of International Settlements or other entities which are primarily funded by the Fed. In the case of Mexico, however, the Fed made a loan directly to that country after the President bypassed Congress and issued an Executive Order. Reliable sources indicate that the Fed has recently delivered approximately $40 billion newly printed $100 bills to Russian banks which are controlled by the Russian Mafia. Since 1940 the U.S. dollar has lost 94% of its value. The prolific printing of our currency, the mounting $5.3 trillion in Federal Debt and the widening trade deficit could soon result in the crash of the U.S. dollar and disastrous ramifications for Americans. Why is there a current House Resolution 1486 calling for a complete audit of the Federal Reserve by the GAO and why is the Federal Reserve resisting? Despite numerous attempts by Congressman Wright Patman and others who have called for a full audit of the books of the Federal Reserve System, no full audit has been made available to the public since the System was founded in 1913. On March 1, 1982, the Arizona State Legislature, as well as a number of other states passed a resolution calling for the abolishment of the Federal Reserve System. All efforts to expose and change the System have been thwarted.

In an e-mail to Mr. Rhalter from Agata Zhang...a "Business Support Analyst" at the Federal Reserve...Zhang had this to say: "The twelve regional Federal Reserve Banks, which were established by Congress as the operating arms of the nation's central banking system, are organized much like private corporations - possibly leading to some confusion about "ownership." For example, the Reserve Banks issue shares of stock to member banks. However, owning Reserve Bank stock is quite different from owning stock in a private company. The Reserve Banks are not operated for profit, and ownership of a certain amount of stock is, by law, a condition of membership in the System. The stock may not be sold, traded, or pledged as security for a loan; dividends are, by law, six percent per year. Again, the holding of stock in a Federal Reserve Bank does not carry with it the control and financial interest conveyed to holders of common stock in for-profit organizations." In other words, the Federal Reserve System is a banking cartel owned by the BankLords who own the member banks. There is no better expert on this 'banking cartel' than G. Edward Griffin, the author of "The Creature From Jekyll Island: A Second Look at the Federal Reserve". Congressman Ron Paul from the great state of Texas, and a member of the House Banking Committee, had this to say about Griffin's book... "A superb analysis deserving serious attention by all Americans. Be prepared for one heck of a journey through time and mind."

How The Private Fed Creates Money From Thin Air (G. Edward Griffin)

1. The banking system, including the Federal Reserve, is the source of all dollar-denominated money. The Fed creates the monetary base, also known as Fed money, comprising notes and coins and deposits at the Fed. Banks expand the money supply by issuing loans, and thereby create credit money.
2. The Fed influences the amount of bank lending through its selection and control of the Fed funds rate, the benchmark for all short term interest rates. However it does not directly control the amount of credit money created by commercial banks which are private profit-seeking enterprises.
3. The amount of money created is a function of the demand for bank credit at the going lending rate. Banks normally lend to any borrower who is found capable of paying the interest and returning the principal on a date-certain. Bank-issued credit money is the principal part of the money supply.
4. A bank's lending is ultimately limited by the amount of its equity, based on the capital ratio requirement set by the Fed. Banks must also meet a reserve ratio requirement, but in fact the Fed normally provides the required reserves in order to maintain control of the interbank lending rate, i.e. the Fed funds rate.
5. The Fed controls the Fed funds rate through its open market operations, buying or selling securities short term for its own portfolio. This adds or drains banking system reserves as needed to balance supply and demand at its chosen target rate. Banks temporarily short of reserves may borrow directly from the Fed's discount window.
6. To support the increasing demand for currency and bank credit money, the Fed purchases Treasury securities directly from the public. This is referred to as monetizing the debt, which increases the monetary base in direct proportion to the increase in the value of Treasury securities held by the Fed.

We've been talking about how the privately owned Federal Reserve can produce money from thin air. Here's how it's done. 1. The purchase of bonds is approved by the Federal Open Market Committee. 2. The Fed buys the bonds which it pays for with electronic credits made to the sellers bank. These credits are based on nothing. 3. The receiving banks then use these credits as reserves from which they can loan out ten times the amount. 4. If paper notes are required, the Federal pays the US Treasury to print them for a few cents per note but is slightly more expensive than issuing computer based credits, i.e. the private Fed uses the US Treasury BEP as a print shop! To reduce the amount of money in the economy they simply reverse the process. The Fed sells bonds to the public and money is drawn from the purchasers' bank to pay for them. Each million withdrawn lowers the banks ability to loan by 10 million. The Federal bank in this way has overall control of the US money supply, and each country's central bank does in the same way. The Bankers through the magic of fractional reserve banking have been delegated the right to create 90% of the money supply. This control makes a mockery of any elected government. It places so called leaders behind a toy steering wheel, like the plastic ones, set up to amuse small children.

In summary, the FED buys instruments with printed money or money created from nothing to increase liquidity or decreases interest rates. It does the opposite to decrease liquidity.

Or as Rep. Charles Lindbergh father of famous aviator Lucky Lindy puts it when commenting on the Federal Reserve Act: "This act establishes the most gigantic trust on earth. When the President signs this bill, the invisible government by the Monetary Power will be legalised. The people may not know it immediately, but the day of reckoning is only a few years removed... The worst legislative crime of the ages is perpetrated by this banking bill."

Or as President Woodrow Wilson put it: "We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled governments in the civilised World - no longer a government of free opinion, no longer a government by... a vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and duress of a small group of dominant men. Some of the biggest men in the United States, in the field of commerce and manufacture, are afraid of something. They know that there is a power somewhere so organised, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it."

In order to clearly establish that this is not a conspiracy theory, but is actually how things are controlled, we further quote Charles Lindbergh (R-MN). From the house of representatives, Lindbergh was well placed to see exactly what was happening back then and continues to happen today: "To cause high prices all the Federal Reserve board will do will be to lower the re-discount rate..., producing an expansion of credit and a rising stock market; then when... business men are adjusted to these conditions, it can check... prosperity in mid-career by arbitrarily raising the rate of interest It can cause the pendulum of a rising and falling market to swing gently back and forth by slight changes in the discount rate, or cause violent fluctuations by greater rate variation, and in either case it will possess inside information as to financial conditions and advance knowledge of the coming change, either up or down. This is the strangest, most dangerous advantage ever placed in the hands of a special privilege class by any Government that ever existed. The system is private, conducted for the sole purpose of obtaining the greatest possible profits from the use of other people's money. They know in advance when to create panics to their advantage. They also know when to stop panic. Inflation and deflation work equally well for them when they control finance..."

More Details on Who Owns the Federal Reserve Banks (THE INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT)

The privately owned Federal Reserve Bank is not a government agency (The Fed Board of Governors is). The privately owned Federal Reserve Bank (The Fed) is privately owned by a group of transatlantic BankLords. In 1913, Congress sank America into eternal debt by giving the power to issue currency and control the American economic system to the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank. Who are the owners or chief shareholders of the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank? Originally, there were reportedly 203,053 shares of privately owned Federal Reserve Bank stock, of which approximately 65% were owned by foreigners and approximately 35% (72,000 shares) were owned by: Rockefellers' National City Bank = 30,000 shares, Chase National = 6,000 shares (currently Chase Manhattan and owned by David Rockefeller), The National Bank of Commerce = 21,000 shares (now known as Morgan Guaranty Trust), Morgans' First national Bank = 15,000 shares, Interestingly, the total shares owned by Rockefellers interests equal 36,000 shares and the total of Morgan's equals 36,000 shares.

Although the privately owned Federal Reserve Act of 1913 provided the names of the owner banks be kept a secret, R.E. McMaster, publisher of the newsletter "The Reaper" claims to have discovered, through confidential Swiss banking connections, that the following banks have controlling interest in the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank: Rothchild Banks of London and Berlin, Lazard Brothers Bank of Paris, Israel Moses Sieff Banks of Italy, Warburg Bank of Hamburg, Germany and Amsterdam, Kuhn Loeb Bank of New York, Lehman Brothers Bank of New York, Goldman Sachs Bank of New York, Chase Manhattan Bank of New York (Controlled By Rockefellers). In his book "Secrets of the Privately Owned Federal Reserve", Eustace Mullins states: "Because the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank of New York sets interest rates and controls the daily supply of price of currency throughout America, the owners of that bank are the real directors of that whole system. These shareholders have controlled our political and economic destinies since 1913." Those shareholders making up Mullins' list are almost identical to the one compiled by the Swiss banking source: The Rothschilds, Lazard Freres (Eugene Mayer), Israel Sieff, Kuhn Loeb Company, Warburg Company, Lehman Brothers, Goldman Sachs, The Rockefeller family and J.P. Morgan interests. http://land.netonecom.net/tlp/ref/federal_reserve.shtml

The day before the privately owned Federal Reserve Act passed, Congressman Charles Lindbergh Sr. said: "The money trust deliberately caused the 1907 money panic and thereby forced Congress to create a National Monetary Commission which led to the ultimate creation of the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank. The Federal Reserve Act establishes the most gigantic monetary trust on earth. When the President signs the bill, the invisible government of the Monetary Powers will be legalized. The people must make a declaration of independence to relieve themselves from the Monetary Powers, by taking control of Congress!... The worst legislative crime of the ages is perpetrated by this banking bill. The caucus and the party bosses have again operated and prevented the people from getting the benefit of their own government!"

How did the monetary powers manipulate the passage of the Federal Reserve Act? Senator Nelson Aldrich was named as chairman of the Monetary Commission, which was like naming a cat to design the canary cage. Aldrich was the maternal grandfather of Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller of Standard Oil and Chase Manhattan Bank, through the marriage of his daughter, Abby Greene Aldrich to John D. Rockefeller Jr. The Rockefellers have been the largest beneficiaries of the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank. The chief architect of the plan was Paul Warburg, a Rothchild agent who was salaried at $500,000.00 a year (equivalent to about 5 million dollars today). Another member of the monetary commission was Jacob Schiff of Kuhn-Loeb and Co., who helped finance the Bolshevik revolution in Russia with a $20 Million contribution. Schiff was born in a home shared with the Rothschilds in Frankfurt, Germany. On November 22, 1910, Aldrich and the rest of the Monetary Commission met at a private hunting club of J.P. Morgan on Jekyll Island, Georgia, to draft a bill that would put the economic future of the United States into the hands of a few private Money Powers. Read "The Creature From Jekyll Island". The original bill was the highly unpopular Owen-Glass Bill. The name of the bill was later changed to the Federal Reserve Act. The timing of the vote for the Federal Reserve Act was engineered by its promoters. It was passed hastily in effort to break for Christmas on December 23, 1913, while the majority of opposing Congressmen were on Christmas vacation. Then, when elected, the banker-financed President Woodrow Wilson immediately signed the Federal Reserve Act. Within months of starting the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank, individual Income Taxes were created to pay for this new bankers' interest expense. The taxes of American Citizens pay the interest on all new "debt certificate" currency and credit issued by the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank.

Where does the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank spend the mass profits it extorts from the labor of our People? Dr. Antony Sutton, author of "Wall Street and the Bolshevik Revolution" (Arlington House Publishers, Rochelle, N.Y., 1974), provides some insight. He conducted exhaustive research through American, Canadian and German government archives and discovered solid evidence, which he painstakingly documented, proving that many American Capitalists, primarily the JP Morgan (US Steel) interests provided financial support for the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia. Also, William B. Thompson, Director of the US Federal Reserve Bank of New York, provided the Bolsheviks significant monetary support. Dr. Sutton stated "If Thompson had not been in Russia in 1917, subsequent history might have followed quite a different course. Without the financial, diplomatic and propaganda assistance given by Thompson and his associates to Trotsky and Lenin, The Bolsheviks may well have quickly withered away."

ISSUING MONEY FROM NOTHING

Ask yourself this question, "If you were given a monetary printing press and a legal contract to print and issue all the money you would ever need to run your household at no cost to you, would you, instead, give that printing press and contract to a banker and agree to borrow your money from him, to be repaid in full with interest?" "NEVER". The government has done exactly that. The most awesome power America has is the power to CREATE, using as collateral the future productivity of its Citizens, all of the currency and credit we would ever need to run our government, prosperously! Instead, America has legislated away this priceless power of monetary and credit creation to a group of primarily foreign, self-serving bankers! According to the Supreme Court, this transfer of power is in direct violation of the law.

"Congress may not abdicate or transfer to others its legitimate functions". Schechter Poultry v U.S. 29 U.S. 495, 55 U.S. 837.842 (1935)

Following is a simplified explanation of the inane method in which currency and credit is currently created in the United States. This system benefits a few elitists at an exorbitant cost to We the People! The average American contributes one third of his hard earned dollars to support this corruption! Let's say, for example, that to carry out its legitimate functions, the United States needs $300 billion in credit and $100 million in currency: The U.S.

Bureau of Printing and Engraving at the U.S. Treasury is instructed to print $100 million in Federal Reserve Notes, as currency for the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank. The privately owned Federal Reserve Bank System pays the U.S. Bureau of Printing and Engraving $20.60 per 1000 bills it prints! That is approximately two and a half cents for each bill, regardless of their face denomination, ie. $1, $5, $10, $20, $50, $100 bill. WHAT A DEAL!! Next, the United States orders the same U.S. Bureau of Printing and Engraving to print $300 billion, $100 million worth of U.S. Treasury Bonds. The privately owned Federal Reserve Bank then purchases $100 million of U.S. Treasury Bonds (redeemable at full face value plus interest) from the United States. To pay for these, the Fed uses the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank Notes that they just purchased for two and a half cents per bill! Next, the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank purchases the other $300 billion in U.S. Bonds with a simple ten second computer entry that transfers $300 billion in "credit" into the United States' Treasury account. Where did the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank System get the $300 billion? It created it from NOTHING.

The People are then obligated to repay the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank, with their tax dollars, at full face value, plus interest (which is converted to gold at par, through the International Monetary Fund). The privately owned Federal Reserve Bank Notes and federal government credits were created for virtually nothing. Conversely, the repayment of just the interest on these bonds requires a Citizens' physical labor from approximately January 1st until May 1st and giving 100% of their substance to the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank. What does the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank or the federal government give back to We the People in exchange for the sweat of our brow? NOTHING! ZIP! NADA! That constitutes servitude without just compensation.

COST TO WE THE PEOPLE: $300 Billion, $100 Million, plus continuously compounding interest. COST TO THE PRIVATELY OWNED FEDERAL RESERVE BANK: About $26,000

"PERMIT ME TO CONTROL THE CURRENCY OF A NATION AND I CARE NOT WHO MAKES ITS LAWS!" Baron de Rothschild

The Power of Monetary and Credit Creation

Where does the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank get its money? IT CREATES IT FROM THIN AIR! The privately owned Federal Reserve Bank has created a debt based economy. It creates nothing. Every dollar that America spends, it borrows from someone else. Every privately owned Federal Reserve Bank note in your wallet is nothing more than a debt certificate. America has given its greatest power, monetary creation, to the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank.

MONEY FACTS: House Banking and Currency Committee, 1964, pp. 9, states: "The privately owned Federal Reserve Banks create Federal Reserve Notes out of thin air to buy government bonds from the United States Treasury by lending into circulation at interest and by bookkeeping entries of checkbook credit to the United States Treasury. The Treasury writes up an interest bearing bond for one billion dollars. The privately owned Federal Reserve gives the Treasury a one billion dollar credit for the bond, it has created from nothing. This is one billion dollar debt which the American people are obligated to pay full, with interest."

A publication called, "PUTTING IT SIMPLY", by the Boston Federal Reserve Bank, sums it up as: "When you or I write a check there must be sufficient funds in our account to cover that check, but when the privately owned Federal Reserve writes a check, it is CREATING money." The backing or value of the dollar does NOT exist at its creation, but by its redemption. It is not gold or silver that backs our currency but the willingness by the American people to exchange that currency for raw materials, goods, services, manpower and brainpower! In other words, the REAL collateral behind the dollar is the American Peoples productivity. This is a commodity in which America is extremely rich! If you use currency to buy food, it is the food that gives the currency value. The food has value without the currency, but the currency has no value without the food or other valuable substance or service. The creator of the currency merely prints "Notes" that we exchange among each other for goods and services. Currency is, simply put, barter certificates. Although gold and silver, because of their intrinsic value, are an excellent hedge against FED engineered inflation. It is the productivity of the American people that gives currency its purchasing value.

If we all refused to use privately owned Federal Reserve Bank notes for our exchanges, the Feds currency would have absolutely NO VALUE. Someone has to create currency if we are to have a medium of exchange other than direct bartering. The biggest mistake in American history was to give this awesome creative power to the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank! Because it is the productivity of the people that is collateralizing the currency, it should be the people that benefit by its creation. the Congress should immediately take back the power of legislative monetary and credit creation, with safeguards, for the benefit of prosperity of the American People!

THE LINCOLN ASSASSINATION

John Wilkes Booth, who assassinated Lincoln, was a member of the Knights of the Golden Circle which was controlled by the bankers. Bismark, the Chancellor of Germany 1815-1898, made the following comments about the death of Lincoln. "The death of Lincoln was a disaster for Christendom. There was no man in the United States great enough to wear his boots and the bankers went anew to grab the riches. I fear that foreign bankers with their craftiness and tortuous tricks will entirely control the exuberant riches of America and use it systematically to corrupt modern civilization."

THE NATIONAL BANKING ACT OF 1863

After Lincolns' un-borrowed Greenbacks were sufficiently and falsely discredited by inflation creating shenanigans of the bankers, the Greenback Act was revoked and replaced by the National Banking Act of 1863. Americans, once again, became the servants of the monetary powers! The National Banking Act of 1863 was passed after Salmon P. Chase, Secretary of the Treasury, and the Congress succumbed to the pressure of the bankers. Initially, the Greenbacks and Bank Notes were both utilized as currency. However, after President Lincolns' assassination, the end of the Greenback came with an Act passed on April 12, 1866. This banker supported Act authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to sell bonds and use the proceeds to retire all United States currency, including the Greenbacks. At a time when the money supply should have been increased to reconstruct the United States after the civil War, the money powers, instead contracted it over the next ten years, as more and more money was destroyed and not replaced. Bankruptcies and business losses soared! this was because when money is scarce, banks loan fewer and fewer businesses the money they need to stimulate the economy. Then the businesses lay off workers, who lose their homes because they can't make their mortgage payments. The bankers then make a clean sweep with property foreclosures, picking up businesses and citizens property for pennies on the dollar. They have created credits out of thin air and converted them into real property! This is exactly what is happening today, on an even more disastrous scale. Now the bank goes bankrupt, the FDIC (a federal government agency) seizes the bank. Then when the federal government can no longer make its interest payments, the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank and International Monetary Fund will seize the assets of the federal government. Businesses and private homes ultimately end up in the hands of the International Government..... no private ownership, no free enterprise... instant socialism without a shot fired! Like others who sold out their Country to the bankers before him, Secretary of Treasury, Chase, had a stab of conscience before dying stating: "Promoting the National Bank Act, through my agency, was the greatest financial mistake of my life! It has built up a monopoly which effects every interest in the country. It should be repealed." Without a doubt, if America is to be saved, the Federal Reserve Act must also be repealed! It is more corrupt and detrimental to America than any Banking Act in history! How have the monetary powers managed to buffalo the Congress and the People for so long? Following is an example of the smoke-screen propaganda created by the bankers and fed to Congress. This is the type of ridiculous rhetoric that has kept banking vultures in power for over 80 years!

House of Representatives 88th Congress, 32nd Session

"....it has long been one of the political facts of life that private banks must be able to create the lions' share of the money, if not all the money. Thus there is little opposition to the government's printing bonds and then permitting the banks to create the money with which to buy these bonds; but proposals that the government itself create the money instead of the bonds have always set off tremendous political upheavals (among who? Other bankers!) Bankers are politically very powerful. For example, President Abraham Lincoln set off a political furor when he insisted upon having the government issue $346 million dollars instead of issuing interest-bearing bonds and paying interest. A free thinking American might ask, "Why is this ridiculous policy of giving the banks power to create money out of thin air to buy U.S. Treasury Bonds at full face value plus interest a political fact of life!" It is the American workers tax dollars that must pay the interest and eventually the full principal on these bonds! Who was setting off these political upheavals? Certainly not the Americans who would no longer have to pay income taxes... not the Americans who would no longer have their hard earned dollars eaten away by the rampant inflation we have experienced since the FED took over our monetary system in 1913...It is not the American People who have had all their gold and silver stolen by the FED and who would, without a doubt, be the greatest beneficiaries of a debt free currency. Of course, it was and still is, the ulterior motivated FED banking powers themselves and the corrupt pockets they are filling who are creating this furor.

Why are they so "furious"? The answer appears in this editorial which appeared in the London Times, a paper controlled by the Rothchild banking dynasty. It was written at the time Lincoln was taking action to create an un-borrowed currency. READ THIS MORE THAN ONCE.. Its "arguments" summarize the magnificent benefits of creating America's own debt-free un-borrowed currency! These are the exact reasons that our Country SHOULD create a currency and credit of its own. "If this mischievous financial policy (of creating a debt-free currency), which has its origin in the American Republic, shall become permanent, then that government will furnish its own money without cost! It will pay off its debts and be without debt. It will have all the money to carry on its commerce. It will become prosperous without precedent in the history of the World. The brains and the wealth of all countries will go to America. That government must be destroyed or it will destroy every monarchy on the globe!" A debt-free American Currency would be a sad day in the history of the monetary powers. However, it would be the happiest day in the history of America! Logic confirms that America must have its own debt-free, un-borrowed currency. Ultimately, to be lawful money, it must be backed by gold and silver: but even un-backed debt-free American Currency is superior to un-backed privately owned Federal Reserve Bank debt Notes!

LINCOLN DEFIES THE BANKING PREDATORS & VULTURES!

When the civil war was instigated, the Union originally looked to the European Bankers to loan them money to finance the war. Thinking they had Lincoln at their mercy, they overstepped themselves by demanding 24%-36% interest. This was Lincolns' opinion of bankers: "The money powers prey upon the nation in times of peace and conspire against it in times of adversity. It is more despotic than a monarchy, more insolent than autocracy and more selfish than a bureaucracy. It denounces, as public enemies, all who question its methods or throw light upon its crimes. I have two great enemies, the Southern Army in front of me and the bankers in the rear. Of the two, the one at the rear is my greatest foe." Angered at the bankers, in Acts of February 25th and March 4th, 1862, President Abraham Lincoln persuaded Congress to authorize the U.S. Treasury to issue $450 million dollars in United States Notes (currency) to finance the Civil War. These issues of currency were full legal tender and debt-free and interest-free. Because of the green ink used on the back of these bills, they were called "greenbacks." Lincoln not only freed Black Americans from human slavery, he temporarily freed all Americans from monetary slavery!

After the Congress passed this powerful law, Lincoln said this: "We have given the People of this Republic the greatest blessing they have ever had, their own currency to pay their own debts." A debt-free currency was a blessing for Americans and the "kiss of death" for the World bankers. The bankers fought back furiously with incredible amounts of money! It is a fallacy to think, as many do, that the greenbacks were inflationary. This was propaganda, again used by the money powers to erroneously convince the people a national currency was destructive. Following is a summary of their tactics. Within four days of the issuance of the greenbacks, outraged bankers met to propose a scheme to lobby Congress to strip the Greenbacks of their full legal tender status. They succeeded by influencing Congress to add an "Exception Clause" to the law. This clause required that duties on imports and interest on the public debt (owed to the bankers) could be paid only in gold. The bank then added a 185% surcharge on the price of gold purchased with Greenbacks! This meant importers had to exchange $285 dollars in greenbacks for $100 dollars worth of gold! This exchange, in itself, made the People think that Greenbacks must be inflationary. Of course, the importers then had to take this 185% increase and add it to the cost of their goods. This resulted in dramatic price increases causing People to falsely believe the Greenbacks were inflationary. It was the bankers and their outrageous surcharges on Greenbacks that created the price increases.

The Prosperity Of Un-Borrowed Currency and Credit

There were a few times in history that nations used the power of creating an un-borrowed currency to eliminate their debts and bring their country into prosperity. However, when the nations stopped borrowing money from the World bankers, a furor was always created, not among the People but among the banking vultures. The bankers would use their vast sources of money and power to artificially engineer problems that they could blame on the un-borrowed currency! When Henry I became King of England in 1100 A.C., he found the treasury completely empty. England's entire supply of gold and silver had gone with the Crusaders to Palestine. Rather than borrow money from World banks, he issued into circulation England's own un-borrowed currency called "tallies". That was the richest time in England's history. There was no debt, no interest, and no inflation. For almost 700 years, England used this un-borrowed money created and issued by the King. This caused a prosperous utopia for the working people of England. This is the unprecedented period in the history of creative genius known as the Renaissance. The death toll for the prosperous Renaissance era came in 1694 when King William of Orange granted a charter to William Paterson and his World banker associates to establish the Bank of England as a fractional reserve central bank. The Bank of England has had a direct bearing on banking in America.

The roots of our War of Independence can be traced back to the King's objection to the creation and issuance by the colonies of their own paper money, beginning with 7000 pounds issued by Massachusetts in 1690, and culminating with the issue of 'Colonials' as an un-borrowed currency by the Continental Congress. In 1763, Benjamin Franklin was in England and was asked to explain why the colonies were so prosperous, while England was suffering. He said "That's simple. It's only because in the Colonies we issue our own money called 'Colonial Script'. When this conversation got back to the Bank of England, they forced England's Parliament to pass a Bill prohibiting the Colonies from issuing their own money. Franklin said "Within one year from the date Parliament passed this Bill, the streets of the Colonies were filled with unemployed Americans." Later he stated that the War of Independence was caused by taking away the Citizens' un-borrowed Colonials. In Franklins' words "The Colonies would gladly have borne the little tax on tea and other matters, had it not been that England took away from the Colonies their money, which created unemployment and dissatisfaction." During the war, a new un-borrowed currency called "Continentals" was issued.

The English then debauched (corrupted) the Continentals by bringing in massive shiploads of counterfeit Continentals to the colonies. This caused a significant "overabundance" of money in circulation, which created inflation. Although who creates the currency has no effect on inflation, too much currency in circulation, competing for identical goods and services can competitively increase prices. The People did have 73 years of debt free prosperity before the English bankers and their engineered inflation succeeded in debauching their debt free currency! Thomas Jefferson once stated that if he could change just one part of the Constitution, it would be to prohibit the United States from borrowing! The People did have 73 years of debt free prosperity before the English bankers and their engineered inflation succeeded in debauching their debt free currency! Thomas Jefferson once stated that if he could change just one part of the Constitution, it would be to prohibit the United States from borrowing!

SEE Chart of who "owns" the Federal Reserve , AN OVERVIEW OF THE PROBLEM , Fractional Reserve Banking is a Tontine Policy , Wisdom and Freedom produced by WORLD NEWSSTAND , Criticism of the Federal Reserve, Criticism of the federal reserve include what may be general criticism of a central bank system, for example that it cartelizes the banking industry and monopolizes the creation of money. And what may be specific federal reserve criticism, that it profits illegally, and causes inflation. A criticism that is less frequently used is that the U.S. Congress is given by Article 1, Section 8, Clause 5 of the U.S. Constitution "To coin Money, regulate the Value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and Measures." Critics of the system assert that the transfer of this power to a private corporation is unconstitutional. Griffin, Edward G. (1998). "The Creature from Jekyll Island:A second look at the Federal Reserve". American Media. ISBN 0912986212. Greider, William (1987). Secrets of the Temple. Simon & Schuster. ISBN 0671675567; a book intended for lay readers explaining the structures, functions, and history of the Federal Reserve. Epstein, Lita & Martin, Preston (2003). The Complete Idiot's Guide to the Federal Reserve. Alpha Books. ISBN 0028643232. Meyer, Lawrence H (2004). A Term at the Fed : An Insider's View. HarperBusiness. ISBN 0060542705. Rothbard, Murray N. (1994). The Case Against the Fed. Ludwig Von Mises Institute. ISBN 094546617X. Who Owns and Controls the Federal Reserve? <http://www.usagold.com/FederalReserve.html> , Central bank , Discount window , Economic reports , Federal Reserve Banks , Government debt , Money market , Federal Funds , Repurchase agreement , Money supply , Open Market Operations , <http://www.federalreserveeducation.org/fed101/index.htm>

Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (<http://www.federalreserve.gov>) Federal Reserve Routing Directory (<http://www.fededirectory.frb.org/>) Gross Federal Debt History Fact Sheet (<http://www.treas.gov/education/fact-sheets/taxes/fed-debt.html>) A Foregone Conclusion - St. Louis Fed (http://www.stlouisfed.org/publications/foregone/chapter_two.htm) Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis - The Region - Paul Warburg's Crusade to Establish a Central Bank in the United States \(May 1989\) (<http://minneapolisfed.org/pubs/region/89-05/reg895d.cfm>) Know your Fed: A description of the Federal Reserve Board (<http://www.bankrate.com/nltrack/news/fed/20010627d.asp>) Opposition to the Fed (<http://www.federal-reserve.net>) Congress should stand up to the Fed (<http://www.nader.org/interest/021500.html>) by Ralph Nader Billions for bankers, debt for the people By Sheldon Emry (<http://www.tradersclub.com/dollarsign/billionsforbankers.shtml>) Secrets of the Federal Reserve (<http://www.apfn.org/apfn/reserve.htm>) by Eustace Mullins (Makes arguments about the New World Order owning stock in the Fed, when it is banks that actually own the stock as mentioned above) Griffin, G. Edward (1998). The Creature from Jekyll Island : A Second Look at the Federal Reserve. American Media. ISBN 0912986212.; specifically, Chapter 10 Who Owns the Fed? (http://libertyunbound.com/archive/2004_10/woolsey-fed.html) Liberty article by Bill Woolsey. What Has Government Done to Our Money? (<http://www.mises.org/money.asp>) by Murray N. Rothbard

Now, the World is a Corporation Run by the BankLords

The Federal Reserve is the largest single creditor of the United States Government, and they are also the people who decide how much the average persons car payments are going to be, what their house payments are going to be, and whether they have a job or not. The three people who passed the Federal Reserve Act in 1913, knew exactly what they were doing when they set up this private bank, modeled on the Bank of England and the fact that THE BANK OF ENGLAND had been operating independently unopposed since 1694 must have given them a great deal of confidence indeed. The 'private' central banking systems like the United States' Federal Reserve, The Bank of England, and The Bundesbank, even the Bank of Sudan, have been described by me on several occasions as 'The Satanic Purses', a view now shared by many. http://land.netonecom.net/tlp/ref/federal_reserve.shtml

Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh Snr., father of the famous aviator, says Garry Allen, was strongly opposed to setting up the Fed. He said that in order to support the fiction that the Federal Reserve Act was a "Peoples Bill," the 'Insider Financiers' put up a smoke screen of opposition to it...Taking advantage of Congress' desire to adjourn for Christmas, the Federal Reserve Act was passed on December 22nd, 1913, by a vote of 298 to 60 in the House, and in the Senate by a majority of 43 to 25. After the vote, Congressman Lindbergh told Congress: "This act establishes the most gigantic trust on earth... When the President signs this act, the invisible government by the money power, proven to exist by the 'Money Trust Investigation' will be legalized... The new law will create inflation whenever the trust wants inflation." [and vice versa]

Lindbergh adds: "The Federal Reserve Act was, and still is, hailed as a victory of Democracy over 'The Money Trust' Nothing could be further from the truth. The whole 'Central Bank' concept was engineered by the very group it was supposed to strip of power." [ibid, page 161]

These are just some of the fruits of this same occult organization re-started by Kolmer and Adam Weishaupt in 1776. John D. Rockefeller, infected with its spirit said: "Competition is a Sin". [ibid, page 19/21]

While 'Annuit Coeptis' means 'Favour our daring undertaking', the lower part of 'The Great seal of The United States of America' bears the inscription 'Novus Ordo Seclorum', meaning 'The New Secretive Order Of Ages / The New World Order' (appears on the US FRN dollar note).

Garry Allen says that the World has been set up for another 1929 style Crash and Depression. "To think that the crash of 1929 was an accident or result of stupidity defies all logic. The international Bankers who promoted the inflationary policies, and pushed the propaganda which pumped up the stock market, represented too many generations of accumulated expertise to have blundered into the great depression." [ibid, page 163]

As Congressman Louis McFadden, Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee tells us:- "It [the 1926 depression] was not accidental. It was a carefully contrived occurrence...The International Bankers sought to bring about a condition of despair here, so that they might emerge as rulers of us all." [ibid] "It was the old game of boom and bust, using economic crisis to consolidate political power at the top where it can be most easily controlled." [ibid] In 1913 America's National debt stood at $1 billion dollars. Since President Woodrow Wilson took his vote of office, the National Debt has sky rocketed. By 1976 it had exceeded $500,000,000,000. The interest alone was $27 billion. By 1992 the US Debt reached $3 trillion (in 2003, the combined Federal and State debt owed to the private Federal Reserve Bank of Rockefeller /Rothschild is estimated at $15 to 20 Trillion, i.e. $50 thousand for each US citizen). Interest alone takes 52 cents from every tax dollar collected, and soon it will take 102 cents in every dollar. Nobody wants to reveal, however, to whom all these monies and interest are owed, and how the stack got to be so high.

"The major cause of inflation and the economic collapse was the deliberately created credit inflation by the 'privately-owned' Federal Reserve." [Equally deliberately used here by Nigel Lawson and the still privately owned and privately controlled Bank of England] "In six years it had inflated the money supply by 62% inducing market speculations and unwise investments by middle Americans who were being set up for a shearing. When the shearing came, the sheep took a realistic look at their economy and panicked. Optimism was replaced by economic despair; despair produced a willingness to accept a major expansion of government controls over the economy." "Now, the Rockefellers are sharpening their shears to give the sheep of the World another trimming. But this time may be the last time. In 1929, America was a long way from total government. The next depression will be used as the excuse for complete Socialist-Fascist controls at home and the creation of a World Super State internationally." [ibid, page 163]

"Years ago", says Allen, "Nelson Rockefeller reportedly demanded and received, the privilege of naming his men to top administrative posts on all important Republican committees. The effect on the Republican Party is all too clear. It has been reliably estimated that over the years the Rockefellers have placed at least five thousand persons in important positions at the highest level of the Federal Government. The Rockefeller influence and authority now runs the top Civil Service bureaucracy, thereby transcending the administrations of mere republicans and Democrats. Having a big stake in an internationalist foreign policy, the Rockefellers always make sure that the Secretary of State and the Director of the (CIA) Central Intelligence Agency are " Their boys". Marshall, Acheson, Dulles, Herter, Rusk, and Kissinger [at the time of writing in 1976] have all laboured to turn the backward Soviet Union into a creditable power to force the great merger, while at the same time fighting wars to make the World safe for Standard Oil. The C.I.A. has served as the State Department's and Standard Oil's enforcement arm, destroying genuine anti-communist movements around the World...The CIA was created and staffed by Rockefeller relative Allen Dulles." "American foreign policy has meant billions of dollars for the Rockefellers. It has been paid for in many cases by the blood of our soldiers and in every case by the sweat of our taxpayers."

The basic principle of US oil policy, enunciated by the Wilson administration and then more forcefully during World War II, was that the United States must maintain its "absolute position" in the Western Hemisphere, "coupled with insistence upon the Open Door principle of equal opportunity for United States companies in new areas". In brief, what we have, we keep, closing the door to others; what we do not yet have must be open to free competition. This is the way "free trade" and the "open door" commonly functions in practice. With this doctrine imposed, Latin America was to assume its "role in the new World order": "to sell its raw materials" and "to absorb surplus US capital".

As an executive of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey phrased the matter in 1946, the United States "must set the pace and assume the responsibility of the majority stockholder in this corporation known as the World."

The coordinator of the UN humanitarian program in Iraq, Denis Halliday, a highly respected UN official who resigned under protest because he was being compelled to carry out what he called "genocide" as did his successor Hans von Sponeck. The United States took over the British framework, but the basic principle remained. That is, the West (which means primarily the US) must control events in the Middle East. Furthermore, the wealth of the region must flow primarily back to the West, to the US and UK; their energy corporations, investors, the US Treasury, which has been heavily dependent on recycled petrodollars, exporters, construction firms, and so on. That is the essential point. The profits have to flow to the West, and the power has to remain in the West, primarily Washington, insofar as possible. The people of the region cannot seem to get it through their heads that the wealth of the region should flow to the West, not to poor and suffering people right there. And it continually takes force to make them understand these simple and obvious principles. The nationalists movements who tried to extricate their countries from this framework were crushed; in Iran 1953 led by Mohammad Mossadegh by restoring the Shah; in Egypt by Gamal Abdel Nasser's assassination; etc. At that point, the US was developing a doctrine that modified and extended the British system of an Arab façade with British force behind it. Namely, it was establishing a cordon of peripheral states that would serve as "local cops on the beat" in the words of the Nixon administration, i.e. Israel, Turkey, and Iran under the Shah.

"In his 'Reminiscences' John D. Rockefeller informs us: 'One of our greatest helpers has been the State Department in Washington. Our ambassadors, ministers and consuls have aided to push our way into new markets to the utmost corners of the World."

"Washington reporter Jack Anderson put it this way in 1967: "...the State Department has often taken its policies right out of the executive offices of the oil companies. When Big Oil can't get what it wants in foreign countries, the State Department tries to get it for them. In many countries, the American Embassies function virtually as branch offices of the Oil Combine...The State Department can be found almost always on the side of the 'Seven Sisters', as the oil giants are known... Just as the Rockefellers make sure they are running our perennially disastrous foreign policy, you can bet your last devalued dollar that the Rockefeller Mafia controls the national and international money game. The Rockefellers have made the (US) Treasury Department virtually a branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank." [The Rockefeller File, page 159] Now that's what I call Chutzpah! The Cheek of the Devil. The result of Illuminism and its Luciferian doctrine.....But even more astonishing is the fact that these darlings of the Zionist/Mason establishment control oil in Arab lands. "The family controls oil holdings worth hundreds of millions in Arab lands, yet Nelson has remained the darling of organised Zionism in New York City. Without such support he could never have been elected governor of New York State four times. Just how the family manages this bit of wizardry boggles the mind..."

In summary, the FED is a private central bank. Central banks are supposed to implement a country's fiscal policies. They monitor commercial banks to ensure that they maintain sufficient assets, like cash, so as to remain solvent and stable. Central banks also do business, such as currency exchanges and gold transactions, with other central banks. In theory, a central bank should be good for a country, and they might be if it wasn't for the fact that they are not owned or controlled by the government of the country they are serving. Private central banks, including our FED, operate not in the interest of the public good but for profit. There have been three central banks in our nation's history. The first two, while deceptive and fraudulent, pale in comparison to the scope and size of the fraud being perpetrated by our current FED. What they all have in common is an insidious practice known as "fractional banking." Fractional banking or fractional lending is the ability to create money from nothing, lend it to the government or someone else and charge interest to boot. The practice evolved before banks existed. Goldsmiths rented out space in their vaults to individuals and merchants for storage of their gold or silver. The goldsmiths gave these "depositors" a certificate that showed the amount of gold stored. These certificates were then used to conduct business. In time the goldsmiths noticed that the gold in their vaults was rarely withdrawn. Small amounts would move in and out but the large majority never moved. Sensing a profit opportunity, the goldsmiths issued double receipts for the gold, in effect creating money (certificates) from nothing and then lending those certificates (creating debt) to depositors and charging them interest as well. Since the certificates represented more gold than actually existed, the certificates were "fractionally" backed by gold. Eventually some of these vault operations were transformed into banks and the practice of fractional banking continued.

Keep that fractional banking concept in mind as we examine our first central bank, the First Bank of the United States (BUS). It was created, after bitter dissent in the Congress, in 1791 and chartered for 20 years. A scam not unlike the current FED, the BUS used its control of the currency to defraud the public and establish a legal form of usury. This bank practiced fractional lending at a 10:1 rate, ten dollars of loans for each dollar they had on deposit. This misuse and abuse of their public charter continued for the entire 20 years of their existence. Public outrage over these abuses was such that the charter was not renewed and the bank ceased to exist in 1811. The war of 1812 left the country in economic chaos, seen by Bankers as another opportunity for easy profits. They influenced Congress to charter the second central bank, the Second Bank of the United States (SBUS), in 1816. The new Bank's charter was a copy of the previous Bank's. The U.S. government would own 20% of the shares. Of course, the Federal share was paid by the Treasury up front, into the Bank's coffers. Then, through the magic of fractional reserve lending, it was transformed into loans to private investors who then bought the remaining 80% of the shares. Sound familiar by now?

The SBUS was more expansive than the BUS. The SBUS sold franchises and literally doubled the number of banks in a short period of time. The country began to boom and move westward, which required money. Using fractional lending at the 10:1 rate, the central bank and their franchises created the debt/money for the expansion. Things boomed for a while, then the banks decided to shut off the debt/money, citing the need to control inflation. This action on the part of the SBUS caused bankruptcies and foreclosures. The banks then took control of the assets that were used as security against the loans. Closely examine how the SBUS engineered this cycle of prosperity and depression. The central bank caused inflation by creating debt/money for loans and credit and making these funds readily available. The economy boomed. Then they used the inflation which they created as an excuse to shut off the loans/credit/money. The resulting shortage of cash caused the economy to falter or slow dramatically and large numbers of business and personal bankruptcies resulted. The central bank then seized the assets used as security for the loans. The wealth created by the borrowers during the boom was then transferred to the central bank during the bust. And you always wondered how the big guys ended up with all the marbles.

Now, who do you think is responsible for all of the ups and downs in our economy over the last 85 years? Think about the depression of the late '20s and all through the '30s. The FED could have pumped lots of debt/money into the market to stimulate the economy and get the country back on track, but did they? No; in fact, they restricted the money supply quite severely. We all know the horrible results that occurred from that action. Why would the FED do this? During that period asset values and stocks were at rock bottom prices. Who do you think was buying everything at 10 cents on the dollar? I believe that it is referred to as consolidating the wealth. How many times have they already done this in the last 85 years? Well, let's move on and see.

Where There's War There's Money, Debt & Dependency

War uses up more materials more quickly than most anything else on earth. In war expensive equipment doesn't wear out slowly, it gets blown up. And the victor gets to buy the best assets of the enslaved defeated at a rock bottom price. It's interesting to note that during the 119 year period from the founding of the Bank of England to Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo, England had been at war for 56 years, while the rest of the time preparing for it. In the process the money changers had been getting rich. So there it was, the newly formed privately owned Federal Reserve poised to produce any money the U.S. Government might need from thin air with each dollar standing to make a healthy interest. The FED owners have the power to issue currency and loans without any collateral of their own, i.e. by using the taxpayers' wealth as a guarantee!

Nine days after its formation the Federal Reserve founders were wishing each other a Happy New Year. What good fortune might 1914 bring? In 1829, a New York Illuminati meeting was addressed by a British Illuminist named Wright. He informed those present that Atheist groups were to be united with Russian Nihilist and other subversive groups into an international movement called "Communism" which would be used to foment wars. "Clinton Roosevelt (a direct ancestor of FDR)...." and others were appointed to raise funds which "... financed Karl Marx and Engels when they wrote 'Das Capital, and the 'Communist Manifesto, in Soho, England." ("Pawns In The Game", page XIV) Economic power was now centralized to a tremendous extent and it was time for a Rothschild war - a really big war - in fact, the first World War. As the central bankers knew, nothing enriches them and creates debts like warfare. England was the best example up to that time. During the 119-year period between the founding of the Bank of England and Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo, England had been at war for 56 years. And much of the remaining time, she'd been preparing for war. In World War I, the German Rothschilds loaned money to the Germans, the British Rothschilds loaned money to the British, and the French Rothschilds loaned money to the French, again creating it from nothing as credit issues. It was all highly profitable. In America, J.P. Morgan was the sales agent for war materials to both the British and the French. In fact, six months into the war, Morgan became the largest consumer on earth, spending $10 million a day. His offices at 23 Wall Street were mobbed by brokers and salesmen trying to cut a deal. It got so bad that the bank had to post guards at every door and at the partners' homes as well. Other Rothschild allies in the United States made out as well from the war. President Wilson appointed Bernard Baruch to head the War Industries Board. According to historian Jarnes Perloff, both Baruch and the Rockefellers profited by some $200 million during the war.

But profits were not the only motive. There was also revenge and power. The Money Changers never forgave the Czars and the Germans for their opposition to the Rothschilds and the central bankers nor for supporting Lincoln during the Civil War. Also, Russia was the last major European nation to refuse to give in to the privately-owned central bank scheme. Three years after World War I broke out, the Russian Revolution toppled the Czar. Jacob Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Company bragged on his deathbed that he had spent $20 million towards the defeat of the Czar. But the truth was that much of that money funded the communist coup d'état replacing the democratically elected Kerensky regime, which had replaced the Czar months earlier. The bankers were not so much enemies of the Czar, as they were intent on seizing power in Russia, through the Bolsheviks. Three gold shipments in 1920 alone, from Lenin to Kuhn, Loeb & Company and Morgan Guaranty Trust repaid the $20 million to the bankers, and this was just a small down payment. But would some of the richest men in the World financially back communism, the system that was openly vowing to destroy the so-called capitalism that made them wealthy? Communism, like plutocracy, is a product of capitalism.

Researcher Gary Allen explained it was this way: "If one understands that socialism is not a share-the-wealth program, but is in reality a method to consolidate and control the wealth, then the seeming paradox of super-rich men promoting socialism becomes no paradox at all. Instead, it becomes logical, even the perfect tool for power-seeking megalomaniacs. Communism or more accurately, socialism, is not a movement of the downtrodden masses, but of the economic elite."

As W. Cleon Skousen put it in his 1970 book The Naked Capitalist: "Power from any source tends to create an appetite for additional power... It was almost inevitable that the super-rich would one day aspire to control not only their own wealth, but the wealth of the whole World. To achieve this, they were perfectly willing to feed the ambitions of the power-hungry political conspirators who were committed to the overthrow of all existing governments and the establishment of a central World-wide dictatorship."

But what if these revolutionaries get out of control and try to seize power from the Money Changers? it was Mao Tsetung who in 1938 stated his position concerning power: "Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun." The London/Wall Street axis elected to take the risk. The master-planners attempted to control revolutionary communist groups by feeding them vast quantities of money when they obeyed, and contracting their money supply, or even financing their opposition or fascist parties in bordering nations, if they got out of control. Lenin began to understand that although he was the dictator of the new Soviet Union, he was not pulling the financial strings, someone else was silently in control. Lenin: "The state does not function as we desired. The car does not obey. A man is at the wheel and seems to lead it, but the car does not drive in the desired direction. It moves as another force wishes." Who was behind the state? Rep. Louis T. McFadden, the Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee throughout the 1920s and into the Great Depression years of the 1930s, explained it this way: "The course of Russian history has, indeed, been greatly affected by the operations of international bankers... The Soviet Government has been given United States Treasury funds by the Federal Reserve Board ... acting through the Chase Bank England has drawn money from us through the Federal Reserve banks and has re-lent it at high rates of interest to the Soviet Government... The Dnieperstroy Dam was built with funds unlawfully taken from the United States Treasury by the corrupt and dishonest Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve banks."

In other words, the Fed and the Bank of England, along with their controlling stock-holders, the Rothschilds, Rockefellers, Morgans, Schiffs, Warburgs, etc., were creating a monster, one which would fuel seven decades of unprecedented Communist revolution, warfare, and most importantly - debt. The Soviet Union was also a useful counterbalance to Germany, and later to the U.S., until 1989 with its dismemberment into fifteen countries. China then became a new counterbalance to the U.S., and is being built up at the rate of over $100 million dollars a day by lopsided trade deals, IMF loans and Western investments. Such balance-of-power arrangements assure that the Money Changers cannot be overthrown Worldwide by a political revolt in any single country. In that case, they simply shift support to the counter-balanced country. Additionally, the inevitable military rivalry between roughly balanced powers results in massive expenditures and so more national borrowing and debt. In case one thinks there is some chance that the Money Changers got communism going and then lost control - keep in mind that even in the socialist paradise, Rockefeller's National City Bank (now Citigroup) in St. Petersburg was never nationalized, as were all Russian banks. Numerous Western bankers operated openly in the Soviet Union, and made vast profits.

However, setbacks, some major, did occur. For instance, it is likely the bankers early on preferred the more compliant Mensheviks to the more independent Bolsheviks, but Lenin got the upper hand. Both groups had the same end and so this was not a fundamental division. However, it did lead to a serious problem when Lenin died, as an even more independent sort - Stalin - squeezed out the bankers' candidate - Leon Trotsky (real name: Bronstein; whose wife was linked to the Warburgs) - and took control of Soviet Communism. Even then Stalin continued to fear Trotsky's powerful connections, and so had him tracked down and eventually assassinated in Mexico. To pressure Stalin back into the ranks, as C.G. Rakovsky explained, the bankers financed Hitler, who was an avowed enemy of communism and openly advocated invading the Soviet Union. Anthony C. Sutton and others have documented the money trail from Wall Street to Hitler, which was mentioned above by Congressman McFadden. But it was only after the covered-up murder of Stalin, with the rise of Khrushchev et seq., that the Soviet Union was fully back in the ranks, securely under the bankers' control. In 1992, The Washington Times reported that Russian President Boris Yeltsin was upset that most of the incoming foreign aid was being siphoned off "straight back into the coffers of Western banks in debt service." Much of that debt was incurred under the prior communist regimes, which were heavily in debt to the Money Changers.

Similarly, once in power, Mao TseTung spread his wings and expelled the Soviets from Red China leading to the Sino-Soviet rift of the 1960's. The U.S. and the U.S.S.R. initiated an encirclement policy of China including: heavy Soviet troop concentrations and border provocations in Manchuria; drawing North Korea and Mongolia tightly into the Soviet camp; placing nuclear weapons in Manchuria; arming Tibetan freedom fighters and Taiwanese troops; and establishing important U.S. (now Soviet) air and naval bases in Vietnam (such as Cam Rahn Bay) while beefing up U.S. forces in Guam, Japan, Laos and Thailand, all under the pretext of the Vietnam War. Under this growing pressure, Mao first responded with internal political purges just as Stalin had done, but with the failure of the Great Leap Forward and with the U.S./U.S.S.R. noose tightening, Mao blinked and Kissinger was sent in to strike the deal. Still, Mao's price for China's cooperation and integration in the bankers' one-World scheme was obviously high, here is the result: the encirclement ended, including U.S. abandonment of South Vietnam and Laos; China got Taiwan's U.N. seat (and doubtless a pledge of eventually getting Taiwan itself); a free hand in Tibet, Hong Kong; and gigantic bribes in the form of Western development of China. This left the Bankers with few obstacles Worldwide: Muslim fundamentalism here and there, India's nuclear development, and the weak remnants of Western nationalism (concentrated in the large [but rapidly shrinking] U.S. middle class and in a minority of the British, French, and Russian aristocracy [e.g. Thatcher and Le Pen]). To overcome these, the Russian Empire was dismembered into fifteen nations; the U.K, France and the U.S.A. are gradually being submerged into regional and global entities (such as NAFTA, WTO, MAI, EEC, EU, etc.) and Desert Storm et seq. is keeping the Muslims on a tight leash while India is being pressured to abandon its nuclear program.

The bankers' three main regional groupings: the European Union, the proposed American Union in the Western hemisphere, and Chinese dominance in Asia, are rapidly bringing to life Orwell's three virtually identical World nations set forth in his 1948 book "1984": Eurasia, Oceania and East Asia - all set to engage in perpetual war (WWIII) with its attendant debt and population reduction and control. {Orwell got this idea from James Burnham's book The Managerial Revolution: burnham.html}

Wars are complex things with many causative factors. But on the other hand, it would also be equally foolish to ignore as a prime cause of World Wars I and II those who would profit the most from war, both financially and politically. Senator Nye of North Dakota raised the possibility that the Wilson administration entered WWI, at a critical juncture for the allies, in order to protect huge Wall Street bank loans to the allies. During the War the U.S. money supply was doubled to pay for it, halving the dollar's purchasing power and so Americans' savings. It is also interesting to note that the most belligerent pro-war hawk surrounding President Wilson was a man named Colonel Edward Mandell House, the son of a man commonly believed to be a Rothschild agent, who was himself closely associated with Wall Street and European bankers. The role of the Money Changers is no wild conspiracy theory. They had a motive - a short-range, self-serving motive as well as a long-range, political motive of advancing totalitarian government, with the Money Changers maintaining the financial clout to control whatever politicians might emerge as the leaders. We must learn from our history before it is too late. Why can't politicians control the federal debt? Because all our money is created in parallel with an equivalent quantity of debt. Again, it's a debt-money system. Our money is created initially by the sale of U.S. Bonds. The public buys bonds, the banks buy bonds, foreigners buy bonds, and when the Fed wants to create more money in the system, it buys bonds but pays for them with brand new Federal Reserve Notes (or book entries) which it creates out of nothing. Then, whatever new money the Fed creates is multiplied by at least a factor of ten by the private banks, thanks to the fractional reserve principle. Actually, exceptions to the reserve ratios allow a much greater multiplier. So, although the banks don't create currency like the private central Federal Reserve Bank, they do create checkbook money, or deposits, by making new loans. They even invest some of this created money. In fact, over one trillion dollars of this privately-created money has been used to purchase U.S. Bonds on the open market, which provides the banks with roughly 50 billion dollars in interest, risk free, each year, less the interest they pay some depositors. In this way, through fractional reserve lending, banks create far in excess of 90% of the money (approximately 97%), and therefore cause over 90% of our inflation.

The Don-Meh Sabbatean Jewish Imposters and the Armenian Massacre

Donmeh From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia (see also The Making Of A Sayanim, The Secret Zionist Network <http://www.judicial-inc.biz>) Donmeh (dönme) is a Turkish word for a religious convert. It refers to a group of Jews of the Near East who followed Sabbatai Zevi (also called Shabbatai Zvi) and outwardly converted to Islam in 1666, i.e. fake moslems just like we have the fake Jews from the southern Russian Ashkenazi Khazar tribes who converted from idolatry to Talmudism in the 8th century.. See also the following hyperlinks:

The Origins Of Modern Zionism - Part 1 French Rothschild Branch Behind the Planned Genocide Of Armenians
Financial Wizards & Wealthy Cults, The Rothschild Bloodline Rothschilds the descendants of the 17th Century "Jewish Messiah" Shabbetai Tzvi?
Rothschild Family Photo Gallery The Sabbateans Plan To Destroy Israel

While outwardly Muslim, the Donmeh secretly remained Jews, and continued to practice Jewish rituals covertly. They worshipped Sabbatai Zevi as the Messiah and an incarnation of God, observe certain Jewish rituals and pray in Hebrew and Aramaic and secretly celebrate Jewish festivals and fasts. They also observe rituals celebrating Zevi. They interpreted Zevi's conversion in a Kabbalistic way. Zevi had to rescue the bits of God spread among religions by converting to different confessions. Some of the original Donmeh were converts to Sabatianism. There are several branches of the Donmeh. The first was the Ismirli formed in Izmir in what is now Turkey. The second were the Jakubi founded by Jacob Querido, a successor to Zevi who also made messianic claims. Also were the Othman Baba led by Berechia. This group taught Jacob Frank who led the Frankists in 18th century eastern Europe and the fifth were the Lechli who are of Polish descent who lived in exile in Salonica and Constantinople. While being accepted by the Muslim society, they only married within their own community which resulted in several recessive genetic traits being typical of Donmeh. Several Donmeh were among the Young Turks, Turkish intellectuals who subverted the Ottoman Empire. At the time of the interchange of Greek and Turkish populations between Turkey and Greece, the Salonia Donmeh tried to be recognized as not Muslims to avoid forced transport to Anatolia. In the Republican era, they strongly supported the pro-Western and laïque reforms of Mustafa Kemal Atatürk, an attitude that bolstered the suspicions of Muslims towards them. Their current existence is unclear both in numbers and geographic distribution.

Isik University (a private university in Istanbul, Turkey) and the Feyziye Schools Foundation (Feyziye Mektepleri Vakfi - FMV) under whose umbrella the University is operating, are claimed to be founded by the Donmeh. [citation needed] See also Converso Muslim Jew Fall of the Ottoman Empire [Donmeh were behind the Armenian holocaust and internally subverted the Ottoman empire], see also <http://www.public-action.com/christmas.html> on the Lubavitch sect.

Financial Elites Destruction of the Tsar of Russia

The Elites financed the fall of the Tsar of Russia to punish him for his support of Lincoln. Both the Tsar and Lincoln opposed the establishment of a currency monopoly in the hands of these banking dynasties. Karl Marx was a German of Jewish descent, being the nephew of a Rabbi, and a student of the Satanist Bruno Bauer (Rothschild). Due to his revolutionary activities, Karl was expelled from Germany and "... given asylum in England!" ("Pawns In The Game", p.4). Whilst writing "The Communist Manifesto" in 1848, Marx had included ideas of an English socialist, Prof. John Ruskin, of Oxford University. Ruskin was mentor to Cecil Rhodes who, with the Rothschilds, backing, "... was able to monopolize the diamond mines of South Africa" and put his fortune to work in the plan for World empire. ("Tragedy and Hope", Prof. Quigley) Focusing in on the situation in Russia (from 1772), various Tsars had initially made restrictive laws strict for Jews, but they were later progressively liberalized until Alexander II "... devoted his life to improving the conditions of the poorer classes and the Jews But the Jewish revolutionary leaders were determined to continue their movement for Popular World Revolution". ("Pawns In The Game", p.64). Because of the domination of Russian society by Jews, the remaining restrictions were held in place. The Jews began to be increasingly rebellious and this peaked with the assassination of Alexander II.

With Alexander III came the introduction of the extremely restrictive May Laws in 1882. Jews made up 4.2% of the Russian population and the new laws enforced a limit on Jewish economic and cultural activity. "The International Bankers imposed economic sanctions against the Russian Empire. ... In 1904, after they involved the Russian Empire in a disastrous war with Japan, ... Rothschild ... tried to render the Russian Empire bankrupt..." ("Pawns In The Game", page 64). This was the preliminary requirement for a successful revolution and takeover. Financed by Jacob Schiff since 1897, the Mensheviks (minority group), were a terrorist cell led by "Lev Davidovich Bronstein, alias Lvov, alias Yanovsky, alias Nicolai Trotsky, the son of a rich Jewish landowner ..." ("World Revolution" by Nesta Webster, 1921, page 277). They successfully assassinated six ministers of government (between 1901 and 1906) and had attempted the failed Revolution of 1905. In the meantime, Vladimir Ulyanov - whose great-grandfather was a Jewish merchant named Srul - assumed the name Lenin and then became the head of the Bolsheviks (or majority group) in 1903. Lenin was an extremely ruthless leader and when compared with Stalin, "Of the two dictators Lenin was more cruel". (Molotov, quoted in Quadrant, July 1999, p.41). The First World War was started by members of the Serbian secret society, the Order of the Black Hand, when they assassinated the Archduke Ferdinand in 1914. Unfortunately for him, the Archduke's death had been planned two years earlier at an Illuminati meeting in Switzerland, "...the neutral Ground upon which all international plots are hatched".

The people who fought this war were literally pawns in a game of death. Russian soldiers were fighting well-armed Germans with sticks as they had only "...ONE rifle available for every six men." Russia had assurances from England that it would receive arms, but Rothschild-affiliated Vickers-Maxim held supplies back in preparation for revolution. ("Pawns In The Game", pp 77,78,89) After Lenin's successful Bolshevik revolution of 1917, the USSR came into being - the Illuminati's experiment, used to fine-tune their ideas of a totalitarian World government. Apart from the massive cost in human lives the Rothschilds had made another "killing", with their initial investment in Lenin of $70 million reaping them hundreds of millions in return. "Pre-Bolshevik Russia was able for many years to feed half of Europe ..." but Lenin ruthlessly stole ("nationalised") the farmers' land and murdered millions of Russians, crippling the economy and causing widespread famine. (Quadrant, July 1999, p.42)

Perhaps the best reference to the Illuminati's role for the "European Jews" in Communism comes from an article by Winston Churchill where he stated in the newspaper, Illustrated Sunday Herald, February 8, 1920, p.5: "...this movement among Jews is not new. From the days of Weishaupt to those of Karl Marx, and down to Trotsky,... this Worldwide conspiracy for the overthrow of civilisation... has been steadily growing. It played ... a definitely recognisable part in the ... French Revolution [1789]. It has been the mainspring of every subversive movement during the Nineteenth Century;..."

Sinking of The Lusitania

The sinking of the Lusitania was the event that, more than any other, motivated the American people to accept the necessity and the appearance of morality of getting into World War I. Prior to that time, there was great reluctance. However, when the Lusitania left New York Harbor on May 1, 1915, with 196 Americans on board and was sunk six days later off the coast of Ireland, it became the cause celeb that moved the American consciousness into a war mood against Germany. Americans were outraged at a nation that could viscously and cold-heartedly attack a peaceful passenger ship. What is not well known is that this was a staged incident by the highest levels in the US government to incite public opinion towards entering the war. Another private banking event related to WW I that is not well known is the role played by J.P. Morgan. As you recall, the CFR was described by Professor Quigley as a front for J.P. Morgan and Company. We must remember that Moran was, not only a founding member of the CFR, he was also a member of the Round Table, the inner group directing it, so how does Morgan fit into this? During World War I, the Morgan Bank was the subscription agent for war loans to England and France. These countries had quickly exhausted their financial resources to raise money for military equipment and supplies to continue the war against Germany. So they came to the United States and asked J.P. Morgan - who was culturally closer to Britain than to America - to be their agent for selling war bonds. The House of Morgan was happy to do that, and it floated approximately $1.5 billion in war bonds on behalf of England and, to a lesser extent, for France.

At this point in history, Britain and France were very close to defeat. The Germans had unleashed a surprise weapon, the U Boat - the submarine - that was new to warfare in those days, and they were sinking the supply ships that carried food and other necessities to the British Isles. The Germans were literally starving the British into submission who, by their own estimate, said they had only about seven weeks of food left. After that, there would be massive starvation in England, and they would have no choice but to surrender. For the British, there was only one salvation, and that was to have the Americans come into the war to help them. But on the American side, there was a different agenda. What would happen to that $1.5 billion in war loans if Britain and France lost the war? The only time war loans are repaid is when the nation borrowing the money wins the war. Losers don't pay off their bonds. So Morgan was in a terrible fix. Not only were his friends in England in dire danger, he and all his investors were about to lose $1.5 billion! A very serious situation, indeed.

The U.S. Ambassador to England at that time was Walter Page. Page was far more than just an ambassador. Among other things, he was a trustee to Rockefeller's General Education Board. It was in that capacity that he played a role in shaping educational policies to promote collectivism in America. However, as Ambassador to England, Page sent a telegram to the State Department, and this is what he said, " I think that the pressure of the approaching crisis has gone beyond the ability of the Morgan financial agency to the British and French governments. The greatest help we could give the allies is such credit. Unless we go to war with Germany, our government of course cannot make such a direct grant of credit." There are two sides to every story, and in this scenario the Zionists (the main protagonists) are opposed by a group which author W.G. Carr calls the "Aryan War Lords". Using this divide and conquer principle allows the Illuminati to split the bulk of humanity. These Zionists and Aryans are really to blame for allowing themselves to be so easily manipulated, but we are also to blame for allowing the whole situation to continue without so much as a word of protest, let alone action. We must each become personally responsible for our own destiny, while at the same time leading others out of this mess by example. With "Communism" (Bolshevism in place, the Illuminati had to create its opposite so that their plan for World takeover could advance. World War I had served two purposes: (1) it had completely depleted Russian resources, making revolution easy; (2) it had created huge debts in Germany, which was forced to make reparations for losing. To start a Second World War, in which Britain and Germany could be exhausted for takeover, propaganda was used to denounce the Jews and "... strengthened the trend towards National Socialism in Germany ..." ("Pawns In The Game", page 99).

This would allow the Illuminati the opportunity to pit the Aryan War Lords against the Zionists, who now pushed forward with their plans for a permanent homeland - "Israel". It was done via the Zionist interests in England where many Rothschild associates, such as Arthur Balfour, had worked their way into the parliament. The Balfour Declaration was simply a letter from Lord Arthur Balfour to Lord Lionel Walter Rothschild stating that Britain "... agreed to the terms dictated by Lord Rothschild and his Zionist confederates." With the Allies committed to a Jewish homeland, Lord Allenby and T.E.Lawrence were both dispatched to occupy the Holy Land in 1917. "Lawrence of Arabia" used the Arabs, who helped to drive out the Turks under the illusion "... that Palestine would be a British Protectorate. ("Pawns In The Game", p 87).

The Zionist Commission, set up in 1918, consisted of the following:

- Major Ormsby-Gore - director of the Midland Bank (in England).
- Major James de Rothschild - owner of the Rothschild Colonies in Palestine, which had introduced early Jewish settlers.
- Lieut. Edwin Samuel - later Chief Censor to the British in WWII.
- Mr Israel Sieff - director of Marks & Spencers stores (England).
- Leon Simon - later knighted, head of British General Post Office.
- Dr Elder, Mr Joseph Cohen, and Dr Chaim Weizmann.

The Commission went to Palestine to prepare the way for Versailles. The end of World War I came in that following year, followed by the Treaty of Versailles in 1919. The Rothschild-dominated conference "confirmed" their support for the "Israel" plan and set up the League of Nations, the birth of the Illuminati's global "Trojan Horse".

World War I \(1914-1918\)

The Germans borrowed money from the German Rothschilds bank, the British from the British Rothschilds bank, and the French from the French Rothschilds. American super banker J.P. Morgan was amongst other things also a sales agent for war materials. Six months into the war his spending of $10 million a day made him the largest consumer on the planet. The Rockefeller's and the head of president Wilson's War Industries Board, Bernard Baruch each made some 200 million dollars while families contributed their sons to the bloody front lines, but profit was not the only motive for involvement. Russia had spoiled the money changers plan to split America in two, and remained the last major country not to have its own central bank. Now they would pay for their stubborn independence. Three years after the start of the war the entire Russian Royal Family was killed and Communism began. You might find it strange to learn that the Russian Revolution was also fuelled with British money, i.e. Capitalist businessmen financing Communism?

Author Gary Allen gives his explanation: "If one understands that socialism is not a share-the-wealth program, but is in reality a method to consolidate and control the wealth, then the seeming paradox of super-rich men promoting socialism becomes no paradox at all. Instead, it becomes logical, even the perfect tool of power-seeking megalomaniacs. Communism or more accurately, socialism, is not a movement of the downtrodden masses, but of the economic elite." Gary Allen, Author

W. Cleon Skousen wrote in his book 'The Naked Capitalist'. "Power from any source tends to create an appetite for additional power... It was almost inevitable that the super-rich would one day aspire to control not only their own wealth, but the wealth of the whole World. To achieve this, they were perfectly willing to feed the ambitions of the power-hungry political conspirators who were committed to the overthrow of all existing governments and the establishments of a central World-wide dictatorship." W.Cleon Skousen

Extreme revolutionary groups were controlled by being financed when they complied and cut off, with money sometimes being given to their opposition, when they didn't. If you find this hard to believe, listen to what the so called dictator of the new Soviet Union had to say. "The state does not function as we desired. The car does not obey. A man is at the wheel and seems to lead it, but the car does not drive in the desired direction. It moves as another force wishes." Vladimir Lenin

Rep. Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee throughout the 1920-30s explained it this way. "The course of Russian history has, indeed, been greatly affected by the operations of international Bankers... The Soviet Government has been given United States Treasury funds by the Federal Reserve Board... acting through the Chase Bank... England has drawn money from us through the Federal Reserve Banks and has re-lent it at high rates of interest to the Soviet Government... The Dnieperstroy Dam was built with funds unlawfully taken from the United States Treasury by the corrupt and dishonest Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Banks." Rep. Louis T. McFadden (D-PA)

Even when Communism collapsed in the Soviet Union, Boris Yeltsin revealed that most of the foreign aid was ending up, we quote. "straight back into the coffers of western banks in debt service."

World Domination & Colonization

With Russia down the money changers now had control of every major national economy. Like a steam roller moving and a wolf gathering its pack, there was only one thing left to do and that was to go global. The first attempt was the proposal at the Paris Peace Conference after WWI to set up the League of Nations. Old habits die hard, and even what they called 'the war to end all wars' was not enough to convince nations to dissolve their boundaries. The League died. If politicians really were being controlled, you would think at least one would break ranks and cry out against it. Many did. One was no less than the president of the United States speaking before his death in 1919.

"These International Bankers and Rockefeller-Standard Oil interests control the majority of newspapers and the columns of these papers to club into submission or drive out of public office officials who refuse to do the bidding of the powerful corrupt cliques which compose the invisible government." Theodore Roosevelt

Another was the Mayor of New York expanding on Roosevelt's statement in 1922: "The warning of Theodore Roosevelt has much timeliness today, for the real menace of our republic is this invisible government which like a giant octopus sprawls its slimy length over City, State, and nation... It seizes in its long and powerful tentacles our executive officers, our legislative bodies, our schools, our courts, our newspapers, and every agency created for the public protection... To depart from mere generalizations, let me say that at the head of this octopus are the Rockefeller-Standard Oil interest and a small group of powerful banking houses generally referred to as the international bankers. The little coterie of powerful international bankers virtually run the United States government for their own selfish purposes. They practically control both political parties, write political platforms, make catspaws of party leaders, use the leading men of private organizations, and resort to every device to place in nomination for high public office only such candidates as will be amenable to the dictates of corrupt big business....These international Bankers and Rockefeller-Standard Oil interests control the majority of newspapers and magazines in this country." John Hylan, Mayor of New York. March 26th, 1922.

To depart from mere generalisations, let me say that at the head of this octopus are the Rockefeller-Standard Oil interest and a small group of powerful banking houses generally referred to as the international Bankers. The little coterie of powerful international Bankers virtually run the United States government for their own selfish purposes. They practically control both parties, write political platforms, make catspaws of party leaders, use the leading men of private organisations, and resort to every device to place in nomination for high public office only such candidates as will be amenable to the dictates of corrupt big business... These warnings fell on deaf ears, drowned out by the music and excitement of the roaring 20's. People don't tend to complain much in times of prosperity, so the money changers used this boom time they had created to defuse any complaints about their growing control.

Masonry And The HOAX of COMMUNISM (shades of 1960s Manchurian Candidate!)

Dr. Henry Makow Ph.D. explained how the Masonic takeover began through Communism. First note that many Nazis were brought into the CIA, FBI, NASA, etc. after WWII. Then, KGB generals have been given important positions in the Dept. of Homeland Security, run by Lenin look-alike, Zionist Michael Chertoff. This development is the "stealth Communist takeover of the USA. How better do it than when everyone is thinking Muslims, and our elected officials are too corrupt and compromised to protect us?" We don't recognize what has taken place because we think Communism is an idealistic but discredited working class experiment, tried mainly in Russia and China. This misconception has duped millions of unsuspecting socialists and liberals including myself. As recently as five years ago, I was singing the praises of Canadian Maoist dupe Dr. Norman Bethune to my English literature class. The Illuminati bankers created Communism to harness the working class to their program of a comprehensive World dictatorship (now known as "globalization.") The Illuminati and Communists are Masonic secret societies that celebrate the same anniversary, May 1, 1776 and share the same satanic symbols. The program took a giant step in 1913 when these Luciferian London-based bankers gained control over America's finances through the passage of the Federal Reserve Act. This gave them the means and incentive to step up their covert war against humanity. The two World Wars were the immediate result. Communism is a satanic movement devoted to human degradation and tyranny, not public ownership and social justice. Of course, no one would support it if they knew the truth.

Socialist theorists and ideologues have never attacked the essential mechanism of capitalism. Although the injustices of the capitalist system have been attacked in volume after volume, and rightly so, they have never even hinted at the usury upon which the whole system is built and from which all the other injustices stem. Most of the "Russian Revolutionists" of 1917 were actually European Jews (apostate ones) from the lower east side of New York City. Two hundred and seventy-five of them were conveyed to Russia aboard the S.S. Christiana, led by Trotsky and financed by Kuhns, Loeks, Schiffs and Warburgs. This cozy circle of Jews and Masons financed both sides of the Great War. Marx and Engels, two more Jews (apostate ones), wrote the Communist Manifesto (=Fascism = Monopoly Capitalism = imperialism) on behalf of a secret society calling themselves "The League of Just Men." This secret society was an arm of the Illuminati, whose power and influence was the catalyst of the French Revolution [1789]. One of the founding members of the Illuminati was the House of Rothschild, the Jewish banking house which practically invented supra-nationalism for personal profit. Many high-ranking former-Communists have risked their lives to alert their fellow Americans. One is Bella Dodd whose shocking book "School of Darkness" I reviewed two years ago. She describes how Communists morph into liberals, feminists and socialists, and myriad front groups (identifiable by the words "international" and "peace") to divide and subvert society. In "Return to My Father's House" (1972), Maurice Malkin provides more revelations. He was a leader of the American Communist Party (CPUSA) in the 1920's and 30's, and part of the Soviet secret service (GPU). When he left the CPUSA, he testified before Congress and suffered a stabbing attack as a result. Malkin, a Jew, had been involved in the Bolshevik underground in Russia. His older brother Joseph, a devoted Marxist later killed by Stalin, taught him that by overthrowing the Czar, workers could "eliminate all injustices and create a heaven on earth." All problems were due to the "class war."

"The capitalist bourgeoisie owned everything yet the working class did all the work. The mission of the working class was to take through violence what rightly belonged to them...[Only Marxism] could relieve the human race of brutality, discrimination [i.e. anti-Semitism] and injustice, of hunger, poverty and the drudgery that filled the lives of ordinary working people everywhere." (27-29) Malkin immigrated to New York and took this bogus religion of a workers' heaven on earth with him. Lev Bronstein (Leon Trotsky), a close family friend taught him "bullets, not ballots would liberate the workers." (50) His brother Joseph was one of the 150-175 mostly Jewish radicals who left for Russia with Trotsky in 1917 aboard the S.S. Christiansfjord. Banker Jacob

Schiff bankrolled them. The ship was stopped in Halifax and the occupants interned. Despite (or because of) Trotsky's public declaration that they "were going home to Russia to dig the grave of capitalism," President Woodrow Wilson intervened on their behalf. Rothschild agent Edward House controlled Wilson. The Illuminati bankers despise public capitalism because it involves competition and market forces. It allows other people the opportunity to prosper. They favor private monopoly or state capitalism and the abolition of private property because then they own or control everything. Of course, this is disguised as "public ownership."

Thus, for most of the last century the United States has tolerated the legal existence of a party openly dedicated to the violent overthrow of the US government and the enslavement of its people. This party, the CPUSA was funded and directed by a hostile foreign government. It engaged in industrial and military espionage, trained guerrilla units on American soil, forcibly took over unions, raided their treasuries and controlled whole industries. It slandered, harassed and killed opponents; bribed police and judges and infiltrated the military. Yet all the while our highest elected officials defended it as a harmless idealistic enterprise. "Some of my best friends are Communists," FDR famously said. Malkin reports that Adlai Stevenson (as Assistant Navy Secretary) sabotaged efforts to curtail Communist activities. In 1956, Eisenhower "liquidated all anti-subversive sections in the Immigration Dept and halted deportation and prosecution of known alien Communists. [He] stopped prosecutions of Communists under the Smith Act, giving the Party a chance to regroup and organize new mass fronts." The Liberal media marginalized and ridiculed as "right wing fanatics" people who warned of the Communist threat. To this day, people don't accept that the Rosenbergs were indeed Russian spies. The House Un-American Activities Committee is portrayed as a "witch hunt."

Communism is nothing but a sugarcoated goon squad for the Illuminati bankers. Malkin reports that the CPUSA even had a formal alliance with the mafia, another Masonic sect. Moscow provided the Mafia with heroin to sell in the USA. The Mafia "lent" money to the Communist Party, provided muscle for taking over the labor movement, and disposed of enemies and members who woke up. (One Communist leader, Juliet Stuart Poyntz, was kidnapped, killed at sea and thrown overboard.) The Mafia also distributed counterfeit US dollars printed in Moscow. Following Stalin's example, American Communists robbed banks, calling it "expropriation." In his book, "Left Wing Communism" (Vol. 30) Lenin counselled: "Communists are to be ready to cheat, lie, perjure and do everything possible to gain their ends." Thus, when evidence of their skulduggery surfaced, it was little matter to denounce it as a "forgery" and smear the messenger. The Communist Party infiltrated the Civil Rights movement and got Ralph Abernathy to work with their Moscow. "The Reds realized that the only way to weaken our country is by dividing it through anarchy and chaos," Malkin writes.

They had more luck with women. The Communist attitude to women is instructive since second-wave feminism is Communist in origin. Feminism is recycled "class war" adjusted for gender. Young female members were used on the waterfront to recruit sailors and longshoremen and bring them to party functions. "Girls would always be found in the Communist summer camps doing the party's bidding plus offering a little enjoyment on the side. The Party believes that the only laws and morals are Communist morals.Communists do not believe in family institutions or morals so everything is free." (239) The Communists had a department dedicated to "the destruction of the morale of the American people by undermining their faith in their moral and social patterns." (71) You can bet that something like this is behind same-sex marriage. When Hitler and Stalin made a pact in 1939, Malkin realized there was little difference between the two and quit the Party. He devoted the rest of his life to defending American institutions, working for the U.S. Dept. of Justice from 1948-1956. He realized belatedly that his religious father's condemnations of Communism were correct, hence the title of the book. Although this book was published in 1972, the Communist conspiracy is more active than ever. Conscious and unconscious agents abound especially in lesbian, feminist, socialist, Zionist and liberal circles. I have encountered them in academia, journalism, politics and government.

Once, a lesbian running for the head of the English Department gave a long speech saying she believed in "peace." What did this have to do with English literature? Apparently literature today is more concerned with indoctrination. She was elected Chair of the Department. The New World Order is full of empty platitudes about "peace" "tolerance" and "human rights." But in light of the NWO's murderous Communist (and Fascist) pedigree, these platitudes are no more convincing than if Ted Bundy or Jeffrey Dahmer uttered them. Western elites (including the intelligentsia) suffer from a peculiar death wish. We would be slaves already were it not for the fact that ordinary Americans own firearms. This, the Internet, and the inherent self-destructiveness of evil, are my main reasons for hope. Nowadays banking has become extremely sophisticated but the hidden and usurous mechanism behind it remains the same. After a big enquiry, hushed up as much as possible, the Bank of England was nationalized in 1946. In theory control of the Bank of England should then have passed from a group of private individuals to the British Government, but this is still not the case. Nationalization only added a thin veneer of respectability. Our current system of exchange was created with a profit motive aimed at capitalising on people's need for currency. The Central Banking System (which produces the actual currency and loans it to governments at interest and sells it to high street banks at face value) was set up as a network of private businesses with official-sounding names, engineered to make a profit for their shareholders. These include the Bank of England (Graham Bannoc R.E. Baxter and Evan Davis, 'The Penguin Dictionary of Economics' page 34 also The Economic Organisation of Europe, 'Cambridge Economic History of Europe V' page 352), The Federal Reserve (Graham Bannoc R.E. Baxter and Evan Davis, 'The Penguin Dictionary of Economics' page 155) and all the other Central Banks throughout the World. Not one of them is democratic! All of them are masters of disguise. Even nationalization has not stopped Bank of England stock holders from receiving their dividends, nor stopped the bank from keeping 75% of its profit, while writing off the 25% it pays to the Treasury as corporation tax (Bank of England Act 1946).

The British Treasury, in conjunction with the Bank of England's advisers to the Government, determine how much paper money and coin will be issued each year. This has to accord with the wealth of the nation for that year. But because banknotes and coins only account for a tiny percentage of financial transactions, it makes no difference to the Bankers at all. Most financial transactions are carried out with meaningless and worthless figures on computer records that have no relationship to real wealth. Everything has to be paid for at interest though - even when it doesn't exist! The Government still has to pay interest on old and new loans from the Bank. Only a few years ago it was announced that the interest debt on a loan taken during the Napoleonic War had just been paid off! This is where much of our tax money goes.

Delivering An Independent India To The Soviets

As we know, the biggest Illuminati project of the 20th century was Communism. To create an independent India as a proxy for the Soviets, the Illuminati fostered the growth of the Indian National Congress through its operatives, A.O Hume and Wederburn.. For this purpose, Indian Masonry went overtime into grooming local Indian Mason operatives. According to this official Masonic website, <http://www.masonindia.org/index10.html> "Swami Vivekananda (initiated in 1884 under the name of Bro. Narendra Nath Dutt in Lodge Anchor & Hope, Calcutta). Motilal Nehru - Lodge Harmony, Kanpur (Father of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and grand father of Indhira Gandhi), C. Rajagopalachary (Governor General of India), Sir C P Ramaswamy Iyer (Divan of Travancore), Dr. P V Cheriy (Governor of Maharashtra), and Fakruddin Ali Ahmed (President of India)." Since this Illuminati project of delivering an 'independent India' to the Soviet sphere of influence required top priority, Illuminati operative Helena Blavatsky founded the Theosophical Society in India. The purpose was two-fold. First, Blavatsky would dig up the swastika and Aryan theory for the Nazis who were created to attack Russia, which would result in the entire Eastern Europe and Germany being transferred to Communists. Secondly, the Theosophical Society would coordinate the Indian Independence movement through the Indian National Congress. Even back then, rumours began circulating about Blavatsky and the "Russians". A key theosophist activist was Mrs. Annie Besant who despite acting against the British, managed to mysteriously escape being punished by them. If one analyses the Indian independence movement, we notice the British building a crescendo of antagonizing the Indian National Congress and then caving in to their demands' whereas transfer of power to the INC was predetermined. South-African educated lawyer Mahatma Ghandi led the famous "salt tax" revolt to kick off the drive for independence (similar to the Boston Tea Party against taxation without representation) while Mohammed Ali Jinnah, a British educated lawyer managed to get a mandate for an all Muslim Pakistan without going to jail.

The last Governor General of India, Lord Mountbatten (in fact, a German with the real name of Battenburg) is considered to be associated with the Rothschilds (originally Germans as well). He assured that independent India got more than its share of landmass, including islands in the Indian Ocean, many border districts initially marked for Pakistan (which resulted in the Muslims being massacred), 95% Muslim Kashmir which should have gone to Pakistan, The Muslim princely states of Junagadh and Hyderabad, the latter of whom was expecting independent status for its role in 1857 and North-Eastern territories consisting of Orientals! The time India was liberated coincides with a little known private ceremony known as "Hour of the British Empire" which is held in London. Further, the Rothschild owned British Petroleum was granted unlimited rights to all offshore Indian oil, which is still valid till this day. There is reason to believe that the internationalists were behind the death/disappearance of Indian freedom fighter Subhash Chandra Bose who would become a popular rival to Theosophist groomed Nehru after independence. Unlike Nehru, Bose was on the frontlines using Indian POW's of the British army captured by the Japanese to fight back against the British. His death remains a mystery and it was conducted by the illuminati to ensure Nehru had all control over India.

The Congress party consisted of numerous Masons and theosophists who ensured that India with its strategic landmass was always a total ally of the Soviet Union. Later, many communist countries including India became part of the "non aligned movement" which enabled them to remain allied to the Soviet Union and yet receive major aid from internationalists and their tax free foundations in America, including components for atomic weapons. Even Canadian Deuterium made its way into Soviet proxy India. All of Indian military hardware consisted of Russian technology and despite the cold war, the Illuminati was very reluctant to back Pakistan in any way. Limited amounts of American small arms made it to Afghanistan through Pakistan (note that the American ambassador supervising it and the Pakistani President, General Zia, were killed in the same plane crash). India had major stakes in the Soviet Union, including a possible obliteration of Pakistan if the Soviets made it across Afghanistan. It is interesting to note that the UN turned a blind eye to the illegal Indian invasion and annexation of Goa. This proves that the UN was created to foster Illuminati plans.

Of course, the farce of Indian independence will never be known to the casual observer, who is subjected to whitewash such as the BBC movie, "Gandhi" and Larry Collin's (Of Illuminati Collins bloodline) "Freedom at Midnight". As for Indians, despite their population of around 1 billion, they seem to be too hungry, hate obsessed and materialistic to ever figure out. And again, greeting the powerful of the World with folded hands is never looked down upon. In India. And rather represents a 1000 year old tradition. It is interesting to note that the Indian government crushed the real peasant classes who became genuine Communists without the Communist International batting an eye; and Soviet aid to India was never hindered. After the collapse of the Soviet Union, the Illuminati switched horses; abandoning the Congress party for the Hindu fascist Bharatiya janata Party (BJP). Though never in control of this party, this was the closest the Illuminati could get to exercising influence. The UN and World media would turn a blind eye to the burning alive of 5000+ Muslim civilians by Hindu hoodlums. Israel would become intimately involved with India, to the extent of Israeli fighter planes being detected in the process of launching pre-emptive strikes on Pakistani nuclear reactors after India conducted its recent nuclear tests .The coming to light of this event enraged the Chinese allies of Pakistan to such an extent that they gifted Pakistan a complete fleet of fighter planes.

The recent resurgence of the Congress has upset Illuminati plans. The creation of a one World government under the Illuminati UN will require not just horrendous wars in the Middle East but the rest of the World as well. In South east Asia, we may see a war with Pakistan, North Korea and China against India, Taiwan and south Korea. If it happens to be a nuclear war, the carnage will help pave way for a UN one World government. For that purpose, the Illuminati is working to get the recently dethroned Hindu fascist BJP party back on its feet.

1920 Henry Ford in "The Dearborn Independent" Magazines Exposes Fraudulent Financial System

Henry Ford: ..."It is well that the people of the nation do not understand our banking and monetary system, for if they did, I believe there would be a revolution before tomorrow morning." (see The Foundation Economy by Fred Eggerton)

Henry Ford: "Do you want to know the cause of war? It is capitalism, greed, the dirty hunger for dollars. Take away the capitalist and you will sweep war from the earth."

Henry Ford said that it would only require 60 to 70 bankers being put into jail to stop all wars when in plans were told him for World War II and how various people would profit from it when riding on a ship to Europe.

The Prohibition Movement seemingly sprang up spontaneously but what really happened was that people like Henry Ford were including plans for simple alcohol stills with the Model T so that farmers and others could be self sufficient and would be enabled to buy more of these vehicles. The lower the cost of energy, the more independence people have and the more freedom they have from bankers and their control. The banklords could not allow this to continue thus the blue blood families in the east were encouraged to finance advertising and other monies for leaders in the prohibition movement to take out the small independents that were a threat to the oil market controlled by the seven sister Rockefeller oil companies. Large alcohol factories were set up in Germany and other places to supply the illicit demand created and moved through connected mafia members so that more money was made by them. After prohibition was declared a failure, red tape and bureaucracy was created so that there was another monopoly created supplying continuous large profits for a few super rich.

The Dearborn Independent also started publishing the Protocols as a serial in 1920.

1921 Independent Treasury Act abolishes Public Treasury in favor of BankLords

President Thomas Jefferson once said: "I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies . . . If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around [the banks] . . . will deprive the people of all property until their children wake-up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered . . . The issuing power should be taken from the banks and restored to the people, to whom it properly belongs." -- -- The Debate Over The Recharter Of The Bank Bill, (1809). Seems that Jefferson's prophesy has come true unfortunately for us!

The Makers of the Constitution foresaw the need of a national capital. The city of Washington, the District of Columbia, became the capital in 1800. There the work of the government is centered. Congress is given complete charge and control over it. Its residents have no vote. They, alone, of all the people in the United States, must obey laws, with the making of which, they have had nothing to do. They elect no representative to Congress; neither do they elect any city or district officer. This is where the private Federal Reserve System is headquartered, just like the Bank of England is headquartered in the square mile CITY OF LONDON (everything is centered around these banks).

The following is from <http://www.wealth4freedom.com/truth/2/jeffersonprofesy.htm>, Joyce Rosenwald and <http://www.barefootsWorld.net/srwep.html>. Did you ever hear of the Independent Treasury Act of 1921? No, you say.... Hmmmmmm....? This Act suspended the de jure (meaning "by right of legal establishment") Treasury Department of the United States government. Our Congress turned its functions to a private corporation, the Federal Reserve and their agents. The ownership of the Federal Reserve System was initially held by these banking interests: Rothschild Bank of London, Rothschild Bank of Berlin, Warburg Bank of Hamburg, Warburg Bank of Amsterdam, Lazard Brothers of Paris, Israel Moses Seif Banks of Italy, Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, Goldman, Sachs of New York, Lehman Brothers of New York, Kuhn Loeb Bank of New York. The Federal Reserve is at the root of most of our present laws, i.e. it basically is the "STATE" of the United States. See "Our Enemy, The STATE" by Albert J. Nock - 1935, his Classic Critique Distinguishing "Government" from the "STATE." See also the Charts in Text Format of Interlocking Directorships and Family Linkages taken from "Federal Reserve Directors: A Study of Corporate and Banking Influence. Staff Report, Committee on Banking, Currency and Housing, House of Representatives, 94th Congress, 2nd Session, August 1976." United States money, in the form of private Federal Reserve System Banks notes (FRN) or FRN accounts.

It is interesting to read the printing on several different kinds of bills..... a "green-back" or United States note, a Federal Reserve note (FRN), a gold certificate, and a national bank note, perhaps, given by a bank in your own city. One of these guarantees that the holder will be given the amount of the bill, in gold coin, upon demand; and in fact, gold can be obtained for any of them. In December 23, 1913, the U.S. Congress passed the Federal Reserve Act, placing control of this nation's issuance of money and credit into the hands of a private corporation. In 1920, the 66th Congress passed the Independent Treasury Act. In 1921, the United States abolished the U.S. Treasury. This allowed all United States money in the private Federal Reserve Banks to be kept separate from Federal Reserve Notes: "That, if any moneys or bullion, constituting part of the trust funds or other special funds heretofore required by law to be kept in Treasury offices, shall be deposited with any Federal reserve bank, then such moneys or bullion shall by such bank be kept separate and distinct from the assets, funds, and securities of the Federal Reserve Bank and be held in the joint custody of the Federal Reserve Agent and the Federal Reserve Bank". From 1913, until 1933, under the authority of the U.S. Congress, a private corporation held control of this nation's GOLD. The U.S. paid interest on the use of their own gold, with more and more of its gold, ultimately ending in bankruptcy. Inevitably, the bankers foreclosed. On March 9, 1933, the U.S. declared bankruptcy, as expressed in President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's Executive Orders 6073, 6102, 6111, and 6260. He declared a National Emergency that made it unlawful for any citizen of the United States to own gold (fleecing of the flock!) Our bankrupt nation went into receivership and reorganized in favor of its creditor and new owners, a private corporation of international bankers. Since 1933, what is called the "UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT" is a privately owned corporation of the Federal Reserve/IMF.

Without a word of truth to the American people, all our good faith and credit was pledged as the surety for the debt by the same Congress who created the mechanism that allowed it to occur. Those exercising the offices of the several States, in equal measure, knew such "De Facto Transitions" were unlawful and unauthorized, but sanctioned, implemented, and enforced the complete debauchment and the resulting "governmental, social, industrial economic change" in the "De Jure" States, and in United States of America. Public Law 94-564 Legislative History, pg. 5936, 594531 U.S.C.A. 31431 U.S.C.A. 5112C.R.S. 11-61-101C.R.S. 39-22-103.5 They were and are now under the delusion that they can do, both, directly and indirectly, what they were absolutely prohibited from doing. Federalist Papers No. 44 Craig vs. Missouri, 4 Peters 903.

On June 5, 1933, Congress passed HJR-192. House Joint Resolution 192 was passed to suspend the gold standard and abrogate the gold clause in the national constitution. Since then no one in America has been able to lawfully pay a debt. This resolution declared: ".....Whereas the holding or dealing in gold affect the PUBLIC INTEREST, and are therefore subject to proper regulation and restriction: and whereas the existing emergency has disclosed that provisions of obligations which purport to give the obligee a RIGHT TO REQUIRE PAYMENT in gold or a particular kind of coin or currency....ARE INCONSISTENT WITH THE DECLARED POLICY OF CONGRESS IN THE PAYMENT OF DEBTS.....PAYMENT in gold or a particular kind of coin or currency, or in an amount in money of the united States measured thereby, IS DECLARED TO BE AGAINST PUBLIC POLICY:AND.....EVERY OBLIGATION, HERETOFORE OR HEREAFTER INCURRED, SHALL BE DISCHARGED upon payment, dollar for dollar, in any coin or currency which, at the time of payment, is legal tender for public and private debts....All coins and currencies of the United States (including Federal Reserve Notes and circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks and national banking associations) heretofore, or hereafter, coined or issued, SHALL BE LEGAL TENDER for all debts, public and private, public charges, taxes, duties, and dues,...." House Joint Resolution 192, 73d Congress, Sess.I, Ch. 48, June 5, 1933 (Public Law No. 10). Note: "payment of debt" is now against Congressional and "public policy" and henceforth, "Every obligation...Shall be discharged."

As a result of HJR-192, and from that day forward (June 5, 1933), no one in this nation has been able to lawfully pay a debt or lawfully own anything. The only thing one can do, is tender in transfer of debts, with the debt being perpetual. The suspension of the gold standard, and prohibition against paying debts, removed the substance for our common law to operate on, and created a void as far as the law is concerned. This substance was replaced with a "PUBLIC NATIONAL CREDIT SYSTEM" where debt is "LEGAL TENDER" money. The Federal Reserve calls it "monetized debt." HJR-192 was implemented immediately. The day after President Roosevelt signed the resolution, the treasury offered the public new government securities, minus the traditional "payable in gold" clause. On May 23, 1933, Congressman, Louis T. McFadden, brought formal charges against the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve Bank system, the Comptroller of the Currency and the Secretary of the United States Treasury for criminal acts. The petition for Articles of Impeachment was, thereafter, referred to the Judiciary Committee, and has yet to be acted upon. The Judiciary branch of government has the power to correct this fraud upon the people.

In 1965 Congress passed the "Coinage Act of 1965" completely debasing the Constitutional Coin; (gold & silver, i.e. Dollar). U.S. vs. Marigold, 50 U.S. 560, 13 L. Ed. 257. At the signing of the Coinage Act on July 23, 1965, Lyndon B. Johnson stated, in his Press Release that: "When I have signed this bill before me, we will have made the first fundamental change in our coinage in 173 years. The Coinage Act of 1965 supercedes the Act of 1792. And that Act had the title: An Act Establishing a Mint and Regulating the Coinage of the United States . . .""Now I will sign this bill to make the first change in our coinage system, since the 18th Century. To those members of Congress, who are here on this historic occasion, I want to assure you that in making this change from the 18th Century we have no idea of returning to it."

In 1967, in a brazenly unconstitutional act, Congress repudiated its obligation to redeem silver certificates in silver coin or bullion. In the book, Pieces of Eight, Dr. Edwin Vieira writes: "On June 24, 1968 the United States, finally, abandoned the silver standard applicable since Queen Anne's proclamation of 1704, and embraced a system of fiat bills of credit (e.g. alleged currency) based on irredeemable, legal tender, Federal Reserve Notes and debased, legal tender, clad coinage, never to be declared as lawful money of the United States. Through misguided trust, our duly elected sworn public officials took our lawful currency and changed it to unconstitutional bills of credit (irredeemable Federal Reserve Notes), which continues to circulate only because of the public's continuing, misplaced confidence in these notes. The word "legal tender" on today's notes are not a magic incantation; they impart NO intrinsic value to money, nor do they entitle the bearer to exchange these notes for lawful specie. They are a throwback to feudal days when the sovereign could, and did, issue a proclamation declaring what was to be used as "money" whenever he wanted to debase the circulating medium."

INSCRIPTIONS ON FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES 1913 TO 1934: "Redeemable in Gold on demand at the United States Treasury or in Lawful money, at any Federal Reserve Bank." "Will pay to the bearer on demand one dollar."

1934TO..... 1968: "This note is legal tender for all debts public and private and is redeemable in lawful money at the United states Treasury, or any Federal Reserve bank." "Will pay to the bearer on demand one dollar."

1968TO..... 1995: "This note is legal tender for all debts, public and private". THERE IS NO PROMISE TO PAY, NOR IS A NOTE A DOLLAR !!

US currency (notes, bills of credit) was always to be redeemable in United States specie currency; first issued 76 years after the ratification of the U.S. Constitution, which only mandates gold and silver coin as currency in substance, not form. Early Federal Reserve Notes were redeemable, but over the years, the wording on these notes regarding the promise and obligation has been gradually changed until 1968. Since that time our "monetized debt" money offers NO OBLIGATION AND THEY PROMISE NOTHING!!!!

Since 1913, there has been more than just a gradual and accelerating erosion of the alleged dollar's purchasing power in our society. For the privilege of using these notes of private corporate debt as our "money", we were absolved from the responsibility of paying our debts at law. We were placed in the position of having the "benefit" of limited liability for payment of debt under the jurisdiction of Vice Admiralty/Maritime law (the law merchant/commercial jurisdiction, UCC) in all controversies. For the privilege of using monetized debt, we also lost the rights secured to us by our Organic Constitutions, both National and State. Under the law, merchant, you have no rights. We are now using as "lawful money", worthless notes of private corporate debt, backed by our own credit that we can't own, and for this "privilege" we are held to compelled performance under the statutes.....To make it simple, as long as this nation's lawful currency is notes of private corporate debt, (bills of credit...money backed by no substance) it will remain impossible to ever repay a debt, thereby keeping us and our posterity in debt into perpetuity. Has Thomas Jefferson's prophecy come to pass? Under the contrived bankruptcy we have lost the right to challenge the constitutionality of the statutes.....We have lost our law.....We can own nothing.....We have become corporate slaves on the land we once owned.....And.....our children are waking up homeless on the continent their forefathers conquered.

In 1921, the stockholders of the Federal Reserve financed an organization called the "Council on Foreign Relations" (CFR). Harpers magazine called this the most powerful organization in the United States. Ninety percent of the people in the State Department and key positions in the Executive Branch are members of the CFR. The CFR publishes a magazine called "Foreign Affairs." Read it if you want to know what is going to happen in coming years. The CFR is in favor of a New World Order tyranny.

Agricultural Panic of 1921

So successful was this deliberately induced panic by the Federal Reserve Board that commodity prices fell 50% and industrial production 32%. Thousands of farms were foreclosed in 1920-1921. This contrived policy of the Fed broke over 5400 banks. The giant banks picked up the assets of the broken ones, in many cases at 5 to 7 cents on the dollar, and many of the larger bankrupt businesses were acquired by corporations owned or controlled by the same "Insiders"

Depression In 1929: The Neo-Slavery Debt-Usury Cycle Crash

One thing multiplying irreversibly in proportion to another, ultimately exceeds it. Given that interest multiplies debt in proportion to commerce, it follows that if a subject commerce cannot grow faster than the ever escalated multiplication of debt inherent to a circulation subject to interest, that in the end of such a system, insoluble debt overcomes the system at an ever greater rate — as is the present experience. <http://www.perfecteconomy.com/principal---probability-of-World-wide-economic-collapse.html>. The collapsing of the securities market is the same takeover ruse which the proposed Aldrich Central Bank was promised to prevent in the propaganda of the carefully re-named "Federal Reserve" System. As history continues to prove, a huge volume of unrepealed, financial legislative acts were thus based on purposed deception. Competing in acquisition of assets, the same private, international usurers would withdraw or diminish the availability of credit necessary to sustaining a sector of commerce. The trade dependent on that circulation could only collapse as obligations to pay on existent debt deplete the circulation. Without the re-borrowing vital to maintaining the circulation, the sector expires as soon as debt obligations cannot be met. The bankers then foreclose on debt, saying the sector over-extended its credit-worthiness. By this ruse, central bankers had already become the real owners of most of the World's production. Over its first 15 years, up to Black Friday, incredible quantities of securities had been traded on short-term credit provided by the Federal Reserve. With the Federal Reserve's blessing, stocks were typically bought "on margin" — with the purchaser having only some 10% of the funds, and borrowing the remainder from funds provided by the Federal Reserve. Purchases were necessarily turned over on equally short terms, to repay the debt.

If you had $100, you could buy $1,000 worth of stock on $900 of short-term credit made available by the Federal Reserve. On a 15-day promissory note, you sold the stock two weeks later, for perhaps $1,100. Much as today, the Federal Reserve gladly granted another buyer the credit necessary to re-purchase the stocks. Prices were consistently elevated by the very proportions of credit sanctioned by Federal Reserve policies. In two weeks, after selling your $1,000 purchase for $1,100 and paying your $900 debt, you had doubled your $100 savings — which of course were immediately re-invested on further short-term credit. With a dramatically inflating circulation, no one could truly afford to leave their money outside of circles which did not directly swallow this stream of credit. The real value of money depreciated against a circulation perpetually inflated in proportion to real production. Obviously, the real value of commerce was not doubling or increasing 10% in the same 15 days. And so there were no savings, as no one could truly afford to save. Spare money rode the "securities" market. Swelled consistently by this steady stream of ever greater credit, the market would re-purchase the stocks. A perpetually inflated circulation alone made this both possible and necessary — to fulfill the obligations of the ever greater debt simultaneously incurred.

As the exchanges closed one Black Friday however, suddenly the very same bankers who seemed to see fit to inflate the costs of securities upon so much debt, now withdrew further credit from the market. Speculators were advised no more short-term credit would be made available to their graft. Stockholders suddenly had the weekend to contemplate the prospect of selling their indebted stocks — by necessity liquidated in the least of time — to a market which would now be deprived of the credit absolutely necessary to buy them as would fulfill the debt incurred in their purchase. Only 10% of the currency necessary to do so existed — and even this was in the hands of the same bankers. Tremendous short-term debt existed — all soon due. Virtually no circulation existed to redeem this debt. Further credit, absolutely necessary to redeem the current debt, would no longer be available. Hence, the following Monday could only see, all at once, the precipitous crash of the market; real ownership of commerce and real property fall into the hands of the very twelve private corporations proposed to stabilize economy by foreclosure and dispossession which ensued; and the initiation of the Great Depression.

It was mathematically impossible for the market not to crash; it crashed due to manipulation by the BankLords. In the immediate wake of the initial crash followed a vast wave of foreclosure — further multiplying the gains of the Federal Reserve and subordinate banks at an incredible expense to the people. The crash of the stock market and the "Great Depression" however were only initial consequences of the bizarre capacities endowed the "Federal Reserve." In the midst of the Great Depression — and while he could not yet know "The Federal Reserve" was financing the military expansions of Germany and Japan for a World War soon to follow — Congressman Louis T. McFadden asked for repeal of the Federal Reserve Act and enforcement of the Constitution. Congressman Louis T. McFadden served twelve years as Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency. He was perhaps the foremost expert of the time on banking and currency matters, including the subversive developments creating the Federal Reserve. Two attempts were made to take Mr. McFadden's life, including an attempted poisoning at a Congressional cafeteria. He passed away in 1935 under circumstances which many still contend are suspicious. With his passing, "somehow", for the while, so too passed serious opposition to the Federal Reserve.

"The Federal Reserve definitely caused the Great depression by contracting the amount of currency in circulation by one-third from 1929 to 1933."
Milton Friedman, Nobel Prize winning economist

Curtis Dall, son-in-law of FDR: "It was the calculated shearing of the public by the World Money powers triggered by the sudden shortage of call money in the New York money market".

"It was not accidental. It was a carefully contrived occurrence... The international Bankers sought to bring about a condition of despair here so that they might emerge as rulers of us all." "I think it can hardly be disputed that the statesmen and financiers of Europe are ready to take almost any means to re-acquire rapidly the gold stock which Europe lost to America as the result of World War I." Rep. Louis T. McFadden (D-PA)

And instead of lowering interest rates and increasing the money supply, the FED further tightened money supplies. 40 billion dollars somehow vanished in the crash into the hands of the banking dynasties. It didn't really vanish, it simply shifted into the hands of the money changers. This is how Joe Kennedy went from having 4 million dollars in 1929 to having over 100 million in 1935. During this time the Fed caused a 33% reduction of the money supply, causing deeper depression. The Illuminati's two greatest weapons are secrecy and money. Mayer Amschel Rothschild, head of the House of Rothschild, and who was also head of the Illuminati, said in 1838, "Allow me to issue and control the money of a nation and I care not who writes its laws." How very true! Even in today's society, if a federally-sponsored charity does not listen to what these groups want, it will be cut off from all governmental funding. This is "monetary dictatorship." Down the corridor of time, a political figure emerged in the 1920's who would become President of the United States. During the 1932 presidential campaign, Franklin D. Roosevelt's political platform was based on what he termed "The New Deal," though many rumors were spreading that this platform did not represent his true plans. Fearing a deeper depression, the public began a run on the banks. Many closed their doors by the time Roosevelt was inaugurated. Even the Great Depression, beginning in late 1929, was part of this overall plan. Congressman Louis T. McFadden, Chairman of the House Banking Committee, said... "It was no accident. It was a carefully contrived occurrence. The international Bankers sought to bring about a condition of despair here so they might emerge as rulers of us all." (sounds like a familiar story, i.e. 9-11, famous Masonic words from Bush "out of chaos will emerge order"). So the Roosevelt administration asked the United States Congress to pass legislation which would force the American people to give up their gold in exchange for paper money. When the passing of the appropriate legislation was accomplished, the American people were forced to give up their gold for this paper money called the Federal Reserve Notes. They had received $20.67 in paper money for an ounce of gold. This sounded fair in the very beginning, but, shortly thereafter, the government raised the price of gold to $35.00 an ounce. In short, the government (during the great depression) had robbed the American populace of over three billion dollars. Senator Carter Glass was asked his opinion on this new development. He replied, "President Roosevelt, I think that this is worse than anything that Ali Baba's forty thieves could ever have perpetrated." As Roosevelt's "New Deal" was put into motion, every new dollar bill coming off the presses carried with it two new seals that had never been there before; the Two Seals of the Illuminati. They could now openly declare that their conspiracy had finally born fruit, their "NOVUS ORDO SECLORUM" or "New Deal."

So as not to alarm the public, President Hoover chose his words carefully when he discussed the state of the economy in 1929. American economists and politicians had referred to previous economic downturns as "Panics," such as the "Panic of 1873" and the "Panic of 1893." Hoover, however, called this latest downturn a "Depression" rather than a "Panic," and the name stuck. Of course, America was not alone in the Great Depression; it struck all the industrialized nations of the World, including Germany, Britain, and France. Moreover, Germany still had huge reparation payments to make to the Allies in the aftermath of WWI. These reparation payments fueled spiraling inflation in Germany and crippled that nation's economy.

The Allies themselves had borrowed money from the United States during the war, were unable to pay it all back during the 1920s, and were now not only broke, but in debt. These perplexing economic problems in the United States exacerbated a host of social problems, including: Unemployment and poverty, Breakdown of families, Soaring high school dropout rates (2 to 4 million), Homelessness, Organized protests, Around the country, the homeless built settlements of cardboard and tar-paper shacks, called "Hoovervilles" in sardonic reference to President Hoover, Farmers armed with guns and pitchforks marched on the local banks to prevent foreclosures. "The Bonus Expeditionary Force." A group of WWI veterans who had been denied their pensions organized the first march on Washington in protest. In 1932, twenty thousand men set up a tent city, vowing to stay until they got their money. President Hoover overreacted and sent in the army (led by future war heroes Douglas MacArthur and Dwight D. Eisenhower) to break up this peaceful demonstration.

"Bonus Army" WWI Veterans protesting unpaid pensions in Washington D.C. Copyright 1997 State Historical Society of Wisconsin; Hand-painted sign on Bonus Army truck states: "We Done a Good Job in France, Now You Do a Good Job in America". Images of the depression include Bread lines, Hoboes hopping freight trains, College grads becoming gas station attendants (or enrolling in graduate school in record numbers), Skyrocketing rates of suicide and mental illness, Former businessmen selling pencils or apples on street corners, "Okies"--Oklahoma farmers escaping the dust bowl for migrant farm work in California, most vividly portrayed in John Steinbeck's novel The Grapes of Wrath (1939). Other experiences were the reality of long-term unemployment, the day-to-day despair, Inability to sell warehoused goods and services because with so much of the work force unemployed, nobody had money to buy things. The Great Depression hit farmers especially hard. Many had gone into debt to buy machinery and land, and now could not make their payments. Low crop prices wiped out potential profits. In addition to the usual challenges of agriculture, a great drought took place in 1931 and 1932 in the Midwest and the South and turned much of the trans-Mississippi West into a dust bowl. Nevertheless, if farmers couldn't make a profit selling their products, at least they could still eat, so most stayed put. In contrast to popular images of farmers leaving the land, the 1930s actually had the lowest rate of migration from farms to cities.

The American public correctly found the "Three B's" responsible for the Crash and the Depression: Central Mega-Bankers, with their allied Mega-Brokers, Mega-Businessmen. On June 10, 1932, in the midst of the Great Depression, he addressed the House of Representatives asking for investigations of criminal conspiracy to establish the privately owned "Federal Reserve System." He requested impeachment of Federal officers who had violated oaths of office both in establishing and directing the Federal Reserve — imploring Congress to investigate an incredible scope of overt criminal acts by the Federal Reserve Board and Federal Reserve Banks. He fingered the Federal Reserve Banks' conspiracy to remove the gold behind our currency to the foreign principals of these banks and their financing of foreign military expansion in Germany and Japan to the degree of sixty billion dollars annually, with the very same gold removed from our public reserves. Mr. McFadden reports sufficient evidence the Federal Reserve understood beforehand the stock market would crash, and that the ramifications of the crash were such as a premeditated event designed to reap incredible gains at the cost of the people. But there is no doubt it is mathematically impossible the securities market could have survived the Federal Reserve's termination of short term credit. Yet to this day, the obligatory investigations courageously requested by Mr. McFadden have never been carried out by the Federal Reserve's partners in government.

Nonetheless there is little doubt that on the one hand, the Federal Reserve planned to crash the market and foreclose upon vast wealth — or on the other, that this very act could otherwise only have demonstrated the complete incompetence or unfitness of such an entity as a "regulatory" body — governing beyond democracy, yet ostensibly on behalf of the people... while, by its very nature, profiting from them to an ever greater degree without providing any qualifiable or quantifiable service whatever. McFadden argues there is no power whatever to delegate control of the economy and currency to 12 private corporations with the inherent and proven interest in profiting from the economy. His efforts however fall short of proposing or qualifying perfected economy, and thus he does not argue against the indefensible position that such an entity as the Federal Reserve can only multiply debt to the ever greater detriment of its subjects. Nonetheless, even if the establishment of the Federal Reserve were not precluded by the Constitution, its very essence is in complete conflict with the inherent interests of productive, self-determined society. No society has ever benefited as the subject of usury. Under the pressures of the time, and despite the threat to his safety, McFadden details the consequences of this incredible, inadvisable, undemocratic, and oppressive Federal Reserve Act. His address is perhaps most important as a detailing of crimes. Measured in terms of human misery, deprivation, injustice, and loss of life, it records to posterity a truly appalling scope of evil.

The majority of his speech is presented next. Less significant areas have been omitted or densified. To avoid confusion, a few In fact the gold standard existed to this time, but would have been impossible to honor while inflating the circulation as required to support greater degrees of production and prosperity. The mere inconsistent quantities of monetary gold and silver... and evolving prosperity... indeed make any precious metal monetary standard impractical to honor while supporting prosperity exceeding the quantity of the supposed standard. This is the critical flaw in the concept of a precious metal monetary standard itself. The only reasonable object constituting the value of money representing the value of production is the production itself . As Mr. McFadden's speech itself attests, and contrary to his sentiments of returning to a gold standard, neither did this standard protect us, nor is it possible now to uphold such a standard. As the Honorable Congressman McFadden concludes, economic rectitude is improbable until the people are ready to assert their dominion over an economy which does serve them. Stack in front of you the biographies of all the Wall Street giants, J.P. Morgan, Joe F. Kennedy, J.D. Rockefeller, Bernard Baruch, and you'll find they all marvel at how they got out of the stock market and put their assets in gold just before the crash. None mention a secret directive, since revealed, sent by the father of the Federal Reserve, Paul Warburg, warning of the coming collapse and depression. With control of the press and the education system, few Americans are aware that the Fed caused the depression. It is however a well known fact among leading top economists. This itself would require a formula for proper economy; a formula for converting the present system into proper economy — and vigorous understanding and disposition, commensurate to their vital objective.

"The modern banking system manufactures money out of nothing. The process is perhaps the most astounding piece of sleight of hand that was ever invented. Banking was conceived in iniquity and born in sin. Bankers own the earth. Take it away from them, but leave them the power to create money and control credit, and with the flick of a pen, they will create enough money to buy it back again. Take this great power away from the Bankers and all the great fortunes like mine will disappear, and they ought to disappear, for this would be a better and happier World to live in. But if you want to continue the slaves of Bankers and pay the cost of your own slavery, let them continue to create money and to control credit." - Sir Josiah (John) Stamp, Director and President of the Bank of England during the 1920's

Repeat of 1929? Probability Of Worldwide Economic Collapse Under Insoluble Debt

Unemployed Chicagoans during Great Depression.

What virtues of an 'economic' system could render a prospering nation, fully capable of continuous production, jobless? Given that a circulation subject to interest multiplies debt in proportion to given commerce¹, then a system having achieved either desirable production or a possible growth of production under debt service less than the ever-escalating multiplication of debt upon it, ultimately collapses under insoluble debt. Ultimate, system-wide insoluble debt is virtually inescapable, as, particularly in the later stages of the potential lifespan of any such system, it is impractical that production and consumption escalate at the true, perpetually escalating pace of debt multiplication. Not surprisingly, this thesis parallels a principal model, the Kondratieff Long Wave (K Cycle) projection — an observation cycle of rising industry periodically fallen despite non-exhaustion of resources, and persistent capability to produce. The Great Depression was an example of such a cycle conclusion which the BankLords understood and accelerated by withholding credit setting off a chain effect of economic collapse after which the BankLords bought valuable assets for a penny on the dollar.

Typically, BankLords loaned considerable currency to circulation as necessary to sustain new industry. They then withdrew or made too expensive the continual stream of credit necessary to maintain a circulation vital to that industry, and took over the industry bankrupted by the crippling circulation or credit conditions imposed. Debt is irreversibly multiplied in proportion to the commerce which can be sustained by a circulation, regardless of rate of interest. On this ever greater sum of debt, the "central banking system" collects ever greater sums of interest in proportion to a commerce which is crippled to an equally ever greater degree, under the weight of mounting debt. During the perpetual, irreversible multiplication of debt inherent to a circulation subject to interest, the central bank also takes advantage of the artificial conditions it imposes on otherwise viable commerce. It alone is master of the circulation, and the immediate and long-range costs of that circulation. It alone makes credit available, denies credit, or makes credit too costly. It thus manipulates the circulation without any regard to what prescription would instead provide for full, unimpeded prosperity. In fact it can only deprive prosperity because any inherent function of a central bank takes from prosperity without providing any bona fide service whatever. Thus it can only deprive prosperity to a greater or lesser degree. By manipulating the potential for prosperity, a central banking system imposes yet a further method of taking. Inherent, irreversible multiplication of debt alone will ultimately convert all assets into properties of banks which produce nothing. But in the competition between bankers to acquire greater shares of this profit, a productive society is subjected to yet greater abuse.

As the system ages, debt multiplies at an ever escalating rate. Ever greater sums of periodic interest are necessarily re-borrowed to maintain the circulation, increasing the sum of debt so much as periodic interest. Payments against debt are impotent to reduce the sum of debt, as they too, necessarily re-borrowed to maintain the circulation, comprise a perpetuated sum of new debt, equal to the previous. Interest, attached to the currency, irreversibly multiplies debt. To the degree that the purported financial system fails to consume production equivalent to periodic interest, debt is multiplied in proportion to commerce. Every such system, therefore has a maximum possible lifespan. The greater the sum of debt, the greater the sums of periodic interest, by which the sum of debt grows. The greater the rate of interest, the greater the sums of periodic interest by which debt grows in proportion to accumulated debt, and the shorter the inherent lifespan of the system. Five-hundred thousand people take to the streets of Barcelona, Spain, March 15, 2002, in protest of the so-called European Union — and a so-called economy, now above the mandate of the people of every nation.

As the costs of servicing debt perpetually and irreversibly increase in proportion to the commerce, the latter stages of the lifespan of such a system are marked by vanished profit margins and escalated borrowing. In its death throes, despite its already marginalizing costs, the system inherently and irreversibly asks more of its subjects. As the system nears the finality of system-wide insoluble debt, one sector failing may jeopardize other dependent sectors, in short order taking them beyond the brink of marginal solubility. While the system may appear to have considerable life left, a precipitous end, even of its healthiest sectors, is potentiated by the collapse of any significant, weakened area. As the systems of the World approach this threshold system-wide insoluble debt together, the critical factor however can be social recognition that the conditions themselves are inconsistent with a system which should and would sustain viable commerce. World-wide economic collapse then is exactly so probable as mankind is inept to prefer solution. The perpetually multiplying accumulation of wealth by usury is manifested largely by the nuance of "interest" being withdrawn from circulation, and, that to retain the vital circulation, interest must be borrowed back as perpetually increases subsequent debt so much as periodic interest. Payments against debt must be re-borrowed as new debt. Payments against interest increase the sum of debt, in proportion to the circulation, or commerce which can be sustained by it.

This ever-multiplied, unearned profit is largely responsible for all further maldistribution of wealth from those who produce it. Consequent debt, diminished credit-worthiness, and ever-more-overwhelming costs of debt service under a circulation characteristically far less than production, further preclude, to a huge degree, the much greater prosperity we are otherwise capable of. Mathematically perfected economy is little more than elimination of interest in lieu of a singular charge, equal to the value of actual financial services rendered. How then is prosperity financed so as currency, and the regulation of a circulation, replicate true free enterprise? In the case of a $100,000 home with a hundred year lifespan, the cost of the home is paid to the producer with a debt assumed by the possessor. The debt is paid off at the rate of consumption — which is $1,000 per year, or $83 per month. Across all time, and in every case, the system requires debtors pay against their consumption of production, with an equal measure of production, earned by way of an immutable currency available in exactly the quantity necessary to do so. Everyone pays for their consumption with, and only with, an equal measure of production. Inflation and deflation are impossible, as the circulation is at all times equal to the current value of production. All debt can be paid off with the circulation. All production can be procured and traded without impediment by the circulation. Debt is not multiplied at all by interest.

The cost of new money is only the cost of qualifying credit-worthiness. The money serves as a token of value; and its value is constituted by the very production for which it is issued. Where all unindebted assets and services may be financed to their full value, every respect of true free enterprise is replicated, with the sole additional cost of maintaining a universal circulation being qualification of credit-worthiness, and accounting for payment. Society maintains and enforces the system, and assures compliance of debtors¹. There is no risk to, nor reliance upon, any private creditor whatever. By funding government likewise, here too, all costs of interest are avoided. True government services, rendered for proper costs, cost the people only production equivalent to what they receive of such services. By attaching taxes to consumption directly reflecting consumption of government services², tremendous overhead is eliminated. By taxing only for what is rendered, and to whom it is rendered, loopholes to government abuse of taxation are sealed. Taxes such as income tax, capital gains tax, property tax, and inheritance tax are entirely without justification. Extrinsic cost, perpetual multiplication of all costs, homelessness, unemployment, underemployment, instability, preclusion of prosperity, recession, depression, and insoluble debt — imposed by the usury of the present World's central banking systems — are unimposed by mathematically perfected economy. What kind of society should find true free enterprise undesirable is difficult to conceive, as its very pattern is the unimpeded human intention of necessarily fair trade. Please see the award winning page, "Mathematic PROOF The Federal Reserve CAUSED The Great Depression." "WHAT IS Mathematically Perfected Economy?"

ONE YEAR OF PERMANENT PROSPERITY

In the wake of President Woodrow Wilson's vow (lie) that no central bank would be created, Hoover promised permanent prosperity: "We have not yet reached the goal, but given a chance to go forward with the policies of the last eight years, and we shall soon, with the help of God, be within sight of the day when poverty will be banished from the nation." So said Herbert Hoover on August 12, 1928, in his speech accepting the Republican nomination for President.

Hoover spoke for most middle-class people. They thought the American dream of unlimited plenty was close to fulfillment. The huge industrial machine that had begun building up during the Civil War had reached fantastic heights of mass production. Assembly lines poured out products by the millions, while advertising stimulated the consumer to buy them. From privy, ice-box, and buggy the country moved almost overnight into the New Era of bathrooms, electric refrigerators, and automobiles. Washing machines, vacuum cleaners, and telephones promised to make life easier and more convenient. Homemade amusements gave way to radio and the movies. American business and American salesmanship had put the nation aboard an express train rushing toward permanent prosperity.¹

WORKING MAN TURNED STREET PERSON

The writer Louis Adamic, wandering through what he called the "tragic towns," told of the idle men he saw in Lawrence, Massachusetts: I saw men standing on the sidewalks clapping their hands in a queer way, obviously just to be doing something. I saw men talking to themselves, walking around, stopping, looking into shop windows, walking again. For several minutes I watched an elderly man who stood on a deserted corner near the enormous and idle Everett Mills in the posture of an undotted question mark. He did not see me. Every now and then he swung his arms, not because it was cold, but no doubt because he wanted activity other than walking around, which he probably had been doing for years in a vain effort to get a job. He mumbled to himself. Then, suddenly, he stepped off the curb and picked up a long piece of string from a pile of rubbish, and his big, work-eager hands began to work with it, tying and untying feverishly. He worked with the string for several minutes. Then he looked around and, seeing me, dropped the string, his haggard, hollow face coloring a little, as though from a sense of guilt or intense embarrassment. He was shaken and confused and stood there for several seconds, looking down at the rubbish heap, then up at me. His hands finally dropped to his sides. Then his arms swung in a sort of idle reflex motion and he turned, hesitated a while as if he did not know where to go and finally shuffled off, flapping his arms. I noticed that his overcoat was split in the back and that his heels were worn off completely.

THE MOST EXTREME MEASURES

Teachers teach without pay to save the country. Everywhere, people attempt by the most extreme measures to overcome the obstacles placed before them by a false 'economic' system — which itself is the ruin of prosperity. In Chicago a school principal testified in January 1932: "I said to the teachers last fall, 'Whenever you have a discipline case, ask this question first, What has he had for breakfast?' Which usually brings out the fact that he has had nothing at all." Another gave this testimony: "I shall give you one instance. We were practicing for a chorus and a little boy about twelve years old was in the front line. He was clean in his overalls, but didn't have very much on under them. He was standing in the line when all at once he pitched forward in a dead faint. This was two o'clock in the afternoon. When he was revived, I tried to find the cause and he said he was hungry. He had not had anything to eat since the day before". Education was crippled. The funds to pay for it came out of local taxes. As incomes dropped in the early years of the depression, tax revenues shrank. In small towns and big cities budget cutters made the public schools their victims. Plans for new buildings were shelved. The knife cut textbooks, equipment, salaries. Teachers were fired, and fifty pupils were crowded into rooms designed to hold thirty. The school year was clipped short, sometimes down to six or seven months. Departments were dropped and special services slashed.

In some places schools survived only because the teachers made the sacrifice. Salaries were cut as much as 50 percent. In rural areas some teachers were paid as little as $280 for an eight-month school year. Often teachers would get no money, but promises to pay later; but still they went on teaching. Some teachers and students tried to protest. In Chicago, 14,000 teachers were desperate after almost two years of doing with but a few weeks' pay. In April 1933 the New York Times reported from Chicago: Patience has reached its end. Morale has broken down. Discipline has become extremely difficult. The Board of Education last Wednesday considered a resolution to close the schools. Only the fact that the Spring vacation begins April 27 prevented its passage. Only the threat that, by striking, the teachers would forfeit their pension rights and their civil service standing has thus far prevented the closing of the schools by a general walkout. That week 15,000 high school pupils struck to back their teachers' cry for help. (Many teachers, hungry and threadbare themselves, had somehow managed to find bread or a pair of shoes for their students.) Thousands of unpaid teachers stormed Chicago's City Hall to demand their back pay, and with pupils and parents paraded their picket signs through the Loop. They invaded several banks, disrupting business, to insist that bankers lend the city money to pay teachers' salaries. Regiments of police, on foot and on horse, moved in and, as one reporter said, "in a moment unpaid policemen were cracking their clubs against the heads of unpaid schoolteachers."³

LIES DOCTOR THE PICTURE

At the onset of the depression, Henry Ford, one of the auto's Big Three, had astounded everyone by announcing a seven-dollar day. This one-dollar increase over his previous daily minimum for common labor was his spectacular response to President Hoover's request that industry freeze present wages [from dropping,] to fight off disaster. Ford's gesture was page-one news. But the publicity front of this one-man battle against the depression obscured another fact, reported by the New York Times: Ford was cutting wages severely in the middle and upper brackets of labor. He paid off men in one department and hired them in another at lower wages. Ford mechanic Robert L. Cruden, who has been quoted here before, described what was actually happening inside Ford: "In the fall of that year... Ford stated that thenceforth $7 a day would be the minimum wage in his plants. Immediately the bosses at the Rouge plant came around saying, "Go like hell, boys. If you're gonna get that raise you gotta increase production!" On our job production was raised from fifteen pans of stock a day to twenty-two, as a result of which one entire shift of our gang was laid off." Down the line from us, one man was given two drill presses to tend instead of one, as formerly. The inspector on our job was taken off and we had to do our own inspecting and still keep up the new production rate. This speed-up took place all over the plant. It is significant that, concomitant with the wage raise, nearly 30,000 men were laid off from the Rouge plant."

The claim that wages are never cut in Ford plants has always been part of the stock in trade of Ford publicity agents. But... Men are "transferred" from department to department, their wages being cut as they moved. I worked (in 1929) with men making $6.40 who had been making $7.20 and $7.60 before their transfer. A lathe operator of my acquaintance was recently transferred to washing, and cut from $8 to $7.60 a day. Even workers in the aristocratic Lincoln plant are not immune — last spring all those making more than a dollar an hour were cut to that figure. As a result of this process, very few workers in Ford plants now make more than $7.60 a day. To the outsider, this may seem high wages — but most Ford workers have lately been working only three days a week. In 1930 the wages of the average Ford worker were less than a thousand dollars. Taking into account the prevailing three-day week, the seven weeks of enforced idleness and a daily wage of $7.60, the worker made $959.20 during that year! In 1931 wages were cut and the working week reduced to one or two days a week. Ford claims not only that there are no wage cuts in Ford plants, but there are none in any of the $3,500 plants which make parts for him... The Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company, makers of Ford wheels, has cut wages of its tool-makers from $1.10 an hour to eighty cents, and increased the hours of the night shift to fourteen a night, seven nights a week. The Detroit Gear Company, makers of small Ford parts, took a leaf out of its master's book — it laid off all men getting ninety cents an hour and rehired them at seventy-three cents. At the same time their working hours were increased from nine to eleven and a half..."⁴

The newly homeless were evicted directly to the street.

DIFFICULTY IS THE OPPORTUNITY TO EXPLOIT LABOR

Miners were supporting their families on as little as five dollars a week. This vivid account of a visit to a mining settlement — a company town in the West Virginia hills — as written by Edmund Wilson: The people who work at Ward, West Virginia, live in little flat yellow houses on stilts that look like chicken-houses. They seem mean and flimsy on the sides of the hills and at the bottom of the hollow, in contrast to the magnificent mountains wooded now with the forests of mid-June. Between those round and rich-foliaged hills, through the middle of the mining settlement, runs a road which has, on one side of it, a long row of obsolete col-cars, turned upside down and, on the other, a trickle of a creek, with bare yellow banks, half-dry yellow stones, yellowing rusty tin cans and the axles on wheels of old coal-cars. There are eight hundred or so families at Ward, two or three in most of the houses, and eight or ten children in most of the families. And these families are just as much prisoners, just as much at the mercy of the owners of their dwellings as if they did live in a chicken-yard with a high wire fence around it.

This settlement is situated in a long narrow valley which runs back among the West Virginia hills. The walls rise steep on either side, and the end of the hollow is a blind alley. The Kelley's Creek Colliery Company owns Ward, and the Paisley interests own Mammoth, another settlement further back in the hollow, where the houses are not even painted yellow and where the standard of living is lower than at Ward. The people who live in those houses mine coal from the surrounding hills. They work from eight to twelve hours a day, and they get from $2.60 to $3 for it. They are paid not in United States currency, but in chicken-feed specially coined by the companies — crude aluminum coins, thin and light and some of them with holes in the middle... The company "scrip" is worth, on the average, about sixty cents on the dollar. The company forces the miners to trade at the company store — the only store of course on its property — and goods are sold there at so much higher prices than at the non-company stores only three miles away that the miners never come any nearer than 60 percent to their money's worth....

When times are hard, as they are at present, and the coal business, which never does well, is doing particularly badly, the operators cut their rates and make up the difference to themselves and their stockholders by getting more work for less pay out of the miners. They put in mechanical cutters and loaders, and lay off as many men as they can. According to their practice, the first to go are the men over forty-five and the men who have been crippled in the mines (at Andrew Mellon's mine, they never keep a man who has been injured). Ad a medical examination weeds out the other classes of workmen. If it is found, for example, that you are unable to read the bottom line of type on an oculist's chart — as comparatively few people can — you are likely to be eliminated. And the result is that the children at Ward sometimes go without food for days and that they have so little to wear that they are sometimes more or less naked and cannot even be sent to the union for clothes. Even at the time when their fathers were working, they had no shoes to go to school, had hardly ever eaten fresh meat or vegetables and had never known milk since they were weaned from their mothers. Their dish consists of sow belly, potatoes and pinto beans. If they had been living in certain of the other camps, they would probably already have died from drinking water polluted by the outhouse and so escaped the pains of starvation.⁵

Thirteen-year-old, Depression share-cropper.

MAKING IT IMPOSSIBLE TO MEET DEBT OBLIGATIONS

Actually, for the American farmer the disaster of the 1930s was but a new depression piled on top of an old one. It had started back in 1920, after World War I. American farmers faced strong competition from the reconstructed nations of Europe. They also faced the problem caused by their own efficiency: because they could produce more than they could sell, prices dropped. It was a buyer's market, and farmers could do little to change the picture. The farmer staggered under debts he had piled up to buy land and tools needed to meet the wartime production demands. Now he could not cut production because he hoped to earn the cash to meet the interest and the principal on his mortgage. Farm prices in the 1930s fell lower and lower, but the taxes on his land and the prices he paid for his necessities did not drop. The farmer was caught in a vise between fixed costs and falling prices. Hoover's Federal Farm Board urged farmers to plant less so as to raise their prices, but there was no incentive for doing so. [And of course, with financiers controlling altogether the market, the available circulation, and mortgages incurred under different, original circumstances, it was impossible for the farmers to afford to reduce production: Hoover's theoretical remedy was entirely a facade.] From 1920 to 1932 farm production did drop 6 percent, but prices fell ten times as much — by 63 percent. Farmers could only watch in despair as corn hit 15 cents, cotton and wool 5 cents, hogs and sugar 3 cents, and beef 2.5 cents.

With farm prices so low, most farmers, living under the shadow of mortgages, knew that sooner or later they would go under. Many owners of small farms were driven into tenancy. Foreclosures and bankruptcy sales were already frequent. What was being done? nothing that amounted to much, said Will Rogers: I thought we was going to have some Farm Relief to report to you by this Sabbath day. But the commissions are just gathering data. They won't take the farmer's word for it that he is poor. They hire men to find out how poor he is. If they took all the money they spend on finding out how he is, and give it to the farmer he wouldn't need any more relief. But soon as winter comes he will be O.K., soon as snow flies he can kill rabbits, that will be the biggest relief he has had so far.

HUMAN ALLIANCES FORMED AT THE BRINK OF DISPOSSESSION

American Bankers Association as printed in the Congressional Record of April 29, 1913 for 1891: "On Sept 1st, 1894, we will not renew our loans under any consideration. On Sept 1st we will demand our money. We will foreclose and become mortgagees in possession. We can take two-thirds of the farms west of the Mississippi and thousands of them east of the Mississippi as well, at our own price... Then the farmers will become tenants as in England..."

As farms and personal assets are confiscated by the thousands, unity draws the line how far the dispossessors can go. Without a solution the line is only drawn so far back as what we understand and know how to rectify. If, at the time, all the people had understood the system itself to have been at fault, and exactly how to rectify that, perhaps no dispossession whatsoever would have been successfully imposed. There was the story of the Widow Van Bohn whose husband was killed in a cyclone. Word went around her county that she was to be dispossessed. The farmers got together and went, several hundred strong, to the bankers. They assembled in great numbers the day of the sale. Thousands came from many different towns. It took three hours to clear the roads after the would-be sale. They all came to see that Widow Van Bohn kept her farm. She kept it. There were stories of chattel-mortgage sales where all the goods were bought in for a few dollars, a quit claim was signed and a collection taken up to pay for the sale.

"In our part of the country, in Minnesota," a farmer said, "when a sale comes on, we warn people that anyone buying a place won't find life worth living there. Won't no one buy from him, sell to him — there won't nobody speak to him." In another place where a sale was effected, only four people were allowed to bid. Telephone wires were cut to prevent people calling the sheriff... I have never heard speeches which were more to the point, or which seemed the result of more mature deliberation. The farmers were generally conservative in political and social points of view; they had been driven by the relentless sweep of events into a militant position. The farmers themselves talk of this Conference as a historic occasion. They say from the platform and to each other, "We are making our Declaration of Independence as that other glorious declaration was made in Philadelphia, in 1776."

The delegates drafted a program and marched to the Capitol to present it to the Senate and the House. They asked that half a billion dollars be appropriated for immediate cash relief, with local committees of farmers to administer it. They also sought government regulation to cut the profits of food processors and other middlemen, so as to raise the prices farmers received for their crops and livestock. And they wanted no more evictions. These proposals were read on the floors of the Senate and House, and handed to President Hoover. But Congress and the President rejected them. Two months later farm debts were still rising. As one farm after another went on the auction block, Ferner Nuhn sent to the Nation in March 1933 this eyewitness account of a forced sale in Iowa: A raw, chilly day. The yard of the farm, churned black in a previous thaw, is frozen now in ruts and nodes. Where the boots of the farmers press, a little slime of water exudes, black and shiny. Through a fence the weather-bleached stalks of corn, combed and broken by the husking, stand ghostly in the pale air. The farm buildings — machine-shed, chicken-houses, big-houses, corncribs — sprawl and gather again in the big, hip-roofed red barn, and strike a final accent in the thrust of the tiled silo. The farm is kempt and has a going air; there is nothing run-down about it. The fields spread away, picking up other farm clusters sections off — remote, separate, dim under the big gray sky. One feels the courage of the isolate units, each swinging its big segment of earth. Perhaps they call for too much; perhaps the independence is doomed; but something of worth will be gone if it goes.

There are 300 farmers here. It is a Quaker community, long established, conservative. The farmers are mostly middle-aged, very workaday in overalls, sagging sweaters, mud-stained boots. They talk quietly in their slow, concrete manner, move about little. They are neighbors of a farmer who can no longer pay interest on a $2,000 mortgage. These farmers have known him for years; they know he would pay if he could. They know the debt and the interest are three times as hard to pay off now as when the mortgage was given. Some of them know that soon their own property may be endangered by defaults. They know that this particular mortgage was given on stock, and that the farmer has offered the stock in settlement. And they know that the mortgagee refused the offer, demanded a sale instead — a sale of personal property, as provided by law.... The mortgagee stands off at one side, with his attorney,. They are talking with the auctioneer. The farmers look that way once in a while, and while their glances are not friendly they show no open animosity. The auctioneer comes away. Some farmers surround him; they want to be reassured that no household goods will be put on sale. The auctioneer reassures them. The farmers nod grimly; that much has been accomplished anyway. There are no leaders, no haranguers, no organization. In fact, this is the first affair of the sort in the county.

There is a movement toward the barns. The auctioneer mounts a wagon. The first thing offered is a mare. It is rather strange that live stock is offered first; the usual order is machinery first. The defaulting farmer stand silent holding the mare; he is a man almost elderly, quiet, staid-appearing; and he stands embarrassed, smoothing the mane of the mare. The auctioneer goes through his regular cry. The mare is sixteen years old, sound except for a wire cut and a blue eye. What is he offered, what is he offered, what is he offered, does he hear a bid? He tries to make it sound like an ordinary sale. But the crowd stands silent, grim. At last someone speaks out. Two dollars.. Two dollars! unheard of, unbelievable, why she's worth twenty times that! The silence of the farmers is like a thick wall. The rigamarole of the auctioneer beats against it, and falls back in his face. The farmer holding the mare stands with his head hanging. At last, without raising his eyes, he says, "Fifteen dollars." This is a ne wand distressing business to him, and he is ashamed to make a bid of less than that.

"...do I hear twenty, a twenty, a twenty? Why she's worth twice that much." The auctioneer is still going through the make-believe. He keeps it up for five more minutes. A pause, and a voice speaks out, "Sell her." It is not loud, but there is insistence in it. Like the slice of a plow, with the tractor-pull of the crowd reinforcing it. The auctioneer hesitates, gives in. The silent, waiting crowd is too much. "Sold." After that there is less make-believe. Three more horses are offered. They are knocked down to the farmer, with no other bids, for ten dollars, eight dollars, a dollar and a half. The farmer is learning. The machinery comes next. A hay rack, a wagon, two plows, a binder, rake mower, disc-harrow, cultivator, pulverizer. A dollar, fifty cents, fifty cents, a quarter, a half a dollar. Sold to the farmer. His means of livelihood are saved to him. But the tax and mortgage sales went on. Between 1930 and 1935 750,000 farms were lost through foreclosure and bankruptcy sales.

He keeps it up for five more minutes. A pause, and a voice speaks out, "Sell her." It is US war veterans leave Capitol without answers to grievances placed before the government. The destination of those who defended freedom and the Constitution? Homelessness — while the international banks called the Federal Reserve sent our gold to Germany, building Hitler's military clout for WWII. Irony and abuse of power of the greatest kind. US veterans, black and white together, fight with troops intent on evicting them from the outskirts of the Capitol.

THE PRESIDENT WHO PROMISED PERMANENT PROSPERITY (For Bankers)

Hoover shows his disregard for the thousands of homeless and jobless American Veterans who marched across the country to ask for jobs or bonus pay they were otherwise to wait twenty years for — despite a depression produced at the hand of the new 'Federal Reserve' the government had established: Perhaps the most dramatic protest of the period was the Bonus Army march on Washington in the spring of 1932. Veterans of World War 1, starting with only 300 from Oregon and gathering strength as they moved, came to lobby in Congress for passage of the Patman Bill. The Bill proposed immediate payment of a veteran's bonus, authorized by Congress in 1924, but not due and payable until 1945. Over a quarter of a million ex-soldiers, jobless and hungry, needed that money now, but President Hoover opposed paying them. Nevertheless, Congress had paid them about half the bonus over his veto. Now 20,000 veterans were demanding the other half. From Washington, John Dos Passos reported on the camp the Bonus Army had pitched on the edge of the nation's capitol:

Now they are camped on Anacostia Flats in the southeast corner of Washington. Nearly twenty thousand of them altogether. Everywhere you meet new ragged troops straggling in. A few have gone home discouraged, but very few. Anacostia Flats is the recruiting center; from there they are sent to new camps scattered around the outskirts of Washington. Anacostia Flats is the ghost of an army camp from the days of the big parade, with its bugle calls, its mess lines, greasy KPs, MPs, headquarters, liaison officers, medical officer. Instead of the tents and the long tarpaper barracks of those days, the men are sleeping in little leantos built out of old newspapers, cardboard boxes, packing crates, bits of tin or tarpaper roofing, old shutters, every kind of cockeyed makeshift shelter from the rain scraped together out of the city dump. The doughboys have changed too, as well as their uniforms and their housing, in these fifteen years. There's the same goulash of faces and dialects, foreigners' pidgin English, lingos from industrial towns and farming towns, East, Northeast, Middle West, Southwest, South, but we were all youngsters then; now we are getting on into middle life, sunken eyes, hollow cheeks off breadlines, pale looking knotted hands of men who've worked hard with them, and then for a long time have not worked. In these men's faces, as in Pharaoh's dream, the lean years have eaten up the fat years already.... In the middle of the Anacostia camp is a big platform with a wooden object sticking up from one corner that looks like an old-fashioned gallows. Speaking goes on from this platform all morning and all afternoon. The day I saw it, there were a couple of members of the bonus army's congressional committee on the platform, a Negro in an overseas cap and a tall red Indian in buckskin and beads, wearing a ten gallon hat. The audience, white men and Negroes, is packed in among the tents and shelters. A tall scrawny man with deeply sunken cheeks is talking. He's trying to talk about the bonus but he can't stick to it, before he knows it he's talking about the general economic conditions of the country:

"Here's a plant that can turn out everything every man woman, and child in this country needs, from potatoes to washing machines, and it's broken down because it can't give the fellow who does the work enough money to buy what he needs with it." Give us the money and we'll buy their bread and their corn and beans and their electric ice boxes and their washing machines and their radios. We ain't holding out on 'em because we don't want those things. Can't get a job to make enough money to buy 'em, that's all."

In mid-June the Senate overwhelmingly rejected the Patman Bill. Early in July, to get the demonstrators out of sight, Congress voted to pay their passage home. About 5,000 left Washington and their makeshift camp. With Congress adjourned, rumors floated about that the Hoover Administration was ready to oust the remaining bonus seekers, by force if necessary. It was hard to believe. The President was already campaigning for re-election on the platform that his wisdom had kept the country peaceful and the unemployed quiet and loyal. Would he be foolish enough to use bayonets against war veterans bearing petitions? Paul Y. Anderson reported for the Nation the choice the President made: Hoover's campaign for re-election was launched Thursday, July 28, at Pennsylvania Avenue and Third Street, with four troops of cavalry, four companies of infantry, a mounted machine-gun squadron, six whippet tanks, 300 city policemen and a squad of Secret Service men and Treasury agents. Among the results immediately achieved were the following: Two veterans of the World War shot to death; one eleven-week-old baby in a grave condition from gas, shock, and exposure; one eight-year-old boy partially blinded by gas; two policemen's skulls fractured; one bystander shot through the shoulder; one veteran's ear severed with a cavalry saber; one veteran stabbed in the hip with a bayonet; more than a dozen veterans, policemen, and soldiers injured by bricks and clubs; upward of 1,000 men, women, and children gassed, including policemen, reporters, ambulance drivers, and residents of Washington; and approximately $10,000 worth of property destroyed by fire, including clothing, food, and temporary shelters of the veterans and a large amount of building material owned by a government contractor.

Anderson and other reporters said they believed the troops, commanded by General Douglas MacArthur, were used to evict the veterans from Washington for a political purpose "to persuade the American people that their government was threatened with actual overthrow, and that the courage and decisiveness of Herbert Hoover had averted revolution." Tanks, gas, sabers, bayonets, and fire had been used against unarmed men, women, and children "to show the country that the danger of 'insurrection' was real and that the Administration had prepared to meet it," wrote Anderson. As the gassed and wounded veterans fled Washington, Malcolm Cowley of the New Republic followed them. In Pennsylvania he caught up with them at a temporary camp and talked to some of the Bonus Marchers: Mile after mile we passed the ragged line as we too drove northward to the camp at Ideal Park. We were carrying two of the veterans, chosen from a group of three hundred by a quick informal vote of their comrades. One was a man gassed in the Argonne and tear-gassed at Anacostia; he breathed with an effort, as if each breath would be his last. The other was a man with family troubles; he had lost his wife and six children during the retreat from Camp Marks and hoped to find them in Johnstown. He talked about his service in France, his three medals, which he refused to wear, his wounds, his five years in a government hospital. "If they gave me a job," he said, "I wouldn't care about the bonus.... Now I don't ever want to see a flag again. Give me a gun and I'll go back to Washington."

"That's right, buddy," said a woman looking up from her two babies, who lay on a dirty quilt in the sun. A cloud of lies hovered above them. Another man was reading the editorial page of a Johnstown paper. He shouted, "Let them come here and mow us down with machine guns. We won't move this time." "That's right, buddy," said the woman again. A haggard face — eyes bloodshot, skin pasty white under a three days' beard — suddenly appeared at the window of the car. "Hoover must die," said the face ominously. "You know what this means?" a man shouted from the other side. "This means revolution." — "Yes, you're damned right it means revolution." But it didn't. Bread riots and hunger marches "do not necessarily mean revolution," as economist George Soule wrote in Harper's that August. "People may smash windows because they are hungry, without wanting a government overturn or knowing how to bring it about." It was ordinary folk who made up the Bonus Army, just as they made up the millions of unemployed. They were farm workers and factory hands, skilled mechanics and white-collar workers, foremen and professionals. "Every one of them has been thoroughly whipped by his individual economic circumstances," said Mauritz Hallgren. "There is about the lot of them an atmosphere of hopelessness, of utter despair, though not of desperation. They have no enthusiasm whatever, and no stomach for fighting."

Propaganda, blatant lies, or incredible stupidity? Vote-for-Wilson re-election truck asks (top question on vertical side-panel behind cab), 'WHO BROKE THE MONEY TRUST?' About to become the real owners of the country... the central banking business would never be better. Certainly Wilson had not 'broken' the 'money trust.' On the contrary, he had ensured the money 'trusts' would have every power necessary to breaking the people.

FELLOW NEWSMEN REFLECT ON THE TIMES

In April 1932, Kansas editor William Allen White wrote a letter to a friend, Walter Lippman, the political columnist. Both men were Republicans, and both were deeply shaken by the depression. In his letter, White said: If out of this thing cannot come some permanent peace of mind and economic security for the average man, the manual laborer, the small fellow who has other talents than the acquisitive faculties, we will have lost the World as well as our own souls. If the fear motive is to persist on and on as the prod in the pants of humanity, if we cannot supplant hope and joy for fear, if the capacity for financial reward is to be the sum of all our virtues, what's the use of all this travail? Travelers crossing America that summer saw a land of harsh contrasts. Surplus food was being spilled into the ocean or piled high in grain elevators while men were breaking store windows to steal a loaf of bread. Shoe factories were shut down in New England while children stayed home from school because they had nothing to put on their feet. Billions of dollars nestled safely in bank vaults while hundreds of cities issued scrip because they had no currency to pay their bills. Families went in ragged clothing while farmers could not market millions of bales of cotton. All this in the richest country on earth, with the fattest acres, the tallest buildings, the mightiest machinery, the biggest factories. Who was to blame? Unless a true, serviceable economy is not to provide for sustainable prosperity, all this was at the hand of the Federal Reserve System.

1930: The Bankruptcy of the Sovereign United States & Receivership by THE UNITED STATES

<http://www.barefootsWorld.net/usfraud.html> (competition is a sin). The Bankruptcy of The United States in receivership since 1930 at the mercy of the International Banklords in US President Thomas Jefferson's prophecy (1809): "I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies . . . If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around [the banks] . . . will deprive the people of all property until their children wake-up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered . . . The issuing power should be taken from the banks and restored to the people, to whom it properly belongs." -- Thomas Jefferson -- The Debate Over The Recharter Of The Bank Bill, (1809)

History proves that BankLords profit from bankrupting a nation (Reference 22, P. 56). <http://www.barefootsWorld.net/usfraud.html>. Under the doctrine of Parens Patriae, "Government As Parent" <http://www.barefootsWorld.net/parensp.html>, as a result of the manipulated bankruptcy of the United States of America in 1930, ALL the assets of the American people, their person, and of our country itself are held by the Depository Trust Corporation at 55 Water Street, NY, NY, secured by UCC Commercial Liens, which are then monetized as "debt money" by the Federal Reserve. It may interest you to know that under the umbrella of the Depository Trust Corporation lies the CEDE Corporation, the Federal Reserve Corporation, the American Bar Association, the legal arm of the banking interests, and the Internal Revenue Service, the system's collection agency. You might want to take exception to the name on the marquee at the entrance to 55 Water Street. ??? . . . "Tower of Power" . . . ??? Another thing to think about -- who owns the media and the news you are fed??? Guess Who??? <http://www.barefootsWorld.net/community/bnews.html#unbiased> An Independent Press??? Ha!!!

All our law is private law, written by The National Law Institute, Law Professors, and the Bar Association, the Agents of Foreign Banking interests. They have come to this position of writing the law by fraudulently deleting the "Titles of Nobility and Honour" Thirteenth Amendment from the Constitution for the United States, creating an oligarchy of Lawyers and Bankers controlling all three branches of our government <http://www.amendment-13.org/>. Most of our law comes directly through the Hague or the U.N. Almost all U.N. treaties have been codified into the U.S. codes. That's where all our educational programs originate. The U.N. controls our education system. The Federal Register Act was created by Pres. Roosevelt in 1935. Title 3 sec. 301 et seq. by Executive Order. He gave himself the power to create federal agencies and appoint a head of the agency. He then re-delegated his authority to make law (statutory regulations) to those agency heads. One big problem there, the president has no constitutional authority to make law. Under the Constitution re-delegation of delegated authority is a felony breach. The president then gave the agencies the authority to tax. We now have government by appointment running this country. This is the shadow government sometimes spoken about, but never referred to as government by appointment. This type of government represents taxation without representation. Perhaps this is why some people believe the Constitution was suspended. It wasn't suspended, it was buried in bureaucratic red tape.

A bankruptcy case was needed on the books to legitimize the fact that the corporate U.S. had already declared bankruptcy! This bankruptcy was effectuated by compact that the corporate several states had with the corporate government (Corporate Capitol of the several corporate states). This compact tied the corporate several states to corporate Washington D.C. (the headquarters of the corporation called "The United States"). Since the United States Corporation, having established its headquarters within the District of Columbia, declared itself to be in the state of bankruptcy, it automatically declared bankruptcy for all its subsidiaries who were effectively connected corporate members (who happened to be the corporate state governments of the Union). The corporate state governments didn't have to vote on the bankruptcy. The bankruptcy automatically became effective by reason of the Compact/Agreement between each of the corporate state governments and THE MOTHER CORPORATION. (Note: the liberty of using the term "Mother Corporation" to communicate the interconnected power of the corporate Federal government relative to her associated corporate States has been taken. It is Historical knowledge that the original Union States created the Federal Government, however, for all practical purposes, the Federal government has taken control of her "Creators", the States.) She has become a beast out of control for power. She has for her trade names the following: "United States", "U.S.", "U.S.A.", "United States of America", Washington D.C., District of Columbia, Feds. and Federal Government. She has her own U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Parks, Post Office etc. etc. etc. Because she is claiming to be bankrupt, she freely gives her land, her personnel, and the money she steals from the Americans via the IRS. and her state corporations, to the United Nations and the International Bankers as payment for her debt. The UN and the International Bankers use this money and services for various World wide projects, including war. War is an extremely lucrative business for the bankers of the New World Order. Loans for destruction. Loans for re-construction. Loans for controlling people in her new World order.

The corporate U.S. then, is the head corporate member, who met at Geneva to decide for all its corporate body members. The corporate representatives of the corporate several states were in attendance. If the states had their own power to declare bankruptcy regardless of whether Washington D.C. declared bankruptcy or not, then the several states would have been represented at Geneva. The several states of America were not represented. Consequently, whatever Washington D.C. agreed to at Geneva was passed on automatically, via compact to the several corporate states as a group, association, corporation or as a club member; they all agreed and declared bankruptcy as one government corporate group in 1930. The several states only needed a representative at Geneva by way of the U.S. in Washington D.C. The delegates of the corporate United States attended the meetings and spoke for the several corporate states as well as for the Federal Corporate Government. And, presto, BANKRUPTCY was declared for all! From 1930 to 1938 the states could not enact any law or decide any case that would go against the Federal Government. The case had to come down from the Federal level so that the states could then rely on the Federal decision and use this decision within the states as justification for the bankruptcy process within the states.

UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE EMERGED AS LAW OF THE LAND. Ah, Ha, are you beginning to get the picture?

By 1938 the corporate Federal Government had the true bankruptcy case they had been looking for. Now, the bankruptcy that had been declared back in 1930 could be upheld and administered. That's why the Supreme Court had to be stacked and made corrupt from within. The new players on the Supreme Court fully understood that they had to destroy all other case law that had been established prior to 1938. The Federal Government had to have a case to destroy all precedent, all appearance, and even the statute of law itself. That is, the Statutes at large had to be perverted. They finally got their case in Erie vs. Thompkins. It was right after that case that the American Law Institute and the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws listed right in the front of the Uniform Commercial Code, began creating the Uniform Commercial Code that is on our backs today. Let us quote directly from the preface of the Official Text of the Uniform Commercial Code 12th Edition: "The Code was originally approved by its sponsors and the American Bar Association in 1952, and was revised in 1958 to incorporate a number of changes that had been recommended by the New York Law Revision Commission and other agencies. Subsequent amendments that were deemed desirable in light of experience under the Code were approved by the Permanent Editorial Board in 1962 and 1966". The above named groups and associations of private lawyers got together and started working on the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC). It was somewhere between 1938 and 1940, I don't recall, but by the early 40's and during the war, this committee was working to form the UCC and getting it ready to go on the market. The UCC is the Law Merchant's code for the administration of the bankruptcy. The UCC is now the law of the land as far as the courts are concerned. This Legal Committee of lawyers put everything: Negotiable Instruments, Security, Sales, Contracts, and the whole mess under the UCC. That's where the "Uniform" word comes from. It means it was uniform from state to state as well as being uniform with the District of Columbia.

It doesn't mean you didn't have the uniform instrument laws on the books before this time. It means the laws were not uniform from state to state. By the middle 1960's, every state had passed the UCC into law. The states had no choice but to adopt newly formed Uniform Commercial Code as the Law of the Land. The states fully understood they had to administrate Bankruptcy. Washington D.C. adopted the Uniform Commercial Code in 1963, just six weeks after President John F. Kennedy was killed. What was the effect and the significance of Erie vs. Thompkins case decision of 1938? The significance is that since the Erie Decision, no cases are allowed to be cited that are prior to 1938. There can be no mixing of the old law with the new law. The lawyers, who are members of the American Bar Association, were and are currently under and controlled by the Lawyer's guild of Great Britain, created, formed, and implemented the new bankruptcy law. The American Bar Association is a franchise of the Lawyer's Guild of Great Britain. Since the Erie vs. Thompkins case was decided, the practice of law in this country was never again to be the same. It has been reported, that every lawyer in existence, and every lawyer coming up has to take a "secret" oath to support bankruptcy. As Officers of the Court they have sworn to uphold the law as it exists, and as they have been taught. In so doing, not only do the lawyers promise to support the bankruptcy, but the lawyers and judges promise never to reveal who the true creditor/party is in the bankruptcy proceedings (if, indeed, many of them are even aware or know). In court, there is never identification and appearance of the true character and principle of the proceedings. If there is no appearance of the true party to the action, then there is no way the defendant is able to know the TRUE NATURE AND CAUSE OF THE ACTION. You are never told the true NATURE AND CAUSE OF WHY YOU ARE IN FRONT OF THEIR COURT. The court is forbidden to tell you that information.

That's why, if you question the true nature and cause, the judge will tell you "It's not my job to tell you. You are not retaining me as an attorney and I can't give you legal advice from the bench. I suggest you hire a lawyer." The problem here is, if you hire a lawyer who is pledged not to reveal the true nature and the cause, how will you ever find out the nature and the cause? YOU WON'T! If the true nature and the cause of the action against you is revealed, it will expose the real creditor from whom this action and cause came. In other words, they will have to name the TRUE creditor. The true creditor will have to state the nature and the cause. The true creditor will have to say "It's a bankruptcy proceeding." The true creditor will have to say, "I'm the creditor and he's the debtor." That declaration would open the door for you to question "Who the hell are you? How did you get attached to my back and by what vehicle did I promise to become a debtor to you?" In this country, the courts on every level, from the justice of the peace level all the way up..... even into the International law arena, (called the World Court), are administrating the bankruptcy and are pledged not to reveal who the true creditors really are and how you personally became pledged as a party or participant to the corporate United States debt. What would really kill these people off, would be to compel the International Bankers to send a lawyer into the courtroom and present himself as the attorney for THE TRUE CREDITOR, THE INTERNATIONAL BANKERS. THEN, HAVE THE ATTORNEY PUT INTO THE RECORD THE TRUE NATURE AND CAUSE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU ON THAT PARTICULAR DAY.

The International Bankers told these various countries that they were now in a state of bankruptcy. The countries had been taken over by the creditor/bankers. And there was no choice, but for all these participating countries to declare bankruptcy. If they didn't agree to declare bankruptcy, the bankers threatened to collapse the economies and thereby put the countries back into the depression like the one from which they were just emerging. The bankers made an offer they couldn't refuse. To review and elaborate: In 1930 there was a World wide depression. The Bankers said, "Look. You can do it either of two ways. The easy way or the hard way." "You just accept the bankruptcy and we'll let you out of the depression. If you don't, you're on your own." So all the countries involved agreed, because they realized that the International bankers had them by the throat. The countries therefore agreed that over a period of several years that they would pass statutes and legislation for the implementation of the bankruptcy in favor of the international bankers. Now, it would probably be correct to say that the key bankers were the Rothschild's and their agents by way of Rockefeller, by way of the Federal Reserve Bank. Who the bankers were is immaterial. The fact remains that there was an International bankruptcy, and an International conspiracy to cover it up. There was a banking creditor who made the offer; the countries accepted the offer in order to enable the representative countries to continue without revolution and to allow the politicians to remain comfortably in place. Under a delusion of solvency the countries were allowed to continue to operate as though they were solvent; while in fact, the representative countries were bankrupt.

The bankruptcy scheme was/is an extremely clever and diabolical plan. How did they possibly pull this scheme off in the area of real estate? The bankers did it with real estate, the same way they did it in the area of Federal Income Taxes. These Foreign bankers simply and deceptively devised ways and means to con you into declaring yourself as a "CITIZEN" or a "RESIDENT" of the corporate U.S. Remember the corporate United States is Bankrupt per agreement and public policy. After you have been tricked into claiming you are one of their corporate United States Citizens, you are given a social security number which ties you to certain meager "benefits" and "privileges." Then, the bankers con your employer to function as an unpaid tax collector to con you into filling out their W-4 intangible property gift forms and 1040 voluntary agreements. These slick paper agreements establish your "voluntary" indebtedness to the banker creditor. If at any time you decide to balk at this scheme because you don't like it, the real creditor never has to make an appearance in court to list the true nature and cause of the action which is being brought against you. You end up dealing with an agency. The agency can conveniently grant itself immunity from prosecution because all it is doing (without your knowledge, of course) is administrating the bankruptcy to which the government agreed to per the Geneva meetings. The court system never lets you put the original creditor on the courtroom stand, so you can ask him how he got attached to your back. The system is set up in such a way that the true creditor is protected and never has to make an appearance and never has to answer any of your questions or produce documents. Therefore, the true creditor never has to produce the law that gives him the right to pledge you (your body and labor) into indebtedness (bondage/servitude).

Why? Because the Geneva agreement in 1930 was done by treaty. The bankruptcy was not done by legislation. The agreement came first; signed in secrecy, THEN Congress began to pass legislation to fulfill the bankruptcy obligation required by the treaty. Legislation being passed by Congress was henceforth and is thereby bankruptcy legislation. When cases came before the courts, the courts could make decisions based on the new controlling law of bankruptcy. It had nothing to do with Constitutional rights. Now, any case brought in is under the new bankruptcy law and is not considered as a true constitutional case. It is now a bankruptcy case as distinct from, but cleverly disguised as a constitutional case. The members of the Supreme Court, of course, realized what was happening to them and the system of law. The court was being asked to perform in a creditor, debtor bankrupt proceeding to the benefit of the banker creditors. The members of the Supreme Court said, "NO. We will not give you a bankrupt proceeding decision that you can then enforce against everybody; a decision not only effecting corporate Washington D.C. but also having effect within the corporate state governments." This, by the way, is fraud. It wouldn't be fraud if the government of corporate Washington D.C. and the government of the several corporate states declared bankruptcy then let the people know about the bankruptcy. (Notice: when I say corporate "government" I don't mean you and me. You and I are not the corporate government. The corporate government is the corporate capital of the corporate state. The government is a neutral government zone known as the corporate capital of the corporate state. The government is where the corporate state is. It is corporate headquarters. Just like corporate Washington D.C. is the seat of the corporate Federal Government. The capital of the corporate state is the seat of the corporate state government. If the corporate Federal Government and her subsidiary corporate state governments want to join forces and declare bankruptcy that's not fraud. This is their corporate business.

However, it is fraud when those two corporate entities declare bankruptcy but do not disclose to you, me, and every other American, that they have so declared bankruptcy. Further they have not and do not disclose that their intention is to get you and every other American in this country to pledge to pay off their corporate debt to their corporate creditors. The corporate bankruptcy is the corporate state and federal responsibility, not the responsibility of Americans, The People. "We the People" who created and signed the contract/compact/agreement/charter of, by, and for the Constitutional Corporation (U.S.) using the trade name of the "United States of America," is a corporate entity (legal fiction) which is DISTINCT AND SEPARATE from Americans or the unenfranchised people of America. The private natural American people did not create the corporation of the United States. The United States Inc. did not create the private natural American people. America and Americans were in existence prior to the creation of the United States Corporation. The United States Corporation has located its U.S. headquarters in Washington D.C. Virginia State (state territory) gave land to the newly formed United States Corporation. Notice here, we have a state giving something of value (land) to the United States. The United States Corporation agreed in the Constitutional contract, to protect the States. Instead, because of their bankruptcy (Corporate U.S. Bankruptcy) this particular U.S. corporation has enslaved the States and the people by deception and at the will of their foreign bankers with whom they have been doing business. Our forefathers gave their lives and property to prevent enslavement.

Today, we are again enslaved. Private natural American people have been tricked, deceived, and set-up to carry the U.S. Inc. perpetual corporate debt under bankruptcy laws. Every time Americans appear in court, the corporate U.S. bankruptcy is being administrated against them without their knowledge and lawful consent. That is FRAUD. All corporate bankruptcy administration is done by "Public Policy" of by and for the Mother Corporation (U.S. Inc.). The corporate bankruptcy is carried out under the corporate public policy of the corporate Federal Government in corporate Washington D.C. The states use state public policy to carry out Federal public policy of Washington D.C. Public policy and only public policy is being administered against you in the corporate courts today. The public policy that is dictated by all the courts, from the smallest to the most powerful courts in the World, is public policy. This is why I said, in another tape that the Russian people would be enslaved into indebtedness. What will happen is that it will become public policy in Russia to have the people go into joint corporate debt. The Russians will be forced to promise to pay those debts. They will be forced to pay off on those corporate debts. Corporate public policy is the crux of the whole bankruptcy implementation. Corporate public policy is forever a Corporate public policy and the laws that have passed since 1938 are all corporate public policy laws dealing only with corporate public policy. Understand that U.S. corporate public policy is not an American public policy. The public policy is OF, (belonging to) the United States corporation. This U.S. corporate bankruptcy public policy is not OF (belonging to) America, the Republic.

The Erie vs. Thompkins 1938 case was a decision based upon public policy. All decisions at any level since 1938, have been public policy decisions. All statutes, rules, regulations, and procedures that have been passed, whether civil or criminal, whether it is Federal or State, have all been passed to implement the public policy of bankruptcy. Since 1933, when FDR came into office, he brought in public policy. He established that it was the public policy of the government to call in all the gold. It was the public policy of the government to declare a banking holiday. It was the public policy of the Government in Washington D.C., (the Federal Government) to give out government assistance. Public policy operates the same within the states. All Federal court decisions can only be handed down if the states support Federal public policy. The state legal system must be compatible with the Federal legal system. This is why, when people like us go to court without being represented by a lawyer, we throw a monkey-wrench into their corporate administrative proceedings. Why? Because all public policy corporate lawyers are pledged to up-hold public policy, which is the corporate U.S. administration of their corporate bankruptcy. That's why you'll find stamped on many if not all our briefs, "THIS CASE IS NOT TO BE CITED IN ANY OTHER CASE AND IS NOT TO BE REPORTED IN ANY COURTS." The reason for this notation is that when we go in to defend ourselves or file a claim we are not supporting the corporate bankruptcy administration and procedure. The arguments we put forth predate 1938.

THE INTERNATIONAL BANKERS' CORPORATE PLANTATION OF THE U.S.A.

We come in with Constitutional law etc. All these early cases support our rights not to be in bankruptcy. However, the corporate court, lawyers, and judges have promised to give no judicial recognition of any case before 1938. Before 1938, the law was not a public policy law. All these old cases were not public law deciding cases. Today, the cases are all decided under corporate public policy. The public policy exists in order to administer the bankruptcy for the benefit of the banker creditors and to protect the banker creditor. Corporate public policy can allow the creditor to say to the corporate legislatures, "I want a law passed requiring my debtors to wear seat belts. Why? Because I want to be able to milk my debtors for the longest period possible." It doesn't behoove the creditor to allow all of his labor producing debtors die at an average age 30 years. What would happen to the bankers' lending, interest, penalties, increase, repayment etc., on the entire funding and lending process if the average American life span was only 30 years? Why, the bankers would have to have 2 1/2 times the current consumer population to equal their current take. The bankers would need (instead of 250 million Americans) 600 million or even more. Maybe the bankers would need 2 Billion Americans because the individual can't contract for debt until he/she is 18 or 21 years of age. Therefore, if the average life span is only a 30 year period, the creditor could collect on the debt for only 12 years. Now, if the bankers can just get people to live an average of 70 years) you are talking a whopping 50 years of indebtedness for which they contract and for which they are forced to pay back with usury/interest. With this situation, the banker creditor can now float loans worth 50 years of potential indebtedness and its payoff with interest in the name of the people, as opposed to 9 to 12 years.

The creditors and their property and their people are well taken care of. The creditor doesn't want the population to decrease per se, unless, it is convenient for the debtor to run up debts in another's name and then liquidate that debtor or that group of debtor people. For example let's consider the AIDS problem today among the black people. What better group to inject AIDS into than the black people? Read the Strecker Memorandum on AIDS and the World Health Organization connection. This documents their tainted vaccination program in Africa and elsewhere. Why not kill them off? Don't you understand that the blacks as a whole have absorbed all the debt that they can? The blacks have reached the maximum of the debt that they can carry. In fact, they have gone over their limit to pay back. They are now heavily into welfare, public housing, medicaid, medicare, food stamps etc.. Now, the situation is that instead of paying off the creditor, they have become a drain on the creditor. The creditor must now pay them to live and take care of them. What creditor in his right mind wants to spend money on a bunch of people from whom he can't collect any revenue? The corporate public policy of the corporate United States and the states and the county and of the cities are that YOU must take care of these people. You must provide them with welfare etc. Why? Because when you, as a member of the corporate body politic allow laws to be passed which says the minorities must be taken care of, then the corporate legislature can say the public policy is that the people want these people taken care of. Therefore, when given the chance, the legislature can say the public policy is that the people want these blacks and poor whites to be taken care of and given a chance, therefore, we must raise taxes to fund all these benefits, privileges and opportunities.

This is what these people need to make them socially, politically, and economically equal with everyone else. The legislatures have passed all kinds of statutes providing for huge indebtedness and they float the indebtedness off your backs because you have never gone into court to challenge them by telling them it is not your public policy to assume the debts of other people. On the contrary, all the court decisions coming out, indicate it is the corporate public policy and it is your willingness to support the corporate public policy to pay off these debts. Remember, "public" means of and for the corporate Government. It does not mean of and for private people. "Public" means corporate government. It is corporate government policy. When they talk about public debt, they are talking about corporate government debt and your presumed pledge against this corporate created debt. How do they work this scheme in the area of real estate? These banker creeps have made an agreement that it is corporate public policy, that all land (property) be pledged to the creditor to satisfy the debt of the bankruptcy, which the creditor claims under bankruptcy. They get away with this the same way they get away with any other case that is brought before the court, whether it is a traffic ticket, IRS, or whatever. Here is how it works. You have signed instruments giving information and jurisdiction to the bankers through their agents. The instruments (forms) you signed include, but are not limited to the following: social security registration, use of the social security number, IRS forms, driver license, traffic citation, jury duty, voter registration, using their address, zip code, U.S. postal service, a deed, a mortgage application, etc. etc. The bankers then use that instrument (document) under the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) as a contract/agreement. These documents are considered promissory contract where you promise to perform. This scheme involves you, without you ever becoming directly in contact or in contract with the true creditor. What's more, you are never informed as to whom that true creditor is and it is never divulged to you the true nature and the true cause of the paperwork that you are filling out.

If you will examine your real estate deed, you will find that you promised to pay taxes to the corporate government. On property you originally acquired through a mortgage, you will notice that the bank never promised to pay taxes. You did. The corporate government at all levels never promised to pay taxes to the creditor. You did. In tax and collection problems relating to real estate being enforced against you, you will notice that there is no mention in the mortgage or the deed stating the true nature and cause of the action. Since you have made the promise to perform, you get a bill every year for property taxes. You don't realize that the only way they can bill you for taxes is through your own stupidity of agreeing to pay the tax. You volunteered. They took advantage of you, conning you to promise to pay property taxes. When they send you their bill, they are coming against you for the collection of the promise you made to the creditor. Now the creditor on the paperwork appears that it is the local bank. The bank has loaned you credit. The bank hasn't loaned you anything. It is not their credit to loan. This is why the bank can't loan credit. There is a credit involved, but not the bank's credit. It is the credit of the International Bankers. The International bankers are making you the loan based upon their operation of bankruptcy claim which they presume to have against you personally as well as your property. Now, let's say you get a tax bill and you decide "I'm not going to pay it." You will find that the courts and the lawyers and the county agencies are set up to protect the true creditor simply by not identifying the creditor. By not being identified as the true creditor, the international banker can make you a credit loan that has no value in reality. In the case of real property, he claims to loan you the use of your own property for which you pay a tax as rent. He is allowed to do this because you are presumed by statutory law and the banker to be in bankruptcy. This fraud is not revealed because he does not have to make an appearance in court to present and defend his claim. His name is not mentioned in the case.

Let's say you are not aware of your remedies provided for you within the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC). The UCC provides or allows you to dishonor the county's presentation of the tax bill. You don't pay your tax bill. You, therefore, just sit on it and don't do or say anything. A couple of years go by and all of a sudden you are being sent letters to pay up what is owed or else in a certain period of time, your property will be taken from you and put up for tax sale. Now here is what is interesting..... If you don't pay your tax bill and they contact you asking you to pay it and you don't do it, they will declare that you are in default. It is based on that default, as provided for in the UCC, that they sell your property for the tax (rent). However, the county never goes into court to put into the record the identification of the real creditor. And the county does not state the true nature and cause of the action against you (bankruptcy action disguised as a tax action). Why? Because, under bankruptcy implementation, they have developed a legal procedure which is based upon your promise to pay. This procedure provides that they don't have to come to the court to get a court order authorizing the sale of your property. Therefore, the real creditor never makes an appearance in court. The reality is, you are denied any possibility of appearing in court to exercise your right to challenge the creditor. To ask if he became the creditor under "public policy." To ask if it is under "public policy", just what is the "public policy?" And how did you (as an international banker) become "creditor" to me and everyone else in this country (American people). They don't want you to ask the real creditor (the International Bankers), to produce the documents upon which your personal debt is established. If they were forced to go into court, they would have to produce the deed or mortgage showing you knowingly, willingly, and voluntarily promised to pay the corporate public debt. You did not knowingly, willingly, and voluntarily promise to pay any U.S. Corporate Bankruptcy obligation made in the 1930's.

This would, of course, expose their racket. The fact is, that, there was absolutely no debt connected to you until you agreed to it through their deception and fraud. The deception in a broader sense, permeates the education system and the news media, etc., to sell you on the idea that you are a statutory "U.S. citizen" and "resident of the United States." (INCORPORATED). Your property is pledged for the rest of your life upon your signature and your promise to perform is pledged into perpetual debt. The bankers don't even bother to go to court. They leave it up to the agencies to administer the agency corporate public policy. It is the public policy of that agency to bill you on your promise to perform. If you don't pay, they follow up on the public policy on notice of default and give you one more chance to pay. Then they proceed to sell the property at a tax auction. They never go to court or appear in court to back up their claim against you. Did any of your government licensed and controlled teachers ever stress that your signature is your most valuable personal property? Did your government teachers ever tell you that any time you sign any document, you should sign it "without prejudice," or with "All Rights Reserved" above your signature. This means you are reserving your God given unalienable rights which cannot be transferred and all other rights for which your forefathers died. The Corporate U.S.. Government provides, or at best pretends to provide for this reservation of rights under the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) 1-207 and 1-103. You need more information in this area. It is not in the best interest of the United States Corporate "PUBLIC" schools to teach you about their bankruptcy proceedings and how they have set the snare to Compel you into paying their debt. The Corporate "PUBLIC" schools are strictly designed for their Corporate citizen/subjects. That is. the Corporate U.S.. Public School citizens.

Notice all the emphases on being a "good" Citizen. Basically all their teachers and their students are trained to produce labor and material in exchange for valueless green paper called "money." It is not money, it functions "AS" money. Lawful money must be backed by something of value. Bankers take your labor, services, and material (homes, cars, farms, etc.) in exchange for their valueless corporate paper. This paper is backed only by the "full faith and Confidence of the United States Government" THE MOTHER CORPORATION. I do not have faith or confidence in the U.S. BANKRUPT CORPORATE GOVERNMENT ADMINISTRATORS WHO HAVE PERVERTED THEIR Constitutional CHARTER, enslaving the sovereign American people into their bankruptcy obligations. Their fraudulent money laundering process promotes your payment on the corporate government's bankruptcy debt. This debt is mathematically impossible to pay Off. You and your family are in continual financial bondage to the international bankers. They love it so! lack's Law Dictionary 1990, defines "Money Changers" as:business of a banker... today handled by the international departments of banks." Let me think for a moment, what did Christ do to the Money Changers." Oh, Yes, he severely interfered with their activity. Three days later he was crucified. Lincoln was killed for interfering with the money changers. Kennedy was slaughtered for interfering with the money changers. Let's return to the subject of your property, and the tax sale for not paying property taxes. In this situation under a standard deed (not common law deed) you are actually in default. Not because you understand the default or you like being in default, you just are in default of the tax payment. So they put your property up for sale. At the tax sale, Joe Doe, average American, bids on your property and gets it. Now, there is a procedure he must go through step by step to establish. He is required to give you another chance. You have six months and a day to pay off the default. If, at this time, you pay off the amount the county says you owe, plus penalties, interest, fines, etc., then your property is taken off default status and it is yours to continue to pay taxes on the next year

There was a deal struck that, if any person who doesn't have a lawyer to bring a case before the courts, and this person proves the fraud, and speaks the truth about the fraud, the courts are compelled to not allow the case to be cited or published anywhere. The courts cannot afford to have the case freely available in the public archives. This would be evidence of the fraud. That is why you can't hire an attorney. An attorney is compelled to uphold the fraud. "I'm Here To Help You." "I Have The Governments Permission To Practice Law." "I'm A Member of the Bar." The attorney is there for one reason. That reason is to make sure the bankruptcy scam (established by the corporate public policy of the corporate Federal Government) is upheld. The lawyer's will cite no cases for you that will go against the bankruptcy in corporate public policy. Whatever the lawyers do for you is a bunch of Bull Shit. The lawyers have to support the bankruptcy and public policy even at your expense. The lawyers can't go against the corporate Federal Government statutes implementing, protecting and administrating the bankruptcy. For all cases cited, those in the US Code or the state annotated code or any other source, you may be sure that they are only those selected cases that support the public policy of bankruptcy. The legal system has to work that way. After the last 30-40-50-60 years of cases after cases having been decided based upon upholding the bankruptcy, how could the legal system possibly allow someone to come into court and put in the record substantial information and argument to prove the fraud? THE WHOLE SYSTEM IS NOTHING BUT CREDIT AND DEBT, i.e. THE WORLD CREDIT UNION.

Here is what is going to very quickly happen internationally. All of the governments around the World are going to unite. They will create one big giant credit union for collecting the debt for the International Bankers. We have allowed ourselves do get into this very sad situation, but THAT IS THE WAY IT IS. The ultimate result of shielding men from the effects of folly is to fill the World with fools. -- "State Tamperings with Money Banks" -- Herbert Spencer (1820-1903). THIS IS THE FASCIST & ENSLAVING NEW WORLD ORDER!

James Traficant Explains About the Bankruptcy, Hypothecation , Canon & Maritime Law

Speaker: Representative James Traficant, Jr. (Ohio) addressing the House: "Mr. Speaker, we are here now in Chapter 11. Members of Congress are official trustees presiding over the greatest reorganization in World history, the U.S. Government. We are setting forth hopefully, a blueprint for our future. There are some who say it is a coroner's report that will lead to our demise. It is an established fact that the United States Federal Government has been dissolved by the Emergency Banking Act, March 9, 1933, 48 Stat. 1, Public Law 89-719; declared by President Roosevelt, being bankrupt and insolvent. HJR 192, 73rd Congress in session June 5, 1933 - Joint Resolution to Suspend the Gold Standard and Abrogate the Gold Clause dissolved the Sovereign Authority of the United States and the official capacities of all United States Governmental Offices, Officers, and Departments, and is further evidence that the United States Federal Government exists today in name only. The receivers of the United States Bankruptcy are the International Bankers, via the United Nations, the World Bank, and the International Monetary Fund. All United States Offices, Officials, and Departments are now operating within a de facto status in name only under the Emergency War Powers.

With the Constitutional Republican form of Government now dissolved, the receivers of the Bankruptcy have adopted a new form of government FOR the United States. This new form of government is known as a Democracy, being an established Socialist/Communist order under a new governor for America. This act was instituted and established by transferring and/or placing the Office of the Secretary of Treasury to that of the Governor of the International Monetary Fund. Public Law 94-564, page 8, Section H.R.13955 reads in part: 'The U.S. Secretary of Treasury receives no compensation for representing the United States.' Gold and silver were such a powerful money during the founding of the United States of America that the founding fathers declared that only gold or silver coins can be 'money' in America. Since gold and silver coinage were heavy and inconvenient for a lot of transactions, they were stored in banks and a claim check was issued as a money substitute. People traded their coupons as money, or 'currency.' Currency is not money, but a money substitute. Redeemable currency must promise to pay a dollar equivalent in gold or silver money. Federal Reserve Notes (FRNs) make no such promises and are not 'money.'

A Federal Reserve Note is a debt obligation of the federal United States Government, not 'money.' The federal United States Government and the U.S. Congress were not and have never been authorized by the Constitution for the United States of America to issue currency of any kind, but only lawful money - gold and silver coin. It is essential that we comprehend the distinction between real money and paper money substitute. One cannot get rich by accumulating money substitutes, one can only get deeper into debt. We the People no longer have any 'money.' Most Americans have not been paid any 'money' for a very long time, perhaps not in their entire life. Now do you comprehend why you feel broke? Now do you understand why you are 'bankrupt,' along with the rest of the country?

Federal Reserve Notes (FRNs) are unsigned checks written on a closed account. FRNs are an inflatable paper system designed to create debt through inflation (devaluation of currency). Whenever there is an increase of the supply of a money substitute in the economy without a corresponding increase in the gold and silver backing, inflation occurs.

Inflation is an invisible form of taxation that irresponsible governments inflict on their citizens. The Federal Reserve Bank who controls the supply and movement of FRNs has everybody fooled. They have access to an unlimited supply of FRNs, paying only for the printing costs of what they need. FRNs are nothing more than promissory notes for U.S. Treasury securities (T-bills) - a promise to pay the debt to the Federal Reserve Bank. There is a fundamental difference between 'paying' and 'discharging' a debt. To pay a debt, you must pay with value or substance (i.e. gold, silver, barter or a commodity). With FRNs, you can only discharge a debt. You cannot pay a debt with a debt currency system. You cannot service a debt with a currency that has no backing in value or substance. No contract in Common Law is valid unless it involves an exchange of 'good and valuable consideration.'" Unpayable debt transfers power and control to the sovereign power structure that has no interest in money, law, equity, or justice because they have so much wealth already. Their lust is for power and control. Since the inception of central banking, they have controlled the fates of nations.

The Federal Reserve System is based on the Canon law and the principles of sovereignty protected in the Constitution and Bill of Rights. In fact, the international bankers used a 'Canon Law Trust' as their model, adding stock and naming it a 'Joint Stock Trust' in 1873. The Federal Reserve Act was legislated post facto (to 1870), although post-facto laws are strictly forbidden by the Constitution (Article I, Section 9, Paragraph 3). The Federal Reserve System is a sovereign power structure separate and distinct from the federal United States government. The Federal Reserve is a maritime lender, and/or maritime insurance underwriter to the federal United States operating exclusively under Admiralty/Maritime law. The lender or underwriter bears the risks, and the Maritime law compelling specific performance in paying the interest, or premiums, are the same. Assets of the debtor can also be hypothecated (to pledge something as a security without taking possession of it) as security by the lender or underwriter. The Federal Reserve Act stipulated that the interest on the debt was to be paid in Gold. There was no stipulation in the Federal Reserve Act for ever paying the principal. Prior to 1913, most Americans owned clear, allodial title to property, free and clear of any liens or mortgages until the Federal Reserve Act (1913) 'hypothecated' all property within the federal United States to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve, in which the Trustees (stockholders) held legal title. The U.S. citizen (tenant, franchisee) was registered as a 'beneficiary' of the trust via his/her birth certificate.

In 1933, the federal United States hypothecated all of the present and future properties, assets, and labor of their 'subjects,' the 14th Amendment U.S. citizen, to the Federal Reserve System. In return, the Federal Reserve System agreed to extend the federal United States corporation all the credit 'money substitute' it needed. Like any other debtor, the federal United States government had to assign collateral and security to their creditors as a condition of the loan. Since the federal United States didn't have any assets, they assigned the private property of their 'economic slaves,' the U.S. citizens as collateral against the unpayable federal debt. They also pledged the unincorporated federal territories, national park forests, birth certificates, and non-profit organizations as collateral against the federal debt. All has already been transferred as payment to the international bankers. Unwittingly, America has returned to its pre-American Revolution, feudal roots whereby all land is held by a Sovereign, and the common people had no rights to hold allodial title to property. Once again, We the People are the tenants and sharecroppers renting our own property from a Sovereign in the guise of the Federal Reserve Bank. We the People have exchanged one master for another. This has been going on for over eighty years without the 'informed knowledge' of the American people, without a voice protesting loud enough."

Now it is easy to grasp why America is fundamentally bankrupt. Why don't more people own their properties outright? Why are 90% of Americans mortgaged to the hilt and have little or no assets after all debts and liabilities have been paid? Why does it feel like you are working harder and harder and getting less and less? We are reaping what has been sown, and the results of our harvest is a painful bankruptcy, and a foreclosure on American property, precious liberties, and a way of life. Few of our elected representatives in Washington, D.C. have dared to tell the truth. The federal United States is bankrupt. Our children will inherit this unpayable debt, and the tyranny to enforce paying it. America has become completely bankrupt in World leadership, financial credit, and its reputation for courage, vision, and human rights. This is an undeclared economic war, bankruptcy, and economic slavery of the most corrupt order. Wake up, America! Take back your country."

Congressman Louis McFadden's Speech 1933

May 23, 1933, Congressman, Louis T. McFadden, brought formal charges against the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve Bank system, The Comptroller of the Currency and the Secretary of United States Treasury for numerous criminal acts including but not limited to CONSPIRACY, FRAUD, UNLAWFUL CONVERSION, AND TREASON http://www.hardtruth.bravepages.com/hardtruth.topcities.com/congress_mcfadden.htm. The petition for Articles of Impeachment was thereafter referred to the Judiciary Committee and has YET TO BE ACTED ON. So, this ELECTRONIC BOOKLET should be reprinted, reposted, set up on web pages and circulated far and wide. Congressman McFadden's Speech on the Federal Reserve Corporation Remarks in Congress, 1934

AN ASTOUNDING EXPOSURE Reprinted by permission 1978 Arizona Caucus Club. Quotations from several speeches made on the Floor of the House of Representatives by the Honorable Louis T. McFadden of Pennsylvania. Mr. McFadden, due to his having served as Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee for more than 10 years, was the best posted man on these matters in America and was in a position to speak with authority of the vast ramifications of this gigantic private credit monopoly. As Representative of a State which was among the first to declare its freedom from foreign money tyrants it is fitting that Pennsylvania, the cradle of liberty, be again given the credit for producing a son that was not afraid to hurl defiance in the face of the money-bund. Whereas Mr. McFadden was elected to the high office on both the Democratic and Republican tickets, there can be no accusation of partisanship lodged against him. Because these speeches are set out in full in the Congressional Record, they carry weight that no amount of condemnation on the part of private individuals could hope to carry.

The Federal Reserve-A Corrupt Institution

"Mr. Chairman, we have in this Country one of the most corrupt institutions the World has ever known. I refer to the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Banks, hereinafter called the Fed. The Fed has cheated the Government of these United States and the people of the United States out of enough money to pay the Nation's debt. The depredations and iniquities of the Fed have cost enough money to pay the National debt several times over. "This evil institution has impoverished and ruined the people of these United States, has bankrupted itself, and has practically bankrupted our Government. It has done this through the defects of the law under which it operates, through the maladministration of that law by the Fed and through the corrupt practices of the moneyed vultures who control it.

"Some people who think that the Federal Reserve Banks United States Government institutions. They are private monopolies which prey upon the people of these United States for the benefit of themselves and their foreign customers; foreign and domestic speculators and swindlers; and rich and predatory money lender. In that dark crew of financial pirates there are those who would cut a man's throat to get a dollar out of his pocket; there are those who send money into states to buy votes to control our legislatures; there are those who maintain International propaganda for the purpose of deceiving us into granting of new concessions which will permit them to cover up their past misdeeds and set again in motion their gigantic train of crime. "These twelve private credit monopolies were deceitfully and disloyally foisted upon this Country by the Bankers who came here from Europe and repaid us our hospitality by undermining our American institutions. Those Bankers took money out of this Country to finance Japan in a war against Russia. They created a reign of terror in Russia with our money in order to help that war along. They instigated the separate peace between Germany and Russia, and thus drove a wedge between the allies in World War. They financed Trotsky's passage from New York to Russia so that he might assist in the destruction of the Russian Empire. They fomented and instigated the Russian Revolution, and placed a large fund of American dollars at Trotsky's disposal in one of their branch banks in Sweden so that through him Russian homes might be thoroughly broken up and Russian children flung far and wide from their natural protectors. They have since begun breaking up of American homes and the dispersal of American children. "Mr. Chairman, there should be no partisanship in matters concerning banking and currency affairs in this Country, and I do not speak with any. "In 1912 the National Monetary Association, under the chairmanship of the late Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, made a report and presented a vicious bill called the National Reserve Association bill. This bill is usually spoken of as the Aldrich bill. Senator Aldrich did not write the Aldrich bill. He was the tool, if not the accomplice, of the European Bankers who for nearly twenty years had been scheming to set up a central bank in this Country and who in 1912 has spent and were continuing to spend vast sums of money to accomplish their purpose.

Rep. Charles Lindbergh (R-MN) said: "The Aldrich Plan is the Wall Street Plan. It means another panic, if necessary, to intimidate the people. Aldrich, paid by the government to represent the people, proposes a plan for the trusts [bankers] instead." "We were opposed to the Aldrich plan for a central bank. The men who rule the Democratic Party then promised the people that if they were returned to power there would be no central bank established here while they held the reigns of government. Thirteen months later that promise was broken, and the Wilson administration, under the tutelage of those sinister Wall Street figures who stood behind Colonel House, established here in our free Country the worm-eaten monarchical institution of the "King's Bank" to control us from the top downward, and from the cradle to the grave. "The Federal Reserve Bank destroyed our old and characteristic way of doing business. It discriminated against our 1-name commercial paper, the finest in the World, and it set up the antiquated 2-name paper, which is the present curse of this Country and which wrecked every country which has ever given it scope; it fastened down upon the Country the very tyranny from which the framers of the Constitution sought to save us.

President Jackson's Time

"One of the greatest battles for the preservation of this Republic was fought out here in Jackson's time; when the second Bank of the United States, founded on the same false principles of those which are here exemplified in the Fed was hurled out of existence. After that, in 1837, the Country was warned against the dangers that might ensue if the predatory interests after being cast out should come back in disguise and unite themselves to the Executive and through him acquire control of the Government. That is what the predatory interests did when they came back in the livery of hypocrisy and under false pretenses obtained the passage of the Fed. "The danger that the Country was warned against came upon us and is shown in the long train of horrors attendant upon the affairs of the traitorous and dishonest Fed. Look around you when you leave this Chamber and you will see evidences of it in all sides. This is an era of misery and for the conditions that caused that misery, the Fed is fully liable. This is an era of financed crime and in the financing of crime the Fed does not play the part of a disinterested spectator.

"It has been said that the draughts man who was employed to write the text of the Aldrich bill because that had been drawn up by lawyers, by acceptance Bankers of European origin in New York. It was a copy, in general a translation of the statutes of the Reichsbank and other European central banks. One-half million dollars was spent on the part of the propaganda organized by these Bankers for the purpose of misleading public opinion and giving Congress the impression that there was an overwhelming popular demand for it and the kind of currency that goes with it, namely, an asset currency based on human debts and obligations. Dr. H. Parker Willis had been employed by Wall Street and propagandists, and when the Aldrich measure failed- he obtained employment with Carter Glass, to assist in drawing the banking bill for the Wilson administration. He appropriated the text of the Aldrich bill. There is no secret about it. The test of the Federal Reserve Act was tainted from the first. A few days before the bill came to a vote, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, wrote to Senator John W. Weeks as follows:

New York City,
December 17, 1913

"My Dear Senator Weeks:

"Throughout my public life I have supported all measures designed to take the Government out of the banking business. This bill puts the Government into the banking business as never before in our history. "The powers vested in the Federal Reserve Board seem to me highly dangerous especially where there is political control of the Board. I should be sorry to hold stock in a bank subject to such dominations. The bill as it stands seems to me to open the way to a vast inflation of the currency. "I had hoped to support this bill, but I cannot vote for it cause it seems to me to contain features and to rest upon principles in the highest degree menacing to our prosperity, to stability in business, and to the general welfare of the people of the United States.

Very Truly Yours,
Henry Cabot Lodge."

"In eighteen years that have passed since Senator Lodge wrote that letter of warning all of his predictions have come true. The Government is in the banking business as never before. Against its will it has been made the backer of horse thieves and card sharps, bootlegger's smugglers, speculators, and swindlers in all parts of the World. Through the Fed the riffraff of every country is operating on the public credit of the United States Government.

The Great Depression (1929)

"Meanwhile and on account of it, we ourselves are in the midst of the greatest depression we have ever known. From the Atlantic to the Pacific, our Country has been ravaged and laid waste by the evil practices of the Fed and the interests which control them. At no time in our history, has the general welfare of the people been at a lower level or the minds of the people so full of despair. "Recently in one of our States, 60,000 dwelling houses and farms were brought under the hammer in a single day. 71,000 houses and farms in Oakland County, Michigan, were sold and their erstwhile owners dispossessed. The people who have thus been driven out are the wastage of the Fed. They are the victims of the Fed. Their children are the new slaves of the auction blocks in the revival of the institution of human slavery.

The Scheme of the Fed

In 1913, before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Mr. Alexander Lassen made the following statement: "The whole scheme of the Fed with its commercial paper is an impractical, cumbersome machinery- is simply a cover to secure the privilege of issuing money, and to evade payment of as much tax upon circulation as possible and then control the issue and maintain, instead of reducing interest rates. It will prove to the advantage of the few and the detriment of the people. It will mean continued shortage of actual money and further extension of credits, for when there is a shortage of money people have to borrow to their cost." "A few days before the Fed passed, Senator Root denounced the Fed as an outrage on our liberties. He predicted: 'Long before we wake up from our dream of prosperity through an inflated currency, our gold- which alone could have kept us from catastrophe- will have vanished and no rate of interest will tempt it to return.' "If ever a prophecy came true, that one did. "The Fed became law the day before Christmas Eve, in the year 1913, and shortly afterwards, the German International Bankers, Kuhn, Loeb and Co. sent one of their partners here to run it. "The Fed Note is essentially unsound. It is the worst currency and the most dangerous that this Country has ever known. When the proponents of the act saw that the Democratic doctrine would not permit them to let the proposed banks issue the new currency as bank notes, they should have stopped at that. They should not have foisted that kind of currency, namely, an asset currency, on the United States Government. They should not have made the Government [liable on the private] debts of individuals and corporations, and, least of all, on the private debts of foreigners. "As Kemerer says: 'The Fed Notes, therefore, in form, have some of the qualities of Government paper money, but in substance, are almost a pure asset currency possessing a Government guarantee against which contingency the Government has made no provision whatever.'

Hon. L.J.Hill, a former member of the House, said, and truly: "They are obligations of the Government for which the United States received nothing and for the payment of which at any time, it assumes the responsibility: looking to the Fed to recoup itself." "If this United States is to redeem the Fed Notes, when the General Public finds it costs to deliver this paper to the Fed, and if the Government has made no provisions for redeeming them, the first element of unsoundness is not far to seek. "Before the Banking and Currency Committee, when the bill was under discussion Mr. Crozier of Cincinnati said: 'The imperial power of elasticity of the public currency is wielded exclusively by the central corporations owned by the banks. This is a life and death power over all local banks and all business. It can be used to create or destroy prosperity, to ward off or cause stringencies and panics. By making money artificially scarce, interest rates throughout the Country can be arbitrarily raised and the bank tax on all business and cost of living increased for the profit of the banks owning these regional central banks, and without the slightest benefit to the people. The 12 Corporations together cover y and monopolize and use for private gain- every dollar of the public currency and all public revenue of the United States. Not a dollar can be put into circulation among the people by their Government, without the consent of and on terms fixed by these 12 private money trusts.' "In defiance of this and all other warnings, the proponents of the Fed created the 12 private credit corporations and gave them an absolute monopoly of the currency of these United States- not of the Fed Notes alone- but of all other currency!

The Fed Act providing ways and means by which the gold and general currency in the hands of the American people could be obtained by the Fed in exchange for Fed Notes- which are not money- but mere promises to pay. "Since the evil day when this was done, the initial monopoly has been extended by vicious amendments to the Fed and by the unlawful and treasonable practices of the Fed.

Money for the Scottish Distillers

"Mr. Chairman, if a Scottish distiller wishes to send a cargo of Scotch whiskey to these United States, he can draw his bill against the purchasing bootlegger in dollars and after the bootlegger has accepted it by writing his name across the face of it, the Scotch distiller can send that bill to the nefarious open discount market in New York City where the Fed will buy it and use it as collateral for a new issue of Fed Notes. Thus the Government of these United States pay the Scotch distiller for the whiskey before it is shipped, and if it is lost on the way, or if the Coast Guard seizes it and destroys it, the Fed simply write off the loss and the government never recovers the money that was paid to the Scotch distiller. "While we are attempting to enforce prohibition here, the Fed are in the distillery business in Europe and paying bootlegger bills with public credit of these United States. "Mr. Chairman, by the same process, they compel our Government to pay the German brewer for his beer. Why should the Fed be permitted to finance the brewing industry in Germany either in this way or as they do by compelling small and fearful United States Banks to take stock in the Isenbeck Brewery and in the German Bank for brewing industries? "Mr. Chairman, if Dynamit Nobel of Germany, wishes to sell dynamite in Japan to use in Manchuria or elsewhere, it can draw its bill against the Japanese customers in dollars and send that bill to the nefarious open discount market in New York City where the Fed will buy it and use it as collateral for a new issue of Fed Notes- while at the same time the Fed will be helping Dynamit Nobel by stuffing its stock into the United States banking system.

"Why should we send our representatives to the disarmament conference at Geneva- while the Fed is making our Government pay Japanese debts to German Munitions makers? "Mr. Chairman, if a German wishes to raise a crop of beans and sell them to a Japanese customer, he can draw a bill against his prospective Japanese customer in dollars and have it purchased by the Fed and get the money out of this Country at the expense of the American people before he has even planted the beans in the ground. "Mr. Chairman, if a German in Germany wishes to export goods to South America, or any other Country, he can draw his bill against his customers and send it to these United States and get the money out of this Country before he ships, or even manufactures the goods. "Mr. Chairman, why should the currency of these United States be issued on the strength of German Beer? Why should it be issued on the crop of unplanted beans to be grown in Chili for Japanese consumption? Why should these United States be compelled to issue many billions of dollars every year to pay the debts of one foreigner to another foreigner? "Was it for this that our National Bank depositors had their money taken out of our banks and shipped abroad? Was it for this that they had to lose it? Why should the public credit of these United States and likewise money belonging to our National Bank depositors be used to support foreign brewers, narcotic drug vendors, whiskey distillers, wig makers, human hair merchants, Chilean bean growers, to finance the munition factories of Germany and Soviet Russia?

The United States Has Been Ransacked

"The United States has been ransacked and pillaged. Our structures have been gutted and only the walls are left standing. While being perpetrated, everything the World would rake up to sell us was brought in here at our expense by the Fed until our markets were swamped with unneeded and unwanted imported goods priced far above their value and made to equal the dollar volume of our honest exports, and to kill or reduce our favorable balance of trade. As Agents of the foreign central banks the Fed try by every means in their power to reduce our favorable balance of trade. They act for their foreign principal and they accept fees from foreigners for acting against the best interests of these United States. Naturally there has been great competition among foreigners for the favors of the Fed. "What we need to do is to send the reserves of our National Banks home to the people who earned and produced them and who still own them and to the banks which were compelled to surrender them to predatory interests. "Mr. Chairman, there is nothing like the Fed pool of confiscated bank deposits in the World. It is a public trough of American wealth in which the foreigners claim rights, equal to or greater than Americans. The Fed are the agents of the foreign central banks. They use our bank depositors' money for the benefit of their foreign principals. They barter the public credit of the United States Government and hire it out to foreigners at a profit to themselves. "All this is done at the expense of the United States Government, and at a sickening loss to the American people. Only our great wealth enabled us to stand the drain of it as long as we did. "We need to destroy the Fed wherein our national reserves are impounded for the benefit of the foreigners. "We need to save America for Americans.

Spurious Securities

"Mr. Chairman, when you hold a $10.00 Fed Note in your hand, you are holding a piece of paper which sooner or later is going to cost the United States Government $10.00 in gold (unless the Government is obliged to go off the gold standard). It is based on limburger cheese (reported to be in foreign warehouses) or in cans purported to contain peas (but may contain salt water instead), or horse meat, illicit drugs, bootleggers fancies, rags and bones from Soviet Russia (of which these United States imported over a million dollars worth last year), on wines whiskey, natural gas, goat and dog fur, garlic on the string, and Bombay ducks. "If you like to have paper money- which is secured by such commodities- you have it in Fed Note. If you desire to obtain the thing of value upon which this paper currency is based, that is, the limburger cheese, the whiskey, the illicit drugs, or any of the other staples- you will have a very hard time finding them. "Many of these worshipful commodities are in foreign Countries. Are you going to Germany to inspect her warehouses to see if the specified things of value are there? I think more, I do not think that you would find them there if you did go.

"On April 27, 1932, the Fed outfit sent $750,000 belonging to American bank depositors in gold to Germany. A week later another $300,000 in gold was shipped to Germany. About the middle of May $12,000,000 in gold was shipped to Germany by the Fed. Almost every week there is a shipment of gold to Germany. These shipments are not made for profit on the exchange since the German marks are below parity with the dollar. "Mr. Chairman, I believe that the National Bank depositors of these United States have a right to know what the Fed are doing with their money. There are millions of National Bank depositors in the Country who do not know that a percentage of every dollar they deposit in a Member Bank of the Fed goes automatically to American Agents of the foreign banks and that all their deposits can be paid away to foreigners without their knowledge or consent by the crooked machinery of the Fed and the questionable practices of the Fed. [Ed. Note- Problem with next paragraph in original] "Mr. Chairman, the American people should be told the truth by their servants in office. In 1930, we had over a half billion dollars outstanding daily to finance foreign goods stored in or shipped between several billion dollars. What goods are these on which the Fed yearly pledge several billions of dollars. In its yearly total, this item amounts to several billions of dollars of the public credit of these United States? "What goods are those which are hidden in European and Asiatic stores have not been seen by any officer of our Government but which are being financed on the public credit of the United States Government? What goods are those upon which the 17 United States Government is being obligated by the Fed to issue Fed Notes to the extent of several billions of dollars a year?

The BankLords' Acceptance Racket

"The Fed have been International Banks from the beginning, with these United States as their enforced banker and supplier of currency. But it is none the less extraordinary to see these twelve private credit monopolies, buying the debts of foreigners against foreigners, in all parts of the World and asking the Government of these United States for new issues of Fed notes in exchange for them. "The magnitude of the acceptance racket as it has been developed by the Fed, their foreign correspondents, and the predatory European born Bankers, who set up the Fed here and taught your own, by and of pirates, how to loot the people: I say the magnitude of this racket is estimated to be in the neighborhood of 9,000,000,000 per year. In the past ten years it is said to have amounted to $90,000,000,000.00. In my opinion it has amounted to several times that much. Coupled to this you have to the extent of billions of dollars, the gambling in the United States securities, which takes place in the same open discount market- a gambling on which the Fed is now spending $100,000,000.00 per week. "Fed Notes are taken from the U.S. Government in unlimited quantities. It is strange that the burden of supplying these immense sums of money to the gambling fraternity has at last proved too heavy for the American people to endure? Would it not be a national [calamity to] again bind down this burden on the backs of the American people and by means of a long rawhide whip of the credit masters, compel them to enter another seventeen years of slavery? "They are trying to do that now. They are trying to take $100,000,000.00 of the public credit of the United States every week, in addition to all their other seizures and they are sending that money to the nefarious open market in a desperate gamble to reestablish their graft as a going concern. "They are putting the United States Government in debt to the extent of $100,000,000 a week, and with the money they are buying our Government securities for themselves and their foreign principals. Our people are disgusted with the experiences of the Fed. The Fed is not producing a loaf of bread, a yard of cloth, a bushel of corn, or a pile of cordwood by its check-kiting operations in the money market.

"Mr. Speaker, on the 13th of January of this year I addressed the House on the subject of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. In the course of my remarks I made the following statement: In 1928 the member banks of the Fed borrowed $60,598,690,000 from the Fed on their fifteen-day promissory notes. Think of it. Sixty billion dollars payable on demand in gold in the course of one single year. The actual amount of such obligations called for six times as much monetary gold as there is in the World. Such transactions represent a grant in the course of one single years of about $7,000,000 to every member of the Fed. "Is it any wonder that American labor which ultimately pays the cost of all banking operations of this Country has at last proved unequal to the task of supplying this huge total of cash and credit for the benefit of the stock market manipulators and foreign swindlers? "In 1933 the Fed presented the staggering amount of $60,598,690,000 to its member banks at the expense of the wage earners and tax payers of these United States. In 1929, the year of the stock market crash, the Fed advanced $58,000,000,000 to member banks. "In 1930 while the speculating banks were getting out of the stock market at the expense of the general public, the Fed advanced them $13,022,782,000. This shows that when the banks were gambling on the public credit of these United States as represented by the Fed currency they were subsidized to any amount they required by the Fed. When the swindle began to fall, the Bankers knew it in advance and withdrew from the market. They got out with whole skins- and left the people of these United States to pay the piper. "My friend from Kansas, Mr. McGugin, has stated that he thought the Fed lent money on rediscounting. So they do, but they lend comparatively little that way. The real discounting that they do has been called a mere penny in the slot business. It is too slow for genuine high flyers. They discourage it. They prefer to subsidize their favorite banks by making them $60,000,000,000 advances and they prefer to acquire assistance in the notorious open discount market in New York, where they can use it to control the price of stocks and bonds on the exchanges. "For every dollar they advanced on discounts in 1928, they lent $33.00 to their favorite banks for whom they do a business of several billion dollars income tax on their profits to these United States."

The John Law Swindle

"This is the John Law swindle over again. The theft of Teapot Dome was trifling compared to it. What King ever robbed his subject to such an extent as the Fed has robbed us? Is it any wonder that there have been lately ninety cases of starvation in one of the New York hospitals? Is there any wonder that the children are being abandoned?" The government and the people of these United States have been swindled by swindlers deluxe to whom the acquisition of American or a parcel of Fed Notes presented no more difficulty than the drawing up of a worthless acceptance in a Country not subject to the laws of these United States, by sharpers not subject to the jurisdiction of these United States, sharpers with strong banking "fence" on this side of the water, a "fence" acting as a receiver of a worthless paper coming from abroad, endorsing it and getting the currency out of the Fed for it as quickly as possible exchanging that currency for gold and in turn transmitting the gold to its foreign confederates.

Ivar Kreuger, the Match King!

"Such were the exploits of Ivar Kreuger, Mr. Hoover's friend, and his rotten Wall Street bakers. Every dollar of the billions Kreuger and his gang drew out of this Country on acceptances was drawn from the government and the people of the United States through the Fed. The credit of the United States Government was peddled to him by the Fed for their own private gain. That is what the Fed has been doing for many years. "They have been peddling the credit of this Government and the [signature of this] Government to the swindlers and speculators of all nations. That is what happens when a Country forsakes its Constitution and gives its sovereignty over the public currency to private interests. Give them the flag and they will sell it. "The nature of Kreuger's organized swindle and the bankrupt condition of Kreuger's combine was known here last June when Hoover sought to exempt Kreuger's loan to Germany of $125,000,000 from the operation of the Hoover Moratorium. The bankrupt condition of Kreuger's swindle was known here last summer when $30,000,000 was taken from the American taxpayers by certain Bankers in New York for the ostensible purpose of permitting Krueger to make a loan to Colombia. Colombia never saw that money. "The nature of Krueger's swindle was known here in January when he visited his friend, Mr. Hoover, at the White House. It was known here in March before he went to Paris and committed suicide. "Mr. Chairman, I think the people of the United States are entitled to know how many billions of dollars were placed at the disposal of Krueger and his gigantic combine by the Fed, and to know how much of our Government currency was issued and lost in the financing of that great swindle in the years during which the Fed took care of Krueger's requirements. "A few days ago, the President of the United States with a white face and shaking hands, went before the Senate of behalf of the moneyed interests and asked the Senate to levy a tax on the people so that foreigners might know that these United States would pay its debt to them. "Most Americans thought it was the other way around. What does these United States owe foreigners? When and by whom was the debt incurred? It was incurred by the Fed, when they peddled the signature of the Government to foreigners- for a Price. It is what the United States Government has to pay to redeem the obligations of the Fed.

Thieves Go Scot Free

"Are you going to let these thieves get off scot free? Is there one law for the looter who drives up to the door of the United States Treasury in his limousine and another for the United States Veterans who are sleeping on the floor of a dilapidated house on the outskirts of Washington? "The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is here asking for a large loan from the people, and the wage earners and the taxpayers of these United States. It is begging for a handout from the Government. It is standing, cap in hand, at the door of the R.F.C. where all the jackals have gathered to the feast. It is asking for money that was raised from the people by taxation and wants this money of the poor for the benefit of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., the German International Bankers. "Is there one law for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and another for the hungry veterans it threw off its freight cars the other day? Is there one law for sleek and prosperous swindlers who call themselves Bankers and another law for the soldiers who defended the flag? "The R.F.C. is taking over these worthless securities from the Investment Trusts with United States Treasury money at the expense of the American taxpayer and the wage earner. "It will take twenty years to redeem our Government. Twenty years of penal servitude to pay off the gambling debts of the traitorous Fed and to vast flood of American wages and savings, bank deposits, and the United States Government credit which the Fed exported out of this country to their foreign principals. "The Fed lately conducted an anti-hoarding campaign here. They took that extra money which they had persuaded the American people to put into the banks- they sent it to Europe- along with the rest. In the last several months, they have sent $1,300,000,000 in gold to their foreign employers, their foreign masters, and every dollar of that gold belonged to the people of these United States and was unlawfully taken from them.

Fiat Money

"Mr. Chairman, within the limits of the time allowed me, I cannot enter into a particularized discussion of the Fed. I have singled out the Fed currency for a few remarks because there has lately been some talk here of "fiat money". What kind of money is being pumped into the open discount market and through it into foreign channels and stock exchanges? Mr. Mills of the Treasury has spoken here of his horror of the printing presses and his horror of dishonest money. He has no horror of dishonest money. If he had, he would be no party to the present gambling of the Fed in the nefarious open discount market of New York, a market in which the sellers are represented by 10 discount corporations owned and organized by the very banks which own and control the Fed. "Fiat money, indeed! "What Mr. Mills is fighting for is the preservation, whole and entire, of the banker's monopoly of all the currency of the United States Government. "Mr. Chairman, last December, I introduced a resolution here asking for an examination and an audit of the Fed and all related matters. If the House sees fit to make such an investigation, the people of these United States will obtain information of great value. This is a Government of the people, by the people, for the people. Consequently, nothing should be concealed from the people. The man who deceives the people is a traitor to these United States.

"The man who knows or suspects that a crime has been committed and who conceals and covers up that crime is an accessory to it. Mr. Speaker, it is a monstrous thing for this great nation of people to have its destinies presided over by a traitorous government board acting in secret concert with international usurers. "Every effort has been made by the Fed to conceal its powers- but the truth is- the Fed has usurped the Government. It controls everything here and it controls all of our foreign relations. It makes and breaks governments at will. "No man and no body of men is more entrenched in power than the arrogant credit monopoly which operated the Fed. What National Government has permitted the Fed to steal from the people should now be restored to the people. The people have a valid claim against the Fed. If that claim is enforced the Americans will not need to stand in the bread line, or to suffer and die of starvation in the streets. Women will be saved, families will be kept together, and American children will not be dispersed and abandoned. "Here is a Fed Note. Immense numbers of the notes are now held abroad. I am told that they amount to upwards of a billion dollars. They constitute a claim against our Government and likewise a claim against our peoples' money to the extent of $1,300,000,000 which has within the last few months been shipped abroad to redeem Fed Notes and to pay other gambling debts of the traitorous Fed. The greater part of our money stock has been shipped to other lands. "Why should we promise to pay the debts of foreigners to foreigners? Why should the Fed be permitted to finance our competitors in all parts of the World? Do you know why the tariff was raised? It was raised to shut out the flood of Fed Goods pouring in here from every quarter of the globe- cheap goods, produced by cheaply paid foreign labor, on unlimited supplies of money and credit sent out of this Country by the dishonest and unscrupulous Fed. "The Fed are spending $100,000,000 a week buying government securities in the open market and are making a great bid for foreign business. They are trying to make rates so attractive that the human hair merchants and the distillers and other business entities in foreign land will come here and hire more of the public credit of the United States Government to pay the Fed outfit for getting it for them.

World Enslavement & Dictatorship Planned

"Mr. Chairman, when the Fed was passed, the people of these United States did not perceive that a World system was being set up here which would make the savings of the American school teacher available to a narcotic-drug vendor in Acapulco. They did not perceive that these United States was to be lowered to the position of a coolie country which has nothing but raw material and heart, that Russia was destined to supply the man power and that this country was to supply the financial power to an "international superstate". A superstate controlled by international Bankers, and international industrialists acting together to enslave the World for their own pleasure? "The people of these United States are being greatly wronged. They have been driven from their employments. They have been dispossessed from their homes. They have been evicted from their rented quarters. They have lost their children. They have been left to suffer and die for lack of shelter, food, clothing and medicine. "The wealth of these United States and the working capital have been taken away from them and has either been locked in the vaults of certain banks and the great corporations or exported to foreign countries for the benefit of the foreign customers of these banks and corporations. So far as the people of the United States are concerned, the cupboard is bare. "It is true that the warehouses and coal yards and grain elevators are full, but these are padlocked, and the great banks and corporations hold the keys. "The sack of these United States by the Fed is the greatest crime in history."

"Mr. Chairman, a serious situation confronts the House of Representatives today. We are trustees of the people and the rights of the people are being taken away from them. Through the Fed the people are losing the rights guaranteed to them by the Constitution. Their property has been taken from them without due process of law. Mr. Chairman, common decency requires us to examine the public accounts of the Government and see what crimes against the public welfare have been committed. "What is needed here is a return to the Constitution of these United States. "The old struggle that was fought out here in Jackson's time must be fought over again. The independent United States Treasury should be reestablished and the Government should keep its own money under lock and key in the building the people provided for that purpose. "Asset currency, the devise of the swindler, should be done away with. The Fed should be abolished and the State boundaries should be respected. Bank reserves should be kept within the boundaries of the States whose people own them, and this reserve money of the people should be protected so that the International Bankers and acceptance Bankers and discount dealers cannot draw it away from them.

"The Fed should be repealed, and the Fed Banks, having violated their charters, should be liquidated immediately. Faithless Government officials who have violated their oaths of office should be impeached and brought to trial. "Unless this is done by us, I predict, that the American people, outraged, pillaged, insulted and betrayed as they are in their own land, will rise in their wrath, and will sweep the money changers out of the temple. "Mr. Chairman, the United States is bankrupt: It has been bankrupted by the corrupt and dishonest Fed. It has repudiated its debts to its own citizens. Its chief foreign creditor is Great Britain, and a British bailiff has been at the White House and the British Agents are in the United States Treasury making inventory arranging terms of liquidations!

Great Britain, Partner in Blackmail

"Mr. Chairman, the Fed has offered to collect the British claims in full from the American public by trickery and corruption, if Great Britain will help to conceal its crimes. The British are shielding their agents, the Fed, because they do not wish that system of robbery to be destroyed here. They wish it to continue for their benefit! By means of it, Great Britain has become the financial mistress of the World. She has regained the position she occupied before the World War. "For several years she has been a silent partner in the business of the Fed. Under threat of blackmail, or by their bribery, or by their native treachery to the people of the United States, the officials in charge of the Fed unwisely gave Great Britain immense gold loans running into hundreds of millions of dollars. They did this against the law! Those gold loans were not single transactions. They gave Great Britain a borrowing power in the United States of billions. She squeezed billions out of this Country by means of her control of the Fed. "As soon as the Hoover Moratorium was announced, Great Britain moved to consolidate her gains. After the treacherous signing away of American rights at the 7-power conference at London in July, 1931, which put the Fed under the control of the Bank of International Settlements, Great Britain began to tighten the hangman's noose around the neck of the United States. "She abandoned the gold standard and embarked on a campaign of buying up the claims of foreigners against the Fed in all parts of the World. She has now sent her bailiff, Ramsey MacDonald, here to get her war debt to this country canceled. But she has a club in her hands! She has title to the gambling debts which the corrupt and dishonest Fed incurred abroad. "Ramsey MacDonald, the labor party deserter, has come here to compel the President to sign on the dotted line, and that is what Roosevelt is about to do! Roosevelt will endeavor to conceal the nature of his action from the American people. But he will obey the International Bankers and transfer the war debt that Great Britain should pay to the American people, to the shoulders of the American taxpayers.

"Mr. Chairman, the bank holiday in the several States was brought about by the corrupt and dishonest Fed. These institutions manipulated money and credit, and caused the States to order bank holidays. "These holidays were frame-ups!" They were dress rehearsals for the national bank holiday which Franklin D. Roosevelt promised Sir Ramsey MacDonald that he would declare. "There was no national emergency here when Franklin D. Roosevelt took office excepting the bankruptcy of the Fed- a bankruptcy which has been going on under cover for several years and which has been concealed from the people so that the people would continue to permit their bank deposits and their bank reserves and their gold and the funds of the United States Treasury to be impounded in these bankrupt institutions. "Under cover, the predatory International Bankers have been stealthily transferring the burden of the Fed debts to the people's Treasury and to the people themselves. They the farms and the homes of the United States to pay for their thievery! That is the only national emergency that there has been here since the depression began. "The week before the bank holiday was declared in New York State, the deposits in the New York savings banks were greater than the withdrawals. There were no runs on New York Banks. There was no need of a bank holiday in New York, or of a national holiday.

Roosevelt and the International BankLords Turn Dollar To Fiat Debt Instrument

In 1933, President Roosevelt pronounced the country officially bankrupt, exercised his special emergency powers, waved the royal Presidential fiat, and ordered the promise to pay in gold removed from the dollar bill. The dollar was instantly transformed from a promise to pay in legal tender into legal tender itself. Seventy years later, Congress could again acknowledge that the country is officially bankrupt and propose a plan of reorganisation. By simple legislative fiat, it could transform its debts¹ into legal tender¹.

"Roosevelt did what the International Bankers ordered him to do! "Do not deceive yourself, Mr. Chairman, or permit yourself to be deceived by others into the belief that Roosevelt's dictatorship is in any way intended to benefit the people of the United States: he is preparing to sign on the dotted line! "He is preparing to cancel the war debts by fraud! "He is preparing to internationalize this Country and to destroy our Constitution itself in order to keep the Fed intact as a money institution for foreigners. "Mr. Chairman, I see no reason why citizens of the United States should be terrorized into surrendering their property to the International Bankers who own and control the Fed. The statement that gold would be taken from its lawful owners if they did not voluntarily surrender it, to private interests, show that there is an anarchist in our Government. "The statement that it is necessary for the people to give their gold- the only real money- to the banks in order to protect the currency, is a statement of calculated dishonesty." By his unlawful usurpation of power on the night of March 5, 1933, and by his proclamation, which in my opinion was in violation of the Constitution of the United States, Roosevelt divorced the currency of the United States from gold, and the United States currency is no longer protected by gold. It is therefore sheer dishonesty to say that the people's gold is needed to protect the currency. "Roosevelt ordered the people to give their gold to private interests- that is, to banks, and he took control of the banks so that all the gold and gold values in them, or given into them, might be handed over to the predatory International Bankers who own and control the Fed.

"Roosevelt cast his lot with the usurers. "He agreed to save the corrupt and dishonest at the expense of the people of the United States. "He took advantage of the people's confusion and weariness and spread the dragnet over the United States to capture everything of value that was left in it. He made a great haul for the International Bankers. "The Prime Minister of England came here for money! He came here to collect cash! "He came here with Fed Currency and other claims against the Fed which England had bought up in all parts of the World. And he has presented them for redemption in gold. "Mr. Chairman, I am in favor of compelling the Fed to pay their own debts. I see no reason why the general public should be forced to pay the gambling debts of the International Bankers."

Roosevelt Seizes the Gold

"By his action in closing the banks of the United States, Roosevelt seized the gold value of forty billions or more of bank deposits in the United States banks. Those deposits were deposits of gold values. By his action he has rendered them payable to the depositors in paper only, if payable at all, and the paper money he proposes to pay out to bank depositors and to the people generally in lieu of their hard earned gold values in itself, and being based on nothing into which the people can convert it the said paper money is of negligible value altogether. "It is the money of slaves, not of free men. If the people of the United States permit it to be imposed upon them at the will of their credit masters, the next step in their downward progress will be their acceptance of orders on company stores for what they eat and wear. Their case will be similar to that of starving coal miners. They, too, will be paid with orders on Company stores for food and clothing, both of indifferent quality and be forced to live in Company-owned houses from which they may be evicted at the drop of a hat. More of them will be forced into conscript labor camps under supervision. "At noon on the 4th of March, 1933, FDR with his hand on the Bible, took an oath to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the U.S. At midnight on the 5th of March, 1933, he confiscated the property of American citizens. He took the currency of the United States standard of value. He repudiated the internal debt of the Government to its own citizens. He destroyed the value of the American dollar. He released, or endeavored to release, the Fed from their contractual liability to redeem Fed currency in gold or lawful money on parity with gold. He depreciated the value of the national currency. "The people of the U.S. are now using unredeemable paper slips for money. The Treasury cannot redeem that paper in gold or silver. The gold and silver of the Treasury has unlawfully been given to the corrupt and dishonest Fed. And the Administration has since had the effrontery to raid the country for more gold for the private interests by telling our patriotic citizens that their gold is needed to protect the currency.

"It is not being used to protect the currency! It is being used to protect the corrupt and dishonest Fed. "The directors of these institutions have committed criminal offense against the United States Government, including the offense of making false entries on their books, and the still more serious offense of unlawfully abstracting funds from the United States Treasury! "Roosevelt's gold raid is intended to help them out of the pit they dug for themselves when they gambled away the wealth and savings of the American people. The International Bankers set up a dictatorship here because they wanted a dictator who would protect them. They wanted a dictator who would protect them. They wanted a dictator who would issue a proclamation giving the Fed an absolute and unconditional release from their special currency in gold, or lawful money of any Fed Bank. "Has Roosevelt relieved any other class of debtors in this country from the necessity of paying their debts? Has he made a proclamation telling the farmers that they need not pay their mortgages? Has he made a proclamation to the effect that mothers of starving children need not pay their milk bills? Has he made a proclamation relieving householders from the necessity of paying rent? "Not he! He has issued one kind of proclamation only, and that is a proclamation to relieve international Bankers and the foreign debtors of the United States Government. "Mr. Chairman, the gold in the banks of this country belongs to the American people who have paper money contracts for it in the form of national currency. If the Fed cannot keep their contracts with United States citizens to redeem their paper money in gold, or lawful money, then the Fed must be taken over by the United States Government and their officers must be put on trial. "There must be a day of reckoning. If the Fed have looted the Treasury so that the Treasury cannot redeem the United States currency for which it is liable in gold, then the Fed must be driven out of the Treasury. "Mr. Chairman, a gold certificate is a warehouse receipt for gold in the Treasury, and the man who has a gold certificate is the actual owner of a corresponding amount of gold stacked in the Treasury subject to his order.

"Now comes Roosevelt who seeks to render the money of the United States worthless by unlawfully declaring that it may No Longer be converted into gold at the will of the holder. "Roosevelt's next haul for the International Bankers was the reduction in the pay of all Federal employees. "Next in order are the veterans of all wars, many of whom are aged and infirm, and other sick and disabled. These men had their lives adjusted for them by acts of Congress determining the amounts of the pensions, and, while it is meant that every citizen should sacrifice himself for the good of the United States, I see no reason why those poor people, these aged Civil War Veterans and war widows and half-starved veterans of the World War, should be compelled to give up their pensions for the financial benefit of the International vultures who have looted the Treasury, bankrupted the country and traitorously delivered the United States to a foreign foe. "There are many ways of raising revenue that are better than that barbaric act of injustice. "Why not collect from the Fed the amount they owe the U.S. Treasury in interest on all the Fed currency they have taken from the Government? That would put billions of dollars into the U.S. Treasury. "If FDR is as honest as he pretends to be, he will have that done immediately. And in addition, why not compel the Fed to disclose their profits and to pay the Government its share? "Until this is done, it is rank dishonesty to talk of maintaining the credit of the U.S. Government. "My own salary as a member of Congress has been reduced, and while I am willing to give my part of it that has been taken away from me to the U.S. Government, I regret that the U.S. has suffered itself to be brought so low by the vultures and crooks who are operating the roulette wheels and faro tables in the Fed, that is now obliged to throw itself on the mercy of its legislators and charwomen, its clerks, and it poor pensioners and to take money out of our pockets to make good the defalcations of the International Bankers who were placed in control of the Treasury and given the monopoly of U.S. Currency by the misbegotten Fed. "I am well aware that the International Bankers who drive up to the door of the United States Treasury in their limousines, look down with scorn upon members of Congress because we work for so little, while they draw millions a year. The difference is that we earn, or try to earn, what we get- and they steal the greater part of their takings.

Enemies of the People They Rob

"I do not like to see vivisections performed on human beings. I do not like to see the American people used for experimental purposes by the credit masters of the United States. They predicted among themselves that they would be able to produce a condition here in which American citizens would be completely humbled and left starving and penniless in the streets. "The fact that they made that assertion while they were fomenting their conspiracy against the United States that they like to see a human being, especially an American, stumbling from hunger when he walks. "Something should be done about it, they say. Five-cent meals, or something! "But FDR will not permit the House of Representatives to investigate the condition of the Fed. FDR will not do that. He has certain International Bankers to serve. They not look to him as the man Higher Up who will protect them from the just wrath of an outraged people. "The International Bankers have always hated our pensioners. A man with a small pension is a ward of the Government. He is not dependent upon them for a salary or wages. They cannot control him. They do not like him. It gave them great pleasure, therefore, to slash the veterans. "But FDR will never do anything to embarrass his financial supporters. He will cover up the crimes of the Fed. "Before he was elected, Mr. Roosevelt advocated a return to the earlier practices of the Fed, thus admitting its corruptness. The Democratic platform advocated a change in the personnel of the Fed. These were campaign bait. As a prominent Democrat lately remarked to me; "There is no new deal. The same old crowd is in control." "The claims of foreign creditors of the Fed have no validity in law. The foreign creditors were the receivers- and the willing receivers- of stolen goods! They have received through their banking fences immense amounts of currency, and that currency was unlawfully taken from the United States Treasury by the Fed. "England discovered the irregularities of the Fed quite early in its operations and through fear, apparently, the Fed have for years suffered themselves to be blackmailed and dragooning England to share in the business of the Fed. "The Fed have unlawfully taken many millions of dollars of the public credit of the United States and have given it to foreign sellers on the security of the Debt paper of foreign buyers in purely foreign transactions, and when the foreign buyers refused to meet their obligations and the Fed saw no honest way of getting the stolen goods back into their possession, they decided by control of the executive to make the American people pay their losses!

Conspiracy of War Debts

"They likewise entered into a conspiracy to deprive the people of the U.S. of their title to the war debts and not being able to do that in the way they intended, they are now engaged in an effort to debase the American dollar so that foreign governments will have their debts to this country cut in two, and then by means of other vicious underhanded arrangements, they propose to remit the remainder. "So far as the U.S. is concerned, the gambling counters have no legal standing. The U.S. Treasury cannot be compelled to make good the gambling ventures of the corrupt and dishonest Fed. Still less should the bank deposits of the U.S. be used for that purpose. Still less should the national currency have been made irredeemable in gold so that the gold which was massed and stored to redeem the currency for American citizens may be used to pay the gambling debts of the Fed for England's benefit. "The American people should have their gold in their own possession where it cannot be held under secret agreement for any foreign control bank, or World Bank, or foreign nation. Our own citizens have the prior claim to it. The paper [money men] have in their possession deserves redemption far more than U.S. currency and credit which was stolen from the U.S. Treasury and bootlegged abroad. "Why should the foreigners be made preferred creditors of the bankrupt U.S.? Why should the U.S. be treated as bankrupt at all? This Government has immense sums due it from the Fed. The directors of these institutions are men of great wealth. Why should the guilty escape the consequences of their misdeeds? Why should the people of these U.S. surrender the value of their gold bank deposits to pay off the gambling debts of these Bankers? Why should Roosevelt promise foreigners that the U.S. will play the part of a good neighbor, 'meeting its obligations'? "Let the Fed meet their own obligations. "Every member of the Fed should be compelled to disgorge, and every acceptance banker and every discount corporation which has made illegal profits by means of public credit unlawfully bootlegged out of the U.S. Treasury and hired out by the crooks and vultures of the Fed should be compelled to disgorge.

Federal Reserve Pays No Taxes & Preferred Treatment for Foreigners BankLords

"Gambling debts due to foreign receivers of stolen goods should not be paid by sacrificing our title to our war debts, the assets of the U.S. Treasury- which belong to all the people of the U.S. and which it is our duty to preserve inviolate in the people's treasury. "The U.S. Treasury cannot be made liable for them. The Fed currency must be redeemed by the Fed banks or else these Fed banks must be liquidated. "We know from assertions made here by the Hon. John N. Garner, Vice-President of the U.S. that there is a condition in the [United States such] would cause American citizens, if they knew what it was, to lose all confidence in their government. "That is a condition that Roosevelt will not have investigated. He has brought with him from Wall Street, James Warburg, the son of Paul M. Warburg. Mr. Warburg, alien born, and the son of an alien who did not become naturalized here until several years after this Warburg's birth, is a son of a former partner of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., a grandson of another partner, a nephew of a former partner, and a nephew of a present partner. "He holds no office in our Government, but I am told that he is in daily attendance at the Treasury, and that he has private quarters there! In other words, Mr. Chairman, Kuhn, Loeb and Company now has control and occupy the U.S. Treasury. "The text of the Executive order which seems to place an embargo on shipments of gold permits the Secretary of the Treasury, a former director of the corrupt, to issue licenses at his discretion for the export of gold coin, or bullion, earmarked or held in trust for a recognized foreign government or foreign central bank for international settlement. Now, Mr. Chairman, if gold held in trust for those foreign institutions may be sent to them, I see no reason why gold held in trust for American as evidenced by their gold certificates and other currency issued by the U.S. Government should not be paid to them. "I think that American citizens should be entitled to treatment at least as good as that which the person is extending to foreign governments, foreign central banks, and the bank of International Settlements. I think a veteran of the World war, with a $20.00 gold certificate, is at least as much entitled to receive his own gold for it, as any international banker in the city of New York or London.

"By the terms of this executive order, gold may be exported if it is actually required, for the fulfillment of any contract entered into prior to the date of this order by an applicant who, in obedience to the executive order of April 5, 1933, has delivered gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates. "This means that gold may be exported to pay the obligations abroad of the Fed which were incurred prior to the date of the order, namely, April 20, 1933. "If a European Bank should send 100,000,000 dollars in Fed currency to a bank in this country for redemption, that bank could easily ship gold to Europe in exchange for that currency. Such Fed currency would represent "contracts" entered into prior to the date of the order. If the Bank of International Settlements or any other foreign bank holding any of the present gambling debt paper of the Fed should draw a draft for the settlement of such obligation, gold would be shipped to them because the debt contract would have been entered into prior to the date of order.

Charging the Criminals with the Crimes

"Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of constitutional privilege. "Whereas, I charge. . . Eugene Meyer, Roy A. Young, Edmund Platt, Eugene B. Black, Adolph Casper Miller, Charles S. Hamlin, George R. James, Andrew W. Mellon, Ogden L. Mills, William H. Woo W. Poole, J.F.T. O'Connor, members of the Federal Reserve Board; F. H. Curtis, J.H. Chaney, R.L. Austin, George De Camp, L.B. Williams, W.W. Hoxton, Oscar Newton, E.M. Stevens, J.S. Wood, J.N. Payton, M.L. McClure, C.C. Walsh, Isaac B. Newton, Federal Reserve Agents, jointly and severally, with violations of the Constitution and laws of the United States, and whereas I charge them with having taken funds from the U.S. Treasury which were not appropriated by the Congress of the United States, and I charge them with having unlawfully taken over $80,000,000,000 from the U.S. Government in the year 1928, the said unlawful taking consisting of the unlawful creation of claims against the U.S. Treasury to the extent of over $80,000,000,000 in the year 1928; and I charge them with similar thefts committed in 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1933, and in years previous to 1928, amounting to billions of dollars; and

"Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally with having unlawfully created claims against the U.S. Treasury by unlawfully placing U.S. Government credit in specific amounts to the credit of foreign governments and foreign central banks of issue; private interests and commercial and private banks of the U.S. and foreign countries, and branches of foreign banks doing business in the U.S., to the extent of billions of dollars; and with having made unlawful contracts in the name of the U.S. Government and the U.S. Treasury; and with having made false entries on books of account; and "Whereas I charge them jointly and severally, with having taken Fed Notes from the U.S. Treasury and with having put Fed Notes into circulation without obeying the mandatory provision of the Fed Act which requires the Fed Board to fix an interest rate on all issues of Fed Notes supplied to Fed Banks, the interest resulting therefrom to be paid by the Fed Banks to the government of the U.S. for the use of the Fed Notes, and I charge them of having defrauded the U.S. Government and the people of the U.S. of billions of dollars by the commission of this crime, and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having purchased U.S. Government securities with U.S. Government credit unlawfully taken and with having sold the said U.S. Government securities back to the people of the U.S. for gold or gold values and with having again purchased U.S. Government securities with U.S. Government credit unlawfully taken and with having again sold the said U.S. Government security for gold or gold values, and I charge them with having defrauded the U.S. Government and the people of the U.S. by this rotary process; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having unlawfully negotiated U.S. Government securities, upon which the Government liability was extinguished, as collateral security for Fed Notes and with having substituted such securities for gold which was being held as collateral security for Fed Notes, and with having by the process defrauded the U.S. Government and the people of the U.S., and I charge them with the theft of all the gold and currency they obtained by this process; and

"Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having unlawfully issued Fed currency on false, worthless and fictitious acceptances and other circulating evidence of debt, and with having made unlawful advances of Fed currency, and with having unlawfully permitted renewals of acceptances and renewals of other circulating evidences of debt, and with having permitted acceptance Bankers and discount dealer corporations and other private Bankers to violate the banking laws of the U.S.; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having conspired to have evidences of debt to the extent of $1,000,000,000 artificially created at the end of February, 1933, and early in March 1933, and with having made unlawful issues and advances of Fed currency on the security of said artificially created evidences of debt for a sinister purpose, and with having assisted in the execution of said sinister purpose; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having brought about the repudiation of the currency obligations of the Fed Banks to the people of the U.S. and with having conspired to obtain a release for the Fed Board and the Fed Banks from their contractual liability to redeem all Fed currency in gold or lawful money at the Fed Bank and with having defrauded the holders of Fed currency, and with having conspired to have the debts and losses of the Fed Board and the Fed Banks unlawfully transferred to the Government and the people of the U.S., and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having unlawfully substituted Fed currency and other irredeemable paper currency for gold in the hands of the people after the decision to repudiate the Fed currency and the national currency was made known to them, and with thus having obtained money under false pretenses; and

"Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having brought about a repudiation of the notes of the U.S. in order that the gold value of the said currency might be given to private interests, foreign governments, foreign central banks of issue, and the Bank of International Settlements, and the people of the U.S. to be left without gold or lawful money and with no currency other than a paper currency irredeemable in gold, and I charge them with having done this for the benefit of private interests, foreign governments, foreign central banks of issue, and the bank of International Settlements; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with conniving with the Edge Law banks, and other Edge Law institutions, accepting banks, and discount corporations, foreign central banks of issue, foreign commercial banks, foreign corporations, and foreign individuals with funds unlawfully taken from the U.S. Treasury; and I charge them with having unlawfully permitted and made possible 'new financing' for foreigners at the expense of the U.S. Treasury to the extent of billions of dollars and with having unlawfully permitted and made possible the bringing into the United States of immense quantities of foreign securities, created in foreign countries for export to the U.S. and with having unlawfully permitted the said foreign securities to be imported into the U.S. instead of gold, which was lawfully due to the U.S. on trade balances and otherwise, and with having lawfully permitted and facilitated the sale of the said foreign securities in the U.S., and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having unlawfully exported U.S. coins and currency for a sinister purpose, and with having deprived the people of the U.S. of their lawful medium of exchange, and I charge them with having arbitrarily and unlawfully reduced the amount of money and currency in circulation in the U.S. to the lowest rate per capita in the history of the Government, so that the great mass of the people have been left without a sufficient medium of exchange, and I charge them with concealment and evasion in refusing to make known the amount of U.S. money in coins and paper currency exported and the amount remaining in the U.S. as a result of which refusal the Congress of the U.S. is unable to ascertain where the U.S. coins and issues of currency are at the present time, and what amount of U.S. currency is now held abroad; and

"Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having arbitrarily and unlawfully raised and lowered the rates of money and with having arbitrarily increased and diminished the volume of currency in circulation for the benefit of private interests at the expense of the Government and the people of the U.S. and with having unlawfully manipulated money rates, wages, salaries and property values both real and personal, in the U.S. by unlawful operations in the open discount market and by resale and repurchase agreements unsanctioned by law, and "Whereas I charge them jointly and severally, with having brought about the decline in prices on the New York Stock Exchange and other exchanges in October, 1929, by unlawful manipulation of money rates and the volume of U.S. money and currency in circulation: by theft of funds from the U.S. Treasury by gambling in acceptances and U.S. Government securities; by service rendered to foreign and domestic speculators and politicians, and by unlawful sale of U.S. gold reserves abroad, and "Whereas the unconstitutional inflation law imbedded in the so-called Farm Relief Act by which the Fed Banks are given permission to buy U.S. Government securities to the extent of $3,000,000,000 and to drew forth currency from the people's Treasury to the extent of $3,000,000,000 is likely to result in connivance on the part of said accused with others in the purchase by the Fed of the U.S. Government securities to the extent of $3,000,000,000 with U.S. Government's own credit unlawfully taken, it being obvious that the Fed do no not intend to pay anything of value to the U.S. Government for the said U.S. Government securities no provision for payment in gold or lawful money appearing in the so-called Farm Relief bill- and the U.S. Government will thus be placed in a position of conferring a gift of $3,000,000,000 in the U.S. Government securities on the Fed to enable them to pay more on their bad debts to foreign governments, foreign central banks of issue, private interests, and private and commercial banks, both foreign and domestic, and the Bank of International Settlements, and

"Whereas the U.S. Government will thus go into debt to the extent of $3,000,000,000 and will then have an additional claim of $3,000,000,000 in currency unlawfully created against it and whereas no private interest should be permitted to buy U.S. Government securities with the Government's own credit unlawfully taken and whereas currency should not be issued for the benefit of said private interest or any interests on U.S. Government securities so acquired, and whereas it has been publicly stated and not denied that the inflation amendment of the Farm Relief Act is the matter of benefit which was secured by Ramsey MacDonald, the Prime Minister of Great Britain, upon the occasion of his latest visit to the U.S. Treasury, and whereas there is grave danger that the accused will employ the provision creating U.S. Government securities to the extent of $3,000,000,000 and three millions in currency to be issuable thereupon for the benefit of themselves and their foreign principals, and that they will convert the currency so obtained to the uses of Great Britain by secret arrangements with the Bank of England of which they are the agents, and for which they maintain an account and perform services at the expense of the U.S. Treasury, and that they will likewise confer benefits upon the Bank of International Settlements for which they maintain an account and perform services at the expense of the U.S. Treasury; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having concealed the insolvency of the Fed and with having failed to report the insolvency of the Fed to the Congress and with having conspired to have the said insolvent institutions continue in operation, and with having permitted the said insolvent institutions to receive U.S. Government funds and other deposits, and with having permitted them to exercise control over the gold reserves of the U.S. and with having permitted them to transfer upward of $100,000,000,000 of their debts and losses to the general public and the Government of the U.S., and with having permitted foreign debts of the Fed to be paid with the property, the savings, the wages, and the salaries of the people of the U.S. and with the farms and the homes of the American people, and whereas I charge them with forcing the bad debts of the Fed upon the general public covertly and dishonestly and with taking the general wealth and savings of the people of the U.S. under false pretenses, to pay the debts of the Fed to foreigners; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with violations of the Fed Act and other laws; with maladministration of the evasions of the Fed Law and other laws; and with having unlawfully failed to report violations of law on the part of the Fed Banks which, if known, would have caused the Fed Banks to lose their charters, and

"Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with failure to protect and maintain the gold reserves and the gold stock and gold coinage of the U.S. and with having sold the gold reserves of the U.S. to foreign Governments, foreign central banks of issue, foreign commercial and private banks, and other foreign institutions and individuals at a profit to themselves, and I charge them with having sold gold reserves of the U.S. so that between 1924 and 1928 the U.S. gained no gold on net account but suffered a decline in its percentage of central gold reserves from the 45.9 percent in 1924 to 37.5 percent in 1928 notwithstanding the fact that the U.S. had a favorable balance of trade throughout that period, and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having conspired to concentrate U.S. Government securities and thus the national debt of the U.S. in the hands of foreigners and international money lenders and with having conspired to transfer to foreigners and international money lenders title to and control of the financial resources of the U.S.; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having fictitiously paid installments on the national debt with Government credit unlawfully taken; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with the loss of the U.S. Government funds entrusted to their care; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having destroyed independent banks in the U.S. and with having thereby caused losses amounting to billions of dollars to the said banks, and to the general public of the U.S., and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with the failure to furnish true reports of the business operations and the true conditions of the Fed to the Congress and the people, and having furnished false and misleading reports to the congress of the U.S., and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having published false and misleading propaganda intended to deceive the American people and to cause the U.S. to lose its independence; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with unlawfully allowing Great Britain to share in the profits of the Fed at the expense of the Government and the people of the U.S.; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having entered into secret agreements and illegal transactions with Montague Norman, Governor of the Bank of England; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with swindling the U.S. Treasury and the people of the U.S. in pretending to have received payment from Great Britain of the amount due on the British war debt to the U.S. in December, 1932; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having conspired with their foreign principals and others to defraud the U.S. Government and to prevent the people of the U.S. from receiving payment of the war debts due to the U.S. from foreign nations; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with having robbed the U.S. Government and the people of the U.S. by their theft and sale of the gold reserves of the U.S. and other unlawful transactions created a deficit in the U.S. Treasury, which has necessitated to a large extent the destruction of our national defense and the reduction of the U.S. Army and the U.S. Navy and other branches of the national defense; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, of having reduced the U.S. from a first class power to one that is dependent, and with having reduced the U.S. from a rich and powerful nation to one that is internationally poor; and "Whereas I charge them, jointly and severally, with the crime of having treasonable conspired and acted against the peace and security of the U.S. and with having treasonable conspired to destroy constitutional Government in the U.S. "Resolve, That the Committee on the Judiciary is authorized and directed as a whole or by subcommittee, to investigate the official conduct of the Fed agents to determine whether, in the opinion of the said committee, they have been guilty of any high crime or misdemeanor which in the contemplation the Constitution requires the interposition of the Constitutional powers of the House. Such Committee shall report its finding to the House, together with such resolution or resolutions of impeachment or other recommendations as it deems proper.

"For the purpose of this resolution the Committee is authorized to sit and act during the present Congress at such times and places in the District of Columbia or elsewhere, whether or not the House is sitting, has recessed or has adjourned, to hold such clerical, stenographic, and other assistants, to require of such witnesses and the production of such books, papers, and documents, to take such testimony, to have such printing and binding done, and to make such expenditures as it deems necessary." After some discussion and upon the motion of Mr. Byrns, the resolution and charge was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Stealing America's Gold

Congressman McFadden Congressional Record, June 14, 1934: "At that time a man named Jacob Schiff came to this country as the agent of certain foreign money lenders. His mission was to get control of American railroads. This man was a Jew. He was the son of a rabbi. He was born in one of the Rothschilds's houses in Frankfurt, Germany. He was a small fellow with a pleasant face and, if I remember correctly, his eyes were blue. At an early age he set out from Frankfort to seek his fortune and went to Hamburg, Germany. At Hamburg he entered the Warburg banking establishment. The Warburgs of Hamburg are bankers of long standing, with branches in Amsterdam and Sweden..... Sometime before Schiff's arrival there was a firm of Jewish peddlers or merchants in Lafayette, Ind., by the name of Kuhn & Loeb. I think they were there about 1850. Probably they made money out of the new settlers who passed through Indiana on their way to the Northwest. This firm of Jews had finally moved to New York and had set themselves up as private bankers and had grown rich. Jacob Schiff married Teresa Loeb and became the head of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Schiff made a great deal of money here for himself and for the Jewish money lenders of London. He began to give orders to Presidents almost as a matter of course. He appears to have been a man who would stop at nothing to gain his own ends. I do not blame him for being a Jew. I blame him for being a trouble maker. Russia had a powerful enemy in this man, Jacob Schiff. The people of the United States were to believe that this enmity of his was caused by wrongs done to Russian Jews. I look ELSEWHERE for the motives which animated him. In the 1890's Schiff was the agent in this country of Ernest Cassell and other London money lenders. These money lenders were looking forward to a war between England and Russia and were making preparations for propaganda designed to support England in the United States. This country was then a debtor nation, paying a high yearly tribute to Schiff and his principals. Schiff accordingly took it upon himself to create a prejudice in the United States against Russia. He did this by presenting the supposed wrongs of the Russian Jews to the American public. Unpleasant tales began to appear in print. School children in this country were told the Jewish children were crippled for life by Russian soldiers wielding the knout. By unfair means a wedge was driven between Russia and the United States."

[Hard to believe that we could be so stupid as to fall for these deceptions again in the Jew's Russian Revolution, their First and Second World Wars, Chinese Revolution, Cold War, Drug War, holocaust, "stolen generation" of Australian, Aboriginal children and so-on, ad nauseum. Back to the Congressional Record].

"One of Schiff's schemes was a sort of wholesale importation of Russian Jews into the United States. He drew up divers and sundry regulations for the temporary transplantation of these Jewish emigrants. He would not, he said, have them enter this country through the port of New York, because they might like New York too well to leave it for the outposts he had selected for them. He said it would be best to have them come in at New Orleans and to have them stay there 2 weeks, "so that they could pick up a few words of English and get a little money" before setting off for what he called the "American hinterland." How they were to get the money he did not say. Aided by Schiff and his associates, many Russian Jews came to this country about that time and were naturalized here. A number of these naturalized Jews then returned to Russia. Upon their return to that country, they immediately claimed exemption there from the regulations of domicile imposed on Jews; that is, they claimed the right to live on purely Russian soil because they were American citizens, or "Yankee" Jews. Disorders occurred and were exploited in the American press. Riots and bombings and assassinations, for which SOMEBODY furnished money, took place. The perpetrators of these outrages appear to have been shielded by powerful financial interests. While this was going on in Russia, a shameless campaign of LYING was conducted here, and large sums of money were spent to make the general American public believe that the Jews in Russia were a simple and guileless folk ground down by the Russians and needing the protection of the great benefactor, of all the World -- Uncle Sam. In other words, we were DECEIVED. We were so DECEIVED that we allowed them to come in here and to take the bread out of the mouths of our own American citizens. I now come to the time when war was declared between Russia and Japan. This was bought about by a skillful use of Japan so that England would not have to fight Russia in India. It was cheaper and more convenient for England to have Japan fight Russia than to do it herself. As was to be expected, Schiff and his London associates FINANCED Japan. They drew immense quantities of money out of the United States for that purpose. The background for the loans they floated in this country had been skillfully prepared. The "sob stuff", of which Schiff was a master, had sunk into the hearts of sympathetic Americans. The loans were a great success. Millions of American dollars were sent to Japan by Schiff and his London associates. England's stranglehold on India was made secure. Russia was prevented from entering the Khyber Pass and falling on India from the northwest. Japan at the same time was built up and became a great World power, and as such is now facing us in the Pacific. All this was accomplished by control of the organs of American publicity, releases to the effect that Russian Jews and "Yankee" Jews were being persecuted in Russia, and by the selling of Japanese war bonds to American citizens. While the Russo-Japanese War was in progress President Theodore Roosevelt offered to act as peacemaker, and a conference between representatives of the belligerents was arranged to take place at Portsmouth, N.H. When the Portsmouth Conference took place, Jacob Schiff attended it and used such influence as he had with Theodore Roosevelt to win favors for Japan at the expense of Russia. His main object, then as always, was HUMILIATION of Russians, whose only crime was that they were Russians and NOT Jews. He endeavored to humiliate the Russians, but Count Witte, the Russian plenipotentiary, did not allow him to succeed in this attempt. Schiff's power and the power of his organized propaganda were well understood by Count Witte, however. Consequently he was not surprised when President Roosevelt, who was often deceived, (and also a Jew) twice asked him to have Russia treat Russian Jews who had become naturalized in the United States and who had thereafter returned to live in Russia with special consideration; that is, not as Jews but as Americans. Witte carried home a letter from Roosevelt embodying this plea. Mr. Speaker, the restrictions upon Jews in Russia at that time may or may not have been onerous. But onerous or not, before the Russians had time to change them, Schiff had the 80-year-old-treaty of friendship and good will between Russia and the United States denounced. Speaking of this matter, Count Witte says in his autobiography: "The Russians lost the friendship of the American people." Mr. Speaker, I cannot believe that those people -- the REAL Russians -- ever lost the true friendship of the American people. They were done away with to suit the ambitions of those who intend to be the financial masters of the World, and some of us were deceived into thinking that in some mysterious way they, themselves, were to blame. The chasm that suddenly opened between ourselves and our old friends and well-wishers in Russia was a chasm created by Schiff the vindictive in HIS inhuman greed and he created it in the NAME of the Jewish religion.... Mr. Speaker, the people of the United States should not permit financial interests or any other special interests to dictate the foreign policy of the United States Government. But in this connection history is now REPEATING itself. You have heard, no doubt, of the SO-CALLED persecutions of Jews in Germany.

Mr. Speaker, there is no REAL persecution of Jews in Germany. Hitler and the Warburgs, the Mendelsohns and the Rothschilds, appear to be on the best of terms. There is no real persecution of the Jews in Germany, but there has been a PRETENDED persecution of them because there are 200,000 unwanted COMMUNISTIC Jews in Germany, largely Galician Jews (Ashkenazim or Khazars) who entered Germany after World War I, and Germany is very anxious to get rid of those particular Communistic Jews. The Germans wish to preserve the purity of their own blond racial stock. They are willing to keep rich Jews like Max Warburg and Franz Mendelssohn, whose families have lived in Germany so long that they have acquired some German national characteristics. But the Germans are not willing to keep the Galician Jews, the Upstarts. So a great show is put on, largely by German Jews THEMSELVES, in the hope that Uncle Sam will prove himself to be as FOOLISH as he was before and that we will allow those Galician and Communistic Jews to come in here. That is why Miss Perking has been PLACED in charge of the Department of Labor. She is there to LOWER the immigration bars. It is thought that, being a woman, she may disarm criticism. She is an old hand with the international Jewish bankers. If she were not, she would not be here in a JEWISH-CONTROLLED administration. (And in 1999 America STILL has a "Jewish-controlled Administration").

When the so-called "anti-Semitic campaign" DESIGNED for American consumption was launched in Germany, France was alarmed because she feared the Galician Jews might be dumped on French soil. French newspapers published articles concerning the MENACE, but now that France has been shown that the PURPOSE of the anti-Semitic campaign is to dump the 200,000 communistic Jews on the UNITED STATES she is worried no longer. "Ah", she says, "Uncle Sam, he is to be the goat. Very good." Mr. Speaker, I regard it as a pity that there are Americans who love to fawn upon the MONEY Jews and to flatter them. Some of these UNFORTUNATES are under obligations to Jewish money changers and DARE not cross them.... You have witnessed the UNLAWFUL seizure by Franklin D. Roosevelt of gold reserves and other values belonging to the people of the United States, the destruction of banks, the attempted whitewashing of the Federal Reserve Board and Federal Reserve banks, the CORRUPTION of which he ADMITTED in his campaign harangues; and you may have noticed that what was confiscated is NOT in the hands of the present constitutional Government but in the hands of the INTERNATIONAL BANKERS who are the NUCLEUS of the new government Roosevelt is seeking to establish here. Roosevelt's actions are NOT in accordance with the Constitution of the United States. They are in accordance with the plans of the Third International.

At one time Trotsky was a favorite with Jacob Schiff. During the war Trotsky edited "Novy Mir" and conducted mass meetings in New York. When he left the United States to return to Russia, he is said upon good authority to have traveled on Schiff's money and under Schiff's protection. He was captured by the British at Halifax and immediately, on advice from a highly placed personage, set free. Shortly after his arrival in Russia he was informed that he had credit in Sweden at the Swedish branch of the bank owned by Max Warburg, of Hamburg. This credit helped to finance the SEIZURE of the Russian revolution by the international Jewish bankers. It assisted them in SUBVERTING it to their own ends. At the present time the Soviet Union is in DEBT. From the date of Trotsky's return to Russia the course of Russian history has, indeed, been greatly affected by the operations of international bankers. They have acted through German and English institutions and have kept Russia in BONDAGE to themselves. Their relatives in Germany have drawn immense sums of money FROM the United States and have in turn FINANCED their agents in Russia at a handsome profit. The Soviet Government has been given United States Treasury funds by the Federal Reserve banks acting through the Chase Bank and the Guaranty Trust Co. and other banks in New York City. England, no less than Germany, has drawn money from us through the Federal Reserve banks and has re-lent it at high rates of interest to the Soviet Government or has used it to finance her sales to Soviet Russia and her engineering works within the Russian boundaries. The Dnieperstroy Dam was built with funds UNLAWFULLY taken from the United States Treasury by the corrupt and dishonest Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve banks.... Mr. Speaker, an immense amount of United States money has been used abroad in preparations for WAR and in the acquisition and the manufacture of WAR supplies. Germany is said to be part owner of a large poison-gas factory at Troitsk on Russian soil. China is almost completely Sovietized, and in the Asiatic interior huge stocks of munitions are said to be stored awaiting the day when the WAR LORDS of the United States will ship United States troops to Asia. Mr. Speaker, the United States should look before it leaps into another war, especially a war in Asia. It should decide whether it is worth while to join hands with Russia and China in a war against Japan. For myself, I say and I have said it often that the United States should remember George Washington's advice. It should mind its own business and stay home. It should not permit the Jewish international bankers to drive it into another war so that they and their Gentile FRONTS and SYCOPHANTS by way of Louis McHenry Howe, the GRAFTMASTER, may reap rich profits on everything an army needs from toilet kits to airplanes, submarines, tanks, gas masks, poison gas, ammunition, bayonets, guns, and other paraphernalia and instruments of destruction." Congressional Record, June 15, 1934.

More from Congressman McFadden: "The Congress of the United States must immediately throw the searchlight of investigation into this dark corner, or we are going to be swamped with political influences that are manufactured in foreign countries and that will lead us to the surrender of our heritage of living, just as has been done on former occasions. Just as we did, for example, when we entered into the Jay Treaty with England, which was ratified on June 24, 1795, whereby we needlessly surrendered our right to the freedom of the seas. We fought the War of 1812 to regain this right, but the same political influences prevented even a discussion of this subject at the treaty which terminated that war. President Wilson vowed to regain the freedom of the seas at the Treaty of Versailles; but did we regain it? Is the Jay Treaty still in force?".... "I stand here and say to you that I have studied these records, and not only did we adopt this monetary policy WITHOUT DEBATE, not only did we adopt it WITHOUT CONSIDERATION but we adopted it without even KNOWLEDGE of what we were doing! It was a piece of legislative TRICKERY; it was a piece of work in the committee that was silent and secretive. Even MEMBERS of the committee did NOT KNOW what was being done, according to their own declarations. The President and Members of the House did not know they were acting on such a measure. But, as I have said before, the shadow of the hand of England rests over this enactment" Congressional Record, January 8, 1934.

Congressman Fiesinger: "You will recall the gentleman spoke about Professor Sprague, who was in the Treasury Department as adviser to the Treasury after he came as adviser for the Bank of England. He was also monetary adviser to the Economic Conference in London."..... "I was just going to remark that very thing, that the power to "coin and fix the value of money" is solely within the power of the Congress of the United States and it cannot be delegated to anybody else in the World."

Congressman McFadden: "Will the gentleman yield further?" Congressman Fiesinger: "I do." Congressman McFadden: "What does the gentleman say in regard to the delegation of that power to the Federal Reserve System?".... Congressman Fiesinger: "I say it is ILLEGAL. I say it is UNCONSTITUTIONAL, as far as it affects the value of basic money. Power to control credits may be in a different class." Congressman McFadden: "The gentleman recognizes that that was done, does he not?" Congressman Fiesinger: "Well, I think I recognize that fact; but it may be that Congress intended to delegate banking and credit control and not the control of the basic money values." Congressman McFadden: "The Federal Reserve System has the power to issue Federal Reserve notes, which circulate as money?" Congressman Fiesinger: "It has. Of course, they are promises to pay. They are credits or I O U's of the bank." Congressman McFadden: "And that power was delegated by Congress in the Federal Reserve Act." Congressman Fiesinger: "Yes, sir; with the intent to regulate the volume of credit." Congressman McFadden: "And is being pursued by them, which gives the Federal Reserve System CONTROL over the money and credit in the United States.".... Congressman Mott: "What does the gentleman say about the delegation by Congress to the President to fix the value of money, under the farm bill?" Congressman Fiesinger: "I think it was ILLEGAL, and the President did not want it. It was forced upon him. He never asked to have the amendment attached to the Farm Bill. It was forced upon him, and he is exercising the power because he was forced to exercise it; a power that he never wanted, and I say it is all illegal and unconstitutional.".... Congressman McFadden: "If the gentleman has been familiar with the activities of Dr. Sprague over the history of the Federal Reserve System, he well knows that Dr. Sprague has been in ALL of the conferences, practically, between the Bank of England, officers of the Federal Reserve bank in New York and other central banks, which have had for their purpose the dealing with national and international price levels. That was one of the functions that he was exercising as expert adviser of the Bank of England." Congressman Fiesinger: "Now, I understand that Dr. Sprague at the London conference was willing to peg the dollar to the British pound at $3.50, and, if he had done that, the price levels in America would have been in the control of the Bank of England, and it would have been so low it would have wrecked our national economy." Congressman Lamneck: "Will the gentleman please insert at this point what Dr. Sprague said about who should control the price level?" Congressman Fiesinger: "I may say, I did not expect to answer that question, but Dr. Sprague, in a conference he had, stated he believed that the value of gold should be CONTROLLED by the British, because they were more competent, from banking experience, so to do" Congressional Record, January 8, 1934.

Congressman McFadden: "Why should the United States be buying gold and paying $35 and ounce for it? Why Should the United States be making Great Britain a present of $14.33 and ounce on the hundreds of millions of dollars of British gold that is being shipped to the United States through this process by favoring four London gold brokers? Why should the United States set a price of $35 and pay Great Britain an increase of $14.33 on every ounce of gold? This is interesting when you consider that three fourths of all the gold produced in the World is produced in the British Empire. Did we do this because Great Britain demanded it? Is it possible that this $14.33 profit to Great Britain on every ounce of gold shipped into the United States is for settlement of a DEBT that the United States owes to Great Britain? Congressional Record, February 20, 1934. Congressman McFadden: "I am quoting from the President's message to Congress on this very measure. I quote: "That the title of all gold be in the Government. The total stock will serve as a permanent and fixed metallic reserve which will change in amount only as far as necessary for the settlement of international balances or as may be required by future agreement among nations of the World for a redistribution of the World stock of monetary gold.".... Congressman McFadden: "I say again what I have repeatedly said, that there is a DEFINITE PLAN for the redistribution of the gold of THIS country and of the WORLD'S gold. The plan has been known ever since the establishment of the Bank for International Settlements that through that medium, or one similar to it, eventually the redistribution of gold would take place" Congressional Record, January 20, 1934. Congressman McFadden: "The gentleman, of course, is aware of the fact that the Council of the Federation of Churches of [Anti-]Christ is an offshoot of the Carnegie Foundation which is operating in this country as a British-PROPAGANDA organization, tied up with all of the other subversive organizations which are trying to hold down proper preparedness in the United States. [Applause] Congressional Record, January 30, 1934.

Congressman Weideman: "So the paramount issue of today is this: Shall the Government of the United States be run for the benefit of the INTERNATIONAL BANKERS, or shall the CITIZENS of the United States be given the right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness"? Shall we replace the Statue of Liberty with the golden statue erected to the god of GREED? Shall we forget that the only time our Savior used force was when he drove the money changers from the temple? Let us reestablish the principle that we all believe in: That all men are entitled to a right to work, to own their own homes, to reap a just reward for their labors, and to enjoy nature's sunshine as God intended. We owe it to our children that we shall not depart and leave them in a condition of bondage and slavery to organized greed and gold. . ." Congressional Record, March 3, 1934.

Congressman Patman: "...A Federal Reserve bank has a great privilege. It has the right to issue a blanket mortgage on all the property of all the people of this country. It is called a Federal Reserve note. For that privilege section 16 of the Act provides that when the Government prints a Federal Reserve note and guarantees to pay that note and delivers it to a Federal Reserve bank, that Federal Reserve bank shall pay -- it seems to be mandatory -- the rate of interest that is set by the Federal Reserve Board. THE LAW HAS NEVER BEEN PUT INTO EFFECT. The Federal Reserve Board sets the ZERO rate. Instead of CHARGING an interest rate which the law says they shall charge, they set NO rate at all. Therefore, for the use of this great Government credit -- These blanket mortgages that are issued against all the PROPERTY of all the people of this Nation and against the INCOMES of all the people of this Nation, they do not pay one penny. NOT ONE PENNY OF THE STACK OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS IS OWNED BY THE GOVERNMENT OR THE PEOPLE -- IT IS OWNED BY PRIVATE BANKS EXCLUSIVELY. Congressional Record June 14 1934.

The US is Still a British Colony

" . . . are not all States divided into military Districts? At first glance you may not think so. However, look at your District Courts, in your State. They are the enforcement arm of the admiralty law/kings law and legislation passed on a daily basis. As I said before, the voting Districts are also left over from the Reconstruction Acts. In every court room a military flag is flown, a war flag not the Title 4, flag of peace. Are you not required to obtain a license from the de facto government for every aspect of commerce, and the use of their military script/flat money? Americans are taxed and controlled in the following ways, to name a few <http://www.freedomlaw.com/BRCOLONY.html> :

1. Social Security number -- license to work.
2. Drivers license -- permission to conduct commerce and travel on the military roads.
3. Occupational license -- permission to perform a God given right.
4. State and local privilege license -- license to work in the State, county or city.
5. Marriage license -- permission for a right granted by God Almighty.
6. Hunting and Fishing license -- government taxing property of God Almighty, etc.etc.etc.

Every license or permit is a use tax and is financial slavery, you are controlled in every aspect of your life. All licenses came about after the Fourteenth Amendment and the military occupation, which we are now under. The reason all this has taken place in America is, to colonize the World for Britain. The United States has been the enforcement arm/cannon-fodder for Britain since the Civil War." (Anyone familiar with Senator Lyndon LaRouche will now understand what he MEANS. The Black Nobility and the international banksters by the aid of the lawyers whom Yashua-Joshua-Jesus constantly rebuked, have always controlled the USA. And because of material blessings, the citizens let down the bars, just like the churches. Lucifer's servants and devotees have the US imprisoned NOW. Democracy in America ended over 100 years ago at the very latest. The Fourteenth Amendment was ratified in a criminal way in 1868. Americans should read it, it is your Bill of Sale into slavery.

James Montgomery's research: "Now, this leads us up to 1933. Our country was recovering from a depression and now was declared bankrupt. I know you are saying. So What, the American people were never told about this? Public policy and National Security overruled the public right to know. Read the following Congressional quote:

Congressman Dies: "My investigation convinced me that during the last quarter of a century the average production of gold has been falling off considerably. The gold mines of the World are practically exhausted. There is only about $11,000,000,000 in gold in the World, with the United States owning a little more than four billions. We have more than $100,000,000,000 in debts payable in gold of the present weight and fineness....As a practical proposition these contracts cannot be collected in gold for the obvious reason that the gold supply of the entire World is not sufficient to make payment." Congressional Record, March 15, 1933.

Before 1933 all contracts with the government were payable in gold. Now I ask you? Who in their right mind would enter into contracts totaling One Hundred billion dollars in gold, when there was only eleven billion in gold in the whole World? We had about four billion. To keep from being hung by the American public they obeyed the banksters demands and turned over our country to them. They never came out and said we were in bankruptcy but, the fact remains, we are. In 1933 the gold of the whole country had to be turned in to the banksters, and all government contracts in gold were canceled. This is bankruptcy. Congressman Traficant: "Mr. Speaker, we are here now in chapter 11. Members of Congress are official trustees presiding over the greatest reorganization of any bankrupt entity in World history, the U.S. government" Congressional Redord, March 17, 1993.

The wealth of the nation including our land was turned over to the banksters. In return, the nations 100 billion dollar debt was forgiven. Remember, Yashua-Joshua-Jesus said "money is the root of all evil" The Congress of 1933 sold every American into slavery. Read the following Congressional record from Congressman Patman: "I want to show you where the people are being imposed upon by reason of the delegation of this tremendous power. I invite your attention to the fact that section 16 of the Federal Reserve Act provides that whenever the Government of the United States issues and delivers money, Federal Reserve notes, which are based on the credit of the Nation -- they represent a mortgage upon your home and my home, and upon all the property of all the people of the Nation -- to the Federal Reserve agent, an interest charge shall be collected for the Government" Congressional Record, March 13, 1933.

Congressman Long: "That is the equity of what we are about to do. Yes; you are going to close us down. Yes; you have already closed us down, and have been doing it long before this year. Our President says that for 3 years we have been on the way to bankruptcy. We have been on the way to bankruptcy longer than 3 years. We have been on the way to bankruptcy ever since we began to allow the financial mastery of this country gradually to get into the hands of a little clique that has held it right up until they would send us to the grave" Congress March 11 1933,

What did Roosevelt do? Sealed our fate and our children's fate, but worst of all, he declared War on the American People, remember the War Powers Act, the Trading With the Enemy Act. He declared emergency powers with his authority being the War Powers Act, the Trading With the Enemy Act. The problem is he REDEFINED who the enemy was, read the following: (remember what I said about the Social Security Number being a license to work)? "The declared National Emergency of March 9, 1933 amended the War Powers Act to include the American PEOPLE as enemies: "In Title 1, Section 1 it says: The actions, regulations, rules, licenses, orders and proclamations heretofore or hereafter taken, promulgated, made, or issued by the President of the United States or the Secretary of the Treasury since March 4, 1933, pursuant to the authority conferred by subdivision (b) of section 5 of the Act of October 6, 1917, as amended, are hereby approved and confirmed." "Section 2. Subdivision (b) of section 5 of the Act of October 6, 1917, (40 Stat. L. 411), as amended, is hereby amended to read as follows: emergency declared by the President, the President may, through any agency that he may designate, or otherwise, investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit between or payments by banking institutions as defined by the President, and export, hoarding, melting, or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency, BY ANY PERSON WITHIN THE UNITED STATES OR ANY PLACE SUBJECT TO THE JURISDICTION THEREOF." Here is the legal phrase "subject to the jurisdiction thereof" but at law this refers to alien enemy and also applies to Fourteenth Amendment citizens:"

Now, what do you think of this? The Department of Motor Vehicles was put under the direction and control of the Revenue Department by the Act of 1933, chapter 214 - S.B 238, thereby the primary concern is that of being revenue collectors. "AN ACT TO TRANSFER THE STATE HIGHWAY PATROL FROM THE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT TO THE DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE...."

"Attacks on McFadden's Life Reported"

Before McFadden could bring impeachment proceeding against the Federal Reserve, he was poisoned. Commenting on Former Congressman Louis T. McFaddens's "heart-failure sudden-death" on Oct. 3, 1936, after a "dose" of "intestinal flu," "Pelley's Weekly" of Oct. 14 said: Now that this sterling American patriot has made the Passing, it can be revealed that not long after his public utterance against the encroaching powers of Judah, it became known among his intimates that he had suffered two attacks against his life. The first attack came in the form of two revolver shots fired at him from ambush as he was alighting from a cab in front of one of the Capital hotels. Fortunately both shots missed him, the bullets burying themselves in the structure of the cab. "He became violently ill after partaking of food at a political banquet at Washington. His life was only saved from what was subsequently announced as a poisoning by the presence of a physician friend at the banquet, who at once procured a stomach pump and subjected the Congressman to emergency treatment." /s/ Robert Edward Edmondson (Publicist-Economist)

Gunther K. Russbacher 1991: Congressman Charles Lindbergh, Sr., the father of the famous aviator, was among those who fought the passage of the dark Act and later managed to raise an investigation into the cartel. His life was made extremely difficult as a direct result of crying for such investigation. Lindbergh had openly yelled his warning to Congress and to the American people. It was all to no avail. No one would hear his cry in the wilderness. It must be noted that Lindbergh's efforts to expose the plot were followed by those of Congressman Louis T. McFadden, who chaired the House Banking and Currency Committee for a ten year period. During his tenure, three attempts were made on his life. First, he was shot in Washington, D.C., then his food was poisoned. The third attempt was unfortunately successful. His mysterious death occurred while on a visit to New York City. The cause of death, as listed on the death certificate, was given as "heart failure", although more than enough evidence pointed to poisoning. It is my proffered opinion that Mr. McFadden was poisoned by members of the cartel. Without proper court orders demanding the exhumation and forensic pathology tests, we shall never know the true story.

President Andrew Jackson stated in reference to the Bankers at the state of his administration in 1832: "You are a den of vipers and thieves. I intend to rout you out, and by the Eternal God, I will rout you out."

Fort Knox 1933 & FDR Steals US Citizens' Gold on Behalf of the BankLords who Bankrupted US!

FDR knowingly sold out the American peoples' freedom to the International BankLords. The following address shows that FDR knew the evil that the Banksters represent: First Inaugural Address of Franklin D. Roosevelt, SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1933:

"Yet our distress comes from no failure of substance. We are stricken by no plague of locusts. Compared with the perils which our forefathers conquered because they believed and were not afraid, we have still much to be thankful for. Nature still offers her bounty and human efforts have multiplied it. Plenty is at our doorstep, but a generous use of it languishes in the very sight of the supply. Primarily this is because the rulers of the exchange of mankind's goods have failed, through their own stubbornness and their own incompetence, have admitted their failure, and abdicated. Practices of the unscrupulous money changers stand indicted in the court of public opinion, rejected by the hearts and minds of men. True they have tried, but their efforts have been cast in the pattern of an outworn tradition. Faced by failure of credit they have proposed only the lending of more money. Stripped of the lure of profit by which to induce our people to follow their false leadership, they have resorted to exhortations, pleading tearfully for restored confidence. They know only the rules of a generation of self-seekers. They have no vision, and when there is no vision the people perish. The money changers have fled from their high seats in the temple of our civilization. We may now restore that temple to the ancient truths. The measure of the restoration lies in the extent to which we apply social values more noble than mere monetary profit. Happiness lies not in the mere possession of money; it lies in the joy of achievement, in the thrill of creative effort. The joy and moral stimulation of work no longer must be forgotten in the mad chase of evanescent profits. These dark days will be worth all they cost us if they teach us that our true destiny is not to be ministered unto but to minister to ourselves and to our fellow men."

Unfortunately, these were crocodile tears from FDR. He knowingly (see more quotes from Roosevelt below showing that he knew about the BankLords' conspiracy to enslave us) and actually assisted in looting American's gold to give it to his Banksters masters, like his ancestor, Clinton Roosevelt. In 1829, a New York Illuminati meeting was addressed by a British Illuminist named Wright. He informed those present that Atheist groups were to be united with Russian Nihilist and other subversive groups into an international movement called "Communism" which would be used to foment wars. "Clinton Roosevelt (a direct ancestor of FDR),..." and others were appointed to raise funds which "... financed Karl Marx and Engels when they wrote 'Das Capital, and the 'Communist Manifesto, in Soho, England).

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, November 23, 1933 in a letter to Colonel Edward Mandell House: "The real truth of the matter is, and you and I know, that a financial element in the large centers has owned the government of the U.S. since the days of President Andrew Jackson. History depicts President Andrew Jackson as the last truly honorable and incorruptible American president."

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt speech in Philadelphia on June 27, 1936: "Out of this modern civilization, economic royalists carved new dynasties. New kingdoms were built upon concentration of control over material things. Through new uses of corporations, banks and securities, new machinery of industry and agriculture, of labor and capital - all undreamed of by the Fathers - the whole structure of modern life was impressed into this royal service....These economic royalists complain that we seek to overthrow the institutions of America. What they really complain of is that we seek to take away their power. Our allegiance to American institutions requires the overthrow of this kind of power. In vain they seek to hide behind the flag and the Constitution. In their blindness they forget what the flag and the Constitution stand for." THE PRIZE: The Epic Quest for Oil, Money, and Power, by Daniel Yergin (Simon and Schuster, 1991): "Roosevelt received him [British ambassador Lord Halifax] that very evening at the White House. Their discussion focused on the Middle East. Trying to allay Halifax's apprehension and irritation, Roosevelt showed the ambassador a rough sketch he had made of the Middle East. 'Persian oil,' he told the ambassador, 'is yours. We share the oil of Iraq and Kuwait. As for Saudi Arabian oil, it is ours.'"

When a government goes bankrupt, it loses its sovereignty. In 1933 the U.S. declared bankruptcy, as expressed in Roosevelt's Executive Orders 6073, 6102, 6111, and 6260, House Joint Resolution 192 of June 5, 1933, confirmed in Perry v. U.S., (1935) 294 U.S. 330, 381; 79 L.Ed. 912, also 31 USC 5112, 5119 and 12 USC 95a. The bankrupt U.S. went into receivership reorganized in favor of 115 creditors and new owners.

As we saw previously, in 1933 new President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a bill forcing all the American people, to hand over all their gold at base rate. With the exception of rare coins. He disowned himself from the bill claiming to not have read it and his secretary of the treasury claimed this was "what the experts wanted". Bought at bargain basement price with money produced from nothing by the Federal Reserve, the gold was melted down and stacked in the newly built bullion depository called Fort Knox. Once collected in 1935 the price of gold was raised from $20.66 up to $35 per ounce, but only non American gold qualified to be sold. This meant those who had avoided the crash by investing in gold they had shipped to London could now nearly double their money while the rest of America starved. In 1933, Franklin D. Roosevelt cancelled (repudiated) the Redemption of Federal Reserve Notes in gold within these United States of America and forbade the private ownership of gold coins or bullion by Citizens, upon penalty of fine and/or imprisonment. So the ignorant "responsible", "law-abiding" Citizens turned in their lawful money to the Treasury, which probably used that money to pay off debts of the United States. However, Federal Reserve Notes were still Redeemable in gold outside these United States of America and the same Federal Reserve Notes were still Redeemable in silver upon demand within these United States of America. But that's not all folks. By the end of WWII Fort Knox did hold 70% of the World's gold, but over the years it was sold off to the European money changers while a public audit of Fort Knox reserves was repeatedly denied. Rumours spread about missing gold.

"Allegations of missing gold from our Fort Knox vaults are being widely discussed in European circles. But what is puzzling is that the Administration is not hastening to demonstrate conclusively that there is no cause for concern over our gold treasure - if indeed it is in a position to do so." Edith Roosevelt

Finally in 1981 President Ronald Reagan was convinced to have a look into Fort Knox with a view to re-introducing the Gold Standard. He appointed a group called The Gold Commission. They found that the US Treasury owned no gold at all. Reagan was shot March 30th 1981 (by a friend of the Bush dynasty) and the whole initiative collapsed. All the Fort Knox gold remaining is now being held as collateral by the Federal Reserve against the national debt. Using credits made from nothing. The Fed had robbed the largest treasure of gold on earth. By the way, all the silver and gold (REAL MONEY) from the U.S. and the Vatican is presently in Switzerland, guarded for the "Illuminati Bank of Rome" by the Swiss Guard. Switzerland has served as a meeting place for the Illuminati plotters since centuries. Most of it is owned by the IMF/World Bank.

Swiss Guard watches over the Vatican's god, I mean Gold!.

Note that when the central bank of Canada was created in 1935, it too was a privately owned corporation. Before 1935, Canadian banks used to issue their own bank notes and then since 1935, only the Bank of Canada issues currency. In 1938, all the private shares were bought by the Government of Canada and the Bank became a Crown corporation belonging to the federal government. Since that time, the Minister of Finance has held the entire share capital issued by the Bank but local banks still create money when the government and individuals borrow from them.

Congressman McFadden: "Why should the United States be buying gold and paying $35 and ounce for it? Why Should the United States be making Great Britain a present of $14.33 and ounce on the hundreds of millions of dollars of British gold that is being shipped to the United States through this process by favoring four London gold brokers? Why should the United States set a price of $35 and pay Great Britain an increase of $14.33 on every ounce of gold? This is interesting when you consider that three fourths of all the gold produced in the World is produced in the British Empire. Did we do this because Great Britain demanded it? Is it possible that this $14.33 profit to Great Britain on every ounce of gold shipped into the United States is for settlement of a DEBT that the United States owes to Great Britain? Congressional Record, February 20, 1934. Congressman McFadden: "I am quoting from the President's message to Congress on this very measure. I quote: "That the title of all gold be in the Government. The total stock will serve as a permanent and fixed metallic reserve which will change in amount only as far as necessary for the settlement of international balances or as may be required by future agreement among nations of the World for a redistribution of the World stock of monetary gold.".... Congressman McFadden: "I say again what I have repeatedly said, that there is a DEFINITE PLAN for the redistribution of the gold of THIS country and of the WORLD'S gold. The plan has been known ever since the establishment of the Bank for International Settlements that through that medium, or one similar to it, eventually the redistribution of gold would take place" Congressional Record, January 20, 1934. Congressman McFadden: "The gentleman, of course, is aware of the fact that the Council of the Federation of Churches of [Anti-]Christ is an offshoot of the Carnegie Foundation which is operating in this country as a British-PROPAGANDA organization, tied up with all of the other subversive organizations which are trying to hold down proper preparedness in the United States. [Applause] Congressional Record, January 30, 1934.

Congressman Dies: "My investigation convinced me that during the last quarter of a century the average production of gold has been falling off considerably. The gold mines of the World are practically exhausted. There is only about $11,000,000,000 in gold in the World, with the United States owning a little more than four billions. We have more than $100,000,000,000 in debts payable in gold of the present weight and fineness....As a practical proposition these contracts cannot be collected in gold for the obvious reason that the gold supply of the entire World is not sufficient to make payment." Congressional Record, March 15, 1933.

Before 1933 all contracts with the government were payable in gold. Now I ask you? Who in their right mind would enter into contracts totaling One Hundred billion dollars in gold, when there was only eleven billion in gold in the whole World? We had about four billion. To keep from being hung by the American public they obeyed the banksters demands and turned over our country to them. They never came out and said we were in bankruptcy but, the fact remains, we are. In 1933 the gold of the whole country had to be turned in to the banksters, and all government contracts in gold were canceled. This is bankruptcy. Congressman Traficant: "Mr. Speaker, we are here now in chapter 11. Members of Congress are official trustees presiding over the greatest reorganization of any bankrupt entity in World history, the U.S. government" Congressional Redord, March 17, 1993.

General Smedley Butler Reveals Bush & BankLords' Plot To Overthrow US Gov 1933

In 1933, Marine Corp Major General Smedley Butler was approached by a cabal of influential American bankers and industrialists working under the umbrella of the front group, American Liberty League. Their request of Butler: that he lead a 500,000 strong force of rogue veterans in a coup against FDR and the legal American government. The intent of this cabal, already supporting the efforts of Hitler and Mussolini in Europe, was to instill a government not unlike that of Hitler and Mussolini in the United States. Butler went along with the scheme until he was able to ascertain who the participants were. He then blew the whistle on this group before the House Committee on un-American Activities. For his efforts, Butler was ostracized and black-balled by the mainstream media; his testimony before the House Committee on un-American Activities was omitted from the record. The cabal was never brought to justice, but the coup was foiled.

Who were the American bankers and industrialists involved in this plot to overthrow the legal government of the United States? According to Wikipedia, while most of the funding came from the Du Pont family, participants included U.S. Steel, General Motors, General Foods, Standard Oil, Birdseye, Colgate, Heinz Foods, Chase National Bank, and Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. And among the participants in this coup attempt was one Prescott Bush, father of George Herbert Walker Bush, 41st president of the United States, grandfather of George W Bush, current president of the United States. Prescott Bush was not only instrumental in bringing Hitler to power in Germany, Mussolini to power in Italy, but was also plotting to overthrow the legal government of the United States and establish a fascist state here. Prescott Bush served as a Senator from Connecticut and was a partner in the prominent investment banking firm Brown Brothers Harriman.

It was from the lips of George Herbert Walker Bush that the American people heard the phrase, "New World Order." And America watched as GHW Bush passed the reins of power to his "good friend who is like a member of the family," William Jefferson Clinton, who then passed the reins on to George Walker Bush in what can only be termed a fraud-ridden election, re-elected for a second term in the same manner. Under the reign of George Walker Bush, we have watched him wage war on America, the American people, and American sovereignty; we have watched him institute executive order after executive order in his pursuit of absolute power, labeling himself "the decider" while the American legislative branch does absolutely nothing to curtail his abuse of power. His actions mirror those of Hitler in his quest for power in Germany.

And just like Hitler, Bush is using fear to keep the American people supporting his un-American activities, starting with the events of September 11, 2001. And every time Bush wants something more, another threat emerges and Congress and the American people, with few exceptions, fall in step. Yet the greatest threat to the American people, American sovereignty, the American way of life sits in the White House, not in Iraq, not in Afghanistan, not in the Middle East. Gary Hart December 6, 1999 at the Yale Center for International and Area Studies: <http://www.yale.edu/opa/v28.n16/story10.html>

"The great danger in the now relentless corrosion of [national] power is the re-emergence of the neo-feudal era in which loyalties and allegiances are commanded by powerful individuals and private interests. ... It is this danger that causes me to urge you the reconsideration -- indeed the resurrection -- of the classic Republican ideal, a modern, radically democratic republic that restores the common good, the common wealth, and most of all, the deep and real sense of civic virtue," Hart told his audience.

In his book JFK: The CIA, Vietnam, and the Plot to Assassinate John F. Kennedy, L. Fletcher Prouty maintains: The Kennedy "assassination has demonstrated that most of the major events of World significance are masterfully planned and orchestrated by an elite coterie of enormously powerful people who are not of one nation, one ethnic grouping, or one overridingly important business group. They are a power unto themselves for whom those others work. Neither is this power elite of recent origin. Its roots go deep into the past."

Carroll Quigley, Georgetown University history professor (deceased), in Tragedy and Hope: A History of the World in Our Time, 1966, made this claim: "There does exist and has existed for a generation, an international Anglophile network which operates, to some extent, in the way the radical Right believes the Communists act. In fact, this network, which we may identify as the Round Table groups, has no aversion to cooperating with the Communists, or any other groups, and frequently does so. I know of the operations of this network because I have studied it for 20 years and was permitted for two years, in the early 1960s, to examine its papers and secret record. "In addition to these pragmatic goals, the powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a World system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the World as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudal fashion by the central banks of the World acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences. The apex of the system was the Bank for International Settlements in Basle, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the World's central banks which were themselves private corporations. The growth of financial capitalism made possible a centralization of World economic control and use of this power for the direct benefit of financiers and the indirect injury of all other economic groups." pp. 950 and 324

In his 1913 book The New Freedom, President Woodrow Wilson stated: "Since I entered politics, I have chiefly had men's views confided to me privately. Some of the biggest men in the United States, in the field of commerce and manufacture, are afraid of something. They know that there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it."

James Stewart Martin of the Department of Justice's investigative team in Europe after World War II in his book, All Honorable Men, states: "We had not been stopped in Germany by German business, we had been stopped in Germany by American business. The forces that stopped us had operated from the United States but had not operated in the open. We were not stopped by a law of Congress, by an Executive Order of the President, or even by a change of policy approved by the President . . . in short, whatever it was that had stopped us was not 'the government.' But it clearly had command of channels through which the government normally operates. The relative powerlessness of governments in the growing economic power is of course not new . . . national governments stood on the sidelines while bigger operators arranged the World's affairs."

Power Elite: "A group of men, similar in interest and outlook, shaping events from invulnerable positions behind the scenes." C. Wright Mills. The

"Those who formally rule take their signals and commands not from the electorate as a body, but from a small group of men (plus a few women). . . It exists even though that existence is stoutly denied. It is one of the secrets of the American social order. . . A second secret is the fact that the existence of the Establishment -- the ruling class -- is not supposed to be discussed." Arthur S. Miller, George Washington University law professor (deceased)

Winston Churchill was quoted by wartime associates as making reference to the "High Cabal," the international power elite. The "High Cabal" includes:

- the American, British, and Dutch ruling elites:
- in the U.S. the cabal revolves around the Rockefeller, Brown, Harriman, and Morgan family dynasties
- the British royal family and the financial and political circles related to it
- the Dutch royal family and related circles
- the financial, military, and political leaders who kowtow to the "High Cabal"
- the Republican party and the corporations which bribe politicians in both parties
- those in the Democratic party who are conspiring with the Bush junta by saying nothing and agreeing to everything

For the first time in its history, American culture is in danger of being destroyed internally by a corrupt, criminal ruling cabal which is centered around the Rockefeller interests, which include elements from the Morgan, Brown, Rothschild, Du Pont, Harriman, Kuhn-Loeb, and other groupings as well. This junta took control of the political, financial, and cultural life of America in the first two decades of the twentieth century (see Carroll Quigley, Tragedy and Hope). The Bush family, beginning with Prescott Bush, have served as satraps of the Rockefeller, Brown, and Harriman interests. President Bush is simply a puppet of this powerful cabal, and their schemes will be carried out by whatever next president comes to power unless Americans deflect them from this insane, murderous plot for global dominance.

1933 Headlines Were "Judea Declares War on Germany"

Let's analyze What Really Happened During the Holocaust, THE HISTORY THAT THE ZIONIST CABAL DON'T WANT YOU TO LEARN. It should not surprise us that the Zionist version of history and also of the WWII Holocaust is war propaganda and is just another of the multitude of lies spread by the Zionist Neocon Cabal apologists. The headlines in the news papers in 1933, before WW2, were: "Judea Declares War on Germany.". Here are a few quotes:

Daily Express headline, March 24, 1933: "Judea Declares War on Germany! Jews of all the World Unite! Boycott of German Goods! Mass Demonstrations!" - "The Israeli people around the World declare economic and financial war against Germany. Fourteen million Jews stand together as one man, to declare war against Germany. The Jewish wholesaler will forsake his firm, the banker his stock exchange, the merchant his commerce and the pauper his pitiful shed in order to join together in a holy war against Hitler's people."

Samuel Untermyer, in a Radio Broadcast on WABC, New York, August 6, 1933. Reported in the New York Times, August 7, 1933: "Each of you, Jew and Gentile alike, who has not already enlisted in this sacred war should do so now and here. It is not sufficient that you should buy no goods made in Germany. You must refuse to deal with any merchant or shopkeeper who sells any German-made goods or who patronises German ships or shipping.... we will undermine the Hitler regime and bring the German people to their senses by destroying their export trade on which their very existence depends."

"Joining with Samuel Untermyer in calling for a war against Germany, Bernard Baruch, at the same time, was promoting preparations for war against Germany. I emphasized that the defeat of Germany and Japan and their elimination from World trade would give Britain a tremendous opportunity to swell her foreign commerce in both volume and profit." - "Baruch, The Public Years," by Bernard M. Baruch, p.347. Samuel Untermyer was a Jewish leader and close friend of presidents Wilson and Roosevelt. Bernard Baruch was a presidential adviser to Wilson, Roosevelt and Truman.

"This declaration called the war against Germany, which was now determined on, a 'holy war'. This war was to be carried out against Germany to its conclusion, to her destruction" (Diese Erklärung nannte den Krieg gegen Deutschland, der nun beschlossen sei, einen heiligen Krieg. Dieser Krieg müsse gegen Deutschland bis zu dessen Ende, bis zu dessen Vernichtung, geführt werden). - Dr. Franz J. Scheidl, Geschichte der Verfemung Deutschlands.

"War in Europe in 1934 was inevitable." - H. Morgenthau, Secretary of the U.S. Treasury, Hearst Press, September, 1933 (also quoted in "The Palestine Plot" by B. Jenson, p. 11).

"For months now the struggle against Germany is waged by each Jewish community, at each conference, in all our syndicates, and by each Jew all over the World. There is reason to believe that our part in this struggle has general value. We will trigger a spiritual and material war of all the World against Germany's ambitions to become once again a great nation, to recover lost territories and colonies. But our Jewish interests demand the complete destruction of Germany. Collectively and individually, the German nation is a threat to us Jews." - Vladimir Jabotinsky (founder of the Jewish terrorist group, Irgun Zvai Leumi) in Mascha Rjetsch, Jan 1934 (also quoted in "Histoire de l'Armée Allemande" by Jacques Benoist-Mechin, Vol. IV, p. 303).

"Hitler will have no war (does not want war), but we will force it on him, not this year, but soon." - Emil Ludwig Cohn in Les Annales, June, 1934 (also quoted in his book "The New Holy Alliance").

"We Jews are going to bring a war on Germany." - David A. Brown, National Chairman, United Jewish Campaign, 1934 (quoted in "I Testify Against The Jews" by Robert Edward Edmondson, page 188 and "The Jewish War of Survival" by Arnold Leese, page 52).

"We want to bring about a deep hatred for the Germans, for German soldiers, sailors, and airmen. We must hate until we win." - Lord Beaverbrook, quoted in Niemals! by Heinrich Goitsch.

"There is only one power which really counts. The power of political pressure. We Jews are the most powerful people on earth, because we have this power, and we know how to apply it." - Vladimir Jabotinsky, Jewish Daily Bulletin, July 27, 1935.

"Before the end of the year, an economic bloc of England, Russia, France and the U.S.A will be formed to bring the German and Italian economic systems to their knees." - Paul Dreyfus, "La Vie de Tanger" May 15, 1938.

On the 3rd of June, 1938, the American Hebrew boasted that they had Jews in the foremost positions of influence in Britain, Russia and France, and that these "three sons of Israel will be sending the Nazi dictator to hell." - Joseph Trimble, the American Hebrew.

"Germany is our public enemy number one. It is our object to declare war without mercy against her. One may be sure of this: We will lead that war!" - Bernard Lecache, the president of the "International League Against Racism and Anti-Semitism," in its newspaper "Droit de Vivre" (Right to Life), 9 November, 1938.

"The war now proposed is for the purpose of establishing Jewish hegemony throughout the World." - Brigadier General George Van Horn Moseley, The New York Tribune, March 29, 1939.

"I wish to confirm in the most explicit manner, the declaration which I and my colleagues made during the last months, and especially in the last week: that the Jews "stand by Great Britain and will fight on the side of the democracies." Our urgent desire is to give effect to these declarations. We wish to do so in a way entirely consonant with the general scheme of British action, and therefore would place ourselves, in matters big and small, under the co-ordinating direction of His Majesty's Government. The Jewish Agency is ready to enter into immediate arrangements for utilizing Jewish manpower, technical ability, resources, etc." - Chaim Weizmann, President of the World Jewish Congress, Head of the Jewish Agency and later President of Israel, the London Times, September 5, 1939, and the London Jewish Chronicle, September 8, 1939.

"The millions of Jews who live in America, England and France, North and South Africa, and, not to forget those in Palestine, are determined to bring the war of annihilation against Germany to its final end." - Central Blad Voor Israeliten in Nederland, September 13, 1939.

"Stop talking about peace conditions! Break Germany in pieces!" - The Daily Herald, No.7426, 9 December, 1939.

"The Jews, taken collectively, view this war as a holy war." - The Daily Herald, No.7450, 1939, quoted in "Reichstagsbrand, Aufklärung einer historischen Legende," by U. Backes, K.H. Janßen, E. Jesse, H. Köhler, H. Mommsen, E Tobias.

"Even if we Jews are not physically at your side in the trenches, we are morally with you. This war is our war and you fight it with us." - Schalom Asch, Les Nouvelles Litteraires, February 10, 1940.

"In losing Germany, Jewry lost a territory from which it exerted power. Therefore it was determined to re-conquer it." - Louis Marschalko, "The World Conquerors : The Real War Criminals."

"The World Jewish Congress has been at war with Germany for seven years." - Rabbi M. Perlzweig (head of the British Section of the World Jewish Congress), Toronto Evening Telegram, February 26, 1940.

"The Second World War is being fought for the defense of the fundamentals of Judaism." - Rabbi Felix Mendlesohn, Chicago Sentinel, October 8, 1942.

"We are not denying and are not afraid to confess that this war is our war and that it is waged for the liberation of Jewry... Stronger than all fronts together is our front, that of Jewry. We are not only giving this war our financial support on which the entire war production is based, we are not only providing our full propaganda power which is the moral energy that keeps this war going. The guarantee of victory is predominantly based on weakening the enemy forces, on destroying them in their own country, within the resistance. And we are the Trojan horses in the enemy's fortress. Thousands of Jews living in Europe constitute the principal factor in the destruction of our enemy. There, our front is a fact and the most valuable aid for victory." - Chaim Weizmann, President of the World Jewish Congress, Head of the Jewish Agency and later President of Israel, in a Speech on December 3, 1942, in New York.

"Played golf with Joe Kennedy (U.S. Ambassador to Britain). He says that Chamberlain stated that America and World Jewry forced England into World War II." - James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy (later Secretary of Defense), Diary, December 27, 1945 entry.

NAZIS MADE-TO-MEASURE FOR ZIONISM: In 1925, Germany's 500,000 Jews were overwhelmingly indifferent or actively hostile to Zionism. The German Zionist movement had only 9000 members. The "Central Union of Germans of the Jewish Faith" represented most German Jews and favored active participation in German life. Its main focus was combating anti-Semitism. Zionists, on the other hand, welcomed the Nazis' anti-Semitic policies. Like the Nazis, they believed in race-based national character and destiny. Like the Nazis, they believed Jews had no future in Germany. The Zionists did not protest Nazi persecution such as the removal of 2000 Jewish scholars and scientists from German universities in 1933. The Nazis rewarded this "restraint" by allowing the Zionists to go about their work unhindered. All other Jewish and anti-fascist organizations were disbanded and their leaders imprisoned.

The joke doing the rounds of the British Union at that time was that the Jewish national anthem is 'Onward Christian Soldiers.' However, note that on Jews were involved on all sides of the conflict, i.e. in Marxism, Communism, Fascism, Nazism, Zionism and Capitalism. But don't be fooled, these are apostate Jews who are Luciferians as explained by Harold Wallace Rosenthal and they will sacrifice ordinary God worshipping Jews in their wars for supremacy. Note that the BankLords such as the Illuminati Rothschild and Rockefellers and their closely linked family dynasties fund all sides in the conflicts and keep on amassing the World's wealth.

Yet, the other little-known fact is that just before the war began, the leadership of the World Jewish community formally declared war on Germany - above and beyond the ongoing six-year-long economic boycott launched by the Worldwide Jewish community when the Nazi Party came to power in 1933. Here's the story behind the story: Chaim Weizmann, president of both the international "Jewish Agency" and of the World Zionist Organization (and later Israel's first president), told British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in a letter published in The London Times on September 6, 1939 that: I wish to confirm, in the most explicit manner, the declarations which I and my colleagues have made during the last month, and especially in the last week, that the Jews stand by Great Britain and will fight on the side of the democracies. Our urgent desire is to give effect to these declarations [against Germany]. We wish to do so in a way entirely consonant with the general scheme of British action, and therefore would place ourselves, in matters big and small, under the coordinating direction of His Majesty's Government. The Jewish Agency is ready to enter into immediate arrangements for utilizing Jewish manpower, technical ability, resources, etc.

<http://isohunt.com/release.php?ihq=war+of+the+Worlds&id=22841> <http://www.mininova.org/tor/166502> Divx. Documentary Runtime 81 minutes A Critical Look at WWII, hosted by Dr. Fredrick Toben, this intriguing documentary shows a little-known aspect of WWII, in which Zionists at one time declared war on Germany. In response to this, many Zionists were incarcerated in prison camps, similar to what America did to the Japanese, what the Poles did to the Germans after WWI, what the British did to the Africans and to the Native Americans, etc. etc. Germans claim that prior to the war's end when supply lines were cut and starvation and disease was rampant, Zionists were treated more humanely than the Japanese in American prison camps. This video documentary proves these points. Many rare photographs, and some surprising footage showing the prison camps as they are today. DVD:<http://s1.amazon.com/exec/varzea/ts/exchange-glance/Y03Y4772317Y7161120/002-1891101-4450426>

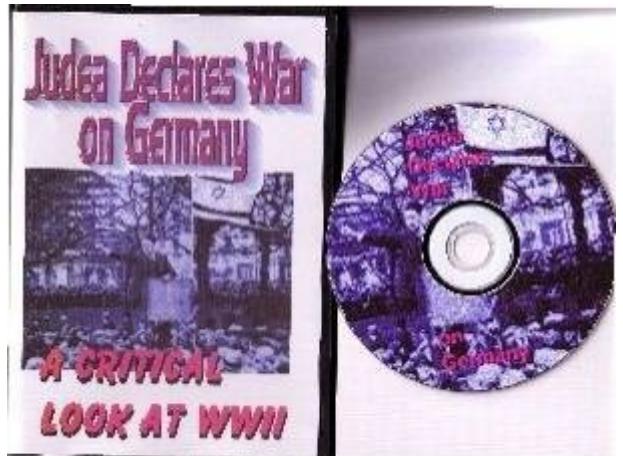

WARNING: In some countries, it could be considered a federal crime to be in possession of this movie, and certainly to openly question the holocaust aspect of WW2. Interesting viewing for Holocaust truth factualists as well as Holocaust dogma believers.

"Truth needs no laws to defend it. Throughout history, only lies and liars have resorted to the courts to enforce adherence to dogma. Nobody jails people who claim to Elvis is still alive. There is no law against denying Santa Claus exists. Nobody is prosecuted for claiming to see Bigfoot. People who think that Lee Harvey Oswald did NOT act alone are not sent to prison. What is it about the history of WW2 we have been taught that is so delicate that all questioning must be stamped out?" <http://www.whatreallyhappened.com/>. Austrian prosecutors file Holocaust denial charges against historian David Irving: <http://www.haaretzdaily.com/hasen/spages/648704.html>. Zionists are also prosecuting Ernst Zundel and have persecuted other Jews such as David Cole who have dared to question the Zionist version of the Holocaust.

Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad put a couple of perfectly reasonable arguments to the Europeans:
 1 - "You believe the [European] Jews were oppressed, why should the Palestinian Muslims have to pay the price?"
 2 - "You oppressed the [European] Jews, [and you feel so sorry for them] so give a part of Europe to the Zionist regime so they can establish any government they want. We would support it."
 3 - "Those who defend today the crimes of the Zionists must be held accountable and sentenced. Of course, they claim that they are very strong, but this is one of their big lies".

During WW1 and WW2, International Zionists used their power in the US and UK to regain control of Germany through the US military might and initiate their plan to gain control of the Arab World by planting their state in Palestine. Now, they have again mobilized the US and UK, this time to gain control of Arab lands and wealth. In the light of the Iranian President's comments, and the work done by Holocaust truth researchers such as David Irving, Ernst Zundel, David Cole, Professor Noble of York U, Dr. Fredrick Toben, Paul Fromm, Mark Weber, Michael Santomauro, Israel Shamir, etc. and the arrest and imprisonment of well known revisionists in Germany and Austria, Ernst Zundel, David Irving, Germar Rudolf, and Siegfried Verbeke and others, what does the future hold for the truth movement especially after the UN voted to have a day commemorating the Holocaust while many more are currently being persecuted by Zionist laws that forbid documentaries which present non-Zionist approved information, let's learn more about the Zionist deception which is not taught in history classes since the winners of wars write that history.

"A forbidden writing is thought to be a certain spark of truth, that flies up in the face of them who seek to tread it out." Sir Francis Bacon (1561-1626), English philosopher, British Lord Chancellor The Advancement of Learning, 1605.

Albert Pike 1809-1892

These events should be seen in the perspective of a letter written by Albert Pike, the Grand Commander of American Masonry in 1871 and published in 1925. The letter foresaw three World wars designed to bring about Illuminati World hegemony. Each war planted the seeds for the next.

"The First World War must be brought about in order to permit the Illuminati [aka The European Establishment lead by The Rothschilds] to overthrow the power of the Czars in Russia and of making that country a fortress of atheistic Communism. The divergences caused by the "agentur" [agents] of the Illuminati between the British and Germanic Empires will be used to foment this war. At the end of the war, Communism will be built and used in order to destroy the other governments and in order to weaken the religions." "The Second World War must be fomented by taking advantage of the differences between the [European Nationalists] and the political Zionists. This war must be brought about so that [European Nationalism later evolved as Nazism and Fascism] is destroyed and that the political Zionism be strong enough to institute a sovereign state of Israel in Palestine. During the Second World War, International Communism must become strong enough in order to balance Christendom, which would be then restrained and held in check until the time when we would need it for the final social cataclysm."

The Second World War was designed to ensure the destruction of Germany, the expansion of Communist Russia and the establishment of the State of Israel. After this Second World War, Communism was made strong enough to begin taking over weaker governments. In 1945, at the Potsdam Conference between Truman, Churchill, and Stalin, a large portion of Europe was simply handed over to Russia, and on the other side of the World, the aftermath of the war with Japan helped to sweep the tide of Communism into China. Zionism, too grew in strength. Events unfolded exactly as Pike described and set the stage for the next war. "The Third World War must be fomented by taking advantage of the differences caused by the "agentur" of the "Illuminati" between the political Zionists and the leaders of Islamic World," Pike wrote. "Agentur" means "agent." The same term is used in another Illuminati document "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion" which dates from the same period. The key point here is these wars are contrived. They are "caused by agentur of the Illuminati" on both sides. These agents owe their first loyalty to the Illuminati not to their countries. Their aim is to destroy their respective countries and profit from the carnage. Pike continues: "The [third] war must be conducted in such a way that Islam (the Moslem Arabic World) and political Zionism (the State of Israel) mutually destroy each other." The rest of the World will be drawn in. "Meanwhile the other nations, once more divided on this issue will be constrained to fight to the point of complete physical, moral, spiritual and economical exhaustion..." At this point they will be constrained to accept the Luciferian one-World government.

As explained in the 1800s by German Chancellor Otto Von Bismarck, the problem is the control of the nation's credit by a small private international group, which has used this advantage to build a monopoly (hence the term "monopoly capitalism" = communism = fascism = imperialism) in every key industry. This international group is behind imperialism. Its totalitarian occult agenda (a.k.a, globalism) is now corporate policy. The victim paradigm typically purveyed by some creates divisions and diverts attention from the Illuminati Bankers and their cartels. It teaches each new generation to be alienated from their country, its culture and economic system, and to become dysfunctional and impotent. The Bankers want Big Government that they centrally control through debt. They need the global police state to ensure that no nation defaults or rebels. The invasion of Iraq is another step in creating the Bankers' "1984" tyranny as predicted by George Orwell in 1948 (the price of oil went from $15 to $75 quintupling the $ purchase requirements, i.e. from over $600 million daily to over $3 billion daily). Before we go into more evidence of the International Globalists Zionists' plans for perpetual wars, let's see what the Zionists were upto in Europe during and after the 1st World War which they instigated to subdue Russia, Germany, defeat the Ottoman Empire and obtain British commitment for giving them Palestine. If you're familiar with the history of World War 1, you'll know that the political alliances of England on one side, and Germany on the other side forged between 1871 and 1898 by Otto von Bismarck [see below some quotes from the Chancellor], were instrumental in bringing about the First World War. In addition, Communism started its first roots soon after WW1. World War I broke out in the summer of 1914. Now that war was waged on one side by Great Britain, France, and Russia; and on the other side by Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey. What happened? Within two years Germany had won that war: not alone won it nominally, but won it actually. The German submarines, which were a surprise to the World, had swept all the convoys from the Atlantic Ocean, and Great Britain stood there without ammunition for her soldiers, stood there with one week's food supply facing her -- and after that, starvation. At that time, the French army had mutinied. They lost 600,000 of the flower of French youth in the defense of Verdun on the Somme. The Russian army was defecting. They were picking up their toys and going home, they didn't want to play war anymore. And the Italian army had collapsed.

The post WW 1 Treaty decimated Germany causing a depression enabling Jews to buy up vast amounts of German industry and left Germans bitter. International Zionists, who represented 80% of those attending the Versailles treaty forced Germany to give a portion of their country (Danzig Corridor) to Poland. [Colonel] Edward House was Zionists' lead man, a Rothschild employee who previously helped form the BankLords' fraudulent Fed Reserve System in 1913.

Now Germany -- not a shot had been fired on the German soil. Not an enemy soldier had crossed the border into Germany. And yet, here was Germany offering England peace terms. They offered England a negotiated peace on what the lawyers call a status quo ante basis. That means: "Let's call the war off, and let everything be as it was before the war started." Well, England, in the summer of 1916 was considering that. Seriously! They had no choice. It was either accepting this negotiated peace that Germany was magnanimously offering them, or going on with the war and being totally defeated. While that was going on, the Zionists in Germany, who represented the Zionists from Eastern Europe, went to the British War Cabinet and -- I am going to be brief because this is a long story, but I have all the documents to prove any statement that I make if anyone here is curious, or doesn't believe what I'm saying is at all possible -- the Zionists in London went to the British war cabinet and they said: "Look here. You can yet win this war. You don't have to give up. You don't have to accept the negotiated peace offered to you now by Germany. You can win this war if the United States will come in as your ally." The United States was not in the war at that time. We were fresh; we were young; we were rich; we were powerful. They [Zionists] told England: "We will guarantee to bring the United States into the war as your ally, to fight with you on your side, if you will promise us Palestine after you win the war." Benjamin Freedman (Friedman) said this in 1961, Washington (he was a millionaire insider in international Zionist organizations, friend to 4 US presidents, and was also part of the 117-man strong Zionist delegation at the signing of the Treaty of Versailles in 1919 where Germany was forced into bankruptcy to the Zionist BankLords and social chaos): "Two years into WW1, Germany, which was then winning the war, offered Britain and France a negotiated peace deal, but German Zionist groups seeing the opportunity made a deal with Britain to get the United States into the war if Britain promised to give the Zionists Palestine."

In other words, they made this deal: "We will get the United States into this war as your ally. The price you must pay us is Palestine after you have won the war and defeated Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey." They made that promise, in October of 1916. And shortly after that -- I don't know how many here remember it -- the United States, which was almost totally pro-German because the newspapers and mass communications media here were controlled by the Zionist bankers who owned the major commercial banks and the 12 Federal Reserve Banks (the original Stockholders of the Federal Reserve Banks in 1913 were the Rockefeller's, JP Morgan, Rothschild's, Lazard Freres, Schoellkopf, Kuhn-Loeb, Warburgs, Lehman Brothers and Goldman Sachs, all with roots in Germany's Zionists just like the British Royal family, J.P. Morgan, Carnegie, Bush, Rumsfeld, Clintons, the Nazis that were brought into the CIA, etc. http://land.netonecom.net/tlp/ref/federal_reserve.shtml) and they were pro-German because they wanted to use Germany to destroy the Czar of Russia and let the Communists whom they funded take over. The German Zionist bankers -- Rothschilds, Rockefeller, Kuhn Loeb and the other big banking firms in the United States refused to finance France or England to the extent of one dollar. They stood aside and they said: "As long as France and England are tied up with Russia, not one cent!" But they poured money into Germany, they fought with Germany against Russia, trying to lick the Czarist regime. The newspapers had been all pro-German, where they'd been telling the people of the difficulties that Germany was having fighting Great Britain commercially and in other respects, then after making the deal with the British for Palestine, all of a sudden the Germans were no good. They were villains. They were Huns. They were shooting Red Cross nurses. They were cutting off babies' hands. And they were no good. The Zionists in London sent cables to the United States, to Justice Brandeis: "Go to work on President Wilson. We're getting from England what we want. Now you go to work, and you go to work on President Wilson and get the United States into the war." And that did happen. Shortly after President Woodrow Wilson declared war on Germany.

After we got into the war, the Zionists went to Great Britain and they said: "Well, we performed our part of the agreement. Let's have something in writing that shows that you are going to keep your bargain and give us Palestine after you win the war." Because they didn't know whether the war would last another year or another ten years. So they started to work out a receipt. The receipt took the form of a letter, and it was worded in very cryptic language so that the World at large wouldn't know what it was all about. And that was called the Balfour Declaration in 1919, addressed to Lord Rothschild. The Balfour Declaration was merely Great Britain's promise to pay the Zionists what they had agreed upon as a consideration for getting the United States into the war. Now, that is where all the trouble started. The United States went in the war. The United States crushed Germany. We went in there, and it's history. You know what happened. Now, when the war was ended, and the Germans went to Paris, to the Paris Peace Conference in 1919, there were 117 Jews there, as a delegation representing the Jews, headed by Bernard Baruch. I was there: I ought to know. Now what happened? The Jews at that peace conference, when they were cutting up Germany and parceling out Europe to all these nations that claimed a right to a certain part of European territory, the Jews said, "How about Palestine for us?" And they produced, for the first time to the knowledge of the Germans, this Balfour Declaration. So the Germans, for the first time realized, "Oh, that was the game! That's why the United States came into the war." And the Germans for the first time realized that they were defeated, they suffered this terrific reparation that was slapped onto them, because the Zionists wanted Palestine and they were determined to get it at any cost.

In 1917, the Communists took over Germany for a few days. Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht, and a group of Jews in Germany took over the government for three days. In fact, when the Kaiser ended the war, he fled to Holland because he thought the Communists were going to take over Germany as they did Russia, and that he was going to meet the same fate that the Czar did in Russia. So he left and went to Holland for safety and for security. Now, at that time, when the Communist threat in Germany was quashed, it was quiet, the Zionists were working, still trying to get back into their former -- their status -- and the Germans fought them in every way they could, without hurting a hair on anyone's head. Well, that's the way they were fighting the European Jews in Germany. And, at that time, mind you, there were 80 to 90 million Germans and there were only 460,000 Jews ... less than one half of one percent of Germany were Jews. And yet, they controlled all of the press, they controlled most of the economy, because they had come in and with cheap money -- you know the way the Mark was devalued -- they bought up practically everything for a penny on the Mark.

Now, that brings us to another very interesting point. When the Germans realized this, they naturally resented it. Up to that time, the Jews had never been better off in any country in the World than they had been in Germany. You had Mr. Rathenau there, who was maybe 100 times as important in industry and finance as is Bernard Baruch in this country. You had Mr. Balin, who owned the two big steamship lines, the North German Lloyd's and the Hamburg-American Lines. You had Mr. Bleichroder, who was the banker for the Hohenzollern family. You had the Warburgs in Hamburg, who were the big merchant bankers -- the biggest in the World. The Jews were doing very well in Germany. No question about that. Now, the Germans felt: "Well, that was quite a sellout." Well, that's how the Germans felt towards these Jews. "We've been so nice to them"; and from 1905 on, when the first Communist revolution in Russia failed, and the Jews had to scramble out of Russia, they all went to Germany. And Germany gave them refuge. And they were treated very nicely. And here they sold Germany down the river for no reason at all other than they wanted Palestine as a so-called "Jewish commonwealth." Now, Nahum Sokolow -- all the great leaders, the big names that you read about in connection with Zionism today -- they, in 1919, 1920, '21, '22, and '23, they wrote in all their papers -- and the press was filled with their statements -- that "the feeling against the Jews in Germany is due to the fact that they realized that this great defeat was brought about by our intercession and bringing the United States into the war against them." The European Jews themselves admitted that. It was all political. It was economic. It was anything but religious.

The Germans held the Jews responsible for their crushing defeat because World War One was started against Germany for no reason for which they [Germans] were responsible. They were guilty of nothing. Only of being successful. They built up a big navy. They built up World trade. You must remember, Germany, at the time of Napoleon, at the time of the French Revolution, what was the German Reich consisted of 300 -- three hundred! -- small city-states, principalities, dukedoms, and so forth. Three hundred little separate political entities. And between that time, between the period of ... between Napoleon and Otto Von Bismarck, they were consolidated into one state. And within 50 years after that time they became one of the World's great powers. Their navy was rivalling Great Britain's, they were doing business all over the World, they could undersell anybody and make better products. And what happened? What happened as a result of that? The Zionists seeing their power diminishing in Germany used England, France, and Russia to "We must slap down Germany".

When Germany realized that the Jews were responsible for her defeat, they naturally resented it. But not a hair on the head of any Jew was harmed. Not a single hair. Professor Tansill, of Georgetown University, who had access to all the secret papers of the State Department, wrote in his book, and quoted from a State Department document written by Hugo Schoenfelt, a Jew who Cordell Hull sent to Europe in 1933 to investigate the so-called camps of political prisoners. And he wrote back that he found them in very fine condition. They were in excellent shape; everybody treated well. And they were filled with Communists. Well, a lot of them were Jews, because the Jews happened to be maybe 98 per cent of the Communists in Europe at that time. And there were some priests there, and ministers, and labor leaders, Masons, and others who had international affiliations.

Now, the Zionists sort of tried to keep the lid on this fact. They didn't want the World to really understand that they had sold out Germany and that they were behind Communism to overthrow the Tsar of Russia, and had bought Germany for a penny on the Mark after it was devalued, and that the Germans resented that. So they did take appropriate action against them [against the Jews]. They ... shall I say, discriminated against them wherever they could? They shunned them. The same as we would do to who had sold us out to an enemy and brought about our defeat. In the book "Wall Street and the rise of Hitler", Professor Anthony Sutton describes how Germany being in near bankruptcy (not the German Zionists who were extremely rich) in 1933, having to pay huge war reparations and still having to rebuild the nation, was lent huge sums of money by International

Zionist financiers such as the Warburgs,
Jacob Schiff,
J.P. Morgan,
Chase Manhattan, and Kuhn-Loeb banks who were expecting huge profits from exorbitant interest rates (all also being owners in the Federal Reserve Banks). The Germans realized they had been stabbed in the back by German and International Zionists, and resented this, but the Zionists had anticipated this and arranged for Hitler to be used to lead the anti-Zionist national movement for freedom from Zionism thus taking over the movement and ensuring that Germany be put into further ruin thus allowing the Zionists to get more of Germany at a fraction of its worth (war reduced the value of the property in the conquered country and creates chaos allowing many frauds to be hidden by the victors). New York Times placard May 1933

The attacks on Germany did not cease. The Worldwide Jewish leadership became ever the more belligerent and worked itself into a frenzy. For the Zionists, both the denunciations of German policies towards Jews (to keep Jews frightened), plus the reinvigoration of the German economy (for the sake of final resettlement) was imperative for the Zionist movement (ironically, today the Zionist leaders of Israel complain bitterly about the horrific and inhuman regime of the National Socialists to continue the fraud). An agreement between Hitler and the German Zionists was to initiate a deportation of Jews to the Island of Madagascar. The international Zionists then met in Amsterdam under the auspices of the self-styled World Jewish Economic Federation, of which famous New York City attorney and longtime political power broker, Samuel Untermyer, was president, and demanded that Germany stop the deportations immediately and take the deported Jews back. However, in 1933 Germany refused to surrender to the World Conference of Jews in Amsterdam. Immediately, Mr. Untermyer came back to the United States -- he was the head of the American delegation and the president of the whole conference -- and he went from the steamer to delivered a speech over WABC Radio (New York), a transcript of which was printed in The New York Times on August 7, 1933. In this radio broadcast throughout the United States he said: "The Jews of the World now declare a holy war against Germany. We are now engaged in a sacred (holy) conflict against the Germans. And we are going to starve them into surrender. We are going to use a World-wide boycott against them, that will destroy them because they are dependent upon their export business." The International and German Zionists declared war on Germany in 1933. Headlines in the UK Daily Express and US New York Times and other papers around Mar-May 1933 were "Judea Declares War on Germany".

Untermyer's inflammatory oratory called for a "sacred war" against Germany, making the flat-out allegation that Germany was engaged in a plan to "exterminate the Jews." He said (in part):...Germany [has] been converted from a nation of culture into a veritable hell of cruel and savage beasts. We owe it not only to our persecuted brethren but to the entire World to now strike in self-defense a blow that will free humanity from a repetition of this incredible outrage.... Now or never must all the nations of the earth make common cause against the... slaughter, starvation and annihilation... fiendish torture, cruelty and persecution that are being inflicted day by day upon these men, women and children....When the tale is told... the World will confront a picture so fearful in its barbarous cruelty that the hell of war and the alleged Belgian atrocities pale into insignificance as compared to this devilishly, deliberately, cold-bloodedly planned and already partially executed campaign for the extermination of a proud, gentle, loyal, law-abiding people... The Jews are the aristocrats of the World. From time immemorial they have been persecuted and have seen their persecutors come and go. They alone have survived. And so will history repeat itself, but that furnishes no reason why we should permit this reversion of a once great nation to the Dark Ages or fail to rescue these 600,000 human souls from the tortures of hell.....What we are proposing and have already gone far toward doing, is to prosecute a purely defensive economic boycott that will undermine the Hitler regime and bring the German people to their senses by destroying their export trade on which their very existence depends....We propose to and are organizing World opinion to express itself in the only way Germany can be made to understand....

Jewish rally against Germany in New York City 10 May 1933

Untermeyer then proceeded to provide his listeners with a wholly fraudulent history of the circumstances of the German boycott and how it originated. He also proclaimed that the Germans were bent on a plan to "exterminate the Jews": The Hitler regime originated and are fiendishly prosecuting their boycott to exterminate the Jews by placarding Jewish shops, warning Germans against dealing with them, by imprisoning Jewish shopkeepers and parading them through the streets by the hundreds under guard of Nazi troops for the sole crime of being Jews, by ejecting them from the learned professions in which many of them had attained eminence, by excluding their children from the schools, their men from the labor unions, closing against them every avenue of livelihood, locking them in vile concentration camps and starving and torturing them without cause and resorting to every other conceivable form of torture, inhuman beyond conception, until suicide has become their only means of escape, and all solely because they are or their remote ancestors were Jews, and all with the avowed object of exterminating them. Untermeyer concluded his largely fantastic and hysterical address by declaring that with the support of "Christian friends... we will drive the last nail in the coffin of bigotry and fanaticism...." That his allegations against Germany were made long before even Jewish historians today claim there were any gas chambers or even a plan to "exterminate" the Jews, displays the nature of the propaganda campaign confronting Germany.

This New York Daily News front page headline hailed the massive anti-German protest rally held in Madison Square Garden on March 27, 1933. Despite efforts by the German government to alleviate tensions and prevent the escalation of name-calling and threats by the international Jewish leadership, the rally was held as scheduled. Similar rallies and protest marches were also being held in other cities during the same time frame. The intensity of the Jewish campaign against Germany was such that the Hitler government vowed that if the campaign did not stop, there would be a one-day boycott in Germany of Jewish-owned stores. Despite this, the hate campaign continued, forcing Germany to take defensive measures that created a situation wherein the Jews of Germany became increasingly marginalized. The truth about the Jewish war on Germany has been suppressed by most histories of the period.

During this same period there were some unusual developments at work: The spring of 1933 also witnessed the beginning of a period of private cooperation between the German government and the Zionist movement in Germany and Palestine (and actually Worldwide) to increase the flow of German-Jewish immigrants and capital to Palestine. The modern-day supporters of Zionist Israel and many historians have succeeded in keeping this Nazi-Zionist pact a secret to the general public for decades and while most Americans have no concept of the possibility that there could have been outright collaboration between the Nazi leadership and the founders of what became the state of Israel, the truth has begun to emerge. Dissident Jewish writer Lenni Brenner's Zionism In the Age of the Dictators, published by a small press and not given the publicity it deserves by the so-called "mainstream" media (which is otherwise obsessed with the Holocaust era), was perhaps the first major endeavor in this realm. In response to Brenner and others, the Zionist reaction has usually consisted of declarations that their collaboration with Nazi Germany was undertaken solely to save the lives of Jews. But the collaboration was all the more remarkable because it took place at a time when many Jews and Jewish organizations demanded a boycott of Germany. To the Zionist leaders, Hitler's assumption of power held out the possibility of a flow of immigrants to Palestine. Previously, the majority of German Jews, who identified themselves as Germans, had little sympathy with the Zionist cause of promoting the ingathering of World Jewry to Palestine. But the Zionists saw that that the boycott of Germany was likely to push the anti-Zionist German Jews into the arms of Zionism. For all the modern-day wailing by Worldwide supporters of Israel (not to mention the Israelis themselves) about "the Holocaust", they neglect to mention that making the situation in Germany as uncomfortable for the Jews as possible - in cooperation with German National Socialism - was part of the plan. This was the genesis of the so-called Transfer Agreement, the agreement between Zionist Jews and the National Socialist government to transfer German Jewry to Palestine. According to Jewish historian Walter Laqueur and many others, German Jews were far from convinced that immigration to Palestine was the answer. Furthermore, although the majority of German Jews refused to consider the Zionists as their political leaders, it is clear that Hitler protected and cooperated with the Zionists for the purposes of implementing the final solution: the mass transfer of Jews to the Middle East. A booklet discussing the emigration of Jews from Third Reich Germany, and the Transfer Agreement that facilitated their emigration, may be found here!

Edwin Black, in his massive tome The Transfer Agreement (Macmillan, 1984), stated that although most Jews did not want to flee to Palestine at all, due to the Zionist movement's influence within Nazi Germany a Jew's best chance of getting out of Germany was by emigrating to Palestine. In other words, the Transfer Agreement itself mandated that Jewish capital could only go to Palestine. Thus, according to the Zionists, a Jew could leave Germany only if he went to the Levant. The primary difficulty with the Transfer Agreement (or even the idea of such an agreement) was that the English [!!!; Scriptorium] were demanding, as a condition of immigration, that each immigrant pay 1,000 pounds sterling upon arrival in Haifa or elsewhere. The difficulty was that such hard currency was nearly impossible to come by in a cash-strapped and radically inflationary Germany. This was the main idea behind the final Transfer Agreement. Laqueur writes: A large German bank would freeze funds paid in by immigrants in blocked accounts for German exporters, while a bank in Palestine would control the sale of German goods to Palestine, thereby providing the immigrants with the necessary foreign currency on the spot. Sam Cohen, co-owner of Hanoah Ltd. and initiator of the transfer endeavors, was however subjected to long-lasting objections from his own people and finally had to concede that such a transfer agreement could only be concluded on a much higher level with a bank of its own rather than that of a private company. The renowned Anglo-Palestine Bank in London would be included in this transfer deal and create a trust company for [this] purpose. Of course, this is of major historical importance in dealing with the relationship between Zionism and National Socialism in Germany in the 1930s. The relationship was not one merely of mutual interest and political favoritism on the part of Hitler, but a close financial relationship with German banking families and financial institutions as well. Black writes: It was one thing for the Zionists to subvert the anti-Nazi boycott. Zionism needed to transfer out the capital of German Jews, and merchandise was the only available medium. But soon Zionist leaders understood that the success of the future Jewish Palestinian economy would be inextricably bound up with the survival of the Nazi economy. So the Zionist leadership was compelled to go further. The German economy would have to be safeguarded, stabilized, and if necessary reinforced. Hence, the Nazi party and the Zionist organizers shared a common stake in the recovery of Germany.

Thus one sees a radical fissure in World Jewry around 1933 and beyond. There were, first, the non-Zionist Jews (specifically the World Jewish Congress founded in 1933), who, on the one hand, demanded the boycott and eventual destruction of Germany. Black notes that many of these people were not just in New York and Amsterdam, but a major source for this also came from Jews in Palestine proper. On the other hand, one can see the judicious use of such feelings by the Zionists for the sake of eventual resettlement in Palestine. In other words, it can be said (and Black does hint at this) that Zionism believed that, since Jews would be moving to the Levant, capital flight would be necessary for any new economy to function. The result was the understanding that Zionism would have to ally itself with National Socialism, so that the German government would not impede the flow of Jewish capital out of the country. It served the Zionist interests at the time that Jews be loud in their denunciations of German practices against the Jews to scare them into the Levant, but, on the other hand, Laqueur states that "The Zionists became motivated not to jeopardize the German economy or currency." In other words, the Zionist leadership of the Jewish Diaspora was one of subterfuge and underhandedness, with only the advent of German hostility towards Jewry convincing the World's Jews that immigration was the only escape.

The fact is that the ultimate establishment of the state of Israel was based on fraud. The Zionists did not represent anything more than a small minority of German Jews in 1933. On the one hand, the Zionist fathers of Israel wanted loud denunciations of Germany's "cruelties" to the World's Jews while at the same time demanding moderation so that the National Socialist government would remain stable, financially and politically. Thus Zionism boycotted the boycott. For all intents and purposes, the National Socialist government was the best thing to happen to Zionism in its history, for it "proved" to many Jews that Europeans were irredeemably anti-Jewish and that Palestine was the only answer: Zionism came to represent the overwhelming majority of Jews solely by trickery and cooperation with Adolf Hitler. As a consequence of the formal declaration of war by World Zionists headed by Samuel Untermeyer, the German authorities thus deemed Jews to be potential enemy agents. It is a fact that two thirds of Germany's food supply had to be imported, and it could only be imported with the proceeds of what they exported. Their labor. So if Germany could not export, two thirds of Germany's population would have to starve. There just was not enough food for more than one third of the population. Now in this declaration, which I have here, it was printed on page -- a whole page -- in the New York Times on August 7, 1933, Mr. Samuel Untermeyer boldly stated that: "this economic boycott is our means of self-defense. President Roosevelt has advocated its use in the NRA". [National Recovery Administration] -- which some of you may remember, where everybody was to be boycotted unless they followed the rules laid down by the New Deal, which of course was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court at that time. Nevertheless, the Zionists of the World declared a boycott against Germany, and it was so effective that you couldn't find one thing in any store anywhere in the World with the words "made in Germany" on it. In fact, an executive of the Woolworth Company told me that they had to dump millions of dollars worth of crockery and dishes into the river; that their stores were boycotted. If anyone came in and found a dish marked "made in Germany," they were picketed with signs: "Hitler", "murderer", and so forth.

The Zionists managed to condemn some Jews to persecution by the Germans because the Zionists had declared war against Germany thus making the Jews enemies within their own country. Zionists also sabotaged the deportations to Madagascar. The Germans created forced labor camps during WW2 where Jews and others were imprisoned for the purpose of providing forced labor. The Red Cross (which was started by the Rothschild dynasty) estimated that several hundred thousand people died of disease in these internment camps. RED CROSS SAYS ONLY 357190 DIED IN NAZI CAMPS \(FROM ALL CAUSES ...arizona.indymedia.org/news/2004/05/19071_comment.php - 144k - Supplemental Result - Cached - Similar pages\)

Benjamin Freedman continued: "Ultimately, the Zionists were also responsible for WW2". Benjamin H. Freedman, committed himself to finding and telling the facts about Zionism and Communism and encouraged others to do the same. The son of one of the founders of the American Jewish Committee, which for many years was anti-Zionist, Ben Freedman founded the League for Peace with Justice in Palestine in 1946. He gave me copies of materials on the Balfour Declaration which I might never have found on my own and encouraged my own research. (He died in April 1984.) The Jewish Declaration of War on Germany: The Economic Boycott of 1933, Article from The Barnes Review, Jan./Feb. 2001, pp. 41-45. The Barnes Review, 645 Pennsylvania Ave SE, Suite 100, Washington D.C. 20003, USA. By M. Raphael Johnson, Ph.D., assistant editor of TBR; published here with kind permission from TBR. This digitalized version © 2002 by The Scriptorium. eMail TBR - subscribe to TBR

The war by the international Jewish leadership on Germany not only sparked definite reprisals by the German government but also set the stage for a little-known economic and political alliance between the German government and the leaders of the Zionist movement who hoped that the tension between the Germans and the Jews would lead to massive emigration to Palestine. In short, the result was a tactical alliance between the Nazis and the founders of the modern-day state of Israel - a fact that many today would prefer be forgotten. To this day, it is generally incorrectly believed that when Adolf Hitler was appointed German chancellor in January of 1933, the German government began policies to suppress the Jews of Germany, including rounding up of Jews and putting them in concentration camps and launching campaigns of terror and violence against the domestic Jewish population. While there were sporadic eruptions of violence against Jews in Germany after Hitler came to power, this was not officially sanctioned or encouraged. And the truth is that anti-Jewish sentiments in Germany (or elsewhere in Europe) were actually nothing new. As all Jewish historians attest with much fervor, anti-Semitic uprisings of various degrees had been ever-present in European history. In early 1933, the Zionists' agent provocateur Hitler was not the undisputed leader of Germany, nor did he have full command of the armed forces. Hitler was a major figure in a coalition government, but he was far from being the government himself. That was the result of a process of consolidation which evolved later. Even Germany's Jewish Central Association, known as the Verein, contested the suggestion (made by some Jewish leaders outside Germany) that the new government was deliberately provoking anti-Jewish uprisings. The Verein issued a statement that "the responsible government authorities [i.e. the Hitler regime] are unaware of the threatening situation," saying, "we do not believe our German fellow citizens will let themselves be carried away into committing excesses against the Jews."

Despite this, Jewish leaders in the United States and Britain determined on their own that it was necessary to launch a war against the German government with Hitler providing all of the required pretexts. Hitler was indeed a Rothschild and a collaborator with the Zionists. On March 12, 1933 the American Jewish Congress announced a massive protest at Madison Square Gardens for March 27. At that time the commander in chief of the Jewish War Veterans called for an American boycott of German goods. In the meantime, on March 23, 20,000 Jews protested at New York's

City Hall as rallies were staged outside the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American shipping lines and boycotts were mounted against German goods throughout shops and businesses in New York City. According to The Daily Express of London of March 24, 1933, the Jews had already launched their boycott against Germany and her elected government. The headline read "Judea Declares War on Germany - Jews of All the World Unite - Boycott of German Goods - Mass Demonstrations." The article described a forthcoming "holy war" and went on to implore Jews everywhere to boycott German goods and engage in mass demonstrations against German economic interests.

According to the Express: The whole of Israel throughout the World is uniting to declare an economic and financial war on Germany. The appearance of the Swastika as the symbol of the new Germany has revived the old war symbol of Judas to new life. Fourteen million Jews scattered over the entire World are tight to each other as if one man, in order to declare war against the German persecutors of their fellow believers. The Jewish wholesaler will quit his house, the banker his stock exchange, the merchant his business, and the beggar his humble hut, in order to join the holy war against Hitler's people. The Express said that Germany was "now confronted with an international boycott of its trade, its finances, and its industry.... In London, New York, Paris and Warsaw, Jewish businessmen are united to go on an economic crusade." The article said "Worldwide preparations are being made to organize protest demonstrations," and reported that "the old and reunited nation of Israel gets in formation with new and modern weapons to fight out its age old battle against its persecutors." This truly could be described as "the first shot fired in the Second World War." In a similar vein, the Jewish newspaper Natscha Retsch wrote: The war against Germany will be waged by all Jewish communities, conferences, congresses... by every individual Jew. Thereby the war against Germany will ideologically enliven and promote our interests, which require that Germany be wholly destroyed. The danger for us Jews lies in the whole German people, in Germany as a whole as well as individually. It must be rendered harmless for all time.... In this war we Jews have to participate, and this with all the strength and might we have at our disposal.

However, note well that the Jewish Association of Germany put out a telegram on the 26th of March rejecting many of the allegations made against the National Socialists as "propaganda," "mendacious" and "sensational." In fact, the Zionist faction had every reason to ensure the permanence of National Socialist ideology in Germany. Klaus Polkehn, writing in the Journal of Palestine Studies ("The Secret Contacts: Zionism and Nazi Germany, 1933-1941"; JPS v. 3/4, spring/summer 1976), claims that the moderate attitude of the Zionists was due to their vested interest in seeing the financial victory of National Socialism to force immigration to Palestine. This little-known factor would ultimately come to play a pivotal part in the relationship between Nazi Germany and the Jews. In the meantime, though, German Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath complained of the "vilification campaign" and said: As concerns Jews, I can only say that their propagandists abroad are rendering their co-religionists in Germany no service by giving the German public, through their distorted and untruthful news about persecution and torture of Jews, the impression that they actually halt at nothing, not even at lies and calumny, to fight the present German government. The fledgling Hitler government itself was clearly trying to contain the growing tension - both within Germany and without. In the United States, even U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull wired Rabbi Stephen Wise of the American Jewish Congress and urged caution: Whereas there was for a short time considerable physical mistreatment of Jews, this phase may be considered virtually terminated.... A stabilization appears to have been reached in the field of personal mistreatment.... I feel hopeful that the situation which has caused such widespread concern throughout this country will soon revert to normal.

Despite all this, the leaders of the Jewish community refused to relent. On March 27 there were simultaneous protest rallies at Madison Square Garden, in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cleveland and 70 other locations. The New York rally was broadcast Worldwide. The bottom line is that "the New Germany" was declared to be an enemy of Jewish interests and thus needed to be economically strangled. This was before Hitler decided to boycott Jewish goods. It was in direct response to this that the German government announced a one-day boycott of Jewish businesses in Germany on April 1. German Propaganda Minister Dr. Joseph Goebbels announced that if, after the one-day boycott, there were no further attacks on Germany, the boycott would be stopped. Hitler himself responded to the Jewish boycott and the threats in a speech on March 28 - four days after the original Jewish declaration of war - saying: Now that the domestic enemies of the nation have been eliminated by the Volk itself, what we have long been waiting for will not come to pass. The Communist and Marxist criminals and their Jewish-intellectual instigators, who, having made off with their capital stocks across the border in the nick of time, are now unfolding an unscrupulous, treasonous campaign of agitation against the German Volk as a whole from there.... Lies and slander of positively hair-raising perversity are being launched about Germany. Horror stories of dismembered Jewish corpses, gouged out eyes and hacked off hands are circulating for the purpose of defaming the German Volk in the World for the second time, just as they had succeeded in doing once before in 1914. Zionists commit crimes against Jews and others and then play victim to demonize the other side.

Thus, the fact - one conveniently left out of nearly all history on the subject - is that Hitler's March 28, 1933 boycott order was in direct response to the declaration of war on Germany by the Worldwide Jewish leadership just four days earlier. Today, Hitler's boycott order is described as a naked act of aggression, yet the full circumstances leading up to his order are seldom described in even the most ponderous and detailed histories of "the Holocaust". Not even Saul Friedlander in his otherwise comprehensive overview of German policy, Nazi Germany and the Jews, mentions the fact that the Jewish declaration of war and boycott preceded Hitler's speech of March 28, 1933. Discerning readers would be wise to ask why Friedlander felt this item of history so irrelevant. The simple fact is that it was organized international Zionism as a political entity - and not even the German Jewish community per se - that actually initiated the first shot in the war with Germany. Germany's response was a defensive - not an offensive - measure. Were that fact widely known today, it would cast new light on the subsequent events that ultimately led to the World-wide conflagration that followed. To understand Germany's reaction to the Jewish declaration of war, it is vital to understand the critical state of the German economy at the time. In 1933, the German economy was in a shambles. Some 3 million Germans were on public assistance with a total of 6 million unemployed. Hyper-inflation had destroyed the economic vitality of the German nation. Furthermore, the anti-German propaganda pouring out of the global press strengthened the resolve of Germany's enemies, especially the Poles and their hawkish military high command. The Jewish leaders were not bluffing. The boycott was an act of war not solely in metaphor: it was a means, well crafted, to destroy Germany as a political, social and economic entity. The long term purpose of the Jewish boycott against Germany was to bankrupt her with respect to the reparation payments imposed on Germany after World War I and to keep Germany demilitarized and vulnerable. The boycott, in fact, was quite crippling to Germany. Jewish scholars such as Edwin Black have reported that, in response to the boycott, German exports were cut by 10 percent, and that many were demanding seizing German assets in foreign countries (Edwin Black, The Transfer Agreement - The Untold Story). Yet, the other little-known fact is that just before the war began, the leadership of the World Jewish community formally declared war on Germany - above and beyond the ongoing six-year-long economic boycott launched by the Worldwide Jewish community when the Nazi Party came to power in 1933.

Congressman Louis T. McFadden before the House of Representatives, Congressional Record, June 15, 1934, in the midst of the Great Depression: At the present time the Soviet Union is in debt. From the date of Trotzky's return to Russia the course of Russian history has, indeed, been greatly affected by the operations of international bankers. They have acted through German and English institutions and have kept Russia in bondage to themselves. Their relatives in Germany have drawn immense sums of money from the United States and have in turn financed their agents in Russia at a handsome profit. The Soviet Government has been given United States Treasury funds by the Federal Reserve banks acting through the Chase Bank and the Guaranty Trust Co. and other banks in New York City. England, no less than Germany, has drawn money from us through the Federal Reserve banks and has re-lent it at high rates of interest to the Soviet Government or has used it to finance her sales to Soviet Russia and her engineering works within the Russian boundaries. The Dnieperstroy Dam was built with funds unlawfully taken from the United States Treasury by the corrupt and dishonest Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve banks. Mr. Speaker, an immense amount of United States money has been used abroad in preparations for war and in the acquisition and the manufacture of war supplies. Germany is said to be part owner of a large poison-gas factory at Troitsk on Russian soil. China is almost completely Sovietized, and in the Asiatic interior huge stocks of munitions are said to be stored awaiting the day when the war lords of the United States will ship United States troops to Asia. Mr. Speaker, the United States should look before it leaps into another war, especially a war in Asia. It should decide whether it is worthwhile to join hands with Russia and China in a war against Japan. For myself, I say and I have said it often that the United States should remember George Washington's advice. It should mind its own business and stay home. It should not permit the Jewish international bankers to drive it into another war so that they and their Gentile fronts and sycophants by way of Louis McHenry Howe, the graftmaster, may reap rich profits on everything an army needs from toilet kits to airplanes, submarines, tanks gas masks, poison gas, ammunition, bayonets, guns, and other paraphernalia and instruments of destruction.

British undersecretary of foreign affairs Vansittard wrote the same as Churchill said in a famous 1940 memo. Vansittard added 'that Germany had caused trouble since 1871', in that year Bismarck unified Germany, the resulting Germany was an economic threat to the aging British empire Günther W.Gellermann, 'Geheime Wege zum Frieden, Ausgewählte Initiativen zur Beendigung des Krieges 1940/1942', Bonn 1995.

Here's the story behind the story: Chaim Weizmann, president of both the international "Jewish Agency" and of the World Zionist Organization (and later Israel's first president), told British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in a letter published in The London Times on September 6, 1939 that: I wish to confirm, in the most explicit manner, the declarations which I and my colleagues have made during the last month, and especially in the last week, that the Jews stand by Great Britain and will fight on the side of the democracies. Our urgent desire is to give effect to these declarations [against Germany]. We wish to do so in a way entirely consonant with the general scheme of British action, and therefore would place ourselves, in matters big and small, under the coordinating direction of His Majesty's Government. The Jewish Agency is ready to enter into immediate arrangements for utilizing Jewish manpower, technical ability, resources, etc. In fact, Polish Zionists then carried out the massacre of Ethnic Germans in the German area that was occupied by Poland after World War I.

before and at the start of world War Two in Poland was by no means restricted to the Bloody Sunday of Bromberg, a massacre that is all too often downplayed or even denied outright today. This book, dating from 1940 and published here for the first time in English to commemorate the 65th anniversary of these events in September 2004, lets the reader experience almost first-hand the terrible fate of tens of thousands of ethnic Germans in Poland in September 1939. A shameful blot on the pages of Polish history, for all Polish post-War generations to bear for all time! [440Kb / 18 pages - or 854 Kb with the detailed photos] Shofar FTP Archive File: orgs/british/daily-express/judea-declares-war.

In the Bromberg massacres, an estimated total of 58,000 German civilians were slaughtered. A website on the atrocity at Bromberg explains how Polish Bolshevik Zionists massacred

5,500 Germans, on one 'Bloody Sunday, in 1939. Germany then invaded Poland to protect Germans. The anti-Semitic event we know as "Crystal Night" was supposedly a time when Germans spontaneously decided to go on a rampage, but there is evidence that the event was planned and organized by Zionists who were pretending to be Nazis (sounds familiar, fake terror to demonize the other party). <http://judicial-inc.biz/Kristallnacht.htm>

Bolshevik leaders of the Ponz, Warsaw and Lodz Jewish Zionist groups. The anti-Semitic event we know as "Crystal Night" was supposedly a time when Germans spontaneously decided to go on a rampage, but there is evidence that the event was planned and organized by Zionists who were pretending to be Nazis: <http://judicial-inc.biz/Kristallnacht.htm>.

The Protestant German Minister of the Heart of Yashua-Joshua-Jesus Church in Bromberg, in silent prayer before the bodies of murdered ethnic Germans from Bromberg.

To recap, WW 2 was started over the Danzig corridor which was part of Germany until the Versailles treaty gave it to Poland. The 1918 Versailles Treaty decimated Germany - causing a depression enabling Jews and Zionists to buy up vast amounts of German industry and left Germans bitter. International Jewry who represented 80% of those attending the Versailles treaty forced Germany to give a portion of their country (Danzig Corridor http://www.erdmond.com/Polish_Corridor.html) to Poland.

Following Germany's annexation of Austria in 1938 and most of Czechoslovakia in 1939, the Nazi regime turned its attention to Poland. Edward "Colonel" House was Jewry's lead man, a Rothschild employee who previously helped form the fraudulent Federal Reserve. In 1937, Germany was negotiating with Poland to give Germany a 1 mile access to their province of East Prussia. Both parties were in agreement when in 1939 Poland suddenly broke off all negotiations because earlier in 1938, Roosevelt gave Churchill assurances that the USA would be brought into war against Germany. On March 31, 1939, Britain and France secretly guaranteed Poland's defense. Poland then threatened war emboldened by Roosevelt and Churchill guarantees. Rydz Smigly and Ignacy Moscicki, the head of Poland's army and its president were saber rattling. Smigly said -- "Poland wants war with Germany and Germany will not be able to avoid it even if she wants to." The Polish Bolshevik Zionist then killed some 58,000 German Nationals in the Danzig corridor, a mass killing of thousands of civilian ethnic Germans (Volksdeutsche) by both civilian and Russian NDVK Zionist Jews. Many apparently expected to take possession of German farms and businesses after their massacre. Poles had been slaughtering anything or anybody German as early as April 1939, with smaller incidents stretching back to the close of WW I -- you haven't been told that by the Mass Media, or the fact that these atrocities were one of the main causes for the German invasion of Poland. Germany had been protesting in writing to the League of Nations literally dozens of times with no results. On the Bromberg Bloody Sunday, on one day alone - Polish Zionist, under the protection of the Polish Army, attacked this small German town and viciously killed 5500 Germans. Groups of Bolsheviks attacked from Ponz, Lotz and Warsaw approached the town and started killing the farmers on the outskirts.

<http://www.wintersonnenwende.com/scriptorium/english/archives/articles/jdecwar.html>

1938: Roosevelt gave Churchill assurances that the USA would be brought into war against Germany. Churchill to Lord Robert Boothby: "Germany's unforgivable crime before the second World war," Churchill said, "was her attempt to extricate her economic power from the World's trading system and to create her own exchange mechanism which would deny World finance its opportunity to profit.", quoted in the Foreword, 2nd Ed. Sydney Rogerson, Propaganda in the Next War 2001, orig. 1938.

No debt-free, or interest-free, money has been issued in America since President Abraham Lincoln did it in 1863 to help finance the Civil War. He was later assassinated, by an agent of the Rothschild Bank. We will show later that most of the owners of the large banks and the US Presidents are/have descended from the European Nobility and are connected with the Rothschild European banks. The Saracen Islamic Empire forbade interest on money, for 1,000 years and its wealth outshone even Saxon Europe. Mandarin China issued its own money, interest-free, and debt-free, and historians and collectors of art, today, consider those centuries to be China's time of greatest wealth, culture and peace. Germany issued debt-free and interest-free money, from 1935 accounting for its startling rise from the depression to a World power in 5 years (Hitler was created for the purpose of providing an excuse to attack Germany and get its banking system back into the hands of the Illuminati). Germany financed its entire government, and war operations, from 1935 to 1945, without gold and without debt, and it took the whole Capitalist and Communist World to destroy the German power and bring it back under the heel of the Illuminati Bankers (by the way, Napoleon was put away because he too wanted to take away the power to create money from the Banking Dynasties and put it in the hands of the state; Communism was launched to get control of the Tsar's bank for the Illuminati). Now you have a better understanding of what World War II was all about. Hitler was created to give an excuse for the Illuminati Bankers to wage war just like Terrorism and Al-Qaeda are created today for the Illuminati Bankers to wage war against whom they wish to exploit. Several Arab nations issue interest-free loans to their citizens, today, and their money can be easily backed by OIL.

March 31, 1939: Britain and France guarantee Poland's defense (Anglo French Assurance Pact). They secretly made a pact with Poland to come to their defense if Germany attacked. <http://www.indiana.edu/~league/1939.htm>

1st Sept 1939 Midnight, Poland Declares war on Germany, Radio Warsaw claiming that Polish troops would be in Berlin by the end of the week. (Poland had 40 Infantry Divisions up against 35 German divisions and were on home ground.) 5 hours later Germany moved troops into Poland. 3rd Sept. Gt. Britain and France Declare war on Germany. 3rd Sept 1939 Polish Militia slaughter 5,700 German civilians in Bromberg. 6th Sept 1939, Chaim Weizmann Head of the Jewish Agency for Palestine officially joins the Allies in the war. 1948 : Three years after the war, Israel officially declares Germany to be 'An Enemy of the State of Israel'.

Poland threatens war: Emboldened by Roosevelt and Churchill guarantees Rydz Smigly and Ignacy Moscicki , the head of Poland's army and it's president were saber rattling . Smigly said -- "Poland wants war with Germany and Germany will not be able to avoid it even if she wants to." He threatened to overrun Germany in three days.

About 9.3 million Germans died needlessly soon after the war...they (the Allies) did not end the killing at the end of the war but increased it...far more German civilians died in five years of peace than soldiers in six years of war. This Allied policy of annihilation was nothing new. After World War I, the Allies starved to death nearly a million Germans (cf. C. Paul Vincent, "The Politics of Hunger: The Allied Blockade of Germany, 1915-1919"). The chief architect of the post WWII genocide was the Zionist-American Henry Morgenthau. Morgenthau's plan for the systematic starvation of the German people through the destruction of their industrial capacity (and hence their ability to purchase grain for import) was officially dropped by the Americans. But in late November of 1944, Pres. Franklin Roosevelt told John Maynard Keynes in secret that the plan would be implemented. US Secretary of State Cordell Hull acknowledged that the Morgenthau Plan would mean the deaths of some 20 million Germans by starvation. What finally assured the prolonged starvation of Germans was the enforced reduction of industry. By autumn 1945, industrial production was deliberately reduced to around 25-30% of pre-war levels, thus preventing the chance of buying food imports...The Allies slowed oil production to a trickle, closed down factories, kept the labor force imprisoned, confiscated or destroyed factories and machinery...By false accounting, the Allies also refused to credit the value of some German exports to the German account, making it impossible for Germans to earn foreign currency to buy food. In Berlin in September 1945, an official estimated that half the children aged three and under would not survive the next year. The infant mortality rate in Berlin at that time was nearly 100%. Sounds familiar? Think of the boycott of Iraq since 1991!

In Hamburg in 1946, in the British zone of occupation, while thousands of tons of surplus military food stockpiles were left to rot, 100,000 Germans were in the last stages of starvation. In January of 1946, US Senator Kenneth Wherry stated, "The American people should know once and for all that as a result of this government's official policy they are being made...accomplices in the crime of mass starvation...Germany is the only nation subjected to a deliberate starvation policy..." Bacque notes that, Red Cross food trains were sent back to Switzerland; all foreign governments were denied permission to send food to German civilians; fertilizer production was sharply reduced...The fishing fleet was kept in port while people starved. British soldiers actually blew up one fishing boat in front of the eyes of astonished Germans. When the Mennonite Central Committee in Canada and the US attempted to send food to the German people, the Allied military governments refused the necessary permits. In Great Britain, even the concept of voluntary aid via food parcels from Britain's civilians was anathema to Whitehall in October, 1945. Such aid to Germans was forbidden. The Nazi commander Arthur Seys-Inquart was hanged at Nuremberg for withholding food from the Dutch, even though he ordered an airlift of food supplies to Holland when the Germans themselves were hard-pressed for food. American naval officer Capt. Albert Behnke compared the German civilians under the Allies with the conditions in Holland under the Germans, for which Seys-Inquart had been executed as a war criminal: Germany was subjected to physical and psychic trauma unparalleled in history. The Germans under the Allies fared much worse than the Dutch under the Germans and for far longer.

Furthermore, French occupiers took a terrible toll on German women, children and elderly, by forced seizure of food. They also instituted a campaign of mass rape of German women in Stuttgart. German churches in the French zone of occupation flew black flags to mark the interminable deaths from starvation that took place under the heel of the French. The official ration in the French zone in January, 1947 was 450 calories per day...After the starvation process was assured and set irretrievably in motion (after hundreds of thousands of Germans were still alive but too far gone to be saved from death), the Allies allowed token relief. Bacque notes that, "By the time such pacifist organizations as the Mennonites of Canada were permitted to send food to their co-religionists in Germany, in June 1946, the overall death rate in Germany had risen to more than double the normal rate". In this way the Allies covered their bases. Millions of Germans could be exterminated while a few thousand were rescued, thereby providing camouflage for the genocide. The Marshall plan is part of this myth, showcasing the spotless virtue of the American government in its great benevolence to the Germans. But the Marshall Plan came after the mass starvations had been effected. The plan itself was an accounting trick and a public relations scam. Had the Germans been left alone, they could have, through their own famous work ethic, provided for themselves much better than the Marshall Plan did. Bacque points out that The Americans took from Germany at least 20 times the amount Germans retained under the Marshall Plan.

In the east, a great ethnic cleansing of Germans was under way perpetrated by Poles and Czechs. The Expulsion as it has tepidly come to be called, was authorized under the Potsdam agreement signed by Stalin, Churchill and Truman. More than 16 million Germans were uprooted from ancestral German lands. The atrocities visited upon these German civilians included gruesome mutilations, forced rape, starvation and mass shootings. Anyone who attempted to furnish German children with food, shelter or medicine was shouted at as a Nazi by his fellow Czechs. And then the army of Russian rapists arrived. At Neisse in Upper Silesia, the village priest wrote, During the first night of the Russian occupation, many of the nuns were raped as many as 50 times. German nuns who resisted were knocked down, kicked, beaten, struck in the face with the butt-ends of revolvers and rifles until they collapsed into unconsciousness and then were raped in that state. Many of the German priests in the East were murdered by Poles and Russians in the spring and summer of 1945. In Upper Silesia 45 priests were murdered because they remained with their flocks to the bitter end. Other German Christians also suffered horribly. Thousands of German Mennonites were beaten and shot at by British troops who tried to force them onto trains bound for the Soviet Gulag, for example at Liezen in Austria in June, 1945. Hundreds of thousands of Germans were forced into former Nazi concentration camps operated by Polish Jews. Not many Germans survived these camps. (Cf. John Sack, "An Eye for an Eye").

Today when a German survivor attempts to relate what happened he is hampered...by incredulity, by cover ups...For instance, bones discovered in 1976 and 1981 in mass graves at Kaltwasser/Bromberg were returned to the ground without any marker when it was decided by a Polish commission investigating Nazi war crimes that the dead had been German. Bacque says that Analogous incidents have occurred at Lambach in Austria and at Rheinberg, Erfurt and Bretzenheim in Germany. Of the more than 16 million German civilians expelled from the East, Bacque states that 2.1 million are officially acknowledged as having died during their expulsion to central Germany, but that another 2.5 million are unaccounted for and that most of these also died, putting the total deaths among the German civilians of Eastern Europe at well over four million. But there is virtually no mention in the establishment media of these Allied war crimes--nine million German civilians needlessly and unconscionably murdered by the Allies after WWII ended. This gruesome, unsung real mass holocaust must not be forgotten or whitewashed.

"As a person who grew up on Jewish ethics, I am at a great loss and shame to see our Zionist Rabbis justifying the present Moslem holocaust in the name of God and our Jewish religion. One thing I am sure of, if there is God, he is NOT 'Zionistically' Jewish. After reading many non-Zionists Jewish websites, I started believing as do many Rabbis in New York, that Zionism is: Satan hijacking our Jewish religion." [referred to as the Pharisees, the Synagogue of Satan whom Yashua-Yashua-Joshua drove out of the temple in Jerusalem, i.e. Babylonian Nimrodic idolatry priests] - Rose Rabbinovich, rabbinovich@bluemail.ch, Former Zionist, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. Note that so-called "Christian evangelists" are doing the same pro-war-invasion-occupation-enslavement propaganda."

Hitler was from the Zionist Khazar Ashkenazi Rothschild banklord family. Hitler's driver was also Jewish, this is in contradiction with the propaganda image the public has been conditioned with of Hitler. Emil Maurice with Hitler in this picture. Many Jews were among Hitler's followers at all level, including the high ranking Alfred Rosenberg, Hermann Goering, Reinhard Heydrich, Adolf Eichmann, Dr. Otto Gustav Wachter, etc.. Hitler's Jewish Clairvoyant was Erik Jan Hanussen. "The following is a partial list of Jews who participated in the Revolutionary War: Major George Bush, Major Louis Bush, Major Solomon Bush." - National Jewish Welfare Board, Jewish Calander for Soldiers and Sailors 1943-1944, "The Jews in the Wars of the United States" Note that the Rockefellers, Rothschilds, Clinton, Mikhail Gorbachev (Orbach-Korbach), Lenin, Joseph V. Stalin (Iosip David Vissarionovich Dugashvili-Kochba), Gengrich Yagoda, Karl Marx, Mark Rich (Reich), Christian Rakovsky (Chaim Rakover), F.D. Roosevelt, etc. are from Khazar Ashkenazi Jewish ancestry and all occultists. Wall Street funded the Nazis, including Prescott Bush (grandfather of George W.)

Papal Christianity endured for so long because of violence and intolerance of other Worldviews. The mass media now performs the role that the papal church did in the medieval World. If you have media power you can make people believe anything and you can demonize anyone, remember Orson Well's war of the Worlds? In many cases I find when leafleting that the problem is that people don't want to realise that the World is so corrupt and that History can be fabricated, they would rather rationalise revisionism away. This is why ZOGs imprison revisionists to exploit this tendency. The Holocaust itself is so grossly exaggerated that the fact that people are out questioning it is enough to wake up many people. Just to ask someone sharply "Are you really so stupid that you believed the human soap lie?" is often enough to wake them up. The media has been used to create a mass psychosis. It is obvious to me that the holocaust satisfies some deep psychological needs in over-socialised people.

During his tumultuous rise to the pinnacles of power Adolf Hitler was often accused of being Jewish. Even the leaders of the National Party which he sought to lead, ridiculed Hitler as a 'Jew' and for 'behaving like a Jew' as did many of his enemies. In 1933, it was reported in a London newspaper that a gravestone was found in a Jewish cemetery in Bucharest, inscribed with Hebrew characters that spelled out: Adolf Hitler. Adolf Hitler was a Jewish name... but this 'Adolf Hitler' had been born in 1832, fifty years before the birth of the future dictator of Germany. Before coming to power, Adolf Hitler was also a target of widespread ridicule, and was mocked by enemies and the press who questioned his ancestry and who laughably referred to him as 'Adolf Schickelgruber.' 'Schickelgruber' had been the name of Adolf's maternal grandmother, and for 39 years, the name of his father, Alois. Although the 'Schickelgruber' moniker rankled the rising dictator, what concerned him and what he feared most was the history behind the name: the discovery that he was part 'Jew,' a fear he repeatedly voiced long after coming to power. 'People must not know who I am,' he ranted, and then ranted again when informed that his family history was being investigated. 'They must not know where I came from.' Long before and well after Hitler became Chancellor of Germany, considerable effort was expended to falsify, erase or destroy the records from his past. Repeated investigations were conducted by the Gestapo who repeatedly visited his ancestral village in Austria, questioning and threatening anyone that had been associated with the Hitler family. Hitler was so concerned that when he annexed Austria, in 1938, he ordered that his family's ancestral village, Dollersheim, and all neighboring villages be destroyed. His armies marched in and then cleared out and forcibly evacuated the villagers who were dispersed far and wide. And then Hitler in fact, made it disappear, erased it from the face of the Earth. His armies bombed Dollersheim and all neighboring villages into oblivion as part of a training exercise. Even his father's and grandmother's graves were obliterated and no trace remains. Nevertheless, what has survived the ravages of time, purposeful destruction and clever forgery, is the fact that Adolf's father, Alois Schickelgruber was the illegitimate son of a female servant, Maria Anna Schickelgruber. Maria Anna became pregnant while living as a servant in a Jewish household --a common servant girl fate. It was assumed by family members and villagers alike that she'd been impregnated by the head of the house, Baron Rothschild (Langer, 1973; Payne, 1973); a rumor that the Austrian Secret police claimed to have confirmed when ordered by Austrian Chancellor Dollfuss to conduct a thorough investigation. Later, when Hitler orchestrated the ansschluss of Austria and German trooped marched in, he had Dollfuss murdered, and in addition to destroying Dollersheim, ordered that all documents related to that investigation be destroyed. Hitler's own nephew, William Patrick Hitler, and Adolf's personnel attorney, Hans Frank, claimed that his grandfather was a wealthy 'Granz Jew' by the name of Frankenberger who in turn 'paid a maintenance allowance [by Rothschild] from the time of the child's birth until his fourteenth year.' As Frank reported to Hitler, and as he recounted at his Nuremberg war crimes trial, based on what he learned 'the possibility cannot be dismissed that Hitler's father was half Jewish as a result of an extramarital relationship between the Schickelgruber woman and the Jew from Graz. This would mean that Hitler was one-quarter Jewish.'" —Rhawn Joseph, Ph.D., Hitler's Diaries, University Press, "The Mind & God of Adolf Hitler".

"While researching in Germany, I was surprised to find I was a Jew. Yes, Adolf Hitler was a Jew. So was Reinhard Heydrich, who was in charge of the Final Solution and the NAZI Death Camps."—Dr. Bryan Mark Rigg, PhD, winner of the Bill Colby Award, the CIA's top prize for journalism, author of Hitler's Jewish Soldiers: The Untold Story of Nazi Racial Laws and Men of Jewish Descent in the German Military (150,000 Jews served in the German military and Gestapo during World War 2, including admirals and generals), on Pentagon's C-SPAN TV in 2004, C-SPAN.ORG

"Adolf Hitler believed he was a Jew. That's why he ordered his home town in Austria bombed into oblivion, BEFORE World War 2 began, to destroy his birth records, and destroy all tombstones and cemeteries." —Ron Rosenbaum (a Jew), author of Explaining Hitler: The Search for the Origins of His Evil, on History Channel's History Undercover: Hitler and Stalin: Roots of Evil

"Alfred Rosenberg was half Jewish and joined with Hitler in 1919. He had immigrated from Russia and had brought with him to Germany, the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, which he translated and which purports to detail a Jewish plot to take over the World. Rosenberg became a leader of the Nazi party, he advocated the mass murder of Jews, and was condemned to death after his conviction at the Nuremberg trials at the end of the war. Hermann Goering, the number 2 man in the Nazi hierarchy, was also condemned to death, but cheated the Hangman's noose by taking poison. Like Rosenberg, Herman Goering was believed to be half Jewish. His mother, although married to a German, was also the mistress of a wealthy Jew [Rothschild, and also employed in the household of Baron Rothschild], and it was rumored that the Jew and not the German, was his true father. And then there is Reinhard Heydrich who was also believed to be half Jewish. Reinhard Heydrich organized the 'Office for Jewish Emigration' which later became the office of extermination. It has been said the Heydrich was so tormented by his Jewish ancestry and the 'Jew within' that he sought to cleanse himself by orchestrating the extermination of all European Jews." —Rhawn Joseph, Ph.D., Hitler's Diaries, University Press, "The Mind & God of Adolf Hitler", quoting Ron Rosenbaum (a Jew), author of Explaining Hitler: The Search for the Origins of His Evil

"They are responsible for some 60 million deaths. They ruled their countries with iron fists, squashing all dissent and directing government-sponsored programs of terror against their own citizens. Drawing on the latest findings and expert analysis from leading psychologists and historians, HITLER AND STALIN: ROOTS OF EVIL examines the 20th century's worst villains. The parallels are striking: both had abusive fathers and doting mothers, both were extremely insecure about their physical appearance and ashamed of their backgrounds, and both came to power at roughly the same time. From Hitler's 'Jewish nose' to Stalin's deformed foot, the Final Solution to the Gulags, this incisive special compares the backgrounds and policies of these two despots, interpreting the latest evidence and theories in the hopes of illuminating the personal, emotional and mental underpinnings of their actions."

—HistoryChannel.com, History Undercover: Hitler and Stalin: Roots of Evil

"A new biography tells the bizarre tale of the Jewish psychic who met with the future Führer for private sessions and predicted his rise. In the weeks leading up to Adolf Hitler's appointment as Reichschancellor on Jan. 30, 1933, there was nothing inevitable about the Austrian corporal's ascension to power. Results of the 1932 November Reichstag elections were disappointing for his National Socialist Party, with the Nazis suffering losses in the German parliament while retaining about a third of the seats there. Nazi coffers had been drained dry by the campaign. Hitler had endured significant defections from his movement and threatened suicide. Some Nazis began to wonder if he had the right stuff to be their Führer. It was at this point that Hitler, falling back on his belief in the occult (which is the Babylonian cult of apostate Jews), called the most renowned clairvoyant in the land to his headquarters at the Hotel Kaiserhof in Berlin for a private session. The man Hitler met with that day is the subject of a recent biography, Erik Jan Hanussen: Hitler's Jewish Clairvoyant, by Mel Gordon. Hitler became a Hanussenite when in March of 1932 the psychic's own weekly newspaper, Erik Jan Hanussen's Berliner Wochenschau, printed the startling prophecy that within one year's time the future Führer would become Reichschancellor. By the end of the month, Hitler had cut a deal with his enemies and become titular head of a coalition government. One can only wonder the intensity of his rage, if the raving [Zionist] anti-Semite had known at the time that the man he had adopted as his personal soothsayer, the chap nicknamed 'the Prophet of the Third Reich,' the decadent mystic who had just run his hands through his Aryan locks, was in fact ... a Jew. Hanussen started life as Hermann Steinschneider, with a birth certificate that read 'Hebrew male.' 'It's like saying, "Hitler's favorite rabbi," people are waiting for the punch line,' confesses Gordon. 'But it's not a joke.' The burning of the Reichstag on Feb. 27, 1933, [similar to 9-11 orchestrated by the Neocon Zionists Cabal] for which German communists took the fall, paved the way for the consolidation of power in Hitler's hands and the suspension of all civil liberties. Eerily, the day before, Hanussen had predicted the event through a medium during the opening soiree of his newly minted pagan temple, the Palace of the Occult, a marble and gold-decked Taj Mahal of the black arts in Berlin decorated with astrological signs and religious statuettes. There, in the presence of Nazi officials and assorted VIPs, the seer claimed to see a 'great house' in flames during a séance in his sanctum sanctorum, the Room of Glass. Hours later, the Reichstag was engulfed in a mysterious conflagration. Despite his Semitic origins, Hanussen had extremely close ties to the Nazi party. He had lent hundreds of thousands of marks to high-ranking leaders of the Nazis, like Hermann Goering, and held IOUs from them. He had befriended Count Wolf Heinrich von Helldorf, the sadistic, depraved commander of Berlin's SA, and referred to Hitler as 'my pal Adolf.' Certainly, Hanussen could have had inside information of a Reichstag plot. Or perhaps he was even more directly involved. Hanussen may have hypnotized the fall guy van der Lubbe to do his bidding, either with or without the help of Nazi conspirators. Gordon, who is himself Jewish, asserts his belief that Hanussen somehow participated in a plot to set fire to the Reichstag. 'The other story is why he was killed. That is, he had to be eliminated because he knew too much,' says Gordon. There were other reasons why the Nazis wanted Hanussen dead. Goebbels and Goering both saw him as an interloper and a potential rival for the Führer's attentions, and there was the little matter of all those IOUs Hanussen had collected. Hanussen also, supposedly, had film footage of SA members involved in homosexual orgies. The communist press had long published reports that Hanussen was Jewish, but it wasn't until the Reichstag fire bequeathed totalitarian powers to the Nazis and allowed them to eliminate the communists as a threat that they had the time to focus on Hanussen's bloodline. In a missive written in invisible ink, he informed a colleague, 'I always thought that business about the Jews was just an election trick of theirs. It wasn't.' On the morning of March 25, 1933, Hanussen was arrested by the SA and summarily executed. His lifeless body was left in a field on the outskirts of Berlin." —Stephen Lemons, Salon.com, "Hitler's clairvoyant", Feb. 27, 2002

NASA NAZIs, like next-door neighbor Waffen SS Baron Wernher von Braun, worked in the underground ICBM factory at Nordhausen, Germany. 25,000 slaves were genocided there, according to History Channel TV's "Modern Marvels". Then the NAZI warcriminals were hired by the Pentagon and OSS/CIA, after trading 50,000 US and British POWs to Communist Russia for their slave camps and genocidal medical experiments, according to ABC News' 20/20. Maybe that's why NASA named its Apollo program for SATAN, maybe as revealed in Revelation 9:11? As reported in Parade magazine on February 9, 1986, Elliot Roosevelt who, as part of [Operation APHRODITE, eyewitnessed and photographed the explosion that killed potential presidential candidate Joseph Kennedy Jr, JFK's older brother], while piloting a robot drone B-24 Liberator bomber packed with explosives as a Kamikaze Bunker Buster bomb to attack Wernher Von Braun's NAZI ICBM launch sites in France, as reported in History Channel's Dead Men's Secrets] wrote that he had visited [genocidal Communist dictator of Russia Joseph] Stalin in 1946 for an interview. This had reminded him of something quite extraordinary that had occurred at the time of [his father] President Roosevelt's sudden death less than two months after the

Yalta Conference [to give half of Europe and Asia and 50,000 Allied POW slaves to Communist Russia]. According to Elliot Roosevelt, this is what Stalin said: 'When your father died, I sent my ambassador with a request that he be allowed to view the remains and report to me what he saw. Your mother refused. I have never forgiven her' 'But why?' Elliot asked. 'They poisoned your father, of course, just as they have tried repeatedly to poison me. Your mother would not allow my representative to see evidence of that. But I know. They poisoned him!' "They"? Who are "They"? Elliot asked. 'The Churchill gang! Stalin roared. 'They poisoned your father, and they continue to try to poison me. The Churchill gang!' When Ho Chi Minh signed the Declaration of Independence for his new nation in September, 1945, he read from the text of that document: 'A people who have courageously opposed French domination for more than eighty years, a people who have fought side by side with the Allies against the Fascists during these last years - such a people must be free and independent.' Ho Chi Minh did not yet realize that the hated enemies of World War II were soon to be America's bosom friends. The former Fascists (who had helped kill 20 million people), Germany, Italy and Japan were now to be known as friendly 'anti-Communists,' during the instantly-created World-wide Cold War. We do not have precise answers as to why we gave U.S. arms to Ho Chi Minh in 1945 and then a few years later provided Ho's enemy, the French with $3 billion of our arms. Who had directed that one-half of that great stockpile of weapons and other warmaking materiel that was delivered to Okinawa for use during the invasion of Japan, should, instead, be transhipped to Vietnam? Questions like these require that we begin to think in terms of an awareness of a super power elite that can, and does, make such monumental decisions. Lest it appear that I am making these allegations out of thin air, may I suggest that others, now and at other times, have come to similar conclusions. Winston Churchill, in conversations with intimate friends during World War II, made reference to a 'High Cabal'. The 'Why Vietnam?' question causes us to later ask, 'Why John F. Kennedy?' To probe further, why did the Vietnam War cause the dean of American military correspondents, Hansen W. Baldwin, to write, in the forward to Admiral USG Sharp's book Strategy of Defeat, the following: '...for this first defeat in American history - the historical blame must be placed squarely where it belongs - not primarily upon our military leaders - but upon the very top civilian policy makers in Washington, specifically the Commander in Chief [President Lyndon B. Johnson]'. Admiral Sharp, who was the commander in chief of the Pacific (CINCPAC), wrote, 'The Vietnam episode was one of the most controversial eras in US history. When we accepted defeat, we seemed to be clearly saying to the World that we had ultimately lost our concern for the responsibilities, indeed the honor, that goes with a leadership role. If this is indeed true, I fear for the peace of the World.'" —Colonel Fletcher Prouty, USAF (retired, DOA summer 2001), chief of special operations and as intelligence liaison for the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Pentagon, from Prouty's autobiography JFK - The CIA, Vietnam, And The Plot To Assassinate John F. Kennedy (censored in paperback) (a/k/a "Mr. "X" (portrayed by Donald Sutherland) in Oliver Stone's documentary of New Orleans District Attorney General Judge Jim Garrison: JFK (2 video set plus real-World documentary interviews with eyewitnesses from Warren Report et al), that induced US Congress to order declassification of 2-million pages of assassination archives, resulting in the ultimate Smoking Gun: the declassification of Pentagon's plot for domestic terrorism and treason via its)

The following are some of the Nazis hired to work for the CIA on unethical experiments: Dr. Sidney Gottlieb. Ex head CIA Chemical Biological Warfare program. Testified in congressional hearings about developing a system of running a pipe under a target's door to deliver incapacitating, poisonous or suggestibility increasing gas. Dr. Ray Teichler. Gottlieb's assistant, and CIA liaison at Edgewood Arsenal. Assistant to Edgewood Medical Laboratories division of human experimentation director. Dr. Albert Klingman. Participated in joint CIA/Army program at Edgewood, got prison inmates for these experiments; also had a climatic control chamber. Edgewood Arsenal. Run by U.S. Army Chemical Corps, which had acquired 8 Nazi scientists. Dr. Robley Evans. Radiation in WW II, using some data from ongoing radiation experiments on humans, mostly by Dr. Boris Rajewski. Asked for conscientious objectors to be sent to him for this. Dr. Boris Rajewski. Radiation experimentors Gerhard Schubert, Hermann Daenzer, Wolfgang Luther, Dieter Strang, Arthur Demnitz, Dr. Robert Stone, Col. Boris Pash made CIA assassination teams from Nazi recruits. Project Paperclip was one of several government projects after World War II whereby Nazi scientists, some were brought to the U.S. to work and live. Other Nazis, like Klaus Barbie were used by U.S. intelligence [to run narcotics for CIA and stage the Cocaine Coup in Bolivia for CIA and George Bush Sr] and helped to escape from Germany and later to avoid capture [until he was no longer useful and French intelligence kidnapped him and returned him to France for warcrimes trial].

"The New World Order is a World that has a supernational authority to regulate World commerce and industry; an international organization that would control the production and consumption of oil; an international currency that would replace the dollar; a World Development Fund that would make funds available to free and Communist nations alike; and an international police force to enforce the edicts of the New World Order." —West German Chancellor, Willy Brandt at the Bohemian Grove Illuminati center.

Canada Nationalizes Banking; US Plans to Invade Canada with Poison Gas

In 1934, the Canadian Government took over ownership of the then Privately Owned Bank of Canada. However, the Bank of Canada has not played the role of creating debt-free-interest-free money for Canadians as it should have, and has instead delegated this trust to the privately owned commercial banks, i.e. a re-creation of the privately owned Federal Reserve System banks.
<http://www.canadianactionparty.ca/PartyInfo/Policies.asp?A=9&B=2&C=0&D=0&Language=English>
<http://www.glasnost.de/hist/usa/1935invasion.html> © GLASNOST, Berlin 1992 - 2005

A 1935 US Plan for Invasion of Canada Submitted by F.W. Rudmin Queen's University Kingston, Ontario Canada. The following is an excerpt of a full-text reproduction of the 1935 plan for a US invasion of Canada prepared at the US Army War College, G-2 intelligence division, and submitted on December 18, 1935. This is the most recent declassified invasion plan available from the US archival sources. Centered pagination is that of the original document. The spelling and punctuation of the original document are reproduced as in the original document, even when in error by present-day norms. The plans were put on hold as the US rulers were distracted by Hitler. This document was first identified by Richard Preston in his 1977 book, "The Defence of the Undefended Border: Planning for War in North America 1867-1939" (Montreal: McGill-Queen's University Press.) Preston's reference citation (p. 277) identified this to be archived at the US Military History Collection, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., coded AWC 2-1936-8, G2, no. 19A. It was located by the US National Archives and supplied on microfilm. The military planning context of this document is War Plan Red, which was approved in May 1930 by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of Navy. War Plan Red and supporting documents are available from the US National Archives on microfilm, in the Records of the Joint Board, 1903-1947, Roll 10, J.B. 325, Serial 435 through Serial 641. In War Plan Red, the US Army's theatre of operations is defined to be: "All CRIMSON territory" (p.80), and the US Army's mission, in bold type: ULTIMATELY, TO GAIN COMPLETE CONTROL OF CRIMSON (p. 84). CRIMSON is the colour code for Canada. In 1934, War Plan Red was amended to authorize the immediate first use of poison gas against Canadians and to use strategic bombing to destroy Halifax if it could not be captured.

In February 1935, the War Department arranged a Congressional appropriation of $57 million dollars to build three border air bases for the purposes of pre-emptive surprise attacks on Canadian air fields. The base in the Great Lakes region was to be camouflaged as a civilian airport and was to "be capable of dominating the industrial heart of Canada, the Ontario Peninsula" from p. 61 of the February 11-13, 1935, hearings of the Committee on Military Affairs, House of Representatives, on Air Defense Bases (H.R. 6621 and H.R. 4130). This testimony was to have been secret but was published by mistake. See the New York Times, May 1, 1935, p. 1. In August 1935, the US held its largest peacetime military manoeuvres in history, with 36,000 troops converging at the Canadian border south of Ottawa, and another 15,000 held in reserve in Pennsylvania. The war game scenario was a US motorized invasion of Canada, with the defending forces initially repulsing the invading Blue forces, but eventually to lose "outnumbered and outgunned" when Blue reinforcements arrive. This according to the Army's pamphlet "Souvenir of the First Army Maneuvers: The Greatest Peace Time Event in US History" (p.2). The following document is a declassified public domain document and may be freely reproduced. This should be of particular interest to people in the Halifax and Quebec City regions, then considered to be the most strategic cities in Canada.

-40-

SUPPLEMENT NO. 3

TO

REPORT OF COMMITTEE NO. 8

SUBJECT:

CRITICAL AREAS OF CANADA AND APPROACHES THERETO

Prepared by:

SUBCOMMITTEE NO. 3

Major Charles H. Jones, Infantry, Chairman.
Lt. Col. H.W. Crawford, Engineers.

I. Papers Accompanying.

-
- | | |
|--|------------------------------|
| 1. Bibliography. | (Omitted, filed in Rec.Sec.) |
| 2. List of Slides. | " |
| 3. Appendices (1 and 2). | " |
| 4. Annexes. (Incl. A,B,C,D,E,F,G,H,K, and L) | " |

II. The Study Presented.

Determine under the geographical factor, the critical areas in Crimson (Canada) and the best approaches thereto for Blue. A critical area is assumed to be any area of such strategic importance to either belligerent that control thereof may have a material bearing on the outcome of the war.

III. Facts bearing on the study.

1. General Considerations:

An area in Crimson territory may be of strategic importance from the viewpoint of tactical, economic, or political considerations. In the final analysis, however, critical areas must be largely determined in the light of Red's probable line of action and Crimson's contribution to that effort.

2. Geographical Features of Canada.

a. Location and extent. The location and extent of the Dominion of Canada is shown on the Map herewith (see Exhibit A). It comprises the entire northern half of the North American continent, excepting only Alaska and the coast of Labrador, a dependency of the colony of Newfoundland.....

VI. Concurrences.

The committee concurs in the foregoing conclusions.

CHARLES H. JONES
Major, Infantry,
Subcommittee Chairman.

Ambassador William E. Todd 1938 Reveals High-Cabal Feudal Conspiracy

http://www.hermes-press.com/high_cabal.htm The "High Cabal". In 1938, William E. Dodd, U.S. Ambassador to Germany, sent President Franklin Delano Roosevelt the following message: (as reported in George Seldes. Facts and Fascism, p. 122): "A clique of U.S. industrialists is hell-bent to bring a fascist state to supplant our democratic government and is working closely with the fascist regime in Germany and Italy. I have had plenty of opportunity in my post in Berlin to witness how close some of our American ruling families are to the Nazi regime.... A prominent executive of one of the largest corporations, told me point blank that he would be ready to take definite action to bring fascism into America if President Roosevelt continued his progressive policies. Certain American industrialists had a great deal to do with bringing fascist regimes into being in both Germany and Italy. They extended aid to help Fascism occupy the seat of power, and they are helping to keep it there. Propagandists for fascist groups try to dismiss the fascist scare. We should be aware of the symptoms. When industrialists ignore laws designed for social and economic progress they will seek recourse to a fascist state when the institutions of our government compel them to comply with the provisions."

HITLER'S SECRET ZIONIST BANKERS & BACKERS \(Grandpa Prescott Bush & Zionist Connection\)

The so-called Federal Reserve System collapsed commerce in 1928, a mere 15 years into its existence, by artificially and intentionally imposed deficiencies, just as Alan Greenspan has multiplied the profit of the Federal Reserve Banks by maintaining high interest rates ostensibly to hold down rising charges for production — while the very interest rates and consequent acceleration of the multiplication of debt alone impose higher costs on production, which must be covered by higher charges if production is to remain solvent. After a decade of collapse, with the virtual erasure of debts by system-wide insolvency, at the close of the second World war, prior to which, according to our very Congressional Record, the Federal Reserve had annually moved some sixty billion dollars of gold to Hitler, and to pay the debts of Japanese military escalation to German munitions makers, the need to rebuild Europe provided the opportunity to indebt the surviving World anew. In Europe, home of the international bankers who from the beginning were responsible for this huge disorder, Hitler prepared to become military master of the World with 60 billion in monetary gold, annually stolen from the U.S. Treasury by these 12 private banks, "The Federal Reserve," which issued worthless German paper from their sister banks to complete the heist by redeeming that worthless paper in gold. The justice of this most evil institution? Americans, their monetary reserves of gold gutted to Hitler, thereafter were outlawed of possessing it as we saw in the previous section.

Remember that Prescot Bush (Grandpa) was convicted of trading and financing the Nazis. Also, the book "Financial Origins of National Socialism" (1933) by "Sydney Warburg" provides another glimpse of how the Illuminist clique supported Hitler. This 70-page booklet was suppressed for many years but was republished in 1983 as "Hitler's Secret Backers." "Warburg" describes a July 1929 meeting with "Carter," the President of J.P. Morgan's Guarantee Trust, the Presidents of the Federal Reserve Banks, "the young Rockefeller" and "Glean from Royal Dutch." These are all Rothschild dominated. It was determined that Warburg who spoke German should travel to Germany and ask Hitler how much money he needed to overthrow the state. The only stipulation was that Hitler adopts "an aggressive foreign policy." "Warburg" details five meetings with Hitler between 1929 and 1933. The first took place in a beer cellar and Hitler calculated his needs on the back of a paper plate. About $25 million was transferred. This was extremely important in the depth of the depression because the Nazis provided food and shelter to many of their supporters. Hitler wasn't told the reason for this support and did not ask. On two occasions, he wondered out loud if "Warburg" was himself Jewish but dismissed the idea before "Warburg" could reply. There is no "Sydney Warburg" but the internal evidence suggests the author could be James Warburg, son of Federal Reserve founder Paul Warburg. Many people dismiss this monograph as yet another fraud but the wealth of accurate detail and anecdote suggests otherwise. One wonders why anyone would go to this much trouble to alienate the most powerful people in the World if he weren't sincere. The only people with the power to suppress it are the ones it incriminates, and they have a record of suppressing similar works.

Now, why would the financial elite also want to destroy Russia, which they created? It's their method of controlling what they create. The transcript of the 1938 NKVD interrogation of C.G. Rakovsky (a.k.a Chaim Rakeover) provides the answer. Rakovsky was an intimate of Trotsky's and former Soviet ambassador to Paris. Rothschild's agent Leon Trotsky (real name Bronstein) was supposed to succeed Lenin but got sick at the critical moment. Stalin was able to assume power and divert Russia from Rothschild control. In order to control Stalin, international finance was forced to build up Hitler and the Nazi party. Rakovsky confirms that Zionist Illuminati financiers backed the Nazis although Hitler was not aware of this initially: "The ambassador Warburg presented himself under a false name and Hitler did not even guess his race... he also lied regarding whose representative he was... Our aim was to provoke a war and Hitler was war...[the Nazis] received...millions of dollars sent to it from Wall Street, and millions of Marks from German financiers through Schacht; [providing] the upkeep of the S.A and the S.S. and also the financing of the elections..."

In opposition to the Banking Dynasties, Hitler also proved intractable. He started to print his own money! "He took over for himself the privilege of manufacturing money and not only physical moneys, but also financial ones; he took over the untouched machinery of falsification and put it to work for the benefit of the state... Are you capable of imagining what would have come ...if it had infected a number of other states and brought about the creation of a period of autarchy [absolute rule, replacing that of the bankers]. If you can, then imagine its counterrevolutionary functions..." Hitler had become a bigger threat than Stalin, who had not meddled with money. The British were not going to make peace with Hitler because he had stopped the banker's racket. Furthermore, the Illuminati wanted an extended war, the ruin of Europe and the expansion of the USSR. The German Weimar Republic following WWI, had no chance of economic survival and Germans needed a strong leader - in came Adolf Hitler! Hitler initially embraced the fascist ideology and desired to see the end of Communism in an alliance with Britain; he desired to break the international bankers hold on Germany, as did Spain, Italy and Japan. However, his Aryan Nazi masters wanted no less than total war with their Communist enemies, basing their ideas "... on the theories and plans advocated by Karl Ritter in 1849 ... in his anti-thesis to Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto ..." ("Pawns In The Game", pp.5,147). The Aryan War Lords put in place their own agents in Hitler's regime to make sure their plan (and hence the Illuminati's) came to fruition.

Then the USSR began secretly supplying arms to Hitler's war machine, financed by Wall Street, while the Illuminati agents in Britain were calling for appeasement "... to weaken the British war potential ..." ("Pawns In The Game", pp.153,154). Once the German forces had been built up enough, the same Illuminati agents called for an all out war. Hitler's finance from Wall Street came from the Rockefeller/Rothschild axis, through the Young Plan and the Dawes Plan loans of the 1920's. Companies involved included: Standard Oil-I.G. Farben (Exxon now), without which Germany's war effort was impossible; du Pont, for arms; General Motors; Ford Motor Company; General Electric; I.T.T.; and the Union Banking Corp., with George Bush's father, Prescott, a director. Originally, Winston Churchill was pro-Zionist, but anti-Bolshevist, however he went on to accumulate massive debts via his extravagant lifestyle. With bankruptcy looming in 1938, Churchill (then a member of UK parliament) knew he would be forced to vacate his seat there and he would also lose his beloved home, "Chartwell". Fortunately for him, Jewish millionaire Harry Strakosch advanced the aging politician a 150,000 pound loan and became his "advisor", reviving his political career. ("For Those Who Cannot Speak", by Michael McLaughlin, 1979). Despite Churchill's numerous political failures "... his friends, 'the international Money Barons' used their controlled press ... forced Chamberlain to resign ..." ("Pawns In The Game", page 167). Through a series of false reports the Illuminati agents had maneuvered Germany and Poland to the verge of conflict. Germany sent Poland a note outlining a peaceful solution, but due to Illuminati influence in the Polish government the note was ignored. "When Hitler tired of waiting for Poland's reply, and of being insulted by the Allied Press, he moved his armies into Poland." ("Pawns In The Game", page 165). But Britain had guaranteed Poland protection from a German attack.

Mr. J.M. Spaight, a secretary to the British Air Ministry, reveals in his book - "Bombing Vindicated" (1944) - that the "...ruthless bombing of German cities started on May 11th, 1940, "... the day Winston Churchill became Prime Minister ...". (page 167) The most prominent of the bombings was that of Dresden, a completely civilian target, which became Winston Churchill's spectacular parting shot, on the day he departed from Yalta (14 February 1945) - a REAL HOLOCAUST'

The second "Great War" went from 1939 and lasted about six long years. As Jim Keith, in his book "Casebook on Alternative 3", summarises it: "World War II is the story of the death of thirty-five million patriotic, slogan-shouting serfs, while billions of dollars lined the pockets of the international bankers and their cohorts, the politicians and the weapons manufacturers." (page 27). But that was nothing compared to the unimaginable wealth that was made on the reconstruction loans doled out to the war-ravaged countries. With the defeat of Germany came more negotiations at Tehran, Yalta, and Potsdam, between Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin; they carved up Europe (giving Stalin half of it, with half of Asia) and Roosevelt had reportedly "... advocated shooting 50,000 German officers without trial." Stalin began to make wild demands and so "... atomic bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki ..." to put him back in line with the agenda. ("Pawns In The Game", page 173-4). Japan was on the verge of surrender anyway, but the secret weapons were unleashed to set the stage for the Cold War: a public fear-instilling exercise. And so was born the United Nations - in blood - on June 26 1945, soon followed by Israel in May 1948 (some call it Roth-rael), which brought the Illuminati just one step away from their ultimate goal As I have documented in this essay, these "New Jews" are the No. 1 anti-Semitism promoters in the World. The same people "rubbish" the Germans, the Palestinians, and now Australians! Why is there little mention of Soviet atrocities throughout many decades? The Russian professor, Igor Bestuzhev-Lada, stated in a 1988 issue of Nedelya that about 50 million Soviet citizens were murdered by Stalin's regime, in the hundreds of concentration camps in Siberia - what of these people? Furthermore, how can people of non-Semitic origin claim rights to the lands belonging to the Semite Arabs in the Middle East? Perhaps it's because the region holds a somewhat strategic advantage for the Zionists and their "fellow travellers". "Pawns In The Game" states on (p.48) that a British Government geologist, a Mr Cunningham-Craig, discovered "... five trillion dollars worth of minerals and oil ... in Palestine... prior to 1918. In 1939... He died under mysterious circumstances ..." following his final report's completion. I think this goes some way to explain the constant turmoil that is experienced in this area even today. It's a fight for power, wealth and territory. In truth, the World's people (including the Jews) have been sacrificed on the Rothschild (or false-Jewish) altar of greed and lust for power. As William Cart writes: "I arrived at the conclusion that it was a fatal mistake to be antianything but anti-evil ... the only way to defeat the diabolical international conspiracy is to educate as many people as possible in regard to the truth and convince them that they have been used as 'Pawns in the Game' ..." ("Pawns In The Game" p162). Most all will be aware of Hitler's rise to power. What they probably don't know is that he was almost completely financed by money drawn from the privately owned American Federal Reserve.

To review, after WWI, Rep. Louis McFadden said: "Germany fell into the hands of the international Bankers. Those Bankers bought her and they now own her, lock, stock, and barrel. They have purchased her industries, they have mortgages on her soil, they control her production, they control all her public utilities. The international German Bankers have subsidised the present Government of Germany and they have also supplied every dollar of the money Adolph Hitler has used in his lavish campaign to build up threat to the government of Bruening. When Bruening fails to obey the orders of the German International Bankers, Hitler is brought forth to scare the Germans into submission... Through the Federal Reserve Board over $30 billion of American money has been pumped into Germany. You have all heard of the spending that has taken place in Germany... Modernistic dwellings, her great planetariums, her gymnasiums, her swimming pools, her fine public highways, her perfect factories. All this was done on our money. All this was given to Germany through the Federal Reserve Board. The Federal Reserve Board has pumped so many billions of dollars into Germany that they dare not name the total."

This battle with Zionism has nothing to do with religion or Judaism; people of all races, religions, and nationalities are defending themselves from Zionism's predatory advance. There are many Jews and Rabbis opposing Zionism. Unfortunately, you will not find much information about Zionism from the mainstream media because most of the American and European media is controlled by Zionists and is spreading its control throughout the World. They are suppressing information about Zionism, the September 11th attack, our banking system, the attack on the USS Liberty, and other horrendous crimes approved by Zionist elites. As a result, you have to do your own research into the issue, which requires looking at more than one person's opinion. You can start with: Daryl Bradford Smith has radio interviews, Rabbi David Weiss, Michael Collins Piper, Wayne Kyle, Eustace Mullins, Eric Hufschmid What Is Zionism?, History Is Warped, Jews Against Zionism, Jews Not Zionists, Orthodox Jews United Against Zionism, <http://i.am/jah/freedman.htm> , <http://www.iamthewitness.com/index.html>

World War II (1939-1945) and the Vatican-Jesuit-Zionist Hitler Connection

The BankLords lost their control over Soviet communism and had to create another monster –the German nazism- to fix the problem. This didn't exactly play down as it was originally planned but the banksters nonetheless had their World war and its benefits in terms of an increased political power over the Western World and the creation of the Israeli stronghold in the Middle-East. Today, the banksters lost their control over Russia and failed to take control of China. So, they created a monster –the American neo-conservatism- to fix the problem. The plan is probably the destruction of Russia and China in a third World war opposing these to the USA. Then, the European Union, which is now completely controlled by the banksters, would integrate a deadly injured USA as well as the ruins of the rest of the World to make what the high dignitaries of the EU have already announced in a 2004 exhibition in Bruxelles as a planetary empire called „the Union”. A war against Iran could be the trigger of the third World war but, if it will not happen or not suffice, be sure the banksters have other scenarios ready to be implemented with the help of the puppet politicians they have now in the Western World as well as in the Middle East and, of course, in their Israeli stronghold. This time, again, the banksters are preparing to massacre many million people on our planet. This time, again, many people are not aware of the real powers and their agenda but, instead, are believing in the necessity of making war against “terrorist” states, i.e. states not under the control of the Rothschild led BankLords.

World War II saw the US debt increased by 598%, while Japan's debt went up by 1,348%, with France up by 583% and Canada up by 417%. When you hear this, what is your first impression? Do you automatically think this is bad or this is good? Most of us feel a well programmed sense of desperation when we hear figures like this, but remember, to the money changers, this is music to their ears. With the hot war over, the cold war began, the arms race causing more and more borrowing. Now the money changers could really concentrate on global domination. Step one, the European Monetary Union and NAFTA. Step two, centralise the global economy via the World Central Bank. Remember it wasn't Hitler who had somewhere around 200 million human beings killed in the last century for the sake of a political agenda, it was a handful of "communist" leaders in Europe and Asia funded by the usual hidden hand of western bankers prompting from their secret control channels. Remember that the best definition of communism is "super capitalism." Wherein EVERYTHING, people included, is owned by those who own the state. During the whole communist reign in the Soviet, the address of Number One, Red Square, housed a branch of Chase Manhattan Bank - or whatever names it had from time to time. Socialism of any substantial nature can't exist without capitalists financing it. Hitler, the National Socialist, was (maybe unknowingly) fighting the greater enemy when he went against communism (international socialism).

He never dreamed the Brits could get the U.S. to interfere in a basically European war. And one to save communism, at that. He must have thought the Americans learned their lesson in WW1. Or maybe he believed Roosevelt's lies to the American people. Soon after WW2 we had the "Korean Conflict" and then Vietnam. Now we have genocide in the mideast by Bush & co. The more modern "heroes" are praised when more blood drips from their hands (Butcher Sharon is a man of peace according to the bigger butcher Bush, all of them working for their BankLords masters, i.e. remember Rothschilds' words about he who controls the issue of credit money controls all).

From Bob Limetta, the concordat between the Vatican and the NAZI. At center is Cardinal Secretary Of State Eugenio Pacelli (later to become Pope Pius XII), signs the concordat bewteen the Vatican and the NAZI at a formal ceremony in Rome on July 20, 1933. NAZI Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen sits at the left side and Rudolf Buttman sits at right. The concordat legitimized Adolf Hitler and the NAZI Government in the eyes of the Catholicism and the World. Photographs: Adolf Hitler greets Muller "The Bishop Of The Reich" and Abbot Schachleitner. Adolf Hitler greets a Roman Catholic Cardinal. Roman Catholic Bishops giving the NAZI salute in honor Of Adolf Hitler. Cardinal Michael Faulhaber marches between rows of SA men at a NAZI rally in Munich, Germany. Roman Catholic Priests giving NAZI salute at a Catholic youth rally in the Berlin Neukolln Stadium in August 1933. NAZI German soldiers oath of allegiance to Hitler "I swear to God this holy oath to the Führer of the German Reich and people". Do you notice the NAZI German soldier's two fingers like the Pope does and the icon or statue of Virgin Mary. Well, according to the late ex-Jesuit Priest Alberto Romero Rivera the two fingers means: Apostolic Succession & Temporal Power.

The Vatican had arranged for some of the Vatican is the EMPIRE! Zionists are the PATSIES! According to Rick Martin, from his Nazi SS – patterned after the Jesuit Order Europe and Western Russia of its Jews, Polish who dared to get in the way. The Nazi SD, secretly managed by Heinrich Himmler's Korherr. As the Black Pope's favorite, SD Jesuit General's policy by giving orders Führer greater than Führer himself – SS Himmler's "suicide" was faked by the British "escaped" to South America having become a called the Redemptorists. From Argentina, Bormann contributed in the rebuilding of Roman Catholic West Germany in obedience to the design of the Society of Jesus. German Protestantism had now been destroyed thanks to the Black Pope's Second Thirty Years' War (1914-1945). Having worked with the Allies during the war, the Nazi SS, including its entire intelligence apparatus, was brought into the West by New York Archbishop Francis Cardinal Spellman as "anti-communists" and into the East by Gregory Cardinal Agagianian as supposed "freedom fighters" in the eyes of the West. In fact, the CIA and KGB shared Reinhard Gehlen's old soldiers during the Hoax known as "the Cold War". The CIA and KGB in control of the American and Russian governments were NEVER enemies at the top. Both agencies were financed by the Vatican's international banks and corporations headed by the Knights of Malta and Shriner Masons. They merely served as the Order's two controlled forces of its political dialectic, the outcome of every crisis furthering the plans of the Black Pope in Rome. The Vatican also had lent support to the fascist Mussolini.

Nazis to leave Europe by providing special papers. STOOGES, (Christian + Jew + anything); Jews are 1933 to 1945 Jesuit General Ledowchowski used – in cooperation with Stalin's NKVD to purge anti-communists and any Protestants/Orthodox being the central intelligence of the SS, was resident Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor, Dr. Richard Jesuit Heinrich Himmler carried out his Superior directing Hitler's Secretary – the man behind the General Martin Bormann! After the war's end SIS, and Bormann, disguised as a Jesuit priest, lay brother in a secret branch of the Jesuit Order

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=6759022809518563654> When Hitler came to power, Hitler closed down all of the anti-Zionist Jewish papers and allowed the Zionist papers to remain open. Hitler never let anyone seem him naked because he was circumcised. The Zionists are the True Anti-Semites, just ask the True-Torah Jews <http://www.jewsagainstzionism.com>. The invasion of Middle Eastern countries is a continuation of the Zionist plan and it is being pushed by the Zionist lobbies in the US, UK and Europe. Note how simultaneously the Jewish American President Franklin Delano Roosevelt closed the doors to Jewish immigration from Europe when Hitler came to power under the guidance of Zionists. The plan all along was to scare European Jews into leaving Europe and the only place they would be allowed to go to is Palestine. Jim Condit Jr. video documentary: The Zionist-Nazi Secret Alliance, The Transfer Agreement and The New Transfer Agreement, Hitler's Policy was a Zionist Policy, Hitler was surrounded by Zionist Jews Jim Condit, 2 hr 22 min 36 sec - Apr 9, 2006, www.thefinalsolutiontoadolphhitler.com. The Zionists brought us to the Holocaust. It is well known that it was possible to arrange for Jews to leave Europe for other areas of the World other than Palestine with money,...but THE ZIONIST LEADERS WHO NOW SIT IN GOVERNMENT PREVENTED IT! -- Rabbi Shlomo Zalman Ehrenreich (circa 1954)

To the billions of people around the World who know only the standard Establishment version of 20th Century history, the above quotation is incomprehensible, its implications impossible to fathom. The Zionist-Nazi collaboration, however suppressed it has been to the general public, is a little-known, but crucial, part of European history, one that continues to profoundly shape and affect World events in the 21st Century. This mind-boggling voyage is but one of many facts which have been compiled and collated, and which is presented in this DVD by Jim Condit Jr. in this fascinating new DVD entitled The Final Solution to Adolf Hitler. This thorough analysis examines Hitler's career and influence, from his humble beginning in Austria to his appointment as German Chancellor by President Paul von Hindenburg, from his ascent to absolute dictator of the Third Reich to his role in bringing about the modern state of Israel and the emerging World government. Yes, also check out "the transfer agreement" by Black. <http://www.transferagreement.com>. The Transfer Agreement is Edwin Black's compelling, award-winning story of a negotiated arrangement in 1933 between Zionist organizations and the Nazis to transfer some 50,000 Jews, and $100 million of their assets, to Palestine in exchange for stopping the Worldwide Jewish-led boycott threatening to topple the Hitler regime in its first year. This updated edition includes the author's stunning new introduction and a powerful new afterword by Anti-Defamation League national director Abraham H. Foxman.

Excerpted From: THE ROLE OF ZIONISM IN THE HOLOCAUST Article by Rabbi Gedalya Liebermann - Australia
<http://www.jewsagainstzionism.com/antisemitism/holocaust/gedalyaliebermann.cfm> . Early settlers resented the "yekkes"- -their disparaging term for German immigrants--for their individualistic, Capitalistic notions, so different from the Communal, Socialist Ideals of the Zionist Pioneers. (this is the basic plot of FALSE FLAG Socialism, i.e....Do Evil, then blame goes to Socialists)

Zionists Offer a Military Alliance with Hitler

It would be wishful thinking if it could be stated that the leaders of the Zionist movement sat back and ignored the plight of their dying brothers and sisters. Not only did they publicly refuse to assist in their rescue, but they actively participated with Hitler and the Nazi regime. Early in 1935, a passenger ship bound for Haifa in Palestine left the German port of Bremerhaven. Its stern bore the Hebrew letter for its name, "Tel Aviv", while a swastika banner fluttered from the mast. And although the ship was Zionist owned, its captain was a National Socialist Party (Nazi) member. Many years later a traveler aboard the ship recalled this symbolic combination as a "metaphysical absurdity". Absurd or not, this is but one vignette from a little-known chapter of history: The wide ranging collaboration between Zionism and Hitler's Third Reich. In early January 1941 a small but important Zionist organization submitted a formal proposal to German diplomats in Beirut for a military-political alliance with wartime Germany.

The offer was made by the radical terrorist underground "Fighters for the Freedom of Israel", better known as the Lehi or Stern Gang. Its leader, Avraham Stern, had recently broken with the radical nationalist "National Military Organization" (Irgun Zvai Leumi - Etzel) over the group's attitude toward Britain, which had effectively banned further Jewish settlement of Palestine. Stern regarded Britain as the main enemy of Zionism. This remarkable proposal "for the solution of the Jewish question in Europe and the active participation on the NMO [Lehi] in the war on the side of Germany" is worth quoting at some length: "The NMO which is very familiar with the goodwill of the German Reich government and its officials towards Zionist activities within Germany and the Zionist emigration program takes the view that:

- 1.Common interests can exist between a European New Order based on the German concept and the true national aspirations of the Jewish people as embodied by the NMO.
- 2.Cooperation is possible between the New Germany and a renewed, folkish-national Jewry.
- 3.The establishment of the Jewish state on a national and totalitarian basis, and bound by treaty, with the German Reich, would be in the interest of maintaining and strengthening the future German position of power in the Near East.

"On the basis of these considerations, and upon the condition that the German Reich government recognize the national aspirations of the Israel Freedom Movement mentioned above, the NMO in Palestine offers to actively take part in the war on the side of Germany.

"This offer by the NMO could include military, political and informational activity within Palestine and, after certain organizational measures, outside as well. Along with this the "Jewish" men of Europe would be militarily trained and organized in military units under the leadership and command of the NMO. They would take part in combat operations for the purpose of conquering Palestine, should such a front be formed.

"The indirect participation of the Israel Freedom Movement in the New Order of Europe, already in the preparatory stage, combined with a positive-radical solution of the European-Jewish problem on the basis of the national aspirations of the Jewish people mentioned above, would greatly strengthen the moral foundation of the New Order in the eyes of all humanity.

"The cooperation of the Israel Freedom Movement would also be consistent with a recent speech by the German Reich Chancellor, in which Hitler stressed that he would utilize any combination and coalition in order to isolate and defeat England". (Original document in German Auswertiges Amt Archiv, Bestand 47-59, E224152 and E234155-58.

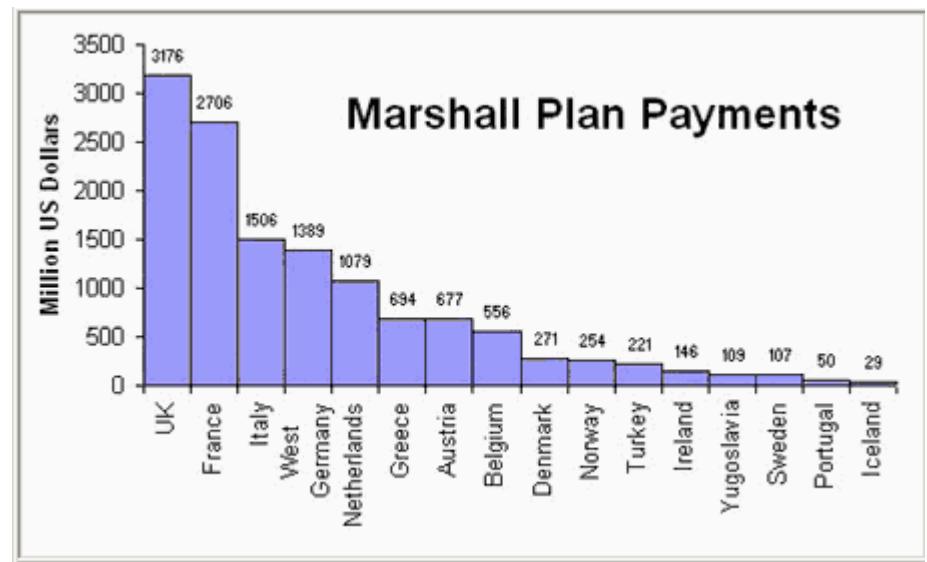

Complete original text published in: David Yisraeli, The Palestinian Problem in German Politics 1889-1945 (Israel: 1947) pp. 315-317).

On the basis of their similar ideologies about ethnicity and nationhood, National Socialists and Zionists worked together for what each group believed was in its own national interests. This is just one example of the Zionist movements' collaboration with Hitler for the purpose of possibly receiving jurisdiction over a minute piece of earth, Palestine. And to top it all up, brainwashing! How far this Unbelievable Zionist Conspiracy has captured the Jewish masses, and how impossible it is for any different thought to penetrate their minds, even to the point of mere evaluation, can be seen in the vehemence of the reaction to any reproach. Source for paragraphs marked "[Source)": The Wall Street Journal December 2, 1976.

The Seventh Million by Tom Segev, Haim Watzman. Zionists like Ben-Gurion, Segev says, had only scorn for the emigres who managed to escape from Germany to Palestine before WW II, and for Jews throughout the World who opted for what the Israeli leader considered the false security of their native lands instead of flocking to Palestine to build up the Homeland. Early settlers resented the "yekkes"--their disparaging term for German immigrants--for their individualistic, capitalistic notions, so different from the Communal, Socialist Ideals of the Zionist Pioneers. Efforts to spirit Jews out of Europe during and after the war, Segev contends, were generally guided by political considerations as each faction shamefully focused on bringing in only those individuals who might strengthen its own position.

<http://www.jewsagainstzionism.com/bookstore/productDetails.cfm?merchID=13> Israelis and the Holocaust http://images.amazon.com/images/P/0805066608.01_Pldp-schmooS.TopRight,7,-26_PE32_SCMZZZZZ.jpg .

The Marshall (Morgenthau) Plan Deception—Billions for the BankLords & Eternal Enslavement to the US$

The Marshall Plan came after the mass starvations of Germans had been effected. The plan itself was an accounting trick and a public relations scam. Had the Germans been left alone, they could have, through their own famous work ethic, provided for themselves much better than the Marshall Plan did. Bacque points out that The Americans took from Germany at least 20 times the amount Germans retained under the Marshall Plan.

Marshall Plan vs. Robbery, Murder, and Destruction? An Eternal Mockery of the Germans! By Karl Baßler The Marshall Plan was sold as "Peace, Freedom, Prosperity" by the European Recovery Program (ERP). Within the framework of the so-called Marshall Plan, a credit of approximately 1.4 billion US Dollars (6.4 billion DM) was given to West Germany for the years 1949 to 1952. Under the terms of the London Debt Agreement of February 1953, this credit was to be repaid by 1962 to the tune of (taking into account both interest and cancellation) 13 billion DM! This repayment of 13 billion

DM must be attributed exclusively to the Marshall Plan. According to the London Debt Agreement (February 12, 1953), it was also said to repay so-called "Gario" funds, with which the occupation powers had allegedly provided food aid to Germany during the starvation years of 1945 to 1948.

During the years 1945-48 (i.e., before the Marshall Plan), the Western Allies gave West Germany "economic aid" (food) valued at 3.386 billion dollars.[1] At the then current market price for wheat of $60 per ton, this would have been enough to buy 55 million tons of wheat. The Western Zones (later to become the Federal Republic of Germany) had a population of 40 to 45 million. Therefore, 55 million tons would have meant approx. 1,200 kilos (2,650 pounds) of wheat per citizen: a quantity equivalent to 1 kg (2.2 lbs, and roughly 4,000 calories) of wheat daily for each and every German for 3 1/2 years. An additional 1,400 calories per day would still have been available from domestic reserves (Reichsnährstand), which means that every single inhabitant of West Germany should have been able to receive some 5,400 calories per day - the ration of a heavy laborer! In actual fact, however, only 1,000 to 1,400 calories were available, and these from the reserves still secured by the Reichsnährstand in spring 1945.

So the alleged "Gario" funds never reached Germany. Were they misappropriated to Palestine? Or did they perhaps end up in the bank accounts of Elite American swindlers?

Regardless of this discrepancy, the London Agreement charged this alleged assistance to the Marshall Plan account and the groveling protestations of gratitude, which the current Federal German government published in a full-page article in the August/September 1997 issue of Journal für Deutschland (publ. by Bundespresse- und Informationsamt, the German Federal Press and Information Office), are truly an example of brain-dead nonsense: "Unparalleled in World history: America's state coffers and supply stores opened up even to the enemy nation Germany, lying as it was in rubble and ashes!" "Enemy nation"? 4 years after the end of the war? "Lying in rubble and ashes"? Bombed to death by the Anglo-Saxon war criminals!

Federal Chancellor Kohl in his speech of gratitude: "We Germans will never forget that. [...] thank you, America!" There is no other case in World history, the article continued, in which a victorious nation rendered such generous aid to the vanquished and helped it regain a place in the World community: "West Germany received some 3.3 billion dollars in US aid. In 1953 the USA forgave Germany two-thirds of its debt. The funds thus freed up were used to set up the so-called ERP Fund for further support of the German economy."

So it can be shown that this was an enormous fraud perpetrated by the English and the Americans. Even Ludwig Erhard, Federal Economic Minister in 1949, writes in his book Deutschlands Rückkehr zum Weltmarkt that there are no German receipts for or confirmation of the alleged food aid. Even as late as spring 1945 (the war wasn't to end until May 8, 1945), the German Reichsnährstand was able to secure rations until fall 1946 - in other words, for one-and-a-half years more - of approx. 1,500 calories per person per day, so it should have been an easy matter for the Allies to counteract any deterioration in the food situation simply by releasing the German productivity. This applied to an even greater extent in the remainder of Europe. Any additional aid (to meet peak demands) would have been necessary only on a small scale and only under extraordinary circumstances. The figure below shows Marshall Plan Loan Payments to all countries involved. When reading these figures, consider that the German economy is twice as big as the British and French, as well as ten times as big as the Austrian, Greek, and Dutch economies; also keep in mind that Germany was many times more in need of help for recovery.

But in 1945 the Western Allies' boundless, criminal will to destroy had also immediately destroyed the German food supply organization Reichsnährstand. In the end, this was the chief cause of the disastrous starvation in the years 1946 and 1947, which cost the lives of countless Germans. One must assume that the death toll was at least as high as it had been in 1919, when the British starvation blockade[2] together with a devastating influenza epidemic claimed the lives of 800,000 Germans. But who today still speaks of this deliberate mass murder by the Allied "liberators"? [3] In the Federal German budget of 1949, the occupation expenses extorted by the (Western) Allies amounted to 4.7 billion DM. The available amount in aid for social assistance for the 13 million refugees, (10 million of whom had become homeless owing to the Allied terror bombings), for the millions of returning prisoners of war, and for the 40 million West Germans whom the currency reform had robbed of all their savings, was only 3.6 billion DM, augmented by "some 2.34 billion DM for the 4.5 million war-disabled and the widows and orphans of fallen soldiers." In other words: exactly half as much as the occupation expenses!

The presence of occupation forces for four and more years after the end of the war was a blatant breach of international law. Occupation forces are a wartime measure; after a war has ended, there is no need for them and therefore no legal justification. Ever since the First World War it was typical of the Allies to forcibly prevent a sensible peace in this way. Naturally all German post-War governments were too obsequious towards the Allies to demand and enforce international law in this matter either.

Morgenthau Plan - not Marshall Plan! The ERP Commission itself had to admit that the pillaging and post-War destruction of Germany by the Western Allies prevented the goal of a German recovery from being attained, and in fact made it impossible. As early as the new year 1946/47, Western Europe (without West Germany!) had again attained the level of industrial production (a decisive economic strength) equal to that of 1938 (1938 = 100). In 1949/50, that is three years later, Western Europe (without West Germany!) had already exceeded this level by 30%: in other words, it reached 130% of the base-comparison year 1938! Among other things, this demonstrates that Germany, during the war, had spared and indeed built up the industrial capacities of the countries it had occupied, for only a solid and modern state of industrial capacities could make this rapid increase possible in the first place. In this context it is important to note the ERP Commission's statement that in 1946/47 Western Europe as a whole (i.e. including West Germany) was at 20% below the level of 1938 and did not reach 110% until 1949/50. The development of West Germany was rather different. Here the level of industrial production in 1946/47 was only 25% of what it had been in 1938, and even by 1949/50 it had attained only 79% of this comparison year!

In the Federal Republic of Germany, it took until 1950/51 to reach the production level of 1938 again, and 130% was not reached until 1954. So West Germany lagged 5 years behind the rest of Western Europe.[4] This divergent development of Germany and Europe, the five-year (West) German lag, is solely the result of the destruction and looting of the German economy by the Allies. For this reason it is especially important today, in the age of the complete economic unification of Europe under the Maastricht Treaty, to expose the Allied war crimes that thwarted the German economic potential, and to show how they have ramifications even for the present and future.[5]

That means that, in the same period, 200 times more was stolen from Germany than was given as a loan, repayable with interest! That is the naked truth about the Marshall Plan's so-called aid! In other words, it is nothing but a despicable mockery of the Germans, which West German governments have continued to perpetuate for 50 years. As recently as May 1997, on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Marshall Plan, German Chancellor Kohl wept tears of gratitude. However, West Germany didn't get its first meager hand-out from this Plan until two years after its inception; in other words, Herr Kohl wept two years too early.

Economic Dimension of the Looting and Destruction: The extent of the robbery and destruction is also shown by comparison of the development of the German National Products from 1945 to 1952 and 1953 to 1960. Thus, in the four years of the Marshall Plan, the expenses associated with the occupation alone exceeded the Marshall Plan aid by a factor of nine! 6.4 billion DM in Marshall Plan income from the Americans, 54 billion DM in payments to the robbing and looting occupiers. It is most noteworthy that in the four years of the Marshall Plan, the cost of the West German occupation alone amounted to 24 billion DM - in other words some four times as much as the entire Marshall Plan "aid"! To put it another way, in each and every year Germany paid an average of 4 times as much to the Western occupation powers than it received in so-called aid! If one also adds the occupation expenses paid to the Soviet occupiers, who depopulated and looted East Germany almost out of existence with the consent of the barbaric Western Allies, then from 1949 to 1952, fully 9 times as much was extorted from the German rump state in occupation costs as the entire Marshall Plan "credit" gave Germany in 4 years!

Impact on Social Services: Not even compared to the expenses of German social services was the Marshall Plan of any significance after 1949, see table 7.

Losses Due to Reduced Productivity of East Germany: The quoted sources estimate a loss of approx. 5.5 billion DM as a result of communist mismanagement. The amount of destruction of material property in East Germany due to deterioration of reproducible material wealth is estimated to be approx. 3.3 billion DM. The next table shows the loss of production capacity as a result of terror bombings and post-war dismantling in comparison with the capacity of 1936, which was considerably lower than that of 1939 as shown in table 8.

If one extrapolates from European economic growth data of that period and assumes an undamaged production capacity, Germany's economy would have grown as follows in Table 9.

This level of productivity, which would have been possible had there been no destruction of German economic potentials must be compared with the actual results achieved under conditions of looting, destruction, and suppression: 592.7 bill. DM (cf. Table 6). For the years 1945-52, this meant a loss of productivity of: $1,261.8 - 592.7 = 669.6$ bill. DM (corresponding to Table 3; 580 bill. in 8 years!) This is more than 100 times the Marshall Plan credit to West Germany!

Table 9: Possible productivity as of 1945, given intact/undamaged capacity (GNP data [7]) West Germany (Fed. Rep.)

| | bill. DM | | bill. DM |
|-------------------|----------------|-------------------|----------|
| 1945, GNP of 1950 | 98.1 | 1949, GNP of 1954 | 158.6 |
| 1946, GNP of 1951 | 120.0 | 1950, GNP of 1955 | 181.4 |
| 1947, GNP of 1952 | 137.0 | 1951, GNP of 1956 | 200.5 |
| 1948, GNP of 1953 | 147.7 | 1952, GNP of 1957 | 218.5 |
| Total: | 1,261.8 | | |

Table 8: War damages and Dismantling Losses in % of capacities extant in 1936 [10]

| | East Germany | East Berlin | West Berlin | West Germany |
|---|--------------|-------------|-------------|--------------|
| War damages in % of 1936 capacity | 0% | 23% | 24% | 8.1% |
| Dismantling, losses in % of 1936 capacity | | | | |
| Total losses: | 45% | 25% | 53% | 7.3% |
| | 45% | 48% | 77% | 15.4% |

Table 7: Marshall Plan Aid - Occupation Expenses - Social Services (1949-52)

| | M. Plan payments bill. DM [7] | Share of GNP in % | Occupation expenses bill. DM [8] | Share of GNP in % | Social services bill. DM [8] |
|------|-------------------------------|-------------------|----------------------------------|-------------------|------------------------------|
| 1949 | 2.4 | 3.0 | 4.7 | 6.0 | 3.6 |

Table 1: Looting of Material Property in Billion RM/DM

| | |
|--|-----------------------------|
| Looting from 1945 to end of 1947 | 46.75 |
| As per calculations by Rumpf, additionally | 37.00 |
| Sum, Rumpf and Harmssen (including dismantling) | 83.75 |
| Looting from 1948 until 1952 | |
| Looting of the Soviet Occupation Zone from 1948 until 1950 (including dismantling) | 70.00 |
| Military property German weapons looted by Russians and Western Allies | 50.00 |
| Theft of patents [6] | 20.00 |
| Theft of cash | 25.00 |
| Theft by occupation forces | 1.00 |
| Theft and destruction of art and books, essentially incalculable, but at least | 10.00 |
| | Total: 259.75 |

Table 2: Robbery in Form of Long-term Sanctions 1945-1952

| | |
|--|-----------------------------|
| For the forcible export of German coal | 4.00 |
| For so-called restitution | 2.00 |
| Theft of the entire German fleet with the resulting loss of shipping revenue, and expenses for shipping costs paid to the Allies | 2.50 |
| Dismantling costs | 11.00 |
| Looting of the Saar region (coal) | 5.00 |
| Value of forced labor by German prisoners of war and civilian deportees still unlawfully detained: | |
| Prisoners of war | 35.00 |
| Deportees and abductees | 38.00 |
| Loss of royalties (until 1955) from patents, trademarks etc. | 10.00 |
| Occupation expenses acc. to the Fed. govt (Zeittafel 1949-1969) only for the Western Zones from 1945 until 1952 | 50.00 |
| for the Eastern Zone, min. (as per Harmssen) | 40.00 |
| | Total: 197.50 |

Table 3: Damages Due to Destruction of Germany 1945-1952

| | |
|---|---|
| Damages due to political division (btw. 240 and 2400 bill. DM, cf. the following) | 400.00 |
| Economic value of dismantling = loss of production | 65.00 |
| Loss of value increase due to 10-year ban on cutting-edge German research | 70.00 |
| Losses due to destruction of Eastern trade | 10.00 |
| Losses due to destruction of large German enterprises | 35.00 |
| | Total damages due to division: 580.00 |

Table 4: Theft of Property of Germans in German eastern territories and settlement areas

| | |
|--|---|
| eastern Germany, Danzig, Memelland, Sudetenland, and the 6 million ethnic Germans in eastern Europe and the Balkans (excluding the value of land itself) at least: | 300.00 |
| | Total of Tables 1 through 4: 1,337.25 |

Table 5: Comparison of the Assets Looted from Germany with the Value of the Alleged Marshall Plan Aid to West Germany

| | |
|---|-----------------|
| In the 8 years from 1945 to 1952, assets totaling were stolen from Germany: | 1,337.25 |
| In the years from 1949 to 1952, a loan (since repaid) given as Marshall Plan aid: | +6.40 |

Table 6: Gross National Product and Occupation Expenses (in bill. RM/DM Ostmark)[\[7\]](#)[\[8\]](#)

| | West Germany | incl. Occupation Expenses | East Germany | incl. Occupation Expenses |
|---------------------------------------|---------------|---------------------------|---------------|---------------------------|
| 1945* | 32.30 | 5.00 | 15.00 | 5.00 |
| 1946* | 32.30 | 5.00 | 15.00 | 5.00 |
| 1947 [9] | 43.00 | 6.00 | 16.00 | 6.00 |
| 1948 [9] | 57.00 | 5.00 | 18.00 | 6.00 |
| 1949 [9] | 73.00 | 4.70 | 21.00 | 5.80 |
| 1950 [9] | 98.10 | 4.65 | 24.00 | 7.00 |
| 1951 [9] | 120.00 | 6.49 | 25.00 | 8.00 |
| 1952 [9] | 137.00 | 7.89 | 27.00 | 9.00 |
| Total: | 592.70 | 47.00 | 161.00 | 41.80 |
| Total W. Germany + E. Germany: | | | | 753.70 |

* estimate: 50% of 1939 including 88.8 bill. DM in Occupation Expenses

Marshall Prejudices[\[11\]](#): "Without the Marshall Plan Germany would have turned into one giant graveyard, into a vast plain of destruction, brutality, inhumanity, disease and death. [...] Not the USA profited from it, but rather all of Europe - but most of all the German people under the occupation by the Western Allies. In the face of the humanitarian motive, the massive financial and material aid takes on an aspect of nobility. We here in Germany owe a debt of gratitude to our American supporters, for generations still to come." The West German living standard and investment opportunities were thus deliberately kept at a level of less than 50%. The effect on the other European nations was proportional; 20% on average, and significantly more for those such as The Netherlands, whose economy was closely interconnected with Germany.[\[7\]](#) To clear up the misunderstandings disseminated by the German government: Germany - before, during, and after the War, and right to the present day - has always worked in close economic association with the rest of Europe due to her location and history; the European share of her foreign trade amounts to approx. 70%. Thus, every increase in German productivity directly benefits the rest of Europe in the form of a commensurate increase in Germany's foreign trade.

Incidentally, the Marshall Plan also depended to a great extent on this European economic union; with relatively few exceptions, it gave aid only if the recipient would grant special "drawing rights" for its products to other European nations. In light of these sabotaged economic possibilities, what is the point of the hullabaloo everyone makes over the peanuts that were shelled out under the Marshall Plan? Notes: First published in Huttenbriefe, February 1998, pp. 3-7; translated by Armin Johannis; illustration and boxed quotation added; with friendly permission taken from www.wintersonnenwende.com. [1] Deutsche Bundesbank (ed.), Deutsches Geld- und Bankwesen in Zahlen 1876-1975, Fritz Knapp Verlag, Frankfurt/Main 1976, p. 341. [2] For this see www.wintersonnenwende.com/scriptorium/english/archives/articles/starvation1919.html. [3] The abovementioned figures are the absolute minimum. In his book Crimes and Mercies, the Canadian historian James Bacque concludes, based on intensive research in Germany as well as in recently released American archival holdings, that the years of starvation that were caused in this way (1945-47 in Germany; author) cost some five to six million lives. [4] Statistics from: Gerhart Jentsch, Der Marshallplan und Deutschlands Platz darin, ECA Mission for West Germany, Frankfurt/Main 1950, pp. 31 and 83. Note that this publication gives post-1948/49 data only for Western Europe and West Germany; in 1945 the American Crusaders had handed Eastern Europe, wholly half of Europe, over to the Bolshevik-Asiatic fiend Stalin for looting and extermination, so that these peoples could also not take part in the Marshall Plan. [5] The following statistics are based primarily on: The Harmssen Report: Reparationen - Sozialprodukt - Lebensstandard, 4 issues, Friederich Trüjen Verlag, Bremen 1948. The Harmssen Report was commissioned by the Premiers of the then newly constituted German lands and is therefore an official document. The terms used in the tables (to indicate the looting and destruction) are taken from Harmssen and denote the same particulars; Gustav Wilhelm Harmssen, Am Abend der Demontage, Sechs Jahre Reparationspolitik, with documentary appendix, Friederich Trüjen Verlag, Bremen 1951; Helmut Rumpf, Professor of National and International Law, lecturing legation counselor 1st class (Ministerial Counsel) with the Foreign Office at Bonn, Die deutschen Reparationen nach dem 2. Weltkrieg: Handbuch zur Deutschen Nation, vol. 1: Intellectual state and political situation, pub. by Bernard Willms, Hohenrain Verlag, Tübingen, 1986. [6] For this see www.wintersonnenwende.com/scriptorium/english/archives/articles/patents.html [7] West Germany's GNP according to Deutsches Geld- und Bankenwesen in Zahlen 1876-1975, pub. Deutsche Bundesbank, Fritz Knapp Verlag, Frankfurt/Main 1976. East Germany's GNP is estimated; growth as per half the West German percentage, occupation expenses as per the occupiers' actual consumption. [8] Politische Zeittafel 1949-1969, pp. 18ff. Presse- und Informationsamt der Bundesregierung, 1969 and 1981. [9] Acc. to Harmssen, op. cit. (note 5), p. 139. [10] Kurt Pritzkoleit, Gott erhalte die Mächtigen, Karl Rauch Verlag, Düsseldorf 1953, p. 126. [11] <http://forum.judentum.de/archiv-a/messages/8/1548.html> Source: The Revisionist 2(2) (2004), pp. 123-126.

The World Central Bank (1948 - Present)

In Washington, the headquarters of both the World Bank and the IMF (International Monetary Fund) face each other on the same street. What are these organisations, and who controls them? To find out we need to look back to just after WWI. At this point the money changers were attempting to consolidate the central banks under the guise of peacemaking. To stop future wars they put forward the formation of a World central bank named the Bank of International Settlements, a World court called the World Court in the Hague, and a World executive for legislation called the League of Nations. All central banks of the World hold U.S. dollar reserves equivalent to the local currency in circulation to facilitate trade, especially, the oil trade.

John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Israeli Nukes & The OILY Vietnam War

Avner Cohen, 'Israel and the Bomb', New York 1998, goes to great lengths to hide that Kennedy was murdered shortly after he had threatened Israel to stop selling arms to that country if it went on developing a nuclear weapon. The book passed the Israeli censor.

In the 1960s Lyndon Johnson borrowed billions from the French Rothschilds so he wouldn't have to raise taxes to finance the Vietnam War. The War didn't end until Vietnam secretly accepted to allow the Rockefeller Oil Companies access to its off-shore oil. Rothschild's agent (some blame Charles de Gaulle) demanded repayment in gold, not greenbacks or private Federal Reserve Notes. When Richard Nixon was elected he noted that the treasury was almost depleted of gold and he removed the dollar from the gold standard. But the debt still stood. Nixon collateralized the debt with the mineral estate of the western U.S. and a land-for-debt swap was initiated. Much of the western States were given to the banking dynasties. This is when Nixon created the Environmental Protection Agency. Their mandate was/is to PREVENT American citizens from logging, farming, ranching or otherwise exploiting these lands being held for the banking dynasties. The Bureau of Land Management and other agencies are used to harass ranchers and farmers from the land.

Two schools of thought abound concerning President Kennedy and his issuance of money. Some claim he by-passed the powerful Federal Reserve System and issued debt free money, i.e. refreshed the greenbacks. Others claim he merely gave away the nation's silver reserves amending a Truman Executive Order 10289 with his EO 11110 (may be he didn't go as far as the BankLords wanted??). Some claim that those Silver Certificates were debt free money that by-passed control by the Federal Reserve System. Others call it a silver give-a-way. It seems that Kennedy's tendency to end the Vietnam War, to curtail the CIA including its drug running operations, to bypass the Federal Reserve, to veto the operation Northwoods CIA sponsored acts of terrorism that were to be used as a pretext to invade Cuba and reclaim for the Mafia and corporate barons, and to reign in Israel's nuclear program were the major reasons for his assassination In al-Wassat, released Israeli Vanunu said according to "near-certain indications", Kennedy was assassinated due to "pressure he exerted on then head of government, David ben-Gurion, to shed light on Dimona's nuclear reactor". Kennedy is quoted as having said: "We do not know which irresponsible Israeli Prime Minister will take office and decide to use nuclear weapons in the struggle against neighbouring Arab countries," he is quoted to have said, adding "what has already been exposed about the weapons Israel is holding can destroy the region and kill millions." It is clear that JFK was planning to do something about the Fed sooner or later.

The Federal Reserve System threatened to "veto" President Kennedy. Controlled by the NY Fed Bank, the Fed keeps the public misinformed and uninformed. The banks have a stranglehold on America. This very informative document is reprinted in Money Is Unreal. The original can be found in the Congressional Record, Vol 110 - Part 13, August 3, 1964, pages 17837 through 17846 (8 pages.) The veto threat is on page 17846 (the last page) near the bottom of the first column. It is much easier to order the ABCs in booklet form from Peter Cook, Monetary Science Publishing, Box 86, Wickliffe, OH 44092. You will find the veto statement on page 19 of that edition.

On June 4, 1963, a virtually unknown Presidential decree, Executive Order 11110, was signed with the authority to issue silver currency. However, others claim he merely gave away the nation's silver reserves amending a Truman Executive Order 10289 with his EO-11110. G. Edward Griffin from <http://www.freedomforceinternational.org/freedomcontent.cfm?fuseaction=jfkmyth&refpage=issues> provides an alternative explanation which would place JFK in the opposite light as the interpretation here. Mr. Kennedy's order gave the Treasury the power "to issue silver certificates against any silver bullion, silver, or standard silver dollars in the Treasury." This meant that for every ounce of silver in the U.S. Then Kennedy was assassinated, and oddly enough, John, J. McCloy, CEO of the Chase Manhattan Bank, was appointed to the Warren Commission "investigating" JFK's assassination.

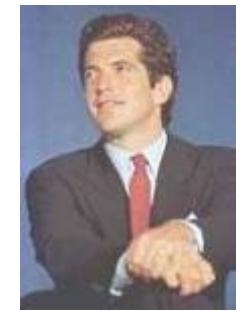

According to the other interpretation, when President John Fitzgerald Kennedy - the author of Profiles in Courage -signed this Order, it returned to the Federal Government, specifically the Treasury Department, the Constitutional power to create and issue currency -money - without going through the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank. President Kennedy's Executive Order 11110 [the full text is displayed further below] gave the Treasury Department the explicit authority: "to issue silver certificates against any silver bullion, silver, or standard silver dollars in the Treasury." This means that for every ounce of silver in the U.S. Treasury's vault, the government could introduce new money into circulation based on the silver bullion physically held there. As a result, more than $4 billion in United States Notes were brought into circulation in $2 and $5 denominations. $10 and $20 United States Notes were never circulated but were being printed by the Treasury Department when Kennedy was assassinated. It appears obvious that President Kennedy knew the Federal Reserve Notes being used as the purported legal currency were contrary to the Constitution of the United States of America.

President John F. Kennedy was simply following President Lincoln and President Andrew Jackson. By JFK issuing the Kennedy dollar, United States Note, the Bankers could not get the cash for free and lend it back to the government and profit from the old banking system. JFK planned on printing enough United States Notes, like President Lincoln, and pay off the national debt and thus ending the personal IRS taxes with no new taxes. (note that most of the tax dollars collected today go to pay the interest on the $15 Trillion owed by all levels of Government to the private Federal Reserve System Banks who created this money from nothing!) JFK's plan to print United States Notes, cash, would have ended the privately owned banking monopoly called the Federal Reserve Bank. President Kennedy was assassinated on November 22, 1963 and the United States Notes he had issued were immediately taken out of circulation. President Johnson immediately stopped the printing of United States Notes and went back to the banker's system of Federal Reserve Notes ensuring the continuation of the IRS tax and Bankers profit. Federal Reserve Notes continued to serve as the legal currency of the nation.

According to the United States Secret Service, 99% of all U.S. paper "currency" circulating in 1999 are Federal Reserve Notes. Maybe Kennedy knew that if the silver-backed United States Notes were widely circulated, they would have eventually in the distant future eliminated the demand for Federal Reserve Notes. This is a very simple matter of economics. The USN was backed by silver and the FRN was not backed by anything of intrinsic value. Executive Order 11110 should have prevented the national debt from reaching its current level (virtually all of the nearly $9 trillion in federal debt has been created since 1963) if LBJ or any subsequent President were to enforce it. It would have almost immediately given the U.S. Government the ability to repay its debt without going to the private Federal Reserve Banks and being charged interest to create new "money". Executive Order 11110 gave the U.S.A. the ability to, once again, create its own money backed by silver and realm value worth something. Executive Order 11110 would have destroyed some of the profits and control of the private Federal Reserve Bank.

President Kennedy Nov. 12, 1963 said: President Kennedy Nov. 12, 1963 said: About 2 weeks prior his assassination on Nov 22, Kennedy had a meeting in New York with the International Bankers. There is evidence that he learned that he had been lied to about Cuba and many other issues. In fact, there is substantial evidence that Kennedy was beginning to uncover an "international effort" to use the office of the President of the United States against America, and had threatened to expose this movement. "The great free nations of the World must take control of our monetary problems if these problems are not to take control of us." "The high office of the President has been used to foment a plot to destroy the American's freedom and before I leave office, I must inform the citizen of this plight." There is a debate on the exact date JFK said this. On Nov. 22nd, he was assassinated. On June 4, 1963, a virtually unknown Presidential decree, Executive Order 11110, had been signed with the authority to basically reduce the Federal Reserve Bank's power to create money from nothing and loan money to the United States Federal Government at interest. With the stroke of a pen, President Kennedy declared that the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank would soon be out of business. However this has not been implemented and others claim he merely gave away the nation's silver reserves amending a Truman Executive Order 10289 with his EO 11110. Some claim that those Silver Certificates were debt free money that by-passed control by the Federal Reserve System. Others call it a silver give-a-way. President Kennedy also threatened to reveal the CIA's Majestic MJ-12/Jason Society drug running scheme (later known as the 50 Committee and then as PI-40 Committee). Kennedy's comptroller of the currency, James J. Saxon, had been at odds with the powerful Federal Reserve Board for some time, encouraging broader investment and lending powers for banks that were not part of the Federal Reserve System. Saxon also had decided that non-Reserve banks could underwrite state and local general obligation bonds, again weakening the dominant Federal Reserve banks. JFK was moving towards weakening the Fed's stranglehold on money. Also, after JFK's murder, ex-President Truman clearly stated that the CIA was out of control.

"War will exist until that distant day when the conscientious objector enjoys the same reputation and prestige that the warrior does today. — John F. Kennedy

"I will smash the CIA into a thousand pieces!" —President John F. Kennedy, after vetoing Pentagon/CIA's Operation NORTHWOODS/MONGOOSE treasonous terrorist attacks on USA and after signing National Security Memorandums (NSAM) 54, 55, 56 to terminate the CIA. "Operation NORTHWOODS may be the most corrupt plan ever created by the U.S. government. Operation Northwoods had called for nothing less than the launch of a secret campaign of terrorism within the United States in order to blame Castro and provoke a war with Cuba." —James Bamford, author of (published April 2001), ABC News, "Friendly Fire - U.S. Military Drafted Plans to Terrorize U.S. Cities to Provoke War With Cuba," May 1, 2001

"The high office of President has been used to foment a plot to destroy the Americans' freedom, and before I leave office I must inform the citizens of this plight." —President John F. Kennedy, Nov. 13, 1963 (10 days before his assassination by the Italian Mafia (run by the Zionist Mafia), Mafia Vice President "Tricky Dick" Nixon, Zionist Vice President Lyndon Johnson, Zionist CIA agent/director and oilman Sir George Bush Knight of the British Empire, CIA director Allan Dulles (fired by JFK), J. Edgar Hoover and FBI, Pentagon Joint Chiefs, Dallas Texas Police Department, Texas Attorney General, US Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren, Congressman Gerald Ford, and Ronald Reagan on Zionist Rockefeller Oil and Bankster Assassination Commission in 1970s, aided and abetted by the Zionist-owned and edited "news" cartel). Video of the secret service officer ordering JFK's bodyguards away from JFK before entering the Grassy Knolls area when he gets shot. http://blogs.albababa.com/Alexanderjames/2067/2005/12/06/3027-1963_jfk_assassination_video_showing_the_stand-down_by_the_ones_who_were_supposed_to_protect_the_president. The thugs who murdered JFK, his elder brother Joseph, his brother Robert and his son JFK Jr. should know that although they control things then and now, there is NO STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS on murder.

Why did John Kennedy Jr. and his Wife Have to Die? The National Examiner gave evidence that weeks before John Jr. died in a plane crash, John Jr. and his wife Carolyn began telling his friends, "I want to know who killed my father. I want there to be absolutely no doubt." John Jr. owned the magazine George. He was in the perfect position to get out the truth. He and his media staff knew how to investigate. JFK's son, John Jr. had found out why his father was assassinated and about to spill the beans as he and his wife died in a small plane over the ocean. Many a pilots think a bomb was planted on his aircraft. Why was he cremated? Catholics bury their dead. Cremation only covers up an explosion. What is the evidence? If you search, you will find that days before President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, JFK explained that there was a conspiracy that he was going to expose. Look at US history. Six US Presidents - Presidents Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and John F. Kennedy (7 if we count FDR's poisoning)- were assassinated. Each directly opposed the Bankers. Assassination attempts were made on President Andrew Jackson, who campaigned against today's banking system and won the election by a landslide. President Reagan threatened to replace Federal Reserve Bank chairman Paul Volcker. Reagan said: "That the Federal Reserve Bank was answerable to no one - not even the president..." Shortly after Reagan's comment in 1981, he was shot. After Reagan recovered, he publicly stated Federal Reserve Bank chairman Volcker was doing a "good job." Do you begin to see a pattern and a motive?

Here is a brief summary of some of the 177 Kennedy assassination witnesses killed since Nov 22 1963 (5 bullets found from different guns. Prime witnesses for multiple gunmen fact found dead or missing):

1963: Lee Harvey Oswald; Jack Zangetti, an Oklahoma City motel manager is murdered after telling friends the day after the assassination that Ruby would kill Oswald and that a member of the Sinatra Family would be kidnapped soon afterward to divert attention away from the assassination (Frank Sinatra Jr was kidnapped and released unharmed). Officer Tippet (Nov 24) assassinated most likely by Gordon Liddy, a CIA contract killer under Colby.

1964: Betty Mooney MacDonald (former Carousel Club stripper who had met Oswald at a party and had provided an alibi for Darrell Wayne Garner (who was accused of wounding Tippet-Killing witness Warren Reynolds)) is found hanging in her cell after being arrested for fighting with her roommate; Garner disappears and is later found dead; Hank Killam (whose wife Wanda was also a stripper at Ruby's club, and who was a friend of John Carter who once lived in Oswald's rooming house) evades police for several months, then is found in Pensacola, Florida with a slashed throat; Gary Underhill (former "Life" editor and CIA agent who begged friends to protect him because he knew who killed Kennedy) is found shot in the left side of the head (which is ruled suicide even though Underhill was right handed); Bill Hunter (Long Beach Press-Telegram reporter, who, with Jim Koethe, was present at a meeting with Ruby's roommate, George Senator, and Ruby's attorney Tom Howard a few hours after Oswald is killed) is accidentally shot and killed by a policeman at the Long Beach Police Station, California, "accidentally"; Jim Koethe (Dallas Times-Harold reporter) is killed by a karate chop to the throat as he stepped from his shower; Mary Meyer (painter, niece of forester Gifford Pinchot and former JFK lover who allegedly funneled LSD from an unsuspecting Timothy Leary to JFK) shot while taking a walk in Washington DC (her diary is confiscated by her CIA friend James Angleton, and it is later destroyed); Robert Kennedy allegedly stalked in assassination plot during his New York senatorial race by Frank Chavez, associate of Ruby, and by Puerto Rican teamster Ramon Ducas and his bodyguard Miguel Cruz (who may have been arrested with Oswald in New Orleans and claimed to have killed JFK); Chavez is later killed by Cruz. Durham kills wife, terminated from Des Moines police. Warren Commission bogus report is released, finding that Oswald, acting alone killed.

1965: Tom Howard (Ruby's Attorney) Ruby's attorney who met with Senator and others after Oswald's death died of a heart attack after "acting strangely" for 2 days. no autopsy; Rose Cherami (another former Carousel Club stripper who told a psychiatrist that Kennedy was to be killed two days before the assassination and who said she'd seen Oswald at Ruby's club many times) is killed in a hit-and-run accident near Big Sandy TX; Dorothy Kilgallen (columnist and TV panel show figure who'd had a private half hour interview with Ruby and said she was going to break the Kennedy case wide open) is found dead in her apartment supposedly overdosed on alcohol and barbiturates; William Whaley (Dallas cabbie who drove Oswald from TSBD Book Depository to his rooming house after the assassination) becomes the first on-duty cabbie death since 1937 killed in an auto accident; Karen Bennett Carlin (another Carousel entertainer who reported seeing hate-ad singer Bernard Weissman at Ruby's strip club and was the last known person to speak to Ruby before he shot Oswald) is shot in the head in Houston and dies.

1966: Ex-naval LT William Pitzer (who had photographed the secret JFK autopsy, and was beginning a new job with a TV station) is killed by a shot in the head.

1967: Jack Ruby whose lawyers charged Dallas authorities with neglecting his health dies of cancer while awaiting trial; David Ferrie, who was to be a key witness in the trial of Clay Shaw, found dead in his locked apartment in New Orleans, ruled suicide though how the ruptured blood vessel which induced his brain hemorrhage could be self-inflicted was unexplained; Eladio del Valle, a friend of Ferrie's who had hired him to fly bombing missions over Cuba, found shot through the heart in a parking lot in Miami, Florida, the same day Ferrie was killed. Dr. Mary Sherman, another friend of Ferrie, shot in New Orleans, her body partially burned by her killer. Beginning of the Clay Shaw trial; New Orleans DA Jim Garrison subpoenas Allan Dulles and ex-CIA employee Gordon Novel to testify, but neither does. Congressional Legislation forced the Kennedy family to turn over all materials pertaining to the Assassination to the National Archives. JFK's Brain goes missing. This FBI-document of 1947 <http://www.jfkmurdersolved.com/nixonruby.htm> recommends that "one Jack Rubenstein of Chicago" should not be called to testify for the Committee on Un-American Activities, for he is working for Congressman Richard M. Nixon. According to the Warren Commission, Ruby had no connections with Oswald, Organized Crime or the Government. No wonder the header reads "This is sensitive".

1968: RFK is killed in Los Angeles (shot in the back of the head from a gun in front of him???) Sirhan Sirhan doesn't remember what happened, but Security Guard Eugene Cesar, who carries the same caliber weapon as Sirhan, and was standing right behind RFK does remember, a Mossad job; Dr. Nicholas Chetta (who performed the autopsies on Ferrie and Dr. Sherman) died of a heart attack. Richard Carr (JFK assassination witness who is about to appear in Shaw Trial) learns that police have arrested a man planning to kill him; Richard Carr is attacked by two men with knives near Atlanta. Robert Kennedy, US Senator; June 5th, 1968

1969: Clyde Johnson who attended parties with Ferrie and Oswald, was beaten up to keep him from testifying at Shaw trial shot to death near Greensburg Louisiana; Trial of Clay Shaw for conspiracy to assassinate JFK starts but with Texas prosecutor Jim Garrison's witnesses dead, or discredited by dirty tricks from the CIA and FBI and other government agencies, concludes not guilty; Mary Jo Kopechne dies near Chappaquidick in accident with Edward Moore Kennedy.

1972: Warren Commission critic and dissident Hale Boggs disappears on flight to Alaska.

1974: Joseph A. Milteer (who blew the Miami plot and was allegedly present at Dealey Plaza) died two weeks after a Coleman stove blew up in his bathroom, although the burns on the body may not have been severe enough to cause death; Clay Shaw is found dead in his home (after an ambulance delivers a body sized bundle there) cause of death undetermined because the body was embalmed too soon. Warren Commission alumnus Gerald Ford becomes President.

1975: Roger Craig (ex Dallas Deputy who claimed to have seen Oswald leaving the TSBD) is found shot to death, a victim of suicide.

1976: Sam Giancana and Johnny Roselli are murdered in separate incidents, supposedly to keep them from talking about the CIA-Mafia involvement in the JFK assassination and the attempts against Castro.

1977: George DeMohrenshildt (after learning that the House assassinations committee wanted to interview him) commits suicide; two days later Dutch journalist Willem Oltmanns testified to the committee that DeMohrenshildts had confessed to him several months earlier that Oswald had "Acted on his instructions" in the plot to murder JFK, and that DeMohrenshildt had acted as the middle man between Oswald and H.L.Hunt; DeMohrenshildt alleged to have left a document naming CIA and FBI officials connected with the assassination in his office. Carlos Prio Sacarras (ex-president of Cuba, former business partner of Jack Ruby in Havana casino, former gunrunner to Pro-Castro guerrillas, who had felt betrayed by Castro and then supported the Bay of Pigs invasion) committed suicide a week after DeMohrenshildt; Lou Staples (Radio talk show host of KRLD in Dallas and KTOK in OKC, who had interviewed Penn Jones, Roger Craig, Mae Brussell and other JFK investigators) falls victim to suicide in OKC.

And If JFK Had Lived... we would be debt free and have no IRS taxes, and no other tax to replace the IRS tax. If he lived most likely we would not have been involved in the Vietnam war. Banker's need a war to run up a deficit and profit from the money creation lending program. History shows that when Europe started this banking system, wars immediately started and Bankers lent money to both sides of the war. The banker's money controlled Kings of old, like the IMF controls countries today. JFK's plans would have stopped the Bankers from controlling congress and the President of this great nation we love. JFK wanted to return the control back to the people. JFK planned on paying off the national debt and ending the personal IRS income tax simply by printing US Notes. Where Would the Wealth Be Now, If...? If John F. Kennedy was successful, $20 trillion of money/wealth the Bankers have today would be in the hands of Americans. IF JFK was successful, there would be no need for any income tax or other tax to replace the IRS tax and there would be no federal deficit today. One bullet in the head of President Kennedy keeps trillions of dollars in the hands of the Bankers with the end of the "Kennedy Dollar".

Here is a photograph of a specimen John F. Kennedy United States Government Note; notice a red color seal whereas the private Federal Reserve Note below it has a green seal. Bobby Kennedy worked with the President and knew of the plan. Bobby got a [silver] bullet also. Ted Kennedy has a voting record that would make any socialist proud following the banker's agenda and he is alive today.

Note that all six presidents who tried to end the banking monopolies were assassinated (Presidents Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and John F. Kennedy; possibly FDR's poisoning) and anyone who tries to expose these Mega-banking dynasties is demonized like Rep. Congressman James Traficant in 1993 and many others. Note also that most of the other US Presidents have been and are part of the Mason/Zionist Brotherhoods. Another interesting fact to consider is that of the 37 Presidents of the United States before Jimmy Carter, at least 18 or 21 or 42 (depending on which source you believe, 33 of them alone go back to Charlemagne, one of the most famous medieval monarchs of what we now call France and who just happens to be a major figure in the story of these bloodlines and their expansion out of Britain, France, Germany, and elsewhere) were close relatives. Of the 224 ancestors in the family tree of 21 Presidents, we find 13 Roosevelt's, 16 Coolidge's, and 14 Tyler's. Another source manages to relate 60 percent of the Presidents and link most of them to the super-rich Astor family. In his 1966 book entitled Tragedy and Hope, President Clinton's mentor Carroll Quigley writes about the mega-banking dynasties: Carroll Quigley, Professor, Georgetown University: "The powers of financial capitalism had [a] far-reaching [plan], nothing less than to create a World system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the World as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudal fashion by the central banks of the World acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent meetings and conferences. The apex of the system was to be the Bank for International Settlements in Basel, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the World's central banks which were themselves private corporations. Each central bank... Sought to dominate its government by its ability to control treasury loans, to manipulate foreign exchanges, to influence the level of economic activity in the country, and to influence cooperative politicians by subsequent economic rewards in the business World."

They got 2 out of 3. The League of Nations failed largely owing to the suspicions of the people and while opposition concentrated on this, the other two proposals snuck their way through. It would take another war to wear the public resistance down. Wall Street invested heavily to rebuild Germany, as the Chase bank had propped up the Russian revolution. Now the Chase merged with the Warburg's Manhattan Bank to form the Chase Manhattan which would later merge with the Chemical Bank to become the largest bank on Wall Street. In 1944 the US approved its full participation in the IMF and the World Bank. By 1945 the second League of Nations was approved under the new name 'The United Nations'. The war had dissolved all opposition. The methods used in the National Banking Act of 1864 and the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 were now simply used on a Global scale. The Federal Reserve Act allowing the creation of Federal Reserve notes is mirrored by the IMF's authority to produce money called Special Drawing Rights (SDR's). It is estimated the IMF has produced $30 billion dollars worth of SDR's so far. In the United States SDR's are already accepted as legal money, and all other member nations are being pressured to follow suit. With SDR's being partially backed by gold, a World gold standard is sneaking it's way in through the back door, which comes with no objection from the money changers who now hold two-thirds of the Worlds gold and can use this to structure the Worlds economy to their further advantage.

We have gone from the goldsmith's fraud being reproduced on a national scale through the Bank of England and the Federal Reserve, to a Global level with the IMF and the World Bank. Unless we together stop giving these exchange units their power by our collective faith in them, the future will probably see the Intergalactic Bank and the Federation of Planets Reserve set up in much the same way. This radical transfer of power has taken place with absolutely no mandate from the people. Nations borrow Special Drawing Right from the International Monetary Fund in order to pay interest on their mounting debts. With these SDR's produced at no cost, the IMF charges more interest. This contrary to bold claims does not alleviate poverty or further any development. It just creates a steady flow of wealth from borrowing nations to the money changers who now control the IMF and the World Bank. The permanent debt of Third World Countries is constantly being increased to provide temporary relief from the poverty being caused by previous borrowing. These repayments already exceed the amount of new loans. By 1992 Africa's debt had reached $290 billion dollars, which is two and a half times greater than it was in 1980. A noble attempt to repay it has caused increased infant mortality and unemployment, plus deteriorating schools, and general health and welfare problems.

As World resources continue to be sucked into this insatiable black hole of greed, if allowed to continue the entire World will face a similar fate. As one Prominent Brazilian Politician put it: "The Third World War has already started. It is a silent war. Not, for that reason, any less sinister. The war is tearing down Brazil, Latin America, and practically all the Third World. Instead of soldiers dying, there are children. It is a war over the Third World debt, one which has as its main weapon, interest, a weapon more deadly than the atom bomb, more shattering than a laser beam." If a group or organisation had used its hard earned money to help these developing nations, then we might sympathise that there should be a real effort to repay these loans. But the money used was created from fractional reserve banking. The money loaned to the Third World came from the 90% the banks allow themselves to loan on the 10% they actually held. It didn't exist, it was created from nothing, and now people are suffering and dying in an effort to pay it back.

Peter Kershaw in "Economic Solutions" and Larry Burkett in "The Coming Economic Earthquake" have named the private owners of the United States Federal Reserve system established in 1913 (under Benjamin Strong, the Reserve System was brought into interlocking relations with the Bank of England and the Bank of France and Reserve Governors and heads of European central banks brought on the Great Depression of 1929-31) as:

- 1) The Rockefeller Family - New York
- 2) The Rothschild Family - London
- 3) The Rothschild Family - Berlin
- 4) The Lazard Brothers - Paris
- 5) Israel Seiff - Italy
- 6) Kuhn-Loeb Company - Germany
- 7) The Warburgs - Amsterdam Representative of the Rothschild Family in France
- 8) The Warburgs - Hamburg Representative of the Rothschild Family in Germany
- 9) Lehman Brothers - New York
- 10) Goldman & Sachs - New York. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which controls the 11 other Federal Reserve branches, is majority controlled by a) Chase-Manhattan (a Rockefeller stronghold) - 6,389,445 shares - 32.3% b) Citibank - 4,051,851 shares - 20.5%.

The HSBC bank controlled by Masons is another example of a fraudulent setup that gets to create money from nothing and charge interest on it. More on how the Federal Reserve System fraud operates later in this document by Edward Griffin (listen to his 1995 lecture on the CD) and Eustace Mullin. This has gone beyond clever financing, its wholesale murder and hopefully "really-enlightened (not Illuminati-ed)" reformers from within the ranks will work to stop it.

In July, 1968, the House Banking Subcommittee reported that Rockefeller, through Chase Manhattan Bank, controlled 5.9% of the stock in CBS. Furthermore, the bank had gained interlocking directorates with ABC. In 1974, Congress issued a report stating that the Chase Manhattan Bank's stake in CBS rose to 14.1% and NBC to 4.5%. The same report said that the Chase Manhattan Bank held stock in 28 broadcasting firms. After this report, the Chase Manhattan Bank obtained 6.7% of ABC, and today the percentage is most likely much greater. It only requires 5% ownership to significantly influence the media. This is only one of 300 wealthy shareholders of the FED. It is believed other FED owners have similar holdings in the media. To control the media, FED bankers call in their loans if the media disagrees with them. Rockefeller also controls the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), the sole purpose of which is to aid in stimulating greater interest in foreign affairs and a one World government. Nearly every major newscaster belongs to the Council on Foreign Relations. The Council on Foreign Relations controls many major newspapers and magazines. Additionally, major corporations owned by FED shareholders are the source of huge advertising revenues which surely would influence the media. In 1966 (data supplied from my "company", as a result of congressional investigation headed by U.S. Representative Wright Patman of Texas,) it was discovered that four of the World's seven largest oil companies were under the direct ownership and/or control of the Rockefeller family. According to an earlier Operations Reports, the largest of these, Standard Oil of New Jersey (EXXON), alone controlled 321 other major corporations, including Humble Oil and Venezuela's OREOLE Petroleum; themselves among the largest oil corporations in the World.

By 1975, the Rockefeller had gained control of the single largest block of stock in Atlantic Richfield (ARCO) and were believed to be in control of TEXACO as well. (Therefore, it must be assumed that the extremely large suit and judgement against Texaco was merely a put-on for the public, and not a true verdict. Consider the true premise of a parent company bringing suit against its darling daughter.) It was further noted that the Rockefeller were operating major joint ventures with Royal Dutch Shell, which was already in the hands of European one-World interests. I am specifically referring to the Dutch Royal Family. It was Queen Juliana who was the sole owner of Shell. Upon her daughter's (Beatrice) marriage to Klaus (Germany), she divested herself of the interests in Royal Dutch Shell. Substantial interests were offered and sold through Credit Anstalt Bank Verein, as well as Union Bank of Switzerland. However, our article deals with global strategists from both sides of the Atlantic. It should have seemed obvious to any American that major problems were to be encountered with the continuation of the Fed System. Ever since the founding of the Federal Reserve, consistent efforts have been made by conservatives of both houses of Congress to have their leaders put a stop to the Fed and to the dark forces behind it. During the 1960's and 1970's, Congressman Wright Patman of Texas also investigated manipulations by these foundations, trusts and the Federal Reserve. Using his influence as Chairman of the House Banking Committee and later as the Chairman of other important committees, he repeatedly tried to expose the so called "One World Plot" by calling for audits of the Federal Reserve, and even trying to have the Act repealed. However, the findings of each of his committees, for some strange reason, were unable to attract any attention from the media. Patman, and others who have gone after and before him, frequently stated and vented his frustration over this lack of press and media coverage. On one occasion he stated, "our exposés of the Federal Reserve Board are shocking and scandalous, but they are only printed in the daily Congressional Record, which is read by very few people."

In the 1970's and the 1980's, Congressman Larry McDonald was the one who spearheaded the efforts against the Bush version of the New World Order. In 1976 he wrote the introduction to the "Rockefeller File", a book exposing the Rockefeller' financial holdings and secret intentions. The book supposedly revealed that the Rockefeller had as many as two hundred trusts and foundation type organizations, and that the actual number of such foundations controlled by the family might well number into the thousands. Such control IS possible because Rockefeller banks, such as Chase Manhattan, have become the trustees for many other U.S. foundations as well; possessing the right to invest and to vote the capital and common stock of these institutions--through the trust department of the bank. 1976: Congressman Larry McDonald disappears in the Korean Airlines 747 (flight KAL007).

Congress Subcommittee on Finance 1964 Exposes the Federal Reserve!

<http://www.maxexchange.com/ybj/chapter2.htm> The following are excerpts from "MONEY FACTS 169 Questions and Answers on Money - A Supplement to A Primer on Money", prepared by the Subcommittee on Domestic Finance, House of Representatives, 88th Congress, 2d Session, September 21, 1964:

Question 1 - "Who has the right to create money in the United States?"

Answer - "Under the Constitution, it is the right and duty of Congress to create money. It is left entirely to Congress."

Question 2 - "To whom has the Congress delegated this money-creating right?"

Answer - "To the banking system, that is, to the Federal Reserve System and to the commercial banks in the country." [the owners of the major commercial banks also own the Federal Reserve Banks]

Question 6 - "Does Congress supervise Federal Reserve policymaking?"

Answer - "No. In practice, the Federal Reserve is "independent" in its policy-making. The Federal Reserve neither requires nor seeks the approval of any branch of Government for its policies. The System itself decides what ends its policies are aimed at and then takes whatever action it sees fit to reach those ends."

Question 7 - "What problems are raised by an "independent" Federal Reserve?"

Answer - "There are two major problems. One is the problem of political responsibility for the country's economic policies. The other is the problem of final control over the Government's action in the economic sphere."

Question 8 - "What is the problem of political responsibility?"

Answer - "Since the Federal Reserve is independent it is not accountable to anyone for economic policies it chooses to pursue. But this runs counter to normally accepted democratic principles. The President and Congress are responsible to the people on election day for the past economic decisions. But the Federal Reserve is responsible neither to the people directly nor indirectly through the people's elected representatives. Yet the Federal Reserve exercises great power in controlling the money-creating activities of the commercial banks."

Question 35 - "Has the United States gone off the gold standard?"

Answer - "Yes, except in its international transactions."

Question 38 - "To whom does the Constitution give the power over money?"

Answer - "The Congress. The Constitution provides "the Congress shall have power to coin money, regulate the value thereof." The Supreme Court has interpreted this clause, again and again over a period of 150 years, to mean that "whatever power there is over the currency is vested in Congress."

Question 41 - "What is fractional reserve method of banking?"

Answer - "The fractional reserve method of banking originated with the goldsmiths - the predecessors of our present bankers. It is the method of banking used today. Briefly, it is a system whereby bankers maintain as reserves only a fraction of the amount needed to meet all claims against them. (The vast bulk of the claims against the banks are the deposits you and I hold. These are obligations which the bank must pay on demand.) The goldsmiths struck upon this method by noticing that the people who deposited gold with them for safekeeping only claimed a small portion of this gold at any one time. Therefore, the goldsmiths realized that they could lend out a good portion of the gold left with them. They then made loans, which in fact were not gold but warehouse receipts for gold. These receipts circulated as money. Notice, the gold - actually certificates of ownership - being loaned by the goldsmith was not his to lend. He did not own it. In other words, the goldsmith wrote receipts to people who were not depositing gold, i.e. to borrowers. So receipts for more gold meet the claims against him. This is the fractional reserve system. When the banks of the United States kept their reserves in gold, their reserves amounted only to a small fraction of the amount of money they had issued, all of which was guaranteed to be redeemable in gold." [Editor's note: Could this be the reason many goldsmiths were taken out to a tree and hung, when the people discovered the fraud that had been perpetrated upon them?] Fraud - "A false misrepresentation of a matter of fact, whether by words or by conduct, by false or misleading allegations, or by concealment of that which should have been disclosed, which deceives or is intended to deceive another . . . A generic term, embracing all multifarious means which human ingenuity can devise, and which are resorted to by one individual to get advantage over another by false suggestions or by suppression of the truth, and includes all surprise, trick, cunning, dissembling, and any unfair way by which another is cheated . . . 'Bad faith' and 'fraud' are synonymous, and also synonymous of dishonesty, infidelity, faithfulness, perfidy, unfairness, etc. . . ." (Black's Law Dictionary, 6th Edition)

Question 47 - "Where does the Federal Reserve get the money with which to create bank reserves?"

Answer - "It doesn't 'get' the money, it creates it. When the Federal Reserve writes a check, it is creating money . . . The Federal Reserve is a total moneymaking machine. It can issue money or checks. And it never has a problem making its checks good because it can obtain the $5 and $10 bills necessary to cover its check simply by asking the Treasury Department's Bureau of Printing and Engraving to print them."

Question 69 - "If the Government can issue bonds, why can't they issue money and save the interest?"

Answer - "... There is little opposition to the Government's printing bonds and then permitting the banks to create the money with which to buy those bonds; but proposals that the Government itself create the money instead of the bonds have always set off tremendous political upheavals. For example, President Abraham Lincoln set off a political furor when he insisted upon having the Government issue $364 million in money, the so-called "greenbacks" instead of issuing interest-bearing bonds and paying interest on the money."

Question 70 - "If the Government issued more money instead of Government bonds, isn't there a danger that the Government would issue too much money and cause inflation?"

Answer - "No. It is no more or less inflationary for the private banks to create $1 billion of new money than it is for the Government to create $1 billion of new money . . ."

Question 91 - "What are the sources of revenue of the Federal Reserve?"

Answer - "By far the largest is interest on its holdings of U.S. Government securities. This accounts for almost 99 percent of the Federal Reserve income."

Question 125 - "Do private banks enjoy a special relationship with the Federal Government?"

Answer - "Yes, a very special relationship. The business of banks is to lend money. The profits come from the difference between the cost of creating money and the price they charge borrowers for that money. Now the cost of creating money is negligible . . . The banks do not pay a license fee or a payment charge for their reserves. Thus the raw materials the banks use cost them nothing . . . Further, the Federal Government provides private banks with the protection from competition and the hazard of failure."

Question 131 - "Do private banks perform a service in buying Government bonds?"

Answer - "No, because they create the money - an obligation of Government - simply to buy bonds guaranteed by the Government. There is no risk involved . . . Their reward for buying bonds with money they create is the 'subsidized' profits they enjoy."

Question 132 - "What is the burden of U.S. Government bonds, held by the private banking system?"

Answer - "The burden is the heavy bond interest payments, borne by the taxpayers, that go to private bankers when the same amount of money could be created by an agency of the government. Then the taxpayers would not bear this tremendous cost on Government bonds purchased with the reserves given to private bankers."

Question 161 - "Are the effects of money policy so unique that the monetary policymakers need to be free from all accountability?"

Answer - "No. It is hard to see what is so mysterious about monetary policy. Everyone is affected by tax and expenditures and by foreign policy. In both areas, the Government must take 'unpopular action.' Raising taxes is unpopular. Sending men to fight in Korea is unpopular. No one suggests that we should have an independent 'defense policy board' or an independent 'tax policy board.' Why then an independent money policy board?"

Question 163 - "Is the Federal Reserve independence inefficient?"

Answer - "Absolutely . . . It is pure luck if the motor is not constantly stalling. We have not always been lucky. This is no way to run economic policymaking . . . Controlling the economy should come from one, and only one source - which must be the Congress in our democracy."

Question 164 - "Is the trustee notion of monetary policymaking alien to America democracy?"

Answer - "Of course. The claim that the people do not know what is good for them, and therefore a small group of men should be given the power to make decisions and then to take action without being held accountable to the people is 100 percent undemocratic. The essence of democracy is that the people decide for themselves, through their elected officials, what is good or bad for them. Further, to give monetary control to a group like the Federal Reserve is to hand over enormous power unfettered by responsibility to anyone. In a democracy, especially the American form, the holders of power, almost without exception, are responsible to the people, through their elected officials in the use of this power. The Federal Reserve's ideas that they should be considered trustees rather than stewards runs counter to anything that Americans have believed about power and responsibility since the founding of the Republic."

Question 165 - "Who favors Federal Reserve independence?"

Answer - "The private banks who control the System, together with some allies - notably, Wall Street newspapers and other members of the financial community."

Congressman Wright Patman Exposes the Fed 1964

"The Federal Reserve bank buys government bonds without one penny..." -- Congressman Wright Patman, Congressional Record, Sept 30, 1941

Congressman Wright Patman said in 1964, "The dollar represents a one dollar debt to the Federal Reserve System. The Federal Reserve Banks create money out of thin air to buy Government Bonds from the U.S. Treasury...and has created out of nothing adebt which the American people are obliged to pay with interest."

In 1958 the U.S. owned $700 million ounces of gold. Today the nation's bullion reserves have dwindled to a mere 281,000,000 ounces ($100 billion dollars) which is minuscule in relationship to the amount of paper currency in circulation, the currency in cyber accounts, and the amount of Treasury debt. The goal of the Fed is to make gold irrelevant as a measure of monetary value so it can continue to print an unlimited amount of paper currency. In 1964, Wright Patman completed a thorough examination of the Federal Reserve System. His work duplicates and reinforces the work done by McFadden. Chairman of a powerful House Banking Committee, Patman wrote eight pages totally damning of the Fed. Of significant interest, he describes the incident when the Fed threatened to veto Kennedy by turning off his money. Kennedy backed down. That incident alone illustrates the dictatorial power of the Fed. Despite numerous attempts by Congressman Wright Patman and others who have called for a full audit of the books of the Federal Reserve System, no audit has been made available to the public since the System was founded in 1913. On March 1, 1982, the Arizona State Legislature, as well as a number of other states passed a resolution calling for the abolishment of the Federal Reserve System. All efforts to expose and change the System have been thwarted. Below is just one of the dozens of the attempts to no avail.

H.RES.746: Resolution providing for the consideration of H.R. 7590, a bill to authorize and direct the General Accounting Office to audit the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Advisory Council, and Federal Open Market Committee, and Federal Reserve Banks and their branches. Sponsor: Rep Patman.

If the media is unbiased, independent and completely thorough, why haven't they discussed the FED? Currently, half the states have at least a grass roots movement in action to abolish the FED, but there's no press coverage. In July, 1968, the House Banking Subcommittee reported that Rockefeller, through Chase Manhattan Bank, controlled 5.9% of the stock in CBS. Furthermore, the bank had gained interlocking directorates with ABC. In 1974, Congress issued a report stating that the Chase Manhattan Bank's stake in CBS rose to 14.1% and NBC to 4.5%. The same report said that the Chase Manhattan Bank held stock in 28 broadcasting firms. After this report, the Chase Manhattan Bank obtained 6.7% of ABC, and today the percentage is most likely much greater. It only requires 5% ownership to significantly influence the media. This is only one of 300 wealthy shareholders of the FED. It is believed other FED owners have similar holdings in the media. To control the media, FED bankers call in their loans if the media disagrees with them. Rockefeller also controls the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), the sole purpose of which is to aid in stimulating greater interest in foreign affairs and a one World government. Nearly every major newscaster belongs to the Council on Foreign Relations. The Council on Foreign Relations controls many major newspapers and magazines. Additionally, major corporations owned by FED shareholders are the source of huge advertising revenues which surely would influence the media.

In 1966 (data supplied from my "company", as a result of congressional investigation headed by U.S. Representative Wright Patman of Texas,) it was discovered that four of the World's seven largest oil companies were under the direct ownership and/or control of the Rockefeller family. According to an earlier Operations Reports, the largest of these, Standard Oil of New Jersey (EXXON), alone controlled 321 other major corporations, including Humble Oil and Venezuela's OREOLE Petroleum; themselves among the largest oil corporations in the World. By 1975, the Rockefeller had gained control of the single largest block of stock in Atlantic Richfield (ARCO) and were believed to be in control of TEXACO as well. (Therefore, it must be assumed that the extremely large suit and judgement against Texaco was merely a put-on for the public, and not a true verdict. Consider the true premise of a parent company bringing suit against its darling daughter.) It was further noted that the Rockefeller were operating major joint ventures with Royal Dutch Shell, which was already in the hands of European one-World interests. I am specifically referring to the Dutch Royal Family. It was Queen Juliana who was the sole owner of Shell. Upon her daughter's (Beatrice) marriage to Klaus (Germany), she divested herself of the interests in Royal Dutch Shell. Substantial interests were offered and sold through Credit Anstalt Bank Verein, as well as Union Bank of Switzerland.

However, our article deals with global strategists from both sides of the Atlantic. It should have seemed obvious to any American that major problems were to be encountered with the continuation of the Fed System. Ever since the founding of the Federal Reserve, consistent efforts have been made by conservatives of both houses of Congress to have their leaders put a stop to the Fed and to the dark forces behind it. During the 1960's and 1970's, Congressman Wright Patman of Texas also investigated manipulations by these foundations, trusts and the Federal Reserve. Using his influence as Chairman of the House Banking Committee and later as the Chairman of other important committees, he repeatedly tried to expose the so called "One World Plot" by calling for audits of the Federal Reserve, and even trying to have the Act repealed. However, the findings of each of his committees, for some strange reason, were unable to attract any attention from the media. Patman, and others who have gone after and before him, frequently stated and vented his frustration over this lack of press and media coverage. On one occasion he stated, "our exposes of the Federal Reserve Board are shocking and scandalous, but they are only printed in the daily Congressional Record, which is read by very few people."

In the 1970's and the 1980's, Congressman Larry McDonald was the one who spearheaded the efforts against the Bush version of the New World Order. In 1976 he wrote the introduction to the "Rockefeller File", a book exposing the Rockefeller' financial holdings and secret intentions. The book supposedly revealed that the Rockefeller had as many as two hundred trusts and foundation type organizations, and that the actual number of such foundations controlled by the family might well number into the thousands. Such control IS possible because Rockefeller banks, such as Chase Manhattan, have become the trustees for many other U.S. foundations as well; possessing the right to invest and to vote the capital and common stock of these institutions--through the trust department of the bank. McDonald did everything in his power to warn the American public. However, as usual, the attempt was to no avail. He stated unequivocally, that the Rockefeller intended to control "--first our own country, and then the World!" He went on to state. "Do I mean conspiracy? Yes, yes I do. I am convinced there is a plot, national and international." McDonald's warning was written on legal congressional letterhead and was dated November, 1975. During the ensuing years, frustrated by the media's refusal to report his findings, he began, like others and myself, to take his message to the streets by speaking out against these forces publicly to anyone who would listen to him. McDonald's courageous efforts came to an abrupt end on August 31, 1983 when he was killed aboard the Korean Airliner 007 flight, which "accidentally" strayed over Soviet airspace and was "accidentally" shot down.

Today, as with many other true patriots, very little remains of his fight for freedom. Critical information does kill the holder. During the 1960's and 1970's, thanks to the efforts of Congressman Wright Patman, Larry McDonald, and others, the message of a "One World Conspiracy" had begun to reach the "reading" American people. The usual action groups were formed by various citizens in an urgent attempt to get this information into the hands of the public. However, as usual, without coverage from the major media, their efforts have had only limited results. These groups have had to rely on self-published newsletters and books. Numerous radio appearances also were used to spread the word. The task of educating the American public is not a simple one, but rather and more so, based and predicated upon numerous unpublicized speaking engagements in order to get the word out. Such is the stress associated with an active grassroots campaign. Lt. Col. Archibald Roberts is one of the individuals who has made significant impact. As Director of the Committee to Restore the Constitution, he began testifying before state legislatures, informing our elected officials, at the state level, about the deception surrounding the Federal Reserve Act. His campaign, urging state legislatures to repeal the Federal Reserve Act was, according to Agency records, launched on March 30, 1971, when he testified before the Wisconsin House of Representatives. The text of Roberts' address was subsequently entered in the Congressional Record on April 19, 1991 by Louisiana Congressman John Rarick. As a result of Roberts' work, by the mid 1980's, approximately twenty states had taken some form of action to pass legislation, calling either for an audit of the Fed, or for the repeal of the Federal Reserve Act. However, there has been virtually no media coverage, and the American public is still largely unaware of the intense battle going on behind the scenes of the Washington Establishment. During June, 1989, the battle waged at the state level had once again reached Congress. Representative Henry Gonzalez, of Texas, introduced House Resolution 1469, calling for the abolition of the Open Market Committee of the Federal Reserve System. He also introduced House Resolution 1470, calling for the repeal of the Federal Reserve Act of 1913. During the same session, Representative Phil Crane of Illinois, introduced H.R. 70, calling for an annual audit of the Federal Reserve. However, all of these efforts, like those of others before them, failed.

We have personally come to know that it is far more than merely difficult to get the public behind a legitimate cause or issue, if the media refuses to cover it. Obviously such coverage is necessary in order to get the public to put the kind of pressure on Congress that will lead to action. This is particularly true of a Congress in which One-World interests now hold the upper hand, and own the media. The only area where one might disagree with the judge's decision is where he states that the Fed furthers the federal government's fiscal policy, and therefore performs an important governmental function. While we would like to think that the federal government and the Fed work cooperatively with each other, and they may on occasion, the Fed is by no means required to do so. One example is where Rep. Wright Patman, Chairman of the House Banking Committee, said in the Congressional Record back in the '60s, that depending on the temperament of the Fed's Chairman, sometimes the Fed worked with the government's fiscal policy, and other times either went in the complete opposite direction, or threatens to do so in order to influence policy. The common claim that the Fed is accountable to the government, because it is required to report to Congress on its activities annually, is incorrect. The reports to Congress mean little unless what the Chairman reports can be verified by complete records. From its founding to this day, the Fed has never undergone a complete independent audit. Congress time after time has requested that the Fed voluntarily submit to a complete audit, and every time, it refuses.

Those in the know about the Fed, realize that it does keep certain records secret. The soon-to-be-former Chairman of the House Banking Committee, Henry Gonzales, has spoken on record repeatedly about how the Fed at one point says it does not have certain requested records, and then it is found through investigation that it in fact does have those records, or at least used to. It would appear that the Fed Chairman can say anything he wants to to Congress, and they'll have to accept what he says, because verification of what he says is not always possible. Most people, including Americans, believe that the Federal Reserve Banks are government institutions, whereas they are actually mainly owned by banks and banking families. Being privately owned, and not public companies they do not have to make public reports, or divulge any internal information unless they want to, and as matters stand, with the public perception as it is they prefer to let the proverbial sleeping dog lie. Government and the finance industry have agreed that the term "independent" to describe their status is a good one, because the word "private" would be likely to evoke awkward questions, particularly when its governor is making recommendations that seem contrary to the country's economic interests. And so the convention happily continues. However, despite that word providing a sort of cover-up, there have been occasions when highly placed political groups have made very frank comments about its activities and suggested fundamental changes. This of course spurs various lobby groups into appropriate action to entrench the status quo, and protect the "Fed" against any changes. One such occasion was when the U.S. Congress Subcommittee on Domestic Finance, chaired by Wright Patman, published a virtual textbook on finance, aimed at assisting Congress and the public to better understand the American financial system. Its preface went so far as to say that it was an attempt to help "students, and all others interested in the study and improvement of our monetary system." -- then offered a range of fundamental improvements for serious consideration, which immediately kicked lobby groups, Wall Street correspondents, and supportive big businesses into top gear to minimize the "damage" that such reforms could cause.

So efficacious were their combined efforts that with the publication this year celebrating its 40th birthday, it appears that really nothing has changed, so it seems appropriate to have a further look at how the Patman Committee saw the situation then, and their recommendations for change, so we lift straight out of the Supplement to that Report, titled "Money Facts, 169 Questions and answers", for further consideration:

"Q.163: Is the Federal Reserve independence inefficient?

(A:) Absolutely. We now have two centres of economic policy making. One is the President and Congress. The other is the Federal Reserve Board. Both these policy-making centres control powerful economic tools. Each can turn the economy in any direction it wishes; yet neither has full control. As things stand now, policy-making is run like a dual control car, driven by two drivers, one of whom insists on his independent right to use his own brake, and accelerates as he and he alone thinks fit. It is pure luck that the motor is not constantly stalling. This is no way to run economic policy making. Both the speed and direction signals controlling the economy should come from one, and only one, source - which must be the President and Congress in our democracy.

Q.164: Is their "trustee" notion of monetary policy-making alien to American democracy?

(A:) Of course. The claim that people do not know what is good for them, and therefore a small group of men should be given the power to make the decisions, and then to take action, without being held accountable to the people, is 100% undemocratic. The essence of democracy is that people decide for themselves, through their elected officials, what is good or bad for them".

Further, to give monetary control to a group like the Federal Reserve is to hand over enormous power, unfettered by responsibility to anyone... The Federal Reserve's ideas that they should be considered trustees rather than stewards' runs counter to anything that Americans have believed about power and responsibility since the founding of the Republic.

"Q.165: Who favors Federal Reserve independence?

(A) The private banks who control the System, together with some allies: notably Wall Street newspapers, and other members of the financial community.

Q.166: Has the Federal Reserve demonstrated superiority in the management of monetary matters?

(A:) On the contrary. The Federal Reserve's persistent fear of a bogey-man ", inflation", has led it to slow our economy's growth and cause periodic recessions, and moreover, to maintain "tight money" even during periods of recession and economic slowdown".

Our Comment: The Committee then listed numerous changes it wanted, including; reorganizing the "Board"; abolition of the Free Market Committee; introducing "accountability" with audits; reducing the influence of "private " banks on the System; and terminating the selling of (U.S.) Government Securities through a small group of preferred dealers, adding the blunt assertion, "There is no reason to guarantee Government Bond dealers vast profits." To which we would add; especially when they can acquire that Stock by merely honoring their own checks, with the traditional banking privilege.

CIA Sponsored Massacre To Plunder Indonesia's Resources 1965

From Indonesia 1958: Nixon, the CIA, and the Secret War By L. Fletcher Prouty. Blood ran in the streets. Villages were wiped out and a million people massacred in a battle for the riches and political control of Indonesia. Nixon and the CIA wanted Sukarno overthrown. A letter from one of the most beautiful women in the World lies buried in a stack of mail on President Ford's desk. Written in Paris on July 24, 1975, by Dewi Sukarno, the former First Lady of Indonesia and widow of Dr. Achmed Sukarno, the charismatic Father of Indonesia, the letter is an appeal to President Ford for a complete explanation of the CIA-led and supported rebellions that took place in Indonesia in 1958 and 1965. It is not well known in the United States that the 1958 rebellion led to a major Indonesian civil war. The CIA-inspired uprising in Indonesia, unlike the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, was a full-scale military operation. The Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961 was made by a thin brigade of about 1,500 Cuban exiles trained by the CIA in Guatemala. But the 1958 Indonesian action involved no less than 42,000 CIA-armed rebels supported by a fleet of bombers and vast numbers of four-engine transport aircraft as well as submarine assistance from the U.S. Navy. It also involved a major training and logistical supporting effort on the part of the Philippines, Okinawa, Taiwan, and Singapore. But despite this massive armed force, the 1958 rebellion, like the Bay of Pigs invasion, was a total failure. Sukarno's army drove the rebels on Sumatra and Celebes into the sea.

There are some who might call the 1965 uprising a success. At least the rebels were not driven into the sea. However, for the United States it was a fantastically costly endeavor. The rebellion ended in the most massive and ruthless bloodbath since World War II. While the headlines in the United States dealt with the slaughter in Vietnam, the press of the rest of the World heaped blame on the United States for the barbaric massacre in Indonesia. The victorious new government of General Suharto proceeded to assassinate nearly one million people. This terrible slaughter and the ensuing imprisonment of tens of thousands of Indonesians stirred Dewi Sukarno to seek President Ford's assistance in gaining the release of her countrymen from prison. Dewi Sukarno has received no answer. But even without a reply she knows. The silence from Washington speaks for itself. A denial, if true, would have come without hesitation. The Indonesians know. The Latins had a phrase for it, "Is fecit cui prodest" -- the perpetrator of a crime is he who profits by it. Today, major U.S. enterprises are plundering the raw material wealth of Indonesia -- rubber, tin, and oil -- in a manner that is more vile than what is happening in Chile. And there is no one to stop them. Achmed Sukarno was one of those rare men who rose during the hours of crisis to unite one hundred million people and lead them out of the ashes of World War II. Sukarno came to liberate his country from the Japanese, the Dutch, the Portuguese, and from all others who were ready to enslave his country once again. He established his government on the "Five Pillars": (1) belief in one supreme God (2) just and civilized humanity (3) unity of Indonesia (4) democracy (5) social justice. Sukarno was forced to thread his way between communism and capitalism. His independence made him both friends and enemies. His worst enemies came from his polyglot people who are scattered over more than 3,000 islands. These islands make up the World's largest archipelago; they stretch along the equator for over 3,400 miles and are located in Southeast Asia between the Philippines and Australia. From one of these islands came Lt. Col. Alex Kawilarang, the military attache serving in Washington who was to defect to the rebel forces and lead the rebel contingent on Sumatra, the Indonesian island richest in natural resources.

His Excellency President Gerald Ford, The White House, Washington, D.C., Dear Mr. President,

As the widow of the late President Sukarno and being the only member of the family living overseas, I address myself to you, being deeply alarmed and disturbed by numerous and persistent reports in the international press. For instance, the CIA is said to have spied on my husband: manufactured a fake film in order to slander the good name and honor of Sukarno: prepared an assassination attempt against him and conspired to oust him from power to estrange him from the Indonesian people by accusing him of collaborating with international communism in betrayal of Indonesian independence, which of course was totally absurd.

My husband has repeatedly informed me that he was fully aware of these immoral, illegal, subversive, anti-Indonesian activities against his beloved Indonesia, his people, and against him personally.

I would like to request from you, as well as from the responsible Congressional Committees in the United States a full explanation about these reports and reprehensible practices as carried out by an official United States Government Agency in the name of several American Presidents and Governments.

Both in 1958 and in 1965, the CIA directly interfered in the internal affairs of Indonesia. In 1958, this monstrous action led to civil war. In 1965, it led to the ultimate takeover by a pro-American military regime, while hundreds of thousands of innocent peasants and loyal citizens were massacred in the name of this insane crusade against international communism. Still today, ten years later, many tens of thousands of true patriots and Sukarnoists are locked up in jails and concentration camps being denied the simplest and most elementary human rights. American companies and aggressive foreign interests are indiscriminately plundering the natural riches of Indonesia to the advantage of the few and the disadvantage of the millions of unemployed and impoverished masses.

I must now ask you, Mr. President, in the name of freedom and justice, in the name of decency in relations between states and statesmen, between powerful nations and developing lands, in the name of the Indonesian people and the Sukarno family: did the United States of America commit these hideous crimes against Indonesia and against the founder of the nation? Will your Government be prepared to accept responsibility for these evil practices? Over one hundred million Indonesians have been brainwashed, as was the rest of the World by the present regime's propaganda to believe that the communists carried out the insurrection. My countrymen, as well as everyone else, have the right to know the truth of the historic facts. It will be the painful duty for America now to reveal the CIA involvement in Indonesia and release all information and documents relevant to who really initiated the terrifying bloodbath that led to the overthrow of the legal Government and to the inhuman treatment in house arrest lasting three years until my husband's death.

In closing, I would like to strongly appeal to you, Mr. President, to use your influence with the military regime in Jakarta, to immediately free those many thousands of political prisoners, men and women, former cabinet ministers, writers and journalists, who I know are entirely innocent of the crime of treason they have been accused of. If the United States were to be instrumental in helping to improve the fate of so many thousands of courageous compatriots, I think the entire Indonesian nation would be grateful and Indonesians would regain their confidence in America's intentions towards the Third World.

Respectfully, R. S. Dewi Sukarno, July 24, 1975

What is not generally known about the complex Indonesian struggle is the role that was played by the then Vice President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, and the bitter aftermath that involved the sudden ouster of Allen Dulles' protege, Frank Wisner, who at that time was the head of the clandestine arm of the CIA. After Watergate, when Anthony Lukas wrote in his book Nightmare, about the growing mistrust between Nixon and the Director of Central Intelligence, Richard Helms, he could have added that since the 1958 Indonesian rebellion there were many in the CIA who made a career of hating Nixon because of what he had done to Frank Wisner, among others. The Indonesian campaign began rather casually as so many CIA ventures do. Few if any ever originate at the top. During an unguarded conversation in Washington the Indonesian military attaché mentioned earlier made it known to certain U.S. military acquaintances that there were many prominent and strong people in Indonesia who would be ready to rise against Sukarno if they were given a little support and encouragement from the United States. It happened that one of those U.S. military friends he talked to was not a military man at all, but a member of the CIA. The provocative words got back to Frank Wisner, then the Deputy Director of Plans. He was in charge of the CIA's clandestine activity and he authorized agents to follow up on that first conversation.

The Indonesian attaché was wined and dined and encouraged to talk more. Reasons for the attache's return to Indonesia on official business were successfully arranged. He was accompanied by CIA agents traveling under the cover of "U.S. military" personnel. During this visit they spoke with rebel leaders. They learned enough about the potential strength of this opposition to encourage the CIA to set in motion its biggest operation up to that date. In the Philippines there was a strong nucleus of military men, chief among them a Colonel Valeriano, who had been President Magsaysay's military assistant. He had also worked on paramilitary exercises with the CIA during the Magsaysay campaign against the leftist rebel Huk movement. This military group had gained considerable power during the Magsaysay tenure. Many of these special warfare experts from the Philippines had volunteered for duty in South Vietnam in 1955 when the CIA was deeply involved in providing undercover support for the new and uncertain regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem. By early 1958 these Filipinos and their CIA counterparts were prepared to involve the Philippines in the rebellion against Sukarno by setting up special warfare "Green Beret" training bases and by providing the Indonesian revolutionary council with clandestine air bases. One of those bases was on Palawan, the most western island of the Philippine archipelago, in the vicinity of the airfield at Puerto Princesa on Honda Bay. The other base was on the big southern island of Mindanao, near Davao Gulf. The rebellion flared sporadically from one end of Indonesia to the other.

While the CIA was supporting up to 100,000 rebels, the State Department professed innocence. The U.S. ambassador, Howard P. Jones, maintained that the United States had nothing to do with the rebellion and he protested the capture of the American oil properties. On the other hand, Sukarno had asked for more arms aid from the United States. He must have had strong suspicions about the source of rebel support. The vast number of guns, the bombers and heavy air transport aircraft dropping hundreds of tons of arms and equipment, as well as submarines supporting beach operations were just too sophisticated to be anything but major power ploys. Thus, his appeal for U.S. arms aid had the ring of gamesmanship. Playing along with the game, John Foster Dulles issued a statement saying that the United States would not provide arms to either side. And while he was publishing that falsehood, the United States furnished and piloted B-26 bombers, and these were bombing shipping in the Makassar Straits. Some had even flown as far south as the Java Sea. Almost immediately all insurance rates on shipping to and from Indonesia went on a wartime scale and costs became so prohibitive that most shipping actually ceased. The bombing attacks, kept so quiet in the United States that they hardly made the news, were being viewed with great alarm by the rest of the World. What was "Top Secret" in Washington was barroom gossip in the capitals of the World.

The pretense that the U.S. Government was in no way involved in this massive civil war against Sukarno was wearing thin. It was a reasonable cover as long as the United States could plausibly deny its role in the action. But one day, a lone B-26 out of the rebel CIA base at Menado, flying low over the Straits of Makassar, came upon an Indonesian ship -- an ideal target. The pilot banked to take a good run at the ship and began strafing it with those eight lethal .50-caliber machine guns. He was committed to the attack before he found out that the freighter was armed. The B-26 was hit and it ditched near the ship. The pilot, an American named Allan Lawrence Pope, was picked up. Pope was identified as a former U.S. Air Force pilot. The cork was out of the bottle. Sukarno had his proof of U.S. involvement and he played his ace card for an international audience. That one plane and that one pilot cost the U.S. Government tens of millions of dollars in ransom and tribute during the next several years. After the capture of Pope the rebellion rapidly fell apart. Loyal forces captured Donggala in central Celebes. And on far away Halmahera, government forces captured Jailolo. That ended all opposition except for the CIA-rebel air base at Menado. With the rebellion all but crushed, except for the continued existence of the main CIA force, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles ended the embargo of arms to Sukarno and agreed to send aid to the government of Indonesia! What wondrous duplicity! And Sukarno was not fooled. His forces had been fighting a major civil war inspired and clandestinely supported by the United States, while concurrently the overt branches of the U.S. Government acted as though nothing at all had happened. By the end of June 1958 it was all over. Then a very strange and rare (rare in terms of normal bureaucracy) thing happened. During the months of this operation it had been my custom to visit the CIA special operations center.

One morning I caught the unmarked, dull-green CIA shuttle bus at the Pentagon and rode to the operations center. I went in. Not a soul was there. The place had been cleaned out. Office after office was absolutely bare. Finally I found one secretary. She was sitting in a straight-back chair and her telephone was on the floor. There were tears in her eyes. She took a call from time to time and gave guarded answers about the former members of that huge staff. The entire section had been scattered to the four corners of the World. A large number of top-level, experienced, clandestine agents and operators had vanished. It took our Air Force office, skilled as we were in the ways of the CIA, months to find some of them again. Then we began to piece together what had happened. With the collapse of such a major effort and with the inability of the Government to deny plausibly before the World its role in the whole sordid affair, blame had to be placed somewhere. In an unprecedented action, Nixon had summarily fired Frank Wisner, along with some others. But Frank Wisner, a longtime OSS and CIA man, was a key intelligence officer. Few knew enough about his career to realize that he was senior, by far, to Helms and Colby. Clearly, he was Allen Dulles' heir apparent. When the OSS had been deactivated after World War II by President Truman, it was Wisner who had kept a tight-knit band of professionals together. This small cadre kept valuable OSS records and, more importantly, they had maintained the delicate lines of communication with agents, spies, and underground personnel in Eastern Europe, Russia, and Germany. They held this fragile web together. Without them hundreds of people might have been killed and priceless assets destroyed. And Frank Wisner suddenly, almost whimsically, had been fired. To a man, the Agency was aroused by this action. Rightly or wrongly, they hated Nixon for this. I remember being at meetings during which the name of Nixon would be mentioned and I have seen CIA men bristle and redder as though someone had let a poisonous snake loose in the room. Some vowed he would never become President.

Meanwhile the Agency moved to pull itself together. That one deft bloodbath appeared to end things. There was no Board of Inquiry as there was after the Bay of Pigs. And, remarkably, there was no public outcry as there would be a few years later after the U-2 scandal. The agency was busy sweeping things under the rug. Meanwhile those special B-26s were all flown back to the States and based at Elgin Air Force Base in Florida. That was late in 1958. By 1959 they began to stir again. A man named Castro had come to power in Cuba. During those fateful days in April 1961 it was those same B-26s that the CIA used to attack Cuba. This is the story that Dewi Sukarno is asking President Ford to explain to her and to the Indonesian people. Actually, the 1958 civil war was child's play compared to the brutal bloodbath of 1965. Sukarno was in control after the 1958 disaster and he wrung a heavy tribute from the U.S. Government for its indiscretions. But in 1965 his game ended, like Allende's in Chile, with defeat. An attempted communist coup d'état was defeated by General Suharto. Sukarno never made the great public statement that was to assure the success of the coup, and after its defeat and the ensuing bloodbath, he was stripped of his power. After a few years of ignominious house arrest the hero of all Indonesia died in 1970. What was the story behind Nixon's harsh action against Wisner? Was that the deep-rooted reason why CIA top-echelon insiders such as Dick Helms really hated and distrusted Nixon? In later years did they take out their grudge against him with a piece of tape on a Watergate doorway? There may never be answers to these questions, or perhaps they have been answered already. It is said that when the great volcanic mountain of Krakatoa in Indonesia blew up causing the greatest explosion the World had ever known, the dust of Indonesia was spread all over the World. The holocausts of 1958 and 1965 may have done the same thing. (for an excerpt from an interview conducted with L. Fletcher Prouty on May 6, 1989, regarding his book The Secret Team, The CIA and Its Allies in Control of the United States and the World, Prentice Hall, 1973. This segment recounts Prouty's experience when he found out that some things he had been doing for years in support of the CIA had not been known by the senior military officer in the armed forces -- the chairman of the JCS -- and that they had been done, most likely, in response to other authority. A transcript of this interview was to be published in 1998 by rat haus reality press as the book Understanding Special Operations)

Day of Infamy, August 15, 1971, Rome Steals US Lands

August 15, 1971, is a day that will live in infamy. That was the day that Standard Oil controlled President Richard Nixon assassinated the DOLLAR. He took the dollar off the gold standard and paved the way for the ruin of the country. In pagan Rome, August 15 was the big day for the devotees of Venus or the Queen of Heaven otherwise known as the Egyptian Isis or Hathor the cow goddess (the 5-pointed star or pentacle is the symbol of Venus; Venus' 4 year-cycle is reflected in the Olympics and its 5 circles on the Olympic flag). Roman pagans believed that Venus was taken up alive into heaven and crowned Queen of heaven. Papal Rome substituted Mary (the humble mother of Yashua-Joshua-Jesus) for Venus and continued to observe their pagan holiday. Now they call it the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary!! Venus or the mother goddess was called Isis or Hathor in Egypt and Diana of the Ephesians in Asia Minor. August 15, 1534 was also the day that Ignatius Loyola founded the deadly Jesuit order.

After this date, foreign holders of U.S. currency could not redeem their dollars in gold . . . so the vast lands of the Western U.S. were promised as collateral instead of gold. Judas Iscariot was a perfect type of the papacy at the end of the World....Judas betrayed his Lord for 2 things: MONEY and LAND. Of course everybody knows that Fort Knox, Kentucky, is like the United States of America — impregnable from the outside. So if anybody wants to penetrate that fortress and steal the gold the thief has to come from within!! By 1950, the U.S. Government owned almost half of all the World's gold supply and the dollar was as good as gold. Now it is ALL gone . . . shipped off to Swiss and German Banks and credited to the account of the Vatican Bank!! During World War II, Fort Knox was modified to allow easy access to the MAIN STORAGE VAULT. Beginning in 1961, gold began to flow out and was taken to the Federal Reserve Vaults in New York City Federal Reserve Building at 33 LIBERTY St. (the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel) in downtown New York City (2 blocks from Wall St.) is the home of the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank. All the stolen gold was taken here and stored in the basement. It was used to finance the Vietnam War, the Cold War, Star Wars, Iraqi War, Serbian War, illegal immigration, drug traffic, abortion clinics etc., etc.

1984 Grace Commission Report under Ronald Reagan Exposes All Taxes Go To BankLords

The final report of the 1984 Grace Commission, convened under President Ronald Reagan, quietly admitted that none of the funds they collect from federal income taxes goes to pay for any federal government services. The Grace Commission found that those funds were being used to pay for interest on the federal debt, and income transfer payments to beneficiaries of entitlement programs like federal pension plans. Ronald Reagan was promptly shot after he dared to criticize the Fed, on the same day that the Pope was shot. After recovering, he changed his mind and praised the Fed. About seven US Presidents have been assassinated for not cooperating with the Transatlantic Banking Dynasties (William Henry Harrison, poisoned, in 1841, Zachary Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and John F. Kennedy 1963; 7 if FDR's poisoning is counted). Most of us feel sick when we realize that

Not one dime of IRS money goes to the US Gov't, according to Reagan's Grace Commission: it all goes to pay interest on a bogus debt to the Private Federal Reserve (FED), just to allow paper money to circulate as "Federal Reserve Notes". The Federal Reserve is a private Corporation eventually owned by the Rockefellers and Rothschilds Dynasties through intermediary agents, designed to suck the capital dry from the U.S., as the Rothschilds do in Europe. Read Billions for the Bankers, Debts for the People More Links at DeepInfo.com on Jekyll Island.

"100% of what is collected is absorbed solely by interest on the Federal Debt ... all individual income tax revenues are gone before one nickel is spent on the services taxpayers expect from government." -Grace Commission report submitted to President Ronald Reagan - January 15, 1984

These comments were presented at the Close of the Citizens' Truth-In-Taxation Hearing. Washington D.C., February 27-28, 2002: IRS is a Trust Headquartered in Puerto Rico Not a Federal Agency The IRS is technically not an "agency" of the federal government, as that term is defined in the Freedom of Information Act and in the Administrative Procedures Act. The governments of the federal territories are expressly excluded from the definition of "agency" in those Acts of Congress. See 5 U.S.C. 551(1)(C). All evidence indicates that they are a money laundry, extortion racket, and conspiracy to engage in a pattern of racketeering activity, in violation of 18 U.S.C. 1951 and 1961 et seq. They appear to be laundering huge sums of money into foreign banks, mostly in Europe, and quite possibly into the Vatican. See the national policy on money laundering at 31 U.S.C. 5341 . Do federal income tax revenues pay for any government services and, if so, which government services are funded by federal income taxes? Answer: No. The money trail is very difficult to follow, in this instance, because the IRS is technically a trust with a domicile in Puerto Rico. See 31 U.S.C. 1321(a)(62). As such, their records are protected by laws which guarantee the privacy of trust records within that territorial jurisdiction, provided that the trust is not also violating the Sherman Antitrust Act.

"Like it or not, you are a slave. You admit you are a slave every April 15th! That's when you sign forms that "voluntarily" lay bare to the government the most private details of your life! And few people realize the income tax is a slave tax. It can never be compatible with the life of a free people". ALAN KEYES - Republican Nominee for President, unfortunately, the only Republican willing to speak out along with Ron Paul.

Visit here... Interest On The Debt! <http://www.geocities.com/cmcofer/interest.html> ...and gulp! Sit down when you view it. People have fainted when they see the size of the Debt Hole we're now in!

The "President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control", commonly referred to as the 1984 Reagan "Grace Commission Report" reveals that 100% of the "income tax" collected is applied against the interest of the national debt. The government operates on a deficit that is created from nothing by the Privately Owned Fed (owned by the same folks who own the major commercial banks) at interest, i.e. what could be created debt free and usury free by the Treasury has been usurped by the Banking Dynasties who have been ruling the World since ancient times. Taxes are a way of controlling, or manipulating the economy. They also give people a faith in the funny money -- makes it Near and dear to them. Balanced budgets and budget surpluses are a smoke and mirror trick. They sound really good, playwell for the people, but are nothing more than pandering. I'm not going into it, period, but if any should care to make the study, you will be at first incredulous, then angered by the depths of deception under which the people of this country labor.

Even the inventor of the electric light, Thomas Edison, joined the fray in criticizing the system of the Federal Reserve: "If our nation can issue a dollar bond, it can issue a dollar bill. The element that makes the bond good, makes the bill good, also... It is absurd to say that our country can issue $30 million in bonds and not $30 million in currency. Both are promises to pay, but one promise fattens the usurers and the other helps the people."

"Our federal tax system is, in short, utterly impossible, utterly unjust and completely counterproductive [it] reeks with injustice and is fundamentally un-American... it has earned a rebellion and it's time we rebelled". - President Ronald Reagan, May 1983, Williamsburg, VA .

"Our Income Tax system is a disgrace to the human race." - Jimmy Carter, said in 1976 by the then President-to-be "In a recent conversation with an official at the Internal Revenue Service, I was amazed when he told me that 'If the taxpayers of this country ever discover that the IRS operates on 90% bluff the entire system will collapse'". - Henry Bellmon, Senator (1969)

"Eight decades of amendments... to [the] code have produced a virtually impenetrable maze... The rules are unintelligible to most citizens... The rules are equally mysterious to many government employees who are charged with administering and enforcing the law". - Shirley Peterson, Former IRS Commissioner, April 14, 1993 at Southern Methodist University

"The wages of the average American worker, after inflation and taxes, have decreased 17% since 1973, the only Western industrial nation to so suffer". - Martin Gross, author of "The Tax Racket: Government Extortion From A to Z"

The Second Rise of the Private Central Banks Actually began in 1668

The second rise of private central banks began in 1668 (first one being the Bank of Rome in the 1st century AC) when the Sveriges Riksbank in Sweden birthed the concept of a private corporation lending money to government. In turn, the government pays interest in perpetuity and thus is always in debt to the central bank. However, it was with the Bank of England in 1694, that this concept became global. Similarly, the Bank of France began in 1803, the German Bundesbank in 1870, the Bank of Japan in 1882, the Bank of Italy in 1893 and the U.S. Federal Reserve in 1913 (this was the 3rd attempt by the Banking Mafias). Today, most countries have a private corporation controlling their monetary system. New central banks now exist in Afghanistan, Russia, China and Iraq and most other countries.

Clearly then, governments have turned over management and control of their finances to bankers. As such, bankers' goals are money, power and profit which is contrary to goals of honest government. Furthermore, the interest government's pay on national debt goes to these international bankers, and the higher the debt, the more interest is paid to them on money which the Banksters or BankLords created from nothing. As a result, a central bank dictates interest rates, the amount of money in circulation, and economic policies in a country. Moreover, the central bank ministers that manage the central banks of their respective country meet at the Bank for International Settlements-BIS in Basel, Switzerland, which is the central bank's bank or the mother of all private central banks. The BIS is at the apex of power and control over the World's monetary system.

In Tragedy and Hope, Dr. Carroll Quigley, Bill Clinton's mentor at Georgetown University, writes about the purpose of central banks, as follows:
"The powers of financial capitalism had another far-reaching aim, nothing less than to create a World system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the World as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudal fashion by the central banks of the World acting in concert, by secret agreements arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences. Each bank sought to dominate its government by its ability to control Treasury loans, to manipulate foreign exchanges, to influence the level of economic activity in the country, and to influence cooperative politicians by subsequent economic rewards in the business World. When a currency is off the gold standard, fluctuations of exchange can go on indefinitely".

The unbalance of international payments is worked out by a shift in exchange rates. In 1980, Jimmy Carter gave the Federal Reserve vast powers over the U.S. banking system which began their rise as a major power over the U.S. economy when he signed the Monetary Control Act of 1980. At the same time, other G7 countries passed similar laws heralding ascendancy of the Bank for International Settlements with legal jurisdiction over the World's international banking system. Its goal is to "foster international monetary cooperation" which is a deception for total control over the World's financial system. Prior to the 1998 Asian financial crisis, the G7 finance ministers met alone. As a result of the Asian crisis, the respective central bank ministers of the G7 countries began meeting with the finance ministers. This was a major power play because the central banks lend money to countries that have become debtors to the central banks. Therefore the central truth is if countries become broke in the process, then the evolving international financial architecture turns out to be a transfer of wealth into the hands of the international bankers.

Again, as Quigley writes: "[T]he powers of financial capitalism had another far reaching aim, nothing less than to create a World system of financial control in private hands to be controlled in a feudal fashion by the central banks of the World." At every turn, this control is growing and expanding over each individual country.

The Group of Eight

Over the past 29 years, the Group of Eight or G8 has become a key World center of power. It began when Nixon took the dollar off the gold standard in 1971. By 1973, he called to the White House the heads of state of three countries' along with their finance and foreign ministers. There they determined how the World was to be financially governed. Two years later, the U.S., France, England, Italy, Japan, and Germany met in Rambouillet, France where the G5 power structure was birthed. A year later Canada joined and it was the G7 until 1999 when Russia joined and it became the G8. Currently, there is talk of China joining the G8 process because of its growing economic and trade power.

In their first Communiqué in 1975, the G8 declared their purpose: "We came together because of shared beliefs and shared responsibilities. To assure in a World of growing interdependence the success of the objectives set out in this declaration, we intend to play our own full part and strengthen our efforts for closer international cooperation". Actually, the original purpose of the G8 was to monitor a post-gold World. But its structure has expanded through the addition of a global cabinet. Because their agenda now includes such governmental oversights as labor, education, law, finance, health, transportation, trade, and foreign affairs, the respective ministers of these functions meet year-round. The G8 has never hid its goal of global integration and it appeared in a 1991 declaration: "We seek to build World partnership, based on common values and to strengthen the international order."

In 1994, they strengthened the international financial architecture of free trade and new international mechanisms to facilitate economic integration. They pledged their full energies "to strengthening the institutions in partnership with the entire membership to enhance the security and prosperity of the World. The major challenge confronting us is to manage increased interdependence." And later, in 1998, they wrote, "In a World of increasing globalization, we are ever more interdependent. In an interdependent World, we must work to build sustainable economic growth in all countries." All of these declarations clearly bear out the G8 over-arching objective of global integration. While the goal of global integration may sound utopian and a way of achieving World peace, it can be seen in another light: one of gathering the natural and manufactured assets of the various individual nation-states and transferring them into a global market whereby the most powerful can control the value of the market by buying low and selling high, leaving the small investor to wonder where his unrealized gain went. It was transferred into the bank account of those who REALIZED the gain at the market-top. This is a direct transfer of wealth!!! A transfer of assets requires an open system-a World without borders where laws facilitate integration and harmonization. The biggest economy in the World, the U.S., has been the driving force behind such integration. The Monetary Control Act of 1980 is foundational to asset transfer and ensuring integration market-based governance. It is not until we review the admonishments of our first president, George Washington quoted in the earlier sections, that we see how far we have strayed from nationalism and the ability of our country to protect itself from foreign and domestic enemies of all kinds, including those presidents who are traitors to the U.S. Constitution.

Perpetual Boom-Bust Cycles to Enrich to BankLords per Mike Montagne

For the rapid growth which could ensue the WW2 destruction, something like starting from a new beginning, new commerce could operate under initial debt. In other words, history illustrates the system does not provide for repairing the fractured system. After it collapses all we have worked for, we may be so deluded as to simply tolerate restarting the system anew, to repeat its inherent, unavoidable cycle of multiplying plunder to yet another subsequent collapse. Of course, a further option is instead to establish justice and solution. After all, there are ten-year-old mathematicians all over the country who can confirm solution, who neither wish to spend the rest of their lives paying for the same home you did. As under any such system, debt is multiplied by ever greater increments of periodic interest on ever greater debt, growth and increasing prosperity were initially less impeded through the 50s and 60s.

A $35,000 home built in 1963 might cost you a million dollars plus interest now, even after it has been paid for many times over. Is it "all relative," as so often mindlessly recited by the dupes of usury? Absolutely not. If all this were merely "relative," after all this otherwise inexplicable changing of the value of money, a home still would be paid for with only the work of producing the home. By the later 70s, debt was multiplying at alarming rates, and those who were mindful of the mathematic implications were disturbed. Ronald Reagan denounced the national debt accumulated by Jimmy Carter as "unforgivable." Reagan tripled the debt left at the end of the Carter Administration in 7 years. In the process, appealing to an ignorant public, Reagan accelerated the process of ambitiously revising figures in the hopes of painting a prettier picture. The disinformation necessarily assembled to sway your support while pulling off this graft is no less than your tax dollars being spent to deceive you more ambitiously, every day. Over the early 1980s, we corresponded with the Reagan people, and provided the Reagan Administration computer models capable of calculating the maximum possible lifespan of any "economy" conveyed by a currency which is interest-bearing debt. The models simply borrowed at whatever rate was necessary to maintain hypothetical growth rates, until the entire circulation was necessarily devoted to servicing debt. As some portion of the circulation however is necessarily devoted to sustaining solvent commerce, while commerce survives that is, a practical lifespan of any such system will fall short of the maximum possible lifespan, and typically will be engendered by the collapse of significant sectors of the "economy," marginalized in advance of other sectors. As the first sectors collapse under marginalized circumstances, they in turn collapse related sectors, then marginalized by diminished market, diminished revenue, diminished supply, diminished capacity to service debt, and consequent insolubility. As anyone can understand a simple model of the limitations of any such system, in the end, the projected form of collapse manifests as people now coincidentally say... "like a house of cards."

Understand however this is not a model of the sort attempting to predict one of perhaps many contingent, intermittent directions. It is a model of the absolute limitations of the system, and the onset of maximum limitations, according to managerial policy. Interest rates of course comprise not only the rate of profit of the central banking system, but the rate at which debt is multiplied. Our models, which simply replicate the process of multiplying debt, projected from the early 1980s that if interest rates were aggressively adjusted downward while restricting borrowing by other means than multiplying the profit of the central banks to the preclusion of commercial viability, we might have been able to service multiplying debt until something like 2020 AD. In the early 1980s however, we expected "the game" would be more inconspicuously managed against the prospect of public apprehension. Particularly as Alan Greenspan maintained higher interest rates than projected a maximum possible lifespan to 2020 AD. therefore, we can hardly expect to make it to 2020 on borrowings we cannot afford. In straightforward terms, the chances are not good we'll make it to 2010 without systemic collapse unless we adopt solution. All the while to the end, we will suffer more marginal solubility, despite what promise the allies of the central bankers will report, to your greater cost.

There is one solution and one solution only, and that is elimination of the corruption of the value of money, of precluded prosperity, and particularly of precluded prosperity by multiplication of debt upon commerce. We further provided Reagan and David Stockman a proof it was mathematically impossible that Reagan's proposed 10% tax cuts per year for three years would truly offset "inflation." As Federal costs are only a part of the whole of costs we suffer, and as even by the government's and so-called Federal Reserve's purposely distorted accounting, we suffered increasing costs of the whole of more than 10%, thus of course how much he could reduce our costs was far less than our costs were actually increased. While we provided and feel we proved singular solution in mathematically perfected economy, and though the debt engendered by the method of subduing increasing prices would certainly add substantially further to real costs, Reagan directed Stockman to determine "inflation" as increasing prices, hoping, despite the further increasing costs moved into multiplication of debt, that he could report a cross-section of prices that would "prove" to the satisfaction of a disinforming public that indeed he served them. It was impossible even before the very outset however, that Reagan would truly reduce real costs. He simply moved the figures into another column of profit of the central bankers, while central banking multiplied us into the greatest debtor nation of the World.

In fact, the merits of service of every president since and including Gerald Ford can be measured by the fact every president since and including Gerald Ford has been apprised of the timely embodiments of this very essay, with not one president demonstrating a record of serving the people. Reagan, like many others before and after him, plowed on with an agenda which has only served the central bankers by multiplying our debt. As an ever more difficult environment for prosperity was pitted against our efforts and capacity to produce as never before, under Reagan, the prosperity of the mid 70s stooped under the weight of mere "relative" debt, until we suffered the greatest single-day securities disaster since the Great Depression. "We" also descended from "the greatest creditor nation" of the World to the greatest debtor nation in a mere seven years, while Reagan, particularly like those after him, sought every distortion of reality to deceive the people, and champion false accomplishments readily discerned to this very moment. To convince an equally inept populace there is nothing wrong with central banking, and necessarily to finance ever more vain hopes of prosperity against debt, the currency presses could only be pushed into higher gear. During the Reagan Administration, "inflation," which is defined as an increase in circulation per goods and services [or production], was as much as re-defined as increasing charges for production. From thereon, there would be almost no limit to the further adulteration of analysis or reporting, but what the public would swallow.

But there certainly is no qualified association of higher charges with a greater circulation per production, particularly if that greater circulation is necessary to service debt multiplied in proportion to the circulation. In fact, as every central bank "economy" multiplies debt in proportion to any circulation, central bank "economies" themselves compel higher charges for production, IF production is to remain solvent above the higher costs of greater debt. Ostensibly to stave "inflation" nonetheless, Alan Greenspan maintained high interest rates. The idea of course is to restrict the circulation by making further circulation so expensive that under the resultant circulation, markets cannot afford higher prices. All the while, merely as we maintain a circulation, debt and the profit of the central banking system multiply at the faster rates predicated by higher rates of interest. The consequence of making credit so expensive markets cannot afford rising prices therefore, is ever greater marginalization of existent production, under the weight of greater debt.

Alan Greenspan thus accelerated the demise of the system by marginalizing both consumer and producer, and multiplying debt at the highest rates either might tolerate. In 1996, during the campaign preceding the second Clinton Administration, I responded to an MSNBC question, Are political reporters politically biased? "Unless there is an editor or reporter with a perfectly neutral work-focus and style of presentation, then ALL reporters and editors are politically biased.

Bias however, is no sensitive issue where a mature audience is apt to detect bias and account for it. The damaging aspect of 'news' coverage is its non-focus on imperative issues and qualifiable solution; and that so many citizens of all countries of the World hold to so many irrelevant snippets as if they can be served by them. For some 20 years for instance, the prospect of a 'balanced budget' occasionally draws some focus. But, in the news, and in politics, never have we seen an exhaustive proof of whether it is even mathematically possible to balance the budget under current and ever-worsening conditions. If however, World politics will ever see the solution of ever-mounting debt, and a solution of the ever greater costs of ever mounting debt, inevitably this will be through the eyes of a mathematic expression equivalent to conclusive, mathematic proof. Do the people even want to see or hear this, or administer to issues in conclusive terms? Only their focus on such a scope will tell. But certainly no news-service offers the inevitable argument. In any event, the impertinence of the audience befits the impertinence of submitted material. If they had no equally impertinent audience... all impertinent material, and all impertinent politicians, would be equally vanished. Just something to consider, as we plunge ever deeper into insoluble debt." The Clinton-Gore Administration of course, likewise received our proof of mathematically perfected economy. Mathematically perfected economy is a singular solution for the issues confronting us. In return for our efforts, and in sole response to our efforts, Bill Clinton sent us 8 years' of Christmas cards — without a word on economics, unless those words are in the cards we never opened. You might understand that several of those sendings were never even opened nonetheless, as it wasn't long after my subdued 1996 expression of displeasure that Bill Clinton and Al Gore claimed to have accomplished something which to recently had been considered "mathematically impossible." My very words. Imagine that.

Clinton, known well enough for his truthfulness, claimed to have balanced the federal budget; and remarkably, this claim survives the mainstream press as "might" induce approval of an unapprehending populace to this very day. But were taxes increased? Was government spending decreased? Were either taxes or spending increased or decreased as necessary to avoid further accumulation of national debt? OR "might" he just for instance have instead relinquished hard-earned and vital assets such as the Panama Canal, and gutted social security and even other funds meant for, created by the work of, and owned by, the American people? And can this "possibly" explain why Al Gore refused to run for 2004, saying only that he's come to realize "the old methods may not work any more?" Indeed, no more room may remain for the old methods to "work" any more; and when and if we finally have to clean house, which "may" be very soon, neither the White House or Congress or Judicial system will be a comfortable place to perch, if not only did you permit this to happen, you were a principal perpetrator. But in the mainstream press owned by the principal perpetrators, the legend of the balanced budget lives on, even as federal debt continued to accumulate under the purported, balanced budget — and even as federal debt is regularly purchased by the so-called Federal Reserve, for profit, at your further expense. As Clinton took office with business across the World plummeting from profitability, "new engines of growth" were direly sought. It was necessary to dramatically increase the circulation that, if new production of some sort could survive, it might sustain "the economy" against the accumulated debt. "One thing always particularly attractive to the banking 'industry,'" is the prospect of siphoning profit from commerce in a "new" way.

If you ever have to deal with "investors," you might be apprised they are in general not particularly brilliant people. Across the World they claim their role drives the system. In fact, largely they procure and distribute funds from close proximity to the central banking system — at behest of the system, and at the direct or indirect profit of the printers and changers of the money. One thing motivates them, and that is unearned profit. The "economy" was largely sustained by the strength of the software industry. But in every new area and era of venture, pretenders may accumulate. Right and left new ventures were spawned, often with no real product, or no prospect in hell of generating a profit. Huge sums of cash were dumped into empty businesses, and on the claimed "boom," Clinton likewise claimed efficient administration of the "economy." A typical blunder for instance would be a proposal for the World's largest online mall. EVERYONE would be allowed to sell EVERYTHING — and everyone's store front might cost them nothing to participate. A great idea? A little software would run it all. But what were the real prospects? First of all, a formula for everyone to sell to themselves everything they might, for profit, is to cancel all the profit. Moreover, which store front is to be presented of all so many store fronts? And finally, how have you improved distribution or handling, when you can still pick up your bar of soap at the store?

There are no credible figures, but so few are the so-called dot-coms which ever made a profit, quite likely all the prosperity claimed of the Clinton era is more properly represented by a negative expression. Nonetheless, the failure of all those dot-coms dumped huge amounts of cash into the system, which, against the further multiplied debt, allowed us to just sustain ourselves. Now, under all so much more debt, accumulating ever more debt everywhere about us, and without even a credible facade worthy of even greater funding necessary to sustain us against even further debt... Just exactly, where are we going to go? There is negative interest now in Japan. They are HOPING they can pay people to take money, that the system does not quickly deflate as we pay against existent debt — while we are so insolvent we can neither afford or credibly be granted further debt subject to interest which will further multiply debt — as necessary to maintain a vital circulation. Which pretty much brings us up to date on the longevity of the second cycle of collapse to be engendered by the so-called Federal Reserve System and its sister central banks around the World.

The Depository Trust Corporation

Who owns The Depository Trust Corporation, a.k.a. the D.T.C., which is the clearing house for most of the nation's traded securities and who are its shareholders? It is thought that all securities passing through the D.T.C. never belonged to the titled buyers and sellers, but in effect to this private corporation which appears to be privately owned by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York!

Bank of International Settlements \(B.I.S.\) The Mother of All Central Banks

There is one more bank to watch out for (in addition to the World Bank/IMF, and note the Babylonian Tower of Babel design). It's the B.I.S. in Basel, Switzerland. The Bank of International Settlements (B.I.S.) which the United States helped establish in 1930. The private US Federal Reserve is one of its owners. The shares of the private BIS are demarcated by Gold Francs (not Swiss or French but Gold Francs) each of which is serial numbered. The Vatican's Bank of Rome's gold is also stored in Switzerland under the watchful eye of the Swiss Guard since Rome was sacked by Charles V in 1527 and took most of the gold which Rome had taken from Europeans.

Paul Warburg, one of the 'fathers/owners of the Fed" showed up as the first President of the B.I.S. Paul and other financiers in NY financed the Bolshevik revolution, and it was that revelation that forced Paul Warburg to step down from his seat on the Federal Reserve Board.

Rep. Louis McFadden, Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, quoted in the New York Times June 1930: "The Federal Reserve Bank of New York is eager to enter into close relationship with the Bank for International Settlements....The conclusion is impossible to escape that the State and Treasury Departments are willing to pool the banking system of Europe and America, setting up a World financial power independent of and above the Government of the United States....The United States under present conditions will be transformed from the most active of manufacturing nations into a consuming and importing nation with a balance of trade against it." This is exactly what has happened.

During WWI Paul's Brother Max, was not only head of the Hamburg (Rothschild Bank) but was also Head of German Intelligence and the famous train ride of Lenin into Russia was his idea. The loan to the Bolsheviks was brokered through the Swedish Central Bank, and guess who was the head of that bank, Julius Warburg, the other brother. The loan of course was repaid promptly from the wealth confiscated by the Bolsheviks, mostly from the Tsar. During WWII, B.I.S. diligently took care of German monetary exchanges as well as those of the Allies.

Bill Clinton's mentor at Georgetown University, Dr. Carroll Quigley, said the BIS was to "serve as a 'Central Bankers' Bank". The BIS is where all of the World's central banks meet to analyze the global economy and determine what course of action they will take next to put more money in their pockets since they control the amount of money in circulation and how much interest they are going to charge governments and banks for borrowing from them.

Keith Bradsher of the New York Times, August 5, 1995: "In a small Swiss city sits an international organization so obscure and secretive....Control of the institution, the Bank for International Settlements, lies with some of the World's most powerful and least visible men: the heads of 32 central banks, officials able to shift billions of dollars and alter the course of economies at the stroke of a pen."

Quigley further explained: "The powers of financial capitalism had another far reaching aim, nothing less than to create a World system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the World as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudal fashion by the central banks of the World acting in concert, by secret agreements, arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences. The apex of the system was the Bank for International Settlements in Basel, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the World's central banks which were themselves private corporations... Each central bank... Sought to dominate its government by its ability to control treasury loans, to manipulate foreign exchanges, to influence the level of economic activity in the country, and to influence cooperative politicians by subsequent economic rewards in the business World... The growth of financial capitalism made possible a centralization of World economic control and use of this power for the direct benefit of financiers and the indirect injury of all other economic groups." - Carroll Quigley, Professor of History at Georgetown University in his book "Tragedy and Hope: A History of The World in Our Time" (Macmillan Company, 1966), highly esteemed by his former student, William Jefferson Blythe Clinton

There is nothing about B.I.S. that indicates it is the most important bank (and building) in the World. When the BIS holds its two-hour annual meeting, those who control the monetary system of their country-the central bank ministers walk to it from nearby hotels. Once you enter the front doors of the BIS, you are confronted with two sets of glass doors that are circular. The only way to go beyond them is to have permission. Those who enter are escorted at all times. In order to be admitted to the middle of the circular doors, the two back glass panels slide open to let you in. When you are in the middle they close and the two front glass panels then slide open to allow you to enter into the tower where the offices are. Because it is rather unique, a fellow reporter remarked, "Masonic looking isn't it." The great security makes you wonder why all the secrecy. Only once in all the years of holding annual meetings has the BIS given a tour for "outsiders". Of the various meetings rooms, two stand out: the special room where the Group of Ten* central bank ministers (*G7: U.S., Canada, Germany, Japan, Italy, France, Great Britain; G10 is G7 plus Switzerland, Sweden, the Netherlands and Belgium) meet which has a round table positioned in the middle of the room with some kind of round halo hanging from the ceiling over it, giving the impression of the Masonic Templar "Knights of the Round Table". Then there is the "green" room which is shaped like an almond, reminding you of a Masonic "eye" because of its shape and color.

Over the years, the Bank for International Settlements has amassed more power over the global financial infrastructure than most people are aware of. They have a number of very powerful committees which include: the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision which has been working on how to regulate not only international banks of the World, but eventually those rules will pertain to every national bank as well, the Committee on the Global Financial System which monitors financial markets around the World with the objective of identifying potential risks for financial stability, and the Committee on Payment and Settlement Systems looks to strengthen the infrastructure of financial markets with regard to rules on how to transfer monies and how to make payments between member banks.

One very important committee is Financial Stability Forum-FSF which was created as a result of the Asian Crisis. Their mandate is to help set up safeguards for the entire global economic system (notice that this responsibility no longer belongs to the individual nation-states). It should be noted that Federal Reserve Vice Chairman Roger Ferguson is Committee Chairman of both the Committee on Global Financial Systems and the FSF. This Forum is comprised of the G7 Central Bank Governors, G7 Finance Ministers and the G7 Regulatory Agencies (in the US, they are the Comptroller of the Currency and Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation). In addition, a number of international organizations take active part: the World Bank, International Monetary Fund, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the International Association of Insurance Supervisors, the International Organization of Security Commissioners and the newly formed International Accounting Standards Board. Besides the G7 countries, there are a number of emerging market countries such as India and China that participate. The FSF represents "greater cohesiveness and harmonization among countries." The BIS has continued to push the envelope further in a borderless banking World. Some of their growing powers have come directly from governments like the United States that have transferred the regulatory power they used to have over the banking system to the central bank while the rest comes from the simple fact that they do indeed control the monetary system of the World.

BIS Managing Director Dr. Malcolm Knight went on record when he said, "We are not a central bank. We are the bank for the central bankers." Dr. Knight, who received his post-graduate degrees from the London School of Economics explained that "Central banks need to operate in independence." This means no control by government which is pretty clear by the above changes to American law, i.e. the central bankers work to make fortunes for the New World Order commercial bankers and not for the masses. When Alan Greenspan goes to Congress, they ask him what he thinks and what he will do. It should be noted that he is not elected, he is appointed and his word literally moves markets. Interestingly enough since 1997 the Bank of England and the Bank of Japan have been given more power to determine monetary policy which includes the freedom to set interest rates apart from government opinion and to intervene in foreign exchange markets. These have the same powers as what the Federal Reserve has. When you understand that the BIS pulls the strings of the World's monetary system, you then understand that they have the ability to create a financial boom or bust in a country. If that country is not doing what the money lenders want, then all they have to do is sell its currency. So when Dr. Knight talks about controlling the "financial centers where a lot of hot money could be placed," he is explaining that as a result of the work of the FSF, they are "implementing rules on financial behavior all over the World" which means them positioning the BIS to be able to control hot money. Lastly, one very important aspect of Dr. Knight is that of a harmonization of global currencies. In an interview 18 months ago with noted economist Dr. Jacob Frenkel does not hide his view that all of the currencies of the World need to be harmonized; it would occur after the economies were harmonized. When posed this question, Dr. Knight only addressed that fact that many central banks have a consistency of objectives that harmonize their policies. Interestingly enough, the Wall Street Journal reported on a meeting which included Dr. Frenkel, former U.S. Fed Chairman Paul Volcker and Dr. Robert Mundell that took place on June 30, the same day of the interview with Dr. Knight. Their theme was "Does the Global Economy Need a Global Currency?" The thesis was that if the euro can replace the franc, mark and lira, why can't a new World currency merge the dollar, euro and yen? I submit to you that this is the next agenda of the central bankers. When this change occurs, I can assure you, they will make mega-money on a new global currency.

Dr. Quigley said that the central banks have the financial power over both markets and governments. Dr. Knight believes they are fixing the markets. The B.I.S. in reality is the boss of the Fed. The heads of the Central Banks of the Committee of Ten, journey to Basel, Switzerland once a month for a three day work week (Sun - Tues). They each occupy identical offices, not personalized except maybe for family photo's, they spend their time reviewing and preparing reports, then give an update, receive marching orders and go back to their respective countries to implement those orders within the confines of the political environment. The Annual Reports for the B.I.S are both boring and illuminating. In the 1982 report it stated that America would have to reduce its standard of living, Paul Volcker (then chairman of the fed) made the same statement publicly within six months of the report, and it has taken some 20 years to bring the plan to fruition. Of course, poor Ronald Reagan got shot by a would-be assassin who was a friend of the Bush family just before this in 1981. He had made negative comments about Paul Volcker and the Federal Reserve. In the 1984-1985 BIS report a small paragraph said "The Soviet union is a failed economic enterprise and must be restructured" and within six months Gorbachev was hired to do the job, evidently the Restructuring word got out and we were bombarded with media propaganda about poor Refuseniks, the Congress then dropped it's immigration quota's to Russia and we were flooded with criminals from the "Russian" Mafia as well as old Bolshevik Commissars.

To deliver political goods to the masses, the State is granted police power and the power to issue sovereign credit to steer the economy toward rewarding activities that produce such political goods. The unregulated market rewards activities that externalize such political goods from their cost structure and siphons off the resultant surplus value as private profit. In fact, failed states are often generated by failed markets. The state has an obligation to preserve and protect its sovereign credit authority from being usurped by private interest groups. Capitalists use globalized finance markets to tilt a level playing field in trade to create private profit out of public poverty. This is done through the private control of money as a legal tender, through a monetary system under a central banking regime that ideologically accepts structural unemployment as the unavoidable means to combat inflation. Central banking is the policy of a failed state. A globalized foreign-exchange market dominated by dollar hegemony is the venue for US superpower financial imperialism (see US dollar hegemony by Henry C. Liu , April 11, 2002 <http://henryckliu.com/page2.html>).

A Bank of International Settlement (BIS) regime of global network of central banks whose main function is to protect the value of privately controlled money through unemployment and slave wages is a World order of failed states, not sovereign states. Dollar hegemony, the status of the dollar as a dominant reserve currency in international trade despite its fiat nature, operates in a globalized foreign-exchange market to rob sovereign states of their right and ability to issue sovereign credit for domestic development, by exposing their domestic currencies to market attacks. Since sovereign control over the monetary system and the economy is the sine qua non prerequisite of sovereignty, the BIS financial World order of failed states has in fact replaced the Westphalian World order of sovereign states through financial globalization.

Highlights of U.S. Financial History (review)

| | |
|------|--|
| 1787 | U.S. Constitution is ratified granting Congress alone the right to COIN money - not to print it. Only gold and silver were considered REAL money!! |
| 1791 | 1st. U.S. Bank is chartered. |
| 1811 | Charter of U.S. Bank expires. |
| 1812 | US-UK War over the lapsed charter. The MONEY POWER tries to get the New England States to leave the Union. |
| 1816 | 2nd Bank of the U.S. is chartered. |
| 1832 | President Jackson vetoes charter of 2nd Bank. |
| 1860 | Civil War begins. Defeated MONEY POWER successful in getting 13 States to leave the Union. |
| 1862 | Congress passes Banking Act authorizing the printing of paper money (greenbacks) to finance the war. This was supposed to be an emergency measure only until the war was over. All the provisions of the Banking Act were to expire in 20 years. |
| 1873 | Silver is demonetized. Free coinage of silver is ended. U.S. goes on gold standard. |
| 1882 | Banking Act expires but is renewed for another 20 years. |
| 1901 | President McKinley is assassinated by MONEY POWER and Roosevelt becomes President. |

| | |
|------|--|
| 1902 | Banking Act which gave the U.S. paper money was supposed to expire this year. Due to the murder of President McKinley, the banking laws and paper money system was continued. |
| 1910 | Postal Savings Bank is inaugurated. |
| 1910 | Secret meeting on Jekyll Island, Georgia, to charter 3rd U.S. Bank. |
| 1913 | Monster reborn. President Wilson signs bill authorizing the creation of 3rd U.S. Bank. |
| 1917 | President Wilson destroys Postal Savings Bank by refusing to lift ceiling on deposits. |
| 1929 | Great Depression begins due to manipulation of economy by U.S. Bank. |
| 1933 | Possession of gold is outlawed. U.S. citizens forbidden to own gold by order of President Roosevelt. Citizens robbed of their gold. Money supply increased by Fed after Congress blackmailed into passing amendments to increase the Fed's powers over the money supply. |
| 1960 | Goldfinger begins to steal U.S. gold reserves from Fort Knox. |
| 1971 | U.S. is off the gold standard. Foreign holders of dollars are promised U.S. land as collateral instead of gold. |
| 1990 | Fall of the Soviet Union. U.S. gold reserves start to move to European Central Bank. |

The Federal Reserve dollar is the official currency of the United States. It is also widely used as a reserve currency outside of the United States. Currently, the issuance of currency is controlled by the private Federal Reserve Banking system. The most commonly used symbol for the U.S. dollar is the dollar sign ($). The ISO 4217 code for the United States Dollar is USD. When currently issued in circulating form, denominations equal to or less than a dollar are emitted as coins while denominations equal to or greater than a dollar are emitted as Federal Reserve notes. Until 1974 the value of the United States dollar was tied to and backed by either silver, gold, or a combination of the two. From 1792 to 1873 the U.S. dollar was freely backed by both gold and silver at a ratio of 15:1 under a system known as bimetallism. Through a series of legislative changes from 1873 to 1900, the status of silver was slowly diminished until 1900 when a gold standard was formally adopted. The gold standard survived, with several modifications, until 1974. Modern U.S. dollar banknotes have been printed by the Federal Reserve since 1929. Notes above the $100 denomination ceased being printed in 1946. Below are some Federal Reserve Notes from the private central bank known fraudulently as the US Federal Reserve System, i.e. these are not the original public US Government United States Notes which are much less than 1% of the notes in circulation. Both United States Notes and Federal Reserve notes are parts of the national currency of the United States and both are legal tender. They circulate as money in the same way. However, the issuing authority for them comes from different statutes. United States Notes were redeemable in gold until 1933, when the United States abandoned the gold standard. Since then, both currencies have served essentially the same purpose, and have had the same value. Because United States Notes serve no function that is not already adequately served by Federal Reserve Notes, their issuance was discontinued, and none have been placed in to circulation since January 21, 1971.

United States Notes (characterized by a red seal and serial number) were the first national currency, authorized by the Legal Tender Act of 1862 and began circulating during the Civil War. The Treasury Department issued these notes directly into circulation, and they are obligations of the United States Government. The issuance of United States Notes is subject to limitations established by Congress. It established a statutory limitation of $300 million on the amount of United States Notes authorized to be outstanding and in circulation. While this was a significant figure in Civil War days, it is now a very small fraction of the total currency in circulation in the United States.

GREENBACKS were a form of paper currency in the United States, so named from the green colour used on the backs of the notes. They are treasury notes, and were first issued by the government in 1862, "as a question of hard necessity," to provide for the expenses of the Civil War. The first act, providing for the issue of notes to the amount of $150,000,000, was that of the 25th February 1862; the acts of 11th July 1862 and 3rd March 1863 each authorized further issues of $150,000,000. In January 1879 the nominal amount of notes then stood at $346,681,000, which is still outstanding. The so-called Greenback party (also called the Independent, and the national party) first appeared in a presidential campaign in 1876, when its candidate, Peter Cooper, received 81,740 votes. It advocated increasing the volume of greenbacks, forbidding bank issues, and the paying in greenbacks of the principal of all government bonds not expressly payable in coin. In 1884 their candidate Benjamin F. Butler (also the candidate of the Anti-Monopoly party) received 175,370 votes. Subsequently the party went out of existence. Peter Cooper wanted to free the people from the yoke of the privately owned central banking systems controlled by the Rothschilds & associates. "At a reception in his honour in his later years he summed up his philosophy: 'I have endeavoured to remember that the object of life is to do good.'" This quote is remarkable when compared to others of similar means who were Cooper's contemporaries. An article by Peter Lyon in American Heritage ("Peter Cooper, the Honest Man," February 1959, v.10, #2) notes in particular Cornelius Vanderbilt ("Law? What do I care about the law? Hain't I got the power?"), William Tweed, who plundered hundreds of millions of dollars from New York City, and Uncle Dan Drew ("It's the still hog that eats the most"). Cooper gave his money away without receiving any tax breaks. As alluded to above, his family fully supported him in this, giving up their own inheritances to match a grant by Andrew Carnegie just after Cooper's death. His example directly nudged Carnegie, George Peabody, Matthew Vassar, Ezra Cornell and many others into commencing their more famous philanthropies. Cooper was the first wealthy industrialist of the 19th century to equate the acquisition of wealth with social responsibility. It is a tragedy that history, especially the history we teach our schoolchildren, seems to have largely forgotten this pivotal figure in the history of New York City, the United States, and perhaps the World. Peter Cooper died on April 4, 1883 in New York City at the age of 92. Thousands of New Yorkers spontaneously poured into the streets as his casket was taken to its resting place in Green-Wood Cemetery in Brooklyn, in tribute to the great man who had dedicated his life and fortune to the city he loved so well. The following is a list of the portraits on all denominations of US notes original greenbacks.

Denomination U.S. Paper Currency Features

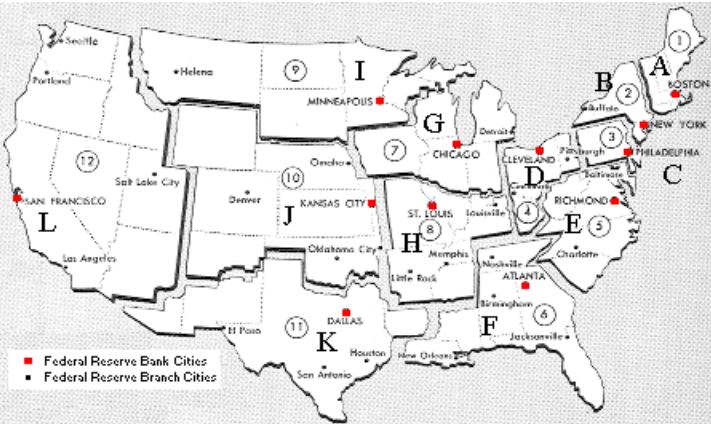

| | |
|----------------|--|
| $1.00 | George Washington (1st U.S. President) on front. Great Seal of the United States on back. |
| $2.00 | Thomas Jefferson (3rd U.S. President) on front. Declaration of Independence on back. |
| $5.00 | President Abraham Lincoln (16th U.S. President) on front. Lincoln Memorial on back. |
| $10.00 | Alexander Hamilton (1st U.S. Treasury Secretary) on front. U.S. Treasury Building on back. |
| $20.00 | President Andrew Jackson (7th U.S. President) on front. White House on back. |
| $50.00 | Ulysses S. Grant (18th U.S. President) on front. U.S. Capitol on back. |
| $100.00 | Benjamin Franklin on front. Independence Hall on back. |
| * $500.00 | William McKinley (25th U.S. President) on front. $500 on back. Has not been printed since 1946. |
| * $1000.00 | Grover Cleveland (22nd & 24th U.S. President) on front. "One Thousand Dollars" on back. Has not been printed since 1969. |
| * $5000.00 | James Madison (4th U.S. President) on front. $5000 on back. Has not been printed since 1946. |
| * $10,000.00 | Salmon P. Chase (25th U.S. Treasury Secretary) on front. $10,000 on back. Has not been printed since 1946. |
| * $100,000.00 | President Woodrow Wilson (28th U.S. President) on front. The largest note ever printed by the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing (BEP). Printed from December 18, 1934 through January 9, 1935. Used for transactions between Federal Reserve Banks. Not circulated among the general public. |

* No longer printed and being withdrawn from circulation.

Today, like the currency of most nations, the Federal Reserve Note dollar is fiat money without intrinsic value. Some argue that it has no backing and would be entirely worthless, except for the fact that people have been persuaded to use and accept it as if it had worth. According to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing (BEP), as of July 31, 2000, there were $539,890,223,079 in total currency in Worldwide circulation, of which $364,724,397,100 was in the $100 denomination (compare this to the United States Government Notes of which $346,681,000 are in circulation only). This is in addition to the money sitting in bank account. Federal Reserve notes are legal tender currency notes. They are issued by the Federal Reserve Banks and have replaced United States Notes which were once issued by the Treasury Department. The authority of the Federal Reserve Banks to issue notes comes from the fraudulent Federal Reserve Act of 1913. A commercial bank belonging to the Federal Reserve System can obtain Federal Reserve notes from the Federal Reserve Bank in its district whenever it wishes. It must pay for them in full, dollar for dollar, by drawing down its account with its district Federal Reserve Bank. Despite no longer being issued by Treasury Department, Federal Reserve notes must be ritually signed by the Treasurer of the United States and the United States Secretary of the Treasury before becoming legal currency. Federal Reserve Banks obtain the notes from the United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing (BEP). It pays the BEP for the cost of producing the notes, which then become liabilities of the Federal Reserve Banks, and obligations of the United States Government. Federal Reserve notes are not redeemable in gold, silver or any other commodity. This has been the case since 1933. The notes have no value for themselves, but for what they will buy. They have no backing other than the "full faith of the US government", i.e., the government's ability to levy taxes to pay its debts and US property and assets. In another sense, because they are legal tender, Federal Reserve notes are "backed" by all the goods and services in the economy, however this value keeps decreasing as inflation keeps creeping.

The name for the United States dollar comes from the Spanish dollar which itself is derived from the German thaler which was the silver coin widely circulated in the United States during the time of the American Revolutionary War. Although private banks issued currency that was backed in Spanish dollars, the Federal government did not do so until the American Civil War. The Thaler was a silver coin first minted in Bohemia, in 1518. The name thaler originally came from the guldengroschen (great gulden, being of silver but equal in value to a gold gulden) coins minted from the silver from a rich mine at Joachimsthal (St. Joachim's Valley, Czech: Jáchymov) in what is now the Czech Republic and called the Joachimsthaler, where thal means "valley". St. Joachim, the father of the Virgin Mary, was portrayed on the coin. The Thaler was a very popular coin and became used throughout Europe with equivalent coins such as the peso and the crown being issued and in general use. In England the word dollar was in use for the thaler for 200 years before the issue of the American Dollar, and until the half crown ceased to be used following decimalisation in 1971, the term "half a dollar" could be heard for "half a crown". The Thaler was introduced and became the most spread currency in Sweden under the name Daler during the early 17th century. The Daler was in circulation until 1873 when it was replaced by the Krona, the new currency introduced by the Scandinavian Monetary Union. Now, lets have a look at genuine United States Note, issued by the US government interest-free and debt-free!

Real United States Government Notes (not Masonic private Federal Reserve Notes)

Shown above.

Private Federal Reserve Notes FRNs (Just look at the $ bill wih Masonic symbolism in your wallet)

The six kinds of currency in 1929, colored coded with the colors of their seals and serial numbers, and with the denominations they were issued in series

1928 and 1929 (though not always in those years themselves), were:

- United States Notes (Series 1928: $1 $2 $5)
- Gold Certificates (Series 1928: $10 $20 $50 $100 $500 $1000 $5000 $10,000)
- National Bank Notes (Series 1929: $5 $10 $20 $50 $100)
- Silver Certificates (Series 1928: $1)
- Federal Reserve Bank Notes (Series 1929: $5 $10 $20 $50 $100 $500 $1000 $5000 $10,000)
- Federal Reserve Notes (Series 1928: $5 $10 $20 $50 $100 $500 $1000 $5000 $10,000)

And all that remained by 1970 were Federal Reserve Notes (Series 1969: $1, $5, $10, $20, $50, $100 -- Series 1976: $2). 1981 Table.

The three kinds of currency that remained after the Depression were:

- United States Notes (Series 1953: $2 $5)
- Silver Certificates (Series 1953: $5 $10 -- Series 1957: $1)
- Federal Reserve Notes (Series 1950: $5 $10 $20 $50 $100)

Until 1963 all United States currency stated that its value was "Payable to the Bearer on Demand," which reflected the circumstance that real money was originally considered to be gold or silver coin, not a paper document. In that year, however, when Silver Certificates were discontinued and the first $1 Federal Reserve Note and the last $2 and $5 United States Notes were issued, the ancient formula was deleted from the new series. A year later the last silver was eliminated from United States coins. Thus paper and tokens became United States money. This entire process, starting with the New Deal, or perhaps even the Civil War, and culminating in 1963, was unconstitutional. Article I, Section 10, Paragraph 1 of the United States Constitution says, "No State shall...make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts." So the question is, if the States can't do it, this must mean that the Federal Government can. No... The Tenth Amendment says, "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." The Constitution, as it happens, does not "delegate" the power to "make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts" to the Federal Government. Therefore, government at no level has the power to make anything but gold and silver coin tender in payment of debts. James Madison himself called paper money a "wicked scheme." It is, when its purpose is to inflate debts and license fiscal irresponsibility by government (the greatest debtor). That is the kind of government we now have.

A new kind of currency was created by the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913. The Federal Reserve System was initially designed to be a decentralized organization of no less than twelve Federal Reserve Banks: Boston (1-A), New York (2-B), Philadelphia (3-C), Cleveland (4-D), Richmond (5-E), Atlanta (6-F), Chicago (7-G), St. Louis (8-H), Minneapolis (9-I), Kansas City (10-J), Dallas (11-K), and San Francisco (12-L). The names of the banks and their characteristic number or letter have always appeared on Federal Reserve Notes and Federal Reserve Bank Notes issued by them. This assignment clearly reflects the distribution of population and economic development in 1914. It has not been modified since. The significance of the multiple Federal Reserve Banks and the decentralized system, however, has declined. The system was made a lot more centralized in the 1930's, as part of the aforementioned conclusion that only the federal government can be trusted with power over the economy, banking, and money. The Depression at the time was seen as resulting from the misbehavior of "speculators" and loose practices by the financial and stock markets. However, it is now much clearer that one of the prime villains at the beginning of the Great Depression was the Federal Reserve System itself, whose mistakes had nothing to do with lack of power or centralization. Indeed, the System could have responded better if it had been even less, not more, centralized than it was. Nevertheless, centralization continues, and the new, redesigned Federal Reserve Notes no longer bear the seal of their bank of issue, though the bank is still indicated, without name, by the letter and number code. Compare the Series 1996 $50 Federal Reserve Note with the previous Series 1993 $50 Federal Reserve Note [reverse].

Since Federal Reserve Notes were initially redeemable in gold (though perhaps only at the United States Treasury), they would have been just the kind of reassuring currency to supply to banks during a run. Since there was only a fractional reserve behind the Notes, however, the temptation would always be there to overextend them for political purposes. Although the Treasury had been unable to print money since 1878, it was now given an indirect ability to do so, whenever it could persuade the Federal Reserve to create money by buying United States securities itself, either directly from the Treasury or indirectly off the open market. The problem is what happened during the Depression. When banking panics started (as unemployment abruptly jumped from 6% to 15% at the end of 1930), the private Federal Reserve suddenly didn't trust other private banks enough to back them up. Unfortunately, so many banks were seen as insolvent and allowed to fail that it took the whole United States economy down with it. But the Federal Reserve could be proud of being financially solid itself! Failed banks mean Bankers out of a job. Perhaps even Bankers committing suicide. But among all the Depression stories about window leaps on Wall Street, there don't seem to be any about leaps from the nearby Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Thus the Federal Reserve System has become the last thing that was supposed to be possible in America: A Central Bank. And a political football. The inflation of the 1970's never was blamed on the Federal Reserve expanding the money supply too quickly, even though the popular economic theory of the time, Neo-Keynesianism, held that inflation could cause prosperity. That didn't work out very well. But it has been more obvious recently that the lower inflation of the 1980's and 90's has been the result of restraint in money creation. War hero Dwight Eisenhower came from the fringes of political life to become President in the 1952 elections. Thoroughly managed by members of the CFR who dominated his cabinet, his policies shaped by their goals, Eisenhower left office in January of 1961 with a dire warning for the American people, "Beware the military industrial complex."

The Coinage Act of 1792 and the Debasing of the Currency Today!!

1960 Quarter Dollar (left); 1970 Quarter Dollar (right) "counterfeit coin" 1960 Metal Content: Silver: 90% Copper - 10%---
1970 Metal content: Outer layers 75% Copper, 25% Nickel, Center - 100% Copper

With the Coinage Act of 1965, the U.S. currency was debased. The Coinage Act of 1792 mandates the DEATH PENALTY for DEBASING the currency!! "And be it further enacted, That if any of the gold or silver coins which shall be struck or coined at the said mint shall be debased or made worse as to the proportion of the fine gold or fine silver therein contained, or shall be of less weight or value than the same out to be pursuant to the directions of this act, through the default or with the connivance of any of the officers or persons who shall be employed at the said mint, for the purpose of profit or gain, or otherwise with a fraudulent intent, and if any of the said officers or persons shall embezzle any of the metals which shall at any time be committed to their charge for the purpose of being coined, or any of the coins which shall be struck or coined at the said mint, every such officer or person who shall commit any or either of the said offenses, shall be deemed guilty of felony, and shall suffer death" (Section 19).

Lets again review some basics from a slightly different angle just in case you didn't get it the first time around or to reinforce the points. Barter was the first form of exchange. People exchanged their possessions for other possessions. As a farmer, corn was traded for meat or a chair. This worked well as people became more specialized and efficient at their level of production. Everyone could produce more and benefit by trading goods and services. The surplus was difficult to manage since goods had to be stored or were wasted. Then, precious metals such as gold and silver were coined so persons could trade their goods for coins. This was prudent since gold and silver coins were reliable, dependable, easy to store, easily divisible and pure. Gold and silver were traded as a commodity like wheat and wood. Very, very unfortunately, greed is a constant in human history. In every nation in the history of the World, has it not always ended up a war between the ruling class and the people? The king wants more and more, and the people continually settle for less and less. In today's World, the trans-Atlantic banking dynasties have silently become that ruling class. Royalty attempted to steal quietly by clipping and shaving some of the gold or silver from the coins. They melted gold and silver shavings into new coins. The clipped coins would continue to circulate throughout the economy at their reduced weight. Since the weight of the gold or silver is easy to measure, people discovered that the clipped coins weighed less. This reduced the value of the coins in general. Since the clipped coins were devalued as a currency, more coins were required to trade for an equal amount of goods such as corn, wheat or wood. Each coin was reduced in value so more coins were demanded to make up the difference. Inflation was the result (as you can see, inflation is due to cheating!). Royalty was angry because the people had adjusted the prices accordingly--prices went up because the value of the coins went down. The kings forcibly passed "legal tender laws" which required everyone to accept the coins at face value. The laws were enforced through brute force, imprisonment and death. Then, further laws were passed to forcibly keep the coin's face value at an amount convenient to persons in power. Then, another phenomenon occurred with the goldsmiths. People used the vaults of the goldsmiths to keep their own gold safe for a small fee. Once the gold was deposited into the vault, the depositor was given a paper receipt from the goldsmith. Simply presenting the receipt to the goldsmith was enough to make a withdrawal of gold from the vault, just as you make a paper withdrawal from the bank. Eventually, the paper receipts were also traded for goods and services since there was gold at the vault to back up the value of the receipt. The receipt was backed by gold and this made people comfortable with accepting the receipt. The value of the receipt depended on the reputation of the goldsmith.

Laurence H. Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, said the following at the Distinguished Lecture Program, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania on December 5, 2001: The next important evolution was the introduction of "representative" paper money. Warehouses accepted deposits of silver and gold and issued paper receipts. These paper receipts in turn began to circulate as money, used as a means of payment and held as a store of value. The paper was fully backed by the precious metals in the warehouse. Once again, efficiency was enhanced by the convenience of carrying paper money as opposed to the bulkier silver or gold coins.

Alan Greenspan, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, made remarks at the opening of an American Numismatic Society Exhibition, Federal Reserve Bank of New York, New York, on January 16, 2002: Many millennia later, in one of the remarkable advances in financial history, the bank note emerged as a medium of exchange. It had no intrinsic value. It was rather a promise to pay, on demand, a certain quantity of gold or other valued commodity. The bank note's value rested on trust in the willingness and ability of the bank note issuer to meet that promise. Reputation for trustworthiness, accordingly, became an economic value to banks--the early issuers of private paper currency. The Federal Reserve now promises to tax you and uses you as the collateral against which it issues the Federal Reserve Notes and cyber money!!!

Paper receipts were traded as a more convenient means to buy and sell than using gold. The paper receipts were backed by the gold in the goldsmiths' vault. The goldsmiths also observed that most of the gold, over three-fourths of it, remained in the vault at any given time. Many goldsmiths decided to issue loans by writing paper receipts not backed by gold. The goldsmiths collected usury on these loans. A share of the fees from the interest would be split among the depositors of the gold. However, the goldsmith did not allow people to borrow the gold. They simply wrote out more paper receipts that were not backed by gold. The goldsmiths of the past are the Bankers of today. Goldsmiths wrote out paper currency not backed by gold. These receipts were used as paper loans to borrowers. An example of goldsmiths issuing more paper receipts than there is gold:

Before, 100 coins = 100 paper receipts provided to depositors
After, 100 coins = 100 paper receipts provided to depositors +
 100 paper receipts used as paper loans to borrowers.

Result: Paper loans diluted the value of the receipts issued by the Goldsmith.

You can interpret this as a hidden tax, inflation or a RIP-OFF theft that puts our money into the banking dynasties' pockets. There were many more receipts and loans than there was gold. The goldsmiths couldn't possibly fulfill all the obligations because not all receipts were backed by an equivalent amount of gold, unless they were themselves able to borrow from other goldsmiths in case of a run-on-the-bank. The government officials, like the kings in the past, forced citizens to accept the paper notes at their face value by passing legal tender laws knowing full well that the receipts were not backed by gold. In other words, government officials colluded with the banking dynasties. Remember that the paper notes were not backed by gold. The paper notes were worthless and people were forced, according to the legal tender laws, to accept them as currency. These paper notes had no intrinsic value whatsoever. This is called "fractional reserve banking" and it is a simple representation of how banks operate today. The banks and the goldsmiths had a great deal in common. They both duplicated currency out of ordinary paper. The paper currency floating around is not properly supported by an equal amount of gold or silver. The paper currency cannot be redeemed for the gold because there isn't enough gold to satisfy the depositor's claims. Embezzlement has occurred because the Bankers have fooled the people holding the currency into believing that it's worth the gold it is supposed to represent. Everyone saw and felt the paper dollars in their pockets. The public didn't see that the Bankers, or the goldsmiths, diluted the value of their paper currency by simple producing more of it. Theft was occurring right under their noses and no one, other than the Bankers and some of the politicians, were the wiser.

Governor Laurence H. Meyer, of the Federal Reserve Bank, explained the beginning of fractional reserve banking at the Distinguished Lecture Program, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania on December 5, 2001: Owners of the warehouses soon learned that the holders of the paper receipts would not simultaneously redeem the gold deposited with them. The warehouses could therefore lend the gold--in turn, often converted into paper notes--holding a reserve of gold that allowed them to meet the normal demands for redemption".

This was the beginning of fractional reserve banking. Every time the goldsmith wrote another paper receipt that was not backed by gold, all other receipts decreased in value. The goldsmith of the past is the banker of today. Anytime a paper currency that is backed by gold is diluted with paper money that is not backed by gold, the original currency loses its value. The Federal Reserve "dollar" is a paper currency note. It is a token made of paper or a base metal. It is not money because it cannot be redeemed for gold or silver. When the amount of gold in reserve stays the same, printing more paper currency reduces the value of currency in everyone's pockets. Each unit of currency is worth less once the new paper currency is distributed. Can you see where the theft occurred? The thief is the bank who produced more currency and devalued everyone's savings. Every paper "dollar" produced by the private Federal Reserve causes a reduction in the value of your savings. The freshly printed "dollar" is not backed by gold and the all other "dollars" in your pocket are reduced in value. Therefore, our currency may be called "dollars" but they are really paper currency notes. Each one is supposed to represent a debt that the private Federal Reserve owes you in gold coin. Each paper currency note is not backed by gold and cannot be redeemed in gold. It becomes an empty promise. The note itself is invalid. However, it is guaranteed by the US taxpayers. And again, the taxpayers are paying for an elite dynasty who own the Federal Reserve, i.e. a modern form of ancient feudalism!

They still felt the paper dollars in their hands. The savings account balances haven't changed. It didn't matter because the value of the currency itself was stolen. It didn't show up on the bank statement because the quantity of the currency hadn't changed. What changed was the value of the currency. As the value of the currency goes down, prices go up. It'll take more currency to buy the same product or service. The devalued currency results in increased prices. It didn't happen overnight. People found themselves with twice as much currency and this increased demand on products and services. The government blamed the increase in prices on demand. But the Bankers and the politicians knew that the increase in prices was due to the increase in the amount of currency in circulation without the backing the currency with gold. The supply of currency has now increased. However, the supply of goods and services has stayed constant--just as the supply of gold in storage. It would then require twice the amount of currency to buy the same amount of goods and services. Since the value of the currency has dropped by half, the prices will nearly double in time. This paper currency that is placed into circulation that is not backed by gold or silver is called "fiat" currency. It is simply paper currency with no intrinsic value. The paper currency notes can no longer be converted to gold. The currency is just paper. The "legal tender" laws are used to encourage people to accept them as currency.

Governor Laurence H. Meyer, of the Federal Reserve Bank, explained fiat currency in his own words in September, 2001: Fiat money is inconvertible, meaning that it is not convertible into nor backed by any commodity. It serves as legal tender by decree, or fiat, of the government. Its value is based on trust--specifically that others will accept it in payment for goods and services and that its value will remain relatively stable. This trust is based, in part, on laws that make the fiat money "legal tender" in the payment of taxes and, in the United States, also in the payment of private debts.

According to Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, fiat money is a noun, dated back to 1876: Money (as paper currency) not convertible into coin or specie of equivalent value. The American Heritage® Dictionary of the English Language cites about fiat money: Legal tender, especially paper currency, authorized by a government but not based on or convertible into gold or silver. The same can be said about apple pie. A person can cut an apple pie into fourths. Then cutting the pie into eighths will make more slices of the pie. The weight of each slice goes down even though the original size of the total pie stays the same. The pie did not get larger. The slices of the pie were cut thinner. Paper currency is the same as apple pie. You can cut as many slices as you would like and make each real thin until all the slices are very small and they're not worth buying.

Dr. Robert Batemarco, who teaches economics at Marymount College, New York, is quoted in Joseph Banister's book, Investigating the Federal Income Tax: The quantity of U.S. money has increased year in and year out every year since 1933. The narrow measure of the quantity of U.S. money (basically currency in circulation and balances in checking accounts) stood at $19.9 billion in 1933. By 1940, it had doubled to $39.7 billion. It surpassed $100 billion in 1946. $200 billion in 1969..., $400 billion in 1980. $800 billion in 1990, and today it stands at almost $1.2 trillion. That is over 60 times what it was in 1933.

United States paper currency is fiat money because gold or silver does not back it. The legal tender laws of the United States require persons to accept the private currency Federal Reserve Note as payment for its face value. The fact that it doesn't have intrinsic value is immaterial in the eyes of the law. There is an inscription on every dollar bill, "THIS NOTE IS LEGAL TENDER FOR ALL DEBTS, PUBLIC AND PRIVATE."

US Constitution on the Coinage of Money

Now, what does the Constitution says about coining money? The U.S. Constitution asserts that only gold and silver coin can be tendered as payment for debt. The United States Constitution, Article I, Section 8 states... "The Congress shall have Power...To coin Money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and Measures."

The United States Constitution, Article I, Section 10 states..."No states shall...coin Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts." The U.S. Constitution only accepts gold and silver coin as money. Paper currency notes without backing of an equivalent gold or silver are not money. The private Federal Reserve Notes U.S. dollars are tokens to be used as long as someone else is willing to accept them as payment. The Constitutional standard for the U.S. money to be backed by gold or silver has been abandoned. Legal tender laws legally compel people into accepting worthless currency as payment. As you see, the United States government borrows a limitless supply of fiat currency from the private Federal Reserve Bank, the "Fed", to operate and purchase everything it needs. The collateral for this loan is the future earnings (taxes) of the American people. The United States does not need to tax the American people to run the Federal Government. It taxes the people to pay the INTEREST to the private Federal Reserve Bank! The Federal Reserve Bank can print all the money it needs and the United States federal government can borrow as much as it wants. The privately owned Federal Reserve Bank, the central bank in the U.S., produces the money out of nothing and charges interest to the U.S. government. As more fiat currency is pumped into the economy every year that is not backed by gold or silver, prices go up because the money is worth less than the year before. Each government program pumps more worthless currency into circulation, further diluting your savings and mine. Prices go up when more fiat currency is circulated throughout the economy. This inflation is a quiet confiscation of wealth through silent taxation, a hidden tax upon all those who have cash. This is the hidden tax on savings. People don't see it because they don't have someone taking the currency out of their pocket. It is a hidden and deceptive tax.

Let me share something with you that may not sit well with the masses. The federal government does not need to tax its citizens to run the government. Income taxes simply pay the interest on the national debt. The government borrows new currency from the Federal Reserve Bank every year and uses that new currency for its federal programs, foreign aid and anything else it pays for. And the U.S. government is paying for all of these expenses by reducing the value of our savings. It doesn't come from our income tax. Our federal government is not run on the federal income taxes that are collected through the IRS. The income taxes don't pay to run the federal government! The federal government uses income taxes to force people to accept the currency, and then it produces more currency to spend on the programs it so chooses. What the vast majority of the people fail to see is that the Federal Reserve is the problem that causes the inflation. They do so by counterfeiting money that is not backed by gold. They use this counterfeited money first-- before anyone else. The federal government has an unlimited amount of currency it can borrow from the Federal Reserve Bank to run the government. They create currency out of thin air—out of nothing. There are printing costs but they are meaningless in comparison to the currency they are creating. The Fed also allows banks to borrow money at a special interest rate. The private banks lend it to consumers and businesses.

There is a catch. Can you find it? It is in who uses the money first. The Federal Reserve Bank and the U.S. government use the new currency first--when it is worth the most. The currency loses its value as it's used from one person to the next. The overall value of each unit of currency decreases as the new currency ripples throughout the economy. The "money supply" has increased without increasing the supply of goods and services. With more currency than there are goods, prices naturally climb. This is what we call inflation. The currency was reduced in value because the U.S. government borrowed more of it from the Fed. The Federal Reserve Bank and the federal government have the advantage of using the new currency first--when it is worth the most. The currency devalues as it is circulated throughout the economy. Let me use this example. Instantly doubling the currency in everyone's pocket would make everyone delighted at first. Most people do not understand that the currency is reduced when more of it is circulated. Since the Federal Reserve Bank uses the currency first, they benefit the most because the money is worth the most at that time. They can reap the rewards at the expense of others who will possess the currency at a later time, when the currency is worth less. In this sense, there is a hidden tax to all those who possess currency because increasing the amount of the currency in circulation decreases its value for everyone who has it. An increase in currency leads to an increase in prices as the supply of goods and services stays the same.

How does the Federal Reserve Bank get away with this? First, the Fed cannot be fully audited or controlled by anyone (remember when President Reagan complained about this? Didn't take long before he was shot by a friend of the Bush family 1981!) The Federal Reserve Bank cannot be audited or controlled by the voters, Congress, the House of Representatives or the President. The "Fed" is completely autonomous. They cannot be held accountable for their actions. They call themselves "Independent of Politics" for the good of the people. They claim this is a good attribute because it will prevent politicians from manipulating the Fed for their own political purposes. In fact, it is the Fed and Congress who are thieves. They steal the savings of those who possess paper currency. Circulating more and more worthless currency decreases the value of your savings. This is the most silent form of theft. Counterfeiting is only legal when the government does it through the "Fed." And most of the currency that is created is simply checkbook currency. This is a digital entry into the books. This is currency that is created on a computer screen that doesn't exist on paper. Most of the currency isn't in the form of paper dollars. The currency exists as digital entries. In the book "The Case Against the Fed by Murray N. Rothbard", he cited an example of the decreasing value of money during the American Revolution. Continental dollars were circulated without being backed by gold. Their value dropped, the value was "discounted," until they were worthless. The Continental dollar was a victim of depreciation and "accelerated worthlessness" as the currency was duplicated in vast amounts.

Thomas Jefferson, the third President of the United States and author of the Declaration of Independence said: "We must make our election between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts as that we must be taxed in our meat and in our drink, in our necessities and our comforts, in our labors and our amusements, ...our people...must come to labor sixteen hours in the twenty-four, give our earnings of fifteen of these to the government,...have no time to think, no means of calling our mismanagers to account; but be glad to obtain sustenance by hiring ourselves out to rivet their chains on the necks of our fellow sufferers...And this is the tendency of all human governments...till the bulk of society is reduced to be mere automations of misery...And the forehorse of this frightful team is public debt. Taxation follows that, and in its train wretchedness and oppression."

Public debt and taxation leads to oppression. We see two income families trying to maintain a standard of living that took only one breadwinner to achieve years ago. Gold is the only standard that protects property. Paper money is worthless. It is all about control. Those that have operational control of the Federal Reserve Bank have control of the money, the economy and eventually the laws. They have a firm grip on the throat of this country. Their lack of accountability is due to the ignorance or the masses and willful blindness of the politicians. Politicians fear the Bankers and refuse to challenge them. Congress is willfully blind. Those who are critical of the Fed face severe criticism from the banking industry. The Federal Reserve Bank intimidates the politicians. The Bankers control everything. He who controls the currency supply controls it all. The Federal Reserve Bank shifts losses to the taxpayer in the form of inflation. All of this is done using the Federal Reserve Bank as a "middle-man" between the people and Congress. Congress can spend as much as it wants and the people remain confused about the process due to the Federal Reserve Bank. It is a bait and switch trick. The politicians are terrified of the Bankers. And they are mortified of Alan Greenspan. Mr. Greenspan is the Grand Poobah of the Federal Reserve Bank. When he speaks, all of the politicians kiss his ass. Seldom will you see a politician criticize him, his actions or his politics. The vast majority of them are cowards. The Federal Reserve Bank confuses the public about how currency is produced to protect the decision makers from accountability. Now, someone may assume that banks are conservative with the depositors' currency. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Federal Deposit Loan Corporation and the Federal Reserve System now guarantee that if massive loans to countries or large corporations go into default, the banks will not need to absorb the losses from these bad loans. And for this reason, banks are not as cautious as you, or I, had hoped.

In fact, many loans are not repaid. The U.S. government acts as a co-signer and guarantees the loan. If the loan is not repaid, the U.S. government pays it. Where does that currency come from? Well, it comes from the additional currency borrowed from the Federal Reserve Bank. And the taxpayer eventually pays for it through the dilution of his or her savings and higher prices. U.S. banks provide risky loans to troubled countries and corporations with no risk of loss because the U.S. government is a co-signer. When the loan defaults, the U.S. government pays the tab. The cost of the bailout is paid through currency borrowed from the Federal Reserve Bank. The cost of the bank bailout is passed on to the voters through a devalued dollar. As the dollar decreases in value, prices increase. The difference in prices is what the American consumer pays for the bailout and other government programs. The currency is created from the Federal Reserve Bank to guarantee the payment of the large bank loan. The taxpayer bears the eventual cost of the bailout through lost value in savings. Every dollar owned by the taxpayer is worth less than it was before each bailout. It is no different than robbing someone's pocket. The bank's mismanagement is passed onto the taxpayers of the U.S. who are not aware that all of this is taking place. Politicians know that raising taxes are unpopular. If they needed to raise taxes sufficiently to run the federal government, there would be a revolt. Instead, Congress quietly borrows an unlimited amount of cash from the Federal Reserve System to run the government at the expense of diluting the savings held by the taxpayer. Most taxpayers don't understand how the banking system, or government, works. Taxpayers are easy and ignorant targets.

G. Edward Griffin in the book "The Creature from Jekyll Island": It's from Alan Greenspan, back in 1966, before he was the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve, "The abandonment of the gold standard made it possible for the welfare statists to use the banking system as a means to an unlimited expansion of credit... The law of supply and demand is not to be conned. As the supply of money (of claims) increases relative to the supply of tangible assets in the economy, prices must eventually rise. Thus the earnings saved by the productive members of society lose value in terms of goods. When the economy's books are finally balanced, one finds that this loss in value represents the goods purchased by the government for the welfare of other purposes... In the absence of the gold standard, there is no way to protect savings from confiscation through inflation. There is no safe store of value. If there were, the government would have to make its holding illegal, as this was done in the case of gold...The financial policy of the welfare state requires that there be no way for the owners of wealth to protect themselves."

Deficit spending is merely a scheme for the "hidden" confiscation of wealth. On the other hand, gold stands in the way of this insidious process. It stands as a protector of property rights. Also See "Gold and Economic Freedom," in Capitalism: The Unknown Ideal, ed. Ayn Rand (New York: Signet Books, 1967), and p.101. As we have noted a critical element of the fractional reserve debt-money system - interest on bank-created debt - ensures that without continuous growth the system cannot survive. For, when banks create money to lend they do not create any money with which the related interest can be paid. Only further borrowing for further production can offer even the potential that interest might be paid. If the private owners of the central banks decide not to extend anymore credit, there will be no money to service the interest payments, causing bankruptcies and foreclosures that these owners will then purchase for a penny on the dollar just like they did during the great depression of 1929! Then, they will continue to collect interest on money issued from nothing and will lend more. Thus, they live in an evergreen World and keep amassing wealth while the rest of the masses keep going deeper and deeper into debt!

The result is that the system's potential survival requires continuously escalating levels of total international debt which affect every sector of society - local and national governments, business and commerce, and consumers. It also ensures the cyclical instability of international economies. As these debts and related interest rise inexorably on an international basis they eventually become so large, as do surpluses of goods, that further growth of debt and output becomes impossible. The call goes out first for greater efforts to "capture" export markets. Then banks, fearing the prospect of large scale debt repudiation, begin to call in their private sector loans or lay claim to the associated "securities". Pressure is brought to bear on governments to cut borrowing and reduce deficits in order to "beat inflation" although in circumstances of large scale unemployment and massive surpluses of unsold goods, any inflation is more likely to be related to debt, and interest on debt, than an "overheating" economy. The result is cuts in social welfare and public services, reductions in infrastructure projects and/or increasing taxation.

Debt-write-offs have no capital affect on banks overall since the money was created out of nothing. The only affect is that they don't get to collect interest anymore on the written-off debt. Since all debt is borrowed money, in order to write off a debt, it is necessary to destroy part of the money supply. Actual and impending losses give rise to a desire for additional liquidity in the financial system in the form of more "fiat" money. Until that liquidity is obtained, bankruptcies and price deflation will set in. The losers are always the employees, shareholders, tax payers, the unemployed and the masses when public assets have to be sold off for a penny on the $. The money supply shrinks and unemployment and poverty levels rise. So too does homelessness, crime, drugs trafficking, and other effects that lead to a loss of general social cohesion. We follow the cycle into its recession phase. No matter that there is available a plentiful supply of labour, raw materials and productive machinery, to do what is both desirable and physically possible is no longer "economically possible" since "there is no money. There is no money because Bankers, out of concern for their own assets and at times from fear for the survival of their system, have dictated that there is to be no money. In due course however, as surpluses begin to decline and some debts are cleared via bankruptcies, sale of collateral, bank bail-out at taxpayer expense etc., it is essential for the survival of the system that growth be resumed and the recovery phase of the cycle begins. Despite the resulting economic and social havoc, and notwithstanding the run down of surpluses, the temporary reduction of private indebtedness by repayment of loans and/or transfer to the banks of assets previously offered as collateral against loans, or by loan write-off, the total of underlying debt simply continues to grow unremittingly. In due course banks used again their immense power to influence governments and there followed another great "bailing out" of the Bankers at taxpayer expense, i.e. a debt boomerang situation. In the recent past, the US government, along with the IMF, transferred $47.5 billion to bail out major US banks, such as Chase Manhattan, which had been "exposed" by their speculations to the Mexican currency crash in 1995.

However, since all debt is borrowed money, in order to write off a debt, it is necessary to destroy part of the money supply. It may be that the debt was structured as a bond issue rather than a bank loan; it doesn't matter. The bondholders exchanged money balances for those bonds when they acquired them. If the bond is cancelled, this money is lost. Actual and impending losses give rise to a desire for additional liquidity in the financial system. Here, only money will do. A subsequent deflationary cycle will start until new fiat money is injected. Haven't you ever wondered ""WHY"" a lending institution which has large office spaces (multiple offices/divisions,) a sea of accountants; auditors; lawyers; and other professionals on staff, would turn the alleged account over to a smaller (in many ways, minuscule in comparison) entity? Are they not equipped to deal with such matters as collecting on their own, legitimate, real obligations? ""How could that be?"" you might ask. This is going to blow you away. The original alleged creditor never loaned you anything, we discussed this as "fiat" money. If they had issued real funds, the "creditor" would have a transaction receipt showing what account the dollar credits were transferred from to verify the debt. This is called Verification. The original "alleged" creditor is not going to EVER attempt to make that claim in a court. Because the exchange of public funds NEVER occurred they are counting on ignorance and gullibility to make you surrender to their whims. The alleged creditor has already made out quite well having the customer for a client paying interest on money created from nothing. When they give the account to a third party debt collector they made out again. Central banks are engaged in a desperate battle on two fronts. On one front, the central banks preside over the creation of additional liquidity for the financial system in order to hold back the tide of debt defaults that would otherwise occur. On the other, they incite investment banks and other willing parties to bet against a rise in the prices of gold, oil, base metals, soft commodities or anything else that might be deemed an indicator of inherent value. Their objective is to deprive the independent observer of any reliable benchmark against which to measure the eroding value, not only of the US dollar, but of all fiat currencies. Equally, their actions seek to deny the investor the opportunity to hedge against the fragility of the financial system by switching into a freely traded market for non-financial assets.

It is important to recognize that the central banks have found the battle on the second front much easier to fight than the first. Last November 2000, the estimated the size of the gross stock of global debt instruments at $90 trillion for mid-2000. How much capital would it take to control the combined gold, oil and commodity markets? Probably, no more than $200bn, using derivatives. Moreover, it is not necessary for the central banks to fight the battle themselves, although central bank gold sales and gold leasing have certainly contributed to the cause. Most of the World's large investment banks have over-traded their capital so flagrantly that if the central banks were to lose the fight on the first front, then their stock would be worthless. Because their fate is intertwined with that of the central banks, investment banks are willing participants in the battle against rising gold, oil and commodity prices. Central banks, and particularly the US Federal Reserve, are deploying their heavy artillery in the battle against a systemic collapse. This has been their primary concern for at least seven years. Their immediate objectives are to prevent the private sector bond market from closing its doors to new or refinancing borrowers and to forestall a technical break in the Dow Jones Industrials. Keeping the bond markets open is absolutely vital at a time when corporate profitability is on the ropes. Keeping the equity index on an even keel is essential to protect the wealth of the household sector and to maintain the expectation of future gains. For as long as these objectives can be achieved, the value of the US dollar can also be stabilized in relation to other currencies, despite the extraordinary imbalances in external trade. In summary, "Money" is: Make-believe "Dollars"; paper and ink records of numbers preceded by a dollar sign ($) in bookkeeping entries, accepted by the people as imaginary mediums of exchange, whose volume increases daily with official and individual conjurings; are seigniorage, credit, inflation, money, and totally intangible, cannot be sighted, heard, smelled, tasted, or touched, can exist in human thought only, and are shifted about by check and credit card to "settle by imagination" ninety five percent of all indebtedness.

The Fed Is Slowly Destroying America

Thomas D. Schauf, CPA, is a national speaker to Certified Public Accountants and business leaders. Mr. Schauf's expertise includes banking, the economy, business appraisals, mergers, and acquisitions. Here's what he says: "Our government never had a chance...with political corruption ravaging its Constitution." The real facts don't lie...and neither do government documents...Congressional Record, Congressman Wright Patman, A Primer On Money prepared by the Sub-committee on Domestic Finance, House of Representatives, Committee on Banking and Currency - 88th Congress, 2nd session, August 4th, 1964 and December 23, 1913, page 1464 & 1478. Congressional Record, Congressman Louis McFadden, June 10 1932, House of Representatives, pages 12604-12605; Congressional Record, 98th Congress, 1st session, February 3, 1983, Congressman Ron Paul Congressional Record, Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, 77th Congress, 1st session, Tuesday, September 30, 1941, pages 1342-1345.

THERE ARE MANY MORE CONGRESSIONAL TESTIMONIALS. IS THERE BIAS IN THE MEDIA REGARDING THE FED? DURING THE TV PRESIDENTIAL DEBATES, CLINTON WAS ASKED SHOULD THERE BE RESTRICTIONS ON THE FED? THE NEXT DAY, MAJOR NEWSPAPERS SAID THEY COVERED THE WHOLE PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE TEXT, BUT MANY NEWSPAPERS ELIMINATED THIS ONE QUESTION. CHECK YOUR LIBRARY!

The Revolutionary War was fought and the Constitution was written to prevent other nations and private banks from issuing (printing) money and controlling our currency. In 1913, members of Congress committed treason and violated their oath of office to defend the Constitution against all enemies foreign and domestic by voting in the Federal Reserve Bank. For the New World Order to create a one World government, they must control a central bank, eliminate the Constitution, end Christian values, disarm America, and control the media. The Council on Foreign Relations has openly said they will take us over in favor of a one World government. The American people must be warned or we may lose our freedom forever. If we do not demand our rights and uphold the Constitution, the CFR and bankers will continue their march toward socialism. If we allow them to continue, they will abolish our rights and put an end to our present government. I urge all Americans to distribute the "main" FED-UP brochure ("saving $6000 in taxes per year, per person & balancing the budget) and collect signatures on the petition (see order form in the main brochure). Then all informed Americans can take action and hold their politicians accountable. The bankers control the media, but can not stop patriotic Americans from using copy machines to distribute information and inform America. Once informed, people will demand an explanation why Congress allowed this fraud as the media appeared to be independent and investigative, but remained silent on this important issue. The ones who scream the loudest to keep the Federal Reserve Bank probably profit the most.

Why a Federal Reserve Note isn't worth a Dollar. This article is a layman's overview of United States money; it is not intended to be an in-depth scholarly review, but it is fairly comprehensive. Gresham's law, observation in economics that "bad money drives out good." If two coins have the same nominal value, but are made from metals of unequal value, the cheaper will tend to drive the other out of circulation. Sir Thomas Gresham, financial agent of Queen Elizabeth I, was not the first to recognize this monetary principle, but his elucidation of it in 1558 prompted the economist H. D. Macleod to suggest the term "Gresham's law" in the 19th century. New Encyclopaedia Britannica, Micropaedia (1998), V. 5, p. 489. I heard about Gresham's Law years ago, but never really thought about its practical effects. One day, I found a "real" [pre-1965] 90%-silver quarter in my change. And what did I do with it?

I immediately withdrew it from circulation and stashed it! And why did I do that? Well, because it was WORTH a little more than twenty-five cents because of the increase in the intrinsic value of its silver content. If we accept the premise that any piece of metal having a "face value" (declared or defined worth) greater than its actual intrinsic value is a "token" [bus token, subway token, toilet-stall token, etc.]; then the "quarter dollar" token (the current cupro-nickel "clad" or "sandwich" quarter) [bad money] has successfully driven the 90%-silver quarter dollar [good money] out of circulation. How? Because almost everyone has done exactly what I had done: we remove the remaining good money from circulation because we recognize its intrinsic value and save it; and leave the less valuable [or worthless] tokens to circulate. We have done exactly the same thing with silver dimes, silver half-dollars, and silver dollars. That is also what we have done with the circulating FEDERAL RESERVE NOTE paper currency (scrip or bills of credit?) we have been brainwashed into calling 'dollars': you won't often see a circulating United States Note, Silver Certificate, or Gold Certificate. So while, on one hand, we are all "ripping off" one another each time we exchange a FRN; on the other hand, the members of the private FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM are knowingly, willfully, and systematically cheating ALL of us each and every day. As you may have guessed, I am a "Hard-money" proponent; I want my money to have intrinsic value at least equal to its face value.

Why is the Federal Reserve Note NOT WORTH A DOLLAR?

Above, A typical Spanish Reale minted in Mexico in 1732; a pre-Civil War United States of America Gold Dollar.

Bouvier's Law Dictionary (1856): DOLLAR, money. A silver coin of the United States of the value of one hundred cents, or tenth part of an eagle. EAGLE, money. A gold coin of the United States, of the value of ten dollars. It weighs two hundred and fifty-eight grains. Of one thousand parts, nine hundred are of pure gold, and one hundred of alloy. Act of January 18, 1837, 4 Sharsw. Cont. of Story's L. U. S. 2523, 4. Vide Money.

Once upon a time, in these United States of America, we actually had REAL money, i.e., money which was, in and of itself, both a measure of, and a unit of, value. Gold, silver, and some other less precious metals, in the progress of civilization and commerce, have become the common standards of value; in order to avoid the delay and inconvenience of regulating their weight and quality whenever passed, the governments of the civilized World have caused them to be manufactured in certain portions, and marked with a Stamp which attests their value; this is called money. 1 Inst. 207; 1 Hale's Hist. 188; 1 Pardess. n. 22; Dom. Lois civ. liv. prel. t. 3, s. 2, n. 6. See Act of April 2, 1792, 1 Story's L. U. S. 229. Wouldn't you think that the National Institute of Standards and Technology would have a physical THING called the Standard Dollar that they could point to, pick up, show around, and say, "Yep, this is a Dollar."? OK; try to find it, I couldn't.

Below, a typical United States of America Silver Dollar, 1804;

Title 31, United States Code Annotated (2004), section 5102: The standard troy pound of the National Institute of Standards and Technology of the Department of Commerce shall be the standard used to ensure that the weight of United States coins conforms to specifications in section 5112 of this title.

31 U.S.C.A. (2004), section 5112, which reads (in part):

- (a) The Secretary of the Treasury may mint and issue only the following coins:
- (1) a dollar coin that is 1.043 inches in diameter.
- (2) a half dollar coin that is 1.205 inches in diameter and weighs 11.34 grams.
- (3) a quarter dollar coin that is 0.955 inch in diameter and weights 5.67 grams.
- (4) a dime coin that is 0.705 inch in diameter and weighs 2.268 grams.
- (5) a 5-cent coin that is 0.835 inch in diameter and weighs 5 grams.
- (6) except as provided under subsection (c) of this section, a one-cent coin that is 0.75 inch in diameter and weighs 3.11 grams.
- (7) A fifty dollar gold coin that is 32.7 millimeters in diameter, weighs 33.931 grams, and contains one troy ounce of fine gold.

A typical "Continental". A typical Civil War-era United States $5 Treasury Note (Greenback).

(8) A twenty-five dollar gold coin that is 27.0 millimeters in diameter, weighs 16.966 grams, and contains one-half troy ounce of fine gold.

(9) A ten dollar gold coin that is 22.0 millimeters in diameter, weighs 8.483 grams, and contains one-fourth troy ounce of fine gold.

(10) A five dollar gold coin that is 16.5 millimeters in diameter, weighs 3.393 grams, and contains one-tenth troy ounce of fine gold.

(b). . .Did you notice that the dollar coin in 31 U.S.C.A. 5112(a)(1) is the only coin that has no weight attributed to it?

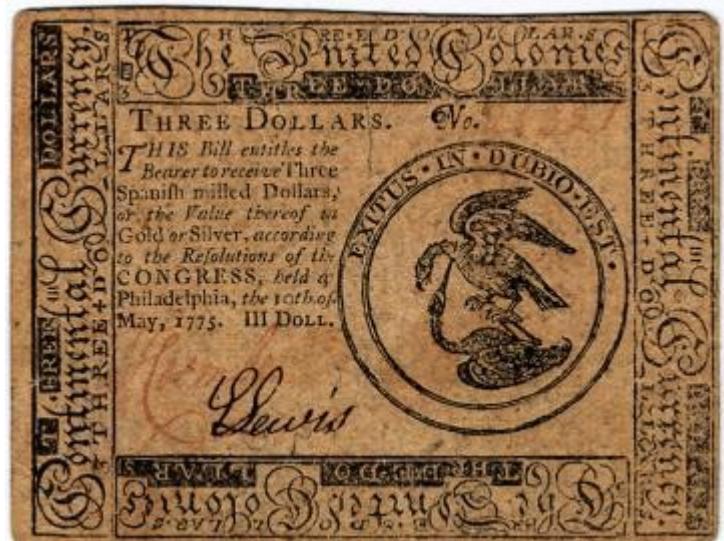

At the beginning of our Nation, a Caveat Against Injustice Roger Sherman's Argument against State-issued Bills of Credit (1752)/ During The Revolutionary War, the Continental Congress authorized the printing of paper "money" called "Continentals", which depreciated in perceived value [inflated] so quickly and so badly that, soon, they were "not worth a Continental". The Bank of England 'helped' depreciate the Continental by infusing thousands of counterfeit Continentals into America. During the pre- and post-Revolutionary War periods, the Colonies and these United States of America chose to use Spanish and Mexican Reales [called "Pieces of Eight"] as a currency, partly because they did not yet have their own coinage; because the Reale held its Value; because they had just gone through an unsuccessful experiment with paper "money" and its inflation; and because they definitely were NOT going to continue to use the English Pound (Sterling). After the States united under the Articles of Confederation created the United States of America under the Constitution of 1791, they delegated to Congress the complementary powers to (1) establish the Value of a Dollar and (2) to mint and circulate said Dollars. Congress, in The Coinage Act of 1792, established, by definition, a Dollar as a certain weight of silver, shaped into a coin ["minted"], and placed into circulation; and authorized the minting of the first United States of America silver Dollars, gold 'Eagles', and silver and copper fractional coins.

During the American Civil War, the Union government did not have enough silver or gold bullion to mint enough money [dollars] to pay the costs of the war in Lawful Money, so it unconstitutionally printed, not minted, the first United States of America paper currency: United States Treasury Notes (called "Greenbacks") under the Doctrine of "Necessity" [if we have to do it to survive, it is "necessary" and, hence, justifiable].

You will notice that this piece of paper is NOT 5 Dollars; but it has the appearance of a conditional Promissory Note (a Negotiable Instrument); i.e., a Promise to pay 5 Dollars to the Bearer limited by the condition that the bearer may redeem the Note in lawful money at the United States Treasury in

New York. And we do not know how much trouble it might have been to travel to New York during the Civil War. To be legally valid, a Promissory Note must be in writing and must have these necessary elements:

1. A firm promise to pay [by the payor];
2. A Definite sum of real money;
3. A recipient [the payee];
4. A definite date when such definite sum of money is due and payable; and
5. The signature of the Note maker [the payor].

From Tax Analyst's Taxation Museum: "The Civil War represented a watershed moment in the history of American taxation. The quick, limited engagement both sides confidently predicted soon proved a chimera. Instead, the exigencies of protracted, destructive warfare "engulfing private property and civilian populations as well as commissioned combatants" demanded innovations in government financing. While the outcome of the conflict may be attributed to any number of contingent factors, the varying fiscal strategies undertaken by the Union and Confederate governments undoubtedly influenced the capacity of both societies to sustain the war effort. North and South employed markedly different approaches. The North's proved more efficacious in the long run....In order for the bond program to be successful, the North needed an unrestricted currency supply for citizens to pay for them and a source of income to guarantee the interest. The Legal Tender Act filled the first requirement. Passed in February, 1862, the Act authorized the issue of $150 million in Treasury notes, known as Greenbacks. In contrast to Confederate paper, however, Congress required citizens, banks, and governments to accept Greenbacks as legal tender for public and private debts, except for interest on federal bonds and customs duties. This policy allowed buyers to purchase bonds with greenbacks while the interest accrued to them was paid in gold (funded, in part, by specie payments of customs duties). Investors enjoyed a bountiful windfall, since government securities purchased with depreciated currency were redeemed with gold valued at the pre-war level. Taxpayers essentially made up the difference. Because most bonds were acquired by the wealthy or by financial institutions, the program concentrated investment capital in the hands of those likely to use it, much as Alexander Hamilton's debt plan had sought to do. ...The Internal Revenue Act of 1862, enacted by Congress in July, 1862, soaked up much of the inflationary pressure produced by Greenbacks. It did so because the Act placed excise taxes on just about everything, including sin and luxury items like liquor, tobacco, playing cards, carriages, yachts, billiard tables, and jewelry. It taxed patent medicines and newspaper advertisements. It imposed license taxes on practically every profession or service except the clergy. It instituted stamp taxes, value-added taxes on manufactured goods and processed meats, inheritance taxes, taxes on the gross receipts of corporations, banks, and insurance companies, as well as taxes on dividends or interest they paid to investors. To administer these excise taxes, along with the tariff system, the Internal Revenue Act also created a Bureau of Internal Revenue, whose first commissioner, George Boutwell, described it as "the largest Government department ever organized." ...The first federal income tax in American history actually preceded the Internal Revenue Act of 1862. Passed in August, 1861, it had helped assure the financial community that the government would have a reliable source of income to pay the interest on war bonds."

Theoretically, the present-day "income tax" may still be being used to provide security for the repayment of the United States' outstanding obligations to the private banking gangsters who created the money from nothing and to soak up the inflationary pressure of fiat money. "Taxpayers" would then be being treated as the surety or collateral for the debts of the United States. After the Civil War, Congress recalled the Greenbacks from circulation and re-authorized the minting of silver and gold Dollars. After 1913, the first Federal Reserve Notes were introduced into circulation. You will notice that these Notes were Redeemable in Gold or in Lawful Money. Obviously, if something is Redeemable in Gold or Lawful Money, it is NOT, and CANNOT be, either Gold or lawful money. Federal Reserve Notes may have been construed by the courts to be "Legal Tender" [see the United States Supreme Court "Legal Tender Cases": Hepburn v. Griswold, 75 U.S. 603, Knox v. Lee, and Parker v. Davis, 79 U.S. 457], but they are not, and cannot ever be declared to be, lawful money. That is legally impossible, no matter what the Supreme Court might wish.

Previous Page: A Federal Reserve Note, Redeemable in Gold, 1928. Above: A typical Silver Certificate, Redeemable in Silver, dated 1935. Left: A typical United States of America Morgan Silver Dollar dated 1899. Right: A Federal Reserve Note, Redeemable in lawful money, 1934.

What is a Dollar? A second What is a Dollar? An essay on lawful Money A Legal Brief on Money When does money become money? Paul Gilkes article from Coin World, Dec. 16, 2002. The History of Lawful gold and silver money and the debt brought on by unlawful fiat paper money An article on the Federal Reserve System Another article on the Federal Reserve System

In 1933, Franklin D. Roosevelt cancelled (repudiated) the Redemption of Federal Reserve Notes in gold within these United States of America and forbade the private ownership of gold coins or bullion by Citizens, upon penalty of fine and/or imprisonment. So the ignorant "responsible", "law-abiding" Citizens turned in their lawful money to the Treasury, which probably used that money to pay off debts of the United States. However, Federal Reserve Notes were still Redeemable in gold outside these United States of America and the same Federal Reserve Notes were still Redeemable in silver upon demand within these United States of America. When the United States of America "went off the Silver Standard" in 1964 after John F. Kennedy's assassination, the Government again repudiated the Redemption of Federal Reserve Notes in silver coin (the last lawful money) and replaced the lawful money with cupro-nickel tokens. In a very real sense, the United States became insolvent. We then had Federal Reserve Notes which were "redeemable" only in other Federal Reserve Notes and "token" coinage having little intrinsic value, and also not redeemable in anything of value. We now have a "Federal Reserve Note" which does not Promise anything, is not Redeemable on Demand in anything of intrinsic value, and which has been deemed (unilaterally proclaimed) to be "legal tender", but which is not and cannot ever be lawful money of the United States. While the current "Federal Reserve Notes" are not valid promissory notes; they may be "bills of credit". Legally, such currency is called "scrip" or "fiat money". In slang, such currency is called "worthless", "bogus", "fake", "funny money", etc. What "obligation" could possibly attach to such a "Note" or to the use of such a "Note"? I believe that, since no obligation [of Redemption in Value] can attach to the purported Issuer [the Federal Reserve Banks] or to the purported co-signers [the Treasurer of the United States and the Secretary of the Treasury] of such a "Note", no obligation could possibly attach to the first, nor to any subsequent, holder or user of such a pseudo-"Note". And if it costs only 3-4 cents to make such a "Note" [no matter what the actual "face" denomination], isn't that production cost [paper, ink, and "security" strip] the only intrinsic value of the "Note"?

Congressional Report on Money (1964): In other words, every the Federal Reserve System purporting to issue these "Federal Reserve Notes" as money to its member Banks and every member Bank issuing them to its customers is legally insolvent, because they cannot ever redeem such a "Federal Reserve Note" in lawful money of these United States of America. Further, they are also willfully committing Fraud upon their customers, because they know (even if their customers do not know) that they cannot redeem those "Federal Reserve Notes".

Today's Non-Redeemable One Dollar "Federal Reserve Note" (well known masonic symbolism at the back of the note, <http://www.masoncode.com/The%20Great%20Seal.htm>).

There may well be a sustainable analogy between the current irredeemable "Federal Reserve Notes" and the notes of the Confederate States of America as described here: It was by this government [the Confederate States of America] exercising its power throughout an immense territory, that the Confederate notes were issued early in the war, and these notes in a short time became almost exclusively the currency of the insurgent states. As contracts in themselves, except in the contingency of successful revolution, these notes were nullities; for, except in that event, there could be no payer. They bore, indeed, this character upon their face, for they were made payable only "after the ratification of a treaty of peace between the Confederate States and the United States of America." While the war lasted, however, they had a certain contingent value, and were used as money in nearly all the business transactions of many millions of people. They must be regarded, therefore, as a currency, imposed on the community by irresistible force. (note added in brackets) Thorington v. Smith (1869), 8 Wall. (75 U.S.) 1, 19 L. Ed 361, 364.

First National Bank of Montgomery, Minnesota v. Jerome Daley [Note: Be careful; I have not found this case published in any official Reporter. Maybe you could get a copy by writing to the originating Court. Certainly it might disconcert that court.] The Ethics of Irredeemable Money. The use of money to create slavery: So, if the value of any "Federal Reserve Note" depends only on our collective perception or "confidence" in it, doesn't that make the whole "Federal Reserve System" and its "Notes" a "Confidence" game; i.e., a "con" game, or simply, a "con"? Modern Money Mechanics. This article was produced by the Chicago Branch of the Federal Reserve [it is supposedly out-of-print] Fractional Reserve Banking: The Smithsonian Institute looks at money: Dr. Edwin Vieira, Jr. article on money: Billions for the Bankers: A 1899 book warning about banking: The Coming Battle, Part 1. The Coming Battle, Part 2. Lawrence Parks article: another Lawrence Parks article: The Moneychanger:

Since 1982, we again can buy and hold real lawful money of the United States of America. That is, we can take the Federal Reserve System's "Federal Reserve Note" funny-money and exchange it for gold or silver coins at a coin dealer but the "Sales Tax" depreciates your value in the exchange. The Tax goes to feed the Federal Reserve interest payments! The United States Mint is currently authorized to mint 1 Troy ounce coins of Silver and 1 Troy ounce, 1/2 Troy ounce, 1/4 Troy ounce, and 1/10 Troy ounce coins of Gold, which THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT is pleased to call "numismatic items" or "bullion coins." Of course, those characterizations are designed to disguise the fact that these coins really are lawful money of the United States of America, rather than simply circulating legal tender tokens. There are also platinum coins which I have not discussed because, so far as I know, platinum has never been authorized for use as lawful money.

Congressman James Traficant's speech to Congress 1993 on The Fraud of the Federal Reserve

United States Congressional Record, March 17, 1993 Vol. 33, page H-1303 Speaker-Rep. James Traficant, Jr. (Ohio) addressing the House: "Mr. Speaker, we are here now in chapter 11.. Members of Congress are official trustees presiding over the greatest reorganization of any Bankrupt entity in World history, the U.S. Government. We are setting forth hopefully, a blueprint for our future. There are some who say it is a coroner's report that will lead to our demise. It is an established fact that the United States Federal Government has been dissolved by the Emergency Banking Act, March 9, 1933,

48 Stat. 1, Public Law 89-719; declared by President Roosevelt, being bankrupt and insolvent. H.J.R. 192, 73rd Congress m session June 5, 1933 – Joint Resolution To Suspend The Gold Standard and Abrogate The Gold Clause dissolved the Sovereign Authority of the United States and the official capacities of all United States Governmental Offices, Officers, and Departments and is further evidence that the United States Federal Government exists today in name only. The receivers of the United States Bankruptcy are the International Bankers, via the United Nations, the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund. All United States Offices, Officials, and Departments are now operating within a de facto status in name only under Emergency War Powers. With the Constitutional Republican form of Government now dissolved, the receivers of the Bankruptcy have adopted a new form of government for the United States. This new form of government is known as a Democracy, being an established Socialist/Communist order under a new governor for America. This act was instituted and established by transferring and/or placing the Office of the Secretary of Treasury to that of the Governor of the International Monetary Fund. Public Law 94-564, page 8, Section H.R. 13955 reads in part: "The U.S. Secretary of Treasury receives no compensation for representing the United States."

Gold and silver were such powerful money during the founding of the United States of America that the founding fathers declared that only gold or silver coins can be "money" in America. Since gold and silver coinage were heavy and inconvenient for a lot of transactions, they were stored in banks and a claim check was issued as a money substitute. People traded their coupons as money, or "currency." Currency is not money, but a money substitute. Redeemable currency must promise to pay a dollar equivalent in gold or silver money. Federal Reserve Notes (FRNs) make no such promises, and are not "money." A Federal Reserve Note is a debt obligation of the federal United States government, not "money?" The federal United States government and the U.S. Congress were not and have never been authorized by the Constitution for the united states of America to issue currency of any kind, but only lawful money, -gold and silver coin. It is essential that we comprehend the distinction between real money and paper money substitute. One cannot get rich by accumulating money substitutes, one can only get deeper into debt. We the People no longer have any "money." Most Americans have not been paid any "money" for a very long time, perhaps not in their entire life. Now do you comprehend why you feel broke? Now, do you understand why you are "bankrupt," along with the rest of the country? In fact, the Federal Reserve now promises to tax you and uses you as the collateral against which it issues the Federal Reserve Notes and cyber money!!!

Federal Reserve Notes (FRNs) are unsigned checks written on a closed account. FRNs are an inflatable paper system designed to create debt through inflation (devaluation of currency). When ever there is an increase of the supply of a money substitute in the economy without a corresponding increase in the gold and silver backing, inflation occurs. Inflation is an invisible form of taxation that irresponsible governments inflict on their citizens. The Federal Reserve Bank who controls the supply and movement of FRNs has everybody fooled. They have access to an unlimited supply of FRNs, paying only for the printing costs of what they need. FRNs are nothing more than promissory notes for U.S. Treasury securities (T-Bills) - a promise to pay the debt to the Federal Reserve Bank. There is a fundamental difference between "paying" and "discharging" a debt. To pay a debt, you must pay with value or substance (i.e. gold, silver, barter or a commodity). With FRNs, you can only discharge a debt. You cannot pay a debt with a debt currency system. You cannot service a debt with a currency that has no backing in value or substance. No contract in Common law is valid unless it involves an exchange of "good & valuable consideration." Un-payable debt transfers power and control to the sovereign power structure that has no interest in money, law, equity or justice because they have so much wealth already.

Their lust is for power and control. Since the inception of central banking, they have controlled the fates of nations. The Federal Reserve System is based on the Canon law and the principles of sovereignty protected in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. In fact, the international Bankers used a "Canon Law Trust" as their model, adding stock and naming it a "Joint Stock Trust." The U.S. Congress had passed a law making it illegal for any legal "person" to duplicate a "Joint Stock Trust" in 1873. The Federal Reserve Act was legislated post-facto (to 1870), although post-facto laws are strictly forbidden by the Constitution. [1:9:3] The Federal Reserve System is a sovereign power structure separate and distinct from the federal United States government. The Federal Reserve is a maritime lender, and/or maritime insurance underwriter to the federal United States operating exclusively under Admiralty/Maritime law. The lender or underwriter bears the risks, and the Maritime law compelling specific performance in paying the interest, or premiums are the same. Assets of the debtor can also be hypothecated (to pledge something as a security without taking possession of it) as security by the lender or underwriter. The Federal Reserve Act stipulated that the interest on the debt was to be paid in gold. There was no stipulation in the Federal Reserve Act for ever paying the principle.

Prior to 1913, most Americans owned clear, allodial title to property, free and clear of any liens or mortgages until the Federal Reserve Act (1913) "Hypothecated" all property within the federal United States to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve, -in which the Trustees (stockholders) held legal title. The U.S. citizen (tenant, franchisee) was registered as a "beneficiary" of the trust via his/her birth certificate. In 1933, the federal United States hypothecated all of the present and future properties, assets and labor of their "subjects," the 14th Amendment U.S. citizen, to the Federal Reserve System. In return, the Federal Reserve System agreed to extend the federal United States Corporation all the credit "money substitute" it needed. Like any other debtor, the federal United States government had to assign collateral and security to their creditors as a condition of the loan. Since the federal United States didn't have any assets, they assigned the private property of their "economic slaves", the U.S. citizens as collateral against the un-payable federal debt. They also pledged the unincorporated federal territories, national parks forests, birth certificates, and nonprofit organizations, as collateral against the federal debt. All has already been transferred as payment to the international Bankers. Unwittingly, America has returned to its pre-American Revolution, feudal roots whereby all land is held by a sovereign and the common people had no rights to hold allodial title to property. Once again, We the People are the tenants and sharecroppers renting our own property from a Sovereign in the guise of the Federal Reserve Bank. We the people have exchanged one master for another.

This has been going on for over eighty years without the "informed knowledge" of the American people, without a voice protesting loud enough. Now it's easy to grasp why America is fundamentally bankrupt Why don't more people own their properties outright? Why are 90% of Americans mortgaged to the hilt and have little or no assets after all debts and liabilities have been paid? Why does it feel like you are working harder and harder and getting less and less? We are reaping what has been sown, and the results of our harvest are a painful bankruptcy, and a foreclosure on American property, precious liberties, and a way of life. Few of our elected representatives in Washington, D.C. have dared to tell the truth. The federal United States is bankrupt. Our children will inherit this un-payable debt, and the tyranny to enforce paying it. America has become completely bankrupt in World leadership, financial credit and its reputation for courage, vision and human rights. This is an undeclared economic war, bankruptcy, and economic slavery of the most corrupt order! Wake up America! Take back your Country." [IS IT ANY WONDER THAT THE "ELITE" ARE OUT TO DESTROY REP

TRAFACT? He is hitting the CFR/TC and the UN where it hurts! LMSR.] Image: United States Congressional Record, March 17, 1993 Vol. 33, page H-1303.

Added by: Chester L McWhorter Sr: Forming the Federal Reserve System are the primary Federal Reserve "Banks" of: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas, and San Francisco. These banks are not real banks. You cannot cash a check there, open an account, etc. These "banks" are also holding companies of smaller banks. In all of this discussion about income tax, we should be ever mindful of the fact that CONGRESS is the key. CONGRESS votes to spend the money. Congress gives the IRS its power. Congress gives the IRS its OWN budget. Congress is elected by the people. The IRS is A DECOY. I only ask that people read it and think...think...think. Sources/Ref's if not in the text will be found on the last page of Doc 000.0.0.1 and 000.0.6. CLMSR.<<< We have a Constitution and our Bill of Rights (the first 10 amendments) that makes us free. Right? Then visit:<http://www.trimonline.org/> <http://www.getusout.org/> <http://www.thenewamerican.com/> <http://www.givemeliberty.org/> <http://www.jbs.org/> <http://www.getawarrant.com/> <http://www.dixierising.com/> <http://www.dixienet.org/> <http://www.palmetto.org/> <http://www.southerncaucus.org/> <http://www.spofga.org/> <http://www.southernstyle.com/> <http://www.nca.mybravenet.com/>

NOTE # 1: This is the FIRST doc in a string of about 37 regarding the Income Tax, How it was illegally forced upon us, the collusion of various nation banks, including The Bank of England, the Banks of Europe, the Banks of the USA that make up the Non-Government organization known as the Fed and the Bankers themselves dedicated to making this a Socialist Nation. As David Rockefeller reportedly said in 1973 when he and others formed the Trilateral Commission, "We will have this a Socialist Nation by the end of the year 2000." Well, with the help of our past Communist President, he damned well nearly did it. If Comrade Gore had been elected, it would be now! The last doc in this series is a plan that was presented to President Bush when he visited Florida recently. It was put directly into his hands. He has not acted upon it. We The People must initiate a campaign of letters, faxes, e-mails, and phone calls to him and others in our otherwise corrupt government letting them know of our displeasure. For God and Country, Chet.

NOTE # 2: You may forward this to every member of Congress. Nothing beats a letter AND a phone call. AS/Chester L McWhorter Sr, c/o 504 N. Brighton Rd, Lecanto, Occupied Florida. 34461. Ph: 352-344-9073. Fax: Same. E-mail: robertthebruce@naturecoast.net 01 of 37 100.0.0.0 Rockefeller Quote: We are on the verge of a global transformation. All we [the CFR] need is the right major crisis and the nation[s] will accept the New World Order. End Quote. David Rockefeller: Founder and Honorary Chairman, Council of the Americas; Chairman, Americas Society; Founder, Forum of the Americas; Chairman, Emeritus, Council on Foreign Relations [CFR]; Founder and Honorary Chairman, Trilateral Commission [TC]; Chairman, The Bilderbergs. How does the 11 Sept 2001 attack upon our country figure into this?]

The Bankruptcy of the United States is a 38 part document. See Contents on left column. The Bankruptcy of The United States Part 1-39; Part 1 THE SECRET OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE edited from <http://www.apfn.org/apfn/reserve.htm> The Federal Reserve manipulates U.S. currency, interest rates, and inflation for the advantage of its owners. Since 1998, NORFED has provided The Liberty Dollar - an inflation proof currency owned by the people, not the Federal Reserve.

The Short Road To Chaos And Destruction An Expose of the Federal Reserve Banking System
<http://www.Worldnewsstand.net/today/articles/chaos.htm> . The End of Ordinary Money, Part I <http://www.aci.net/kalliste/money1.htm> . The End of Ordinary Money, Part II: <http://www.aci.net/kalliste/money2.htm>

"When the government fears the people, there is liberty. When the people fear the government, there is tyranny." -Thomas Jefferson

The Federal Reserve Is A PRIVATELY OWNED Corporation "The American Dream" Fire 'em all!

Mathematic PROOF: Federal Reserve CAUSED Great Depression Part 1: Mathematic PROOF the Federal Reserve CAUSED the Great Depression. Part 2: Congressman Louis T. McFadden's famous 1932 Congressional Address. Nature and iniquitous history of the private international banks deceitfully called The Federal Reserve System. A blueprint for irreversible multiplication of debt in proportion to commerce, until World-wide economic collapse under insoluble debt. Tens of thousands of visitors voted this page a Starting Point Hotsite award, November 7, 1998. Hopefully, mathematic proof of a singular prescription for perfected economy will ultimately serve as the impetus for World-wide establishment of mathematically perfected economy. <http://www.perfecteconomy.com/principal---federal-reserve-system.html>

Who Owns The Federal Reserve? There has been much speculation about who owns the Federal Reserve Corporation. It has been one of the great secrets of the century, because the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 provided that the names of the owner banks be kept secret. However, R. E. McMaster publisher of the newsletter The Reaper, asked his Swiss banking contacts which banks hold the controlling stock in the Federal Reserve Corporation. The Federal System is by the way a private Corporation # 62 domiciled in Puerto Rico. The answer to who owns the Fed and by proxy the entire USA: Rothschild Banks of London and Berlin, Lazard Brothers Bank of Paris ,Israel Moses Sieff Banks of Italy ,Warburg Bank of Hamburg and Amsterdam ,Lehman Brothers Bank of New York ,Kuhn Loeb Bank of New York ,Chase Manhattan Bank of New York ,Goldman Sachs Bank of New York. In The Secrets Of The Federal Reserve, Eustace Mullins indicates that, because the Federal Reserve Bank of New York sets interest rates and controls the daily supply and price of currency throughout the U.S., the owners of that bank are the real directors of the entire system. Mullins states: "The shareholders of these banks which own the stock of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York are the people who have controlled our political and economic destinies since 1914. They are the Rothschilds, Lazard Freres (Eugene Mayer), Israel Sieff, Kuhn Loeb Company, Warburg Company, Lehman Brothers, Goldman Sachs, the Rockefeller family, and the J.P. Morgan interests." http://land.netonecom.net/tlp/ref/federal_reserve.shtml The Federal Zone: Cracking the Code of Internal Revenue The 545 People Responsible For All of America's Woes. IRS ~ Tax Info Government has its eye on your money ! THE IRS IS ON THE ROPES AND RUNNING SCARED! . AMERICAN PATRIOT FRIENDS NETWORK [www.apfn.net & <http://www.apfn.org/>]

Congressman Ron Paul Introduces Bill to Abolish the Fed Sep 10, 2002

In his speech to Congress from page E1536 of the Congressional Record Sept 10 2002: "...abolishing the Federal Reserve and returning to a constitutional system will enable America to return to the type of monetary system envisioned by our Nation's founders: one where the value of money is consistent because it is tied to a commodity such as gold". On Sep. 10, 2002, U.S. Congressman Ron Paul (R-TX) introduced HR 5336, the "Federal Reserve Board Abolition Act".

Ron Paul concludes: "In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to stand up for working Americans by putting an end to the manipulation of the money supply which erodes Americans' standard of living, enlarges big government, and enriches well-connected elites, by cosponsoring my legislation to abolish the Federal Reserve." There is one thing Rep. Ron Paul left out: the elimination of fractional reserve banking, which is how banks create money out of thin air, even if that money is backed by gold. The most inclusive measure of created money is called the "M3 money supply" and currency money is called the "M0 money supply". The difference is about 13:1. According to the Federal Reserve's releases, Aug., 2002 M0 was $617b and Aug., 2002 M3 was $8,259b. In other words, if everyone tried to withdraw their money at the same time, there would be a run on the banks as all the printed U.S. currency in the World covers only 8% of the World's bank deposits that are held in supposed U.S. dollars.

Recently, Sept. 5, 2003, Congressman Rep. Ron Paul of Texas: who is on the Financial Services Committee, which oversees the entire financial services industry, including the securities, insurance, banking, and housing industries, serves as the vice-chairman of the Oversight and Investigations subcommittee that oversees the work of the Federal Reserve, the Treasury, the SEC, and other financial services regulators said before the U.S. House of Representatives on Sept. 5th: "We own the printing press and create as many dollars as we please. These dollars are used to buy federal debt. This allows our debt to be monetized and the spendthrift Congress, of course, finds this a delightful convenience and never complains. As the dollars circulate through our fractional reserve banking system, they expand many times over. With our excess dollars at home, our trading partners are only too happy to accept these dollars in order to sell us their products. Because our dollar is relatively strong compared to other currencies, we can buy foreign products at discounted prices. In other words, we get to create the World's reserve currency at no cost, spend it overseas, and receive manufactured goods in return.... All great republics throughout history cherished sound money. This meant that the monetary unit was a commodity of honest weight and purity. When money was sound, civilizations were found to be more prosperous and freedom thrived. The less free a society becomes, the greater the likelihood its money is being debased and the economic well-being of its citizens diminished.... Yet here we are today with a purely fiat monetary system, managed almost exclusively by Alan Greenspan. The Founders were well aware of the biblical admonitions against dishonest weights and measures, debased silver, and watered-down wine. The issue of sound money throughout history has been as much a moral issue as an economic or political issue."

To reiterate, there are three injustices in the U.S. banking system: The private Federal Reserve issue of money, The Fractional reserve private banking system, and inflation. It's possible to have different combinations of these. For example, between 1913 and 1933, the U.S. had both a Federal Reserve and a true gold standard. And between 1933 and 1971, the U.S. made gold ownership illegal to U.S. citizens, but still honored the $35/oz exchange rate for those outside the U.S. Gold became legal again in 1975, since it was completely decoupled from the dollar in 1971. And before 1913, the U.S. had no Federal Reserve but did have fractional reserve even though it was on a gold standard. To find examples of monetary systems with no fractional reserve, one would have to either go back to the 17th century or look at tribal bartering systems that are outside the reach of the U.S. IRS. There are many problems with the Federal Reserve, but they are worse than some conspiracy theories expound. Yes, the Federal Reserve is a private corporation owned by banks. Yes, the Federal Reserve gets currency for free (just for the cost of printing) from the U.S. Treasury Bureau of Engraving and Printing (BEP). Here's how it works. When the U.S. Treasury needs to borrow money, it has its own Bureau of Engraving print the money, and sells it for the cost of printing to the Federal Reserve, a private corporation with the chairman of the board appointed by the U.S. president who of course acts in the interests of the owners of the Fed if he wishes not to be assassinated or removed like the 7 others (Presidents Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and John F. Kennedy, and FDR's poisoning). The Federal Reserve then buys U.S. bonds from the Treasury. However, despite this obscene arrangement, the Federal Reserve "donates" (by tradition, not by law) its profits back to the Treasury after spending extravagantly on its owners. Still, that comes out to an absolute minimum $300 million annual scam but is most likely much higher. Section 7 of the Federal Reserve Act, passed December 23, 1913, states that much of the profit of the FED should flow into the U.S. Treasury. In 1959, new legislation allowed the FED to transfer bonds to commercial banks at no cost to the bank. Now the FED receives less interest income and less profit for the U.S. Treasury because the money is diverted to other banks through an accounting entry. And what's worse is that the debt of $7 Trillion Federal and another $7 Trillion at the State levels and a total of about $50 Trillion total that is owed by the World to the Fed can be foreclosed on if the debtors are unable to pay the interest. This is what happened when the bankers caused depressions by restricting credit in the past and people lost their properties, businesses and other assets to the banksters for a few cents on the dollar. The BankLords manipulate news and credit to gradually steal the wealth of the World.

Thomas Jefferson: "I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. Already they have raised up a money aristocracy that has set the government at defiance... If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks will deprive the people of all property until their children wake-up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered... The issuing power should be taken from the banks and restored to the government to whom it properly belongs." "The modern theory of the perpetuation of debt has drenched the earth with blood, and crushed its inhabitants under burdens ever accumulating". ~ Letter to the Secretary of the Treasury Albert Gallatin (1802) and later published in The Debate Over The Recharter Of The Bank Bill (1809)

There are hundreds of quotes on the subject from the Founding Fathers and others who understood this cabal. Between fractional reserve and federal government borrowing, money is constantly being created, and this is what causes inflation. Higher inflation leads to lower real wages, because workers are tricked into accepting lower pay. The constant government debt and creation of money is intentional to realize a Keynesian economy, where the whole goal is to get money to circulate around as much and as fast as possible. This just leads to mass consumption of natural resources, leading to the imperialism of other countries such as Iraq in order to consume their natural resources. An honest monetary system, in contrast, would encourage frugality. Individuals, business, and the government would all have to practice fiscal discipline, as money could no longer be created (especially for the government). Since the government would be spending within its means, it wouldn't be priming the Keynesian pump; in fact, the economy wouldn't be Keynesian at all anymore. Finally, frugality would be encouraged -- in this way to a fault -- because the amount of usable gold in the World rises slowly in comparison to the World population, so salaries and prices would trend downward as production capacity (from population growth) and productivity (from, e.g., technology) increase. But this deflationary fault is at least honest and understandable, unlike the inflation built into the Keynesian system.

Congressman Paul August 30th, 2003: "He asked if there was an international conspiracy to overthrow our government. The answer is "Yes". I think there are 25,000 individuals that have used offices of powers, and they are in our Universities and they are in our Congresses, and they believe in One World Government. And if you believe in One World Government, then you are talking about undermining National Sovereignty and you are talking about setting up something that you could well call a Dictatorship - and those plans are there!..."

The Taxpayer Bailout of Central and Local Banks Continues

William Krehm explained that the Canadian Prime Minister Paul Martin knew exactly what had brought on the financial bust of the late 1980s, and how the banks had been bailed out by enabling them to quadruple their holdings of federal government bonds by being able to acquire them without putting up any of their own money. The statutory reserves - were some 8% to 10% of the deposits the banks received in their chequing accounts that had to be redeposited on an interest-free basis with the Bank of Canada, but such reserves had been abolished in a bill sneaked through parliament in 1991 without debate or press release. When critics dug up the facts of that bailout, the banks cried indignantly: "It was an unjust tax on the banks!" But it was no tax at all. From a "lender of the last resort", the government had simply moved into the position of "the donor of the first resort". Throughout the 1980s it had bailed out bankrupt banks. And since the government of Canada is the sole shareholder of the Bank of Canada when it switched its borrowing from its own bank to the distressed banks, they lent back to the government some of the money it had bestowed on them as a gift. That was the secret of secrets, the dead rat beneath our floor boards that poisoned the very air politicians breathe. Yet Canadians who pay, ultimately pay the shot in the GST every time they go into a store. They were the ones who really bailed out our banks. The details have been withheld from the public, but the total picture is revealed to them whenever they do a bit of shopping or drive over the potholes in our roads, or suffer from the crumbling of our infrastructure.

Even more scandalous, after being bailed out so sumptuously, the banks were further deregulated and allowed to take over stock market brokerages in Canada and abroad, and underwriting and merchant banking establishments, derivative boutiques - such a jumble of businesses incompatible with banking that the mighty banks could not begin to keep track of the clashing relationships that resulted. Thus as part of the World-wide bail-out of banks in trouble, the Bank for International Settlements, had declared the debt of developed countries to be risk-free , hence requiring no further capital for banks to acquire. But at the same time governments throughout the World had put an end to the statutory reserves, that had served as an alternative to higher interest rates to lick perceived "inflation". But if you raise interest rates, the huge bond hoard with lower coupons held by the banks fall below market value. And the banks thus lose much of their remaining capital from their very rescue package. In short the right hand of Mr. Martin and his colleagues in charge of our money supply in Canada and abroad, lost track of what their left hands was up to. That led to a major financial crisis in Mexico that would have brought down the entire financial system had the Clinton government in Washington not at the last moment patched together a $50 billion plus standby program. And meanwhile Mr. Martin as Finance Minister during the Chretien government was beating his own drum as a financial expert who merited ten years in power as PM.

As further proof of his "fiscal responsibility", he stashed away government revenue to "hide against a rainy day". It was in fact the part cost of keeping the sun shining on our banks' excursions into the US financial wild west. Not only were these incompatible with their banking activities, but not particularly successful. They have already cost them a small fortune. But that was not enough, Mr. Martin got himself into an awful row behind closed doors with the Auditor-General of that day, Denis Desautels, on the government's practice of ignoring double entry bookkeeping. When it built a bridge, a school, or a penitentiary, it wrote off the spending in a single year while keeping the debt incurred on its books as a liability. After weeks of wrangling a compromise was reached in which this accrual accountancy (also known as 'capital budgeting') would be introduced with respect only to the aboriginal peoples' accounts and the environment. That resulted in the discovery of an unrecognized surplus that he wore like a Purple Heart Cross. Yet under the terms of his settlement with the Auditor-General, the final balance sheets of the government would be subject to approval by the Auditor-General. Until that approval is forthcoming, Mr. Martin is as much in the dark about the government's balance-sheets as the general public. Accordingly it falls to the electorate to decide whether he really has been a prudent administrator, or has just bullied his auditor.. In the US intimidating or bribing a company's auditor has earned high executives jail sentences. Could it be that in Canada we reward them with 10-year runs as head of state? That was the grand illusion of Mr. Martin's career. The time has come to prove him wrong.

But surely, all these things are far too complicated for the ordinary elector to understand. Hence how did the public pierce the mystery and grasp the essential fact that Mr. Martin has been up to no great good. For that is the view that has taken over. Thus Roy MacGregor (The Globe & Mail 7/06/04) sums up the situation:" With voters putting the boots to Martin so early, it means the public attention span has ample time to wander over to those who might take his place. Two weeks ago the election was Paul Martin's to lose, and it appears he lost it almost instantly; today, it is Stephen Harper's to lose." This adds up to a crisis of our democratic system. The need for proportional representation, so that minority groups at present unrepresented in parliament will be able to demand vital information that is at present denied the major parties, or who simply fail to fight for it. Being a major party involves a massive dependence on major finances for TV ads, the attaches major parties to our banks with nose-rings. How then did Mr. Martin's secret get through to them despite its complexity that left Mr. Martin himself confused? he answer is simple. There has been a massive redistribution of the national income, and with the increasing break-down of our infrastructure and the ongoing voracity of our banks, it continues, day and night. Heather Scoffield (The Tories' $90-billion question" Globe and Mail 7/06) sums it up : "Both Tim O'Neill, chief economist of the Bank of Montreal and Dale Orr, managing director at Global Insight (Canada) recognize a scenario such as Conservatives as a viable option, as long as spending is frozen. On the other hand, most economists agree that keeping spending in check will involve cuts to some programs." That is the great secret that Mr. Martin could only add to, but not hide.

The last bailout of our banks was no one-shot affair, but an ongoing entitlement. When two of our major banks have had fines imposed on them by the regulatory authorities in the US $80 million - quite apart from likely class actions for which they are setting aside reserves - that comes out of the hides of Canadian taxpayers or consumers. Vital information about Mr. Martin's fiscal prudence comes to voters whenever they go into a store and pay the GST that Mr. Martin as Liberal Finance Minister was supposed to do away with. You can fool the public three times with tales of self-aggrandizement, but the fourth time is a toughie these days. [Remember, most of our taxes and expenditures go to pay the interest (homage, tithe, whatever you want to call it) to the ruling banking dynasties, and in addition, inflation also serves to reduce the value of money and is an additional hidden tax, i.e. we are their slaves!]

The Next BankLords' Ruse is to Get Rid of Cash

The next stage of development for international finance is to get rid of cash altogether. Then the token accountability of the Bankers will disappear along with the cash. Their intention is that everyone will have to use credit/debit cards for every type of commercial transaction. Electronic technology, when used this way, and when it is not merely widespread but compulsory, will give them complete control of every man, woman and child in the World. If you cannot buy or sell - food, petrol, clothes - without a card you are completely at their mercy. If you lose the card or it doesn't work for some reason you will suffer until issued with a replacement. If you make a protest against some particular injustice they could invalidate your card. The next time you go to the supermarket your card may not work. You won't officially exist! Who benefits from such a scheme? The politicians or the Bankers? To ask the question is to answer it. The Bank of England is the real, but hidden, government of the country. The Government and the politicians are merely puppets controlled by the Bank - or, more accurately, the international banking families. None of our cowardly politicians dare stand up against the hidden and unelected rulers of the World, so powerful have they become. Two American presidents, possibly three, were assassinated for attempting to do so. It is far easier for them to submit to the system and enjoy a rich life than expose the real tyrants of the World: tyrants who cause high taxes, unemployment, war, famine and misery for the rest of us. But these despots of the New World Order forget that Truth is more powerful than they could ever become. And Truth brings Justice!

This article first appeared in issue 5 of 'The Anvil,' published by The Third Position, BCM ITP, London, WC1N 3XX. <http://www.heretical.com/miscella/usury.html> Historic Documents of the U.S. Patrick Henry's Great "Give Me Liberty Or Give Me Death" speech The Bank of Ireland is also a clone of the Bank of England. Worldhistory.com Henry Stuart, Prince of Wales King Charles I. King Charles II King James II Mary Queen of Scots; Andréadés, A., History of the Bank of England, 1640 to 1903, by Augustus M. Kelley Publishers, New York, 1966. Cobbett, William, M.P., Paper Against Gold, or, The History and Mystery of the Bank of England, of the Debts, of the Stocks, of the Sinking Fund, and of all the other tricks and contrivances, carried on by the means of paper money, John Doyle, 12 Liberty St., New York City, 1834. (Originally published in London in 1828 as a series of letters by William Cobbett while serving a prison sentence in Newgate Prison). Blaxton, John, English Usurer, or Usury Condemned, London, 1634. Clapham, Sir John, The Bank of England: A History, in 2 volumes, The Macmillian Company, New York 1945. Francis, Joseph Hume, History of the Bank of England, Euclid Publishing Co., Chicago, Illinois, 1888. Giuseppe, John, The Bank of England: A History from its Foundation in 1694, Evans Brothers Limited, London, 1966. Green, Edwin, Banking An Illustrated History, Rizzoli Pub., New York, 1989. Vieira, Edwin Jr., Pieces of Eight, The Monetary Powers and Disabilities of the U.S. Constitution, Old Greenwich, Conn., 1983.

The Connection Between Money, Israel & The Oil Collectivists

Wendy Campbell http://www.marwenmedia.com/articles_images/SecretRelationship.html Oct. 5, 2004, explains that generally, she avoids mainstream media (MSM) these days since it is mostly pro-Zionism propaganda as well as blown-up sensationalist stories, such as the case of Scott Peterson, which are meant to distract people from the more important issues of our time, such as the US foreign policy, for example. The article in the Wall Street Journal, dated September 21, 2004, that rankled her into finally writing this article, which has been brewing in her mind for some time, was one by Jeffrey Ball entitled "As Prices Soar, Doomsayers Provoke Debate on Oil's Future". The sub-title was: "In a 1970's echo, Dr. Campbell (no relation to me!) Warns Supply Is Drying Up, but Industry Isn't Worried". Note that the price of oil went from $15 to $75 quintupling the $ purchase requirements, i.e. from over $600 million daily to over $3 billion daily.

US MEDIA DETERMINES WHO WILL BE INFLUENTIAL: Is it a coincidence that Dr. Campbell is "suddenly influential"? No, it is not. Even the Wall Street Journal is playing into the game of making Dr. Campbell "suddenly influential" with this article. Why is the US media pushing Dr. Campbell, a man who lives in a tiny Irish village, into the limelight? Because the media, which is run by pro-Israel forces, want people like Dr. Campbell to be in the limelight is why. And you may ask, why is that? Well, because Dr. Campbell's views help support the pro-Israel agenda of that other "suddenly influential band of contrarians", known as the NeoConservatives. The NeoConservatives are mostly Zionist Jews, headed by Paul Wolfowitz, who qualify as Israeli-Americans, and who are now openly directing US foreign policy almost completely. Christian Zionists such as Bush and Cheney have jumped on their bandwagon. People whose voices the US media wants you to hear will be heard. Conversely, people whose voices and actions the US media want to hide, will go into the memory hole. It's only an illusion that we have a free and democratic press here in the US. Personally, I think it's about time to press for the right to vote for affirmative action laws with regards to specifically the US mass media and our US foreign policy department, both of which have a hugely disproportional percentage of Israeli-Americans in them. The over-representation of Israeli-Americans in US newsrooms tends to undermine journalistic integrity. When the news media consistently manipulates public sensibilities with a bias favoring a foreign country such as Israel [and the associated disintegration of Palestine], American democratic values and institutions are compromised, as well as Americans' ability to objectively and independently access the situation. America needs more non-Zionists (ie. people ineligible for Israeli citizenship) in high news and government positions to safeguard our own national interests against foreign interests. Whoever shapes public opinion has an unfair advantage politically. It serves as the government's propaganda mouthpiece, but only when the government does as the media wants. Conversely, it has to power to bring politicians down who are not pro-Israel enough, often simply by ignoring them or by pulling out something unsavory from his or her dossier to suddenly put into the limelight. It works kind of like blackmail, actually. The news establishment is termed by some to be "The Fourth Estate", meaning the fourth branch of American government, after the Executive, Legislative and Judicial branches. This mighty, and in many ways, secretive, consolidated collection of media networks manages the American mind, shaping public opinion. American public opinion is the World's second most powerful super-power, but it's too bad that it is managed by the narrow interests of the elite controllers of the "free" and "democratic" media. Thank God for the internet, although "they" are frantically trying to control this last bastion of liberty as well.

LET'S DEBUNK SOME COMMON MYTHS ABOUT ISRAEL, OIL and U.S. SECURITY/INTERESTS: First of all, I'm sure many of you are aware of the notion put out there by political pundits (who are most likely pro-Israel) that the US somehow needs Israel in the Middle East to be its stationary "aircraft carrier" to act as the "tough cop" looking out for American interests in that region, specifically with regards to oil. Let me ask you these few revealing questions. When has Israel EVER sent any troops in to lend us a hand in ANY war the US has waged in the Middle East? Pretty amazing, especially when you consider that any wars the US has waged on the Middle East has been at the prodding of Israel and Israeli-Americans [Zionists], particularly the NeoConservatives. Have you ever noticed that gas is actually cheaper than bottled water? Have you noticed or read the reports that the price of gas has not risen in keeping with inflation? Adjusted for inflation, gasoline today would have to sell for around $3.50 a gallon to the match prices Americans paid in 1981. And this does not factor in the additional savings in consumption we enjoy since today's cars get nearly twice the gas mileage of cars produced only 25 years ago. Do you realize that the Arab World needs to sell its oil even more than we need to buy it from them? Did you know the US gets oil from many other countries including Mexico, Venezuela, Canada, etc. besides a few Middle Eastern countries? Actually, both Russia and Canada supply the US with quantities of oil comparable to Saudi Arabia. And what about the fact that there are more and more discoveries of new oil resources throughout the World? And that many geologists say that oil is actually a renewable resource? Even this Wall Street Journal article that sparked my writing this article gave many examples of how geologists scoff at Dr. Campbell's prediction of an "oil crisis" looming ahead.

Even in Michael Moore's Arab-bashing, misleading, "daring" documentary "Fahrenheit 9/11", he made it clear that the Saudis are heavily invested in some sectors of American business, and that the Saudis are and always have been very cooperative with the US government, with the exception of the "oil crisis" of 1973, which I will discuss later in this article. It is well-known that the Saudis see the American government support of Israel's brutal persecution of the Palestinian people. By the way, did you notice how Michael Moore didn't even mention the word "Israel"? Or "Zionism"? Or even "NeoConservatism" in his documentary? Not surprising. His agent is top Hollywood Jewish Zionist Ari Emmanuel whose brother is Rahm Emmanuel, who served in the Carter administration, and is currently a hyper pro-Israel senator in Illinois. Another interesting note about Moore's documentary: he even pointed out how none of the Saudis could reap any financial benefits from the war on Iraq, unlike American companies such as Halliburton. So his whole Arab-bashing approach basically backfires. It shows how cowardly Moore is in the face of Zionist Hollywood, not to mention how greedy he obviously is to go for the big bucks, which toeing the Zionist line assures anyone in the Worlds of US media and politics. It's ever so convenient and "somehow" politically "acceptable" to scapegoat Arabs and Muslims in Zionist Hollywood and US media. Consider this as well: does it make any sense whatsoever to spend over $200 BILLION [and more over time] on the war on Iraq to get control of Iraqi oil for US interests? Especially when we could easily buy it, if we needed to? Not to mention the war's cost in human lives and alienating much of the World in the process? The "War for Oil (for US interests)" fable is a completely ridiculous and outrageous lie!

SO WHAT IS REALLY THE PRO-ISRAEL AGENDA WITH REGARDS TO OIL? What is the connection between Israel and Arab oil, and where does the US fit into this picture? First of all, the ethno-centric Zionist state of Israel is a small, resource-poor country, with no natural oil resources, and is almost completely dependent on US support in the form of not only massive financial support (billions of US tax dollars yearly as well as donations from US Zionist controlled corporations) but US military and political cover as well. Israel, quite simply, would not survive as the apartheid, imperialistic, war-mongering Zionist state that it is, without the massive support of the US government. Israel is surrounded by well-deserved, self-made enemies thanks to the initial injustice of the UN unilaterally giving away Arab land that was not theirs to give away in the first place to Eastern European Zionist Jews who have been committing ethnic cleansing and persecution of the indigenous non-Jewish Palestinians ever since 1948. Since that time, Israel has continued to aggressively steal even more Arab land and has blatant ambitions to control the entire Middle East, using the power and might of the United States. If more Americans were truly aware of how racist and imperialistic Israel is, they would most likely demand that our government stop supporting Israel at all until it is transformed into a true democracy for all regardless of religion, race or gender, as the World pressured South Africa to transform from an apartheid country to a true democracy ten years ago. If more Americans knew how support of Israel increases anti-American sentiment Worldwide and ensures endless unjust wars, they might very well question their government's support of Israel. There are many reasons for Americans to question their government's support of Israel including first and foremost for real financial and security concerns as well as our country's hard-won reputation as a democracy for all, regardless of religion, race or gender. The fact is that the pro-Israel, Zionist-dominated US media very rarely even mentions the topic of Israel outside of incidents that involve suicide bombers, which then make the screaming front page headlines. The footage of the aftermath of such an attack is played over and over again, back to back on ZNN (oops! I meant to write CNN!) and Fox News and all the other US media. These isolated attacks by suicide bombers are thus over-reported while the context in which these desperate acts occur is usually completely ignored and not reported. The on-going brutal persecution of the non-Zionist Palestinian people, including the killing of innocent civilians and children, since 1948 by the Israeli army goes almost totally unreported and is generally veiled from view by the American public.

MOST AMERICANS DON'T EVEN KNOW WHAT ZIONISM IS, US MEDIA LIKES TO KEEP IT THAT WAY: Most Americans don't even know what Zionism is. In a nutshell, it is a racist, nationalistic, political ideology conceived by Theodor Hertzl, an Austrian Jew in the 1890s, that maintains that there must be a Jewish state in Palestine, although that means and always has meant policies of ethnic-cleansing, apartheid and general persecution of the indigenous non-Jews of that land, the Arab Muslim and Christian Palestinians. [Note that the real Jews, i.e. the real Israelites, the True-Torah Jews condemn Zionism <http://www.jewsagainstzionism.com>]. In a nutshell, advocates of this racist Zionist ideology are driving our US foreign policy. What ever happened to separation of synagogue/ church and state? Isn't it time to openly discuss this? Why are double standards allowed for Israel and for Zionists? However the US media does not want Americans to even think about these things, never mind discuss them! Certainly, the pro-Israel media does not want Americans to question our government's support of Zionist Israel. That is why there is never any mention in mainstream US media of the Israeli connection to 9-11 and other bombings around the World to the war on Iraq, to the so-called "war on terror", and to the subject of Israel's quest for oil. This intentional covering up by the Zionized US media of the Israeli connection to anything that impacts the US negatively has been going on for decades.

WHAT THE US MEDIA STILL HIDES ABOUT THE 1973 "OIL CRISIS"

And nothing proves to me that the US media has been covering for Israel and still covers for Israel (refusing to show the negative effect for Americans of the US government's "special relationship" with Israel) more than this article about the "oil crisis". Here is a specific case in point: Does anyone remember that time during 1973 when there was such an "oil crisis" that there were really long lines at all the gas stations and when gas was actually rationed out at the gas stations so that you could only get gas every other day, depending on whether or not your license plate ended in an even or an odd number? I do remember that time vividly. I didn't know why it was happening at the time, but I know exactly why now. And it's not because I got "enlightened" by the pro-Israel US media. Here is how this Sept. 21, 2004 Wall Street Journal article by Jeffrey Ball (who obviously passed the required litmus test of being pro-Israel enough to work in the US media) presented the "oil crisis" of 1973, in such a manner that still puts a veil of the Israeli connection to that event even today. Here is a direct quote: "Then in 1973, the Arab members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) tightened their spigots, and the World panicked. The result: high prices, long lines and frequent shortages at gas stations across the U.S. and Europe." There was exactly no mention of the context of why OPEC "tightened their spigots" in 1973. No mention at all.

Are you ready for the Israeli connection to this crisis that is almost uniformly covered up by the pro-Israel US media? Here it is: In 1973, Egypt went to war against Israel in order to win back the Sinai Peninsula, which Israel had stolen six years earlier in Israel's infamous pre-emptive "Six Day War" in 1967 against her neighboring countries. In that pre-emptive 1967 war, Israel not only stole the Sinai Peninsula from Egypt, but also part of southern Lebanon, which Israel has since relinquished, and the Golan Heights from Syria, which is still being occupied to this day by Israeli forces, as well as The Palestinian Territories: the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, now generally referred to as The Occupied Territories. Pro-Israel forces generally prefer to refer to the Occupied Territories as the "disputed territories". Egypt appeared to be winning its retaliatory war against Israel in 1973, so Golda Meir, the American-Israeli Prime Minister of Israel at the time, worked with American-Israeli Henry Kissinger to pressure the US government to come to Israel's rescue, which it did. Therefore in a show of solidarity with Egypt, the Arab countries of OPEC "tightened their spigots" of gas and oil for export to the U.S. There you have it: the real reason for the "oil crisis" of 1973. But the pro-Israel US media does not want Americans to realize that support for Israel has many negative effects on the lives of Americans, which includes potential politically induced "oil crises", such as was obviously the case in 1973. Pro-Israel forces in this country and around the World want to minimize the power of Arab countries which is mostly due to their oil resources. Therefore the pro-Israel forces are relying on the US government to directly control these resources primarily for Israel via wars, campaign contributions and a manipulative media. Pro-Israel people detest going to the gas station, because every time they pump gas into their cars, they angrily believe they are helping Arab Muslims ("terrorists"), whose land and resources Zionists view somehow as rightfully theirs. But of course, they don't want the non-Zionist or unaware-of-it-all Americans to resent their US government's support for Israel which can possibly mean paying more for gas in a future politically induced "oil crisis", as it did in 1973. Another example of the Israelization of America: have you been to the airports lately? The kinds of procedures at the US airports that you have been experiencing lately have always been the "norm" in Israel. This is a prime example of how Israel's "war to conquer Palestine" has SOMEHOW become America's "war on terror" and how it directly impacts the lives of Americans. The "war on terror" is NOT about democracy. It's an imperialistic war which will have no end if the Zionists (anyone who is pro-Israel) have their way, because it is unjust and breaks International Laws. There is another aspect of the Israeli connection to the war on Iraq, which many people wish to believe is all about oil for the US, rather than the Zionist ideology that is actually the driving force behind the push for a war on the entire Middle East, which began with Afghanistan, and moved onward to Iraq, and threatens to expand to Iran, Saudi Arabia, and even Syria, which is not an oil exporting country (which just goes to show once again: it's not just about the oil!)

PRO-ISRAEL FORCES WANT TO REDIRECT A PIPELINE GOING FROM IRAQ TO SYRIA TO GO TO HAIFA, ISRAEL: The fact that American-Israelis in our government are endeavoring to use the war on Iraq as a way for Israel to gain control over oil in the Middle East is rarely reported in the Zionized mainstream US mass media, however it has been reported in Jewish newspapers with Jewish readership as well as in Israeli papers. A case in point is the fact that American-Israelis in our government want to "re-open" or re-instate, the pipeline that used to exist between Iraq and Palestine, which is now specifically Haifa, Israel. When Israel was created in 1948, that pipeline was re-directed by Iraq to Syria. Now pro-Israel forces are actively seeking to cut off the pipeline to Syria and re-direct it to Haifa, Israel. For more information on this, please do a Google-search using such keywords such as "Iraq oil pipeline to Haifa Israel" and see what you come up with, or check out this link here <http://www.guardian.co.uk/Iraq/Story/0,2763,940250,00.html>. Just as Israel's connection to the war on Iraq has been kept out of the US mainstream mass media (as you may have noticed, Israel has not even been mentioned as one of our "allies" in the war on Iraq!), this choice nugget of information with regards to Israel's ambition to get a basically free supply of Iraqi oil is also kept out of view for the vast American public consumption. I could go on about all this (and, yes, there is much more) but I will stop here. You get the picture, I hope [from the above]. You won't get it from the Zionized US mainstream media.

THE REAL CROWN IS NOT THE QUEEN BUT THE BANKING DYNASTIES

Mark Owen (markowen10@hotmail.com) explains. There are two Crowns operant in England, one being Queen Elizabeth II. Although extremely wealthy, the Queen functions largely in a ceremonial capacity and serves to deflect attention away from the other Crown, who issues her marching orders through their control of the English Parliament. This other Crown is comprised of a committee of 12 banks headed by the Bank of England (House of Rothschild). They rule the World from the 677-acre, independent sovereign state known as The City of London, or simply 'The City.' The City is not a part of England, just as Washington is not a part of the USA. The City is referred to as the wealthiest square mile on earth and is presided over by a Lord Mayor who is appointed annually. When the Queen wishes to conduct business within the City, she is met by the Lord Mayor at Temple (Templar) Bar where she requests permission to enter this private, sovereign state. She then proceeds into the City walking several paces behind the Mayor. Her entourage may not be clothed in anything other than service uniforms. In the nineteenth century, 90% of the World's trade was carried by British ships controlled by the Crown. The other 10% of ships had to pay commissions to the Crown simply for the privilege of using the World's oceans. The Crown reaped billions in profits while operating under the protection of the British armed forces. This was not British commerce or British wealth, but the Crown's commerce and the Crown's wealth. As of 1850, author Frederick Morton estimated the Rothschild fortune to be in excess of $10 billion [today, the combined wealth of the banking dynasties is $300 trillion]. Today, the bonded indebtedness of the World is held by the Crown. The aforementioned Temple Bar is the juristic arm of the Crown and holds an exclusive monopoly on global legal fraud through their Bar Association franchises. The Temple Bar is comprised of four Inns of Court. They are; the Middle Temple, Inner Temple, Lincoln's Inn and Gray's Inn. The entry point to these closed secret societies is only to be found when one is called to their Bar. The Bar attorneys in the United States owe their allegiance and pledge their oaths to the Crown. All Bar Associations throughout the World are signatories and franchises to the International Bar Association located at the Inns of Court of the Crown Temple. The Inner Temple holds the legal system franchise by license that bleeds Canada and Great Britain white, while the Middle Temple has license to steal from America. To have the Declaration of Independence recognized internationally, Middle Templar King George III agreed in the Treaty of Paris of 1783 to establish the legal Crown entity of the incorporated United States, referred to internally as the Crown Temple States (Colonies). States spelled with a capital letter 'S,' denotes a legal entity of the Crown.

At least five Templar Bar Attorneys under solemn oath to the Crown, signed the American Declaration of Independence. This means that both parties were agents of the Crown. There is no lawful effect when a party signs as both the first and second parties. The Declaration was simply an internal memo circulating among private members of the Crown. Most Americans believe that they own their own land, but they have merely purchased real estate by contract. Upon fulfillment of the contract, control of the land is transferred by Warranty Deed. The Warranty Deed is only a 'color of title.' Color of Title is a semblance or appearance of title, but not title in fact or in law. The Warranty Deed cannot stand against the Land Patent. The Crown was granted Land Patents in North America by the King of England. Colonials rebelled at the usurious Crown taxes, and thus the Declaration of Independence was created to pacify the populace. Another ruse used to hoodwink natural persons is by enfranchisement. Those cards in your wallet bearing your name spelled in all capital letters means that you have been enfranchised and have the status of a corporation. A 'juristic personality' has been created, and you have entered into multi-variant agreements that place you in an equity relationship with the Crown. These invisible contracts include birth certificates, citizenship records, employment agreements, driver's licenses and bank accounts. It is perhaps helpful to note here that contracts do not now, nor have they ever had to be stated in writing in order to be enforceable by American judges. If it is written down, it is merely a written statement of the contract. Tax protestors and (the coming) draft resistors trying to renounce the parts of these contracts that they now disagree with will not profit by resorting to tort law (fairness) arguments as justification. Judges will reject these lines of defense as they have no bearing on contract law jurisprudence. Tort law governs grievances where no contract law is in effect.

These private agreements/contracts that bind us will always overrule the broad general clauses of the Constitution and Bill of Rights (the Constitution being essentially a renamed enactment of English common law). The Bill of Rights is viewed by the Crown as a 'bill of benefits,' conferred on us by them in anticipation of reciprocity (taxes). Protestors and resistors will also lose their cases by boasting of citizenship status. Citizenship is another equity agreement that we have with the Crown. And this is the very juristic contract that Federal judges will use to incarcerate them. In the words of former Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, "Equity is brutal, but we are merely enforcing agreements." The balance of Title 42, section 1981 of the Civil Rights Code states, ".citizens shall be subject to like punishment, pains, penalties, taxes, licenses, and exactions of every kind". What we view as citizenship, the Crown views as a juristic enrichment instrumentality. It also should be borne in mind that even cursory circulation or commercial use of Federal Reserve Notes effects an attachment of liability for the payment of the Crown's debt to the FED. This is measured by your taxable income. And to facilitate future asset-stripping, the end of the 14th amendment includes a state of debt hypothecation of the United States, wherein all enfranchised persons (that's you) can be held personally liable for the Crown's debt. The Crown views our participation in these contracts of commercial equity as being voluntary and that any gain accrued is taxable, as the gain wouldn't have been possible were it not for the Crown. They view the system of interstate banks as their own property. Any profit or gain experienced by anyone with a bank account (or loan, mortgage or credit card) carries with it - as an operation of law - the identical same full force and effect as if the Crown had created the gain. Bank accounts fall outside the umbrella of Fourth Amendment protection because a commercial contract is in effect and the Bill of Rights cannot be held to interfere with the execution of commercial contracts. The Crown also views bank account records as their own private property, pursuant to the bank contract that each of us signed and that none of us ever read.

The rare individual who actually reads the bank contract will find that they agreed to be bound by Title 26 and under section 7202 agreed not to disseminate any fraudulent tax advice. This written contract with the Crown also acknowledges that bank notes are taxable instruments of commerce. When we initially opened a bank account, another juristic personality was created. It is this personality (income and assets) that IRS agents are excising back to the Crown through taxation. A lot of ink is being spilled currently over Social Security. Possession of a Social Security Number is known in the Crown's lex as 'conclusive evidence' of our having accepted federal commercial benefits. This is another example of an equity relationship with the Crown. Presenting one's Social Security Number to an employer seals our status as taxpayers, and gives rise to liability for a reciprocal quid pro quo payment of taxes to the Crown. Through the Social Security Number we are accepting future retirement endowment benefits. Social Security is a strange animal. If you die, your spouse gets nothing, but rather, what would have gone to you is divided (forfeited) among other premium payers who haven't died yet. But the Crown views failure to reciprocate in any of these equity attachments as an act of defilement and will proceed against us with all due prejudice. For a person to escape the tentacles of the Crown octopus, a thorough going study of American jurisprudence is required. One would have to be deemed a 'stranger to the public trust,' forfeit all enfranchisement benefits and close all bank accounts, among other things. Citizenship would have to be made null and forfeit and the status of 'denizen' enacted. If there are any persons extant who have passed through this fire, I would certainly appreciate hearing from them.

How the Trillionaires Hide Their Wealth

Russian Researcher Koryagina: Shadow financial activities of $300 trillion are hanging over the planet. At any moment, they could fall on any stock exchange and cause panic and crash. The recent crisis in Southeast Asia, which touched Russia, was a rehearsal. So here is sufficient indication: (U.S.) $300 trillion of wealth is secretly controlled by an unspecified cabal of the World's richest families. The power of the Rothschild family was evidenced on 24 September 2002 when a helicopter touched down on the lawn of Waddesdon Manor, their ancestral home in Buckinghamshire, England. Out of the helicopter strode Warren Buffet, - touted as the second richest man in the World but really a lower ranking player- and Arnold Schwarzenegger (the gropinator), at that time a candidate for the Governorship of California. Also in attendance at this two day meeting of the World's most powerful businessmen and financiers hosted by Jacob Rothschild were James Wolfensohn, president of the World Bank and Nicky Oppenheimer, chairman of De Beers. Arnold went on to secure the governorship of one of the biggest economies on the planet a year later. That he should be initiated into the ruling class in the Rothschilds' English country manor suggests that the centre of gravity of the three hundred trillion dollar cartel is in the U.K. and Europe not the U.S.

(Photo shows Arnold Schwarzenegger flanked by Warren Buffet (to his right) and Jacob Rothschild (to his left) on the lawn of Waddesdon Manor; are they planning further looting of California after the well-orchestrated Enron-Energy crisis? Read the Greg Palast interview with Alex Jones http://www.infowars.com/print/nwo/exclusive_arnold.htm)

A recent article in the London Financial Times indicates why it is impossible to gain an accurate estimate of the wealth of the trillionaire banking elite. Discussing the sale of Evelyn Rothschild's stake in Rothschild Continuation Holdings, it states: ...[this] requires agreement on the valuation of privately held assets whose value has never been tested in a public market. Most of these assets are held in a complex network of tax-efficient structures around the World.

Queen Elizabeth II's shareholdings remain hidden behind Bank of England Nominee accounts. The Guardian newspaper reported in May 2002 ... "the reason for the wild variations in valuations of her private wealth can be pinned on the secrecy over her portfolio of share investments. This is because her subjects have no way of knowing through a public register of interests where she, as their head of state, chooses to invest her money. Unlike the members of the Commons and now the Lords, the Queen does not have to annually declare her interests and as a result her subjects cannot question her or know about potential conflicts of interests..." In fact, the Queen even has an extra mechanism to ensure that her investments remain secret - a nominee company called the Bank of England Nominees. It has been available for decades to the entire World's current heads of state to allow them anonymity when buying shares. Therefore, when a company publishes a share register and the Bank of England Nominees is listed, it is not possible to gauge whether the Queen, President Bush or even Saddam Hussein is the true shareholder.

By this method, the trillionaire masters of the universe remain hidden whilst Forbes magazine poses lower ranking billionaires like Bill Gates and Warren Buffett as the richest men in the World. Retired management consultant Gaylon Ross Sr, author of Who's Who of the Global Elite, has been tipped from a private source that the combined wealth of the Rockefeller family in 1998 was approximately (U.S.) $11 trillion and the Rothschilds (U.S.) $100 trillion. However something of an insider's knowledge of the hidden wealth of the elite is contained in the article, "Will the Dollar and America Fall Down on August 19?.." on page 1 of the 12th July 2001 issue of Russian newspaper Pravda. The newspaper interviewed Tatyana Koryagina, a senior research fellow in the Institute of Macroeconomic Researches subordinated to the Russian Ministry of Economic Development (Minekonom) on the subject of a recent conference concerning the fate of the U.S. economy:

Koryagina: The known history of civilization is merely the visible part of the iceberg. There is a shadow economy, shadow politics and also a shadow history, known to conspirologists. There are [unseen] forces acting in the World, unstoppable for [most powerful] countries and even continents.

Pravda: Just these forces intend to smash America on August 19?

Koryagina: There are international "super-state" and "super-government" groups. In accordance with tradition, the mystical and religious components play extremely important roles in human history. One must take into account the shadow economy, shadow politics and the religious component, while predicting the development of the present financial situation.

Ashley Mote (EU): "Mr President, I wish to draw your attention to the Global Security Fund, set up in the early 1990s under the auspices of Jacob Rothschild. This is a Brussels-based fund and it is no ordinary fund: it does not trade, it is not listed and it has a totally different purpose. It is being used for geopolitical engineering purposes, apparently under the guidance of the intelligence services." "I have previously asked about the alleged involvement of the European Union's own intelligence resources in the management of slush funds in offshore accounts, and I still await a reply. To that question I now add another: what are the European Union's connections to the Global Security Fund and what relationship does it have with European Union institutions?" Recently, Ashley Mote of the European Union (EU) asked this volatile question in a public EU meeting, a question never answered, as Mr. Mote, merely by asking this question, was immediately scratched from the White House Christmas card list and placed on its top ten hit list. The Illuminati's cash cow, grazing freely on the World wide pasture of greenbacks, isn't called "Elsie" but instead is called the Global Security Fund, a name actually meaning in the secret cult's language Global Terrorist Fund. In simple terms, it's a gigantic illegal trust fund, estimated by undercover overseas financial investigators at 65 trillion dollars, set-up for "Illuminati rainy days" and established when it is desperately needed in a pinch for bribery, assassinations and sponsoring World wide terrorist activities to divert attention from their banking mafia. Although the fund is cloaked in secrecy and made possible by the Western civilization's Federal Reserve banking system, investigators trying to pry into the Illuminati's secret treasure trove have uncovered some interesting facts.

Before looking at some of the startling information behind how the "Illuminati banksters" create money out of thin air, ask why the 1968 Minnesota Trial Court's decision holding the Federal Reserve Act unconstitutional and void and holding the National Banking Act unconstitutional and void was never appealed or vacated? The answer is even the legal manipulators and corrupted high court judges can't get around this decision, figuring it better to just let the case of the First National Bank of Montgomery v. Jerome Daly die in the cold Minnesota snow along with Justice Martin V. Mahoney who was found suspiciously poisoned to death six months after he issued the ruling that exposed the illegality of what has been called the Queen of England's illegal banking scam. This decision, which is still good law, has the effect of declaring all private mortgages on real and personal property, and all U.S. and State bonds held by the Federal Reserve, National and State Banks to void. According to legal scholars and Bill Drexler, who worked on the case with Judge Mahoney, "This amounts to an emancipation of this nation from personal, national and State debt purportedly owed to this banking system. Every True American owes it to himself/herself, to his or her country, and to the people of the World for that matter, to study this decision very carefully and to understand it, for upon it hangs the question of freedom or slavery." Saying this was the most important jury decision of modern times, Drexler who was present in the Minnesota courtroom the day the decision came down, added: "The banker testified about the mortgage loan given to Jerome Daly, but then Daly cross examined the banker about the creating of money "out of thin air," and the banker admitted that this was standard banking practice. When Justice Mahoney heard the banker testify that he could "create money out of thin air," Mahoney said, "It sounds like fraud to me." I looked at the faces of the jurors, and they were all agreeing with Mahoney by shaking their heads and by the looks on their faces." "Both Jerome Daly and Justice Martin V. Mahoney are truly the greatest men that I have ever had the pleasure to meet. The Credit River Decision was and still is the most important legal decision ever decided by a Jury." Daly, a small town mortgage holder who had taken on and defeated the Federal Reserve Banking System and money lenders, had this to say about the decision the Illuminati big shots kill for, as well as making any enterprising young lawyer think twice about tackling the Federal Reserve.

The following is Daly's own written statement about Judge Mahoney's 1968 ruling: "The above Judgment was entered by the Court on December 9, 1968. The issue there was simple - Nothing in the law gave the Banks the right to create money on their books. The Bank filed a Notice of Appeal within 10 days. The Appeals statutes must be strictly followed, otherwise the District Court does not acquire Jurisdiction upon Appeal. To effect the Appeal the Bank had to deposit $2.00 with the Clerk within 10 days for payment to the Justice when he made his return to the District Court. The Bank deposited two $1.00 Federal Reserve Notes. "The Justice refused the Notes and refused to allow the Appeal upon the grounds that the Notes were unlawful and void for any purpose. The Decision is addressed to the legality of these Notes and the Federal Reserve System. The Cases of Edwards v. Kearney and Craig vs Missouri set out in the decision should be studied very carefully as they bear on the inviolability of Contracts. This is the Crux of the whole issue. Jerome Daly. "Justice Mahoney denied the use of Federal Reserve Notes, since they represent debt instruments, not true money, from being used to pay for the appeal process itself. In order to get this overturned, since the bank's appeal without the payment being recognized was out of time, it would have required that the Bank of Montgomery, Minnesota bring a Title 42, Section 1983 action against the judicial act of Justice Mahoney for a violation of the Constitution of the United States under color of law or authority, and if successful, have the case remanded back to him to either retry the case or allow the appeal to go through. "But the corrupt individuals behind the bank(s) were unable to ever elicit such a decision from any federal court due to the fact that because of their vile hatred for him and what he had done to them and their little Queen's Scheme, had him murdered (same as them murdering him) just about 6 months later. And so, the case stands, just as it was. "Amazingly, if they hadn't been so arrogant about the value of their federal reserve notes and paid the Justice just 2 measly silver dollars, or else 4 measly half dollars, or else 8 measly quarters, or else 20 measly dimes, or else 40 measly nickels, or else 200 measly pennies, they could have had their appeal and would not have had to get blood on their hands. "As it is, they are now known for their bloody ways, and the day will come when the American people will reap vengeance upon them for such a heinous and villainous act. Amen."

Now almost 40 years later, the Illuminati banksters are still creating trillions out of thin air, keeping the American people and the western World in bondage and what amounts to financial slavery. However, one man who may hold the key to exposing much of the illegal banking fraud and recently released from a 20 year jail term, is former Russian and CIA operative, Ambassador Leo Emil Wanta. Although unavailable for comment at the time of publication but according to another European bank fraud investigator, Marco Saba, Wanta has been released "to active duty" and is holding 25 USD trillion in foreign bank accounts and money that needs to the U.S. Treasury Department. "I am trying to help him to accomplish this operation," said Saba Wednesday from his home in Milan, Italy. In a valiant attempt to get at the root of the Illuminati's global slush fund, author Christopher Story's work shines a brilliant light on the Illuminati's shady and dark financial underWorld. However, when the mainstream press in England and America were alerted about Story's findings, management at a leading London newspaper had this to say about printing the financial exposé: "We won't touch this subject with a thousand-foot barge pole!" But Saba who is investigating the shady financial trail for the Observatory of Organized Crime in Switzerland had this to say about his investigation as well as highlighting Story's findings: "In 1992, the Illuminati orchestrated the raising of a targeted $27.5 trillion from at least 200 international institutions, in the biggest, secretive private placement financing operation in World history. The mainstream media unfortunately failed to report this operation so the general public is ignorant of it. The aim was to provide finance for the imposition of the New World Order, a.k.a., the New UnderWorld Order, for its use throughout the 21st century. "The euphemism for this program is the "global security environment". The consequent monumental "Global Security Fund", which is managed in Brussels, and is directed on behalf of the global Illuminati controller's by financial intelligence operatives, now disposes of secret financial resources of approximately $65 trillion for this purpose, probably far more. "Equipped with such limitless resources, the directors of the New UnderWorld Order have now amassed sufficient finance to bribe every leader, ruler, policymaker, intelligence operative and political figure Worldwide, for the rest of this century, in pursuit of their aims. The New UnderWorld Order addresses the greatest crisis the World has ever faced namely, the globalization of criminalism. What this means is that governments, and the revolutionary New World Order cabal seeking global governance (or control), are increasingly in the hands of criminal gangs and corrupt power cliques that hide behind formal government positions. "Many of the main Illuminati figures on the World stage today are compromised or vulnerable to blackmail and other "Black Ops" forms of control. During the giga-fund-raising operation, truly unbelievable sums of money were stolen, mis-routed or misappropriated. Indeed, the ransacking and pillaging that took place was so colossal, and the impasse while this was occurring so extended (in 1989-91), that the international banking and financial systems nearly collapsed. Other funding resources resulting from creative financial warfare and scamming operations are hidden in accounts held by offshore corporations controlled by international intelligence, which is extensively criminalized and thus increasingly engaged in mafia-style global gangland warfare. "A brilliant light is focused by the Author into this contemporary universe of darkness. Christopher Story's sensational new exposé provides chapter and verse on the dark forces behind the New UnderWorld Order, gives detailed financial audit trails showing where and how colossal sums have vanished, identifies the international institutions that have had their trust abused by globalist criminals or have themselves been corrupted by them, shows how secret Financial Warfare operations and scams conducted by the great powers are driving the World to catastrophe, and generally lifts the veil covering the global financial intelligence war which the pressured mainstream media declines to monitor and report. So exposure of these matters is obviously overdue and the New UnderWorld Order performs this needed forensic function, revealing dark actors playing games."

The Illuminati's additional slush fund is estimated at $65 Trillion. The illegal Federal Reserve is At Heart Of Problem As Minnesota Judge alleged and was Poisoned In 1969 After Ruling Against Corrupt Banksters. The New UnderWorld Order's bank accounts are used for bribery, murder and corruption World wide as private Illuminati-controlled bankers make money out of thin air. European investigators trying to trace the illegal funds, say the Illuminati's Global Security Fund needs to be stopped and is the difference between freedom and slavery in America. 23 Mar 2006 By Greg Szymanski <http://www.arcticbeacon.com/23-Mar-2006.html> . For more informative articles and information on the Federal Reserve banking system fraud and slavery, go to www.arcticbeacon.com <http://www.rense.com/general70/cash.htm> .

Iran's Planned Euro-Oil Bourse Could Cause Collapse of the Empire of Debt

Iran recently announced that the Bourse's opening has been delayed indefinitely.

There is a misconception in the idea that every common man can get rich without actually working by merely investing in the market by handing it over to Wall Street, and that through some magic never fully described, it comes back to him ten fold. There must be some science to it, he imagines, some wisdom that investment geniuses came up with years ago that - like penicillin or quinine - is now available to him. The truth is that the whole edifice of Wall Street is built on a hollow wish: that you can get something for nothing. From barely 100 following the crash of 1929, the Dow is now over 10,000. Who can doubt the tendency is up? Yet, adjusted for consumer price inflation, the Dow is only about 500, and most of that increase is merely cyclical. Gold was $20/ounce in 1929 and today it is about $550/ounce. Dollars are leaking purchasing power every day. Now, let's look at the effect on the Empire of Dollar Debt if countries start trading oil in Euros as explained by Krassimir Petrov, Ph.D. who shows that: the proposed Iranian Oil Bourse will accelerate the fall of the Dollar Empire.

A nation-state taxes its own citizens, while an empire taxes other nation-states. The history of empires, from Greek and Roman, to Ottoman and British, teaches that the economic foundation of every single empire is the taxation of other nations. The imperial ability to tax has always rested on a better and stronger economy to begin with, and then as a consequence, a better and stronger military with which to enforce its will either covertly or overtly. One part of the subject taxes went to improve the living standards of the empire; the other part went to strengthen the military dominance necessary to enforce the collection of those taxes. Meanwhile, an empire of debt was built. Historically, taxing the subject state has been in various forms-usually gold and silver, where those were considered money, but also slaves, cheap and jail labor, soldiers, crops, cattle, or other agricultural and natural resources, whatever economic goods the empire demanded and the subject-state could deliver. Historically, imperial taxation has always been direct: the subject state handed over the economic goods directly to the empire, and sometimes in exchange for paper money. The people benefiting the most from this are the BankLords and the neo-fascist feudal lords, i.e. lords of large monopolistic corporations referred to as the "Industrial-Military-Congressional Complex" by President Eisenhower in 1961.

For the first time in history, in the twentieth century, America was able to tax the World indirectly, through inflation. It did not enforce the direct payment of taxes like all of its predecessor empires did, but distributed instead its own fiat currency, the U.S. Dollar, to other nations in exchange for goods with the intended consequence of inflating and devaluing those dollars and paying back later each dollar with less economic goods-the difference capturing the U.S. imperial tax. Here is how this happened. Early in the 20th century, the U.S. economy began to dominate the World economy. The U.S. dollar was tied to gold, so that the value of the dollar neither increased, nor decreased, but remained the same amount of gold. The Great Depression, with its preceding inflation from 1921 to 1929 and its subsequent ballooning government deficits, had substantially increased the amount of currency in circulation, and thus rendered the backing of U.S. dollars by gold impossible. Roosevelt confiscated all American gold on behalf of the owners of the Federal Reserve Banks and then decoupled the dollar from gold in 1932. Up to this point, the U.S. may have well dominated the World economy, but from an economic point of view, it was not an empire. The relatively fixed value of the dollar (in 1913, it was $20/ounce, in 1932 it was the same before confiscation and then jumped to $35/ounce after confiscation) did not allow the Americans to extract economic benefits from other countries by supplying them with dollars convertible to gold.

Economically, the American Empire was born with Bretton Woods in 1945. The U.S. dollar was not fully convertible to gold, but was made convertible to gold only to foreign governments. This established the dollar as the reserve currency of the World. It was possible, because during WWII, the United States had supplied its allies with provisions, demanding gold as payment, thus accumulating significant portion of the World's gold. The Marshall plan was also designed to make Europe and Japan dependent on the Dollar. An Empire would not have been possible if, following the Bretton Woods arrangement, the dollar supply was kept limited and within the availability of gold, so as to fully exchange back dollars for gold. However, the guns-and-butter policy of the 1960's was an imperial one: the dollar supply was relentlessly increased to finance Vietnam and LBJ's Great Society. Most of those dollars were handed over to foreigners in exchange for economic goods, without the prospect of buying them back at the same value. The increase in dollar holdings of foreigners via persistent U.S. trade deficits was tantamount to a tax-the classical inflation tax that a country imposes on its own citizens, this time around an inflation tax that U.S. imposed on rest of the World.

When in 1970-1971 foreigners demanded payment for their dollars in gold, The U.S. Government defaulted on its payment on August 15, 1971. While the popular spin told the story of "severing the link between the dollar and gold", in reality the denial to pay back in gold was an act of bankruptcy by the U.S. Government. Essentially, the U.S. declared itself an Empire. It had extracted an enormous amount of economic goods from the rest of the World, with no intention or ability to return those goods, and the World was powerless to respond - the World was taxed and it could not do anything about it. At the same time, the US agreed to the formation of OPEC in exchange of backing the US dollar with the oil trade (i.e. exchange dollars for oil instead of gold). From that point on, to sustain the American Empire and to continue to tax the rest of the World, the United States had to force the World to continue to accept ever-depreciating dollars in exchange for economic goods and to have the World hold more and more of those depreciating dollars. It had to give the World an economic reason to hold them, and that reason was oil. In 1971, as it became clearer and clearer that the U.S. Government would not be able to buy back its dollars in gold, it made in 1972-73 an iron-clad arrangement with Saudi Arabia to support the power of the House of Saud in exchange for accepting only U.S. dollars for its oil. The rest of OPEC was to follow suit and also accept only dollars. Because the World had to buy oil from the Arab oil countries, it had the reason to hold dollars as payment for oil. Because the World needed ever increasing quantities of oil at ever increasing oil prices, the World's demand for dollars could only increase. Even though dollars could no longer be exchanged for gold, they were now exchangeable for oil.

The economic essence of this arrangement was that the dollar was now backed by oil. As long as that was the case, the World had to accumulate increasing amounts of dollars, because they needed those dollars to buy oil. As long as the dollar was the only acceptable payment for oil, its dominance in the World was assured, and the American Empire could continue to tax the rest of the World. If, for any reason, the dollar lost its oil backing, the American Empire would cease to exist. Thus, Imperial survival dictated that oil be sold only for dollars. It also dictated that oil reserves were spread around various sovereign states that weren't strong enough, politically or militarily, to demand payment for oil in something else. If someone demanded a different payment, he had to be convinced, either by political pressure or military means, to change his mind. The man that actually did demand Euro for his oil was Saddam Hussein in 2000. At first, his demand was met with ridicule, later with neglect, but as it became clearer that he meant business, political pressure was exerted to change his mind. When other countries, like Iran, wanted payment in other currencies, most notably Euro and Yen, the danger to the dollar was clear and present, and a punitive action was in order. Bush's Shock-and-Awe in Iraq was not about Saddam's nuclear capabilities, about defending human rights, about spreading democracy, or even about seizing oil fields; it was about defending the dollar, ergo the American Empire. It was about setting an example that anyone who demanded payment in currencies other than U.S. Dollars would be likewise punished.

Many have criticized Bush for staging the war in Iraq in order to seize Iraqi oil fields. However, those critics can't explain why Bush would want to seize those fields-he could simply print dollars for nothing and use them to get all the oil in the World that he needs. He must have had some other reason to invade Iraq. History teaches that an empire should go to war for one of two reasons: (1) to defend itself or (2) benefit from war; if not, as Paul Kennedy illustrates in his magisterial The Rise and Fall of the Great Powers, a military overstretch will drain its economic resources and precipitate its collapse. Economically speaking, in order for an empire to initiate and conduct a war, its benefits must outweigh its military and social costs. Benefits from Iraqi oil fields are hardly worth the long-term, multi-year military cost. Instead, Bush must have gone into Iraq to defend his Empire. Indeed, this is the case: two months after the United States invaded Iraq, the Oil for Food Program was terminated, the Iraqi Euro accounts were switched back to dollars, and oil was sold once again only for U.S. dollars. No longer could the World buy oil from Iraq with Euro. Global dollar supremacy was once again restored. Bush descended victoriously from a fighter jet and declared the mission accomplished-he had successfully defended the U.S. dollar, and thus the American Empire.

The Iranian government has finally developed the ultimate "nuclear" weapon that can swiftly destroy the financial system underpinning the American Empire. That weapon is the Iranian Oil Bourse that was slated to open in March 2006 but has been postponed for 3 years it seems. It will be based on a Euro-oil-trading mechanism that naturally implies payment for oil in Euro. In economic terms, this represents a much greater threat to the hegemony of the dollar than Saddam's, because it will allow anyone willing either to buy or to sell oil for Euro to transact on the exchange, thus circumventing the U.S. dollar altogether. If so, then it is likely that almost everyone will eagerly adopt this Euro oil system: The Europeans will not have to buy and hold dollars in order to secure their payment for oil, but would instead pay with their own currencies. The adoption of the euro for oil transactions will provide the European currency with a reserve status that will benefit the European at the expense of the Americans. The Chinese and the Japanese will be especially eager to adopt the new exchange, because it will allow them to drastically lower their enormous dollar reserves and diversify with Euros, thus protecting themselves against the depreciation of the dollar. One portion of their dollars they will still want to hold onto; a second portion of their dollar holdings they may decide to dump outright; a third portion of their dollars they will decide to use up for future payments without replenishing those dollar holdings, but building up instead their Euro reserves.

The Russians have inherent economic interest in adopting the Euro - the bulk of their trade is with European countries, with oil-exporting countries, with China, and with Japan . Adoption of the Euro will immediately take care of the first two blocs, and will over time facilitate trade with China and Japan. Also, the Russians seemingly detest holding depreciating dollars, for they have recently found a new religion with gold. Russians have also revived their nationalism, and if embracing the Euro will stab the Americans, they will gladly do it and smugly watch the Americans bleed. The Arab oil-exporting countries will eagerly adopt the Euro as a means of diversifying against rising mountains of depreciating dollars. Just like the Russians, their trade is mostly with European countries, and therefore will prefer the European currency both for its stability and for avoiding currency risk, not to mention their jihad against the Infidel Enemy. Only the British will find themselves between a rock and a hard place. They have had a strategic partnership with the U.S. forever, but have also had their natural pull from Europe. So far, they have had many reasons to stick with the winner. However, when they see their century-old partner falling, will they firmly stand behind him or will they deliver the coup de grace? Still, we should not forget that currently the two leading oil exchanges are the New York's NYMEX and the London's International Petroleum Exchange (IPE), even though both of them are effectively owned by the Americans. It seems more likely that the British will have to go down with the sinking ship, for otherwise they will be shooting themselves in the foot by hurting their own London IPE interests. It is here noteworthy that for all the rhetoric about the reasons for the surviving British Pound, the British most likely did not adopt the Euro namely because the Americans must have pressured them not to: otherwise the London IPE would have had to switch to Euros, thus mortally wounding the dollar and their strategic partner.

At any rate, no matter what the British decide, should the Iranian Oil Bourse accelerate, the interests that matter-those of Europeans, Chinese, Japanese, Russians, and Arabs-will eagerly adopt the Euro, thus sealing the fate of the dollar. Americans cannot allow this to happen, and if necessary, will use a vast array of strategies to halt or hobble the operation's exchange:

- Sabotaging the Exchange-this could be a computer virus, network, communications, or server attack, various server security breaches, or a 9-11-type attack on main and backup facilities.
- Coup d'état-this is by far the best long-term strategy available to the Americans.
- Negotiating Acceptable Terms & Limitations-this is another excellent solution to the Americans. Of course, a government coup is clearly the preferred strategy, for it will ensure that the exchange does not operate at all and does not threaten American interests. However, if an attempted sabotage or coup d'état fails, then negotiation is clearly the second-best available option.
- Joint U.N. War Resolution-this will be, no doubt, hard to secure given the interests of all other member-states of the Security Council. Feverish rhetoric about Iranians developing nuclear weapons undoubtedly serves to prepare this course of action.
- Unilateral Nuclear Strike-this is a terrible strategic choice for all the reasons associated with the next strategy, the Unilateral Total War. The Americans will likely use Israel to do their dirty nuclear job.
- Unilateral Total War-this is obviously the worst strategic choice. First, the U.S. military resources have been already depleted with two wars. Secondly, the Americans will further alienate other powerful nations. Third, major dollar-holding countries may decide to quietly retaliate by dumping their own mountains of dollars, thus preventing the U.S. from further financing its militant ambitions. Finally, Iran has strategic alliances with other powerful nations that may trigger their involvement in war; Iran reputedly has such alliance with China, India, and Russia, known as the Shanghai Cooperative Group, a.k.a. Shanghai Coop and a separate pact with Syria.

Whatever the strategic choice, from a purely economic point of view, should the Iranian Oil Bourse gain momentum, it will be eagerly embraced by major economic powers and will precipitate the demise of the dollar. The collapsing dollar will dramatically accelerate U.S. inflation and will pressure upward U.S. long-term interest rates. At this point, the Fed will find itself between Scylla and Charybdis-between deflation and hyperinflation-it will be forced fast either to take its "classical medicine" by deflating, whereby it raises interest rates, thus inducing a major economic depression, a collapse in real estate, and an implosion in bond, stock, and derivative markets, with a total financial collapse, or alternatively, to take the Weimar way out by inflating, whereby it pegs the long-bond yield, raises the Helicopters and drowns the financial system in liquidity, bailing out numerous LTCMs and hyperinflating the economy. The Austrian theory of money, credit, and business cycles teaches us that there is no in-between Scylla and Charybdis. Sooner or later, the monetary system must swing one way or the other, forcing the Fed to make its choice. No doubt, Commander-in-Chief Ben Bernanke, a renowned scholar of the Great Depression and an adept Black Hawk pilot, will choose inflation. Helicopter Ben, oblivious to Rothbard's America's Great Depression, has nonetheless mastered the lessons of the Great Depression and the annihilating power of deflations. The Maestro has taught him the panacea of every single financial problem-to inflate, come hell or high water. He has even taught the Japanese his own ingenious unconventional ways to battle the deflationary liquidity trap. Like his mentor, he has dreamed of battling a Kondratieff Winter. To avoid deflation, he will resort to the printing presses; he will recall all helicopters from the 800 overseas U.S. military bases; and, if necessary, he will monetize everything in sight. His ultimate accomplishment will be the hyperinflationary destruction of the American currency and from its ashes will rise the next reserve currency of the World (maybe gold or oil or the Euro?). Recommended Reading William Clark "The Real Reasons for the Upcoming War in Iraq" & "The Real Reasons Why Iran is the Next Target". The Zionist plans go hand in hand with this.

Further Evidence Of Banlords' Approach To World Power

Mention is made of the association of the Group (where politicians get their orders from the Illuminati Banksters), The Council on Foreign Relations, and the Trilateral Commission, (on which banks and governments meet). In Sand, Baden Baden, Germany, in June 1991, David Rockefeller addressed a reunion of these three élites with largely overlapping membership: "We are grateful to the Washington Post, the New York Times, Time magazine and other great publications whose directors have attended our union and have respected their promises of discretion for almost four decades... it would not have been possible to develop our World project if we had been subjected to the full fire of publicity all these years The supranational sovereignty of an intellectual élite and of World Bankers is surely preferable to the self-determination which has been practised for centuries past."

Debt Creation In History

It often helps us to understand something if we examine origins. Throughout recorded history the practice of usury (Latin usus meaning "used" and the word usuria which means demanding in return for a loan a greater amount than was borrowed), along with the practice of giving false measure, has been condemned. Aristotle and Plato in ancient Greece denounced it as well as prophets in the Old Testament and early Christians. Yashua-Joshua-Jesus, it should be remembered, drove usurers out of the Temple in Jerusalem and this played a part in bringing about his apparent crucifixion by the Roman Pharisee King Pailatoos (Pilates). Buddhists have condemned it and the Quran does so as well (and probably other religious and non-religious books). While the old usurers at least lent their own money, the modern ones, the Bankers, are able to create it out of nothing.

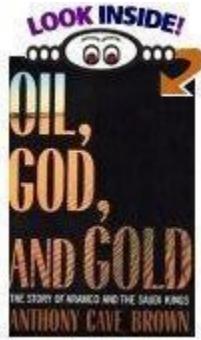

While credit in the form of paper money was known in the Far East a long time ago, it came to Europe in the Middle Ages. Its actual creation out of nothing was evolved in the following way. The old feudal system did not have much concern with money but with the Crusades discovering Asian wealth and the Renaissance revealing Latin and Greek culture there came about the desire for a more luxurious and artistic way of life, particularly so in Italy. Gold, as the medium of exchange then, became all important and commercialism developed. With the divided state of Italy then, so did robbery flourish. Holding gold and also carrying it around for trade brought anxiety to the merchants owing to the possibility of raids. However, as the goldsmiths of the time had strong vaults in the centres of walled towns, the merchants took to leaving their gold with the goldsmiths and receiving receipts in return. They found these receipts fully suitable for trading and rarely needed any gold.

The next step occurred when someone wanted money, say, to equip a ship to go to the Indies for spices (a much needed commodity) or, perhaps, a city state needed to employ mercenaries, and approached the goldsmiths for funds. The latter may have supplied gold initially but soon lent receipts instead. Thus there were two lots of receipts for one lot of gold. The goldsmiths were able to repeat this, collecting interest each time, and later standardised these receipts into regular formalised notes; thus credit was created - out of nothing! The role of the goldsmiths was later taken over by banking institutions. People including state officials, were invited to store their money and other portable wealth with them; this gave an atmosphere of security but the main business was the new usury - lending money created by figures on paper. One of the great banking houses was that of the Medici family who eventually became rulers of Florence with the titles as Dukes of Tuscany, and provided two popes and a queen of France. The family had originally been alchemists involved in medicine and their emblem of three gold-leaf covered pills is now the sign of a pawnbroker. Banking spread all over Europe but particularly in North Germany and Holland, spreading into Britain which already had a banking fraternity from Lombardy. When coal and iron was discovered in America banking took hold there and now it is strong in East Asia.

Summary By Wilfrid Price (Deceased)

I hope that I have proved beyond all possible doubt that there is a fraudulent usury operating throughout the World, that the people produce the real wealth through their farms, workshops, factories, offices, transport, etc., i.e., the goods and services in the shops and warehouses, yet we have a parasitic group of banks and financial houses that create money based on all this real wealth and load the communities with huge cheating debts created out of empty air. Does it require much imagination to see that this usury cripples the economy of the World as a whole? Technically advanced nations are continually held up from carrying out worthwhile projects though there is plenty of man-power, materials and equipment to do so. Can anyone argue that, if a thing is physically possible then it automatically should be financially possible? However, the environment is being destroyed, especially in the Third World. Does anybody doubt that being able to create money out of nothing, as well as knowing everyone's financial state gives the big banks tremendous power? I hope the evidence I have given in this paper added to natural deduction should make every reader certain about it. There is evidence that the banks are heading towards a World totalitarian state which is probably why they helped the political totalitarians, Lenin and Hitler, to succeed.

The Bankers have had some hundreds of years to learn how to hold on to power. They do it by their ability to keep in the background -to be the 'power behind the throne' in fact, though it has to be demonstrated to people in high places at times. They back opposing political factions and they get their agents into businesses, political parties, religious bodies, organisations like the Bilderberg Club, CFR, PNAC, Masons, trade unions, in fact in any sizeable body. In the British Parliamentary system the three parties have been well penetrated. Nobody who thinks would deny that the Tories are controlled by the City, but there is reason to believe that the same has happened with the Liberal Democrats and the Labour Party. The banks hold 'Bilderberger' meetings, so-called because they first took place at the Bilderberger Hotel in Holland. Tony Blair, Gordon Brown, and others in the Labour Party have attended them. There is also the 'Trilateral' association between Bankers and governments, and one or two others.

In short, in the Western states there is not real democracy, but plutocracies disguised as democracies and all going towards a World totalitarian system. There is a policy to combat this evil. It is called Social Credit (collateral in the People's hands rather than in the BankLords' hands); this contends that every country should have full control over its own money system with the creation of credit solely exercised by public bodies responsible to the elected governments of each country.

To pay this in gold at the rate of 1.5 grams of gold to the pound sterling, using it in spheres of pure gold the size of the planet earth, would take: 610,070,000,000,000,000 such spheres to pay the debt. Source: "Lincoln Money Martyred", By Dr. R.E. Search. Omni Publications Hawthorne, California. 1935 (Reprinted 1977)

Finally "In a World of PLENTY, there is no need for POVERTY and [INTEREST] DEBT. We have the technology to feed, house and clothe all people on EARTH without destroying our environment. Whatever is physically possible and socially desirable can be made financially possible. This is EVERYONES CONCERN and it is URGENT." Found in "The Social Crediter" September/October 1993 Volume 72 No. 5 Edinburgh

Affidavit That The Bankers Won't Sign (they won't sign it!)

The undersigned affiant, being duly sworn on oath, deposes and says: That he/she is an officer of the below named financial institution, a nationally chartered commercial bank or lending institution or organization purchasing promissory notes, hereinafter called bank. That, as an officer of the bank, he/she has the authority to execute this affidavit on behalf of the bank and to bind the bank to its provisions. It is understood that an exchange is not a loan. It is understood that the borrower's promissory note is not used to fund any check. It is understood that the bank does not record the promissory note as a bank asset offset by a bank liability. It is understood the bank complies with and follows the Federal Reserve Bank's policies and procedures. It is understood that the bank does not use the same or a similar bookkeeping entry to record the promissory note as a loan to the bank. It is understood that when banks participate in granting loans the economic effect is not the same or similar to stealing, counterfeiting, or a swindle. Banks who follow the Federal Reserve Bank's policies and procedures deny customers neither equal protection under the law, nor money, nor credit. The bank fully discloses to each and every borrower all material facts concerning if the borrower provided the funds to issue the bank loan check or if other depositors or investors fund the bank loan check. It is understood that the one who funded the loan should be repaid their money. It is understood that cash is the money and a bank liability indicates that the bank owes cash. I agree that if I have made a false statement regarding bank loans, then any and all loans or alleged loans issued or purchased at the bank are forgiven, without recourse, and shall immediately be considered null and void. Signed under penalty of perjury.

Signature of Bank Officer _____

Print Name of Bank Officer _____

Name of Bank: _____

Address of Bank: _____

City/State/Zip: _____

Sworn to and subscribed before me this _____ day of _____, 20_____

Signature of Notary Public _____

PRIMARY QUESTIONS

1. Does the bank raise an asset to itself, in addition to the liability?
2. Was this disclosed in the contract?
3. Was I compensated for the bank using my note, and my signature, to raise this asset to the bank?
4. Was this account containing the asset for the bank, opened before the bank received my note?
5. When I pay off the loan, who gets the asset the bank raised to itself, with my note?

QUESTIONS DERIVED FROM PRIMARY QUESTIONS

6. Is there fraud Here?
7. If there is fraud here, what are the damages?
8. Was there inducement? (Advertising, Solicitation)
9. What does the note represent? (Your promise to pay)
10. Where will you derive the funds to pay? (From your labor)
11. Is your labor, your property? (Duh!)
12. How many years will you be paying on this note? (5, 10, 15, 30)
13. What is the interest rate? (8%, 10%, 12%)
14. Is that interest rate compounded annually, monthly, weekly, or daily?
15. What is the actual rate of interest? (25-50%)
16. Does this violate the Usury Laws? (12% or higher annual interest rate)
17. Was this disclosed in the contract as required by the Federal Usury Disclosure Act?
18. Did the bank raise an asset to itself on your hand written name? (Without your knowledge and consent)
19. Did the bank use the note first (before) you received your loan, to raise the funds for the loan? (Did they sell it, or use it for collateral for a loan from another institution)
20. Does this make the note a negotiable instrument? (Tendering a future earnings instrument for consideration to a third party and endorsing, "without recourse.")
21. Did the bank properly apply the proceeds from your note to the purported debt?
22. What did the bank do with those proceeds? (Look at the building)
23. Who else is deriving a benefit from your note, (and hand written name) without your knowledge or consent?
24. Have you been damaged?

ELEMENTS OF MONETARY REFORM (Who control the creation of CREDIT MONEY control World)

Please visit <http://www.monetary.org/> American Monetary Institute. A policy change against allowing private bankers to create our medium of exchange by private loan (plus uncreated interest) is the best place to start, as honest money would cause the majority of our political and economic problems to dry up and blow away since it would no longer be the highly profitable property of an elite group of criminal bankers. But first, actually study the creation of money. Visit the site of The American Monetary Institute and begin gaining tools and weapons to defend yourselves and your posterity.

<http://www.prosperityuk.com/prosperity/prosperity.html>

Welcome to the website of PROSPERITY, a monthly Money Reform journal based in Glasgow, Scotland, which is dedicated to spreading understanding about the nature of our debt-based money system, and campaigning for publicly-created debt-free money.

What is Money Reform? Money Reform (Monetary Reform) highlights the fact that our economy today is "debt-based", meaning that virtually all money is supplied into the economy as a debt owed to the private banking system. We are reliant upon this banking system for the supply of almost all our means of exchange. In Britain today, 97% of our money stock is created by this private banking system as a debt, while only 3% is created by the government debt-free. As we explain on this website, that is both a technical absurdity and a democratic offence. As a consequence of virtually all our money coming into existence as a debt, we see the indebtedness of people, families and countries growing daily. Money Reformers believe the present debt-based system perpetrates debt slavery, and this is destructive of society, the environment and the planet. Money Reformers believe this debt-based money supply is the big issue which governs all the issues. Money Reformers advocate that the virtual Monopoly of Money Creation must be removed from the private banking system and we work to establish a publicly-created supply of debt-free money, created on behalf of the people, by a public body. This money should be spent, not lent, into society on the basis of proven need. This will gradually reduce the overall burden of debt in society, break reliance upon the private banking system for the supply of money, open potential for change, and empower people democratically. The Money Reformers' proposal is not a left-wing, or right-wing idea. It's good sense!

This website carries some of the articles, interviews, and reviews which have appeared in back-issues of our journal, and which investigate and explain the debt-based money system, and which publicise the debt-free alternative. If our debt-free Money Reform ideas are new to you then we recommend reading the following articles to obtain a comprehensive introduction to our case. For a short, general introduction to the problem of a debt-based money supply see Bankrolling the World into Chaos by author Michael Rowbotham, and also see his call that debt-free money is The Single Most Important Reform Then for a fully comprehensive explanation on how the banking system creates money for both private and commercial needs, including a description of how notes and coins are created, how banks create money for national needs, and how international debt is created, see How Money is Created.

Bill Clarke explains The Case for Monetary Reform and emphasises the extent to which most people are unaware of the debt-based manner in which almost all money comes into existence. This article should be read with Richard Greaves' summary of The Negative Consequences of the Debt-Based Money System.

Alistair McConnachie addresses the democratic necessity for Money Reform in his articles Money for the People and by the People and in Publicly-Created Money: The Democratic Imperative where he also deals with some frequently heard objections to the Money Reformers' debt-free money proposal.

James Gibb Stuart is Making a Case for Money Reform and laying out a basic debt-free money proposal, while Ron Morrison deals with how such a proposal could be brought into operation, and advocates that we Establish a State Bank to provide society with a regular supply of debt-free money.

Prosperity developed from the meetings of the Bromsgrove Group which meets annually outside Bromsgrove, near Birmingham. Each issue carries the Group's Statement of Belief which is a succinct general summary of the Money Reform case. Prosperity does not promote any particular "brand" of monetary reform, nor are we critiquing the system from any particular political or religious perspective. It is edited and published by Alistair McConnachie and can be contacted at: PROSPERITY, 268 Bath Street, Glasgow, Scotland, UK, G2 4JR Telephone: 0141 332 2214 Fax: 0141 353 6900. For some quotes compiled by Wilfrid Price (deceased), who spent virtually all his life fighting the BankLords, please visit "The Great Bank Debt Fraud" <http://www.unclenicks.net/canvas/Bankers.html>.

For those who do not believe that the banks create money from nothing, the first 31 quotes will soon put them straight. The 'juiciest' ones are the letter from the Rothschilds and the extract from the United States Bankers' Magazine of 1892. These people and their forces are the ones behind it all. Their empires of pharmaceutical companies, rapacious energy internationals, weapons manufacturers, the gutter press, politicians, and so on and on and on, are controlled by them. Take away the power of these outfits and the Bankers will crumble and wither away. Hence their fear of legalising cannabis - a known solver of many of our realistic problems and the taker-away of power from the banks and Bankers. Less money needs to change hands if the weed is grown everywhere for our (bio)energy requirements, healthcare, recreation, etc., etc., so who needs their perverted banknotes then? If we need money, we the people can print it, just like the Bankers do and will not lend it at interest when there is no hope of ever paying the exponentially growing debt back. All references to mortgage herewith and in the high street banks and beyond is the same mort-gage word derived from Latin 'mort'-death and the Old Norman 'gage' - grip. Hold on to your hats and read on:

William Paterson, Founder of the Bank of England and creator of the National Debt, at a meeting of directors said: "The Bank hath benefit of interest on all monies which it creates out of nothing."

Encyclopaedia Britannica (14th ed.) Vol. 3, under 'BANKING AND CREDIT' "Banks create credit. It is a mistake to suppose the Bank Credit is created to any important extent by the payment of money into Banks."

Ditto, Vol. 15 under 'MONEY': "Banks lend by creating credit; they create the means of payment out of nothing."

Reginald McKenna, then Chairman of the Midland Bank. Chancellor of the Exchequer addressing Bank shareholders, Jan 25 1924, said: "I am afraid the ordinary citizen will not like to be told that banks can and do create money. The amount of money in existence varies only with the action of the banks in increasing and decreasing deposits and bank purchases. Every loan, overdraft, or bank purchase creates a deposit, and every repayment of a loan, overdraft, or bank destroys a deposit." The Report of the McMillan Committee, 1929 p. 34. para 74, stated: "It is not unnatural to think of the deposits of a bank as being created through the deposit of cash representing savings or amounts which are not for the time being required to meet expenditure. But the bulk of the deposits arise out of the actions of the banks themselves, for by granting loans, allowing money to be drawn on overdraft or purchasing securities, a bank creates a credit in its books which is equivalent to a deposit..." R.G. Hawtrey, Asst. Secretary to the Treasury, in a B.B.C broadcast, March 22, 1933, said: "I agree with him [Douglas, founder of Social Credit] that banks create money and that trade depression arises from faults in the Banking System in discharge of that function." H.D. McCleod, MA, in his 'The Theory and Practice of Banking' stated: "The essential and distinctive feature of a bank is to create and issue credit payable on demands and this credit is intended to be put into circulation and serve all the purpose of money. A bank, therefore, is not an office for the borrowing and lending of money. It is a manufactory of credit."

Lord Sir John Stamp, Director of the Bank of England and one of the richest men in the 1920s said this speaking at the University of Texas in 1927 and repeated it at an address at Central Hall, London 1937, said: "The modern banking system manufactures money out of nothing. The process is perhaps the most astounding piece of sleight of hand that was every invented. Banking was started in iniquity and born in sin. Bankers own the Earth; take it away from them but leave them with the power to create credit, and, with a stroke of the pen, they will create enough money to buy it back again. Take this power away from them and all great fortunes, like mine, would disappear, for then this World would be a happier and better World to live in. But, if you want to be the slaves of Bankers and pay the cost of your own slavery, then let the Bankers create money and control credit." Branch Banking, (a banking journal) July 1938, stated: "There are enough substantial quotations in existence to prove to the uninitiated that banks do create credit without restraint and that they create the means of repayment within themselves." W. Hadley Robinson, Fellow of the Institute of Bankers, (F.I.B.) in his 'Money and the Citizen': "They [the Bankers] manufacture credit by a mere stroke of the pen." A.L.G. MacKay, Professor of Economics, University of Rangoon, stated "By means of a loan, overdraft, or by cashing of bills, the banks are able to increase the volume of deposits in the community, and because of this process it is not correct to say that a bank loans out deposits which people make with it. It is clear that it creates the deposit by the issue of the loan; the loan travels back to the bank or another bank and assumes the form of a deposit".

H.W. Whyte, Chairman of the Associated Banks of New Zealand Monetary Commissions 1955: "The banks do create money. They have been doing it for a long time, but they didn't quite realise it, and did not admit it. Very few did. You will find it in all sorts of documents, financial text-books, etc. But...there has been a development of thought, until today I doubt very much whether you would get many Bankers to deny that banks create credit.". 'A Textbook of Economics' 1966 J.L. Hanson, MA (Leeds), PhD, BSc. (Econ), London. Pgs. 386/7, ch. BANK LOANS CREATE DEPOSITS: "Whether a bank lends by overdraft or by means of a loan account, the result is the same - it increases the total volume of purchasing power, that is, the quantity of money. It has been seen that when a bank grants credit it creates what it lends and so total purchasing power is increased.". The McGraw-Hill Dictionary of Modern Economics (USA) 1973. Douglas Grenwald, Chief Economist and Head of the Department of Economics: "A system of banks now serves three main functions: 1. It lends money. 2. It accepts money as a deposit. 3. It creates and lends its own credit." A New Dictionary of Economics 1986. A.B. Taylor, BSc (Econ) ACCS. FSC: ch. BANK CREDIT: "Credit is created by a bank increasing the size of the account of a deposit."

Stage One Economics 1985 R.G. Winfield. BSc (Econ) Hond. F.J.B., Principal Lecturer at the City of London Polytechnic, ch. HOW THE BANKS CREATE MONEY, p. 198: "The deposit banks, unlike the other banks, are actually able to create money." He explains this with figures, p. 199: "Thus it is that while lending creates deposits the repayment of bank credit effectively destroys money." First Principles of Economics 1988. Richard G. Lipsey, Sir Edward Peacock Professor of Economics, Queens University, Kingston, Ontario, Canada, Colin Harbury, Professor of Economics, City University, London, ch. THE CREATION OF MONEY BY THE COMMERCIAL BANKS. p.427: "The main concern in this chapter is with the supply of money. From that point of view, the most important aspect of the banking system is its ability to create and destroy money. Dictionary of Economics 1992. Donald Rutherford. ch. ADVANCE, p.310: "When a bank creates money it does so by allowing advances to its customers, i.e., permitting them to draw on the extra bank deposits created for them." How Money is Managed 1954 Paul Einzig, Doctor of Political & Economic Sciences, University of Paris. Author of 42 books, mainly on economics, p. 216: "The system under which it is possible to create large quantities of money through the operation of bank credits and deposits is a modern development". P. 217, "...the banks are now in a position to lend or invest amounts many times larger than their own capital and reserves or their cash holdings".

The Modern Encyclopaedia (Illustrated) 1965 Odhams Books Ltd. P. 711 under CREDIT: "The creation of credit, by making additional means of payment available, adds to the circulation." Applied Economics Made Simple (Made Simple Series). 1972 Derek T. Lobley, BA (Econ) (1972), p. 50 under "THE CREATION OF CREDIT": he explains mainly by figures how the banks create credit. Economic History Made Simple (Ditto above). 1975 Bernard J. Smailes, BA, BSc (Econ), p.132. He gives account of the goldsmiths' credit creation followed by the banks doing the same. P. 135: ". . . the country's supply of money was created by the commercial banks creating credit through the profitable cheque and overdraft system.". [Ref - late 19th Century] Mastering Banking 1985 MacMillan Master Series. Desmond Whiting. P. 37, ch. 3.9 CREATION OF CREDIT: "Banks create credit by making loans. . ." The Economic System in the United Kingdom edited by Derek Morris, Oxford University Press, p. 127, 5.2.2.: ". . .If however, a customer obtains a bank loan the situation is different. This creates deposits at the bank and represents an increase in the money supply.".

Economics 1986 Geoffrey Whitehead BSc (Econ). P. 363/4, ch. AN EXAMPLE OF CREDIT CREATION. He explains how banks create credit using a diagram (28.1.) (Limited by policy) Basic Economics 1987 Frank Livesey, p. 28, ch. CREATION OF CREDIT: "The primary function of banks is to accept deposits and make loans and investments of one kind or another. In this process of taking and investing deposits, banks increase the total amount of credit.". Elements of Banking Made Simple 1987 Julia Hoyle ACIB & G. Whitehead. P. 19, 2.6 ch. HOW THE BANKS CREATE MONEY: THE CREATION OF CREDIT. This section explains bank credit creation. P. 285 in Rapid Revision, 6: 'Banking and the creation of credit, "Question 2. 'Can a bank lend out only money which it has actually borrowed?', Answer 2. 'No, it can create credit'.' Elements of Banking 1989 F.E. Berry. revised by Gerald Klein, recommended by the Chartered Institute of Bankers P. 13: ". .not only are bank deposits money, created when bank customers pay sums into the bank, but banks themselves can be said to create money when they agree to lend." Money and Banking Made Simple 1982 Ken Hoyle BSc(Econ) & G.Whitehead. Heineman Publications. p. 6. THE CREATION OF CREDIT: ". . . the whole process is usually called the creation of credit or the creation of money." Success in Elements of Banking. 1990 David Cox, Senior Lecturer in Banking, Worcester Technical College. 2.10 ch. HOW THE BANKS CREATE MONEY: "It has been told that every bank loan creates a deposit. . . Therefore in granting a loan or overdraft a new deposit has been created somewhere in the banking system and its money stock increases." Maurice Allais, 1988 Nobel Prize Winner in Economics: "In essence, the present creation of money, out of nothing, by the banking system is similar to the creation of money by counterfeiter, so rightly condemned by law. In concrete terms, it leads to the same results." J.K. Galbraith, 1975, in "Money, Whence It Came, Where It Went", Penguin Books, London, p.29: "The process by which banks create money is so simple that the mind is repelled."

What can we do about all this? Fortunately, viewed purely as a technical problem there's a way to fix the problem fairly easily, speedily, and without any serious financial problems. We can get our county totally out of debt in 1-2 years by simply paying off U.S. bonds with debt-free U.S. Notes (or Treasury Department Deposits convertible to U.S. Notes) - just like Lincoln issued. Of course, that by itself would create tremendous inflation, since our currency is presently multiplied by the fractional reserve banking system. But here's the ingenious solution advanced in part by Milton Friedman, and others, to keep the money supply stable and avoid inflation and deflation while the debt is retired. As the Treasury buys up its bonds on the open market with U.S. Notes, the reserve requirements of your hometown local bank will be proportionally raised so the amount of money in circulation remains constant. As those holding bonds are paid off in U.S. Notes, they will deposit this money, thus making available the currency then needed by the banks to increase their reserves. Once all the U.S. bonds. are replaced with U.S. Notes, banks will be at 100% reserve banking, instead of the fractional reserve system currently in use. From that point on, the former Fed buildings will only be needed as central clearing houses for checks, and as vaults for U.S. Notes. The Federal Reserve Act will no longer be necessary, and could be repealed. Monetary power would be under government control. There would be no further creation or contraction of money by banks. By doing it this way, our national debt can be paid off in a single year or so, and the Fed and fractional reserve banking abolished without national bankruptcy, financial collapse, inflation or deflation, or any significant change in the way the average American goes about his business.

To the average person, the primary difference would be that for the first time since the Federal Reserve Act was passed in 1913, taxes would begin to go down and inflation would cease, preserving the value of their savings, wages and fixed incomes. Now there's a real national blessing for you, rather than for Hamilton's banker friends. Without their awful money-creating power, the Money Changers would gradually lose their political control and clout. Of course, their mass media control is another issue, but even it depends on their massive money-creating power. Now, let's take a look at these proposals in more detail. Bill Still and McCormack (<http://www.themoneymasters.com>) have drafted a proposed Money Reform Act as follows:

1. Pay of the national debt with debt-free U.S. Notes (or Treasury department credits convertible to U.S. Notes). As Thomas Edison put it, if the U.S. can issue a dollar bond, it can issue a dollar bill. They both rest purely on the good faith and credit of the U.S. This amounts to a simple substitution of one type of government obligation for another. One bears interest, the other doesn't. Federal Reserve Notes could be used for this as well, but could not be printed after the Fed is abolished, as we propose, so we suggest using U.S. Notes instead, as Lincoln did.
2. Abolish Fractional Reserve Banking. As the debt is paid off, the reserve requirements of all banks and financial institutions would be raised proportionally at the same time to absorb the new U.S. Notes and prevent inflation, which would be deposited and become the banks' increased reserves. At the end of the first year, or so, all of the national debt would be paid, and we could start enjoying the benefits of full-reserve banking. The Fed would be obsolete, an anachronism. This same approach would work equally well in Canada, England and in virtually all debt-based, central bank controlled economies.
3. Repeal of the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 and the National Banking Act of 1864. These acts delegate the money power to a private banking monopoly. They must be repealed and the monetary power handed back to the government (in the U.S., the Department of the Treasury), where they were initially, under President Abraham Lincoln. No banker or person in any way affiliated with financial institutions should be allowed to regulate banking. After the first two reforms, these Acts would serve no useful purpose anyway, since they relate to a fractional reserve banking system.
4. Withdraw the U.S. from the IMF, the BIS and the World Bank. These institutions, like the Federal Reserve, are designed to further centralize the power of the international bankers over the World's economy and the U.S. must withdraw from them or lose its sovereignty and independence. Their harmless, useful functions such as currency exchange can be accomplished either nationally, or in new organizations limited to those functions. ...

Issuing debt-free currency, not tied to bond issues, is not a radical solution. It's been advocated in its parts by Presidents Jefferson, Madison, Jackson, Van Buren and Lincoln. It's been used at different times in Europe as well. One current example is one of the small islands off the coast of France in the English Channel. Called Guernsey, it has been using debt-free money issues to pay for large building projects for nearly 200 years. Guernsey is an example of just how well a debt-free money system can work. In 1815, a committee was appointed to investigate how best to finance a new market. The impoverished island could not afford more new taxes, so the State's fathers decided to issue their own paper money. They were just colorful paper notes, backed by nothing, but the people of this tiny island agreed to accept them and trade with them. To be sure they circulated widely, they were declared to be "good for the payment of taxes." Of course this idea was nothing new. It was exactly what America had done before the American Revolution and there are many other examples throughout the World. But it was new to Guernsey, and it worked. The market is still in use, and remember, it was built with no debt to the people of this island state. But what if we follow Guernsey's example? The resulting advantages would include: no more bank runs; bank failures would be very rare (on the rare massive theft); the national debt would be entirely paid-off; the monetary, banking, and tax system would be more efficient and simplified; significant inflation and deflation would be eliminated; booms and busts would be reduced to insignificance; banker control of our industry and political life would end. Another example of a working alternative currency is one which existed in Austria, in the 1930s, as described by David Weston in his book, 'The Living Economy' p.196 ff: "The burghermaster of Worgl issued local currency in the form of 'tickets for services rendered'. They were used for paying wages to men employed on public works, who would otherwise have been unemployed. During the first month of issue, these tickets are said to have circulated twenty times as a form of local currency. Taxes were paid, unemployment was reduced, and local shopkeepers prospered. Mayors of two hundred other Austrian towns decided to follow suit. But the Austrian National Bank took legal action against the experiment. The Austrian Supreme Court decided in favor of the Bank, and the innovation was squashed."

How would the bankers react to these reforms? Certainly the international bankers' cartel will oppose reforms that do away with their control of the World's economies, as they have in the past. But it is equally certain that Congress has the Constitutional authority and responsibility to authorize the issuance of debt free money - U.S. Notes, just the same as Lincoln's Greenbacks, and to reform the very banking laws it ill-advisedly enacted. Undoubtedly, the bankers will claim that issuing debt-free money will cause severe inflation or make other dire predictions, but remember, it is fractional reserve banking which is the real cause of over 90% of all inflation - not whether debt-free U.S. Notes are used to pay for government deficits. The simultaneous transition to full reserve banking will absorb the new notes, thus preventing inflation, while stabilizing banking and the economy. In the current system, any spending excesses on the part of Congress, are turned into more U.S. debt bonds. The 10% of the bonds purchased by the Fed (in order to provide the high-powered money liquidity in the capital markets needed to purchase of the rest of the new bonds), are then multiplied ten times over by the bankers, causing over 90% of all inflation. ... Educate yourself and your friends: read. "When you know a thing to recognize that you know it, and when you do not, to know that you do not know - this is knowledge." - Confucius

Our country and the World needs a solid group who really understand how our money is manipulated and what the solutions are, because if a depression comes, there will be those who will come forward advancing solutions framed by the international bankers. Beware of calls to return to a gold standard. Why? Simple. Because never before has so much gold been so concentrated outside of American hands. And never before has so much gold been in the hands of international governmental bodies such as the World Bank and International Monetary Fund. In fact, the IMF now holds more gold than any central bank. The Swiss are under intense pressure from the Money Changers to dispose of their gold. This is most likely either a prelude to the complete demonetization of gold (like silver before it), or to its monopolization and remonetization by the Money Changers. Therefore, to return to a gold standard would almost certainly be a false solution in our case. As was repeated in the Great Depression: "In gold we trusted; by gold we're busted." Likewise, beware of any plans advanced for a regional or World currency - this is another international banker's Trojan Horse - a deception to open the national gates to more international control. Educate your member of Congress. It only takes a few persuasive members to make the others pay attention. Most Congressmen just don't understand the system. Some understand it, but are influenced their bank stock ownership or by bank PAC contributions to ignore it, not realizing the gravity of their neglect. Obviously, there is little chance for significant monetary reform at present. But if an opportunity ever does present itself, perhaps in a crisis, at least they will have been given the information to avoid merely floundering in banker-inspired confusion as did many sincere reform-minded Congressmen in the Great Depression. It remains for each man to do his duty, consistent with his state in life. May God give us the light to help reform our nation, and ourselves. We say ourselves, because ultimately vast multitudes of men are going to be driven more and more to desperation by the accumulation of the World's wealth in fewer and fewer hands. Men will be tempted more to become like their oppressors, selfish and greedy. Rather, let's keep in mind a warning not to lose sight of greater things. As Pope Pius put it: "For what will it profit men that a more prudent distribution and use of riches make it possible for them to gain even the whole World, if thereby they suffer the loss of their own souls? ..."

"I have never yet had anyone who could, through the use of logic and reason, justify the Federal Government borrowing the use of its own money....I believe the time will come when people will demand that this be changed. I believe the time will come in this country when they will actually blame you and me and everyone else connected with the Congress for sitting idly by and permitting such an idiotic system to continue." - The late Congressman Wright Patman, Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency for over 16 years

Those who control the creation of MONEY control the World. The biggest players among them happen at this stage in history to be Zionist/Masonic Babylonian Kabbalistic Jews.

The Need for Monetary Reform by Stephen Zarlenga, Director, American Monetary Institute, P.O. Box 601, Valatie, NY 12184, USA. Monetary reform is the critical missing element needed to move humanity back from the brink of nuclear disaster, away from a future dominated by fraud and warfare, toward a World of justice and beauty. The power to create money is an awesome power - at times stronger than the Executive, Legislative or Judicial powers combined. It's like having a "magic checkbook," where checks can't bounce. When controlled privately it can be used to gain riches, but more importantly it determines the direction of our society by deciding where the money goes - what gets funded and what does not. Will it be used to build and repair vital infrastructure such as the New Orleans Levees to protect major cities? Or will it go into warfare or real estate loans, creating asset price inflation - the real estate bubble. Thus the money issuing power should never be alienated from democratically elected government and placed ambiguously into private hands as it is in America in the Federal Reserve System today. Indeed, most people would be surprised to learn that the bulk of our money supply is not created by our government, but by private banks when they make loans. Through the Feds fractional reserve process the system creates purchasing media when banks make loans into checking accounts, so most of our money is issued as interest-bearing debt.

We are borrowing this money system from private banks when instead we should own the system, not rent it. Under the Constitution, Article I, Sec. 8, our government has the sovereign power to issue money and spend it into circulation to promote the general welfare through the creation and repair of infrastructure, including human infrastructure - health and education - rather than misusing the money system for speculation as banking has historically done. Our lawmakers must now reclaim that power! Money has value because of skilled people, resources, and infrastructure, working together in a supportive social and legal framework. Money is the indispensable lubricant that lets them "run." It is not tangible wealth in itself, but a power to obtain wealth. Money is an abstract social power based in law; and whatever government accepts in payment of taxes will be money. Money's value is not created by the private corporations that now control it. Unhappily, mankind's experience with private money creation has undeniably been a long history of fraud, mismanagement and even villainy. Banking abuses are pervasive and self-evident. Major banks and companies focus on misusing the money system instead of production. For example, in June 2005, Citibank and Merrill Lynch paid over $1.2 Billion to Enron pensioners to settle fraud charges.

Private money creation through fractional reserve banking fosters an unprecedented concentration of wealth which destroys the democratic process and ultimately promotes military imperialism. Less than 1% of the population claims ownership of almost 50% of the wealth, but vital infrastructure is ignored. The American Society of Civil Engineers gives a D grade to our infrastructure and estimates that $1.6 trillion is needed to bring it to acceptable levels. That fact alone shows the World's dominant money system to be a major failure crying for reform. Infrastructure repair would provide quality employment throughout the nation. There is a pretense that government must either borrow or tax to get the money for such projects. But it is well known that the government can directly create the money needed and spend it into circulation for such projects, without inflationary results. Monetary reform is achieved in three parts which must be enacted together for it to work. Any one or any two of them alone won't do it, but could actually further harm the monetary system.

First, incorporate the Federal Reserve System into the U.S. Treasury where all new money could be created by government as money, not interest-bearing debt, and spent into circulation to promote the general welfare. The monetary system would be monitored to be neither inflationary nor deflationary.

Second, halt the bank's privilege to create money by ending the fractional reserve system in a gentle and elegant way. All the past monetized private credit would be converted into U.S. government money. Banks would then act as intermediaries accepting savings deposits and loaning them out to borrowers. They would do what people think they do now.

Third, spend new money into circulation on infrastructure, including the education and healthcare needed for a growing society, starting with the $1.6 trillion that the American Society of Civil Engineers estimates is needed for infrastructure repair. This would create good jobs across our nation, reinvigorating local economies and re-funding government at all levels.

The false specter of inflation is usually raised against such suggestions that our government fulfill its responsibility to furnish the nation's money supply. But that is a knee jerk reaction - the result of decades, even centuries, of propaganda against government. When one actually examines the monetary record, it becomes clear that government has a better record issuing and controlling money than the private issuers have. Inflation is avoided because real material wealth has been created in the process. The following press release from the 2005 AMI Monetary Reform

Conference in Chicago, highlights the beneficial effects of the plan both in terms of savings on interest and in avoiding such disasters in the first place:

Money Reform Plan Would Save Taxpayers $ Billions Per Year in Katrina Cleanup: "An alteration in the way money is introduced into our economy would save at least $10 billion dollars per year in the cleanup and rebuilding aftermath of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita. If the clean-up loans last the normal 30 years, the savings will be over $250 billion," says Stephen Zarlenga, Director of the Institute. The plan, known as The American Monetary Act was discussed at the American Monetary Institute 2005 Monetary Reform Conference....

The proposed three part reform of our currency system would have the U.S. Government directly spend the money into circulation rather than the present method of allowing the banking system to create the money and then the government borrowing the money. Funding such infrastructure expenses through bonds generally doubles to triples their final cost. The reform avoids this expense by removing the fractional reserve provision of the present system, which in effect allows the banking system to create the much needed new money that must be continually introduced into the economy as population and economic activity expands; or when emergencies such as Katrina, or warfare require great expenditures. Under the reform only the U.S. government, not the private banking system, would be allowed to create money.

"What we're proposing is very similar to the 'Chicago Plan' which came out of University of Chicago economists in the 1930s and was widely supported nationwide by the economics profession back then," said Zarlenga. Under the plan the government spends the new money into circulation on necessary infrastructure, including education. A presentation at the conference by the American Society of Civil Engineers pointed out the deteriorating condition of American infrastructure, which currently receives an overall grade of D, and is predicted to reach D- soon. Most of Katrina's Damage on New Orleans Was Avoidable "This method of introducing new money through infrastructure creation and repair would actually have stopped most of the damage and loss of life in New Orleans, because the money would have been available to repair the levees, and they would have probably held" said Zarlenga. "Under the present private control, money goes largely into speculative bubbles, including Wall Street games and real estate" he said, "Under societal control it would go much more to promoting the general welfare. Inflation is avoided because real material wealth has been created in the process, and catastrophic loss of life is prevented."

Lawmakers have often believed they could ignore the big questions on how our money system is structured. Right from the Constitutional Convention delegates ignored society's monetary power and the excellent record of government issued money in building colonial infrastructure and giving us a nation. They left the money power up for grabs instead of properly placing it in a fourth, monetary branch of government. History shows that the money power will be a fourth branch whether we recognize it as such or not. It's not safe to leave so much power and privilege in private hands! It's counter to our system of checks and balances. The developing financial crisis requires us to re-evaluate and focus on it now. Lets fulfill our responsibility to get a real understanding of this problem and the solution. As the late Congressman Wright Patman, Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency for over 16 years, said, "I have never yet had anyone who could, through the use of logic and reason, justify the Federal Government borrowing the use of its own money....I believe the time will come when people will demand that this be changed. I believe the time will come in this country when they will actually blame you and me and everyone else connected with the Congress for sitting idly by and permitting such an idiotic system to continue."

What Can We Do By Tibor S. Friedman

The Great American experiment in democracy is in crisis and immediate jeopardy. The most secretive administration ever has installed a repressive security apparatus paving the way for dictatorship and martial law awaiting an 'event' to trigger the trap set for us. Unless we become active participants and educate ourselves about the crisis that is rapidly enveloping us the Great Experiment will end. Americans aren't stupid but rather, they are uninformed of what is really happening in their country and the World because of the dumbed down content and propaganda they consume in the mainstream media (MSM) and the public educational system. Recent studies have declared that high school graduates are unable to write a coherent sentence; schools teach information and expect students to retain and regurgitate data, not connect them. This is by design; the elite do not want too many critical thinkers in a diminished economy. Information is the currency of the realm. The Internet today offers our best hope for our education and research, at least until the Elite figure out how to replace it with the restricted and establishment controlled Internet 2 currently being developed. Information is managed and edited in the MSM and propaganda is an acceptable tool long used in media and education. Spin is the method of the day used to confuse and deflect. The Infotainment Industry, MSM and Hollywood combined, share financial, operational and propaganda interests. A recent example is the TV docudrama Oil Storm on Fox TV on June 5 that served the goals of putting fear into Americans about losing their oil lifeline and their American way of life and to gather support for the 21st Century Oil Wars by calling them the War on Terror, which is phony and being used by these psychopaths to divide us and reduce our numbers. The Bush administration is supported by Fox (aka GOP TV) owner Rupert Murdoch. Similarly, other media events usually have some ulterior motive to influence the public in some way. For us to fully appreciate our current crisis we have to review our media history.

Walter Lippmann, the prominent journalist in the 1920s, said that the public must be put in its place. He believed, as did President Woodrow Wilson and the Elite, that the responsible men (Elite) should manage the 'common interests' and 'live free of the trampling and the roar of a bewildered herd,' the ignorant and meddlesome outsiders. The only function the 'herd' has was to trample periodically in support of one or another element of the leadership class in an election. As the 'herd' in the last century became more enlightened ever more sophisticated mechanisms for controlling information and perceptions have developed. The manufacture of consent, a term created by Edward Bernays, the father of the Public Relations industry, author of Propaganda and coincidentally Sigmund Freud's nephew, has become an art form and required of journalists.

Bernays says: "Those who manipulate the organized habits and opinions of the masses constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country. . . . we are dominated by a relatively small number of persons. . . . as civilization has become more complex. . . . the technical means have been invented and developed by which opinion may be regimented. . . . I must lead the people. Am I not their servant? "The invisible government tends to be concentrated in the hands of the few because of the expense of manipulating the social machinery which controls the opinions and habits of the masses. It is not generally realized to what extent the words and actions of our most influential public men are dictated by shrewd persons operating behind the scenes."

Expanding on this understanding about the MSM and the Public Relations industry (the propaganda machine) we can include gatekeepers, or sources considered to be on the left (so-called liberals), who are charged with making sure that dissent and alternative views do not stray too far off the reservation of Elite acceptance. Excluded topics include the 9-11 Truth Movement, the New World Order, the City Of London financial center, chemtrails, the Federal Reserve, Inc., etc. It is safe to assume that your letters to the editor are monitored and pre-selected prior to printing. I suspect that some letters and articles in The New York Times (as elsewhere) are fictitious, manufactured and planted, like the Judith Miller articles on WMDs (with con man Chalabi as her source) in the NYT prior to the current Iraq War that encouraged the congressional vote to go to war. MSM always supports and benefits from war. CNN's Aaron Brown declared that now that we are at war we have to get behind the government and the troops disregarding CNN's obvious cheerleading efforts to build support before the war.

We are considered the least informed population in the World. The MSM and most gatekeepers are believed to be infiltrated with CIA personnel and work explicitly for the Elites in power, in corporations, government and banking and serve to protect their interests in the US and abroad. My ultimate purpose is to compel Americans to wake up and begin to explore what is going on and to become engaged in their lives and their children's futures. It is not my intent here to go into all the aspects that constitute the over arching plan (conspiracy, some would say) to create a One (New) World (Order) Government, a generational and incremental implementation process that, now in its final stages, presently threatens the World with the 21st Century Oil Wars and the destruction of what little sovereignty is left in America and elsewhere (observe this process in the EU). Neo-liberalism / Globalism (imperialism disguised as democracy and free trade) are names used to describe the acquisition and consolidation of ever greater wealth, natural resources, total political power and control over others and are the motivational forces which drive the decisions by the international Elite. They control the transnational corporations, the 200-plus think tanks (the Council On Foreign Relations being foremost in the US) which exist to facilitate their goals, the foundations (Carnegie, Ford, Rockefeller, etc), the World Bank, IMF, WTO, the Federal Reserve (a private corporation never audited and with no congressional oversight); this influence is pervasive and can only be truly appreciated as one researches the various issues.

The recent Online Journal report on Bilderberg 2005 confirms the intent and complicity of our leaders and the transnational corporations and banking interests they serve to create a One World Government using the UN, or similar institution, and to further diminish America economically and to ultimately abdicate US sovereignty and the Constitution to a Regional and subsequent World Power while enriching themselves and accumulating power in the process. The Congress, MSM (including CPB, NPR and PBS), all academic and other Institutions, with rare and generally marginalized, individuals as exceptions, are in general alignment with this 'conspiracy.' This diverse involvement is reflected in the roster of the 4,000 or so members of the Council on Foreign Relations, a group described as, superficially an innocent forum for academics, businessman, politicians, contains within its shell, perhaps unknown to many of its members, the power elite that unilaterally determines US foreign policy. The major objective of this submerged - and obvious subversive foreign policy is the acquisition of markets and economic power (profits) for a small group of giant multi-nationals under the virtual control of a few banking investment houses and controlling families. The Royal Institute of International Affairs, in London (the center of power for the New World Order elite), founded its American wing, the CFR, funded by the Rockefellers, in 1921. The RIIA's patron is the Queen of England. CNN has recently been using CFR 'spokespeople' to get Americans to accept them as 'mainstream' and also uses other conservative think tanks like the American Enterprise Institute and the Brookings and CATO Institutes to disseminate their views designed to shape American perceptions and beliefs.

Think tanks provide the two supposedly oppositional political parties with intellectual material and propaganda. Issues are used as smokescreens and for public distraction and confusion while greater and more relevant issues are ignored or downplayed. What we witness in MSM is the allowed official version of reality much of it staged theatre. It is apparent as one examines (CFR, TC, Bilderberg member) Bill Clinton's record (presiding over NAFTA, media consolidation, FDA approval of GMO going into the World's food supply via Monsanto, laid the foundations for the USA PATRIOT Act, passed welfare 'reform' etc.) and associations that he is as much (if not more so) a Globalist / New World Order operative as George Bush is. Both parties serve the same masters as one can see from the Bilderberg attendance list. John Edwards auditioned at the annual Bilderberg meeting in 2004; apparently the elite chose to stay the course with George Bush. One cannot become president of the US without the Elites' explicit approval. The election is a formality and exercise for the benefit of creating the illusion of an ongoing democracy. The 'free speech zone' areas created by both parties in 2004 were their version of democracy. The MSM (already) is focusing on the battle for the White House 2008, creating mythologies of opposing individuals and distracting the public with a hope for change that never comes as both parties work towards the creation of a New World Order with the United States as a much reduced power, economically and militarily. Remember that politicians are the fronts for (or part of) the Elites and as such share in their fortunes and power. One need only look at the Bush dynasty and their involvement in and creation of their fortunes and power by the Military / Industrial / Intelligence Complex. War is profitable. Henry Kissinger (perennial Bilderberg, Trilateral, CFR member) received knighthood from the Queen of England in 1995 for his lifelong devoted service to the Crown; after years of trying to retake the American colonies the City of London decided to infiltrate through the CFR and other ways to reclaim their perceived influence over their new addition to the Empire; and so it appears it has. Their conspiracy has become our fact.

Conspiracy theories are a convenient 'slide' term used by MSM and others to short circuit further inquiry into a matter. The greatest conspiracy is the one created by this concept that keeps people from being inquisitive and concerned about the health and direction of their country. As noted, only a small group of Elites know the full scope of their agenda while those outside are given information on a need to know basis and as loyalty and subservience is developed move closer to the center of affluence and control. A corporation is a perfect example of this where one can succeed and move up the hierarchy as long as one fulfills the needs of the corporation but if one challenges the system, then you could be ejected and possibly blacklisted from entry into other corporations. In this way, people buy into the system and by being invested in it are reluctant to jeopardize their position and wealth. Hierarchy assures compliance, promotions or corrective actions if needed. America is a transnational corporation (an Enron) disguised as a government; a form described as totalitarian corporatism. As Catherine Austin Fitts and others suggest, voting, writing to your representatives or editors has limited, if any effect, but continue letting them know what you think. The system is generally rigged with gatekeepers to marginalize any dissent or resistance. The only practical options open are to divert our financial and personal support for the tapeworm (the system) by withdrawing our attention from TV (shut it off) and its mind control and our money out of large multinational banks and corporations that depend on our money to survive, and putting it into local banks and businesses; cut up all your credit cards. Support local efforts to develop sustainable economies and environmental initiatives; get to know your neighbors and share what you know. Ultimately, the tapeworm will have only itself to devour. Stop supporting the so-called two-party system that is really two groups belonging to the same business party that share the One World Government agenda. The continuity of bipartisan corruption clearly shows that, with rare exceptions like Reps Cynthia McKinney and Ron Paul, their allegiance is to the international elite and not to the American people.

"Come on, it's only a Federal Reserve Note. It's not like it's real money."

Let's start this section with a lecture by G. Edward Griffin delivered in 1994. Then we will proceed into a more detailed history of the privately owned central bank known as The US Federal Reserve. The CD has the live audio of this talk. This is a near transcript of the talk.

A Talk by Edward Griffin Author of The Creature from Jekyll Island

G. Edward Griffin

Introduction:

Mr. Griffin is a graduate of the University of Michigan where he majored in Speech Communication. He is the recipient of the Telly Award for Excellence in TV Production. He is the founder of the Cancer Cure Foundation and has served on the board of directors of the National Health Federation and the International Association of Cancer Victims and Friends. He is a contributing editor for the New American Magazine and is President of American Media, a publishing and video production company in southern California.

Edward Griffin: We'll start way back in history to give some kind of historical perspective to this; we'll go back to the first century BC and the tiny kingdom of Phrygia. There was a philosopher by the name of Epictetus and it was Epictetus who said "Appearances are of four kinds: things either are as they appear to be; or they neither are nor appear to be; or they are but do not appear to be; or they are not and yet appear to be." When I read that statement for the first time, I had a big chuckle over it and I thought for sure that if Epictetus were alive today he would probably be a Harvard professor of money and banking; it sounds like so many explanations that I have read about various aspects of the Federal Reserve System. What he did was he took a fairly simple concept but by the time that he was through explaining it, we didn't have any idea what he was talking about. All Epictetus said was that appearances can sometimes be deceiving. That's all he said but by the time he was through explaining the four different ways in which they can be deceiving, we were left back at the switch somewhere.

Nevertheless, I thought, accidentally perhaps, Epictetus had given me a track to run on so-to-speak. Actually it could be the theme since if there's anything in the World that is deceiving it is the Federal Reserve System. In fact, it is one of those appearances of the fourth kind which are those appearances which are not and yet appear to be. I'm going to use that as sort of a hook on the topic. We'll come back to it from time-to-time and punctuate it if I can remember to do that because it tells us something at the most fundamental level about the Federal Reserve System and that is that appearances can be deceiving. When I did my research on this topic I came to the startling conclusion that the Federal Reserve System does not need to be audited, it needs to be abolished. This is very intriguing to think we should audit the Fed but I discovered that probably if they audited the Fed it would get a clean bill because it's undoubtedly doing exactly what it's supposed to do according to the law. What it is supposed to do according to the law is justification for abolishing it so all we have to do is understand what the Federal Reserve System is supposed to do and we'll be pretty upset about it. The fact of the matter is that most people haven't the foggiest idea of what it is in fact supposed to do. I came to the conclusion that the Federal Reserve needed to be abolished for seven reasons. I'd like to read them to you now just so that you get an idea of where I'm coming from, as they say. I put these into the most concise phrasing that I can to make them somewhat shocking and maybe you'll remember them:

1. The Federal Reserve is incapable of accomplishing its stated objectives.
2. It is a cartel operating against the public interest.
3. It's the supreme instrument of usury.
4. It generates our most unfair tax through inflation and bail outs.
5. It encourages war.
6. It destabilizes the economy.
7. It discourages private capital formation.

I don't know what you think about those seven points. I know a lot of you folks agree with them right off the bat, but I presume that there are some skeptics here tonight and I hope there are otherwise I am the minister talking to the choir. I know in fact that there are always quite a few skeptics that come to these meetings and frankly you are the folks I'm talking to tonight because once, not too long ago, I was in that same frame of mind. I would've thought to myself those are rather extreme statements, I don't think they can be supported by fact. Though time doesn't permit me to cover all of those seven points here tonight, I would like to splash around on the first four topics for a little while and show you that there is in fact quite a bit of reason for a rational person to conclude that those statements are true. I think the best place to begin is with the formation of the "creature from Jekyll Island"; the creation of the Federal Reserve. It takes me back to the title of the book "The Creature from Jekyll Island" and anybody that's here thinking that we're going to show a movie which is a sequel to Jurassic Park, you're in the wrong place. The title was designed, of course, to attract attention but it does have a great deal of significance to it. For those of you who have not yet had a chance to delve into this, I should explain to you that Jekyll Island is a real island that's off the coast of Georgia. It was on that island back in 1910 that the Federal Reserve System was created at a highly secret meeting that took place there. What I'd like to do is illustrate to you that the meeting did in fact take place and I'll show some of the documentation that is available for that to prove that the secrecy was extreme and then we'll come face-to-face with the question "why the secrecy"? When things are done in secret quite often there's something to hide and we'll explore what it was that they wanted to hide. Once we've come to an understanding of that, then we'll finally understand a very important aspect of the Federal Reserve System which is not generally understood.

Back in 1910, Jekyll Island was completely privately owned by a small group of millionaires from New York. We're talking about people such as J. P. Morgan, William Rockefeller and their associates. This was a social club and it was called "The Jekyll Island Club." They owned the island and it was where their families came to spend the winter months. There was a magnificent structure there, the clubhouse, which was the center of their social activities. That clubhouse is still there, by-the-way. The island has since been purchased by the state of Georgia, converted into a state park and the clubhouse has been restored and you can visit it. I think you'd be very impressed by it. As you walk through the downstairs corridors you'll come to a door and on the door there is a brass plaque and it says: "In this room the Federal Reserve System was created." This is not a secret anymore; it's a matter of public record. Around the clubhouse there were some cottages as they were called which were built by some of the families to quarter themselves. They're attractive little things; they were magnificent examples of the architecture of the turn of the century. One of the cottages through which they take tours if you're interested in doing that, as I recall the guide told us that there were 14 bathrooms in that cottage--not exactly what we would call a cottage.

The clubhouse is where the Federal Reserve System was created. Let's retell that story in detail and see how it came about. The year was 1910, that was three years before the Federal Reserve Act was finally passed into law. It was November of that year when Senator Nelson Aldrich sent his private railroad car to the railroad station in New Jersey and there it was in readiness for the arrival of himself and six other men who were told to come under conditions of great secrecy. For example, they were told to arrive one at a time and not to dine with each other on the night of their departure. They were told that should they arrive at the station at the same time they should pretend like they didn't even know each other. They were instructed to avoid newspaper reporters at all cost because they were well-known people and had they been seen by a reporter they would've asked questions. Especially if two or three of them had been spotted together, this would've raised eyebrows and they would've asked a lot of questions. One of the men carried a shotgun in a big black case so that if he had been stopped and asked where he was going he was prepared to say that he was going on a duck hunting trip. The interesting thing about that part of the story is that we find out later from his biographer that this man never fired a gun in his life, in fact he borrowed that shotgun just to carry with him on this trip as part of the deception.

Once they got on board the private railroad car this pattern continued. They were told to use first names only, not to use their last names at all. A couple of the men even adopted code-names. The reason for that is so that the servants on board the train would not know who these people were. They were afraid that if the servants would talk about it then the word would leak out and it might get into the press. They traveled for two nights and a day on board this car and they arrived after a 1,000 mile journey to Brunswick, Georgia. From there they took a ferry across the inland straits and they ended up on Jekyll Island in the clubhouse where for the next nine days they sat around the table and hammered out all the important details of what eventually became the Federal Reserve System. When they were done they went back to New York. For quite a few years thereafter these men denied that any such meeting took place. It wasn't until after the Federal Reserve System was firmly established that they then began to talk openly about their journey and what they accomplished. Several of them wrote books on the topic, one of them wrote a magazine article and they gave interviews to newspaper reporters so now it's possible to go into the public record and document quite clearly and in detail what happened there.

Who were these seven men? The first one I have already mentioned, Senator Nelson Aldrich was the Republican whip in the Senate, he was the chairman of the National Monetary Commission which was the special committee of Congress created for the purpose of making a recommendation to Congress for proposed legislation to reform banking. The public was quite concerned in those days over what was going on in the banking industry; a lot of banks were folding, people were losing their investments in banks, they had broken their promise to guard the depositors assets, there were runs on the bank, banks couldn't give the people their money back. In particular they were concerned over the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few large banks in New York on Wall Street. This is what they called the "money trust" in those days. The money trust was a common phrase. Quite a few politicians had been elected to office on their campaign promise to break the grip of the money trust. President Wilson was one of those politicians that campaigned on that even though Wilson was himself hand-picked by the money trust and financed by the money trust and surrounded by the money trust--all of his advisors and politic cronies. The public didn't know that at the time and it was a popular issue. If you campaigned against the money trust you were quite apt to be elected and that was what I call "the people you love to hate" money trust.

That was one of the purposes of the National Monetary Commission which was to propose legislation to break the grip of the money trust and Aldrich was chairman of that committee. He was also the very important business associate of J. P. Morgan. He was the father-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. which means that eventually he became the grandfather of Nelson Rockefeller, our former vice-president. You remember his full name was Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller; his middle name being derived from his famous grandfather.

The second important person there was Abraham Andrew who was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. He later became a Congressman and he was very important in banking circles. Frank Vanderlip was there. He was the President of the National City Bank of New York which was the largest of all of the banks in America representing the financial interests of William Rockefeller and the international investment firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Company. Henry Davison was there, the senior partner of the J. P. Morgan Company. Charles Norton was there; he was the President of the First National Bank of New York which was another one of the giants. Benjamin Strong was at the meeting; he was the head of J. P. Morgan's Banker's Trust Company and Benjamin Strong three years later would become the first head of the Federal Reserve System.

Finally, there was Paul Warburg who was probably the most important at the meeting because of his knowledge of banking as it was practiced in Europe. Paul Warburg was born in Germany and eventually became a naturalized American citizen. He was a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Company and was a representative of the Rothschild banking dynasty in England and France where he maintained very close working relationships throughout his entire career with his brother, Max Warburg, who was the head of the Warburg banking consortium in Germany and the Netherlands. Paul Warburg was one of the wealthiest men in the World. In fact, those of you who are Little Orphan Annie fans will remember Daddy Warbucks. Daddy Warbucks was the characterization of Paul Warburg and everyone at the time was well aware of that fact. I have his photograph in my book and if you compare the photograph to the cartoon drawing you'll see the resemblance between Paul WARburg and Daddy WARbucks. And while we're on the topic of cartoon characters, if you played Monopoly, you remember the drawing of the capitalist with the handle-bar mustache and the cigar? That's J. P. Morgan.

These were the seven men aboard that railroad car who were at Jekyll Island. Amazing as it may seem, they represented approximately 1/4 of the wealth of the entire World. These are the men that sat around the table and created the Federal Reserve System. For the skeptic who's wondering it didn't happen that way surely Griffin is exaggerating to make some kind of a point. Let me put your mind at ease that it did happen that way (perhaps not at ease but in a state of tension). How do we know? For example, Frank Vanderlip who was at the meeting wrote an article that appeared in the Saturday Evening Post on February 9, 1935 and I'd like to read for you just a short excerpt from that article. This is what Vanderlip said: "I do not feel it is any exaggeration to speak of our secret expedition to Jekyll Island as the occasion of the actual conception of what eventually became the Federal Reserve System. We were told to leave our last names behind us. We were told further that we should avoid dining together on the night of our departure. We were instructed to come one at a time and as unobtrusively as possible to the railroad terminal on the New Jersey littoral of the Hudson where Senator Aldrich's private car would be in readiness attached to the rear-end of a train to the south. Once aboard the private car we began to observe the taboo that had been fixed on last names. We addressed one another as Ben, Paul, Nelson and Abe. Davison and I adopted even deeper disguises abandoning our first names. On the theory that we were always right, he became Wilbur and I became Orville after those two aviation pioneers the Wright brothers. The servants and train crew may have known the identities of one or two of us, but they did not know all and it was the names of all printed together that would've made our mysterious journey significant in Washington, in Wall Street, even in London. Discovery we knew simply must not happen."

Why not? why the secrecy? what's the big deal about a group of Bankers getting together in private and talking about banking or even banking legislation. And the answer is provided by Vanderlip himself in the same article. He said: "If it were to be exposed publicly that our particular group had gotten together and written a banking bill, that bill would have no chance whatever of passage by Congress." Why not? Because the purpose of the bill was to break the grip of the money trust and it was written by the money trust. And had that fact been known at the get-go, we would never have had a Federal Reserve System because as Vanderlip said it would have had no chance of passage at all by Congress. So it was essential to keep that whole thing a secret as it has remained a secret even to this day. Not exactly a secret that you couldn't discover because anybody can go to the library and dig this out, but it is certainly not taught in textbooks. We don't know any of this in the official literature from the Federal Reserve System because that was like asking the fox to build the henhouse and install the security system.

That was the reason for the secrecy at the meeting. Now we know something very important about the Federal Reserve that we didn't know before, but there's much more to it than that. Consider the composition of this group. Here we had the Morgans, the Rockefellers, Kuhn, Loeb & Company, the Rothschilds and the Warburgs. Anything strange about that mixture? These were competitors. These were the major competitors in the field of investment and banking in those days; these were the giants. Prior to this period they were beating their heads against each other, blood all over the battlefield fighting for dominance in the financial markets of the World. Not only in New York but London, Paris and everywhere. And here they are sitting around a table coming to an agreement of some kind. What's going on here? We need to ask a few questions.

This is extremely significant because it happened precisely at that point in American history where business was undergoing a major and fundamental change in ideology. Prior to this point, American business had been operating under the principles of private enterprise--free enterprise competition is what made American great, what caused it to surpass all of the other nations of the World. Once we had achieved that pinnacle of performance, however, this was the point in history where the shift was going away from competition toward monopoly. This has been described in many textbooks as the dawning of the era of the cartel and this was what was happening. For the fifteen year period prior to the meeting on Jekyll Island, the very investment groups about which we are speaking were coming together more and more and engaging in joint ventures rather than competing with each other. The meeting on Jekyll Island was merely the culmination of that trend where they came together completely and decided not to compete--they formed a cartel.

I need to define that word so that you will know what I mean when I use the word cartel. It is a group of independently owned businesses which come together for the purpose of reducing or eliminating competition between themselves to enhance their profit margin or to secure their positions in the market. They do this by various means one of which is price fixing--no competition on price. There are other means. If we were forming a cartel here I might insist that I get the north and you can have the south and we won't compete. Or I would say I'll produce the gizmo and you can have the widget and we won't compete or we'll share patents and processes and whatever we do we agree to eliminate competition between ourselves. The more layers of agreement that we put one on top of the other, the more we become encased in this cartel structure and we become as one insofar as the market is concerned even though within that grouping we are separately owned.

This is just as true with a banking cartel as it is with any other industry. We come to the conclusion when we analyze the nature of the Federal Reserve System how it operates, read the Federal Reserve Act, place it against the context of the historical background and we come smack to the realization that the Federal Reserve System although it parades around looking as though it's a government operation of some kind, is merely a cartel of banks right under our noses and it is protected by law. I sometimes get the impression that it's been there dangerously operating all these years and we didn't even know it. I saw a video some years ago about the lava tubes in Hawaii. They are very impressive because apparently once in a while the ground will just break out, a hole will fall down and you can look into the hole and you see that there's a river of lava actually flowing just a few feet under your feet and you don't even know it's down there unless something breaks through and you hope you're not on the piece that breaks through. I got the feeling that this is how the Federal Reserve has been operating right under our feet; this cartel has been running and we didn't even know it because that fact has been carefully concealed from us.

Conclusion number 2 about the Federal Reserve System, a very important thing that we didn't know is the cartel. There's even more to it than that. Perhaps the third ingredient is the most important of all and that is the realization that this cartel went into partnership with the government. Now we have hold of something extremely significant. Cartels often go into partnership with governments because they need the force of law to enforce their cartel agreement but in this case they did it in spades. Whenever a partnership is formed there has to be a benefit to the partners otherwise they don't form it. So we need to ask the question what is the benefit, the payoff, for these two partners? Why did they go into it? Why did the government go into a partnership like this and why does the banking cartel? In answering those questions we finally come to grips with the reality of what this creature from Jekyll Island is. Let's take a look at that; what's the payoff to these two partners? In order to see that we'll have to examine in some detail the mechanism by which the Federal Reserve System creates money. This is a real interesting study. I call it the "Mandrake Mechanism" named after that comic-book character of the 40s, Mandrake the Magician, who could create something out of nothing and then wave his cape and it was back into the void again. That's a descriptive phrase for the way the Federal Reserve System does it.

Let's take a look at it and see how they create money through the Mandrake Mechanism. I am going to do this in a very simplified form. I want to warn you that it's going to sound like it's too simple. It's not. I'm going to strip out all the banking terminology, all the banker language, all the accounting phrases that need to be defined and speak in very plain English that anybody can understand. It may sound to you as though I've simplified it too much and I want to assure you that in spite of the simple language everything I'm going to tell you is absolutely 100% technically accurate. The other thing I want to warn you about is don't try and make sense out of this because it can't be done; this does not make sense and you'll blow a fuse trying to make it make sense. Just remember that it is a scam and if you keep that fact in mind then you'll have no trouble comprehending what's going on.

Here's how it works. It starts with the government side of the partnership in Congress which is spending money like crazy. It spends far more money than it takes in. It is spending way beyond its income. How can it do that? Basically this is what happens. Let's say Congress needs an extra billion dollars today so it goes to the treasury and says "we want a billion dollars" and the treasury official says "you guys have got to be kidding, we don't have any money here, you spent it all a long time ago, everything that we've taken in taxes you fellows have spent by March." Congress says "we thought that was true but we thought we'd stop by just in case somebody sent some more in." They get together and they go down the street and they get the idea that we'll borrow the money. So they stop at the printing office and they don't print money at the printing office, they print certificates and they're very fancy things with borders on the edge with an eagle across the top and a seal at the bottom and it says "US Government Bond" or "Note" or "Bill" depending on the length of the maturity of it. If you hold it up to the light it really says "IOU" because that's what it is. They print these things up and it looks very impressive and then they offer them to the private sector; they're hoping that people will come up and loan money to the federal government and a lot of people do and are anxious to lend money to their government. Why? Because they've been told by their investment advisors that that's the most sound investment that you can make. Why? We've all heard that these loans are backed by the full faith and credit of the US government. They're not quite sure what that means but it sure sounds good. I'd like to explain for you who are in doubt what that means. The full faith and credit of the US government means that the government solemnly promises to pay back that loan plus interest if it has to take everything you and I have in the form of taxes in order to do it, it's going to do it. It will take everything we have if necessary to hold its pledge. People don't realize that they're putting themselves on the line, they're going to get their own money back minus a substantial handling fee.

Plenty of money is loaned to the government but never enough. Congress needs more money than that. They say not to worry. They go further down the street to the Federal Reserve building. The Fed has been waiting for them, that's one of the reasons it was created. By the time they get inside the Federal Reserve building the officer of the Fed is opening his desk drawer. He knows they're going to be there and he's ready and he pulls out his checkbook and he writes a check to the US Treasury for one billion dollars or whatever the amount is that they need in exchange for the [unsold] Government Bonds. We need to stop here for a minute and ask a question. Where did they get a billion dollars to give to the treasury? who put that money into the account at the Federal Reserve System? The amazing answer is there is no money in the account at the Federal Reserve System. In fact, technically, there isn't even an account, there is only a checkbook. That's all. That billion dollars springs into being at precisely the instant the officer signs that check and that is called "monetizing the debt," that's the phrase they throw at you. That means they just wrote a check, a big rubber check. If you and I were to do that we would go to jail but they can do it because Congress wants them to do it. In fact, this is the payoff, this is the benefit to the government side of this partnership, this is how the government gets its instant access to any amount of money at any time without having to go to the taxpayer directly and justify it or ask for it. Otherwise, they would have to come to the taxpayer and say we're going to raise your taxes another $3,000 this year and of course if they did that, they would be voted out of office real fast. They like the Mandrake Mechanism because it's a no questions asked source of money. You may have noticed that it's been many years since Congress has even discussed what anything costs, it's not an issue. It doesn't make any difference what the cost is because regardless of the overrun they know they can go down the street to the Federal Reserve and by law the officer has to write that big check and give it to them and they're off and running.

There in a nutshell is the reason the government likes the Mandrake Mechanism--easy instant access to any amount of money of any kind without the taxpayer being involved directly in the loop. But what about the banking side? This is where it really gets interesting. Let's go back to that billion dollar check. The treasury official deposits the check into the government's checking account and all of a sudden the computers start to click and it shows that the government has a billion dollar deposit meaning that it can now write a billion dollars in checks against that deposit which it starts to do real fast. For the sake of our analysis, let's just follow $100 out of that billion in a check that for some reason they write to the fellow that delivers the mail to our door. The postal worker gets a check for $100 and he looks at this thing and he can't imagine in his wildest dreams that that money didn't exist two days ago anywhere in the universe. It's spendable so he wouldn't even care if you told him. He deposits it now into his personal checking account. Now we're finally out of the Federal Reserve and out of the government's check and we're into the private banking system. We're in finally to that part of the partnership which is involved in the cartel. A $100 deposit has now been made in the local bank and the banker sees that and runs over to the loan window and opens it up and says "attention, everybody, we have money to loan, someone just deposited $100." Everyone is overjoyed at that because that's one of the reasons they come to the bank, they come to borrow money. That's a sign of national health if you're in debt so they're anxious to know that the bank has money to loan, they line up for these loans. They heard the banker and they say $100 that's not very much and he says not to worry we can loan up to $900 based on that $100 deposit. How can that be done? It gets complicated the way they do it and I'll tell you in very simple terms. The Federal Reserve System requires that the banks hold no less than 10% of their deposits in reserve. The bank holds 10% of that $100 in reserve, $10, and it loans this first fellow in line $90. What does he do with it? He wants to spend it so he puts it into his checking account. In fact it probably goes directly into his checking account. Let's assume that they gave it to him and he puts it back, when he puts it back it's a deposit isn't it?

Only a $100 deposit but $900 in loans and that deposit is still there. Where did the $900 come from and the answer is the same--there was no money. This springs into existence precisely at the point at which the loan is made. Notice the difference, an important distinction is when the money is created out of nothing for the government it is spent by the government. On the banking side, however, when it's created out of nothing it's not spent by the banks it is loaned by the banks to you and to me and we spend it. Notice that when they loan it to us we have to pay them interest on it. Think about this for a minute. This money was created out of nothing and yet they collect interest on it which means that they collect interest on nothing. Not too shabby! What a concept, why didn't I think of that! I wish I had a magic checkbook like that where I could just write checks all day long and didn't have to have any money any place just checks, loan it to you folks and you're silly enough to pay me interest on it. That's how it works.

Now you see what the benefit is to the banking cartel for being involved in this Federal Reserve System, interest on nothing. The process doesn't end there, however. It has consequences to you and to me. I've heard some people say "isn't that interesting, these fellows are sure smart, I guess they deserve to be rich." It's as though we're out of the loop, it doesn't affect us any, they got rich but we're ok. Well no, they got rich alright but they got it by taking it from us. How does that work? Let's follow this. This newly created money goes out into the economy and it dilutes down the value of the dollars that were already out there. It's like pouring water into a pot of soup, it dilutes the soup. So by throwing more and more money into the economic soup out there the money gets weaker and weaker and we have the phenomenon called inflation which is the appearance of rising prices. I emphasize the word "appearance" because in reality prices are not rising at all. What we're seeing is that the value of the dollar is going down, that's the real side of the equation. If we had real money based on gold or silver or anything tangible that couldn't just be created out of thin air, it could be based on microphones, that they couldn't just create with the stroke of a pen, you would see then that prices would remain stable over a long period of time.

To illustrate that point, it's interesting to know that if we had lived in ancient Rome with a one ounce gold coin we would've been able to buy a very fine toga, a hand-crafted belt and a pair of sandals--that was the price in Rome. Today, if we have a one ounce gold coin what can we buy with it? We can go into any men's store and buy a very fine suit, a hand-crafted belt and a pair of shoes. The price of these items hasn't changed in thousands of years when expressed in terms of real money but when expressed in terms of these things we carry around in our pockets called Federal Reserve notes which is not really money at all, fiat money anyway, the prices keep going up and up and up because the value of those units keeps going down and down and down because they keep making more and more and more of them and dumping them into the economic soup.

That's still not the end of the process. We lost some purchasing power through this process called inflation. We lost something and very few people ask the question "who got it"? It's as though nobody got it, we all lost it, it's like it evaporated and went up to heaven somewhere. No, somebody got it. For every loser there's a winner. Or I should say for every fifty losers there's one winner that gets it all. Somebody got it. Who? Those people that got our lost purchasing power are the ones who were right up at the point where the fresh money was injected into the economic pot of soup. The ones that got the money first gained because they had full purchasing power at that instant when the money was created. By the time they spent it and gave it to you and you spent it on something and gave it to him and by the time that it got out to the edge of the pot where most of us are it's diluted. The ones that were right up at the nozzle got our lost purchasing power. Who are they? Obviously the government was up there first. Remember the billion dollar check, the very beginning of this process went to the government and they spent it instantly and that money went out into the economy and that was the beginning of this ripple effect. Who else? The next ones were the people who were up at the loan window. They got the money that was freshly created by the banking system because they were the borrowers. We all know that in times of inflation borrowers gain, this is no mystery. We've been told and advised to borrow money and stay up to the hilt in debt because you borrow in dollars but because of inflation you can pay back with 50 cent pieces.

So everybody knows about this part of it. What they forget is that the alleged benefits of doing this are surrendered to the bank in the form of interest payments. They're really not gaining that much. The gain that they are getting through the inflation process they're having to give to the bank in the form of interest on nothing. And it seems that they're gaining because they have these paper profits. The value of this real estate is going up and up and up or the value of my stock is going up and up and up but it's all paper. As far as purchasing power is concerned it's not going up, up, up at all. Nevertheless they're still having to pay for that illusion in the form of interest payments on nothing. Then comes the inevitable contraction of the economy. People don't realize that the economy moves traditionally like a sawtooth--it goes up gradually for a long period of time and seems like forever it's going to go up, you can plan on it forever and don't worry about it and then clunk! it falls down very quickly and then it starts the next long climb and people forget that every once in a while it comes down very abruptly. When it contracts people are extended out there and they can't service their debt and make the payments and they lose their assets.

Another interesting thing about this is that when the bank loans you money which it created out of nothing, it cost them nothing to make it, it wants something from you. It wants you to sign on the dotted line and pledge your house, your car, your inventory, your assets so that in case for any reason you cannot continue to make your payments they get your marbles, they get all of your assets. They're not going to lose anything on this. Whether it's expansion or contraction, inflation or deflation the banks are covered and we like sheep go right along with it because we haven't figured it out, we don't know that this is a scam. Of course we have no choice either right now because it's all enforced by law. We have no escape. We have no choice but it's even better that we don't understand it because we can't complain about it either. There you have it. The two groups that got our lost purchasing power--is anyone surprised?--the two members of the partnership, the government and the banking cartel. The two groups that comprise the Federal Reserve System. This lost purchasing power which is going from us to them is a tax. We don't think of it as a tax but it is. We have no escape from it. In fact, it's more a tax than the income tax or the excise tax which you can escape in one way or another. You can't escape this one. There are no deductions, no exemptions, everyone pays it and it is the most cruel, unfair tax of all because it falls most heavily on those who can least afford to pay it. It falls on those on fixed incomes, those who are retired. Anyone who has saved their money is paying this tax in direct proportion to the degree to which they have been frugal. It's a tax even though we don't think of it as that and it's time to think of it as that. It's a tax that goes from us to the government and to the banking cartel.

Let's summarize. What is the benefit to the members of the partnership? The government benefits because it is able to tax the American people any amount it wishes through a process which the people do not understand called inflation. They don't realize they're being taxed which makes it real handy when you're going for re-election. On the banking side they're able to earn perpetual interest on nothing. I emphasize the word "perpetual" because remember when the loan is paid back it's turned around and loaned out to somebody else. Once that money is created the object of the bank is to stay "loaned up" as they say. In reality the banks can never stay 100% loaned up and that ratio varies a lot but the objective is to stay loaned up to whatever extent is possible. Generally speaking once this money is created in the loan process it is out there in the economy forever, perpetually earning interest for one of the members of the banking cartel which created that money.

There you have in a condensed form a crash course on the Federal Reserve System and I can assure you that you know more about the Federal Reserve than you would probably if you enrolled in a four year course in economics because they don't teach this reality in school. So what, they say? Can you imagine that? I knew when I wrote this book and it got out that there would be some objection to it but I never dreamed what it would be. I couldn't think of any objection to it, I thought what are they going to say, what are the defenders of the Federal Reserve System going to say to me? I figured they were going to try and pick some error that I had made in some technical issue and try and make me look like a buffoon. But I never dreamed that the only opposition, at least that I've run into so far, is the question "so what"?

First of all, we are not living that well. People like Barry Lind are undoubtedly living very well and there are plenty of people in the system who are living very well. Generally those are the ones who are up at the nozzle where this new money is coming into the system or they're involved in the government or they have government subsidies. For most people, away from the nozzle, it's not going so well, we're not living that well. It is a matter of fact that the only reason that America has been able to maintain the appearance of a high standard of living since the Federal Reserve System has gotten into full swing, especially after WWII, is because of the shift towards two family incomes. It now takes two working people to just maintain the semblance of where we used to be with one person working in the family. And in spite of the two family income real wages are down for the common man today, real wages in terms of the number of hours a person must work in order to acquire the necessities of life. Young couples who are living on a single income now have a lower standard of living than their parents did. The net worth of the average household is falling. The leisure time for the average American is shrinking. The percentage of families who own their own homes is dropping. The age at which a family acquires its first home is rising. The number of families that are counted in the middle class is falling. The number of people below the poverty line is rising. Personal bankruptcies today are about three times what they were in the 1960s and over 90% of Americans are broke at the age of 65. So we're not living well at all as a result of this creature.

Furthermore, there's another thing wrong with it. That is that when you have a money supply based upon thin air it not only expands but it contracts. If it were based on gold or silver or microphones, the money supply couldn't expand and contract at the BankLords' whim but when it's politically motivated it can contract and that is the core cause of all of the booms and busts that have plagued America for so many years. In other words, this is the concept behind the recession and the depression and that is another thing that's wrong with it. The third thing that's wrong with it is that it is dishonest. You don't really need anything more than that do you? Even if it were the element that was creating our prosperity, even if it didn't cause recessions and depressions the fact that it is fraud, the fact that it is deception, it's dishonest and theft is really a good enough reason in my opinion to get rid of it. That's what's wrong with this scam.

Let's go back to Jekyll Island. They had an interesting problem there which was what to call their creature. This partnership between government and banks which we've been discussing was not new with the Federal Reserve System. In fact, it was a concept that was created in Europe in the 16th century. It was perfected with the formation of the Bank of England in 1694 and from that point forward all of the governments of Europe had used this Mandrake Mechanism. They didn't call it the Mandrake Mechanism, of course, they called it a "central bank," that's the technical phrase for this partnership. If you want to look it up in a textbook or encyclopedia you'll find it under the heading "Central Bank." From the Bank of England forward all the governments of Europe had central banks for a very good reason. The kings and princes of Europe had learned from hard experience that they could raise the taxes of their subjects only so high and then they had a revolt on their hands and they tended to lose their jobs (and heads). It appears that that natural level was about 40-43%; people will tolerate taxes up to about 40-43% and then they start digging in their heels and they just won't allow it to go any further. But with the central bank mechanism in place the lid was off. Now these governments could tax their people 50%, 60%, 70% and in some cases 80% of everything they produced and they did not have a revolt on their hands. They did not have resentment because the people didn't know that they were paying a tax. They knew that prices were going up, but they didn't understand why, they didn't know who was getting their lost purchasing power.

It was a nifty arrangement for these governments. It was at that point in history that governments' wars began to heat up. They always had wars but they were relatively small things because wars are expensive and the people won't pay more than 40% for everything including wars. But now that they had a way to tax higher than that, they could engage in very expensive wars. It's at that point in history that Europe plunged headlong into continuous war and big, very, very expensive wars. The people paid for them uncomplainingly through the process of inflation. So when it came time to transplant this concept to America these seven men on Jekyll Island knew very well that they were creating a central bank; that was the reason that Paul Warburg was so valuable because he was the man with the intense knowledge, the detailed technical knowledge of how central banks operate. But they had a problem. How could they conceal that from the American people because Congress was already on record as saying they did not want a central bank in America. I don't think they knew what that phrase really meant, but they knew that Europe had them, whatever they were, and we didn't want any. They said in America if we're going to have banking reform we don't want what they do over in Europe, we want something that is unique for America and its principles and economy.

The problem before these men on Jekyll Island is what to call the central bank so that nobody would know it was a central bank. And they theorized over this and this was their strategy: they said first let's give it a name and we'll add the word "Federal" to it to make it sound like its government. Then we'll add the word "Reserve" to make it seem like there are reserves somewhere, like it was a banking concept. We'll add the word "System," a very important word even though it may seem obscure now because remember in those days the concern was the concentration of financial power in New York so they had to sell the idea of a system of regional banks which would diffuse that power all over the nation. First they talked about ten regions and then they said that wasn't enough, twelve regions, we'll have twelve banks. And we'll build big buildings out there in all of those regions so the local yokels can go and look at the building and say "golly we've got one of those out here." Diffusion of power away from New York; you can go and touch the building. The word "System" was very important. When you look at it you realize that what they created there was not federal, there are no reserves, it's not a system at all in the sense of diffusion of power and these Federal Reserve banks aren't even banks. On all four words we're dealing with appearances of the fourth kind. It was brilliant strategy.

The next thing was to sell this creature to the public. The first draft of the Federal Reserve Act as it was presented to Congress was called the Aldrich Bill named after the sponsor, Senator Nelson Aldrich. This was against the good advice of Paul Warburg. He said: "Nelson, don't put your name on that bill because you are so identified with big business interests that Congress will vote it down; the people will not accept it." And apparently Aldrich's ego was too big. He must've said: "Well no, after all I'm highly respected in the Senate and I am the Chairman of the National Monetary Commission" and for whatever reason he insisted that his name be on the bill. It appears that he wanted to go down in history as the originator of the Federal Reserve System. Warburg was right. When the bill was introduced Congress put thumbs-down on it. "The Bill of Big Business." They took the bill back for it was just a minor setback, they scrambled the paragraphs around a little bit, took Aldrich's name off real fast and they found a couple of Democrats to sponsor the bill. This was different. Everybody knew that the Republicans represented big business but they also knew that Democrats represented the common man, the little guy, the fellow on the assembly line (like Ted Kennedy). They found a couple of millionaire Democrats to sponsor the bill. They found Carter Glass in the House and Senator Robert Owen who himself was a banker. Now it was the Glass-Owen bill and it was totally different and acceptable. The next thing, Aldrich and Vanderlip began to give speeches and interviews to newspaper reporters condemning the bill. They said: "This bill will be ruinous to banking. It will be terrible for the country." By the time the common man read that in his newspaper he said: "Oh golly, I guess these big Bankers don't like the bill very much so it must be pretty good."

These fellows were not stupid. You have to give them credit. They didn't get to be where they were by being country bumpkins. They understood politics, they understood mass psychology and they played their cards exceedingly well. Meanwhile these same individuals out of their own pockets were paying the price for the costs of bringing up what they called grassroots study clubs all over the country. They sponsored these clubs and they held public meetings and printed brochures and pamphlets extolling the virtues of the Federal Reserve System. They gave large amounts of money to some of the better known universities in America; they created newly formed departments of economics with that money; they hand picked their own people to be the professors to head up those departments and then those professors with all of their academic credentials gave speeches and wrote scholarly essays extolling the virtues of the Federal Reserve System. And then at the insistence of Paul Warburg who was forever the master strategist, they added several very sound provisions to the Federal Reserve Bill. By that I mean they added some provisions which seriously restricted the ability of the Federal Reserve to create money out of nothing. Warburg's associates said, "Paul, what are you doing? We don't want those in there this is our bill." And his response was this, he said, "Relax fellas, don't you get it? Our object is to get the bill passed. We can fix it up later." Those were his exact words. "We can fix it up later." He was so right. It was because of those provisions that they won over the support of William Jennings Bryan the head of the Populist Movement, the last hold-out against the bill. Bryan was concerned that this would be an instrument for ruining the nation's money supply but when he saw those provisions he said, "Oh well, those are good provisions, I guess I can support the bill now" never dreaming that this was temporary. Everything is temporary in politics. When people go to sleep things can get changed.

Warburg was right and they fixed it up later. The Federal Reserve Act since it was passed has been amended over 100 times. Every one of those provisions were long ago removed and many more have been added which greatly expand the power and reach of the Federal Reserve System to create money out of nothing. With this kind of professional strategy and deception these people were real professionals and the public didn't stand a chance. It is no surprise that popular support was finally gained for the bill and on December 22, 1913 the bill was passed by Congress and the following day was signed into law by President Wilson and the creature from Jekyll Island finally moved into Washington, DC. Let's stand back from the creature a few paces and take a look at its general form and shape and see what it is we got. We got a corporation chartered by Congress which was given an exclusive franchise to create our nation's money supply. We got a mechanism whereby Congress has been able to raise unlimited taxes from the American people without them even knowing that they're paying a tax and we got a mechanism whereby the banks can earn perpetual interest on nothing. That is the shape and form of the creature from Jekyll Island.

Here's an interesting question, Who owns the Federal Reserve System? You hear a lot of discussion on this particularly on talk radio nowadays. When the subject of money comes up somebody calls in and says, "Did you know the Federal Reserve is completely owned by the private banks? It's a private corporation. What we need to do," they say "is abolish the Fed and turn it over to the government so they can operate it for the benefit of the people.".... It is true that the Federal Reserve System is not an agency of the federal government in any shape or form. As I mentioned before, it is a corporation that is chartered by Congress and like all corporations it has stock certificates and those stock certificates in this case are held by the banks within the Federal Reserve System. Every bank that's in the system is an owner of the Federal Reserve--remember this is a cartel. They own it in one sense of the word, in the sense that they have stock certificates but up to that point it looks as though it has all the attributes of a privately held corporation. But that's as far as it goes because those stock certificates do not carry with them any of the attributes of private ownership. For example, the holders of these certificates cannot sell them... Furthermore the larger banks put up more money than the smaller banks, it's a ratio to their assets, so the larger banks have more stock certificates in the system than the small ones and yet regardless of the number that they hold, every bank has just one vote. There's another violation of the principle of private ownership...The board of directors and chairman of the Federal Reserve System are appointed by the President; they're not elected by the banks that are part of the system http://land.netonecom.net/tip/ref/federal_reserve.shtml .

All that the local banks can vote for with their vote are the boards of directors of the regional banks, so-called, which are subdivisions within the system. They can't even vote for the leadership in their local subdivisions because the chairman and the vice-chairman of those 12 regional banks are appointed by the national board. They can vote for their officers at those regional banks, the president, the vice-president and treasurer but guess what? Those are subject to veto by the national board. Get the picture? All power has always been at the top of this system. The only thing that the charter allows them to vote for, those boards of directors, of substance is to set the interest rates within their regions. But this should come as no surprise to anybody that even that is subject to veto by the national board. You see this concept of diffusion of power throughout the regions of the US is a scam. There is no power at the local level. There is nothing that these boards of directors who are voted in by the banks who hold the certificates can do of substance. All they're allowed to do really is play golf. It is not a privately held corporation in the traditional sense of the word. This idea of diffusion of power over the 12 regional banks was just a necessity of 1913 to sell the concept to the American people. If it hadn't been for this aversion against the concentration of power in New York they would never have had these 12 regions; it's just a leftover from the necessity to sell it and doesn't serve any function whatsoever. So it's not a corporation in the traditional sense of the word, it's not a government agency in the traditional sense of the word so what is it? It's a hybrid, part corporation and part government, part private, part government. In fact, it is exactly what you would expect it to be considering the fact that it is a partnership between the private banking cartel and the government. It's a unique structure which was designed to perform a unique function. The important thing is what it does and as long as it a central bank, which means as long as it has the power and the mandate to create money out of nothing it will create money out of nothing. That's what it will do and it will continue to do exactly the same thing and be run no doubt by the same people as it is now and we would not have solved anything. We must keep in mind that in Europe all of the central banks there are in fact direct agencies of their respective governments; they are not hybrid organizations at all like ours. And yet in those countries they do exactly the same as the Federal Reserve System has been doing here. Just turning it over to the government is a non-solution.

Well, let's proceed now into Chapters 1 & 10 of "The Creature from Jekyll Island by Edward Griffin and from The Secrets of the Federal Reserve by Eustace Mullins". (copy of the 1913 Federal Reserve Act below). In brief, the private banking cartel known as the Federal Reserve System was setup in 1913 at the same time that the 16th Amendment was introduced to force income taxes onto Americans. The 16th Amendment was not legally ratified and this is why people are challenging the legality of income taxes that go to pay the interest on the money created from nothing by the private Federal Reserve System. The FED owners have become immensely wealthy by creating money out of nothing and lending it to the tax payers. Owners of the Fed are listed further down. The same scam happens with the Bank of England and HSBC, both controlled by the Mason/Illuminati Zionist families (Rothschild, etc.). The secret meeting on Jekyll Island (owned by J.P.Morgan) in Georgia (around 1910) at which the Federal Reserve was conceived and a roadmap was laid towards the birth of a banking cartel to protect its members from competition, and the strategy of how to convince Congress and the public that this cartel was an agency of the United States government. Seven men who represented an estimated one forth of the total wealth of the entire World were present at that meeting:

1. Nelson W. Aldrich, Republican "whip" in the Senate, Chairman of the National Monetary Commission, business associate of J.P. Morgan, father-in-law to John D. Rockefeller, Jr.;
2. Abraham Piatt Andrew, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury;

3. Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, the most powerful of the banks at that time, representing William Rockefeller and the international investment banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Company;
4. Henry P. Davison, senior partner of the J.P Morgan Company;
5. Charles D. Norton, president of J.P. Morgan's First National Bank of New York;
6. Benjamin Strong, head of J.P. Morgan's Bankers Trust Company; and
7. Paul M. Warburg, a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Company, a representative of the Rothschild banking dynasty in England and France, and brother to Max Warburg who was head of the Warburg banking consortium in Germany and the Netherlands.

These competitors colluded to create a banking cartel whose collateral is the US taxpayer and all properties of the US government. In 1913, the same year that the Federal Reserve Act was passed into law, a subcommittee of the House Committee on Currency and Banking, under the chairmanship of Arsene Pujo of Louisiana, completed its investigation into the concentration of financial power in the United States. Pujo was considered to be a spokesman for the oil interests, part of the very group under investigation, and did everything possible to sabotage the hearings. In spite of his efforts, however, the final report of the committee at large was devastating. It stated: Your committee is satisfied from the proofs submitted, even in the absence of data from the banks, that there is an established and well defined identity and community of interest between a few leaders of finance...which has resulted in great and rapidly growing concentration of the control of money and credit in the hands of these few men.... When we consider, also, in this connection that into these reservoirs of money and credit there flow a large part of the reserves of the banks of the country, that they are also the agents and correspondents of the out-of-town banks in the loaning of their surplus funds in the only public money market of the country, and that a small group of men and their partners and associates have now further strengthened their hold upon the resources of these institutions by acquiring large stock holdings therein, by representation on their boards and through valuable patronage, we begin to realize something of the extent to which this practical and effective domination and control over our greatest financial, railroad and industrial corporations has developed, largely within the past five years, and that it is fraught with peril to the welfare of the country.

The purpose of this meeting on Jekyll Island was...to come to an agreement on the structure and operation of a banking cartel. The goal of the cartel, as is true with all of them, was to maximize profits by minimizing competition between members, to make it difficult for new competitors to enter the field, and to utilize the police power of government to enforce the cartel agreement. In more specific terms, the purpose and, indeed, the actual outcome of this meeting was to create the blueprint for the Federal Reserve System. On 23rd December 1913 the house of representatives had past the Federal Reserve Act, but it was still having difficulty getting it out of the senate. Most members of congress had gone home for the holidays, but unfortunately the senate had not adjourn sine dei (without day) so they were technically still in session. There were only three members still present. On a unanimous consent voice vote the 1913 Federal Reserve Act was passed. No objection was made, possibly because there was no one there to object.

The first leak regarding this meeting found its way into print in 1916. It appeared in Leslie's Weekly and was written by a young financial reporter by the name of B.C. Forbes, who later founded Forbes Magazine. The article was primarily in praise of Paul Warburg, and it is likely that Warburg let the story out during conversations with the writer. At any rate, the opening paragraph contained a dramatic but highly accurate summary of both the nature and purpose of the meeting: Picture a party of the nation's greatest Bankers stealing out of New York on a private railroad car under cover of darkness, stealthily hiding hundreds of miles South, embarking on a mysterious launch, sneaking on to an island deserted by all but a few servants, living there a full week under such rigid secrecy that the names of not one of them was once mentioned lest the servants learn the identity and disclose to the World this strangest, most secret expedition in the history of American finance. I am not romancing. I am giving to the World, for the first time, the real story of how the famous Aldrich currency report, the foundation of our new currency system, was written. In 1930, Paul Warburg wrote a massive book - 1750 pages in all - entitled "The Federal Reserve System, Its Origin and Growth". In this tome, he described the meeting and its purpose but did not mention either its location or the names of those who attended. But he did say: "The results of the conference were entirely confidential. Even the fact there had been a meeting was not permitted to become public." Then in a footnote he added: "Though eighteen years have since gone by, I do not feel free to give a description of this most interesting conference concerning which Senator Aldrich pledged all participants to secrecy."

In the February 9, 1935, issue of the Saturday Evening Post, an article appeared written by Frank Vanderlip. In it he said: "Despite my views about the value to society of greater publicity for the affairs of corporations, there was an occasion, near the close of 1910, when I was as secretive - indeed, as furtive - as any conspirator....I do not feel it is any exaggeration to speak of our secret expedition to Jekyll Island as the occasion of the actual conception of what eventually became the Federal Reserve System....We were told to leave our last names behind us. We were told, further, that we should avoid dining together on the night of our departure. We were instructed to come one at a time and as unobtrusively as possible to the railroad terminal on the New Jersey littoral of the Hudson, where Senator Aldrich's private car would be in readiness, attached to the rear end of a train for the South....

Once aboard the private car we began to observe the taboo that had been fixed on last names. We addressed one another as "Ben," "Paul," "Nelson," "Abe" - it is Abraham Piatt Andrew. Davison and I adopted even deeper disguises, abandoning our first names. On the theory that we were always right, he became Wilbur and I became Orville, after those two aviation pioneers, the Wright brothers....The servants and train crew may have known the identities of one or two of us, but they did not know all, and it was the names of all printed together that would have made our mysterious journey significant in Washington, in Wall Street, even in London. Discovery, we knew, simply must not happen, or else all our time and effort would be wasted. If it were to be exposed publicly that our particular group had got together and written a banking bill, that bill would have no chance whatever of passage by Congress. As with all cartels, it had to be created by fraudulent legislation and sustained by the power of government under the deception of protecting the consumer. As John Kenneth Galbraith explained it: "It was his [Aldrich's] thought to outflank the opposition by having not one central bank but many. And the word bank would itself be avoided."--Galbraith says "...Warburg has, with some justice, been called the father of the system."

Professor Edwin Seligman, a member of the international banking family of J. & W. Seligman, and head of the Department of Economics at Columbia University, writes that "...in its fundamental features, the Federal Reserve Act is the work of Mr. Warburg more than any other man in the country." Another brother, Max Warburg, was the financial adviser of the Kaiser and became Director of the Reichsbank in Germany. This was, of course, a central bank, and it was one of the cartel models used in the construction of the Federal Reserve System. The Reichsbank, incidentally, a few years later would create the massive hyperinflation that occurred in Germany, wiping out the middle class and the entire German economy as well....A. Barton Hepburn of Chase National Bank was even more candid. He said: "The measure recognizes and adopts the principles of a central bank. Indeed, if all works out as the sponsors of the law hope, it will make all incorporated banks together joint owners of a central dominating power." And that is about as good a definition of a cartel as one is likely to find.-- ...it is incapable of achieving its stated objectives.-- ...why is the System incapable of achieving its stated objectives? The painful answer is: those were never its true objectives.—

Anthony Sutton, former Research Fellow at the Hoover Institution for War, Revolution and Peace, and also Professor of Economics at California State University, Los Angeles, provides a somewhat deeper analysis. He writes: "Warburg's revolutionary plan to get American Society to go to work for Wall Street was astonishingly simple. Even today,... academic theoreticians cover their blackboards with meaningless equations, and the general public struggles in bewildered confusion with inflation and the coming credit collapse, while the quite simple explanation of the problem goes undiscussed and almost entirely uncomprehended. The Federal Reserve System is a legal private monopoly of the money supply operated for the benefit of the few under the guise of protecting and promoting the public interest."

The real significance of the journey to Jekyll Island and the creature that was hatched there was inadvertently summarized by the words of Paul Warburg's admiring biographer, Harold Kellock: "Paul M. Warburg is probably the mildest-mannered man that ever personally conducted a revolution. It was a bloodless revolution: he did not attempt to rouse the populace to arms. He stepped forth armed simply with an idea. And he conquered. That's the amazing thing. A shy, sensitive man, he imposed his idea on a nation of a hundred million people."

THE MANDRAKE MECHANISM...What is it? It is the method by which the Federal Reserve creates money out of nothing; the concept of usury as the payment of interest on pretended loans; the true cause of the hidden tax called inflation; the way in which the Fed creates boom-bust cycles. In the 1940s, there was a comic strip character called Mandrake the Magician. His specialty was creating things out of nothing and, when appropriate, to make them disappear back into that same void. It is fitting, therefore, that the process to be described in this section should be named in his honor. In the previous chapters, we examined the technique developed by the political and monetary scientists to create money out of nothing for the purpose of lending. This is not an entirely accurate description because it implies that money is created first and then waits for someone to borrow it. On the other hand, textbooks on banking often state that money is created out of debt. This also is misleading because it implies that debt exists first and then is converted into money. In truth, money is not created until the instant it is borrowed. It is the act of borrowing which causes it to spring into existence. And, incidentally, it is the act of paying off the debt that causes it to vanish. There is no short phrase that perfectly describes that process. So, until one is invented along the way, we shall continue using the phrase "create money out of nothing" and occasionally add "for the purpose of lending" where necessary to further clarify the meaning.

So, let us now...see just how far this money/debt-creation process has been carried -- and how it works. The first fact that needs to be considered is that our money today has no gold or silver behind it whatsoever. The fraction is not 54% nor 15%. It is 0%. It has traveled the path of all previous fractional money in history and already has degenerated into pure fiat money. The fact that most of it is in the form of checkbook balances rather than paper currency is a mere technicality; and the fact that Bankers speak about "reserve ratios" is eye wash. The so-called reserves to which they refer are, in fact, Treasury bonds and other certificates of debt. Our money is pure fiat through and through. The second fact that needs to be clearly understood is that, in spite of the technical jargon and seemingly complicated procedures, the actual mechanism by which the Federal Reserve creates money is quite simple. They do it exactly the same way the goldsmiths of old did except, of course, the goldsmiths were limited by the need to hold some precious metals in reserve, whereas the Fed has no such restriction.

The Federal Reserve is candid

The Federal Reserve itself is amazingly frank about this process. A booklet published by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York tells us: "Currency cannot be redeemed, or exchanged, for Treasury gold or any other asset used as backing. The question of just what assets 'back' Federal Reserve notes has little but bookkeeping significance." Elsewhere in the same publication we are told: "Banks are creating money based on a borrower's promise to pay (the IOU)...Banks create money by 'monetizing' the private debts of businesses and individuals." In a booklet entitled Modern Money Mechanics, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago says: "In the United States neither paper currency nor deposits have value as commodities. Intrinsically, a dollar bill is just a piece of paper. Deposits are merely book entries. Coins do have some intrinsic value as metal, but generally far less than their face amount". "Neither paper currency nor deposits have value as commodities, intrinsically, a 'dollar' bill is just a piece of paper. Deposits are merely book entries." -- Modern Money Mechanics Workbook, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, 1975

What, then, makes these instruments -- checks, paper money, and coins -- acceptable at face value in payment of all debts and for other monetary uses? Mainly, it is the confidence people have that they will be able to exchange such money for other financial assets and real goods and services whenever they choose to do so. This partly is a matter of law; currency has been designated "legal tender" by the government -- that is, it must be accepted. In the fine print of a footnote in a bulletin of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, we find this surprisingly candid explanation: Modern monetary systems have a fiat base -- literally money by decree -- with depository institutions, acting as fiduciaries, creating obligations against themselves with the fiat base acting in part as reserves. The decree appears on the currency notes: "This note is legal tender for all debts, public and private." While no individual could refuse to accept such money for debt repayment, exchange contracts could easily be composed to thwart its use in everyday commerce. However, a forceful explanation as to why money is accepted is that the federal government requires it as payment for tax liabilities. Anticipation of the need to clear this debt creates a demand for the pure fiat dollars.

Money would vanish without debt

It is difficult for Americans to come to grips with the fact that their total money supply is backed by nothing but debt, and it is even more mind boggling to visualize that, if everyone paid back all that was borrowed, there would be no money left in existence. That's right, there would not be one penny in circulation -- all coins and all paper currency would be returned to bank vaults -- and there would be not one dollar in any one's checking account. In short, all money would disappear. Marriner Eccles was the Governor of the Federal Reserve System in 1941. On September 30 of that year, Eccles was asked to give testimony before the House Committee on Banking and Currency. The purpose of the hearing was to obtain information regarding the role of the Federal Reserve in creating conditions that led to the depression of the 1930s. Congressman Wright Patman, who was Chairman of that committee, asked how the Fed got the money to purchase two billion dollars worth of government bonds in 1933. This is the exchange that followed.

ECCLES: We created it.

PATMAN: Out of what?

ECCLES: Out of the right to issue credit money.

PATMAN: And there is nothing behind it, is there, except our government's credit?

ECCLES: That is what our money system is. If there were no debts in our money system, there wouldn't be any money.

It must be realized that, while money may represent an asset to selected individuals, when it is considered as an aggregate of the total money supply, it is not an asset at all. A man who borrows $1,000 may think that he has increased his financial position by that amount but he has not. His $1,000 cash asset is offset by his $1,000 loan liability, and his net position is zero. Bank accounts are exactly the same on a larger scale. Add up all the bank accounts in the nation, and it would be easy to assume that all that money represents a gigantic pool of assets which support the economy. Yet, every bit of this money is owed by someone. Some will owe nothing. Others will owe many times what they possess. All added together, the national balance is zero. What we think is money is but a grand illusion. The reality is debt.

Robert Hemphill was the Credit Manager of the Federal Reserve Bank in Atlanta, 1934. In the foreword to a book by Irving Fisher, entitled 100% Money, Hemphill said this:

If all the bank loans were paid, no one could have a bank deposit, and there would not be a dollar of coin or currency in circulation. This is a staggering thought. We are completely dependent on the commercial banks. Someone has to borrow every dollar we have in circulation, cash, or credit. If the banks create ample synthetic money we are prosperous; if not, we starve. We are absolutely without a permanent money system. When one gets a complete grasp of the picture, the tragic absurdity of our hopeless situation is almost incredible -- but there it is. With the knowledge that money in America is based on debt, it should not come as a surprise to learn that the Federal Reserve System is not the least interested in seeing a reduction in debt in this country, regardless of public utterances to the contrary. Here is the bottom line from the System's own publications. The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia says: "A large and growing number of analysts, on the other hand, now regard the national debt as something useful, if not an actual blessing....[They believe] the national debt need not be reduced at all." The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago adds: "Debt -- public and private -- is here to stay. It plays an essential role in economic processes.... What is required is not the abolition of debt, but its prudent use and intelligent management."

What's wrong with a little debt?

There is a kind of fascinating appeal to this theory. It gives those who expound it an aura of intellectualism, the appearance of being able to grasp a complex economic principle that is beyond the comprehension of mere mortals. And, for the less academically minded, it offers the comfort of at least sounding moderate. After all, what's wrong with a little debt, prudently used and intelligently managed? The answer is nothing, provided the debt is based on an honest transaction. There is plenty wrong with it if it is based upon fraud. An honest transaction is one in which a borrower pays an agreed upon sum in return for the temporary use of a lender's asset. That asset could be anything of tangible value. If it were an automobile, for example, then the borrower would pay "rent." If it is money, then the rent is called "interest." Either way, the concept is the same.

When we go to a lender -- either a bank or a private party -- and receive a loan of money, we are willing to pay interest on the loan in recognition of the fact that the money we are borrowing is an asset which we want to use. It seems only fair to pay a rental fee for that asset to the person who owns it. It is not easy to acquire an automobile, and it is not easy to acquire money -- real money, that is. If the money we are borrowing was earned by someone's labor and talent, they are fully entitled to receive interest on it. But what are we to think of money that is created by the mere stroke of a pen or the click of a computer key? Why should anyone collect a rental fee on that? When banks place credits into your checking account, they are merely pretending to lend you money. In reality, they have nothing to lend. Even the money that non-indebted depositors have placed with them was originally created out of nothing in response to someone else's loan. So what entitles the banks to collect rent on nothing? It is immaterial that men everywhere are forced by law to accept these nothing certificates in exchange for real goods and services. We are talking here, not about what is legal, but what is moral. As Thomas Jefferson observed at the time of his protracted battle against central banking in the United States, "No one has a natural right to the trade of money lender, but he who has money to lend."

Third reason to abolish the system

Centuries ago, usury was defined as any interest charged for a loan. Modern usage has redefined it as excessive interest. Certainly, any amount of interest charged for a pretended loan is excessive. The dictionary, therefore, needs a new definition. Usury: The charging of any interest on a loan of fiat money. Let us, therefore, look at debt and interest in this light. Thomas Edison summed up the immorality of the system when he said: People who will not turn a shovel of dirt on the project nor contribute a pound of materials will collect more money...than will the people who will supply all the materials and do all the work.

Is that an exaggeration? Let us consider the purchase of a $100,000 home in which $30,000 represents the cost of the land, architect's fee, sales commissions, building permits, and that sort of thing and $70,000 is the cost of labor and building materials. If the home buyer puts up $30,000 as a down payment, then $70,000 must be borrowed. If the loan is issued at 11% over a 30-year period, the amount of interest paid will be $167,806. That means the amount paid to those who loan the money is about 2 1/2 times greater than paid to those who provide all the labor and all the materials. It is true that this figure represents the time-value of that money over thirty years and easily could be justified on the basis that a lender deserves to be compensated for surrendering the use of his capital for half a lifetime. But that assumes the lender actually had something to surrender, that he had earned the capital, saved it, and then loaned it for construction of someone else's house. What are we to think, however, about a lender who did nothing to earn the money, had not saved it, and, in fact, simply created it out of thin air? What is the time-value of nothing?

As we have already shown, every dollar that exists today, either in the form of currency, checkbook money, or even credit card money -- in other words, our entire money supply -- exists only because it was borrowed by someone; perhaps not you, but someone. That means all the American dollars in the entire World are earning daily and compounding interest for the banks which created them. A portion of every business venture, every investment, every profit, every transaction which involves money -- and that even includes losses and the payment of taxes -- a portion of all that is earmarked as payment to a bank. And what did the banks do to earn this perpetually flowing river of wealth? Did they lend out their own capital obtained through investment of stockholders? Did they lend out the hard-earned savings of their depositors? No, neither of these were their major source of income. They simply waved the magic wand called fiat money. The flow of such unearned wealth under the guise of interest can only be viewed as usury of the highest magnitude. Even if there were no other reasons to abolish the Fed, the fact that it is the supreme instrument of usury would be more than sufficient by itself.

Who creates the money to pay the interest?

One of the most perplexing questions associated with this process is "Where does the money come from to pay the interest?" If you borrow $10,000 from a bank at 9%, you owe $10,900. But the bank only manufactures $10,000 for the loan. It would seem, therefore, that there is no way that you -- and all others with similar loans -- can possibly pay off your indebtedness. The amount of money put into circulation just isn't enough to cover the total debt, including interest. This has led some to the conclusion that it is necessary for you to borrow the $900 for interest, and that, in turn, leads to still more interest. The assumption is that, the more we borrow, the more we have to borrow, and that debt based on fiat money is a never ending spiral leading inexorably to more and more debt. This is a partial truth. It is true that there is not enough money created to include the interest, but it is incomplete to say that the only way to pay it back is to borrow still more, however if the BankLords delay or don't recirculated money in a particular economy, then it is correct to say that the only way to pay it back is to borrow still more. The assumption fails to take into account the exchange value of labor. Let us assume that you pay back your $10,000 loan at the rate of approximately $900 per month and that about $80 of that represents interest. You realize you are hard pressed to make your payments so you decide to take on a part-time job. The bank, on the other hand, is now making $80 profit each month on your loan. Since this amount is classified as "interest," it is not extinguished as is the larger portion which is a return of the loan itself. So this remains as spendable money in the account of the bank. The decision then is made to have the bank's floors waxed once a week. You respond to the ad in the paper and are hired at $80 per month to do the job. The result is that you earn the money to pay the interest on your loan, and -- this is the point -- the money you receive is the same money which you previously had paid. As long as you perform labor for the bank each month, the same dollars go into the bank as interest, then out of the revolving door as your wages, and then back into the bank as loan repayment.

It is not necessary that you work directly for the bank. No matter where you earn the money, its origin was a bank and its ultimate destination is a bank. The loop through which it travels can be large or small, but the fact remains all interest is paid eventually by human effort. And the significance of that fact is even more startling than the assumption that not enough money is created to pay back the interest. It is that the total of this human effort ultimately is for the benefit of those who create fiat money. It is a form of modern serfdom in which the great mass of society works as indentured servants to a ruling class of financial nobility.

Understanding the illusion

That's really all one needs to know about the operation of the banking cartel under the protection of the Federal Reserve. But it would be a shame to stop here without taking a look at the actual cogs, mirrors, and pulleys that make the magical mechanism work. It is a truly fascinating engine of mystery and deception. Let us, therefore, turn our attention to the actual process by which the magicians create the illusion of modern money. First we shall stand back for a general view to see the overall action. Then we shall move in closer and examine each component in detail.

The Mandrake Mechanism: An Overview

The entire function of this machine is to convert debt into money. It's just that simple. First, the Fed takes all the government bonds which the public does not buy and writes a check to Congress in exchange for them. (It acquires other debt obligations as well, but government bonds comprise most of its inventory.) There is no money to back up this check. These fiat dollars are created on the spot for that purpose. By calling those bonds "reserves," the Fed then uses them as the base for creating 9 additional dollars for every dollar created for the bonds themselves. The money created for the bonds is spent by the government, whereas the money created on top of those bonds is the source of all the bank loans made to the nation's businesses and individuals. The result of this process is the same as creating money on a printing press, but the illusion is based on an accounting trick rather than a printing trick. The bottom line is that Congress and the banking cartel have entered into a partnership in which the cartel has the privilege of collecting interest on money which it creates out of nothing, a perpetual override on every American dollar that exists in the World. Congress, on the other hand, has access to unlimited funding without having to tell the voters their taxes are being raised through the process of inflation. If you understand this paragraph, you understand the Federal Reserve System.

Now for a more detailed view. There are three general ways in which the Federal Reserve creates fiat money out of debt. One is by making loans to the member banks through what is called the Discount Window. The second is by purchasing Treasury bonds and other certificates of debt through what is called the Open Market Committee. The third is by changing the so-called reserve ratio that member banks are required to hold. Each method is merely a different path to the same objective: taking IOUs and converting them into spendable money.

THE DISCOUNT WINDOW

The Discount Window is merely Bankers' language for the loan window. When banks run short of money, the Federal Reserve stands ready as the "Bankers' bank" to lend it. There are many reasons for them to need loans. Since they hold "reserves" of only about one or two per cent of their deposits in vault cash and eight or nine per cent in securities, their operating margin is extremely thin. It is common for them to experience temporary negative balances caused by unusual customer demand for cash or unusually large clusters of checks all clearing through other banks at the same time. Sometimes they make bad loans and, when these former "assets" are removed from their books, their "reserves" are also decreased and may, in fact, become negative. Finally, there is the profit motive. When banks borrow from the Federal Reserve at one interest rate and lend it out at a higher rate, there is an obvious advantage. But that is merely the beginning. When a bank borrows a dollar from the Fed, it becomes a one-dollar reserve. Since the banks are required to keep reserves of only about ten per cent, they actually can loan up to nine dollars for each dollar borrowed.

Let's take a look at the math. Assume the bank receives $1 million from the Fed at a rate of 8%. The total annual cost, therefore, is $80,000 (.08 X $1,000,000). The bank treats the loan as a cash deposit, which means it becomes the basis for manufacturing an additional $9 million to be lent to its customers. If we assume that it lends that money at 11% interest, its gross return would be $990,000 (.11 X $9,000,000). Subtract from this the bank's cost of $80,000 plus an appropriate share of its overhead, and we have a net return of about $900,000. In other words, the bank borrows a million and can almost double it in one year. That's leverage! But don't forget the source of that leverage: the manufacture of another $9 million which is added to the nation's money supply.

THE OPEN MARKET OPERATION

The most important method used by the Federal Reserve for the creation of fiat money is the purchase and sale of securities on the open market. But, before jumping into this, a word of warning. Don't expect what follows to make any sense. Just be prepared to know that this is how they do it. The trick lies in the use of words and phrases which have technical meanings quite different from what they imply to the average citizen. So keep your eye on the words. They are not meant to explain but to deceive. In spite of first appearances, the process is not complicated. It is just absurd.

THE MANDRAKE MECHANISM: DETAILED VIEW GOVERNMENT DEBT (THE MANDRAKE MECHANISM)

The federal government adds ink to a piece of paper, creates impressive designs around the edges, and calls it a bond or Treasury note. It is merely a promise to pay a specified sum at a specified interest on a specified date. As we shall see in the following steps, this debt eventually becomes the foundation for almost the entire nation's money supply.¹³ In reality, the government has created cash, but it doesn't yet look like cash. To convert these IOUs into paper bills and checkbook money is the function of the Federal Reserve System. To bring about that transformation, the bond is given to the Fed where it is then classified as a...

SECURITIES ASSET

An instrument of government debt is considered an asset because it is assumed the government will keep its promise to pay. This is based upon its ability to obtain whatever money it needs through taxation. Thus, the strength of this asset is the power to take back that which it gives. So the Federal Reserve now has an "asset" which can be used to offset a liability. It then creates this liability by adding ink to yet another piece of paper and exchanging that with the government in return for the asset. That second piece of paper is a...

FEDERAL RESERVE CHECK (CHEQUE)

There is no money in any account to cover this check. Anyone else doing that would be sent to prison. It is legal for the Fed, however, because Congress wants the money, and this is the easiest way to get it. (To raise taxes would be political suicide; to depend on the public to buy all the bonds would not be realistic, especially if interest rates are set artificially low; and to print very large quantities of currency would be obvious and controversial.) This way, the process is mysteriously wrapped up in the banking system. The end result, however, is the same as turning on government printing presses and simply manufacturing fiat money (money created by the order of government with nothing of tangible value backing it) to pay government expenses. Yet, in accounting terms, the books are said to be "balanced" because the liability of the money is offset by the "asset" of the IOU. The Federal Reserve check received by the government then is endorsed and sent back to one of the Federal Reserve banks where it now becomes a...

GOVERNMENT DEPOSIT

Once the Federal Reserve check has been deposited into the government's account, it is used to pay government expenses and, thus, is transformed into many...

GOVERNMENT CHECKS

These checks become the means by which the first wave of fiat money floods into the economy. Recipients now deposit them into their own bank accounts where they become...

COMMERCIAL BANK DEPOSITS

Commercial bank deposits immediately take on a split personality. On the one hand, they are liabilities to the bank because they are owed back to the depositors. But, as long as they remain in the bank, they also are considered as assets because they are on hand. Once again, the books are balanced:

the assets offset the liabilities. But the process does not stop there. Through the magic of fractional-reserve banking, the deposits are made to serve an additional and more lucrative purpose. To accomplish this, the on-hand deposits now become reclassified in the books and called...

BANK RESERVES

Reserves for what? Are these for paying off depositors should they want to close out of their accounts? No. That's the lowly function they served when they were classified as mere assets. Now that they have been given the name of "reserves," they become the magic wand to materialize even larger amounts of fiat money. This is where the real action is: at the level of the commercial banks. Here's how it works. The banks are permitted by the Fed to hold as little as 10% of their deposits in "reserve." That means, if they receive deposits of $1 million from the first wave of fiat money created by the Fed, they have $900,000 more than they are required to keep on hand ($1 million less 10% reserve). In Bankers' language, that $900,000 is called...

EXCESS RESERVES

The word "excess" is a tip-off that these so-called reserves have a special destiny. Now that they have been transmuted into an excess, they are considered as available for lending. And so in due course these excess reserves are converted into...

BANK LOANS

But wait a minute. How can this money be loaned out when it is owned by the original depositors who are still free to write checks and spend it any time they wish? The answer is that, when the new loans are made, they are not made with the same money at all. They are made with brand new money created out of thin air for that purpose. The nation's money supply simply increases by ninety per cent of the bank's deposits. Furthermore, this new money is far more interesting to the banks than the old. The old money, which they received from depositors, requires them to pay out interest or perform services for the privilege of using it. But, with the new money, the banks collect interest, instead, which is not too bad considering it cost them nothing to make. Nor is that the end of the process. When this second wave of fiat money moves into the economy, it comes right back into the banking system, just as the first wave did, in the form of...

MORE COMMERCIAL BANK DEPOSITS

The process now repeats but with slightly smaller numbers each time around. What was a "loan" on Friday comes back into the bank as a "deposit" on Monday. The deposit then is reclassified as a "reserve" and ninety per cent of that becomes an "excess" reserve which, once again, is available for a new "loan." Thus, the $1 million of first wave fiat money gives birth to $900,000 in the second wave, and that gives birth to $810,000 in the third wave ($900,000 less 10% reserve). It takes about twenty-eight times through the revolving door of deposits becoming loans becoming deposits becoming more loans until the process plays itself out to the maximum effect, which is...

BANK FIAT MONEY = UP TO 9 TIMES GOVERNMENT

The amount of fiat money created by the banking cartel is approximately nine times the amount of the original government debt which made the entire process possible. When the original debt itself is added to that figure, we finally have...

TOTAL FIAT MONEY = UP TO 10 TIMES GOVERNMENT

The total amount of fiat money created by the Federal Reserve and the commercial banks together is approximately ten times the amount of the underlying government debt. To the degree that this newly created money floods into the economy in excess of goods and services, it causes the purchasing power of all money, both old and new, to decline. Prices go up because the relative value of the money has gone down. The result is the same as if that purchasing power had been taken from us in taxes. The reality of this process, therefore, is that it is a...

HIDDEN TAX = UP TO 10 TIMES THE NATIONAL DEBT

Without realizing it, Americans have paid over the years, in addition to their federal income taxes and excise taxes, a completely hidden tax equal to many times the national debt! And that still is not the end of the process. Since our money supply is purely an arbitrary entity with nothing behind it except debt, its quantity can go down as well as up. When people are going deeper into debt, the nation's money supply expands and prices go up, but when they pay off their debts and refuse to renew, the money supply contracts and prices tumble. That is exactly what happens in times of economic or political uncertainty. This alternation between period of expansion and contraction of the money supply is the underlying cause of...

BOOMS, BUSTS, AND DEPRESSIONS

Who benefits from all of this? Certainly not the average citizen. The only beneficiaries are the political scientists in Congress who enjoy the effect of unlimited revenue to perpetuate their power, and the monetary scientists within the banking cartel called the Federal Reserve System who have been able to harness the American people, without their knowing it, to the yoke of modern feudalism.

RESERVE RATIOS

The previous figures are based on a "reserve" ratio of 10% (a money-expansion ratio of 10-to-1). It must be remembered, however, that this is purely arbitrary. Since the money is fiat with no previous-metal backing, there is no real limitation except what the politicians and money managers decide is expedient for the moment. Altering this ratio is the third way in which the Federal Reserve can influence the nation's supply of money. The numbers, therefore, must be considered as transient. At any time there is a "need" for more money, the ratio can be increased to 20-to-1 or 50-to-1, or the pretense of a reserve can be dropped altogether. There is virtually no limit to the amount of fiat money that can be manufactured under the present system.

NATIONAL DEBT NOT NECESSARY FOR INFLATION

Because the Federal Reserve can be counted on to "monetize" (convert into money) virtually any amount of government debt, and because this process of expanding the money supply is the primary cause of inflation, it is tempting to jump to the conclusion that federal debt and inflation are but two aspects of the same phenomenon. This, however, is not necessarily true. It is quite possible to have either one without the other.

The banking cartel holds a monopoly in the manufacture of money. Consequently, money is created only when IOUs are "monetized" by the Fed or by commercial banks. When private individuals, corporations, or institutions purchase government bonds, they must use money they have previously earned and saved. In other words, no new money is created, because they are using funds that are already in existence. Therefore, the sale of government bonds to the banking system is inflationary, but when sold to the private sector, it is not. That is the primary reason the United States avoided massive inflation during the 1980s when the federal government was going into debt at a greater rate than ever before in its history. By keeping interest rates high, these bonds became attractive to private investors, including those in other countries.¹⁵ Very little new money was created, because most of the bonds were purchased with American dollars already in existence. This, of course, was a temporary fix at best. Today, those bonds are continually maturing and are being replaced by still more bonds to include the original debt plus accumulated interest. Eventually this process must come to an end and, when it does, the Fed will have no choice but to literally buy back all the debt of the '80s -- that is, to replace all of the formerly invested private money with newly manufactured fiat money -- plus a great deal more to cover the interest. Then we will understand the meaning of inflation.

On the other side of the coin, the Federal Reserve has the option of manufacturing money even if the federal government does not go deeper into debt. For example, the huge expansion of the money supply leading up to the stock market crash in 1929 occurred at a time when the national debt was being paid off. In every year from 1920 through 1930, federal revenue exceeded expenses, and there were relatively few government bonds being offered. The massive inflation of the money supply was made possible by converting commercial bank loans into "reserves" at the Fed's discount window and by the Fed's purchase of banker's acceptances, which are commercial contracts for the purchase of goods.

Now the options are even greater. The Monetary Control Act of 1980 has made it possible for the Creature to monetize virtually any debt instrument, including IOUs from foreign governments. The apparent purpose of this legislation is to make it possible to bail out those governments which are having trouble paying the interest on their loans from American banks. When the Fed creates fiat American dollars to give foreign governments in exchange for their worthless bonds, the money path is slightly longer and more twisted, but the effect is similar to the purchase of U.S. Treasury Bonds. The newly created dollars go to the foreign governments, then to the American banks where they become cash reserves. Finally, they flow back into the U.S. money pool (multiplied by nine) in the form of additional loans. The cost of the operation once again is born by the American citizen through the loss of purchasing power. Expansion of the money supply, therefore, and the inflation that follows, no longer even require federal deficits. As long as someone is willing to borrow American dollars, the cartel will have the option of creating those dollars specifically to purchase their bonds and, by so doing, continue to expand the money supply.

We must not forget, however, that one of the reasons the Fed was created in the first place was to make it possible for Congress to spend without the public knowing it was being taxed. Americans have shown an amazing indifference to this fleecing, explained undoubtedly by their lack of understanding of how the Mandrake Mechanism works. Consequently, at the present time, this cozy contract between the banking cartel and the politicians is in little danger of being altered. As a practical matter, therefore, even though the Fed may also create fiat money in exchange for commercial debt and for bonds of foreign governments, its major concern likely will be to continue supplying Congress. The implications of this fact are mind boggling. Since our money supply, at present at least, is tied to the national debt, to pay off that debt would cause money to disappear. Even to seriously reduce it would cripple the economy. Therefore, as long as the Federal Reserve exists, America will be, must be, in debt. The purchase of bonds from other governments is accelerating in the present political climate of internationalism. Our own money supply increasingly is based upon their debt as well as ours, and they, too, will not be allowed to pay it off even if they are able.

EXPANSION LEADS TO CONTRACTION

While it is true that the Mandrake Mechanism is responsible for the expansion of the money supply, the process also works in reverse. Just as money is created when the Federal Reserve purchases bonds or other debt instruments, it is extinguished by the sale of those same items. When they are sold, the money is given back to the System and disappears into the inkwell or computer chip from which it came. Then, the same secondary ripple effect that created money through the commercial banking system causes it to be withdrawn from the economy. Furthermore, even if the Federal Reserve does not deliberately contract the money supply, the same result can and often does occur when the public decides to resist the availability of credit and reduce its debt. A man can only be tempted to borrow, he cannot be forced to do so.

There are many psychological factors involved in a decision to go into debt that can offset the easy availability of money and a low interest rate: A downturn in the economy, the threat of civil disorder, the fear of pending war, an uncertain political climate, to name just a few. Even though the Fed may try to pump money into the economy by making it abundantly available, the public can thwart that move simply by saying no, thank you. When this happens, the old debts that are being paid off are not replaced by new ones to take their place, and the entire amount of consumer and business debt will shrink. That means the money supply also will shrink, because, in modern America, debt is money. And it is this very expansion and contraction of the monetary pool -- a phenomenon that could not occur if based upon the laws of supply and demand -- that is at the very core of practically every boom and bust that has plagued mankind throughout history.

In conclusion, it can be said that modern money is a grand illusion conjured by the magicians of finance in politics. We are living in an age of fiat money, and it is sobering to realize that every previous nation in history that has adopted such money eventually was economically destroyed by it. Furthermore, there is nothing in our present monetary structure that offers any assurances that we may be exempted from that morbid roll call.

Correction. There is one. It is still within the power of Congress to abolish the Federal Reserve System.

Summary

The American dollar has no intrinsic value. It is a classic example of fiat money with no limit to the quantity that can be produced. Its primary value lies in the willingness of people to accept it and, to that end, legal tender laws require them to do so. It is true that our money is created out of nothing, but it is more accurate to say that it is based upon debt. In one sense, therefore, our money is created out of less than nothing. The entire money supply would vanish into the bank vaults and computer chips if all debts were repaid. Under the present System, therefore, our leaders cannot allow a serious reduction in either the national or consumer debt. Charging interest on pretended loans is usury, and that has become institutionalized under the Federal Reserve System.

The Mandake Mechanism by which the Fed converts debt into money may seem complicated at first, but it is simple if one remembers that the process is not intended to be logical but to confuse and deceive. The end product of the Mechanism is artificial expansion of the money supply, which is the root cause of the hidden tax called inflation. This expansion then leads to contraction and, together, they produce the destructive boom-bust cycle that has plagued mankind throughout history wherever fiat money has existed.

More on How Money is Created by The Private Banks

"Modern Banking" was actually created over 4,000 years ago in Babylon. [Of course, without the electronic information.]

Henry Ford (founder of the Ford Motor Company in 1903) stated: "It is well that the people of the nation do not understand our banking and monetary system, for if they did, I believe there would be a revolution before tomorrow morning."

The "lending" techniques that are used are beyond brilliant. It took some very, very smart people to figure out how to appear to be lending money, but in actuality have the value supplied by the person who is borrowing (wanting a loan). When you discover the truth, you will be seething mad.... The whole truth is NOT revealed to the borrower by the bank. The bank or other lending institution does NOT disclose to you that your promissory note to repay the loan is actually an asset to the bank - that they deposit. The bank does not let you know that a promissory note is actually a "negotiable instrument" under the Uniform Commercial Code, and that it will be deposited to fund your loan. Nor do you learn that the bank has a liability to you of approximately the amount of the loan. (The bank owes you by their own bookkeeping entries!). The bank does NOT tell you that you factually provided the actual cash value for your own loan! Thus, the bank only appears to be lending you anything. That's right: banks and lending institutions only appear to lend money. Let's go through how money is created at the "government" level, then we'll see how this applies to you and your alleged debt.

How Money Is Created In the U.S.:

1. Congress says, "We need $10 Billion."
2. So they go over to the treasury and say, "We need $10 Billion."
3. The U.S. Treasury prints up $10 Billion in government bonds.
4. They take those bonds over to the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank (Fed), you know, just down the road from the Treasury.
5. They walk into the Fed with these $10 Billion in bonds and say, "We need to borrow $10 Billion."
6. The Fed takes that $10 Billion in Bonds and agrees to then loan the U.S. Government $10 Billion.
7. The Fed writes into their little ledger with a stubby pencil, "Owes us $10 Billion." (Actually, it's done by computer nowadays.)
8. The Fed then creates money out of thin air by authorizing some currency to be printed. Note that the legal tender in the US is the private Federal Reserve Note (not a United States Government Note).
9. Now the U.S. Government owes another $10 Billion.

Government officials agree that this is how the banking system works today:

Representative Wright Patman, former Chairman of a House Banking Committee said: "The Federal Reserve Banks create money out of thin air to buy Government bonds... The Federal Reserve Bank is a total money making machine." [Monopoly on counterfeiting money]

Former Federal Reserve Bank Chairman Eccles was asked by Patman, "Mr. Eccles, how did you get the money to buy these two billion dollars of government bonds." Mr. Eccles replied, "We create it." "Out of what?" Patman asked. "Out of the right to issue credit money", i.e. out of nothing. This right to create money out of nothing was given to the Private Federal Reserve Bank by a fraudulent act of Congress in 1913 known as the Federal Reserve Act, same fraud has been happening since the 17th century with the Private Bank of England and other banks. The FED issues Federal Reserve cheques redeemable as Federal Reserve Notes only with no liability to itself. The Fed is not subject to taxes and audits. The local banks create credit money as well but not currency notes.

Former Congressman Louis McFadden, former chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency remarked about the Federal Reserve Bank: "A super-state controlled by international Bankers and international industrialists acting together to enslave the World for their own pleasure."

When the unconstitutional Federal Reserve Act was about to be passed in 1913, Congressman Charles Lindbergh said, "This Act establishes the most gigantic trust on Earth. When the President signs this bill, the invisible government by the monetary power will be legalized. The people may not know it immediately, but the day of reckoning is only a few years removed...The worst legislative crime of the ages is perpetrated by this banking bill."

If you're an honest, ethical person, then you believe that all lenders should be repaid. If the Federal Reserve Banking System repaid the loan from the U.S. Government, the "debt" would be cancelled.

Let's Take a Quick Look Over That

The bonds printed by the treasury have an actual value of $10 Billion. They take the actual value of $10 Billion in bonds over to the privately owned Fed bank to "borrow" the $10 Billion in currency.

Note: If an asset is anything that can be sold, and then the money received can be deposited into a bank, then there was nothing actually lent to the U.S. Government, was there? They provided bonds that could be sold for $10 Billion in exchange for the $10 Billion from the Fed. Where was the loan? There was none. The Fed and the U.S. Government made an exchange, and the Fed lied and called it a loan.

Now, we all know that the people who run the government aren't the brightest, but to give away the bonds so they can borrow money is just ridiculous, wouldn't you agree? Look, I don't expect you to believe that without some proof. I mean, it's just insane, right? Listen to a recording about the Story of the Federal Reserve System. It's FREE to you, over an hour long, and it's called The Creature from Jeckyll Island, by G. Edward Griffin. Mr. Griffin is a well-respected authority on the creation of the Federal Reserve Banking System, and has written a best-selling book of the same name. The link to the audio clip is: <http://www.eliminatemortgages.com/creature.rm> (don't fall for the eliminate mortgage attempts which may involve the promoter making illegal documents or a tough and expensive court battle) and another lecture http://www.flash.net/~jaybanks/real/g_edward_griffin_-the_creature_from_jekyll_island.rm.

How This Applies to You

On a national level, we see the absurdity behind the "money creation" process. But when it's right there in our face, it's a little harder to "see the forest through all the trees." Money is created on a local level through the banks and other lending institutions in much the same way. The value is first provided to the bank, the bank deposits the asset, and the asset you provided is used as the value to fund the "loan" to you.

Again, I know it sounds absurd, like, "How can they get away with this?" I wondered the same thing when I first came across this information. The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago came out with a very revealing publication back in the 1990s called Modern Money Mechanics. While the file itself is a web page, in the physical publication on page 6 we find the exact mechanics of this, including the bookkeeping entries. (There is more information at <http://banksrestorationact.4mg.com>.)

So how does the bank loan actually work?

1. You want a loan for your home.
2. The bank advertises that they loan money.
3. You "apply" for a "loan."
4. They put you through the ringer and make you glad and relieved that you were able to be approved for a loan. (You know, like they are doing you a really big favor.)
5. They have you sign a promissory note.

And here's the part you're never supposed to know!

6. Since your promissory note can be sold for money, it's an asset.
7. The bank deposits the asset into an account for approximately the amount of the note.
8. The bank cuts you a check from the deposit you never knew about (or transfers the money to those who should be receiving it).
9. And you think you owe money back on a loan, when in fact all that was made was an exchange.

Now Let's Look at That...

If you think about it, the Bankers' scheme is really quite brilliant. I mean, what other business in the whole World allows you to create money based on the value that someone else gives you, then charge that person again plus interest? Wow! So the real question becomes, "If the promissory note is an asset, what funded the bank's ownership of the note?" Answer: They still don't really own it. They made an exchange - Your promissory note (asset to the bank) was exchanged for approximately the amount of the loan. You gave the bank an asset worth $100,000 and the bank returned $100,000 to you. Where was the loan? There wasn't one. But you really do have to admit, it's brilliant.

Listen, we're not the first people to "discover" this was going on. But we have figured out some things that no one else has! As an honest, ethical person who believes that all loans should be repaid, do you agree that the bank should repay your loan to them? After all, they deposited your promissory note. Your promissory note is an asset that they exchanged for a check. Where's the loan? Factually, there isn't one. And since all lenders should be repaid, shouldn't the bank repay your loan to them? If so, you wouldn't have the "debt" and would live better. Quickly, when you deposit money in your checking account, does the bank now owe you that money when you want it? Yes. The bank has a new asset, the $100 you deposited into your checking account. The bank also has a new matching liability that says the bank owes you $100. Assets = Liabilities. The bookkeeping entries are nearly identical for a deposit into your checking account and for a new loan. By lending, the banks now have more assets and liabilities. If you were to lend me $500, your "pool of money" would be smaller. When a bank "loans" money, their "pool of money" increases.

Quick Summary behind How a Bank Loan Works

Money is created today by "lending," so all money today is born as "debt money." The person who wants a loan must provide to the bank something that he or she doesn't know is valuable, called a promissory note. The promissory note is a bank asset, and that asset is deposited into a demand deposit type of account. The asset deposited is what provides the bank the value to be able to "lend" to you and others. The bank exchanges value for value, just like the Federal Reserve Bank and our Government, then lies about it and calls it a loan. You and millions of others believe you have a debt. This has the similar economic effect of counterfeiting, swindling and stealing.

More on Equal Protection

Our founding fathers knew about this type of banking. That's why there were provisions in the Constitution of the United States of America to stop this type of banking system to infest our nation.

Article 1, Section 8, clause 5 states: "Congress shall have the power to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures."

Article 1, Section 10 in part states: "No state shall use any Thing but gold and silver coin as a tender in payment of its debts;"

Is it more difficult to create money with "creative bookkeeping," (or as President Bush says, "Cookin' the Books") by depositing your promissory note and not telling you? Or is it more difficult to mine the gold and silver to mint the money? Mining is difficult and expensive. Bookkeeping entries cost virtually nothing. Take a look at the definition of "Bank" in the 4th Edition of Black's Law Dictionary: "An institution, of great value in the commercial World, empowered to receive deposits of money, to make loans, and to issue its promissory notes (designed to circulate as money, and commonly called 'bank notes' or 'bank-bills,') or to perform any one or more of these functions." If a promissory note is designed to circulate as money, like money it can be deposited into a checking account, can't it? You bet. That was never disclosed in the bank loan agreement, was it? No. See, if gold and silver coin were the money, the current banking system could not exist. Our founding fathers knew that. Since the promissory note is a negotiable instrument, per the Uniform Commercial Code, at what point did the bank "own" the promissory note? A note is an IOU. It says "I owe you $X, which is to be repaid on this or that date, or through payments."

Did you give the bank permission to turn your "promise to pay" into money? Probably not. By the bank altering the note and turning it into a negotiable instrument, they changed the cost and the risk to you and them. Before they deposit the note into a checking account, you thought the agreement was that they were going to loan you money. They were the ones at risk. It's your duty to pay them. When the bank deposited the note, the entire cost of the loan was funded by you, and you're now supposed to pay them? That's not what you agreed to, is it? Because of this banking system, you are in "debt" with "money" that you provided the value for. There's a lot more to this and you should know it, but it's also a lot to try to learn quickly.

By the way, what is the difference between the economics of the current banking system and a thief who steals from you? And a counterfeiter who "loans" you counterfeiter at no cost to him? A cheap con artist who swindles you into believing you owe him money? What is the difference between the banking system today and a counterfeiter, thief, and a swindler? There is no economic difference. Here's just some of what you will discover for yourself when you get more information:

- The "Big Plan" the Bankers had - way back in 1892 - and are still carrying forth.
- They say there's a positive and a negative for everything, so what are the two faces of debt?
- When the U.S. declared bankruptcy in 1933, what did they really do to our money?
- What is so valuable about being able to control the interest rates?

The Switch From Wealth to Debt

How is public debt really measured, and how do you increase the public debt every time you use a credit card, take out a "loan" or use electronic money? Since 1792, our money has been "switched" from wealth to debt. By changing our money back to wealth, we can reverse the tide of ever increasing prices, taxes, debt, bankruptcies and economic ills that are destroying America and her people. How money is put into circulation is the most important principle. The real issue is not gold and silver vs. paper, not commodity money vs. fiat money, but wealth vs. debt, honesty vs. fraud. Let's follow the trail of United States money, from when it was gold and silver commodity money, put into circulation as a wealth to the people, by the people, to what it has become - a monetized debt, put into circulation by the banks, as interest bearing debts to the people, for the personal profit of bank owners.

The ten dollar gold certificate

The real reason gold and silver coinage initially worked well as money for the people, is that the people produced the gold and silver, a raw resource of the earth, through their labor. The 1792 Coinage Act allowed anyone to take that resource to the United States mint and have it monetized (coined) free of charge. We, the people, furnished our own money, based on our production, as a wealth to ourselves and spent it into circulation as a benefit to all of society with no debt attached to it. Gold and silver are very heavy metals and not as convenient to carry as paper money. If we didn't want to carry the gold and silver coins around with us we could take them to the United States Treasury and store/deposit the coins. The Treasury would issue depositors gold and silver certificates as receipts. They stated on their face that there was X amount of gold or silver coin on deposit in the Treasury, payable to the bearer on demand. Now, we had paper money. As long as just this principle was followed you still had good, honest, wealth money with no debt, no excessive profit, nor excessive purchasing power to anyone.

However, when someone deposited their gold and silver coin in a fractional reserve bank, a totally different principle went into action. The bank held the coins as a reserve and expanded the money supply by making new loans equal to 10 times the face value of the coins deposited. At that point, money switched from wealth to debt. Americans have lacked this understanding. Lack of understanding is why America is the World's greatest debtor nation with over $26 Trillion in public and private debt at the end of 1990.

On January 24, 1939, Robert H. Hemphill, credit Manager of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta stated: "If all the bank loans were paid no one would have a bank deposit and there would not be a dollar of coin or currency in circulation. This is a staggering thought. We are completely dependent on the commercial banks. Someone has to borrow every dollar we have in circulation, cash or credit. If the banks create ample synthetic money we are prosperous: if not, we starve. We are absolutely without a permanent money system. When one gets a complete grasp of the picture the tragic absurdity of our hopeless position is almost incredible, but there it is. It (the banking problem) is the most important subject intelligent persons can investigate and reflect upon. It is so important that our present civilization may collapse unless it becomes widely understood and the defects remedied very soon."

At first glance, fractional banking looks like a good deal for everyone. The banks get more profit. The people can get quicker and easier loans. More capital is available to engage in commerce. Production picks up. But, sooner or later, more and more people can not make their loan payments. An unseen by-product of fractional banking is: it makes some people rich, (about 250,000) and leaves many more people very poor (about 150 million). All the while, fractional banking creates compounding, unpayable public and private debt, which causes the cost of living to constantly go up for all Americans. Throughout the nineteenth century, larger banks worked to get laws passed that would consolidate all fractional banking under the control of just a few. They did so under the guise of a standardized national money. They were successful in 1863 with the passage of the National Banking Act. It allowed newly chartered national banks to create a uniform national bank currency. A few years later the federal government taxed state bank notes out of existence. In 1873, the government stopped all free coinage of metals. They began to use United States Certificates of indebtedness -- United States Bonds -- as security for the national currency. The note states on its face "The Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis Minnesota will pay to the bearer on demand one dollar -- Federal Reserve Bank Note" However, it no longer said a dollar of what, like the gold and silver certificates. It also says "secured by United States Certificates of indebtedness" You can now clearly understand why our government and private sector are so deeply in debt. All we use for money is (monetized) DEBTS. The switch from wealth based money to debt-based money had been completed. All that was left was to change the bills.

The banking system did this one small step at a time.. As we see by looking at the following Bills. It's easy to see on the 1928 Federal Reserve note below that the banking system wanted us to believe that their note was the same as a gold certificate. On its face it read: "Redeemable in gold on demand at the United States Treasury or in gold or lawful money at any Federal Reserve Bank". Notice that they didn't claim that the Bill was a dollar. But said -- WILL PAY TO THE BEARER ON DEMAND -- DOLLARS. It was not a certificate of wealth -- it was a bank note -- an evidence of debt -- put into circulation as an interest-bearing LOAN. Now we had a completely different set of principles at work. This point has been missed by most everyone. Of course the banks issued many times more gold notes than there was gold.

Later, on the 1934 series Federal Reserve note, we no longer find "redeemable in gold" (in 1933 they took all the gold from the people and demonetized it.) The bank-controlled government made it a crime to own gold. It was 40 years before the people could own gold and when they could it was no longer money. Now the note reads "This note is legal tender for all debts public and private and is redeemable in lawful money at the United States Treasury or at any Federal Reserve Bank" WILL PAY TO THE BEARER ON DEMAND -- DOLLARS. Notice again, they didn't claim that the Bill was the dollars, but said -- WILL PAY TO THE BEARER ON DEMAND -- DOLLARS. The note admits on its face that it isn't lawful money, because it states it is redeemable in lawful money. It said nothing about what lawful money was. With the words promise to pay written on its face, it met the specifications for a legal note (negotiable paper). The 1950 Series Federal Reserve note, shown below looks and states the same thing as the 1934 note except the size of the wording about legal tender and redeemable in lawful money has been reduced to just 3 lines and to an almost unreadable size, clearly no one was reading the words on the bills anymore. In fact, the Federal Reserve now promises to tax you and uses you as the collateral against which it issues the Federal Reserve Notes and cyber money!!!

Let's examine very closely the Federal Reserve notes in use today. There are major changes. The bill only says, "This note is legal tender for all debts public and private" Gone are the words "Redeemable in Lawful money" and the words "WILL PAY TO THE BEARER ON DEMAND" The Federal Reserve note is no longer a legal promissory note (negotiable instrument). The Bill has now become the Dollar. The only thing we have for a medium of exchange -- Money -- is a credit at the bank. This credit is loaned into circulation at interest. When the interest is due the total debt is always greater than the money supply. The debt obligations are greater than the supply of "money" to fulfill the obligations incurred by the people, resulting in unpayable compounding debt which constantly raises the costs of living, and shifts influence and the ownership of property from the many to a few.

In the banking system's greed and drive to protect their theft by deception -- (fractional banking) and to protect themselves from bank runs, etc., the banking system put themselves into a catch 22. As long as there was free coinage of metals or some other form of wealth (debt free) money, the interest on the bank loans, or at least part of the interest could be paid with the wealth (debt-free) money, therefore the debt would grow more slowly. It would not mathematically, be forced to grow. Now that all the wealth money has been removed from the system, there is no way to pay any of the interest, so the debt must constantly compound. Timothy P. Schilling, Public Information Specialist, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, has confirmed that at the end of 1990 there was at least $26 Trillion of debt accruing interest. Yet, the total money supply is just over $5 Trillion, and it's a debt too! Money is created when loans are issued and debts incurred, money is extinguished when loans are repaid. (Congressional Research Service) Interest earned on investments is not new money. Interest earned on investments is only other loan-principal captured as profit in the process of commerce. We can't add to the money supply of $5.2 trillion without also increasing the debt. If we reduce the indebtedness by $5.2 trillion we extinguish the total money supply. In a debt-credit money system money must constantly accrue interest due if it is to exist. When money is created as a loan, it is money and it is a debt. But, the additional interest that must be repaid is not money. it is ONLY A DEBT expected to be paid in money. If not paid, it must constantly accrue more interest debt due.

In a debt-credit money system, interest cannot be paid without putting someone else deeper into debt. The resulting shortfall must be added to the price of finished goods and services. The total debt is transferred and continues to compound when a seller manages to capture his total principal plus interest debt in the market place and repay a bank loan. As the spread between prices and the money supply increases your money buys less, it loses buying power. Eventually, as prices increase far enough beyond the total money supply, you will not be able to work enough hours to buy anything. (See Chart example) You won't be able to borrow the money to purchase the item either because the amount of hours you can work (24 hours daily) will never produce enough 'value' to collateralize a loan big enough to meet the item's selling price. Yes, there are some very successful people but they are becoming fewer. Eventually they will be weeded out because they too are consumers. As prices for everyone continue to rise beyond the money supply more and more of the wealthy (top competitors) will fall on hard times. This is what's now happening Worldwide. We are now constantly aware of two major questions. They are: Why is everything getting so expensive? Where will we get the money to pay the prices?

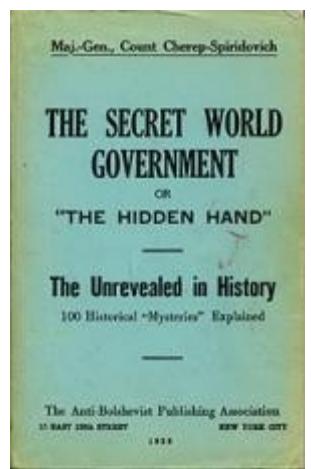

You can see the progression historically. It used to take just one worker to support a family and the families were larger. Today, one worker's hours aren't enough. Two paycheck households are the norm. Even now, two-paycheck households are having more difficulty making ends meet. Our debt-credit system makes ownership of property more and more difficult. For more and more people, a declining standard of living is the future. The solution is to slowly stop the creation of money as an unpayable, interest-bearing debt loaned into circulation. At the same time we must bring new money into circulation debt-free as a Wealth-a payment for work done (production) that benefits all (roads & bridges).

Why the BankLords Love the Left By Henry Makow Ph.D. November 23, 2003

Count Cherep-Spiridovitch was a Czarist general who battled the Bolsheviks in the 1917 Russian Revolution. In 1926 he published a book entitled "The Secret World Government" which shows how the Rothschild's plan for World tyranny ("the Jewish Conspiracy") dominates modern history. Secret World Government is generally considered "right wing" and "anti Semitic." The "right wing" and "anti Semitic" smear is revealing:

- It shows the extent society already has been brainwashed and subverted.
- It reveals how the bogus issue of anti Semitism is used to deflect attention from a genuine and mortal threat to humanity.
- It explains the true meaning of "right wing" and why the Left is an instrument of the Bankers.

LOOK AT THE US CIVIL WAR: Compare the treatment of this war in "The Secret World Government" with "A Peoples History of the United States" by Howard Zinn, a leftist. Cherep-Spiridovitch cites an interview with the German chancellor Otto von Bismarck in 1876. Bismarck explained that the Rothschilds who controlled Europe were afraid the United States would become independent of them if it remained one nation. "They foresaw tremendous booty if they could substitute two feeble democracies indebted to the Jewish financiers to the vigorous republic confident and self providing. Therefore they started their emissaries in order to exploit the question of slavery and thus to dig an abyss between the two parts of the republic." (180)

The Illuminati used the Masonic "Knights of the Golden Circle" formed in 1854 by George W. L. Bickley, to spread racial tension by making slavery an issue. Members included Lincoln assassin John Wilkes Booth, Confederate President Jefferson Davis, and his adviser Judah P. Benjamin, the Confederate Secretary of War, a Rothschild agent. The plan was to divide the United States between England controlled by Lionel Rothschild and France, controlled by James Rothschild. France was to take over the whole South while Canada annexed the defeated North. In 1863 France and Spain invaded Mexico with 30,000 troops. The embattled Confederate States actually offered Louisiana and Texas to France in exchange for its assistance. Britain, France and other European powers were ready to snuff out the young republic but were deterred by Russia, the only European power not in the Rothschild's thrall. Czar Alexander II sent his fleets to New York and San Francisco and declared that an attack on Lincoln was an attack on Russia. Meanwhile Lincoln created "greenback" dollars to finance the war and escape indebtedness to the foreign financiers. "They understood at once that the United States would escape their grip," Bismarck said." The death of Lincoln was resolved upon. Nothing is easier than to find a fanatic to strike." (180) (See also The Civil War and Control of Money.) Compare this with Howard Zinn who although a Leftist, makes no mention of European financiers. His book, a soap opera of oppression, says the war was a clash of "elites." "The Northern elite wanted economic expansion.... The slave interests opposed all that." (189) Again, "The American government had set out to ... retain the enormous national territory and market resources." (198)

The Rothschild Illuminati facilitated this heinous war that cost 500,000 soldiers' lives and eight billion dollars. Is it any wonder these Bankers, who are the real establishment, love the Left? Is it any wonder they populate our universities with pious Leftists (and feminists) who never question why they are pulling down big salaries if they are really defying the establishment? Another Leftist Pied Piper is Noam Chomsky who attributes all evil to capitalism and American imperialism. As far as I know, he never mentions the Rothschilds, the Illuminati, the Council on Foreign Relations or the New World Order. He pretends that Oklahoma City and 9-11 were not inside jobs.

"We shall erase from the memories of men all facts of previous centuries which are undesirable to us," say the Protocols of the Elders of Zion. "And leave only those which depict all the errors of the government of the goyim." (Protocol 16)

The problem is not American capitalism but the control of the nation's credit by a small private international group, which has used this advantage to build a monopoly in every key industry. This international group is behind western imperialism. Its totalitarian occult agenda (a.k.a, globalism) is now corporate policy. The victim paradigm typically purveyed by socialists like Zinn and Chomsky creates division and diverts attention from the Illuminati Bankers and their cartels. It places the blame on capitalism and the US, which has been under banker control for almost a century. It teaches each new generation to be alienated from their country, its culture and economic system, and to become dysfunctional and impotent. The Bankers want Big Government that they control through debt. They need the global police state to ensure that no nation defaults or rebels. The invasion of Iraq is another step in creating the Bankers' "1984" tyranny (in addition to paving the way for expansion of the Masonic state of Israel).

ANTI-SEMITISM: Anti-Semitism is another tactic to divert attention from the Rothschild's Satanic plan for World tyranny. Let's stop pretending it isn't real. It is the real source of Communism, the real cause of mankind's moral paralysis and demise.

Cherep-Spiritovitch concludes: "According to Bismarck the awful Civil War in America was fomented by a Jewish [Bankers] Conspiracy, and President Abraham Lincoln the hero and national saint of the United States was killed by the same Hidden Hand which killed six Romanov Czars, ten kings and scores of Ministers only to easier bleed their nations." [and now 6 more US Presidents after Lincoln] (181)

He is not talking about Jews in general but only those who advance the Rothschild Illuminati agenda. His book makes an appeal to righteous Jews, and recognizes that many non-Jews have sold out.

"The Jews should bring to bay the 'Satanists' who corrupt the countries in which they have found asylum," the Preface says: "the Gentiles should render every Judas who accepts the bribes of the Jews."

Why do so many Jews think they are responsible for the Rothschilds and the Illuminati? They are not. They should stop acting like they were. It looks suspicious. The Bankers' Satanic Conspiracy is the source of anti Semitism. The sooner Jews rise up to oppose it; the sooner anti Semitism will end. Obviously many so-called Christians are involved. When I criticize Rockefeller [who pretends to be a Christian], no one says anything about "anti Christianity."

Who actually is behind the terrorist attacks in Turkey last week, including those against synagogues? Throughout history the Illuminati have used terror to control people and incite war. An American agent was maimed preparing a bomb in the Philippines. These attacks may be designed to prove the war on terror is genuine rather than a flimsy pretext for a police state.

The Rothschild Illuminati Conspiracy is the essential challenge facing mankind. It must be addressed loudly and squarely. Talk of American imperialism, capitalism and "hate" (anti Semitism) is a cynical diversion. The World is in the advanced stages of a diabolical multi generational conspiracy. The general method and goals have all been revealed in The Protocols of the Elders of Zion. Our educators, leaders and media have largely been subverted. A "right wing crackpot" then is anyone who favours individual freedom and self-reliance, family, nation, race, and God. These are the things that the Illuminati need to destroy. As one-time US Presidential candidate Norman Thomas said, "The American people will never knowingly adopt Socialism. But under the name of 'liberalism' they will adopt every fragment of the Socialist program, until one day America will be a Socialist nation, without knowing how it happened." Substitute "Communist" for "Socialist" and you can see what is happening. There is a curse that says may you "live in interesting times." This is our curse and our challenge. Let us rise to it.

Chart of who "owns" the Federal Reserve

The FED began with approximately 300 people or banks that became owners (stockholders purchasing stock at $100 per share - the stock is not publicly traded) in the Federal Reserve Banking System. They make up an international banking cartel of wealth beyond comparison (Reference 1, 14). The FED banking system collects billions of dollars (Reference 8, 17) in interest annually and distributes the profits to its shareholders. The Congress illegally gave the FED the right to print money (through the Treasury) at no interest to the FED. The FED creates money from nothing, and loans it back to us through banks, and charges interest on our currency. The FED also buys Government debt with money printed on a printing press and charges U.S. taxpayers interest. Many Congressmen and Presidents say this is fraud http://land.netonecom.net/tlp/ref/federal_reserve.shtml.

Who actually owns the Federal Reserve Central Banks? The ownership of the 12 Central banks, a very well kept secret, has been revealed: Rothschild Bank of London; Warburg Bank of Hamburg; Rothschild Bank of Berlin; Lehman Brothers of New York; Lazard Brothers of Paris; Kuhn Loeb Bank of New York; Israel Moses Seif Banks of Italy; Goldman, Sachs of New York; Warburg Bank of Amsterdam; Chase Manhattan Bank of New York. These bankers are connected to London Banking Houses which ultimately control the FED. When England lost the Revolutionary War with America (our forefathers were fighting their own government), they planned to control us by controlling our banking system, the printing of our money, and our debt. The individuals listed below owned banks which in turn owned shares in the FED. The banks listed below have significant control over the New York FED District, which controls the other 11 FED Districts. These banks also are partly foreign owned and control the New York FED District Bank. First National Bank of New York; James Stillman National City Bank, New York; Mary W. Harnman; National Bank of Commerce, New York; A.D. Jiullard; Hanover National Bank, New York; Jacob Schiff; Chase National Bank, New York; Thomas F. Ryan; Paul Warburg; William Rockefeller; Levi P. Morton; M.T. Pyne; George F. Baker; Percy Pyne; Mrs. G.F. St. George; J.W. Sterling; Katherine St. George; H.P. Davidson; J.P. Morgan (Equitable Life/Mutual Life); Edith Bre our T. Baker.v

- (1) "The Federal Reserve Bank", by H.S. Kenan, published by The Noontide Press
- (2) National Committee to Repeal the Federal Reserve Act, P.O. Box 156, Westmont, IL 60559
- (3) "The New World Order,Saving America", P.O. Box 1205, Middleburg, FL 32050-1205
- (4) "Bulletin", February 1989 & November 1991 issues, P.O. Box 986, Ft. Collins, CO 80522 (Newsletter; $3 each)
- (5) "The Most Secret Science", Betsy Ross Press, P.O. Box 986, Ft. Collins, CO 80522 (Book) States attempt to abolish the FED. $12.00
- (6) "Insider Report", P.O. Box 84903, Phoenix, AZ 85071
- (7) "Phoenix Journal Express", P.O. Box 986, Tehachap, CA 93581
- (8) $16 trillion in government and private debt, much of which the FED printed and collected interest on (Reference 3)
- (9) Northpoint Tactical Team, P.O. Box 129, Topton, NC 28781
- (10) Christian Defense League, Box 449, Arabi, LA 70023
- (11) "Bulletin", June 1992 issue, P.O. Box 986, Ft. Collins, CO 80522 (Newsletter; $3 each)
- (12) "Savings and Loan Unethical Bailout" by Rev. Casimir F. Gierut
- (13) "Dark Secrets of the New Age" by Texe Marrs
- (14) "En Route to Global Occupation" by Gary H. Kah
- (15) "One World" by John Amkerberg & John Weldon
- (16) "The Spotlight", Liberty Lobby, 300 Independence Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C. 20003 (Newspaper)
- (17) "Repeal the Federal Reserve Banks" by Rev. Casimir Frank Gierut
- (18) The Constitution of the United States
- (19) "Walls in Our Minds" by M.J. Red Beckman, Common Sense Press, P.O. Box 1544, Billings, MT 59103. A must read book - $2.50
- (20) "The Law That Never Was" Volume I, Bill Benson & M.J. Red Beckman, P.O. Box 1544, Billings, MT 59103 or write to Bill Benson, P.O. Box 550, South Holland, IL 60473. Proof that the 16th Amendment (income tax) was never properly ratified.
- (21) "New World Order: The Ancient Plan of Secret Societies" by William T. Still
- (22) "The Secrets of the Federal Reserve" by Mullins
- (23) "The Social Security & Pension Conspiracy" by Metz
- (24) "The History of the Federal Reserve. How to Replace It or How to Reform It" by Metz - for references 23 & 24 write to Howard Metz, P.O. Box 341, Malverne, LI 11565
- (25) "The New World Order" by Pat Robertson. On page 131 he states that we must abolish the FED.
- (26) "Operation Vampire Killer 2000", highly recommended book. $6.00 ($8.00 for 2) from ACLA, P.O. Box 8712, Phoenix, AZ 85066 This is a must read book with quotes from well known people. This book proves conspiracy. Your local police needs to read this book so they will protect you - not become United Nations Agents against you. This book will stop the New World Order plan to take over the U.S.A. "America Betrayed", Center For Action, 652 N. Glenview, Nesa, AZ 85213

For references 1, 12, and 17, contact The National Committee to Repeal the Federal Reserve Act (Reference 2).

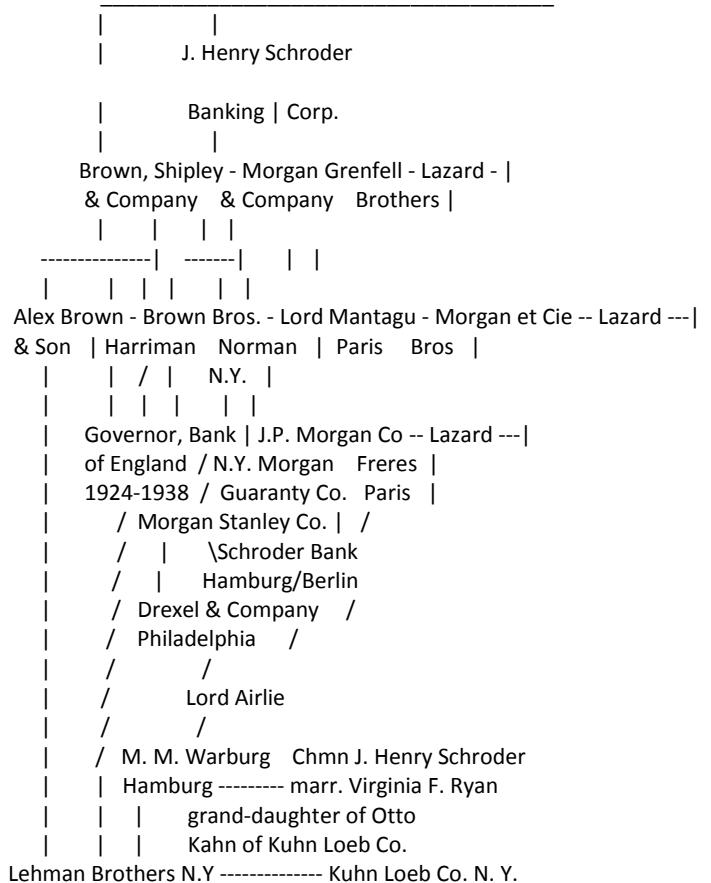

Chart 1: Federal Reserve Directors: A Study of Corporate and Banking Influence Published 1976

<http://www.save-a-patriot.org/files/view/whofed.html>

Chart 1 reveals the linear connection between the Rothschilds and the Bank of England, and the London banking houses which ultimately control the Federal Reserve Banks through their stockholdings of bank stock and their subsidiary firms in New York. The two principal Rothschild representatives in New York, J. P. Morgan Co., and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. were the firms which set up the Jekyll Island Conference at which the Federal Reserve Act was drafted, who directed the subsequent successful campaign to have the plan enacted into law by Congress, and who purchased the controlling amounts of stock in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in 1914. These firms had their principal officers appointed to the Federal Reserve Board of Governors and the Federal Advisory Council in 1914. In 1914 a few families (blood or business related) owning controlling stock in existing banks (such as in New York City) caused those banks to purchase controlling shares in the Federal Reserve regional banks. Examination of the charts and text in the House

Banking Committee Staff Report of August, 1976 and the current stockholders list of the 12 regional Federal Reserve Banks show this same family control.

N.M. Rothschild , London - Bank of England

Lehman Brothers N.Y ----- Kuhn Loeb Co. N. Y.

μ

| | | |

8

Lehman Brothers - Mont. Alabama Solomon Loeb Abraham Kuhn

| | -|-----|-----|

Lehman-Stern, New Orleans Jacob Schiff/Teresa
----- | | |
| | Mortimer Schiff James Paul Warburg

Mortimer Schiff James Paul

Mayer Lehman | Emmanuel Lehman
| | | \
Herbert Lehman Irving Lehman \

Herbert Lehman Irving Lehman

Arthur Lehman \ Phillip Lehman John Schiff

/ | Present Chairman Lehman Bros

/ Robert Owen Lehman /

/ | Geor

| / |

| / Lehm

| / |

| / Thom

Federal Reserve Bank of New York

Federal Reserve Bank Of New Yo

National

National City Bank N. Y.

National Bank

ANSWER

| Chase National Bank N.Y. \
| |
Shareholders - National City Bank - N.Y. |
----- |
| /
James Stillman /
Elsie m. William Rockefeller /
Isabel m. Percy Rockefeller /
William Rockefeller Shareholders - National Bank of Commerce N. Y.
J. P. Morgan -----
M.T. Pyne Equitable Life - J.P. Morgan
Percy Pyne Mutual Life - J.P. Morgan
J.W. Sterling H.P. Davison - J. P. Morgan
NY Trust/NY Edison Mary W. Harriman
Shearman & Sterling A.D. Jiullard - North British Merc. Insurance
| Jacob Schiff
| Thomas F. Ryan
| Paul Warburg
| Levi P. Morton - Guaranty Trust - J. P. Morgan
|

Shareholders - First National Bank of N.Y.

J.P. Morgan
George F. Baker
George F. Baker Jr.
Edith Brevoort Baker
US Congress - 1946-64
|
Shareholders - Hanover National Bank N.Y.

James Stillman
William Rockefeller
|
Shareholders - Chase National Bank N.Y.

George F. Baker

Chart 2: Federal Reserve Directors: A Study of Corporate and Banking Influence

The J. Henry Schroder Banking Company chart encompasses the entire history of the twentieth century, embracing as it does the program (Belgium Relief Commission) which provisioned Germany from 1915-1918 and dissuaded Germany from seeking peace in 1916; financing Hitler in 1933 so as to make a Second World War possible; backing the Presidential campaign of Herbert Hoover ; and even at the present time, having two of its major executives of its subsidiary firm, Bechtel Corporation serving as Secretary of Defense and Secretary of State in the Reagan Administration. The head of the Bank of England since 1973, Sir Gordon Richardson, Governor of the Bank of England (controlled by the House of Rothschild) was chairman of J. Henry Schroder Wagg and Company of London from 1963-72, and director of J. Henry Schroder, New York and Schroder Banking Corporation, New York, as well as Lloyd's Bank of London, and Rolls Royce. He maintains a residence on Sutton Place in New York City, and as head of "The London Connection," can be said to be the single most influential banker in the World.

J. Henry Schroder

|
Baron Rudolph Von Schroder
Hamburg - 1858 - 1934
|
Baron Bruno Von Schroder
Hamburg - 1867 - 1940
F. C. Tiarks |
1874-1952 |
| |
marr. Emma Franziska |
(Hamburg) Helmut B. Schroder
J. Henry Schroder 1902 |
Dir. Bank of England |
Dir. Anglo-Iranian |
Oil Company J. Henry Schroder Banking Company N.Y.
|
J. Henry Schroder Trust Company N.Y.

Allen Dulles John Foster Dulles
Sullivan & Cromwell Sullivan & Cromwell
Director - CIA U. S. Secretary of State
Rockefeller Foundation

Prentiss Gray

Belgian Relief Comm. Lord Airlie
Chief Marine Transportation -----
US Food Administration WW I Chairman; Virginia Fortune
Manati Sugar Co. American & Ryan daughter of Otto Kahn
British Continental Corp. of Kuhn, Loeb Co.

| |
| |
M. E. Rionda |
----- |
Pres. Cuba Cane Sugar Co. |
Manati Sugar Co. many other |
sugar companies. _____|

| |
G. A. Zabriskie |
----- | Emile Francoui
Chmn U.S. Sugar Equalization | -----
Board 1917-18; Pres Empire | Belgian Relief Comm. Kai
Biscuit Co., Columbia Baking | Ping Coal Mines, Tientsin
Co., Southern Baking Co. | Railroad, Congo Copper, La
| Banque Nationale de Belgique
Suite 2000 42 Broadway | N. Y. |

| | |
Edgar Richard Julius H. Barnes Herbert Hoover

Belgium Relief Comm Belgium Relief Comm Chmn Belgium Relief Com
Amer Relief Comm Pres Grain Corp. U.S. Food Admin
U.S. Food Admin U.S. Food Admin Sec of Commerce 1924-28
1918-24, Hazeltine Corp. 1917-18, C.B Pitney Kaiping Coal Mines
| Bowes Corp, Manati Congo Copper, President
| Sugar Corp. U.S. 1928-32
||

John Lowery Simpson

Sacramento, Calif Belgium Relief |
Comm. U. S. Food Administration Baron Kurt Von Schroder
Prentiss Gray Co. J. Henry Schroder -----
Trust, Schroder-Rockefeller, Chmn Schroder Banking Corp. J.H. Stein Fin Comm, Bechtel International Bankhaus (Hitler's personal bank
Co. Bechtel Co. (Casper Weinberger account) served on board of all
Sec of Defense, George P. Schultz German subsidiaries of ITT . Bank
Sec of State (Reagan Admin). for International Settlements,

| SS Senior Group Leader, Himmler's
| Circle of Friends (Nazi Fund),
| Deutsche Reichsbank, President
|
Schroder-Rockefeller & Co. , N.Y.

Avery Rockefeller, J. Henry Schroder
Banking Corp., Bechtel Co., Bechtel
International Co. , Canadian Bechtel Company.

|
Gordon Richardson

Governor, Bank of England
1973-PRESENT C.B. of J. Henry Schroder N.Y.

Chart 3: Federal Reserve Directors: A Study of Corporate and Banking Influence

The David Rockefeller chart shows the link between the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, Standard Oil of Indiana, General Motors and Allied Chemical Corporation (Eugene Meyer family) and Equitable Life (J. P. Morgan).

DAVID ROCKEFELLER

Chairman of the Board

Chase Manhattan Corp

-----|-----
Chase Manhattan Corp. |

Officer & Director Interlocks |-----

-----|-----|

|-----|-----
Private Investment Co. for America Allied Chemicals Corp.

|-----|-----
Firestone Tire & Rubber Company General Motors

|-----|-----
Orion Multinational Services Ltd. Rockefeller Family & Associates

|-----|-----
ASARCO. Inc Chrysler Corp.

|-----|-----
Southern Peru Copper Corp. Intl' Basic Economy Corp.

|-----|-----
Industrial Minerva Mexico S.A. R.H. Macy & Co.

|-----|-----
Continental Corp. Selected Risk Investments S.A.

|-----|-----
Honeywell Inc. Omega Fund, Inc.

|-----|-----
Northwest Airlines, Inc. Squibb Corporation

|-----|-----
Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. Olin Foundation

|-----|-----
Minnesota Mining & Mfg Co (3M) Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co. of NJ

|-----|-----
American Express Co. AT & T

|-----|-----
Hewlett Packard Pacific Northwestern Bell Co.

|-----|-----
FMC Corporation BeachvLime Ltd.

|-----|-----
Utah Intl' Inc. Eveleth Expansion Company

|-----|-----
Exxon Corporation Fidelity Union Bank Corporation

|-----|-----
International Nickel/Canada Cypress Woods Corporation

|-----|-----
Federated Capital Corporation Intl' Minerals & Chemical Corp.

|-----|-----
Equitable Life Assurance Soc U.S. Burlington Industries

|-----|-----
Federated Dept Stores Wachovia Corporation

|-----|-----
General Electric Jefferson Pilot Corporation

|-----|-----
Scott Paper Co. R. J. Reynolds Industries Inc.

|-----|-----
American Petroleum Institute United States Steel Corp.

|-----|-----
Richardson Merril Inc. Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

|-----|-----
May Department Stores Co. Norton-Simon Inc.

Sperry Rand Corporation Stone-Webster Inc.
| |
San Salvador Development Company Standard Oil of Indiana

Chart 4: Federal Reserve Directors: A Study of Corporate and Banking Influence

This chart shows the interlocks between the Federal Reserve Bank of New York J. Henry Schroder Banking Corp., J. Henry Schroder Trust Co., Rockefeller Center, Inc., Equitable Life Assurance Society (J.P. Morgan), and the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

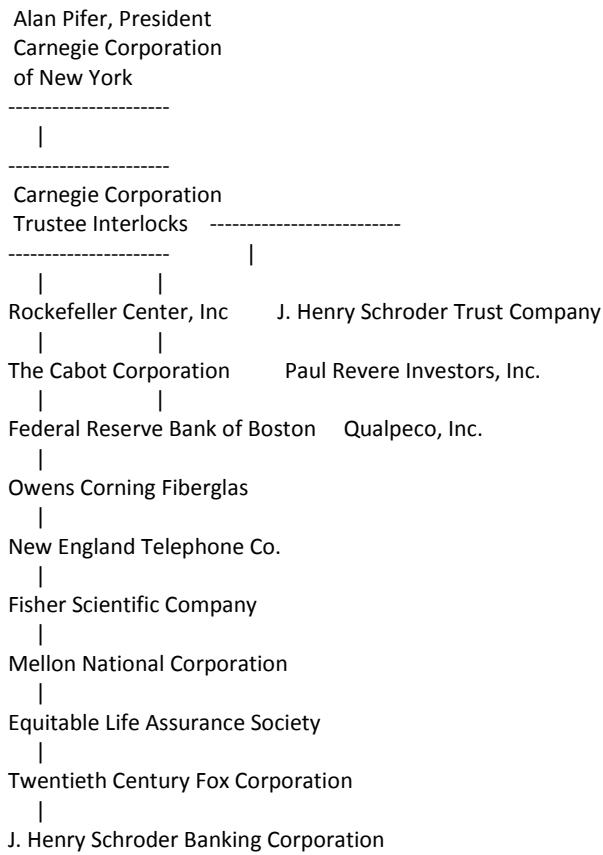

Chart 5: Federal Reserve Directors: A Study of Corporate and Banking Influence

This chart shows the link between the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, Brown Brothers Harriman, Sun Life Assurance Co. (N.M. Rothschild and Sons), and the Rockefeller Foundation.

| | | |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------------|--|
| S | | |
| C National City Bank (Cleveland) | William Wrigley Jr. Co | |
| H | | |
| I Sun Life Assurance Co. | National Blvd. Bank of Chicago | |
| L | | |
| D General Reinsurance | Lykes Youngstown Corporation | |
| | | |
| General Electric (NBC) | Inmount Corporation | |

 Source: Federal Reserve Directors: A Study of Corporate and Banking Influence. Staff Report, Committee on Banking, Currency and Housing, House of Representatives, 94th Congress, 2nd Session, August 1976. <http://www.save-a-patriot.org/bbs/bbs.html>

The Federal Reserve was the 3rd attempt at creating a Private Central Bank by the BankLords

Thomas Jefferson opposed the creation of the bank as unconstitutional. He said: "A private central bank issuing the public currency is a greater menace to the liberties of the people than a standing army"

The U.S. Bank was chartered by Congress in the year 1791, its charter was to last for 20 years, and expire in 1811. George Washington signed the bill establishing the bank after listening to the advice of his secretary of the treasury, Alexander Hamilton. The U.S. Bank was modeled after the Bank of England. The Bank of England was established by the Jesuits in 1694 to control that country and make slaves of the people. The Bank was given the right to create fiat money by use of the printing press. The printing press was God's gift to Martin Luther. The printing of the Bible in the languages of the people was the weapon that Luther used to break the chains of millions and free them from the Babylonian Captivity. Rome's answer to the printing of the Holy Scriptures was the printing of MONEY. The Bank of England was allowed to print money and loan to the government at 8% interest. When the Bank of England controlled British Government found out that the U.S. Bank would not be re-chartered, they declared war on the United States. Washington D.C., was invaded and the White House was burned to the ground. General President Andrew Jackson (another great Scot whose parents came from Hibernia) was the hero of that war. At the battle of New Orleans on January 8, 1815, with a small army of volunteers, General Jackson defeated 10,000 British veterans of the campaign against Napoleon in Europe. It was the most lop-sided victory in the history of warfare. During the 19th century, January 8, was a BIG holiday and celebration in the U.S. Almost like the 4th of July in January. Despite this great victory over the British and the Bank of England, the Bank of the U.S. was re-chartered in 1816 for another 20 years. The people loved the hero of the battle of New Orleans and elected him to the Presidency in the year 1829. He served his country in that high office for 8 years. Little did he know before taking the oath of office that he would face a far more dangerous enemy than ever he faced from the British rifles. That ferocious enemy was the MONEY POWER represented by the U.S. Bank.

Because of massive fraud and corruption, President Jackson was determined not to renew its charter when it expired in 1836. Fighting the British was child's play compared to fighting the money power. His main opponent was Nicholas Biddle who was president of the Second Bank. Biddle was Rome's agent in America . . . and her best brain. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania at the age of 13 and from Princeton at 17. He mastered the secret science of paper money and banking at an early age. He was head of the 2nd Bank of the U.S. With many Congressmen and Senators financially beholden to him, he wielded great political power. He deliberately created a banking panic and a depression for the purpose of frightening the voters and blaming it on President Jackson. Biddle was later arrested and charged with fraud but his powerful protectors shielded him from justice . . . in this life. Jackson's unflinching determination and unwavering patriotism prevailed against Biddle and his Bank. President Jackson called the Bank a monster and was determined to pull all its teeth. He said: "I am ready with the screws to draw every tooth and then the stumps." And our hero did exactly as he promised. When he left office, the U.S. had a real currency consisting of silver and gold coins. Our hero called paper money "RAG MONEY" and this is what he said about it: "The paper-money system and its natural associations--monopoly and exclusive privileges--have already struck their roots too deep in the soil, and it will require all your efforts to check its further growth and to eradicate the evil." So great was the victory of our hero, that Rome did not try again to establish a central bank until the 20th century. The groundwork for this 3rd Bank was laid during a top secret meeting on Jekyll Island, Georgia, in 1910. The co-conspirators were some of the most powerful people in Europe and America. They included: Theodore Roosevelt, Paul Warburg, President Woodrow Wilson, Nelson W. Aldrich, Benjamin Strong, Frank A. Vanderlip, John D. Rockefeller, etc., etc.

Paul M. Warburg (Daddy WARbucks) was an immigrant from Germany and a partner in the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. He represented the German Central Bank (Reichsbank) and the Rothschilds and Warburgs in Europe. Montagu Norman was the head of the Bank of England during the re-birth of the U.S. Bank. He worked closely with Benjamin Strong and was the British liaison in the re-creation of the monster. Morgan was the American representative of the Rothschilds and the Jesuit controlled Bank of England in America. Aldrich was the Republican whip in the Senate, chairman of the National Monetary Commission and father-in-law to John. D. Rockefeller. Strong was head of J.P. Morgan's Bankers Trust Co. The Rockefeller name is synonymous with money and banking. Rockefeller worked closely with J.P. Morgan and Daddy WARbucks to bring about the Federal Reserve System. His son, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, while Governor of New York State, was the agent behind the building of the Twin Towers (Masonic symbols of the Jachin and Boaz Pillars) in New York City. Finally, on Dec. 23, 1913, the Federal Reserve Act was signed into law by President Woodrow Wilson. This was the monster that President Jackson had slain come to life again. No sooner was the Bank re-chartered than WWI began. The Federal Reserve Bank lent money to both sides. They financed the Russian Revolution and the overthrow of the Czar. Economic cycles of boom and bust followed the manipulations of the currency by the Bank. The Bank caused the Great Depression and financed Hitler in Germany and the Fascists in Japan. The Bank instituted the Income Tax which was modeled on the Pope's slave tax during the Dark Ages. The tender mercies of the wicked are cruel....President Jackson's portrait is on this Federal Reserve Bank $20 dollar bill. If he came back to earth today, the first thing he would do is abolish this monster. If the 2nd bank of the U.S. was unspeakably corrupt, the 3rd Bank was even worse. This Bank (Federal Reserve) financed the rise of Hitler in Germany and was responsible for the financing of the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia.

The printing presses of the U.S. Bank are running night and day pouring billions of dollars into the economy in order to keep the fiat system afloat. In the 6000 years of World history, no fiat currency has ever survived. By 1870, the U.S. was the largest producer of silver in the World and we had FREE

COINAGE, meaning anybody with silver or gold could take it to the U.S. Mint and have it coined into money. Many other nations of the World were on a bimetallic system too. These included, India, China, Japan, Mexico and most of the South American Republics. The MONEY POWER pushed the World off the bimetallic system onto the gold standard. Today, not one single country is on a gold standard due to the manipulations of the gold cartel. Since the time of Pope Constantine, and especially since the blessed Reformation, Satan has sought to dominate Civil Governments by means of the MONEY POWER. St. Paul said this to the ROMAN Christians:

"Let EVERY soul be subject to the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves DAMNATION. For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil....." (Romans 16:1-2).

Roman Emperor Pius IX in his Syllabus of Errors said that it is an ERROR to say that the Government is above the "church."

"Kings and princes are not only exempt from the jurisdiction of the Church, but are superior to the Church in deciding questions of jurisdiction. -- Damatio "Multiplices inter," June 10, 1851."

As the end of time approaches, the Antichrist is using the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank, the European Central Bank and the Vatican Bank to finance the Last Great Inquisition and bring the entire World under the Papacy.

More on What's Wrong with the Federal Reserve's Monopoly on Issuing Currency

Stephen Zarlenga explains <http://www.monetary.org/federalreserveprivate.htm>. Students of our monetary system quickly encounter whether the Federal Reserve System is part of the U.S. Government or is a private organization. The importance people are placing on the answer is indicated by the over 36,000 web sites the question raises on internet search engines. We'll examine evidence in the Federal Reserve legislation; in how the Fed operates; from Congressional testimony; from statements from the Federal Reserve's publications; in statements by former Chairmen of the House Banking Committee; and in official rulings by US courts, to show why we conclude that although there are some elements of ambiguity, the Federal Reserve system is essentially dominated and controlled by private financiers, not our government; and to the extent that there is ownership of it, it is entirely private. Therefore despite the ambiguity and confusion - the Fed is more accurately seen as a private, not a governmental institution, though with substantial governmental ties, in fact it is the ultimate industrial-military-congressional feudal complex running to the detriment of the masses as later identified in President Eisenhower's 1961 nationally televised speech. The ambiguity arises from a combination of misleading appearances; the fact that our President appoints (with consent of the Senate) the Chairman of the Fed to four year terms, and the 7 member Board in Washington to 14 year terms; the fact that the Fed is supposed to promote governmental fiscal policy; and the fact that the system was originally set up in law by Congress in 1913 and can be altered, nationalized or even dismantled by Congress.

Most Americans understand that the Fed controls our money system, but they believe its part of our government, as would be expected of any organization holding that much power over the destiny of our country. Americans also erroneously believe the banking business consists of accepting deposits from clients and then re-lending them to borrowers at a higher rate of interest. Though the number is definitely growing, most Americans have no idea that money (or more accurately interest bearing bank credits - purchasing media which serves as money) is created by the banking system when loans are made, through the fractional reserve provisions. This is understood by few novices, and often economists and even bankers fail to comprehend that they function as part of a money creation system, when they issue credits, and deposit them into their client's accounts when loans are extended. Therefore most Americans would be surprised to learn that almost all of what we use for money is not issued by our government, but by private banks. They have been "allowed" to form erroneous assumptions about our money and banking system that are far from reality and that serves to shield from closer scrutiny, whether the Fed is truly operating in the public interest or advancing more private agendas, either on purpose or by default.

The Federal Reserve consists of 12 regional Federal Reserve banks, with boards of Directors, under an umbrella direction of the 7 member Federal Reserve Board in Washington, with the power to determine major aspects of banking activity, such as setting interest rates, and the reserve and other operational requirements. There are no shares of the Washington Fed Board organization; the only "ownership" of the Fed is in shares of each of the 12 regional banks which are entirely owned by the private member banks within their respective districts, according to a formula based on their size. The ownership is highly restricted in that such ownership is mandatory; the shares can't be sold; and they pay a guaranteed 6% annual dividend. It is true that our first central bank, the First Bank of the United States, upon dissolution in 1811 was found to be three quarters owned by British and Dutch interests, that bank was structured simply as a private share company on the Bank of England model. The control of the Federal Reserve System is more difficult to untangle and is not just a matter of counting shareholder votes. While foreign bankers might indirectly own shares of the regional Federal Reserve Banks through ownership of American Banking companies, such ownership would be reported to the SEC if any entity held more than 5% of the American corporation. This however does not exclude strong, potentially undue foreign influence through trans-Atlantic intermarriage relationships and also through the Bank for International Settlements (BIS).

The Federal Reserve System puts itself forward as a non-profit organization that turns over its operating profits to the U.S. Treasury, after all expenses, including the 6% dividend to member banks. However this misses the point on several scores. First, the banking profits coming through the privileged money creation process mainly occurs at the member bank level of operation, and those profits are not turned over to the Treasury. That is the net earnings from the member banks seigniorage privilege are not turned over to our government but kept by the private member banks. For England this amount has been estimated at 41 Billion Pounds per year. For the US we think it's between $100-200 billion per year; but we need to know the amount more precisely from the Fed itself. But above this is the immense power possessed by the ones allowed to create money from nothing and issue it at their discretion. This money creation which is put into the system when the banks extend loans, eventually becomes a source of funding when our government's bonds are sold to the public. Here is how Wright Patman, former House Banking and Currency Committee Chairman for 16 years criticized that process: "I have never yet had anyone who could, through the use of logic and reason, justify the Federal Government borrowing the use of its own money....I believe the time will come when people will demand that this be changed. I believe the time will come in this country when they will actually blame you and me and everyone else connected with the Congress for sitting idly by and permitting such an idiotic system to continue." We think the time has come.

Secondly, how extravagant are the FED's operating expenses? Reputedly quite high, but in order to determine that for sure a proper audit would be necessary. Just where did the extensive real assets of the Fed come from if all the earnings are turned over to the Treasury? (Fed capital as of June 28, 2006 was $29.462 billion) Perhaps some part of it comes from member bank subscriptions to the regional Fed shares. Another question for the audit to address. If memory serves correctly, the Fed used to turn over 90% not all, of its earnings over to the Treasury; but now its 100%. Although ownership of the fed is admittedly private in a restricted way, it is control which is the more important factor in regarding the Fed as private, not governmental. Through its power to issue money, it is the defacto controller of everyone including politicians. It will be clear from the following points that the Fed is definitely not part of the US Government:

- The Fed is not organized within the Executive, Legislative or Judicial branches of our government.
- Who pays the Fed's bills and determines its budget? Not any part of our government. The Fed gets its funding from its own specially privileged operations. The Fed Board determines Fed budgets.
- Who monitors and oversees Fed activities? Again the Fed itself. While some important elements of proper auditing have taken place, there has not yet been a comprehensive independent audit, by the Government Accountability Office as proposed in a recent letter from Ralph Nader to new Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke, calling for greater monetary transparency.
- Federal Reserve Employees are not part of the US Civil Service System and are not covered by government employees' health insurance or pension programs. Who does the hiring and firing? Except for the highly publicized Chairman and 7 member Washington Board, this is in private, unelected hands.
- Federal Reserve Banks are not listed as government organizations by the telephone companies, a small but telling fact.

Here is how the Fed describes the Control situation, in the FAQ's on its website: "As the nation's central bank, the Federal Reserve derives its authority from the U.S. Congress. It is considered an independent central bank because its decisions do not have to be ratified by the President or anyone else in the executive or legislative branch of government, it does not receive funding appropriated by Congress, and the terms of the members of the Board of Governors span multiple presidential and congressional terms. However, the Federal Reserve is subject to oversight by Congress, which periodically reviews its activities and can alter its responsibilities by statute. Also, the Federal Reserve must work within the framework of the overall objectives of economic and financial policy established by the government. Therefore, the Federal Reserve can be more accurately described as "independent within the government." We'd suggest the phrase "independent within the government" is much too ambiguous and has the effect of conveying great power while avoiding responsibility. The Fed's FAQ's continue regarding control: "The Federal Reserve's ultimate accountability is to Congress, which at any time can amend the Federal Reserve Act. Legislation requires that the Fed report annually on its activities to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and twice annually on its plans for monetary policy to the banking committees of Congress. Fed officials also testify before Congress when requested. "To ensure financial accountability, the financial statements of the Federal Reserve Banks and the Board of Governors are audited annually by an independent outside auditor. In addition, the General Accounting Office, as well as the Board's Office of Inspector General, can audit Federal Reserve activities." We agree with Mr. Nader that it is time for the General Accountability Office to carry out this full audit of the Federal Reserve System. We take at face value the Fed's statement that the only way for our government to exert necessary societal controls on the Fed is through legislation altering the Federal Reserve Act.

Reading the Act with the question of control in mind, what one finds are primarily an enumeration and description of vast powers over our monetary system being ceded to the non - governmental Federal Reserve. Primary among these are the powers necessary to administer a fractional reserve banking system in which the creation of money - what we use for purchasing media is in private hands. One is struck by the general absence of governmental controls over Fed activity, and lack of requirements toward our elected representatives. One is struck by the lack of accountability of the Fed to our governmental officials or bodies. One is struck by the lack of any specified penalties should the system be found to not be promoting governmental public policy at all. One is struck by the lack of formal oversight procedures to determine whether that is happening or not. The Act requires the Chairman to appear before Congress and Congressional committees four times a year, and requires the Board to submit two written reports to Congress annually. To understand that this is not sufficient oversight, one need only read Congressman Bernie Sanders questioning of Chairman Greenspan, from the Congressman's website. When tough questions were put to the Chairman, as Congressman Sanders did, forms of stalling non-answers came back until the announcement, "Your time is up Mr. Congressman." While the act specifies that the Comptroller of the Currency has the power to directly examine any member bank in the system, he is not empowered to examine Federal Reserve Regional banks that are in the hands of the Washington Board. 14 year appointments, a one time event for them, places them outside the influence of our elected officials, in other words outside the democratic process.

Probably this "independence" was sold as a good thing! From the time of Adam Smith, there has been a growing attack against government (led by the BankLords), as being incapable of managing the monetary system. Despite the evidence that government has a far better record controlling money than private bankers have*; despite the fact that government is the only organizational form with ability to stand between the people and the "Enrons" of the World. It is time to rethink this "independence" question and examine the actual evidence, rather than to continue relying on free market ideology really a form of elitist propaganda. It would be smarter to examine mankind's actual experience with government controlled money systems especially in America. For what reason did the Federal Reserve Act envision that it would be saints serving on the Fed Board? Several legal proceedings further illuminate the private aspects of the Fed. This case refers to several of those cases.

1) JOHN L. LEWIS, Plaintiff/Appellant, vs. UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant/Appellee. (No. 80-5905, UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS, NINTH CIRCUIT 680 F.2d 1239; 1982 U.S. App. LEXIS 20002; March 2, 1982, Submitted; April 19, 1982, Decided) [Lewis had been injured by a car owned by the San Francisco Fed and sued the US Government for damages. Note that this ruling particularly applies to the regional Federal Reserve Banks, not necessarily the Federal Reserve Board. Thus even more ambiguity!] Excerpts from the ruling: The district court dismissed, holding that the Federal Reserve Bank is not a federal agency within the meaning of the Federal Reserve Act and that the court therefore lacked subject matter jurisdiction.... "Federal agency" is defined as: the executive departments, the military departments, independent establishments of the United States, and corporations acting primarily as instrumentalities of the United States, but does not include any contractors with the United States...There are no sharp criteria for determining whether an entity is a federal agency within the meaning of the Act (28 U.S.C. § 2671), but the critical factor is the existence of federal government control over the "detailed physical performance" and "day to day operation" of that entity.... Other factors courts have considered include whether the entity is an independent corporation..., whether the government is involved in the entity's finances.... and whether the mission of the entity furthers the policy of the United States... Examining the organization and function of the Federal Reserve Banks, and applying the relevant factors, we conclude that the Reserve Banks are not federal instrumentalities for purposes of the FTCA, but are independent, privately owned and locally controlled corporations. Each Federal Reserve Bank is a separate corporation owned by commercial banks in its region. The stockholding commercial banks elect two thirds of each Bank's nine member board of directors. The remaining three directors are appointed by the Federal Reserve Board. The Federal Reserve Board regulates the Reserve Banks, but direct supervision and control of each Bank is exercised by its board of directors. 12 U.S.C. § 301. The directors enact by-laws regulating the manner of conducting general Bank business, 12 U.S.C. § 341, and appoint officers to implement and supervise daily Bank activities. These activities include collecting and clearing checks, making advances to private and commercial entities, holding reserves for member banks, discounting the notes of member banks, and buying and selling securities on the open market. See 12 U.S.C. §§ 341 [5] 361.... It is evident from the legislative history of the Federal Reserve Act that Congress did not intend to give the federal government direction over the daily operation of the Reserve Banks: It is proposed that the Government shall retain sufficient power over the reserve banks to enable it to exercise a direct authority when necessary to do so.... In other words, the reserve-bank plan retains to the Government power over the exercise of the broader banking functions, while it leaves to individuals and privately owned institutions the actual direction of routine...[Note: neither the Act, nor this court explained how that is done] the Federal Reserve Banks, though heavily regulated, are locally controlled by their member banks. Unlike typical federal agencies, each bank is empowered to hire and fire employees at will. Bank employees do not participate in the Civil Service Retirement System. They are covered by worker's compensation insurance, purchased by the Bank, rather than the Federal Employees Compensation Act. Employees traveling on Bank business are not subject to federal travel regulations and do not receive government [7] employee discounts on lodging and services. The Banks are listed neither as "wholly owned" government corporations under 31 U.S.C. § 846 nor as "mixed ownership" corporations under 31 U.S.C. § 856, ... a factor considered in Pearl v. United States, 230 F.2d 243 (10th Cir. 1956), which held that the Civil Air Patrol is not a federal agency under the Act. ... Additionally, Reserve Banks, as privately owned entities, receive no appropriated funds from Congress. ...The Reserve Banks have properly been held to be federal instrumentalities for some purposes....The Reserve Banks are deemed to [10] be federal instrumentalities for purposes of immunity from state taxation.... The Reserve Banks, which further the nation's fiscal policy, clearly perform an important governmental function....Performance of an important governmental function, however, [11] is but a single factor and not determinative in tort claims actions.... Brink's Inc. v. Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 466 F. Supp. 116 (D.D.C.1979), held that a Federal Reserve Bank is a federal [12] instrumentality for purposes of the Service Contract Act, 41 U.S.C. § 351. ... For these reasons we hold that the Reserve Banks are not federal agencies for purposes of the Federal Tort Claims Act and we affirm the judgment of the district court. [end of excerpts]

Is the Fed Operating in the Public Interest and Promoting Governmental Policy? Short answer: No. Some Details: Macroeconomic policy goals are generally agreed to include: full employment, stable prices, satisfactory balance of payments; and sustainable economic growth.

A) The Full Employment Laws: Last April at a Levi Institute April conference (Bard College), Fed Governor Donald L. Kohn gave his luncheon talk, and nobody had a question for him (economists seem afraid of Fed officials) so I stood up and asked "Whatever happened to the Fed's full employment directive?" (Well that got a rise out of Jamie Galbraith, who was sitting at the next table!) Gov. Kohn's answer (paraphrasing) was "Yes we consider that, but we also consider price stability. Price stability is the economists mantra for tight money policies, that put a special strain on the barely employed.

The important employment question especially indicates how the Fed does not implement Governmental policy. Two laws were passed by Congress on this and both are being effectively ignored by the Fed: The 1946 Employment Act directed policy makers to pursue policies promoting full employment. This apparently was not enough. The Humphrey-Hawkins Act had to be passed in 1978 requiring monetary policymakers to pursue full employment and non-inflationary economic growth. And what has been the result? Games are played with the unemployment statistics. Unemployment is grossly underestimated by ignoring those whose unemployment benefits have run out; by not counting those who have given up looking, or who have accepted jobs requiring only a small part of their qualifications at low wages, or who have accepted part time work in desperation. The Fed has done little or nothing to gain and publicize an accurate estimate of unemployment in America. A case could probably be made that the Fed Board is flaunting the Humphrey-Hawkins Law. There have been unsuccessful attempts through former Senator Mack of Florida and Congressman Saxton of New Jersey to promote legislation which would render the employment question moot, by making "price stability" the Fed's priority. That the "full employment" language is considered an annoyance is indicative of the Fed's political bias against middle class Americans.

Several additional societal/governmental problems with direct connection to monetary policy follow below. Taken individually, they might leave room for question, or even be characterized as "anecdotal," Greenspan's favorite description for inconvenient facts; but when seen in their entirety they demonstrate to reasonable minds that the Fed has not been operating in the public interest, except incidentally. The Fed has been promoting, or at least supporting plutocracy ? the rule by wealth. (The connection between the Fed's monetary policy, and governments funding abilities should be fairly clear, but just in case, we are writing a longer explanation that does connect those dots.) When a long string of events and factors evinces a particular design or motivation behind them, we should draw the proper inference, just as the American Declaration of Independence did. In the Fed's case we infer that a form of class warfare has been an inextricable part of its make up from its beginning. It's not really hidden now. Billionaire speculator Warren Buffet recently remarked "If there is a class war, my class has won." Buffet was being facetious. He would not characterize the destruction of the most vulnerable among us and their children, as "winning." He would probably join with me in calling it cannibalism, and predicting that indigestion is sure to follow. This warfare is not all the Fed's fault, a large part of the warfare is inherent in the present day make up, definitions and assumptions of economics itself. But the single most decisive factor in that wealth concentrating "victory" has been the privately controlled monetary system.

B) The appalling condition of America's crucial infrastructure: The American Society of Civil Engineers gives our infrastructure an overall "D" rating, and predicts it will fall to D- soon. They tell us it will cost $1.6 trillion to bring it up to safe levels. The education sector already receives a failing F grade! This represents an unanswerable indictment of the present monetary system as either unwilling or unable to handle these crucial pillars of our society.

C) The growing concentration of wealth: Under 1% of the population is claiming ownership to almost 50% of the wealth. This spells disaster for our democracy unless quickly corrected. Private control of the money system is the most powerful engine continuing this destructive concentration process. It has become the primary tool of class warfare. I've only heard from one Fed official, the President of one of the regional Federal Reserve banks, who seemed to care; but in a private conversation. Yet hearing that from her was the one human signal I've encountered from the Fed in all the years I've watched it.

D) The previous Chairman, media darling Alan Greenspan Promoted Warfare and Bad Tax Cuts: Greenspan promoted the dual disasters of de-funding government through tax cuts to the super-rich, and paving the road to war in Iraq. Who can defend these "errors?" In effect they became "Fed policy" for our country.

E) Health care and education: Some figures say 45 million of us are without health insurance. Other estimates place it much higher. Then there are all those who think they are insured, but will find out otherwise when a health problem does strike. Regarding education, just the physical plant is graded F (failing) by our engineers. Is that American public policy? Or is it a financial system gone amuck?

F) The Real Estate Bubble: This is a double negative for the Fed. Counter to their professed price stability goal, they created massive inflation in housing costs, since about 70% of all Fed money creation goes into real estate loans. Then they look at soaring house prices and say "Aren't we wise? the collateral we loaned on is worth much more than we allowed"? instead of saying "look at what our loans are doing to the real estate market? putting it further out of reach for too many."

G) Stock market bubbles: Past pandering of Greenspan's Fed to the financial sectors led to stock market bubbles, still being unwound. Exclamations of "irrational exuberance" was just talk, when he had the power to act on margin requirements, for example, but did nothing.

H) Attempts to Remove the Estate Tax on the Super Wealthy: Predictably, we heard nothing from Fed officials on why this would be one of the worst fiscal acts to take against America.

I) Worker Earnings Dropping since 1973: Since when is it U.S. public policy to pressurize workers incomes? In effect the Fed has placed the working sector into a form of deflation, while at the same time running a grand inflation in property values.

J) Child mortality: Believe it or not, the U.S. ties for the worst ranking among all "developed" nations, by recent U.N. Figures.

K) And We Haven't Looked at New Orleans Yet: Instead of our government being able to spend the $12 billion to repair levees and protect a key port city, we're going to spend at least $400 billion to repair the damage. This too should be laid at the Fed's doorstep, including the thousands of unnecessary deaths of our people. The Fed facilitated that well publicized maniac who wants to make our government small enough so that he can drown it in a bathtub.

L) Nuclear Weapons face off: We continue to be in an ever more dangerous face off with the Soviet Union involving potentially thousands of nuclear detonations on our land. Just a few of these would end our civilization. When one examines the control of the monetary system, it's not just about money. It is about the mis-direction of humanity. Money plays such a large role in that process that this nuclear stalemate too must be laid in part at the Feds door. Not entirely, because the Russians had a hand in it too.

M) The Balance of Payments Fiasco: Shipping American jobs overseas has led to an imbalance of payments that has benefited financiers, but devastated working people. Where has the Fed ever issued a warning about this process?

N) And Now the Inflation: These misdirected monetary policies are finally taking a toll on inflation. The CRB Price Index (now at about 350) has been approaching its all time highs of 380 reached in 1974, a year of political impeachment combined with wartime inflation, surging metals prices and an agricultural drought. But with much of the work force experiencing deflation in their earnings, it is a nightmare that they are now facing real inflation in their daily expenditures, for example for fuel.

O...Z) More to come.... Foreign Influence Through the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) We'll examine this important question in a continuation of the discussion in the coming weeks.

Ambiguity of control has resulted in the monetary power being misused. It has allowed great power to be wielded without responsibility. No amount of false PR will change that. The money power vested in Congress by the Constitution has been improperly delegated to private interests without sufficient public interest benefit, if any. Congress must resume the power vested in it. Had such delegation of power been shown to work in the public interest, one could consider maintaining or adjusting the present system. But look what it has done. This calls for a major shifting of how our money system operates and is controlled. Anything less, with minor benefits that merely alleviate the problems temporarily, will allow the destructive process to eventually resume. The ambiguity must cease. The American Monetary Institute has been working on comprehensive legislation called The American Monetary Act, to remedy this problem at its root, summarized in our brief statement, The Need for Monetary Reform and presented in full at our web site <http://www.monetary.org>. This Act puts into legal terminology the reform proposal put forward in Chapter 24 of The Lost Science of Money (a copy is in your Washington office). Chapters 1 thru 23 give the historical background and case studies on which the reforms are based. We realize that this Act has its best chance of passage under emergency conditions. The idea is to have it ready and to inform enough citizens and lawmakers around the country about it. At the same time, it is necessary to begin action now and there is a "small step" called the Monetary Transparency Act, attached below. It starts the process of making the Fed more accountable to the Congress, by requiring the compilation of certain statistics which are otherwise difficult to get. These are numbers which almost automatically point the way toward better public policy decisions. See also "The Lost Science of Money book" by Stephen Zarlenga, Director of the American Monetary Institute.

BankLords Dynasties Create Wars & Terror and head the N.W.O. Conspiracy

US General Smedley Butler wrote in his 1935 classic, "War Is a Racket": "I helped make Mexico safe for American oil interests in 1914," "I helped make Haiti and Cuba a decent place for the National City Bank boys to collect revenues in. I helped in the raping of half a dozen Central American republics for the benefit of Wall Street. I helped purify Nicaragua for the International Banking House of Brown Brothers in 1902-1912. I brought light to the Dominican Republic for the American sugar interests in 1916. I helped make Honduras right for American fruit companies in 1903. In China in 1927 I helped see to it that Standard Oil went its way unmolested." Butler acknowledged that he'd spent most of his thirty-three years in the Marines as "a high class muscle man for Big Business, Wall Street and the bankers. In short, I was a racketeer, a gangster for capitalism[ts]."

America's Moloch: The Federal Reserve

Do the Bankers and the politicians need $87 billion for the war, or do they need the war to get $87 billion? Exclusive to American Free Press By W. A. Carto: *Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, 10th Edition, defines "Moloch" as "a Semitic god to whom children were sacrificed." Few in authority will admit that the American economy requires a constantly expanding injection of Federal Reserve heroin to survive. When the Federal Reserve was established by Congress in 1913 it was the successful culmination of a Bankers' conspiracy that began shortly after—even before—the conclusion of the Revolutionary War. It has been fueled by careful long-term planning and unlimited financial reserves by unbelievably wealthy men. Names such as Nelson Aldrich, J. P. Morgan, Paul Warburg, Jacob Schiff, Bernard Baruch, Samuel Untermyer and Rothschild—the most powerful political manipulators in the World then—and their successors now—were the players and politicians. President Woodrow Wilson, indebted to them for his election, carried out the plan. Both parties were involved. The conspirators knew that the public did not want a central bank—something that was anathema to Americans ever since the country's founding. From Washington through Jackson and to Wilson the idea of a central bank, which would inevitably come to shape public policy and invite corruption, was opposed. The plotters knew that any plan originated by Republicans would automatically be suspect so in the election of 1912, it took very little cajoling to convince Teddy Roosevelt to run as a third party candidate. This split the Republicans, assuring the defeat of William Howard Taft and the shoo-in of Wilson, the Democrat, little more than their puppet. Wilson was programmed to preside over the creation of the Federal Reserve—the creature of the most corrupt and criminal class in the World—the international Bankers. Since then, the Fed has directed the transfer of uncounted trillions in assets, such as real property, natural resources and businesses into the greedy hands of the Bankers, leaving their victims—including the United States of America and all of its people bankrupt and in hopeless debt to them. And this has been the purpose of this enterprise from its conspiratorial beginning.

WAR, WAR, WAR

The fundamental dynamic of the American economy is war. It requires a constant expenditure of Federal Reserve interest-bearing credit to survive, and the best way to accomplish this requirement is war. The taxpayers can always be inspired to support war. It may be said that the public loves war almost as much as the Bankers and their office-holding puppets. And if a sizable segment of the public is opposed to a given war, the news media can work them up to a blessed blood lust within hours. Yes, hours. Forty years ago, populist analyst/ philosopher Lawrence Dennis described it thusly: "There's not a peace cloud in the war boom sky."

American politicians have always responded to this by effortlessly finding "public enemies" to fit the hallowed image of foreign devil. And today, with the terror of 9-11 engraved on the consciousness of the public, exhorting them to follow our leaders in the search for terrorists is so simple that even an intellectually deprived president can easily follow the script. Thus, flinging interest-bearing Federal Reserve credit at our presumed enemies is a simple ritual with precedents without number. Critics of President Bush's Iraq aggression are right in that it obviously serves no American interest except the political need to placate the implacable demands of Israel but the even more insistent requirement of feeding the Federal Reserve Moloch with the bodies of young Americans makes war spending a sacred duty. *For more information on the budget fraud and the Federal Reserve scam, see the ad on page 15. The classic book, Secrets of the Federal Reserve, by Eustace Mullins, is the seminal work on this subject. One copy, $25 including S&H. Order from TBR Book Club, P.O. Box 15877, Washington D.C. 20003.

THE CONSPIRACY AND ITS CURE - by Donald Cassidy

It takes a vast and very rich Conspiracy and a century to overthrow the sovereignty of the American government, take control of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial branches, and such agencies IMF, CIA, World Bank, the privately owned Federal Reserve Banks, etc. and embark US on a global war against the Arab World. The Conspiracy was described exactly more than a century ago in Europe and by President Wilson, long before this evil little state of Israel and its partisans were born. The World is under siege by a European hierarchy of banking families, at the top, the money changers and money lenders of history, as warned by Yashua-Joshua-Jesus when he confronted the Temple's money changers and urged all to beware of the Pharisees. They are already the richest people on earth but it is not enough. They have a Faustian Grand Plan. They mean to own or control everything of value on earth. Their weapons: MONEY and DEBT—and Washington and Israel.

The rise of the Conspiracy over the last two centuries parallels the rise of Zionism. This is not a coincidence. Early on, the Conspiracy realized that it needed a strong political agency, Zionism, and its own country where it would be free from all governmental oversight and create the murderous rogue state (Israel, and note that the hexagram on the Israeli flag is the satanic Star of Moloch) that menaces the World today through Washington. (The two were joined at the hip decades ago by the Conspiracy, "There are people who control spacious territories teeming with manifest and hidden resources. They dominate the intersections of World routes. Their lands were the cradles of human civilizations and religions. These people have one faith, one language, one history and the same aspirations. No natural barriers can isolate these people from one another ... if, per chance, this nation were to be unified into one state, it would then take the fate of the World into its hands and would separate Europe from the rest of the World. Taking these considerations seriously, a foreign body should be planted in the heart of this nation to prevent the convergence of its wings in such a way that it could exhaust its powers in never-ending wars. It could also serve as a springboard for the West to gain its coveted objects." - 1902 - Sir Campbell Bannerman, Prime Minister of Britain [1905-08].) The Rothschild Conspiracy is invisible. It functions through its network of global and central banks and their many subsidized agents, organizations and infiltrated fronts around the World. It financed the Morgans and the Harrimans. Even the haughty kingpin of the American Petroleum Cartel, David Rockefeller, is its lackey just like his ancestors.

It controls the currency of all the major nations including Russia and China. It "takes" hundreds of billions from the American people every year. It has no regard for human life except as a resource for labor, taxes and armies. It has no god; money is its messiah. A century ago, the Conspiracy had bankrupt Europe with its many wars (the lifeblood of the Conspiracy). A peaceful America, protected by two oceans, was on the verge of becoming the most powerful and prosperous nation on earth and the Conspiracy did not "own" it. This was "unacceptable". A naïve President Wilson was surrounded by these conspirators: Baruch, Untermyer, Warburg, Schiff, Brandeis, Meyer and House (Read Mr. Griffin's book on the Creature of Jekyll Island which describes the fraudulent creation of the privately owned Federal Reserve Banking system modelled on the Bank of England which the Conspiracy families control, i.e. Rothschild, Rockefller, etc.). The Conspiracy wished to take control of American money, "mobilize its credit" to finance World War I and overthrow the Czar (for Russian money and creation of their private central bank). And it needed America to assure victory over Germany and control of the Bundesbank. President Woodrow Wilson was pressured into signing the Federal Reserve Act and to declare war on Germany. Later he was to say, "I have involuntarily ruined my government". Ominously, he warned, "Some of the biggest men in the United States...are afraid of something. They know there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it." (And it has grown enormously from a century of war.)

The Conspiracy mandated that Capitalism become the "state religion" of America and the World (cheap resources and labor and freedom from taxes and regulations). A Red Scare began the century long war on Communism. It was as phony as the "war on terrorism" of today, all bugaboos and demagoguery. Every politician had to pledge his/her allegiance to Capitalism. Communists were purged from government, communications, education, industry; tens of millions died for it in the Conspiracy wars. Today it's still the same: "globalization," "deregulation" "privatization" and "tax exemptions for the rich". The Conspiracy financed massive donations to two of the most prestigious universities in America, turning them into centers of politics and activities geared toward their agenda.

After World War II, the Conspiracy corrupted American elections with money and subverted Washington officials with threats of heavily financed opponents. Anyone who resisted was threatened with ruin or eliminated (JFK and the other 3 Presidents who were assassinated, Louis McFadden, etc.). The Senate was purged of all but the Conspiracy's sycophants. But what about the American people? In the 70's after the destruction of the Savings Banks and Savings & Loans was planned, the Conspiracy recognized that it needed an epochal event like the Reichstag Fire and/or Pearl Harbor to subdue the independent American people. Washington and its controlled media would orchestrate a mass hysteria. They would bombard the American people, just as they had for decades with demagoguery, pathos, ethnic hatred, patriotism, heroism, glorification, pageantry, flag-waving and symbolism to create a false war climate and impose martial law under the pretense of "national wartime security". FEMA concentration camps were built and are ready (see Alex Jones' documentary The Road to Tyranny on this CD or at <http://www.infowars.com>). It all came together in September 2001 just as planned by the Conspiracy. And it is seeking the greatest insurance windfall in history. The American people are shocked and all evidence and investigations quashed. But the pieces are coming together anyway on the Internet; Washington and media accusations are a complete fraud. The buildings were assuredly not destroyed by aircraft but rather "demolition" style with explosives at the base which left a Richter signature of 2.1 at the exact time of the collapses.. The obvious suspects are the agents of the Conspiracy in Washington. There are reports that the Conspiracy timed this catastrophe to destroy the personnel and accumulated evidence in a major investigation and lawsuit involving a gold cartel in Wall Street and the Federal Reserve, selling the Reserve gold stock at bargain prices which would have unveiled the Conspiracy. This was "unacceptable" and the central office of this investigation was located in WTC and destroyed alongwith all the evidence collected.

The Conspiracy seeks to corner the World's gold supply (its Rheingold). Washington has since diverted all such investigations to "terrorism". The Conspiracy has bankrupt America just like Europe. America is on the brink of chaos: environmental disaster, global war, and economic, societal, and financial collapse. America floats on the accelerating expansion of debt by the Federal Reserve, currently at $15 Trillion Federal, State, Local. But credit is not inexhaustible. Annual interest on the debt is rapidly rising. The dollar is under global attack in favor of the Euro. The economic future of America is bleak yet rosy economics pours out of Washington and the media, lulling the people. For most of US, the cost of living rises and the standard of living declines; there will be giant corporate bankruptcies, millions more unemployed, healthcare, education, retirements trashed, all the more for the Conspiracy's war machine (and its satanic weapons). In debt-ridden nations, the Conspiracy through the IMF will demand lower wages and no social programs, higher taxes and interest rates and will foreclose on vast expanses of the natural resources by its World "Conservation" Bank for exploitation, freed from the sovereign control of those countries and the interests and welfare of their people. Our children will buy their water like they buy their gasoline from Conspiracy lackeys.

America exists in a state of Constitutional chaos. There is no lawful government in Washington. All three branches are in gross violation of the Constitution. It is the most evil and criminal government in history. It is a collection of Enron types, stuffing their pockets. These criminals will gladly wage the Conspiracy's wars just to stay in power. Any force with the means to do so may lawfully oust them and fill the vacancies. We see a popinjay president surrounded, once again like Wilson, by these neocon conspirators: Wolfowitz, Perle, Feith, Kristol, Kagan, and Podhoretz. So what's the cure? The voting machines are "fixed" and the hardware/software is owned by the Rotchschild/Rockefeller dynasties just like history in the form of Encyclopedia Britannica. The Republican majorities in Congress are more suspect every day. [note: Texas redistricting scandal to get rid of democrats, Florida presidential election scandal, California recall.] So what's the cure? It's really simple. Vast concentrated wealth is dangerous to any republic and must be redistributed through a "Peace Tax" of fifty percent of all personal wealth, income and property in excess of Five Million Dollars. The hundreds of billions in interest paid by the Treasury's government obligations [treasury bond holders] to the Conspiracy annually should be cancelled... this would require a selective process of who these particular bond holders are. Political reform including elections purged of private monies, term limits for all public officials, and representative government for all minorities according to their numbers. The Conspiracy and its use of the American people to achieve their evil Grand Plan would be ended. Within a few years the national debt would be paid with peace and prosperity instead of endless wars, inflation and depressions. This is always what has occurred when the people issued their own money instead of the Conspiracy's privately owned central banks. But the Conspiracy controls both of the major parties; so the Cure is simply not possible without efforts by real American patriots. We should remember the words of Thomas Jefferson: "I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. Already they have raised up a money aristocracy that has set the government at defiance... If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks will deprive the people of all property until their children wake-up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered... The issuing power should be taken from the banks and restored to the government to whom it properly belongs." "The modern theory of the perpetuation of debt has drenched the earth with blood, and crushed its inhabitants under burdens ever accumulating". ~ Letter to the Secretary of the Treasury Albert Gallatin (1802) and later published in The Debate Over The Recharter Of The Bank Bill (1809)

How soon the labor of men would make a paradise of the earth were it not for misgovernment and a diversion of his energies to selfish interests.

Acknowledgements: Eustace Mullins, Secrets of the Federal Reserve, (www.apfn.org/apfn/reserve.htm) Carmack & Still, The Money Masters (www.themoneymasters.com) http://www.indybay.org/news/2003/09/1645030_comment.php

<http://www.democracynow.org/article.pl?sid=03/09/18/1757243>

<http://www.nzherald.co.nz/storydisplay.cfm?thesection=news&thesubsection=&storyID=3524590&reportID=562588>

<http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/article4792.htm>

For additional Fisk articles see the following URLs: www.robert-fisk.com <http://www.nowarforisrael.com> www.counterpunch.org (check left hand column for links to Fisk articles)

<http://www.nzherald.co.nz/storydisplay.cfm?storyID=3524677&thesection=news&thesubsection=World>

The following is the Robert Fisk article (notice how Vice President Dick Cheney was on the board of advisors for JNSA for years before the tragic 9-11 attack as he was the CEO of Halliburton as well before receiving the 20 million dollar severance package to basically do Halliburton's bidding as Vice President-the Iraq invasion was for Israel (with JNSA/CSP/PNAC) and oil (Halliburton) with Dick Cheney being the key person for both): <http://www.robert-fisk.com/articles114.htm> Here is the "Men from JNSA and CSP" article again which Fisk mentions in the above article: <http://www.thenation.com/doc.mhtml?i=20020902&s=vest&c=1> Long Night After (by Israeli Uri Avnery about the JNSA/PNAC cabal in the Bush regime):

<http://www.counterpunch.org/avnery04102003.html> Check out the article about spies (to include Israeli spies) at the Pentagon who distorted intelligence for the invasion of Iraq (the article is linked under the pictures that appear at the following URL): <http://www.nowarforisrael.com> Whose War (by Patrick Buchanan): http://www.amconmag.com/03_24_03/cover.html

<http://www.counterpunch.org/fisk0416.html> North Korea War Next for the JNSA/CSP/PNAC Neocons:

http://iraqwar.ru/iraq-read_article.php?articleId=19695&lang=en Behold, the Head of a Neocon:

<http://www.counterpunch.org/cockburn09172003.html> Iraq Invasion/Occupation for Greater Israel (and Oil):

<http://www.sutramanga.com/discuss/viewthread.php?tid=73&pid=239> <http://www.nogw.com/warforisrael.html>

Iraq Occupation Looking Like Lebanon: <http://www.msnbc.com/news/966400.asp?0dm=s13Ak>

Edward M. House

Proof! "World Government" is a Banker Ruse By Henry Makow Ph.D. May 09, 2004

In 1919, the Rothschild-dominated Bank of England planned to trick the United States into becoming a "British" colony again by joining In 1919, the Rothschild-dominated Bank of England planned to trick the United States into becoming a "British" colony again by joining the League of Nations. The League of the Nations, like the "British Empire", was the bankers' fiefdom, and this strategem would merely formalize a colonial status which already existed. The bankers took over the U.S. during the Teddy Roosevelt Administration (1901-1909) when Rothschild front J.P. Morgan alone controlled 25% of American business. The "Col. E.M. House Report", a chilling 10-page "progress report" dated June 10, 1919, proves the League of Nations was an aborted attempt at World government and a facade for banker tyranny. The Report reveals the reality and the tactics behind the United Nations and globalization.

House writes: "We have wrapped this plan in the peace treaty so that the World must accept from us the League or a continuance of the war. The League is in substance the Empire with America admitted on the same basis as our other colonies."

The report oozes contempt for Americans and reveals the deceitful methods international finance employed 85 years ago to bring about World government. These goals and methods have not changed. If ever we needed proof of an elite conspiracy to subvert the nation and enslave us, this is it. The author is Col. Edward Mandell House (1858-1938), the Rothschild agent who secretly directed U.S. affairs during the President Woodrow Wilson administration. Col. House was known as Wilson's friend and "alter ego." (He had not served in the military and the term "Colonel" was merely honorary.) The report is addressed to British Prime Minister David Lloyd George, whose career was made as a lawyer for the World Zionist Organization. Rep. Jacob Thorkelson (1876-1945) introduced The House Report to Congress in Oct. 1939 and published it in the Congressional Record (Oct. 13 1939, pp.598-604). Attempts to delete it were thwarted. The complete text is available on line.

THE "CROWN"

The report details Col. House's progress in preparing "for the peaceful return of the American colonies to the dominion of the Crown." "Crown" refers to the owners of the Bank of England. Their identities are an official secret. According to E.C. Knuth, the "international financial oligarchy uses the allegoric 'Crown' as its symbol of power and has its headquarter in the ancient city of London...the giant Bank of England, a privately owned institution... is not subject to regulation by the British parliament and is in effect a sovereign World power." (The Empire of the City, p. 59). Col. House continues: The "peaceful return of the American colonies" can only be brought about with "the consent of the dominant group of the controlling clans." Col. House relates how these classes are being taught to accept "British" leadership. He details how the universities and press are staffed by "British-born" or Canadians. "Through the Red Cross, the Scout movement, the YMCA, the church, and other humane, religious, and quasi religious organizations, we have created an atmosphere of international effort which strengthens the idea of unity of the English speaking World."

The Overseas Clubs, service clubs, and war charities "enable us to pervade all sections and classes of the country." We "hold all American newspapers as isolated from the non-American World as if they had been in another planet instead of another hemisphere. The realization of this by the Associated Press and the other universal news gatherers, except Hearst, was most helpful in bringing only our point of view to the papers they served." He boasts that the United States "while still maintaining an outward show of independence" is identical with other colonies in its relationship to the Crown. "Has not President Wilson cancelled the big Navy program and dutifully conceded to us the command of the seas?" He boasts that "the Anglo American alliance" has become "the unchallenged financiers of the World." He congratulates "our fiscal agents Messrs Pierpont Morgan & Company" for "putting this country into the war." They exert "widespread influence on newspaper policy" through advertising and lent $200,000,000 to Japan to build a fleet to compete with America (making the U.S. still more dependent on England.). Col. House boasts that the "Crown" used money lent by the U.S. government for war purposes to buy up oil fields in California, Mexico and Latin America. "The war has made us custodians of the greater part of the World's raw materials... [We] now largely control the oil fields of the World and thereby the World's transportation and industry."

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS RUSE

The pressing issue now is to "transfer its dangerous sovereignty from this colony to the custody of the Crown. We must, in short, now bring America within the Empire." The first step was Wilson's plan for the League of Nations "which we prepared for him." "The plain people of this country are inveterate and incurable hero worshippers," Col. House explains. They easily can be manipulated by a man with a slogan that expresses their "undefined aspirations." Afterwards, they will trust the slogan no matter what he does. Wilson has gained this trust and this accounts for "his exceptional usefulness to us." "Any abrupt change might startle the ignorant American masses and rouse them to action against it. And us. Our best policy therefore would be to appoint President Wilson the first president of the League... he will be able to satisfy [Americans] that far from surrendering their independence to the League, they are actually extending their sovereignty by it..."

Foreshadowing The Patriot Act, Col. House says President Woodrow Wilson "alone can father an anti-Bolshevik act which judicially interpreted will enable appropriate punitive measures to be applied to any American who may be unwise enough to assert that America must once again declare her independence." Col. House goes into great detail about how Wilson must be messaged and manipulated. Many people think someone else wrote this Report but only Edward Mandell House knew Wilson this well. For example he says Wilson "is easily slighted and remarkably vindictive." The new British ambassador should be a "Wilson worshipper" and "a gentleman-in-waiting to the President." He lists the gifts Wilson already has been given.

"OUR ENTIRE SYSTEM OF THOUGHT CONTROL" IS AT WORK

Col. House suggests staging the first session of the League of Nations in Washington. "This will convince these simple people that they are the League and its power resides in them." He recommends a "series of spectacles by which the mob may be diverted from any attempt to think too much of matters beyond their province." "While awaiting these diversions for the vulgar, we are incessantly instructing them in the wonders of the league. Its praises are thundered by our press, decreed by our college presidents, and professed by our professors. Our authors, writers and lecturers are analysing its selected virtues... we have enlisted 8000 propagandists for the League. We have organized international and national synods, committees, conferences, convocations, conventions, councils...to herald the birth of the League as the dawn of universal peace." "Agriculturalists, bankers, brokers, accountants, chemists, and all other functional groups capable of exerting organized professional, business, financial or social pressure are meeting to endorse the League in the name of peace, progress and prosperity...Our film concerns are preparing an epoch-making picture..." "In short, our entire system of thought control is working ceaselessly, tirelessly, ruthlessly, to ensure the adoption of the League. And it will be adopted, for business wants peace, the righteous cannot resist a covenant, and the politicians, after shadow boxing for patronage purposes, will yield valiantly lest the fate of the wanton and wilful pursue them."

CONCLUSIONS

Thanks to the valiant opposition of Republican Senators, the United States rejected the Peace Treaty and with it the League of Nations Nov. 19, 1919. The plot was temporarily foiled. But the secretive bankers' covert campaign to impose World tyranny has not abated. They financed Hitler and engineered World War Two. The League of Nations was resurrected as the United Nations in 1945 and the "Cold War" initiated. Many believe we are in the early stages of "World War Three." All segments of society continue to be propagandized with the virtues of the UN. National institutions are subverted. The press and education continue to be controlled. Politicians are figureheads. Some of the tactics have changed. The American empire has replaced the British Empire as their instrument of World hegemony. But Americans should not think they are serving their own interests. They are building a 'new World order' and its master is "the Crown." In Col. House's words, Americans will be colonists who have to "petition at the foot of the throne." The references to control of oilfields suggest that oil is first and foremost an instrument of World domination. The final stage of World tyranny involves gaining complete control of Middle Eastern oil. This portends an invasion of Iran. The threat can no longer be characterized as "Jewish." The Rothschilds have received a degree of collaboration from the World's financial, cultural and political elites as to render this point mute. Lemming-like, Western elites have embraced a death-wish for civilization.

Henry Makow received his Ph.D. in English Literature from the University of Toronto. He welcomes your feedback and ideas at henry@savethemales.ca or henry@gmail.com.

<http://www.biblebelievers.org.au/house.htm> The Colonel House Report \(1919\)

[The following comes from Geo. W. Armstrong's THE ZIONISTS (1950). I have looked in the Congressional Record and can confirm the contention that it was submitted by Congressman Thorkelson but did not make it into the bound volume. Also, I have found several discussions in the Record where at least one Texas House member objected because it was not favorable to Col. House. Therefore, it is either: 1) a hoax, 2) a created summary of what might have been written by a British agent, or 3) is a genuine exposé of the true British plan. For me it forms an insightful basis for additional research. The names mentioned include: Nicholas Murray Butler (1862-1947) (President, Columbia University, 1902-1945, President, CEIP, 1925-1945, etc.), Raymond Blaine Fosdick (1883-1972) (BB/CFR21) (President of the General Education Board, 1936-1948, Undersecretary-General, League of Nations, 1919-1920, etc.), Samuel Gompers, Franklin Lane and W. B. Wilson. The date is interesting since it is within a couple of weeks of the Majestic Hotel meeting in Paris where the British and American delegates met to fashion what became the RIIA and the CFR. From the content itself Lord Northcliffe seems not to have been the author. I have not yet found the promised later book].

The British Secret Service Report No. 1919, called the "Col. E. M. House letter," contains an official and authentic report of the First World War, the agency that brought it about and the purpose of it. This report in its entirety is highly interesting but the discussion here will be limited to "Imperial Unity," J P. Morgan & Company, British Duplicity, and the League of Nations. This report, or letter, was presented to the House of Representatives by Congressman Thorkelson of Montana, and is published in the Congressional Record of October 13, 1919, p. 598-604 inclusive. Its authenticity was discussed by members of the House and an effort was made to strike it from the Record, which failed. See Congressional Record, October 11, 1939, p.714 et seq.; also of September 9, 1940, p.17835; and September 11, 1940, p.18311. The letter or report is not published in the bound volumes of the Congressional Record of October 11, 1939, or the appendix of that date. Evidently some interested person prevented its publication, despite the refusal of the House of Representatives to strike it from the Record. The text as here set forth can be easily verified by reference to an original unbound copy of the Congressional Record of October 11 1939. It will be published in full in the next edition of this booklet. It was called the "Col. E. M. House letter," but it is not a letter. It is an official report made by an important officer of the British Secret Service, on stationery of the British Consulate. It reveals its official character and its verity upon its face.

No minor official would dare write such a letter to the British Prime Minister, or dare discuss the important subjects contained in it; except in the line of duty. Moreover, it was written by a man who KNEW and whose duty it was to know. It was not written by Col. E. M. House. This name was merely an adopted name; a nom de plume. It is the custom of secret agents to disguise themselves under a number or an assumed name. The letter is known as the British Secret Service Report No.1919. Sec Congressional Record, October 13. 1939, p.714. It discloses that it was probably written by Lord Northcliffe, who was at that time the head of the British Propaganda Department in enemy countries. He sustained toward Lloyd George the same intimate relationship that once existed between President Woodrow Wilson and Colonel House, and this fact may explain the name he assumed. This document should be considered in connection with the drive by the Fair Dealers, the press, the radio, and the upholders, for the Atlantic Pact, "Union Now," "Federal Union, Inc.," etc., for it will enable us to determine the true meaning of it all. The immensely wealthy private bank of N. M. Rothschild & Son, and the Zionists, controlled the British Empire then as well as now. Then they controlled the Bank of England, the press, the railroads, and the industries with minor exceptions. Lord Northcliffe was the publisher of the Daily Mail and other papers.

The report follows: Imperial Unity British Consulate New York City June 10, 1919, "The Right Honorable David Lloyd George, Sir: I was highly honored by your personal letter of May 24 last (written same week as Paris meeting), and wish to thank you for the cordial expression of approval of my work which it contained. You were very good enough to require from me a frank and confidential account of the campaign conducted under my direction in this country, together with such suggestions as might further help to lead it speedily to a successful conclusion. As the campaign had been under way for a considerable time before you were called to direct the destinies of England, I shall review it from its commencement, and, emboldened by your sanction, I shall freely make whatever suggestions seem to me good. From the moment of my arrival here, it was evident to me that such an Anglo-American alliance as would ultimately result in the peaceful return of the American Colonies to the dominion of the Crown could be brought about only with the consent of the dominant group of the controlling clans. For those who can afford the universities, we are, as I have already mentioned, plentifully supplying British-born or trained professors, lecturers, and presidents. A Canadian-born admiral now heads the United States Naval College. We are arranging for a greater interchange of professors between the two countries. The student interchange could be much improved. The Rhodes scholarships are inadequate in number. I would suggest that the Carnegie trustees be approached to extend to American students the benefits of the scheme by which Scottish students are subsidised at Scottish universities. If necessary, a grant from the treasury should be obtained for this excellent work, which however, should remain for the present -- at least outwardly -- private enterprise..."

Through the Red Cross, the Scout movement, the YMCA, the church, and other humane, religious, and quasi-religious organizations, we have created an atmosphere of international effort which strengthens the idea of unity of the English-speaking World. In the co-ordination of this work, Mr. Raymond Fosdick, formerly of the Rockefeller Foundation, has been especially conspicuous. I would also like to mention President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, who has eloquently advocated this form of internationalism and carefully emphasize its distinction from the false internationalism which is infecting the proletariat. The Overseas Club in this country now contains nearly hundred thousand pledged members with a Journal of their own. Our thanks are due to Lord St. George's, St. David's, St. Andrew's, and Pilgrim Clubs, together with the Daughters of the Empire, the Prince of Wales Fund, and the other association and guilds connected with our multitudinous war charities enable us to pervade all sections and classes of the country, and provide us with a force of empire builders whose loyalty and services are both invaluable to us and highly appreciated by the native colonists. The censorship, together with our monopoly of cables and our passport control of passengers, enables us to hold all American newspapers as isolated from the non-American World as if they had been in another planet instead of in another hemisphere. The realization of this by the Associated Press and the other universal news gatherers -- except Hearst -- was most helpful in bringing only our point of view to the papers they served.

British-born editors and reporters now create imperial sentiment in most American newspapers. As their identity and origins are not usually known, they can talk and write for us as Americans to Americans. Below that level, imperial unity cannot be securely established upon the debris of the Constitution here. We will not passively permit this unity to be now menaced when it is all but perfect. Has not America, while still maintaining an outward show of independence, yielded to our wishes in the Panama Canal tolls and Canadian fisheries' disputes, as was fitting and filial? Was not America happy to fight our war in Europe? Was not America, like Canada, willing not only to pay her own war expenses but also to loan us money for ours? Was not America, like Canada, content to seek nothing in return for her war duty, so long as the motherland was completely indemnified in Egypt and the rest of Africa, in Persia, Mesopotamia, Syria, and elsewhere? Was not America as proud to be honored by knighthood and lesser titulary distinctions, as Canada was, or, rather, more proud? Has not President Wilson cancelled the big Navy program and dutifully conceded to us the command of the seas, confident that we shall defend America against all future foes that may threaten our supremacy, just as we defended America and Canada against Germany? In matters lingual, legal and financial, fiscal, commercial, social evangelical, administrative, martial, naval, educational -- are not in all these matters the established relations of America to England, in kind -- if not precisely in degree -- identical with the relations of the other colonies and dominions to the Crown? Indeed, I might justifiably sustain the thesis that so-distant American Republic is now more happily and more closely bound to the Empire than are, for example, the ungrateful and insolent colonies which lately were the Boer Republics.

As long as President Wilson, with our Canadian-born Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Franklin Lane, with our Scotch-born Secretary of Labor, Mr. W. B. Wilson, and with our London-born Mr. Samuel Gompers, -- now controls the administration, imperial unity will daily grow more intimate and more perfect. But I regret to inform you that our committee on American Elections has reported (Appendix 38) that no matter how lavishly we finance the next election, the Wilson administration will pass, and with it, perchance, that absolute administrative control over the Legislature, which has meant so much to us. Willful, wanton, and wicked men will unite in the next election with labor and those industrialists whose profit-patriotism ratio has been allowed to fall below the threshold of loyalty to imperial unity. These combined forces of disorder will seek to elect a legislature which will attempt to make the administration responsible to it, instead of to us and our auxiliaries, and will strive to rend the bonds which bind this colony to the motherland, for the sole, selfish, and seditious purpose of erecting a separate, national, economic unit independent of us -- and even perhaps, competing with us. We must, therefore, hasten to remove from this legislature, with the aid of our supporters here, such of its powers as could be used against imperial unity.

J. P. Morgan & Co. Are British Agents

In the financial World the Anglo-American alliance is a well-established fact. And as the consortium for China, and the security company for Mexico show, our brokers and their aids have become the unchallenged financiers of the World. We have been particularly fortunate in our fiscal agents here, Messrs Pierpont Morgan & Company. The commissions they charged, both as our brokers and purchasing agents no doubt were high enough to warrant their summary treatment at the hands of Mr. Balfour during his visit here. But they advantageously placed our many bond issues and every American holder of these bonds having now a stake in the Empire is a defender of its integrity and a potential supporter of its extension over here. Their services in putting this country into the war have not been altruistic, but they were nonetheless effective. They contributed liberally to our Americanization campaign. They ousted Miss Boardman, and through Messrs. Taft and H. P. Davidson they nationalized and directed the American Red Cross, and then internationalized it under the direction of Mr. H. P. Davison Through Mr. Thomas Lamont they purchased Harpers Magazine and the New York Evening Post. Through advertisers they control, they have exerted widespread influence on newspaper policy. Messrs. Lamont and Davidson gave you valuable aid at the peace conference. They loaned $200,000,000 to Japan that our ally might build a fleet to compete with America on the Pacific carrying routes. Their attempts to retain for us control of the international mercantile marine are well known to you. And I would be amiss if I did not remind you that they relieved the government of considerable embarrassment by pensioning worthily the widow of our late Ambassador Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, at a time when the antagonism of Lord Northcliffe made it impossible for us officially to do so. As the greater part of their capital is invested within the Empire. the Government of His Majesty will doubtless have opportunity to appreciate the value of the services of Messrs. Pierpont Morgan & Company.

British Duplicity

Through our fiscal agents here and our aids who act for other Allied countries, as Sir Clifford Sifton acts for Rumania, we have become the World's purchasers. Moreover, the war has made us the custodian of the greater part of the World's raw materials. With moneys lent to us by the American Government for war purposes, we have, acting through quasi-American companies by the aid of Mr. Connor Guthrie, obtained control of the large oil fields in California and in Costa Rica. And through the nationalization of His Majesty's Government of the Cowdray, Pearson, and Royal Dutch Shell interests in Mexico, we having become masters of the Mexican, Canadian, Rumanian, Armenian, Persian, and lessor oil fields, now largely control the oil fields of the World and thereby the World's transportation and industry. We have not yet succeeded in controlling the pipe lines owned by the Standard Oil Company, and its subsidiaries, for those companies have long been established. But, although uncontrolled companies may continue to get their oil to the seaboard, the proposed system of preferential treatment at our universal oiling stations for ships supplied at the port of departures with British oil (Appendix 37) will prevent the use of any oil but ours on the high seas.

This control would enable us to exert such pressure as would make American industrial interests amenable to His Majesty's pleasure. But it would be unwise to make disciplinary use of our fuel power before we secure remission of our $4,000,000,000 debt. Otherwise, the American industrial interests might retaliate by forcing the United States Government to exact from us the agreed interest, to maintain tariff barriers against our merchandise, and to withdraw support from the rate of exchange. Which make our labor and resources for years pay tribute to this country an unnatural, unfilial, and unthinkable proceeding. We are conducting a vigorous campaign for the cancellation of this war debt, on the grounds (a) that we fought America's fight for her for 2 years, while she was prospering in cowardice and (b) that at least the material burdens should be distributed justly, if the World is to be made safe for democracy. . Synchronously with this agitation for the remission of our debt, we are agitating for further loans of American money to rebuild our markets in Europe. There is no possibility of these two agitations endangering their mutual success, for we have repeatedly proved beyond question that the American mind cannot synchronously fix and correlate facts, with two cognate items on the statements to be judged each on its merits. Hence, we are able in a cloud of candor to state the merit of the loan -- viz, that unless the money be lent to us we cannot pay the interest on it. In these agitations we are receiving valuable, if not wholly disinterested, aid from our financial auxiliaries and fiscal agents (J. P. Morgan & Co.)

In Mexico our friends made a tentative adventure with the gallant Blanquet, but it miscarried, perhaps owing to a slight misunderstanding between the bond interests and the industrial interests. However, we are quietly continuing our work in Mexico until the United States Government shall be put in a position to take it over. An American war with Mexico would cost us nothing; it would satisfy certain American industrial interests; it would guarantee our title to the Mexican oil fields; it would humble, by impoverishing, this purse-proud people; it would give us an opportunity to show the American that he isolated in the World needs our protection against our ally, Japan; and while America was busy warring we would enjoy a clear field in the European, African, and Asiatic trade, together with the monopoly of the markets of a South America hostile to the Monroe Doctrinaries of democracy. For these reasons our press is fully reporting Mexican outrages, but a strange apathy seems to have fallen on the people, an apathy from which only border raids or special atrocities will arouse them. .

League Of Nations (Forerunner to the United Nations)

In other words, we must quickly act to transfer its dangerous sovereignty from this colony to the custody of the Crown. We must, in short, now bring America with in the Empire. God helping us, we can do no other. The first visible step in this direction has been taken; President Wilson has accepted and sponsored the plan for a League of Nations which we prepared for him. We have wrapped this plan in the peace treaty so that the World must accept from us the League or a continuance of the war. The League is in substance the Empire with America admitted on the same basis as our other colonies. The effectiveness of the League will depend upon the power with which it can be endowed, and that will hinge upon the skill with which the cardinal functions of the American legislature are transferred to the executive Council of the League. Any abrupt change may startle the ignorant American masses and rouse them to action against it. And us. Our best policy, therefore, would be to appoint President Wilson first president of the League. When the fourteen points seemed to our Government twice seven daily sins, I analyzed with care his diverse and numerous notes and discourses and divided them into their two parts: One, the Wilson creed, "I believe in open covenants and in the freedom of the seas," etc.; and two, the Wilson commandments, "Might shall not prevail over right, the strong shall not oppress the weak," etc. From the "too proud to fight" and "he kept us out of war" episodes, I ventured to deduce (September 29, 1918, Appendix 36) that he would at the appropriate moment oblige us by transferring the "not" from his commandments to his creed without as much as a "may I not," and in such a way that his people will be none the wiser.

The plain people of this country are inveterate and incurable hero worshipers. They are, however, sincere in sentiment; and for a hero to become established in the public shrine, he must first succeed in getting his name associated with the phrases and slogans that seem to reflect the undefined aspirations of the average inhabitant. When this has been accomplished the allegiance is at once transferred from the sentiment to the sentimental, from the ideal to the maker of the longed-for phrase. No one understands this peculiarity of the native behavior better than Mr. Wilson, which accounts largely for his exceptional usefulness to us. He knows that Americans will not scrutinise any performance too closely, provided their faith in the performer has been adequately established. Mr. Wilson has since made the transfer amid American acclamation. In the same way he will now be able to satisfy them that far from surrendering their independence to the League they are actually extending their sovereignty by it. He alone can satisfy them on this. He alone can father an anti-Bolshevik act which judicially interpreted -- will enable appropriate punitive measures to be applied to any American who may be unwise enough to assert that America must again declare her independence. And he alone, therefore, is qualified to act for us as first president of the League.

I confess I am a little uneasy lest in the exigencies of diplomatic combat, Mr. Wilson may not have found the joy he anticipated from matching his wits against the best brains of Europe. He is easily slighted and remarkably vindictive. It is the highest degree desirable that any traces of resentment his mind may be harboring against us should be radically removed before he returns. I would, therefore, suggest that the work of adulation planned in Appendix 32 should be instructed to consult the inventories I have prepared (appendices 45-83), which show that he is now surfeited with diamond stomachers, brooches, and bracelets, Gobelin tapestries, mosaics, and vases, gold caskets, and plates. The program we arranged for his visit to England (appendix 33) including a royal reception at Buckingham Palace, with which the President was well pleased. The fruitful visit of the President to the King should be returned as early as possible. I would suggest that as soon as the President is settled once more in the White House, the visit should be returned by His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, who would be an admirable representative of His Royal Sire, and would satisfy President Wilson's sense of fitness. It is perhaps unfortunate that there is not a Presidential daughter of the Prince's age, for such a union would have greatly advanced our purpose not only with the American people, but also with a President who feels that lese majeste should be punishable with 20 years' imprisonment, and who acts as if he considered his son-in-law, Mr. McAdoo, as his heir apparent.

President Wilson's Peculiarities

Too great attention cannot be given at this time to the Presidential peculiarities, for his devotion to our purpose will depend upon our ability to pander to them. I would suggest that the new ambassador to Washington should be chosen only after the most careful thought. He should not be too clever, lest Mr. Wilson shun him. He should be able to evince hilarity at the most venerable jest, no matter how often he may have to suffer it. This qualification is vitally important whether Mr. Wilson's "humor" is merely assumed to perpetuate the "human" tradition established for Presidents by Lincoln, or whether it is studied descent from Joveline isolation to Joveline jest. The ambassador should be a Wilson worshiper. I enclose (appendix 34) resumes of the methods of worship practiced by various members of his inner circle. The appointee would do well to familiarize himself with them, and my services are at his disposal should he desire more extended information on the method of worship he selects. He should of course be a commoner, that we may not lose democratic favor -- preferably a professor -- and sufficiently subsidized to be able to entertain regally. If a list were submitted to Mr. Wilson he might be prepared to indicate all of whom he did not approve, and the one against whom he expressed no prejudices should be appointed. The pressing need of our embassy at Washington is not so much an ambassador as a gentleman in waiting to the President.

I would suggest that his powers as President of the League of Nations be left undefined for the present. He may be trusted to assume what power he can and to use it in the interests of the Crown. A grant of a privy purse of $100,000,000 would prove most acceptable to him and would be useful for private espionage, private wars, Siberian railroads, etc. His appointment should be for life, and you might definitely promise him that any instructions he may care to convey concerning his successor will receive the most careful attention of His Majesty's Government. Nevertheless, it would be well quickly to reinforce him in the presidency of the League of Nations by staging the first session of the League in Washington. This will convince these simple people that they are the League and its power resides in them. Their pride in this power should be exalted. Perhaps you, yourself, might condescend to visit this country. Or, if that be impracticable, you might send such noble statesmen, and stately noblemen, as will suffice to make of the first League session a spectacle of unsurpassed brilliance. Indeed, it would be well to commence at an early date a series of spectacles by which the mob may be diverted from any attempt to think too much of matters beyond their province. The success of the Joffre, Viviani Balfour, and other missions in amusing the people while the country was quietly put into the war shows that similar missions would likewise amuse the people -- while the country was quietly put into the League. I would suggest that missions of thanksgiving to America be organized, and that His Majesty the King of the Belgians, Cardinal Mercier, Field Marshal Foch, Venizelos, and an eminent Italian or two be sent seriatim.

Propaganda Curtain

While awaiting these diversions for the vulgar, we are incessantly instructing them in the wonders of the League. Its praises are thundered by our press, decreed by our college presidents, and professed by our professors. Our authors, writers, and lecturers are analyzing its selected virtues for whomsoever will read or listen. As will be seen from appendix 39, circulars issued by the League of Nations committee, we have enlisted 8,000 pulpitiere or propagandists for the League. We have organized international and national synods, consistories, committees, conferences, convocations, conventions, councils, congresses, and assemblies, as well as their State, municipal, and district equivalents, to herald the birth of the League as the dawn of universal peace. A special Sunday will be observed as League Sunday in all churches. In this connection, may I remark that the appointment of Mr. Raymond Fosdick to the Secretariat of the League, has pleased not only the Rockefeller interests but also the less disingenuous upholders, for it stamps the League as an endowed organization for promiscuous uplifting, under the triple crown of religion, respectability, and finance. Agriculturalists, bankers, brokers, chartered accounts, chemists, and all other functional groups capable of exerting organized professional, business, financial, or social pressure are meeting to endorse the League in the name of peace, progress, and prosperity.

The World's Peace Foundation has issued for us a series of League of Nations pamphlets, which, with our other literature, tax the mails to the limit of their capacity. Our film concerns are preparing an epoch-making picture entitled "The League of Nations." In brief, our entire system of thought control is working ceaselessly, tirelessly, ruthlessly, to insure the adoption of the League. And it will be adopted, for business wants peace, the righteous cannot resist a covenant, and the politicians, after shadow-boxing for patronage purposes, will yield valiantly lest the fate of the wanton and wilful pursue them.

By these means we hope smoothly to overcome all effective opposition on the part of our colony America to entering the League -- that is, the Empire. As soon as the League is functioning properly, His Majesty in response to loyal and repeated solicitation, might graciously be pleased to consent to restore to this people their ancient right to petition at the foot of the throne; to confer the ancient rank and style of governor general upon our Ambassador, that this colony may enjoy a status inferior to no other colony's; to establish the primacy of the Metropolitan See, with the Right Reverend Dr. Manning as first primate; to appoint Mr. Elihu Root lord chief justice of the colony, and to nominate Messrs. W. H. Taft, Nicholas Murray Butler, J. P. Morgan, Elizabeth Marbury, Adolph Ochs, and Thomas Lamont to the colonial privy council; as a special mark of royal and imperial condescension, to rename the Federal Capital of the Colony Georgetown, and lest section jealousy be thereby excited, to grant royal charters to the cities of Boston and Chicago entitling them thereafter to style themselves, respectively, Kingston and Guelf -- concisely to bestow in time and in measure such tokens of the bounty of the Crown as the fealty of the colonists merit.

British-American Union Urged

Since that memorable day, September 19, 1877, on which the late Cecil Rhodes devised by will a fund "to and for the establishment, promotion, and development of a secret society -- the true aim of which and object of which shall be the extension of British rule throughout the World, and especially the ultimate recovery of the United States of America as an integral part of the British Empire" -- the energy and intelligence of England has not been spent in vain. It would perhaps be presumptuous of me to refer here to the admirable services rendered not only by LORD NORTHCLIFFE (the probable author of the report) and the corps of 12,000 trained workers whom he introduced here during the year as purchasing agents under the direction of Sir Campbell Stuart, but also the right Honorable Arthur J. Balfour, and by Lord Reading. But my report would be incomplete without a reference to Mr. Andrew Carnegie, of Skibo Castle, Sutherlandshire, and New York City. He unobtrusively assumed the mantle of the late Mr. Cecil Rhodes. Through the Carnegie Foundation, he obtained such control over the professorate of this country that even President Wilson was a suppliant for a Carnegie pension before this people and allied gratitude placed him beyond prospective want. The Carnegie League to Enforce Peace and its affiliate League of Small Nations are even now leading the van in our fight. In the North American Review, June 1893, Mr. Carnegie wrote: "Let men say what they will, I say that as surely as the sun in the heavens once shone upon Britain and America united, so surely is it one morning to rise, to shine upon, to greet again, the reunited state -- the British-American union." The object of Cecil Rhodes is almost attained. The day prophesied by Mr. Carnegie is near at hand, the day when the American Colonies will be in all things one with the motherland, one and indivisible. Only the last great battle remains to be fought -- the battle to compel her acceptance of the terms of the League of Nations."

The Elite Endgame: Oil = Extortion = New World Order <http://savethemales.ca/250302.html>

Excerpt from a speech delivered in 1933, by Major General Smedley Butler, USMC: "I spent 33 years in ... the Marine Corps [rising to] Major General. And during that period, I spent most of my time being a high-class muscle man for Big Business, for Wall Street and for the Bankers. In short, I was a racketeer, a gangster for capitalism. I helped make Mexico, especially Tampico, safe for American oil interests in 1914. I helped make Haiti and Cuba a decent place for the National City Bank boys to collect revenues in.... I helped purify Nicaragua for the international banking house of Brown Brothers in 1909-1912 ... In China I helped to see to it that Standard Oil went its way unmolested. Looking back on it, I feel that I could have given Al Capone a few hints."

Gen. Butler should not judge capitalism by its malignant form, monopoly and imperialism. Otherwise, he was right. For 100 years, the United States has been the "enforcer" for big private oil and banking interests known as the "Anglo American elite" (Rothschild-Bauer, Rockefeller-Rogdenfeller, Morgan(taler) [all Ashkenazi from Germany just like the House of Windsor-Battenberg & Saxe-Coburg-Gothas, Bush-Bosch, Rumsfeld, Hillary Rotham-Rodenhurst-Rodomski, etc]) based in London and New York. The human race has been stalled for 150 years due to the baneful dominion of this clique. This is the real "shadow government." People who say this are ridiculed as "conspiracy theorists." [by this cabal]. What do you expect to hear from a cabal that conducts its business in secret, protected by club wielding police? The elite is not an urban legend. It represents a group of very rich people who have the fascist instincts of British feudal lords combined with American robber barons and express them in New Age liberal, socialist and feminist rhetoric.

Its coordinating body is the Royal Institute of International Affairs in London. The New York branch office is the Council on Foreign Relations, founded by J.P Morgan in 1922. This "think tank" is more like a studio. It hires the scriptwriters and casts the actors to fill the main roles. For example, Bill Clinton and Jimmy Carter were nobodies until they were discovered and elevated to national prominence as "outsiders." Oligarchic control is an unspoken fact of life in America. It is executed by the CIA and by the mass media. For the past 85 years, almost every President, CIA Director, and leading cabinet secretary have come from the CFR casting couch. Tenet, Rumsfeld, Powell, Cheney and Condoleezza Rice are all CFR members. As far as I can see, since 1950, the only politicians that represented the American people were the Taft-McCarthy-Goldwater-Buchanan school of Republicans. Kennedy and Nixon may also have tried but the CIA took care of that. If you accept the mass media, you believe that on Sept. 11 Islamic terrorists wantonly attacked the WTC. On the other hand, if you prefer to (look behind the curtain, www.whatreallyhappened.com) you will suspect 9-11 was a bold gambit by the Anglo-American elite to camouflage a grab for complete control of the World's oil reserves. The Afghan war gave it the vast resources of the Caspian Sea and Central Asia. The Iraqi war will bring it the World's second largest reserves, forecast to become the largest (300 billion barrels). Geopolitics is a chess game. Rockefeller's protégé Zbigniew Brzezinski, has a book entitled "The Grand Chessboard." As in chess, a drastic "sacrifice" (such as Sept. 11) always has a more far-reaching purpose. The Anglo American elite's game-plan is to use control of oil to blackmail Europe, Russia and China to accept its hegemony in the upcoming New World Order. No wonder the rest of the World is not crazy about attacking Iraq.

Iraq's Deputy Prime Minister Tariq Aziz recently expressed a similar view in an interview with a German newspaper (Welt am Sonntag 10.03.02). He said he thought the war is inevitable because "Bush wants control over Iraq's oil resources as a lever to pressure Europe, Russia and China." The New World Order will consolidate Anglo American elite control of the World. Its social and economic agenda includes the promotion of homosexuality and feminism, the continued destruction of the nuclear family, abortion and depopulation, deindustrialization, elite monopoly of resources, middle class decline, and ever-greater disparities between rich and poor. The nation state will gradually disappear and with it individual freedom, democracy, free speech and religion. The ultimate aim is the gradual dissolution of western civilization and the imposition of a new Dark Age. Like the recipe for boiling frogs, the elite has been slowly increasing the heat so we don't realize this is happening. But we can feel it distinctly in the education system, the media and arts, family law, the military and of course politics. The Anglo American elite has been trying to use oil to achieve hegemony for more than a century. According to F. William Engdahl ("A Century of War: Anglo-American Oil Politics and the New World Order, 1993") World War One occurred because Germany was expanding its influence into the oil rich Middle East. The Germans wanted to build a railroad from Berlin to Baghdad. An outrage incident, like Sept 11, the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand, by a Serbian "terrorist" got it started. The United States got involved because England was losing the war and owed billions to J.P. Morgan, their US purchase agent. According to Engdahl, the elite was behind the oil shocks of the 1970's. The price of oil went sky high when Henry Kissinger maneuvered Egypt into attacking Israel in 1973, and later when the CIA installed the Ayatollah Khomeini because the Shah of Iran was about to build German designed nuclear reactors. Engdahl says the oil industry is opposed to nuclear power and funds the environmental movement for this reason. He says the Three Mile Island scare was engineered to discredit this energy source.

The "Club of Rome" and the leaders of the major environmental groups belong to the elite. Its "green agenda" is a zero-sum Malthusian equation: the less there is for you, the more there will be for it. They want to hoard natural resources, retard industrial development, and cull the population. In 1974, the US government adopted Rockefeller protege Henry Kissinger's "NSSC Memorandum 200". This directive made it a "national security" priority to restrict development and population growth in the Third World in order to access their raw materials more cheaply in the future. (Engdahl p. 164)

The war on terrorism is a charade. Sept. 11 was obviously a subterfuge that allowed Bush to hustle billions of dollars for war contrary to the US Constitution that gives war declaration power to congress. Sept. 11 also provided the "moral high ground" to invade Central Asia, Russia and China's backyard. According to psyche war veteran Richard Crossman: "The way to carry out good propaganda is to never appear to be carrying it out at all." It works. Just like the food we eat, and the cars we drive, the ideas we think are all packaged and sold. (Opposing views are weeded out.) When CIA stooges like Gloria Steinem say families are oppressive and women ought to work instead of raising children, the press dutifully raves and we all obey. When the CIA tells us nuclear power is unsafe and environmentally unfriendly, we turn our backs on a cheap reliable source of energy. When the CIA contracts the Mossad to stage a terror attack and tells us militant Islam is our enemy, we salute the flag and grab a rifle. The Iraqi war now scheduled for May-June will divide the World into three camps: 1) the Anglo American elite, represented by George W. Bush, the US, British and Israeli governments, their lackeys, dependents and dupes; 2) Iraq, Iran and the part of the Muslim World that resists elite control. 3) Europe, Russia, China, Japan and the vast majority of humanity, which likes neither elite hegemony/blackmail nor Saddam Hussein/ Osama bin Laden and wishes they would both go away.

I saw George W. Bush on TV surrounded by school children piously explain that America is fighting in Afghanistan for freedom and to make the World a better place. America is supplying soccer balls and textbooks for Afghan children. He urged everyone to donate. I watched the children's faces to see if they were paying attention. Children have a way of recognizing sincerity. They were bored. Like the schoolchildren, the public is also inattentive. There is an incongruous quality about this war, an instinctive sense of sham. But the elite keeps reminding us it is genuine and for real. Every day billions more tax dollars are allocated to build the means for it to control the World and us. (The National Security Agency is building capacity to monitor 12 million domestic phone calls simultaneously.) And if we don't play along, it holds up the subtle threat of a biological or nuclear attack, just to convince us. If countries like Russia or China become inattentive, it indirectly threatens them with nuclear attack. By seeking hegemony, the Anglo American elite is playing a reckless game with humanity. It is creating the conditions for permanent war, and permanent oppression. Once again it is pressing the American people into the paradoxical role of "enforcer."

Illuminati Banking Dynasties and Their Usury System are the Cause of Humanity's Woes

(mostly extracted from Victor Thorn's article)

The process of irreversibly multiplying debt in proportion to a circulation will never change in time. If the great men we have quoted in previous sections spoke out against what today we call central banking, why do not our current hypocrites? Because their allegiance is to the takers. Why will the media give no scope whatsoever to the prospect of mathematically perfected economy? Because their allegiance is to the takers, and because they are owned by the takers. Why does no candidate argue for mathematically perfected economy? Because they are afraid of the takers, because the people have no meaningful courage, respect, or dedication to their own cause, and because as a consequence of the tremendous graft of their imposed system, only the takers can afford to put candidates in office. Thus we can understand the concerted gesticulations of the many hypocrites before us, and the consistent flow and orientation of disinformation — never once breaking from ranks altogether upholding the multiplication of our debt and preclusion of the prosperity we are capable of, as if these purposes and naked fact they are no service to us whatsoever, are of unquestionable rectitude. What legitimate media and public representatives could so abstain for a century, to culmination of a second cycle of economic ruin at the hand of central banks meant from the beginning to profit all they could from us, while delivering us nothing? Across a century in which the "economic" systems of the World were collapsed, and are about to collapse again under irreversible multiplication of debt, not one legitimate and legitimately surviving inquisition into the incontrovertible consequences of usury?

Dr. Tatyana Koryagina is a senior research fellow in the Institute of Macroeconomic Researches subordinated to Russian Ministry of Economic Development (Minekonom). On July 12, 2001, Pravda published a Page One story on her predictions entitled "The Dollar and America Will Fall Down on August 19? -- That's the Opinion of Dr. Tatyana Koryagina, Who also Very Accurately Predicted the August Default in 1998." (like Alex Jones of Austin, Tx, she predicted 9-11 in July 2001). Koryagina made the following key points in an article: New Strikes Will Come. In the near term, she said, "the powerful group" that masterminded the events of Sept. 11 will make new strikes against America — of a financial nature and otherwise.

The Powerful Group. Who is behind these strikes? Koryagina claims the U.S. government is painting a false picture. She said the operation was not the work of 19 terrorists but a larger group seeking to reshape the World. She claimed a group of extremely powerful private persons, with total assets of about $300 trillion, intends to legalize its power and to become the new World government. The Sept. 11 strikes showed that this group is afraid of nothing -- human lives have zero value for them.

Peter Kershaw in "Economic Solutions" (Mr. Kershaw's book can be ordered at: Quality Press, 3964 South Mariposa, Englewood, Colorado – 80110, <http://www.healthfreedom.info/Economic%20Solutions.htm>) and Larry Burkett in "The Coming Economic Earthquake" have named the private owners of the United States Federal Reserve system established in 1913 (under Benjamin Strong, the Federal Reserve System was brought into interlocking relations with the Bank of England and the Bank of France and Reserve Governors and heads of European central banks brought on the Great Depression of 1929-31) as: 1) The Rockefeller Family - New York 2) The Rothschild Family - London 3) The Rothschild Family - Berlin 4) The Lazard Brothers - Paris 5) Israel Seiff - Italy 6) Kuhn-Loeb Company - Germany 7) The Warburgs - Amsterdam Representative of the Rothschild Family in France 8) The Warburgs - Hamburg Representative of the Rothschild Family in Germany 9) Lehman Brothers - New York 10) Goldman & Sachs - New York. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which controls the 11 other Federal Reserve branches, is majority controlled by a) Chase-Manhattan (a Rockefeller stronghold) - 6,389,445 shares - 32.3% b) Citibank - 4,051,851 shares - 20.5%. (all Zionists from Germany like the House of Windsor-Battenberg & Saxe-Coburg-Gothas, Bush-Bosch, Rumsfeld, i.e. ZioNazis, etc.)

"Bravo! This book is the most informative synopsis I have yet seen on how the bankers have pillaged the wealth of our nation. I found it thoroughly intriguing." -- Franklin Sanders, The Moneychanger

"What a terrific book! Never have I seen the nexus between the Fed, the IRS, and the New World Order explained this concisely, and compiled into one small book like this one does. Everyone needs to read it!" -- Col. James Bo Gritz

"ECONOMIC SOLUTIONS properly explains why Federal Reserve Notes are IOU Nothings!" -- John Exter, former Citibank President & Federal Reserve Economist

"The greatest fraud ever perpetrated upon the American people--the Federal Reserve Banking system." Peter Kershaw.

Senator George W. Malone (to Congress in 1962): "I believe that if the people of this nation fully understood what Congress has done to them over the past 49 years, they would move on Washington, they would not wait for an election ... It adds up to a preconceived plan to destroy the economic and social independence of the United States."

Congressman Wright Patman (Chairman, House Banking & Currency Committee): "In the United States we have, in effect, two governments ... We have the duly Constitutional government ... then we have an independent, uncontrolled and uncoordinated government in the Federal Reserve System operating the money powers which are reserved to Congress by the Constitution."

Congressman Wright Patman (May 5, 1975): "In its sixty-year history, the Federal Reserve System has never been subjected to a complete, independent audit, and it is the only important agency that refuses to consent to an audit by the Congressional agency, the General Accounting Office."

Congressman William E. Simon (in a speech to the House of Representatives on the problems of the Federal Reserve System, April 30, 1976): "I hear no one addressing this danger. Congress does not discuss it. The press does not discuss it. Look around us – the press isn't even here! The people do not discuss it – they are unaware of it. No counter-force in America is being mobilized to fight this danger. The battle is being lost, and not a shot is being fired."

Richard Walbaum wrote in 1992's "The Poverty Trap": "Our monetary system guarantees that debt must increase regardless of what people, business or government do or do not do, whether or not they balance their budgets."

Peter Kershaw tells us: "What we operate on today is not the 'intellect' of confidence based upon tangible wealth and substance, but the 'religion' of 'conviction' based upon blind faith. Without religious conviction, the system collapses! And what is that religion? – a pagan occultic money system." This system has been around since the ancient times of Nimrod (early Masonry) and Rome and Jerusalem.

Larry Burkett, author of "The Coming Economic Earthquake" takes it one step further by saying: "The actual deficits are almost twice as large as those admitted by the government. So why hasn't our economy collapsed? Because the American people still have confidence in the System."

President Woodrow Wilson: "A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is concentrated in the hands of a few men. We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated governments in the World--no longer a government of free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and duress of small groups of dominant men."

Eustace Mullins: "...the increase in the assets of the Federal Reserve banks from 143 million dollars in 1913 to 45 BILLION dollars in 1949 went directly to the private stockholders of the [federal reserve] banks."

Thomas Jefferson: "I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies."

To really get a grasp on how detrimental the Federal Reserve is to the World, we need to look at the basics of banking, usury, and specifically this question: Where does money come from? Author Peter Kershaw provides the best overview of this phenomenon that I've ever come across. The following is a simple step-by-step look at how our monetary system works:

- To create new currency, the Fed orders the printing of "Federal Reserve Notes" or FRN (look closely at your US currency notes, they will say "Federal Reserve System" or older ones will say "Federal Reserve Bank of ...") from the Department of the Treasury's Bureau of Engraving and Printing (BEP) for the cost of printing (peanuts). Don't be fooled by The Treasurer's signature on the FRN which only means that this privately issued note is declared legal tender. Legal tender means that if you owe a debt to someone and you give him/her FRNs, him/her must accept the FRNs and the debt is considered discharged. FRNs cannot be redeemed at the FED.
- This same money is also "loaned" to the U.S. Government who promises to pay back their debt to the Fed.
- This Bureau prints the money, and subsequently puts it into circulation.

- As collateral for the loan, our Congress puts up the land, labor and assets of the American people. (It's very nice of them to pledge OUR property and services, don't you think?)
- Finally, to pay back this loan, a little system was instituted where money is taken directly from our paychecks before we ever have a chance to get our hands on it. It's called taxation. At least half of the taxes collected go to pay the Federal Reserve interest on the debt.

The same cycle applies if the Government borrows using bonds as collateral. In this case, the Fed just issues a cheque for the bonds on deposit. The most glaring question at this point is: who do you think gets the raw end of the deal? The international bankers? Nah – the last time I checked, the Rockefellers, Warburgs, and Rothschilds were still prominent members of the leisure class. Well, they rake in over a trillion dollars in income a year. Plus they're exempt from paying taxes on this income, and they've never been audited once since their inception in 1913. They don't seem to be hurting any. What about the President, Congressmen, and high-level administrators at the Treasury and IRS? Do they feel the pinch? Hardly – they're all pulling six-figure salaries (or more), enjoy lavish expense accounts, and have chauffeurs drive them to work every morning. So, who does that leave as the scapegoat – the one who bears the brunt of funding this system? You guessed it – the American taxpayers! Do you think we should look into changing this system?

So, to continue on, the next time it is determined that we need more money in circulation, the Fed essentially creates it out of thin air, and we become the indentured servants that have to pay off these debts. What occurs is that a culture of total fiscal irresponsibility results, which, of course, is in the Controllers best interest because it means we need to borrow even more money from them. How so? Well, let's look at our elected leaders in terms of simple psychology. When they borrow and spend somebody else's money and don't have to pay it back from their own pockets, what motivation do they have to be frugal? Even worse, they get paid very well to spend this money regardless of whether they successfully balance their budgets or not. If this were the business World, every one of them would be fired on the spot. And finally, to add insult to injury, these shysters even get to determine their own salaries, and how much their next pay raise will be! While all this nonsense is taking place, what do we do? We work forty or fifty hours a week, then get a paycheck that has been pillaged by the very same people that dine on filet mignon and charge it off on their expense accounts. And as you stare at disbelief at your pay stub, can you hear the mocking laughter from Washington D.C., New York City, and other financial centers in Europe?

If you can't see it already, the System that THEY created is parasitical to its core. Why? Because the money that the Federal Reserve creates and puts into circulation (plus the money that is needed to pay the interest on this "loan" to us) comes from the same source – them. Now, the money we earn which is taxed by the government and in turn pays the interest on our "debt" ends up lowering the money supply, thus removing currency from circulation. Realizing that the money supply would slowly dwindle away to nothing if this process persisted, the international bankers came up with a solution. They implore our government (and others) to borrow more money! That way they receive more interest payments, and the cycle keeps repeating itself. The major difference between them and us, though, is how our income is derived. We actually have to go out and work for our pay, while they simply skim money off the top before we ever have a chance to get our hands on it. (That's a polite way of saying that they don't have to actually WORK for their money; instead, a system has been created where they became fabulously wealthy without ever PRODUCING something that benefits society. If you haven't figured it out, the practice of usury does not benefit everyday people.) In the end, we become so wrapped up in this vicious circle that it creates a troublesome quandary. At this specific date in time, it is now impossible to pay off our national debt because it is higher than all of the money that is currently in circulation! Do you hear what I'm saying? We CAN'T pay it back. The entire debacle is an exercise in futility. So when you hear another politician on TV telling us how we need to raise taxes to pay off the debt, it's an out-and-out lie. These men are nothing more than illusion-spinners for the New World Order. The system has already been irrevocably destroyed, and all they're doing now is using smoke and mirrors to keep us hooked like fish on a line. As it stands now, this problem cannot be fixed within the current parameters that we have erected. And guess what. That's exactly the way the Controllers want it. Why? Well, how would you like someone to be eternally indebted to you paying interest forevermore with no hope of ever paying off the principle? Sounds like easy money to me!

The question we have to ask ourselves now is – why do we even need the Federal Reserve? If we – the United States – can print our own money via the Bureau of Engraving & Printing (BEP), why should we BORROW it from the international bankers? It is the most cockamamie system ever invented, yet we allow it to continue. When our country was founded, the Constitution gave only Congress the right to create money. And except for the years following the Civil War, our nation existed without a federal deficit. Then in 1913 the Federal Reserve Act was passed, and guess what we're stuck with now - a debt that will NEVER be paid off, and interest payments that increase every year. And even scarier is the fact that our personal debt as a people is five-times greater than the national debt. Think for a moment how much money is being squandered through interest payments. If you buy a house, the first seven years are spent doing little more than paying interest without even touching the principle. And that doesn't include your car payments, credit cards, and whatever other debts you've racked up.

The point I'm trying to hammer home is as such: can you see how unproductive these interest payments are to practically everyone except those collecting the interest. It's wasted money that doesn't create anything other than more debt. Or, as Richard Walbaum wrote in 1992's "The Poverty Trap": "Our monetary system guarantees that debt must increase regardless of what people, business or government do or do not do, whether or not they balance their budgets." To further show you how manipulative the banking system is, author Peter Kershaw uses the analogy of a man who wants to sell his motorcycle. His friend agrees to buy the bike, but doesn't want his wife to know about it. So he tells the owner to keep it in his garage, and he'll come by every Saturday to ride it. The owner concurs; then figures, "Hey, I have this bike for six other days of the week when it isn't being used. Why don't I "sell" it to someone else under the same agreement? In no time he "sells" the bike to seven more people under the same shady arrangement even though there is only ONE valid owner of the bike. This, I'm afraid to say, is the basis of fractional banking. It's a very enlightening insight into the psychology of these World financiers, for what prevents them from creating even more "loans" out of thin air? Nothing does, because U.S. Fractional Banking Law allows them to loan out $9 for every $1 on reserve! Think about how easy this system is to manipulate. And the only way a problem could arise is if all nine people went to withdraw their money from the bank at the same time. But the bankers have even made laws to prevent this scenario from occurring.

I'm sorry to say, but this is how our banking system operates. Peter Kershaw even goes on to say that 97% of all bank transactions are nothing more than simple ledger entries where no money trades hands. Think about it. When you pay your mortgage (principle + interest), do you lay down $700 cash, or do you write a check? The same applies to your monthly car payment, credit cards, or the loan at Sears for your washer/dryer. All that is happening is that numbers are being juggled from one column to another, yet international bankers have become the richest men on earth by capitalizing on this practice. Only 3% of our financial transactions consist of using actual coin and paper! What, you may wonder, is the result of this practice? Well, as our debts rise, so do our interest payments. To cover these increase expenses, taxes are raised. In the business World, higher interest payments equal higher business expenses, and thus higher prices. I realize that this analysis has been extremely simplified, but if you take a look back at the last ninety years, have prices, our national debt, taxes, and interest payments gone up or down? The ultimate result is that the everyday person suffers because taxes and inflation continually keep eating into their REAL net worth, not allowing them to get further ahead. This is precisely why it is so hard for people to ascend from one particular social or financial class. It's because the system is designed to keep them where they are! It prevents movement from one class to another. This framework for social enslavement will continue unabated until we abolish the Federal Reserve and default on our national debt. Or, as author Peter Kershaw tells us, "What we operate on today is not the 'intellect' of confidence based upon tangible wealth and substance, but the 'religion' of 'conviction' based upon blind faith. Without religious conviction, the system collapses! And what is that religion? – a pagan occultic money system."

Larry Burkett, author of "The Coming Economic Earthquake" takes it one step further by saying, "The actual deficits are almost twice as large as those admitted by the government. So why hasn't our economy collapsed? Because the American people still have confidence in the System."

Luckily, a few courageous Americans over the years have tried to alter the status quo. One of them was Congressman Louis T. McFadden, who became Chairman of the House Banking & Currency Committee. On June 10, 1932 in a speech before the House, he described centralized banks as such. "They are not government institutions. They are private credit monopolies; domestic swindlers, rich and predatory money lenders that prey upon the people of the United States for the benefit of themselves and their foreign customers. The Federal Reserve banks are the agents of the foreign central banks. The truth is the Federal Reserve Board has usurped the Government of the United States." (75 Congressional Record 12595-12603). Six months earlier, on January 13, 1932, Congressman McFadden actually charged the Federal Reserve with treason and tried to have them put out of business. Regrettably, our Congressmen then weren't any braver than they are today, and only five supported him. The House G.O.P. majority leader even mused, "Louis T. McFadden is now politically dead." Sure enough, in his next reelection bid, his opponent received mountains of donation money, while the press slandered McFadden unmercifully and accused him of being "crazy." (It's comforting to know that their tactics haven't changed over the years.) McFadden naturally lost the election, and was the victim of three subsequent assassination attempts within the next few years. His detractors were ultimately successful when McFadden reached his demise in 1936 after being poisoned to death. (James Traficant, an outspoken critic of the Federal Reserve and IRS, better watch what he eats in prison!)

Three decades later, on June 4, 1963, John F. Kennedy issued Executive Order 11110 where he requested the Treasury to start printing "United States Notes." This money was the same as that controlled by the Federal Reserve except that it was created DEBT FREE! Five months later JFK was assassinated. Hmm, do you think we've uncovered the key to global domination? Our Founding Fathers led a revolution to keep us from being controlled by the Bank of England, while one of the historically-hidden motives for our Civil War was President Abraham Lincoln's adamant refusal to let the Rothschild banking family take control of our monetary system. 'Ol Honest Abe wound-up with a bullet in his head. What do you think – another 'coincidence'? So, there it is – centralized banking – one of the primary tenets of Karl Marx's "Communist Manifest" also known as "Monopoly-capitalism". To me, the realities of this situation are clear. We cannot move forward until we eliminate the Controller's iron grip on our financial purse strings. This may be a bitter pill for many people to swallow, but as Samuel Adams said, "It is natural for man to deal in the illusions of hope; but as for me, I want to know the worst; the truth, and prepare for it." Folks, the Federal Reserve is the most corrupt, debilitating, anti-American institution in this country, and that's the truth. The only question that remains is: are we willing to face it, and then do something about it? "A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is concentrated in the hands of a few men. We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated governments in the World--no longer a government of free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and duress of small groups of dominant men." --President Woodrow Wilson

"...the increase in the assets of the Federal Reserve banks from 143 million dollars in 1913 to 45 BILLION dollars in 1949 went directly to the private stockholders of the [federal reserve] banks." -- Eustace Mullins

Ask yourselves now, how much have the private stockholders of the Federal Reserve made through 2004? And be mindful that presently Americans pay them about 300 BILLION in interests alone-out of money the Federal Reserve created from nothing! The Architects of Death have been building an invisible pyramid, the pyramid of absolute power over the earth and humanity. This pyramid is invisible only to the degree that one cannot "see" the "divine" geometric principle of ruler ship. But it's there! Ladies and gentlemen, and the pyramid is what this is about! Now, think of this pyramid as the New World Order, the age-old dream of the dynastic banking elite. There is one person in the entire World who is directing the building process of this "invisible" pyramid, for at the very apex of this structure there can only be "one!" This person is NOT the president of any country. This person is not the head of the United Nations. This person exists not in our daily lives, but in the dark hearts and visions of the Architects of Death, for it is this person's vision they are sacrificing humanity for. The planning and execution of the blueprint for global domination is colossal to say the least. In fact, it is beyond the normal human's ability to rationalize. The preferred weapons of control by the Architects of Death are many, including but not limited to the usage of powerful sedatives and neuro-toxins in our food and water, yet the most powerful of all the methods is the conditioning of entire societies through a slow and methodical indoctrination via imagery. Just look around you! Since we are on the subject of pyramids, let's take a closer look at this universally used symbol-the triangle! Look inside your cars, on the roads; look for the "underlying" message conveyed in this symbol-usually you will find this symbol being associated with an exclamation point, a danger sign or a warning. Coincidence? Impossible! Nothing happens by chance! Nothing! The overall subliminal effect and message implanted is: LEAVE THE PYRAMID ALONE! And that is just one example. Most people would ask, how is this possible? It takes the wealth of entire nations to accomplish such objectives on a global scale. Exactly! And that is the point!

To accomplish their objectives, the Architects of Death had to rig the election of 1913 in order to get President Woodrow Wilson elected. Then their stooges in Congress passed the Federal Reserve Act legislation on December 22 after their opponents had gone home for Christmas. From that moment on, the same Architects have had a vested interest in the state (i.e. the people) incurring as much debt as possible. They are behind the Marxist, socialist, liberal and conservative movements that call for big government and social spending and military spending. They are behind the catastrophic wars of the last century. They are behind World wars, in fact-they have financed all sides of just about every war. They are also behind the boom-bust cycles and even 9-11-the reason, to consolidate more wealth and assets in their hands, to streamline their operations and thus to gain total power and control over us. The "War on Terror," just like every other major war fought on earth is part of the Architects' plan to consolidate its grip on humanity in a friendly (or not so friendly) fascist "New World Order." They want to secure their political, economic and social grip on the obstreperous Muslim World, as well as build up a security apparatus in case the "docile," "sedated" and "conditioned" populations of the West become restive and decide to take this monopoly of FREE money away from them. Right about now, I know just what you are thinking about! You want to know just who are the "Architects of Death?" Don't you? More importantly, who is "the one?" The answers can be elusive, but there is light at the end of the tunnel. Some of the clues can be found in "Economic Solutions," where Peter Kershaw provided a list of the ten primary shareholders (directly or indirectly) in the American Federal Reserve banking system: 1. The Rothschild Family – London 2. The Rothschild Family – Berlin 3. The Lazard Brothers – Paris 4. Israel Seiff – Italy 5. Kuhn-Loeb – Germany 6. The Warburgs – Amsterdam 7. The Warburgs – Hamburg 8. Lehman Brothers - New York City 9. Goldman & Sachs - New York City 10. The Rockefeller Family - New York City .

All are of Zionists from Germany (like the House of Windsor or Battenburg & Saxe-Coburg-Gothas, like Bush or Bosch, Rumsfeld, ZioNazis, etc). They have financed both sides of all wars, including the Rothschild family who bankrolled both the North and the South during the US Civil War in the 1800s. Of course the Architects have an Army of cronies, traitors and murderers working for them, and a global media network at their disposal to lie to the populations of the World, but one of the things that is most enraging and truly shocking to me is that OUR FEDERAL RESERVE BANK is not even "OURS!" You see, it isn't part of the United States government! If you go to <http://www.FederalReserve.gov>, you may think it is, and you will see how much work went into the "look and feel" of the site to make it "seem" like it is government related-Gosh! They even gave it a dot "gov" extension. But now you know better! In fact, now you know that seven of the top ten stockholders in the Federal Reserve are located in foreign countries-definitely not a source for American pride! The horrible reality (for now) dear readers, is that because of how our monetary system is structured, we are essentially slaves to the Architects. We have been made to, and are, unknowingly helping the Architects of Death to build the global pyramid to the satisfaction of their leader, "the one." To stop the Architects of Death from finalizing their "prison for humanity" or "invisible pyramid" we, as a people must take away their limitless source of power-which based on the current monetary system happens to be our labor. Clearly we must take back the Federal Reserve form the hands of these PRIVATE stockholders and cancel the phony debt to them. There is no other alternative-as this is their engine of power. Next, we get rid of their Army of cronies, traitors and murderers and we replace them by honorable people.

Next, we will illustrate the hidden agenda of the World Bank which is to orchestrate a sell-off for a penny on the dollar of the natural resources and assets of the Third World (and also of the Western World as in the Enron and California scandals, the Savings & Loans scandals, the WorldCom and Crossings scandals, etc.) to its masters the Illuminati Banking Dynasties and their collaborating corporate cronies. This "Monopoly-capitalism" will incrementally and gradually lead to total enslavement of the World, eventually.

World Bank Secret Documents To Consume Argentina

Alex Jones Interviews Reporter Greg Palast Monday, March 4, 2002 (Courtesy of A Great Listener, edited)
<http://gregpalast.com/printerfriendly.cfm?artid=125>

In a March 2002 interview with Alex Jones (an Austin, Texas broadcaster), Greg Palast (a BBC journalist) explained about what he learned from his conversations with the World Bank's former chief economist, Joe Stiglitz who was fired by the World Bank (Greg was supposed to be on CNN with the head of the World Bank Jim Wolfensohn but Jim said he would not appear so CNN did not carry Greg' findings). By the way, a couple of months ago, after Joe Stiglitz was fired, he was given the Nobel Prize in Economics. Stiglitz was very courageous to come out and talk to Greg Palast. Greg learned that the World Bank required nations to sign secret agreements in which they agreed to sell off their key assets and also agreed to take economic steps which are really devastating to the nations involved (there was an average one-hundred and eleven items, and the public has no say; they don't know what the hell is happening to them). If they didn't follow those steps they would be cut-off from all international borrowing. If you can't borrow any money in the international marketplace, you can't survive, whether you are people or corporations or countries - without borrowing some money and having some credit and...

For just one example, the secret Argentine plan signed by Jim Wolfensohn, the president of the World Bank caused burning Argentina to go through six presidents in five weeks because their economy is completely destroyed and cannot hold the nation together. This happened because they started out in the end of the 80s with orders from the IMF and World Bank to sell-off all their assets, public assets. I mean, things we wouldn't think of doing in the US, like selling off their water system. So they tax the people. They create big government and big government hands it off to the private IMF/World Bank. And then they actually pay off the politicians billions to their Swiss bank accounts to do this transfer. And by the way, it's not just anyone who gets a piece of the action. The water system of Buenos Aires was sold off for a song to a company called Enron. A pipeline that runs between Argentina and Chile was sold off to a company called Enron. And then the globalists blow out the Enron after transferring the assets to another dummy corporation and then they just roll the theft items off. Do you know why they moved the pipeline to Enron? because they got a call from somebody named George W. Bush in 1988 (George W. Dubya Bush was also involved in the Harken Energy scandal later in which he disposed of his shares just before the stock crashed, Enron style! Since the persons investigating this fraud were his daddy's Masonic buddies, Dubya was cleared of any wrong doing.).

We have seen the activity of the IMF/World Bank for years. They come in, pay off politicians to transfer the water systems, the railways, the telephone companies, the nationalized oil companies, gas stations - they then hand it over to the Globalist Illuminati controlled companies for next to nothing. The Globalists pay them off individually, billions a piece in Swiss bank accounts. And the plan is total slavery for the entire population. Of course, Enron, as we told you was a dummy corporation for money laundering, drug money (Octopus), you name it, from the other reporters we have had on. It's just incredibly massive and hard to believe. But it is actually happening. Greg Palast has now broken the story World-wide after actually interviewing the former top World Bank Joe Stiglitz economist. We are exposing that they are systematically tearing nations apart, whether it's Ecuador or Argentina. The problem is some of these bad ideas are drifting back into the U. S. In other words, they have run out of places to bleed. But it's not even privatization. They just steal it from the people and hand it over to the IMF/World Bank. They hand it over, generally to the cronies. For example, Citibank was very big and grabbed half the Argentine banks. You've got British Petroleum grabbing pipelines in Ecuador. I mentioned Enron grabbing water systems all over the place. And the problem is that they are destroying these systems as well. You can't even get drinking water in Buenos Aires. I mean it is not just a question of the theft. You can't turn on the tap. It is more than someone getting rich at the public expense. And the IMF just got handed the Great Lakes. They have the sole control over the water supply now. That's been in the Chicago Tribune.

Well the problem that we have is the IMF and the World Bank is 51% owned by the United States Treasury. So the question becomes, what are we getting for the money that we put into there? It looks like we are getting mayhem in several nations. Indonesia is in flames. The Chief World Bank Economist, Stiglitz, told Greg Palast that he started questioning what was happening. You know, everywhere we go, every country we end up meddling in, we destroy their economy and they end up in flames. And he was saying that he questioned this and he got fired for it. But he was saying that they even kind of plan in the riots. They know that when they squeeze a country and destroy its economy, you are going to get riots in the streets. And they say, well that's the IMF riot. In other words, because you have riots, you lose. All the capital runs away from your country and that gives the opportunity for the IMF to then add more conditions. And that makes them even more desperate. So it is really an imperial war on those countries economy to implode countries and now they are doing it here with Enron. They are getting so greedy - they are preparing it for this country, the United States. It's not just the employees, creditors and stockholders of Enron that got cheated, they sucked millions, billions of dollars out of the public pocket in Texas and California in particular as well.

Where are the assets? Everybody says there are no assets left since Enron was a dummy corporation and they transferred all those assets to other corporations and banks. You did pay California's electric bills according to the investigations and they were pumped up unnecessarily by 9 to 12-billion dollars. And I don't know who they are going to get it back from now. Well they actually caught the Governor buying it for $137 per megawatt and selling it back to Enron for $1 per megawatt and doing it over and over and over again. Well, you have to understand that some of the guys who designed the system in California for deregulation then went to work for Enron right after. In fact, the British have some responsibility here as well because the guy who was on the audit committee of Enron was Lord Wakeham who is also the head of NM Rothschild. There isn't anything that he doesn't have his fingers in. He's on something like fifty Boards. He was supposed to be head of the audit committee watching how Enron kept the books. And in fact, they were paying him consulting fees on the side. He was in Margaret Thatcher's government and he's the one who authorized Enron to come into Britain and take over power plants here in Britain. And they owned a water system in the middle of England. This is what this guy approved and then they gave him a job on the board. And on top of being on the board, they gave him a huge consulting contract. And this guy was supposed to be in charge of the audit committee to see how they were handling their accounts. Well, he is also the head of the board to regulate the media. And he is trying to regulate investigative journalists like Greg Palast!

These Globalists are also trying to pass laws in England to tax your water, e.g. where you've got an 800-year old well, or in some cases a 2000-year old well that the Romans built that's on your property, they want to put a meter on it. You can't have your own water! And that's Lord Wakeham, the guy from Enron. He can't be touched here because he actually regulates the media. So if a journalist complains too much, Lord Wakeham has got his hand on the journalist's pen. First, the World Bank forces you to open up the capital markets. That is, you sell off your local banks to foreign banks. Then you go to what's called market-based pricing. That's the stuff like in California where everything is free market and you end up with giant electricity bills. But imagine if a private company like Enron owned your water. So then the water prices would go through the roof. Then, they force you to open up your borders to trade - complete free marketeering that kills your local production. Stiglitz who was the chief World Bank economist was running this system; he was their numbers man and he was saying that it was like the opium wars. He said this isn't free trade; this is coercion trade. This is war. They are taking apart economies through this. Well look, China has a 40% tariff on the US, we have a 2% on them. That's not free and fair trade. It's to force all industry to a country that the Globalists fully control.

In Greg Palast's 2002 book called "The Best Democracy Money Can Buy", he talks about how, unfortunately, America has been put up for sale. He has a story in there about how Wal-Mart has 700 plants in China. There is almost nothing in a Wal-Mart store that comes from the United States of America, despite all the eagles on the wall. Exactly, like in George Orwell's book 1984 (written in 1948), they have big flags saying "Buy American" and there's hardly anything American in the store--- it's Orwellian double-talk, like War is actually Peace, Slavery is Freedom, Ignorance is Strength, and Report Thought-crime, Big Brother is Watching You, and don't forget the Ministry of Truth!. What's even worst is they will hire a factory and right next to it will be the sister factory operating inside a Chinese prison. You can imagine the conditions of these workers producing this lovely stuff for Wal-Mart. And if an elitist needs a liver, they just call.

I know, it's grim. In fact, Greg Palast talked to a guy, Harry Wu who had been in a Chinese prison for 19 years. No one believed his horrible stories. He actually broke back into prison, took a camera with him and took pictures of the conditions and said this is the conditions of factories where Wal-Mart is getting its stuff made at. Alex Jones was threatened to be thrown off TV in Austin and arrested when he aired a video of little girls 4-years old chained down, skinnier than even some of the Jews who were in Nazi concentration camps, to die. Greg Palast actually spoke to an Argentinean Senator who was the public works administrator in Argentina in February 2002 and got him on camera. He said that after he got a call from George W. Bush (that's our current president and the same George W. Bush who said he didn't get to know Enron's Ken Lay until 1994) in 1988 saying to give the gas pipeline in Argentina to Enron. Enron was going to pay one-fifth of the World's price for their gas and he said how can you make such an offer? He was told by a partner in the deal that if we only pay one-fifth that leaves quit a little bit for you in your Swiss bank account. And that's how it's done. So now they are having these white-wash Enron hearings. You know I was at Enron yesterday in Houston because I'm now here in Austin. Greg Palast saw some other interesting documents. For example, a month before Bush took office, Bill Clinton, I think to get even with Bush's big donor, cut Enron out of the California power market. He put a cap on the prices they could charge. They couldn't charge more than one-hundred times the normal price for electricity. That upset Enron. So Ken Lay personally wrote a note to Dick Cheney asking to get rid of Clinton's cap on prices. Within 48 hours of George W. Bush taking office, his energy department reversed the clamps on Enron. OK, how much is that worth for those guys. You know that paid off all the donations they made to Bush in a week.

What happens after the Illuminati Globalists mafia have started imploding a country? Well, then they tell the country to start cutting its budgets. For example, a fifth of the population of Argentina is unemployed, and they said to cut the unemployment benefits drastically, to take away pension funds, to cut the education budgets, I mean horrible things. Now if you cut the economy in the middle of a recession that was created by these guys, you are really going to absolutely demolish this nation. After we were attacked on September 11, Bush ran out and said we got to spend $50 to $100 billion dollars to save our economy. But they tell these countries you've got to cut, and cut, and cut. And why, according to the inside documents, it's so you can make payments to foreign banks - the foreign banks are collecting 21% to 70% interest. This is loan-sharking, the highest form of usury and the step preceding slavery. In fact, it was so bad that they required Argentina to get rid of the laws against loan-sharking because any bank would be a loan-shark under Argentine law. And then they say, well gee, we can't lend you any money except at these loan-shark rates. We don't allow people to charge 75% interest in the United States. That's loan-sharking.

And what do they do after they do that? They force the country to open up the borders for trade (remember the British Empire's Opium wars against China? Well, now that's the new opium wars). And once you have destroyed an economy to a level that it can't produce much, then they force these nations to pay horrendous amounts for things like legal pharmaceutical drugs. And then, that's how you end up with an illegal drug trade, because what is there left to survive on except to sell smack and crack. And guess who helps ship in the drugs? Yes, the CIA national security dictatorship as exposed in the Mena Affair ("This underground empire is controlled by a handful of people for money--that's the only secret of the temple." - Investigative reporter Danny Casolaro, prior to his murder by the Octopus) and as exposed by Michael Ruppert, ex LAPD officer who forced CIA director John Deutch to resign in 1996 over these allegations. This is just amazing. Drive the whole World down, blow out their economies and then buy the rest of it up for pennies on the dollar. What's next in the IMF/World Bank Plan? Its taking apart of the government or the coup d'etat. That's what they are not telling you and this is what has been attempted by the CIA several times already in Venezuela against President Chavez. And then they install their own corporate government. Well, I guess in Iraq and Afghanistan, they had to do it through invasions by falsely blaming those governments for weapons of mass destruction and the staged WTC attacks. In the case of Venezuela, we have an elected president of the government (see the History of CIA War Crimes later in this book to learn about the past CIA covert terrorism) but the IMF has announced that they would support a transition government if the president were removed. They are not saying that they are going to get involved in politics - they would just support a transition government. What that effectively is saying is that we will pay for the coup d'etat, if the military overthrows the current president, because the current president of Venezuela has said no to the IMF. He told those guys to go packing. They brought their teams in and said you have to do this and that. And he said, I don't have to do a thing. He said what I'm going to do is to double the taxes on oil corporations and then I will have all the money I need for social programs and the government and we will be a very rich nation. Well, as soon as they did that, they started fomenting trouble with the military and I'm telling you watch this space: the President of Venezuela will be out of office in the near future or shot dead. They are not going to allow him to raise taxes on the oil companies (shades of what happened when the CIA installed the Shah of Iran and the Bath party in the late 1950s).

Now, they keep telling us that terrorism is coming any day. It's going to happen if you don't give your rights up. Bush did not involve Congress and the others who are supposed to be in the accession if there is a nuclear attack in the secret government, Washington Post headline -"Congress Not Advised of Shadow Government." We have the Speaker of the House not being told. This looks like coup d'etat here. I'm going to come right out with it. We had better spread the word on this now or these greedy and evil creatures are going to go all the way.

Greg Palast ended the interview by saying this: "I'm very sad about one thing. I report this story in the main stream press of Britain. I'm on the BBC despite Lord Wakeham. I know he doesn't like me there. I'm in the BBC, I'm in the main daily paper, which is the equivalent of the New York Times or whatever, and we do get the information out. And I'm just very sorry that we Americans have to have an alternative press, an alternative radio network and alternative everything else to get out the information that makes any sense. I mean this information should be available to every American on the major networks. I mean, after all, it's our government!" Is it or isn't it?

Interview Transcript:

AJ: This is earth shattering. Can you break it down for us and tell us what the economists have done?
GP: Well, I'll tell you two things. One, I spoke to the former chief economist, Joe Stiglitz who was fired by the (World) Bank. So I, on BBC and with Guardian, basically spent some time debriefing him. It was like one of the scenes out of Mission Impossible, you know where the guy comes over from the other side and you spend hours debriefing him. So I got the insight of what was happening at the World Bank. In addition, he did not brief me but I got some other sources. He would not give me inside documents but other people handed me a giant stash of secret documents from the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

AJ: So to insulate himself, somebody else did it.

GP: No, I'm telling you. He wouldn't touch it but I really did get from completely independent sources a big stack of documents.

AJ: Just like you got W1991, from the same folks we got it from.

GP: And so one of the things that is happening is that, in fact, I was supposed to be on CNN with the head of the World Bank Jim Wolfensohn and he said he would not appear on CNN ever if they put me on. And so CNN did the craziest thing and pulled me off.

AJ: So now they are threatening total boycott.

GP: Yea right. So what we found was this. We found inside these documents that basically they required nations to sign secret agreements, in which they agreed to sell off their key assets, in which they agreed to take economic steps which are really devastating to the nations involved and if they didn't agree to these steps, there was an average for each nation that signed one-hundred and eleven items that they are required to sign on to. If they didn't follow those steps they would be cut-off from all international borrowing. You can't borrow any money in the international marketplace. No one can survive without borrowing, whether you are people or corporations or countries - without borrowing some money and having some credit and ...

AJ: Because of the debt inflation pit they've created.

GP: Yea, well, see one of the things that happened is that - we've got examples from, I've got inside documents recently from Argentina, the secret Argentine plan. This is signed by Jim Wolfensohn, the president of the World Bank. By the way, just so you know, they are really upset with me that I've got the documents, but they have not challenged the authenticity of the documents. First, they did. First they said those documents don't exist. I actually showed them on television. And cite some on the web, I actually have copies of some...

AJ: Greg Palast dot com?

GP: Yea, gregpalast.com. So then they backed off and said yea those documents are authentic but we are not going to discuss them with you and we are going to keep you off the air anyway. So, that's that. But what they were saying is look, you take a country like Argentina, which is, you know, in flames now. And it has had five presidents in five weeks because their economy is completely destroyed.

AJ: Isn't it six now?

GP: Yea, it's like the weekly president because they can't hold the nation together. And this happened because they started out in the end of the 80s with orders from the IMF and World Bank to sell-off all their assets, public assets. I mean, things we wouldn't think of doing in the US, like selling off their water system.

AJ: So they tax the people. They create big government and big government hands it off to the private IMF/World Bank. And when we get back, I want to get to the four-parts that you elegantly lay out here where they actually pay off the politicians billions to their Swiss bank accounts to do this transfer.

GP: That's right.

AJ: This is like one of the biggest stories ever, Sir. I'm sorry, please continue.

GP: So what's happening is - this is just one of them. And by the way, it's not just anyone who gets a piece of the action. The water system of Buenos Aires was sold off for a song to a company called Enron. A pipeline was sold off, that runs between Argentina and Chile, was sold off to a company called Enron.

AJ: And then the globalists blow out the Enron after transferring the assets to another dummy corporation and then they just roll the theft items off.

GP: You've got it. And by the way, you know why they moved the pipeline to Enron is that they got a call from somebody named George W. Bush in 1988.

AJ: We are talking to Greg Palast. He is an award-winning journalist, an American who has worked for the BBC, London Guardian, you name it, who has dropped just a massive bomb-shell on the Globalists and their criminal activity. There is no other word for it. You link through at inforwars.com, you can link to his web site - gregpalast.com, or any of the other great reports he has been putting out. He now has the secret documents. We have seen the activity of the IMF/World Bank for years. They come in, pay off politicians to transfer the water systems, the railways, the telephone companies, the nationalized oil companies, gas stations - they then hand it over to them for nothing. The Globalists pay them off individually, billions a piece in Swiss bank accounts. And the plan is total slavery for the entire population. Of course, Enron, as we told you was a dummy corporation for money laundering, drug money, you name it, from the other reporters we have had on. It's just incredibly massive and hard to believe. But it is actually happening. Greg Palast has now broken the story World-wide. He has actually interviewed the former top World Bank economist. Continuing Sir with all these points. I mean for the average person out there, in a nutshell, what is the system you are exposing?

GP: We are exposing that they are systematically tearing nations apart, whether it's Ecuador or Argentina. The problem is some of these bad ideas are drifting back into the U.S. In other words, they have run out of places to bleed. And the problem is, this is the chief economist, this is not some minor guy. By the way, a couple of months ago, after he was fired, he was given the Nobel Prize in Economics. So he is no fool. He told me, he went into countries where they were talking about privatizing and selling off these assets. And basically, they knew, they literally knew and turned the other way when it was understood that leaders of these countries and the chief ministers would salt away hundreds of millions of dollars.

AJ: But it's not even privatization. They just steal it from the people and hand it over to the IMF/World Bank.

GP: They hand it over, generally to the cronies, like Citibank was very big and grabbed half the Argentine banks. You've got British Petroleum grabbing pipelines in Ecuador. I mentioned Enron grabbing water systems all over the place. And the problem is that they are destroying these systems as well. You can't even get drinking water in Buenos Aires. I mean it is not just a question of the theft. You can't turn on the tap. It is more than someone getting rich at the public expense.

AJ: And the IMF just got handed the Great Lakes. They have the sole control over the water supply now. That's been in the Chicago Tribune.

GP: Well the problem that we have is - look, the IMF and the World Bank is 51% owned by the United States Treasury. So the question becomes, what are we getting for the money that we put into there? And it looks like we are getting mayhem in several nations. Indonesia is in flames. He was telling me, the Chief Economist, Stiglitz, was telling me that he started questioning what was happening. You know, everywhere we go, every country we end up meddling in, we destroy their economy and they end up in flames. And he was saying that he questioned this and he got fired for it. But he was saying that they even kind of plan in the riots. They know that when they squeeze a country and destroy its economy, you are going to get riots in the streets. And they say, well that's the IMF riot. In other words, because you have riot, you lose. All the capital runs away from your country and that gives the opportunity for the IMF to then add more conditions.

AJ: And that makes them even more desperate. So it is really an imperial economy war to implode countries and now they are doing it here with Enron. They are getting so greedy - they are preparing it for this country.

GP: I've just been talking to, out in California just yesterday, from here in Paris, the chief investigators of Enron for the State of California. They are telling me some of the games these guys are playing. No one is watching that. It's not just the stockholders that got ripped off. They sucked millions, billions of dollars out of the public pocket in Texas and California in particular.

AJ: Where are the assets? See, everybody says there are no assets left since Enron was a dummy corporation - from the experts I've had on and they transferred all those assets to other corporations and banks.

GP: Well yea, this stuff has really gone just like a three-card Monty game. I mean remember that there is money at the bottom. You did pay California's electric bills according to the investigations, they are telling me that they were pumped up unnecessarily by 9 to 12-billion dollars. And I don't know who they are going to get it back from now.

AJ: Well they actually caught the Governor buying it for $137 per megawatt and selling it back to Enron for $1 per megawatt and doing it over and over and over again.

GP: Yea, the system has gotten completely out of control and these guys knew exactly what was happening. Well, you have to understand that some of the guys who designed the system in California for deregulation then went to work for Enron right after. In fact, here I'm in London right now and we have, the British has some responsibility here. The guy who was on the audit committee of Enron, Lord Wakeham. And this guy is a real piece of work, there isn't a conflict of interest that he hasn't been involved in.

AJ: And he is the head of NM Rothschild.

GP: There isn't anything that he doesn't have his fingers in. He's on something like fifty Boards. And one of the problems, he was supposed to be head of the audit committee watching how Enron kept the books. And in fact, they were paying him consulting fees on the side. He was in Margaret Thatcher's government and he's the one who authorized Enron to come into Britain and take over power plants here in Britain. And they owned a water system in the middle of England. This is what this guy approved and then they gave him a job on the board. And on top of being on the board, they gave him a huge consulting contract. So you know, this guy was supposed to be in charge of the audit committee to see how they were handling their accounts.

AJ: Well, he is also the head of the board to regulate the media.

GP: Yes, he is, because I have run into real problems, because he regulates me.

AJ: They are also trying to pass laws in England where you've got an 800-year old well, or in some cases a 2000-year old well that the Romans built that's on your property and they say we are putting a meter on it. You can't have your own water.

GP: Yea, and that's Lord Wakeham. I mean this is the guy from Enron. He is a real piece of work. He can't be touched here because like I say he actually regulates the media. So if you complain, he's got his hand on your pen.

AJ: Burrow into NM Rothschild, you'll find it all there. Go through these four points. I mean you've got the documents. The IMF/World Bank implosion, four points, how they bring down a country and destroy the resources of the people.

GP: Right. First you open up the capital markets. That is, you sell off your local banks to foreign banks. Then you go to what's called market-based pricing. That's the stuff like in California where everything is free market and you end up with water bills - we can't even imagine selling off water companies in the United States of America. But imagine if a private company like Enron owned your water. So then the prices go through the roof. Then open up your borders to trade - complete free marketeering. And Stiglitz who was the chief economist, remember he was running this system, he was their numbers man and he was saying it was like the opium wars. He said this isn't free trade; this is coercion trade. This is war. They are taking apart economies through this.

AJ: Well look, China has a 40% tariff on us, we have a 2% on them. That's not free and fair trade. It's to force all industry to a country that the Globalists fully control.

GP: Well, you know Walmart - I did a story, in fact, if you read my book. Let me just mention that I've got a book out, "The Best Democracy Money Can Buy" about how, unfortunately, America has been put up for sale. "The Best Democracy Money Can Buy" is coming out this week. But I have a story in there about how Walmart has 700 plants in China. There is almost nothing in a Walmart store that comes from the United States of America, despite all the eagles on the wall.

AJ: Exactly, like 1984, then they have big flags saying "Buy American" and there's hardly anything --- it's Orwellian double-think.

GP: What's even worst is they will hire a factory and right next to it will be the sister factory which is inside a prison. You can imagine the conditions of these workers producing this lovely stuff for Walmart. It's really....

AJ: And if an elitist needs a liver, they just call.

GP: (Laughs) I know, it's grim. In fact, I talked to a guy, Harry Wu, is his name and, in fact, he broke into, he's been in Chinese prison for 19 years. No one believed his horrible stories. He actually broke back into prison, took a camera with him and took pictures of the conditions and said this is the conditions of factories where Walmart is getting its stuff made at, it's all....

AJ: I was threatened to be thrown off TV here in Austin when I aired video of little girls 4-years old chained down, skinnier than Europena Jews in concentration camps, to die. And I was threatened, if you ever air that again, you will be arrested.

GP: Well you know, it is horrifying stuff that, unfortunately, I have been handed and Stiglitz, was very courageous for him to come out and make these statements. Like I said, he didn't provide me the documents. The documents really sealed it because it said this is what really happened. They really do say sign on the dotted line agreeing to 111 conditions for each nation. And the public has no say; they don't know what the hell is happening to them.

All they know....

AJ: Go back into privatization. Go through these four points. That's the key. It sends billions to politicians to hand everything over.

GP: Yea, he called it briberization, which is you sell off the water company and that's worth, over ten years, let's say that that's worth about 5 billion bucks, ten percent of that is 500 million, you can figure out how it works. I actually spoke to a Senator from Argentina two weeks ago. I got him on camera. He said that after he got a call from George W. Bush in 1988 saying give the gas pipeline in Argentina to Enron, that's our current president. He said that what he found was really creepy was that Enron was going to pay one-fifth of the World's price for their gas and he said how can you make such an offer? And he was told, not by George W. but by a partner in the deal, well if we only pay one-fifth that leaves quit a little bit for you to go in your Swiss bank account. And that's how it's done.

AJ: This is the

GP: I've got the film. This guy is very conservative. He knows the Bush family very well. And he was public works administrator in Argentina and he said, yea, I got this call. I asked him, I said, from George W. Bush. He said, yea, November 1988, the guy called him up and said give a pipeline to Enron. Now this is the same George W. Bush who said he didn't get to know Ken Lay until 1994. So, you know.....

AJ: So now they are having these white-wash hearings. You know I was at Enron yesterday in Houston because I'm now here in Austin. We were like 30-feet from the door, right on the sidewalk and I have it on video - goons came up and said you can't videotape. I said go ahead and have me arrested. I mean I'm talking on the sidewalk, Greg.

GP: Well, you know, I was there in May, telling people in Britain you've never heard of Enron, but ... And these are the guys who have figured out how to (garbled) this government. In fact, we saw some interesting documents, a month before Bush took office, Bill Clinton, I think to get even with Bush's big donor, cut Enron out of the California power market. He put a cap on the prices they could charge. They couldn't charge more than one-hundred times the normal price for electricity. That upset Enron. So Ken Lay personally wrote a note to Dick Cheney saying get rid of Clinton's cap on prices. Within 48 hours of George W. Bush taking office, his energy department reversed the clamps on Enron. OK, how much is that worth for those guys. You know that has got to be worth, that paid off in a week all the donations.

AJ: Listen at the bombs you are dropping. You are interviewing these ministers, former head of IMF/World Bank economist - all of this, you've got the documents, paying people's Swiss Bank accounts, all this happening. Then you've got Part 2, what do they do after they start imploding?

GP: Well, then they tell you to start cutting your budgets. A fifth of the population of Argentina is unemployed, and they said cut the unemployment benefits drastically, take away pension funds, cut the education budgets, I mean horrible things. Now if you cut the economy in the middle of a recession that was created by these guys, you are really going to absolutely demolish this nation. After we were attacked on September 11, Bush ran out and said we got to spend $50 to $100 billion dollars to save our economy. We don't start cutting the budget, you start trying to save this economy. But they tell these countries you've got to cut, and cut, and cut. And why, according to the inside documents, it's so you can make payments to foreign banks - the foreign banks are collecting 21% to 70% interest. This is loan-sharking. If fact, it was so bad that they required Argentina to get rid of the laws against loan-sharking. because any bank would be a loan-shark under Argentine law.

AJ: But Greg, you said it yourself and the documents show it. They first implode the economy to create that atmosphere. They institute the entire climate that does this.

GP: Yea, and then they say, well gee, we can't lend you any money except at these loan-shark rates. We don't allow people to charge 75% interest in the United States. That's loan-sharking.

AJ: Part 3 and Part 4. What do they do after they do that?

GP: Like I said, you open up the borders for trade, that's the new opium wars. And once you have destroyed an economy that can't produce anything, one of the terrible things is that they are forcing nations to pay horrendous amounts for things like drugs - legal drugs. And by the way, that's how you end up with an illegal drug trade, what's there left to survive on except sell us smack and crack and that's how...

AJ: And the same CIA national security dictatorship has been caught shipping that in.

GP: You know, we are just helping our allies.

AJ: This is just amazing. And so, drive the whole World down, blow out their economies and then buy the rest of it up for pennies on the dollar. What's Part 4 of the IMF/World Bank Plan?

GP: Well, in Part 4, you end up again with the taking apart of the government. And by the way, the real Part 4 is the coup d'etat. That's what they are not telling you. And I'm just finding that out in Venezuela. I just got a call from the President of Venezuela.

AJ: And they install their own corporate government.

GP: What they said was here you've got an elected president of the government and the IMF has announced, listen to this, that they would support a transition government if the president were removed. They are not saying that they are going to get involved in politics - they would just support a transition government. What that effectively is is saying we will pay for the coup d'etat, if the military overthrows the current president, because the current president of Venezuela has said no to the IMF. He told those guys to go packing. They brought their teams in and said you have to do this and that. And he said, I don't have to do nothing. He said what I'm going to do is, I'm going to double the taxes on oil corporations because we have a whole lot of oil in Venezuela. And I'm going to double the taxes on oil corporations and then I will have all the money I need for social programs and the government - and we will be a very rich nation. Well, as soon as they did that, they started fomenting trouble with the military and I'm telling you watch this space: the President of Venezuela will be out of office in three months or shot dead. They are not going to allow him to raise taxes on the oil companies.

AJ: Greg Palast, here is the problem. You said it when you first came out of the gates. They are getting hungry, they are doing it to the United States now. Enron, from all the evidence that I've seen was a front, another shill, they would steal assets and then transfer it to other older global companies, then they blew that out and stole the pension funds. Now they are telling us that terrorism is coming any day. It's going to happen if you don't give your rights up. Bush did not involve Congress and the others who are supposed to be in the accession if there is a nuclear attack in the secret government, Washington Post -"Congress Not Advised of Shadow Government." We have the Speaker of the House not being told. This looks like coup d'etat here. I'm going to come right out with it. We had better spread the word on this now or these greedy creatures are going to go all the way.

GP: I'm very sad about one thing. I report this story in the main stream press of Britain. I'm on the BBC despite Lord Wakeham. I know he doesn't like me there. I'm in the BBC, I'm in the main daily paper, which is the equivalent of the New York Times or whatever, and we do get the information out. And I'm just very sorry that we have to have an alternative press, an alternative radio network and everything else to get out the information that makes any sense. I mean this information should be available to every American. I mean, after all, it's our government.

At <http://www.GregPalast.com> you can read and subscribe to Greg Palast's London Observer columns and view his reports for BBC Television's Newsnight.

The Enron Connection

4/5/02 Alex Jones Show Interview of Greg Palast http://www.infowars.com/palast_interview.html

AJ: - one of the top presenters on BBC Newsnight, has broken just dozens of bombshell stories - from the election of 2000 to the IMF and World Bank, getting the secret documents of how they blow out economies, to the government prior knowledge of September 11th and Bush's connection to bin Laden and now a lot of other reporters from around the World followed suit in the footsteps of the real trail blazer, Greg Palast. Greg, it's great to have you on the show this evening. It's good to have you back in the states because you are after all a Yankee with the rest of us, aren't you?

GP: Yeah, very much a Yankee. Like I say, I've got that big giant, huge American flag in my office in Britain and it just drives the Limies just nuts. By the way, Alex, since the last time we were on, I should tell you that you and I, you are a big hit in Argentina and all over Latin America in the Spanish speaking World. Our last interview was translated into Spanish and it hit like a bomb there. It's just been all over the papers and radio and television in Argentina, Venezuela, Spain, just explosive stuff and I've been getting a lot of interviews coming out of Latin America about the manipulation of the World Bank and the IMF and the interventions in their economy on behalf of Enron and other corporate big shots.

AJ: Well this shows that we can have an effect. And the reason that I think the stories that you have broken and that we just elaborated on here is my audience spread the word and emailed it out to everybody. That's the power of talk radio. That's why they hate uncontrolled talk radio. They either want phony left-wing or phony right-wing and then they just kind of divert our energies off into what I call steam valves. But let's go ahead and tackle that now because that is such a big story. A few months ago, Mr. Stiglitz, the former chief economist of the World Bank, goes public, you suddenly get a bunch of documents, and those have again been confirmed to be accurate. Let's spend some time on that and then get into the election in 2000 and then get into government prior knowledge of September 11th. And, of course, your book, The Best Democracy Money Can Buy, now on the New York Times best seller list, thank God. I mean, getting into it, the sinister nature and how Enron ties into ties predatory fascistic capitalism, that's not free market. Hit 'em hard.

GP: Well, it's not free market. Look, I was a student at the University of Chicago, in fact I was (garbled) in Chicago. And I was a student of Milton Friedman at the University of Chicago. And I was part of a little group called the Chicago Boys, and we actually, our group really pretty much took over the economy of Chile after the dictator Pinochet seized power in a military coup. The program was supposed to be free market, you know, like really open up the markets but, in fact, that's not what happened. What it became is a few operators seized the banks, seized the copper mines, seized the resources of the nation and it was basically a big smash and grab operation. And then we saw this plan spread across the Americas, into Britain and then it's banging up against American shores. So I saw the inside back on this scheme from the beginning. And then once I became an investigative reporter, I had the opportunity to not only get a bunch of documents that kind of walked out of the file cabinet at the World Bank. By the way, once again you are correct, the World Bank, the World Trade Organization, and the IMF. I have their inside documents. They have never ever said that the documents are not authentic. They just - that they don't agree with my interpretation, or I don't have the full thing, or you know there's excuses and then they just try to slam me out. A couple of weeks ago, the President of the World Bank, Jim Wolfensohn, was supposed to meet me on - suppose to confront him on CNN. And he said, "if Greg Palast is on CNN, I won't be and I will even pull my taped interviews that I have previously done for CNN." And CNN then pulled me off the air. You know, it's amazing, after all I am a reporter for BBC Nightly News - not exactly a fly-by-night operation. You know, they can't, you know what I mean, they can try to call me a kook. That's hard to do. I'm quite mainstream.

AJ: So, let's talk about these documents. And Stiglitz, the Chief Economist quit, just to recap for those who missed the interview back in March 4th, that again has gone out Worldwide and has been called a bombshell just because we focused on the great reports you've done. But to just help give it some extra legs there, which is up to the listeners to do. Boil it down, the IMF/World Bank with private shareholders but with government license as the shell corporation, go in, pay off a dictator, pay off a group of corporations in the country to sign over water rights, pipeline rights, roads, the entire infrastructure to them if they (quote) don't pay back the loan but, wink, wink, billions are put in the Swiss bank account of the dictator. They never pay back the loans. And then in the contract, the people are basically signed over as serfs, as chattel to the IMF/World Bank. And then they come in the next phase and say "all right you have got to go to a cashless society, you got to have national ID cards," and then they raid the pension funds and totally blow out the economy. I mean this is highway robbery. This is, this is sacking countries. You know the way you put it so well in your articles. And it's mass criminality on a global scale. Greg Palast, again from the BBC, one of the presenters on Newsnight

GP: I'm an investigative reporter for Newsnight.

AJ: Absolutely, over there, again on British television, I like to watch the BBC right here on the local cable channel in Austin, and he writes for the Guardian Observer - bringing the folks up to speed on who we are interviewing. You break this story and how does Enron tie into this, as one of their front companies?

GP: Well, Enron is big in this story because their creation, Enron is basically a creation of Bush family politics and the World Bank and the IMF. They wouldn't exist without this... This company, remember, only began in 1986. They only came into existence because of the deregulation of markets in America, beginning in Texas and California, when George W. Bush was governor of Texas. Poppy Bush, as his last act, one of his last acts in office was to pass a deregulation of utility and electricity markets in America at the federal level. And this led to this, not to free markets, but to, in fact, the creation of super companies, about six giant super companies, big supporters of his, Enron the number one political contributor to the Bush family campaign. Number three in contribution levels is Southern Company. They were one of the early power players - really dangerous characters to be very honest. And mainly their agenda was pushed through the World Bank and IMF. Now, look, it may be, I'm still waiting to hear from Wolfensohn, the President of the World Bank, that he really believes in this stuff. It looks like on paper what they are doing is planning financial coup d'etats of various nations.

AJ: Yeah, they go in and set up a fall, like in 1929, blow out the economy and have the dominoes set to fall off the table into their bag as they run out the door and take their masks off and jump into the get-away car.

GP: Right, so that was like - you take a country like Argentina. Enron. George W. Bush called, when he was an oil man in 1988, called up the public works minister of Argentina. Under pressure from the World Bank, they are privatizing all the nations infrastructure and assets like the pipelines, the gas pipelines. George W. called the public works minister and said, "My daddy's been elected President of the United States and he would really appreciate if you would give this pipeline to Enron." Which is interesting because George W. said he didn't get to know Ken Lay, the CEO of Enron, until 1994. This was six years earlier. The public works minister tells me, on camera, that this deal, he remembers the deal, even if our president doesn't, because the deal he felt was clearly, it was part of a corrupt offer to him. If he went along with a deal which basically would give away the natural gas of Argentina for one-fifth its price, of its value, World market price, that he would end up with money in his Swiss bank account.

AJ: So what happens here is - they come in, do backroom deals, government owns the assets and they just hand it over under the so-called free market term privatization to globalist companies.

GP: Right, it's really free market but it's not what I'm talking about free market, we are talking for example, Enron also seized the water company of Buenos Aires. But once they seized the water company, another company, a state beneficiary, a French operator, Vivendi, which is a French company, and Suez, two big giant French operators, moved in and seized assets, especially Argentina water assets. Now these are not free market companies, I mean you don't have free market water. These are just private companies that seized the water systems and raised prices as much as 400%. Again, under orders from the World Bank to sell off these systems. They fire 40% of the workers. The water pipes break. The water is contaminated. And the prices are up. Then the World Bank writes a little report that says, "Gee, it seems we are having trouble getting water to poor people." Well, of course, you raise the price of water 400% and then contaminate it. It's kind of hard to get water to poor people.

AJ: And now, I see the Chicago Tribune last year, the government has handed over the Great Lakes to the regulatory control of the IMF, International Monetary Fund. So, and you raised this in the last interview, these predators have been feeding on third World countries but now they are doing it to a great extent here in the United States.

GP: Yes, and that was, by the way, the big difference between Clinton and Bush. I followed Clinton and I know that a lot of Democrats aren't happy that I don't give Clinton a pass on this. But, you know, Clinton actually made through his Secretary of Commerce, Bill Dailey, the son of Boss Dailey, put pressure, for example, on the British government to violate their own laws to give Enron special treatment, exemption from several laws in Britain and several laws in the European community. Then Clinton went across and threatened India for not going along with the sweetheart deal that Enron had cut in India. Clearly, it looked like bribery. The Indian government was, there was a contract signed which was completely suspicious, requiring the people of India to pay double the price we pay in America for electricity. This is India - from a ridiculous plant that was built by Enron there. When the Indians said, "Look, this deal is clearly the fruit of bribery." Clinton basically threatened them with cutting off their access to international financial markets which is like capital punishment for a national economy. The Indians still resisted and so, then when Bush came in, he upped the ante and sent Dick Cheney over to tell the Indians, "Pay Enron or we cut you off at the knees financially."

AJ: Pay Enron or the Taliban bomb your cattle building.

GP: So, both Clinton and Bush were in on it unfortunately. Now there is a difference in that one thing Clinton would not do, he did not want, he would let Enron run amok in Britain and Argentina and India and Pakistan, for example ..

AJ: But not in California..

GP: Because Clinton made his name fighting some of these guys, like another group of power pirates called Entergy out of Little Rock, Arkansas. He played a very interesting game. In America, he'd fought them and said, "These are rip-off artists and we've got to control them. We've got to put a clamp on them." And then he helped them internationally, like in Pakistan when they were trying ..

AJ: Well for those that done know. Monopolizing and controlling markets is where the control, not just the money, the profits come from and in California, it came out in the Sacramento Bee last year, that Cheney's energy commission OKed the deal to have the people of the state pay $137 per megawatt, then they found out that the state was selling it back to an Enron subsidiary for $1 per megawatt. Now that's quit a scam. They sell it to the state for 137 and then they sell it back quietly for one dollar. That's quite a profit, huh, Greg?

GP: Any of the things that they did.....

AJ: ...some of the details you probably didn't hear about, - the controlled media, the 2000 election, also government prior knowledge of September 11. We are joined by Greg Palast and I apologize Greg. I guess over in England a presenter is just a teleprompter reader, but no, he is the big star, when he does his investigative reports

GP: (Laughs) That's all right - I don't have to be a big star, but I just want to get the title right.

AJ: You're the guy out there doing all the legwork and getting the stories together, presenting the exposés.

GP: Yes, ah, yeah, but the election of 2000, another story that was just impossible to get into the U.S. press - that led the nightly news there on BBC television and the front pages of the papers under my byline. But I couldn't get it in here. It just drove me nuts. It's exactly how Bush and family fixed the election in Florida, the actual mechanism. It was quite sophisticated.

AJ: We are going to get into that. Obviously, they caught Democrats, state reps, with voting machines. Gore had them, in several states, keep the ballot places open. And that was going on. But we heard about all that. But you have clear, again, smoking gun evidence of Bush doing it as well. And if we are going to be honest here, we have to cover that as well. But getting back to what you said about Southern Company, hooked into the IMF and the World Bank and the Bushes and the rest of this, you called them scary characters. Why would you say that?

GP: Well, OK, in 1989, they were caught, I was in on the investigation myself before I was an investigative reporter, as an investigator. And they were caught, listen to this bookkeeping system. This is a multi-billion dollar corporation which kept an extra set of account books in the trunk of the car of the vice president of accounting. And I have one of the sheets from those accounts from inside the trunk of this guy's car. What it shows is $117 million worth of spare parts for power plants, which they charged to the public, which didn't exist. In other words, these are phantom charges. This is baloney charges. And then they took these phony costs off their taxes, as well. They got caught but before this, just when they were getting caught, and they were going to name a vice president to take the fall who was also making illegal campaign contributions and basically bribes to officials in Florida. This was Southern Company, again. But one of the vice presidents of the company, not the accountant, one of the vice presidents, his name is Jake Horton, he said, "I'm going to blow the whistle." He told his brother, he was going to go and see the state attorney general and blow the whistle on their accounting practices, on their illegal campaign contributions, on the bribery and the whole thing. He informed the company, "I've had it. I'm not going to be the fall guy. I'm blowing the whistle." April 1989, he borrows the company jet after he told them he was going to blow the whistle. Ten minutes after take off the jet explodes and Jake is no more.

AJ: Well that's just classic CIA op activity.

GP: And so now, there is no explanation for this plane exploding. BBC asked the CEO of the company later what happened to the plane and Jake. And he said, "Jake saw no other way out." Which is kind of unusual...

AJ: Yeah, they are so arrogant. The Mafia dons actually come right out with it.

GP: So, what happened was these guys got indicted by a Grand Jury for the phony bookkeeping and here is the key part of this story. We have one weird little loophole in our federal racketeering law which says that the Justice Dept. can overturn an indictment by a Grand Jury.

AJ: Which is a violation of the Magna Carta and the Bill of Rights.

GP: Well, but that's how the, well it's very seldom used, but what happened is that after the Grand Jury voted the indictment, Poppy Bush was president at the time, his Justice Dept. overturned the indictment on this wacko and this basically open thievery through accounting. His Justice Dept. overturned the indictment on the grounds that they had an upstanding accounting firm - Arthur Andersen, audit those books and say that this accounting method was just fine.

AJ: Arthur Andersen, the same one hooked in with Enron. Welcome back, folks. We are talking to Greg Palast. Best selling author - the book that has been out about 2-3 weeks, already on the New York Times best seller list - The Best Democracy Money Can Buy. Earlier in the last hour, we were talking about the IMF and the World Bank and the front companies going in and putting political pressure on the nations to sign over all their natural resources, basically their populations. Then the country never pays back the debt and that's by design. Then these global corporations literally become the rulers of the countries and they put in puppet dictatorships. This is the New World Order at its worst, frankly. Greg Palast, the book, the new book that you have written. I just completed reading it. One of my staff, snuck off with it a few weeks ago and I just got it about a week ago. It's being well received. We talked on the phone about it privately. It's being received very well by conservatives. In fact, one of the listeners called in when you were on C-Span a few weeks ago and opened the phones and said that they were getting a little frustrated because all of the conservative were calling in supporting you. Is that pleasing, to see that conservatives will actually, many of them grassroots, listen to documented evidence of corruption, even by so-called conservative leaders?

GP: Yeah, well, I think that people are looking for real, inside hard fact information. In fact, C-Span was really stunned because they have a Republican call-in line and a Democrat call-in line and whether it was Democrats or Republicans, they got nothing but positive words for my work. Because people are just looking for information. Look, I'll give you my political philosophy, very little of it, you know, I give you the information, I give you the dots, you connect the dots yourself. You can use your own judgement and come up with your own philosophy and vote the way you want. Democrat or Republican, I don't care. Because the thing is that, unfortunately, there is no party with clean hands here. And this is a big problem. Like you say, it looks like the Bush family, in particular, seems to have a big problem keeping their personal piggy bank and national politics and their international foreign policy separate. That's a big problem.

AJ: Well, they are an incredibly old money family and they are very good at covering that up in the press. It's not bad to be wealthy, filthy rich, but when you sit there and act like you're just a good 'ole boy out there in Crawford walking around with a hay bale, when you're a blue blood connected to the British Royal family, according to Reuters. I mean it's really a joke - the whole line they try to sell the people.

GP: Yeah, I know, the pork rinds thing, you know - Poppy Bush is about as preppy as you can get - you can imagine him spitting out those pork rinds after he gets off camera. It's really kind of a joke. But, you know, the things I've been working on. I was just talking tonight. And, by the way, just so you know, just because they may say that I am out to get them, one of the Bush family corporations that they were connected to, Barrick Gold Mining of Canada, did sue my paper over reports that they didn't really like. Not many people in America know that after Poppy Bush left the White House, he went to work for Canadian Gold Mining Corporation. A real group of characters that, believe me, they don't want any one exposing what their operations are or that Bush has been helping them. So Daddy Bush went to work for these Canadian Gold Mining operation and one of the things, before he left office, Daddy Bush, his administration set up an expedited procedure for gold mining companies to lay claims to gold mine properties. And his company, the company he ultimately went to, Barrick Gold Mining, through this special expedited procedure he set up, was able to lay claim to the largest gold mine in the World, which is in Nevada, with $10 billion worth of gold ore in it. And they paid $10,000 to the U.S. Treasury to make that claim.

AJ: So, $10,000 for $10 billion, that's another great return. And guaranteed that was basically grabbed from other people who probably already had claims on it. Amazing. Greg Palast, stay right there, we've got to break again. Long segment coming up. The website for our guest is gregpalast.com..they are called Globalists. They control the IMF and World Bank, the World Health Organization, the World Trade Organization. They are breaking down borders, national sovereignty, destroying our jobs. Globalism is not good for the people but it's good for a tiny clique - what Carroll Quigley of Georgetown called, and he was an adherent of it, a supporter of it, the Angelo American Establishment. And we are talking to Greg Palast, again from the BBC nightly news show, Newsnight. Investigative reporter, best-selling author, the new book out - The Best Democracy Money Can Buy. For people who are having trouble grasping, why should I care if our government has sweetheart deals with the Bushes and others, to go in and blow out people's economies and turn off their water and seize their power stations and "that's just what we do around here." There are doing it to you, America. They are doing it to you through so-called deregulation of the power companies. It's not deregulation. It's consolidation. It's rigging of the deals. And they use semantics by changing the meaning of words to confuse you. This government is just absolutely predatory and it's run by just a few corporations and banks. And Greg Palast has the documents. Greg, I want to get into election 2000. I want to get into government prior knowledge of September 11th and Bush calling off the FBI and defense intel and you talked to top CIA folks telling them not to stop al Qaeda. This is on the record. We had David Schippers on, and Col. Roberts, and it's come out now in the Wall Street Journal and a bunch of other publications after you reported on it. And we were here reporting on it as well, even before September 11th. The Wall Street Journal, back in March of last year, had called for Bush, both Senior and Junior to get out of bed with the Carlyle Group, and I want to get into that and get your expertise. A lot of things to cover here but going back to this IMF, World Bank situation, blowing out these economies, setting up the fall, how do we as Americans counter that because it sounds so big, you know, how can we ever deal with it? What do we do, expose the corruption and call for Grand Juries to indict? What do we do?

GP: Well, I mean part of it is to tell the truth on them. I mean we have got to get the information out of them. It's harder and harder. I mean I was horrified this week, PBS is running a three-hour, basically it's an infomercial for globalization and, what you would call and actually what Poppy Bush titled the New World Order, it's about how wonderful it all is, and that anyone who protests obviously just doesn't understand the future. This is three hours on the Public Broadcast System, subsidized by government money but where does the rest of the money come from? The entire budget for this film came from British Petroleum. British Petroleum. My network, BBC, British Broadcasting Company, I would lose my job if I took money from British Petroleum. And here they are the proud producers of basically what is a propaganda film. It's like...

AJ: So, what is life like under globalism? We are seeing it. We all have a great hamburger job and everything is shipped in from third World countries where slaves build widgets. But long term, we won't even have the money, the currency to buy that. But they won't care because they will have total global domination.

GP: Well, you know, there is a chink in the armor, it's just like when there are such people like I was mentioning, I spent a lot of time with the former chief economist of the World Bank, I guess he was fired because he simply started asking questions. He wasn't, you know, he wasn't trying to totally raise a ruckus here. This is Joe Stiglitz and he just won the Nobel Prize in Economics, so now he has some protection. He was saying, "Look, I looked at these documents and it looked to me like they were deliberately trying to foment riots to just make countries explode." And they called it, you know, this we know that these proposals, in these secret documents, we know that these proposals led to what we call social unrest - and by social unrest, of course, they mean riots. Like people burning cars in the capital. And then it says, and this social unrest will have to be met with strong resolve of the government. Now strong resolve doesn't take much to translate, that means tanks in the street.

AJ: And that means men in black uniforms beating women over the heads with baseball bats.

GP: So I said to Stiglitz, I said I mean it looks like you are trying to do this. He said, "Yeah, we used to call it the IMF riot." He says, "They knew what the effect would be. They knew that they squeezed people. That they would take basic supplies - cooking oil, food, basic petroleum products, heating, gas, things like that and now increase the prices like 500-600-700 %. Drop social security payments, old age pension by one-third. That type of thing. He said, of course you know what will happen. That will lead to an explosion. Once that explosion occurs, socially, then there's tanks in the street. And it's very easy to then impose the, what are called, the conditionalities which are the conditions, on average there are 111 conditionalities imposed on nations. Most of these are kept secret. Very few are ever made public.

AJ: So before we get into those, we are back to problem, reaction, solution. They come in and create the crisis, foment the descent, and then offer their solution - even more tyranny. And here's the problem, I've focus mainly and have made several feature length documentary films that have even aired on commercial television about the police state, the commercial TV stations that have the will to air them, Police State 2000 and the TakeOver. We show in Seattle where they had Special Ops, Delta Force on the ground in '99 and they had actually hired and trained these 50 thugs to discredit the 50,000 peaceful protestors. Left and right coming together saying, wait the WTO is six years old, and is saying we have no authority and it's going to force genetically modified foods into our crops and our biosphere. This is a real environmental crisis, not the phony environmentalism we see the media pushing,

it
was just a property grab. And I have police, I have the news articles, I have the eye witnesses, I have the amateur video, I have little clips off the newscasts, where this was all on the news. But you didn't hear about it nationwide. Now here's the problem. They have now issued black uniforms federally and the black armor and the black armored
vehicles with skulls painted on them or cobras, nationwide and have been training the military and the police for at least ten years. And now it's escalating. I talk to cops all the time. They pass me a brown paper envelope with the info. They are telling them massive unrest for the next few years, massive economic problems, and so it looks like they are gearing up to do that here, Greg Palast, from the BBC.

GP: Well, you know, I'm lucky because I haven't come across that yet. I mean I can look at Venezuela, Ecuador, and Argentina. Where I have been concentrating in the States is that rip-off in the California market by Enron, Southern Company, Reliant Corporation. I just found out from Dutch News Service that Reliant keeps a big giant file on me. They have even created like this weird fantasy sex life of mine, that they pass around these ugly files on me. I mean this is the type of crap that these guys are up to.

AJ: How does Siemens fit into this?

GP: Well, you know, there, once again, they are supplying these big power operations. I know less about them. What these guys did in California. They ran a fixed casino. So I'll give you one example, Enron, they set up a supposedly free market where power was bid to sell into California. Enron bid 500 megawatts of power to put over a power line that could only handle 15 megawatts of power. Now, that sounds technical. But what it means is that you are putting in so much more power at the power line that it would vaporize the line. So once the California authorities realized what Enron was about to do, that the line would vaporize, of course, they couldn't do that. And now Southern California was about to go black - a complete disaster. So they said OK we can't use that power from Enron at that point from Southern California on those lines. So now we will pay anything, absolutely anything, the price of power in one hour shot up like 10,000%. Some huge amount. And who was there to sell them that power at that huge amount? Enron. From the other points in the system. So, as Enron pulls the market and basically seizes the light switch, jerks the market and then collects the money. Now the federal government basically figured out this one trick of theirs and so did the California authorities. And Enron's response to that was to go to George W. Bush and tell him to remove the regulator that caught them.

AJ: Yeah, Dick Cheney's little energy fixing commission.

GP: Right, exactly, and so what happened was that they, so what they did was, since the cops caught them, they said well remove the cop. And that's the type of power that these characters had. And if you think that we are now in the clear because Enron has imploded...

AJ: That's just a dummy corporation, they roll it over to the others ones.

GP: Yeah, you've got it. You still have, remember the guy with the exploding plane - Southern Company? They are still right in there. They are just about the biggest. And they have taken Enron's place. They are just about the biggest contribution, soft money contributor to the election campaign. Now, before all they do is switch over their soft money to what they call hard money bundle. And so it is really not going to change.

AJ: It's unbelievable, but the last time we spoke you said that the globalist New World Order running the system were eyeing the big industrialized countries, that they basically had done most of their feeding even the smaller gazelles in the third World.

GP: Yes, and that's one of the problems. Certainly, in Europe, inside the World Trade Organization, about setting up these trade tribunals which would impose what they called the necessity test. You read the book, by the way I don't want people to think that the book is completely grim. I mean one thing that I try to do, even if the information is grim, is to at least throw in a little bit of dark humor about it because otherwise, it would just be hard slogging. So I try to keep it a bit light with the heavy information. But you read about the documents and it's kind of interesting in its own weird, sick manner. But you know, by the way I should give you warning, if you go to the World Trade Organization website, you are going to see a Greg Palast page where they spend a page of their website attacking me.

AJ: Which shows that when you are over the target, you are going to begetting some flack.

GP: Yeah, but they are telling you about their point of view. I'm happy to have them put forth their view.

AJ: Yeah, the IMF and World Bank are really loving individuals. Though they have got a problem, their chief economist, Nobel Prize winner, has now gone public against them.

GP: Yeah, I mean they've got a renegade out there, so that's a real problem for them.

AJ: All right, let's talk about that CIA asset, Osama bin Laden and Bush signing W199I and ordering defense intel, CIA and FBI not to stop him. What does Bush say about that at the UN?

Audio clip of Bush at UN: "Let us never tolerate outrageous conspiracy theories concerning the attacks of September 11th. Malicious lies that attempt to shift the blame away from the terrorists themselves, away from the guilty."

AJ: And what does Mr. CFR, Mr. Globalist at the CFR meeting right after the attack, Gary Hart say about the using the attack like Pearl Harbor for more control, for that New World Order.

Audio clip of Gary Hart: "There is a chance that the President of the United States can use this disaster to carry out what his father, a phrase his father used, I think only once, and hasn't been used since and that is a New World Order."

AJ: A New World Order. Greg Palast, again months before the attack, the Wall Street Journal told Poppy Bush, the nickname for Daddy Bush, to get out bed with the bin Ladens.

GP: Yes, they are together in an organization, the bin Laden family is a funder of what is probably now America's biggest defense firm, Carlyle Group. And they still have Poppy Bush on their payroll as their advisor to the Saudi Arabians and to Asia. And then, George W. who was on the payroll of the company, he was paid to give his business acumen on the board of one of the subsidiaries called ConAir. I don't know how good his acumen was because ConAir kind of sank below the waves financially. But our current president did collect a check for his advise to Carlyle.

AJ: It goes way back to the Bush family in business with them, with airfields in Texas in the '70s. I mean this thing never ends.

GP: Keep in mind, is that the line of the Bush family is that the bin Laden family is really a bunch of wonderful guys except for the one black sheep Osama. Now, the information BBC television received is literally, we did receive a document from the FBI agents through sources.

AJ: And that's been confirmed on this show by David Schippers, the guy that impeached Bill Clinton and my other defense intel sources. We were reporting this day one, before the attack we were hearing that bin Laden was about to attack New York and the government wouldn't stop it. I broke this July 25th. Again confirming this even further.

GP: So, what is happening is that the agents knowing that they were trying to investigate Abdullah and Omar bin Laden. There are 52 brother and sisters, several cousins, etc. This is a multi-billionaire family, the estimated personal worth of the bin Ladens is twelve billion dollars, which of course is money they got from us at the gas pump.

AJ: Now why did, again this has come out, I have the old articles from '96 and '97, Taliban in Texas, the big buddies....

GP: (cross talk) in Texas, with Unocal. They ought to be quite a scene.

AJ: So did the Sudanese.

GP: Yeah, the Sudanese also made an offer. What happened was the Clinton administration gave the guy his diplomatic, gave him political asylum, changed his name and sent him off saying you're safe and what about the documents, don't you want the documents? They said no. Well, the FBI was told, the FBI has actually come to the office where the documents were and would not take a look at them. They were told they could not look. Now this was evidence of crimes, evidence of terror and they were told not to look, do not look at the...

AJ: And you saw what happened on September 11th and Bush has got a 97% approval rating and is our savior, we now have a homeland security chief and we've got foreign aircraft patrolling the skies. I mean you talk about a pretext for control, the same thing as problem, reaction, solution. Just like what they call the IMF riots, they've engineered this and it's scary. Greg Palast, BBC, Guardian Observer as well. The new book, The Best Democracy Money Can Buy. Greg, thanks for joining us. You take care.

The Alex Jones Show Airs Live Twice a Day Mon-Fri from 11AM-2PM and from 9PM to Midnight (US Central Time).

The Economic Colonization of Iraq

Some of the reasons for the Colonial Invasion of Iraq were given previously. Now, more from "The Economic Colonization of Iraq: Illegal and Immoral by Antonia Juhasz at International Forum on Globalization Testimony to the World Tribunal on Iraq New York, NY May 8, 2004". The Bush Administration is using the military invasion and occupation of Iraq to advance a corporate globalization agenda that is illegal under international law, has not been chosen by the Iraqi people and may ultimately prove to be even more devastating than twelve years of economic sanctions, two U.S.-led wars and one occupation. The Administration's ultimate goal is to take the agenda to the entire region. In direct conflict with its obligations under international law, the Bush Administration is fundamentally altering Iraq's economic laws to U.S. corporate advantage and is not adequately restoring and providing Iraqis with fundamental necessities such as water and electricity. Fortunately, clear alternatives exist to ensure that the U.S. adheres to its obligations and that Iraq's reconstruction is achieved. These policies are provided at the end of this testimony (as for Afghanistan, it's about controlling China, energy pipelines and reviving the multi-billion dollar drug trade which the Taliban had eradicated). The goal of the Bush Administration, as stated in the economic orders already enacted in Iraq is to, "transition [Iraq] from a ... centrally planned economy to a market economy." This goal is explained even more clearly by BearingPoint, Inc. , the Virginia based corporation that has received the $250 million contract to facilitate this transition. The contract states: "It should be clearly understood that the efforts undertaken will be designed to establish the basic legal framework for a functioning market economy; taking appropriate advantage of the unique opportunity for rapid progress in this area presented by the current configuration of political circumstances... Reforms are envisioned in the areas of fiscal reform, financial sector reform, trade, legal and regulatory, and privatization."

Transformation of an occupied country's fundamental laws is illegal under international law. It directly violates the international convention governing the behavior of occupying forces, the Hague regulations of 1907 (the companion to the 1949 Geneva conventions, both ratified by the United States), as well as the U.S. Army's own code of war , as stated in the Army field manual "The Law of Land Warfare." Article 43 of the Hague Regulations requires that an occupying power "re-establish and insure, as far as possible, public order and safety, while respecting, unless absolutely prevented, the laws in force in the country." Resolution 1483 of the UN Security Council issued in May 2003, specifically instructs the occupying powers to follow the Hague Regulations and the Geneva Convention in Iraq. Indeed, in a leaked memo written on March 26, 2003, the British attorney general, Lord Goldsmith, warned Tony Blair that "the imposition of major structural economic reforms would not be authorized by international law." In other words, the occupying power is like a temporary guardian. It is supposed to restore order and protect the population but still apply the laws in place when it arrived. As Naomi Klein has written, "bombing something does not give you the right to sell it," yet this is precisely what the Bush Administration is doing.

Changing Iraq's Laws

In direct conflict with U.S. government obligations under international law, the Bush Administration has begun fundamentally altering the economic laws of Iraq. For example, the provision in Iraq's Constitution outlawing privatization of key state assets has been over-ridden, as has the law barring foreigners , other than citizens of Arab countries , from owning property or investing in Iraqi businesses. Both the tax code and the banking laws have been changed. Other changes outlined in the BearingPoint contract include the near elimination of the guaranteed food program and "reestablishing" property rights to agricultural land and housing. Iraqi law provides for subsidized housing, cheap energy and free food. The food program uses 300 government warehouses and more than 60,000 workers to deliver a billion pounds of groceries every month , a basket of rations guaranteed to every citizen, rich or poor. BearingPoint plans to phase out this program to all but the neediest Iraqis, while transitioning the agricultural sector to a market-based industrial model with an emphasis on export trade and luxury crops. BearingPoint explains that "now may be the time to look beyond traditional patterns and explore new market potential with new products such as high valued fruits and vegetables, flowers, seed export and other possibilities."

The exhaustively well-documented devastating impacts of export-led industrial agriculture , particularly based on luxury crops , on countries around the World as implemented by the International Monetary Fund (IMF), World Bank, World Trade Organization (WTO), North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and other institutions and agreements, demonstrates the danger that these proposed changes pose to Iraq. Those who have been made landless, jobless and impoverished by them are increasingly raising their voices in opposition. One of the most dramatic demonstrations of which occurred at the most recent WTO ministerial meeting in Cancun, Mexico with the protest-suicide of South Korean farmer Lee Kyung Hae. Thus, it should not come as a surprise that conflicts over these same policies have led to the collapse of talks at both the WTO and the Free Trade Area of Americas in the last year alone. Clearly, there is no international consensus that such policies will aid Iraq's reconstruction. The Bush Administration's proposed changes for Iraqi law go even further, with a special focus on Iraq's oil. BearingPoint describes how current Iraqi commercial law is "woefully deficient in terms of establishing a market-friendly legal and regulatory environment for business formation and operation." Changes to those laws will therefore be necessary "to assure an appropriate legal and regulatory framework for major utilities such as gas, oil, water, and power." The contract includes every sector of the Iraqi economy, from public services, media, banking, investment, taxes, agriculture and the oil sector , implementing "private-sector involvement in strategic sectors, including privatization, asset sales, concessions, leases and management contracts, especially those in the oil and supporting industries." The Bremer Orders have changed Iraq's laws are being replaced and the BearingPoint contract implemented by L. Paul Bremer, Administrator of the Coalition Provisional Authority (CPA) in Iraq. The Bremer Orders most relevant to this discussion are detailed below.

Bremer Order #39: Foreign Investment

Bremer Order #39, enacted on September 19, 2003, has five key elements: (1) Privatization of state-owned enterprises; (2) 100% foreign ownership of businesses in all sectors except oil and mineral extraction, banks and insurance companies (the latter two are addressed in a separate order); (3) "national treatment" of foreign firms; (4) unrestricted, tax-free remittance of all funds associated with the investment, including, but not limited to, profits; and (5) 40 year ownership licenses which have the option of being renewed.

1. Privatization

The Order allows for privatization of all state-owned entities. It is difficult to overstate how fundamental a change this is to the Iraqi economy. As the preamble to the Order explains, it will move Iraq from a "centrally planned economy to a market economy" in one fell swoop by U.S. fiat. This will involve some 200 state-owned enterprises. Thus, everything from water services, electric utilities, schools, hospitals, television and newspapers, to prisons could be privatized under the Order. The water sector is already being "reconstructed" by the Bechtel Corporation of San Francisco , one of the top ten water privatization companies in the World. Bechtel is the second largest recipient of reconstruction dollars in Iraq after Halliburton , totaling nearly $3 billion. Bechtel's contract includes the repair of Iraq's water, sewage and electricity systems, as well as many of its hospitals and schools.

Cliff Mumm, head of Bechtel's Iraq operation, told the San Francisco Chronicle that Iraq "has two rivers, it's fertile, it's sitting on an ocean of oil. Iraq ought to be a major player in the World. And we want to be working for them long term." Bechtel's track record does not bode well for the Iraqi people-in fact, the citizens of Bolivia have written a letter to the people of Iraq warning them of what to expect from Bechtel. A subsidiary of Bechtel privatized the water systems of Cochabamba, Bolivia and immediately sent prices sky-rocketing. Families earning a minimum wage of $60 per month faced water bills of $20 per month. The citizens rose in protest and at least one seventeen year-old boy lost his life to Bolivian troops sent into the streets to defend Bechtel's right to privatize with deadly force. Ultimately, the government relented and cancelled the contract. Bechtel has responded with a $25 million lawsuit against Bolivia for lost profits. Not surprisingly, when Thomas Foley, former director of Private Sector Development for the CPA, announced a list of the first state enterprises to be sold off last fall which included cement and fertilizer plants, phosphate and sulfur mines, pharmaceutical factories, and the country's airline, there was immediate unrest. With anywhere from 50% - 70% of the workforce already unemployed, additional layoffs , which always follow on the heels of privatization , were unacceptable. Furthermore, those remaining workers who still have jobs only receive "emergency pay" mandated by the CPA , about half of what they made before the war, while prices have skyrocketed and the social safety net has been virtually eliminated. The CPA promised that the U.S. corporations doing the reconstruction would solve the unemployment problem, promising 300,000 jobs in an August 13, 2003 letter. Only a handful of these jobs have materialized. One reason is that many firms are bringing in non-Iraqis to do the bulk of the work.

Thus, privatization was met with stiff organized resistance. In response, Bremer was forced to put the immediate privatization plans on hold for the short-term. However, the long-term plans are clear. BearingPoint, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) and others both in or contracted by the U.S. government will implement the majority of the economic policies with the new Iraqi government. Therefore, implementation can wait until the friction over how that government is created is resolved. Furthermore, the process of preparing for privatization has not slowed, while the emphasis on privatization is already rearing its head in Iraq. For example:

- On April 25, 2004, Iraq's minister of public works told The Independent that Iraq was considering privatizing its water industry to "fund essential works." While the U.S. government is obligated to ensure that water is provided to the people of Iraq, it is telling that the Minister did not discuss going to the CPA to demand restoration of water services nor to Bechtel to demand that it fulfill the requirements of its contract. Rather, she speaks immediately of privatization.
- Meetings among global corporations to discuss privatization and investment in Iraq have been taking place unabated at least since the invasion. For example, in February, the U.S. Commerce Department held a "Doing Business in Iraq" conference attended by some five hundred U.S. companies including Boeing, Caterpillar, DaimlerChrysler, Microsoft, IBM, Motorola, Bechtel and Flour. This conference took place immediately following vocal criticism by the Iraqi Governing Council's top representative in Washington that the U.S. was passing over Iraqi firms in awarding reconstruction contracts. The latest of these meetings took place just over a week ago in London. Called "Iraq Procurement 2004 , Meet the Buyer" , it was sponsored by ExxonMobil, Oxy, Volvo, Shell, Raytheon and ChevronTexaco , among others. You can visit web sites like www.export.gov/Iraq or <http://www.iraqprocurement.com/> to learn more and similar meetings taking place monthly around the World.
- The CPA's continued interest in luring the private sector to Iraq is evidenced by the fact that it recently named a new director of Private Sector Development. He is Ari Fleischer's brother, Michael.
- Most importantly, it is abundantly clear from BearingPoint's contract that full implementation is intended to take place after the new Iraqi government is in place , not in the few months remaining before the "hand-over." The contract is for three years with the option of renewal. They are not going anywhere. Of course, the contract specifically states that while there is a commitment to place "Iraq's leaders and stakeholders in the driver's seat" their input on policies will only be used "as long as these are consistent with the overall objectives of the project and with USAID policies, regulations and guidelines."
- In regard to whether the Iraqis intend to change these U.S. imposed laws, Sinan Shabibi , the governor of Iraq's central bank, told an investors services roundtable in Washington recently that the international financial community need not fear Bremer's banking laws will be abolished after the hand-over of sovereignty on June 30 because, "It is unreasonable to enact an economic strategy and then abolish it within two month." Thus, U.S. pressure is already clearly being felt in Iraq and on its leaders.

2. 100% foreign ownership

All of Iraq's businesses can be completely owned, run and employed by non-Iraqis. Iraq, like many countries , particularly developing countries , had a ban on foreign ownership (many require partnerships with local companies as well) in order to ensure local retention of revenue, employment and other financial gains. Order #39 states that Iraq cannot restrict access to foreign owners to any sector of the economy except resource extraction.

Thus, even Iraq's media could be completely owned by U.S. companies. The first step towards U.S. ownership may have come with the awarding of a $90 million contract to Science Applications International Corporation (SAIC) of San Diego, CA, to "restore broadcast media to uncensored operation." According to the Center for Public Integrity (CPI), SAIC will be rebuilding Iraq's mass media, including television stations, radio stations and newspapers, in a program called the Iraqi Media Network. However, not much more is known because the Pentagon has steadfastly refused to release any specific information about the contract. What little information that has leaked out has come mainly from disgruntled employees and press freedom advocates, who have alleged military censorship, cronyism and significant mishandling of the work. In just one example, SAIC used the U.S. government-run Voice of America to patch together nightly news shows made up entirely of dubbed stories from U.S. television network news shows. Concerns over foreign ownership go farther. Iraq is home to the most extensive river system in the Middle East, including the Tigris and Euphrates rivers and the Greater and Lesser Zab rivers. As Stephen C. Pelletiere, a former CIA senior political analyst on Iraq, wrote in the New York Times, "America could alter the destiny of the Middle East in a way that probably could not be challenged for decades , not solely by controlling Iraq's oil, but by controlling its water. Even if America didn't occupy the country, once Mr. Hussein's Baath Party is driven from power, many lucrative opportunities would open up for American companies." The military invasion of Iraq has put Bechtel in the position to become one of these companies.

3. National Treatment

Order #39 states that "A foreign investor shall be entitled to make foreign investments in Iraq on terms no less favorable than those applicable to an Iraqi investor." National treatment makes it impossible to require that Iraqis be given preferential treatment (over foreigners) as investors, owners, contractors or employees. Thus, foreign companies can do all of the reconstruction, own every business, do all of the work and not a single Iraqi need to be employed or involved in the process whatsoever.

This is a particularly troublesome provision given reports of bloated U.S. corporate budgets. For example, Time magazine recently reported that an American firm was awarded a $15 million contract to build a cement factory in Iraq (using U.S. taxpayer dollars). When the firm was prevented from doing the work, an Iraqi businessman (using Saddam's confiscated funds) spent just $80,000 to build the same factory. National treatment is also a powerful tool used by companies to circumvent domestic regulations on the environment, public health and worker and consumer safety. Virtually every challenge brought to such laws under the investment chapter of the NAFTA include claims that the government violated national treatment. For example, national treatment was one of the tools used successfully by the Virginia-based Ethyl Corporation to force the government of Canada to reverse its ban on the gasoline additive MMT, a ground water pollutant also believed to be a human carcinogen. Ethyl sued and Canada settled: reversing its ban, paying Ethyl $13 million in compensation for its "trouble," and writing a letter of apology. Given corporate success in challenging such laws in Canada, the United States, and Mexico, it is likely that Iraq's environmental, health, and public interest laws, or those that any new government may wish to enact, will be severely at risk. The impact of this one provision alone is devastating and has facilitated the Bush Administration's failure to meet its obligations under international law to provide for the basic necessities of Iraq.

Failure to Meet International Obligations to Provide for Iraqi Basic Services

Water

The Washington Post tells the story of Al-Ani, a PhD civil engineer with 40 years experience who is one of the top experts in water treatment in Iraq. He is an employee of the General Co. for Water Projects, one of the 200-odd ventures in Iraq that are owned wholly or in part by the state and have been told they are ineligible for contracts being issued by the occupation. The company's 187 workers still collect their government salaries but they now spend their days playing video games, reading books and chitchatting to pass the time. This story is repeated over and over again across Iraq. Qualified, experienced and interested Iraqi engineers and workers sitting idle while U.S. corporations blunder about Iraq at the expense of Iraqi health and U.S. tax-payer money. Bechtel has the contract that could have gone to General Co. Rather than hire or talk to Al-Ani or his numerous colleagues, Bechtel employees spent their first months in Iraq touring the country doing an assessment of the water and electrical systems only to discover that the systems were in much worse condition and more complicated than they had originally assumed. This explains why Bechtel is not living up to the conditions of their contract for water and electricity provision and why the U.S. government doesn't care. According to the San Francisco Chronicle, USAID, which oversees Bechtel's contract, has "reduced expectations of what could be fixed, how long repairs would take and how much money would be required." Good for Bechtel, but too bad for the people of Iraq who are virtually without electricity or water and are living in sewage-filled streets. According to USAID's own reports, one year after the invasion "Baghdad's three sewage treatment plants, which together comprise three-quarters of the nation's sewage treatment capacity, are inoperable, allowing the waste from 3.8 million people to flow untreated directly into the Tigris River. In the rest of the country, most sewage treatment plants were only partially operational prior to the conflict, and shortage of electricity, parts and chemicals have exacerbated the situation. Water that is pumped through the system is largely untreated, especially in South." The most extensive on-the-ground assessment of Iraq's water systems by Dahr Jamail for the consumer watchdog group Public Citizen reached the same conclusion. Drinking water throughout the country is in a crisis state, with some villages having no access to water while larger cities receive water approximately 50% of the time. This has led to vast outbreaks of cholera, diarrhea, nausea and kidney stones, among other diseases.

Electricity

The same condition exists for Iraq's electricity, reconstruction of which is also Bechtel's responsibility. According to a memo by an anonymous U.S. government official written to the CPA in early March 2004, there is "no consistency" in power flows in Iraq. "Street lights function irregularly and traffic lights not at all" "Electricity in Baghdad fluctuating between three hours, on and off, in rotation, and four hours on and off." U.S. Airforce Colonel Sam Gardiner, author of a 2002 study of the likely effect US bombardment would have on Iraq's power system, recently told the Village Voice, "I continue to get very upset about the electricity issue... Frankly, if we had just given the Iraqis some baling wire and a little bit of space to keep things running, it would have been better. But instead we've let big US companies go in with plans for major overhauls." Thus, while Bechtel reports that they have "returned electricity generation to pre-conflict levels," this claim is not supported by the U.S. government or Iraqis themselves. Power outages lasting for 24 hours a day are still more often the rule than the exception. The Daura power plant, Baghdad's largest, which should supply one third of the city's generating capacity was producing only 10% as recently as December. Helmut Doll, the German site manager for Babcock Power, as subcontractor of Siemens, told Newsweek that "Bechtel only came and took photos. We can't judge Bechtel's work progress because they're not here." The same story is repeated across Iraq. Either they haven't seen Bechtel, or the work that has been provided is inadequate and intermittent. Bechtel representatives have admitted as much, citing the constant sabotage of their work and their ill-preparedness going in, commenting that they did not realize how intertwined the electricity, water and sewage systems were, greatly complicating their repair efforts. Of course, the Iraqis knew this and could have told them, if they had asked. Iraqis point out that after the first Gulf War, they were able to restore electricity in just three months. Mohsen Hassan, technical director for power generation at the Iraqi ministry of electricity, told Southern Exposure Magazine, "We, the Iraqi engineers, can repair anything, but we need money and spare parts and so far Bechtel has provided us with neither. The only thing that the company has given us so far is promises."

Schools and Hospitals

Bechtel has also failed in its contractual obligations to restore hospitals and schools in Iraq. Bechtel repeatedly cites the 1595 schools it has "rehabilitated" in Iraq. However, this is less than a fifth of Iraq's 10,000 schools. And, as Newsweek reported, "many of the rehabilitated schools don't look ready for the morning bell." The constant complaint from Iraqi Ministry of Education officials and headmistresses and ministers of schools that Bechtel has worked on, is that the work is either non-existent or shoddy, often putting students health and safety at risk. An internal study by U.S. Army personnel cited in Southern Exposure, strongly criticized Bechtel's attempts to renovate Iraqi schools. Comments such as the following were common: "the new fans are cheap and burned out immediately upon use. All inspected were already broke." "Lousy paint job. Major clean-up work required. Bathrooms in poor condition." Southern Exposure visited four Baghdad schools all listed as renovated by Bechtel. They found rain leaking through ceilings, shorting out power, new paint peeling and floors that had not been completely repaired. New brass taps and doors painted, but toilets and sinks that had not been touched. At Hawa School, for example, the headmistress showed the authors toilets where a new water system had been installed, pipes, taps and a motor to pump the water. However, the motor didn't work, so the toilets reeked with unflushed sewage. The conditions reported in Bechtel hospitals are similar , shoddy or non-existent work accompanied with desperate and unmet human needs. The Bush Administration is not even living up to its own requirements under national treatment because it is treating foreign providers differently. The U.S. has banned countries that did not participate in the invasion for profiting off of the invasion. Thus, in many cases, repairs that could be performed quickly to the water and electrical systems are left undone because they require parts from countries such as Russia, Germany or France.

4. Unrestricted Repatriation of Profits

Order #39 authorizes foreign investors to "transfer abroad without delay all funds associated with [their] investment." Thus, they can put their money wherever they like and take it out whenever they want to, "without delay." Nothing need be reinvested locally to service the floundering Iraqi economy. Nothing need be targeted to help specifically damaged regions, communities or services. All the money can go home with the foreign owners and they can take out their investments at any time. U.S. corporations are already reaping staggering revenues from their Iraqi operations. However, due to Order #39, not a cent of this money need be reinvested in Iraq. Halliburton, with contracts worth as much as $16.8 billion in Iraq has seen its revenues increase 80% in the first quarter of 2004 compared to the same quarter of 2003. According to the Financial Times, they are receiving steep "profits from their Iraq operations." Bechtel, with nearly $3 billion in Iraqi contracts, has seen their non-U.S.-generated revenues increase by a whopping 158% since last year , turning around a three-year slump. Bechtel is not publicly traded and therefore does not have to reveal profits. However, both Bechtel and Halliburton have cost-plus contracts that guarantee a specified rate of profit on their work. ChevronTexaco which has a comparatively minor contract for transporting Iraqi oil has also seen revenues soar. It is important to note that neither Halliburton nor Bechtel participated in the most recent round of Iraq reconstruction contract bids. A good guess as to why would be the constant barrage of public criticism they have faced over the failures in Iraq. These are just three of the hundreds of U.S. companies now operating in Iraq , all of their money could return to the U.S. , none of it need be used to benefit Iraq whatsoever.

Unfortunately, we don't really know how much money the Iraqis are missing out on, nor exactly what work is being done nor by whom. This is because, as the Center for Public Integrity , the organization which has done the most extensive Freedom of Information Act requests and investigations into these contracts , so aptly states, "it [does] not appear that any one government agency [knows] that total number of contractors or what they are doing." This finding has since been upheld by both the General Accounting Office and the Pentagon's inspector-general - both of which have recently concluded studies demonstrating little or no government over site over contractors and contracts being granted, renewed and increased with virtually no inspection of written documents nor work performed. Finally, returning to repatriation of profits , the potential long-term impact of this provision for the Iraqi economy is monumental, as evidenced by the impact of the same rules on the "financial tigers" of East Asia, as well as Argentina and Russia. Each of these countries experienced devastating financial collapse when foreign investors simultaneously withdrew billions of dollars from their economies while the governments were powerless to enact restrictions on either the inward or outward flow of investments. Iraq is now poised to meet the same fate.

5. 40-year leases

Under Order #39 Iraq will be locked in to its contracts under these rules for 40 years, with an option of unlimited renewal. If the contracts are broken, the Order gives the companies the legal authority to enact any international trade agreement of which both countries are party. If the Bush Administration is successful in implementing its trade goals outlined below, the U.S. will have a Bilateral Investment Treaty (BIT) with Iraq. The BIT provides access to courts such as the World Bank's International Centre for the Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID), a venue notorious for its undemocratic, untransparent and unjust proceedings and rulings on behalf of multinational corporations.

Bremer Order #40: Banking

Order #40 fundamentally alters Iraq's banking structure by turning this sector from a state-run to a market-driven system over night by allowing foreign banks to enter the Iraqi market and to purchase up to 50 percent of an Iraqi bank. Specifically, it permits six foreign banks over the next five years the right to enter the Iraqi market. A similar provision included in NAFTA paved the way for Citigroup to purchase Mexico's largest commercial bank, Banamex. In Aotearoa/New Zealand, liberalization of financial banking services left every one of the nation's banks, including the bank of New Zealand, under foreign control. Affordable financial services and low-cost loans quickly dried up , so much so that the government proposed setting up a new bank, the People's Bank, to be owned and operated by the government itself in order to redress the inequities of the foreign-owned banks. Local ownership of banks is critical because it facilitates access to credit for all sectors of society. It may deter disloyal behavior; foreign finance companies are much more likely to flee in times of crisis. And ensuring that a foreign company holds some domestic assets within the country in which it is operating can help ensure it can satisfy any legal liabilities it might accrue. Moreover, Iraq simply does not have adequate regulatory structures in place to handle the economic power and marketing prowess of global financial companies. For example, Iraq does not have a counter-part to U.S. laws such as the Community Reinvestment Act -- obligating banks to make credit available in lower-income neighborhoods -- and the Truth in Lending Act -- requiring full disclosure to consumers of the cost of loans. Finally, with the banks under foreign ownership, the lobby against adoption of such rules may be too strong to fight. JPMorgan, the second-largest bank in the U.S., which was implicated in the Enron scandal, has been awarded a contract to run a consortium of 13 banks from 13 countries that will constitute the Trade Bank of Iraq. The Trade Bank may be just the point of entry for JPMorgan, giving it "first dibs" on the full privatization yet to come.

Bremer Order #37: Taxes

Order #37 changes Iraq's tax law by implementing a flat tax that provides for a marginal income tax rate of 15% for both corporations and individuals. Thus, an Iraqi earning .50 cents per hour will pay the same tax rate as another earning $1 billion an hour. Flat rates have a record of reducing the tax burden on the poorest in the economy, increasing the burden on the middle class tremendously, and drastically reducing the taxes paid by the wealthiest in society , particularly corporations. As the Washington Post reports, "it took L. Paul Bremer, the U.S. administrator in Baghdad, no more than a stroke of the pen Sept. 15 to accomplish what eluded the likes of publisher Steve Forbes, Reps. Jack Kemp (R-N.Y.) and Richard K. Armey (R-Tex.), and Sen. Phil Gramm (R-Tex.) over the course of a decade and two presidential campaigns."

Bremer Order #12: Trade Liberalization

On June 12, Bremer signed the "Trade Liberalization Policy," suspending "all tariffs, customs duties, import taxes, licensing fees and similar surcharges for goods entering or leaving Iraq, and all other trade restrictions that may apply to such goods." This led to an immediate and dramatic inflow of cheap consumer products, which has essentially wiped out all local providers of the same products. This could have significant long-term implications for domestic production as well. But tariff elimination is just the beginning. In early February 2004, BearingPoint was right on schedule when the Bush Administration achieved WTO observer status for Iraq, even without a government, over the strong objections of many of our European allies. This is the first step towards WTO membership, which also requires the fundamental transformation of Iraq's laws to bring them in to WTO-compliance. The longer-term goal was announced by President Bush just two months after the invasion of Iraq. On May 9, 2003, President Bush announced plans for an U.S.-Middle East Free Trade Area (MEFTA) by 2013, bringing all of the policies outlined above, and more, to the entire region. The Middle East, insulated by oil revenue, has historically been less susceptible than other regions to the extreme sacrifices required by governments under corporate free trade agreements. But with the invasion and occupation of Iraq, the Bush Administration demonstrated that it would defy global public opinion and the United Nations to use military force when and where it deems necessary. Thus, it can now return to the more traditional model of advancing corporate globalization, the free trade agreement. As George Wolfe, director of Economic Policy for the CPA told the New York Times, "in the long run, the United States hopes that Iraq will become an economic model for the Middle East." Or, put more bluntly by Neil King of the Wall Street Journal, "For many conservatives, Iraq is now the test case for whether the U.S. can engender American-style free-market capitalism within the Arab World."

How to Bring the U.S. in to Accord with International Law and Morality

It is illegal and immoral for the Bush Administration to use the military invasion and occupation of Iraq to fundamentally alter that nation's basic laws. It is also illegal and immoral for the Bush Administration to continue to ignore its obligation under international law to provide for the basic necessities of Iraqis. The first step needed to bring the U.S. in to accord with international law and morality is to repeal the Bremer Orders detailed above. The second step is to allow detailed public scrutiny of the BearingPoint plan in both Iraq and the U.S. Most of it should be repealed. At most, it should provide only for the short-term economic necessities required of the U.S. under international law to restore Iraq's basic infrastructure and services and to ensure that the economy does not collapse during reconstruction. Once the Iraqi government is elected, it is the Iraqis themselves who must determine their long-term economic future, not the U.S. In the short-term, the following alternatives drawn from more detailed analysis provided by International Occupation Watch Center in Baghdad, the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, DC and the International Forum on Globalization (<http://www.occupationwatch.org/>, <http://www.ips-dc.org/>, <http://www.ifg.org/>), are offered to help restore the Iraqi economy to a functioning position.

- The military occupation of Iraq must end.
- Iraq's foreign debts, accrued by Hussein in the suppression of the people of Iraq, must be forgiven.
- Only with the end of the U.S.-UK occupation should the United Nations, including an UN-commanded multilateral peacekeeping force, return to Iraq. Their mandate should be for a very short and defined period, with the goal of assisting Iraq in reconstruction and overseeing election of a governing authority.
- As belligerent powers who initiated the war, and as occupying powers, the U.S. and the UK are obligated to provide for the humanitarian needs of the Iraqi people and to pay the continuing costs of Iraq's reconstruction, including the bulk of the cost of UN humanitarian and peacekeeping deployments. Washington should reverse the spending priorities of its $87 billion request from Congress, and turn over to full UN authority (on behalf of the Iraqi people as a whole, not simply given to the U.S.-appointed Council) a starting grant of at least $75 billion (the initial amount Washington spent on waging the war) for reconstruction in Iraq.
- The $15 billion (out of the $87 billion) requested by the Bush administration for Iraqi reconstruction is insufficient to meet Washington's obligations under international law. The $65 billion scheduled for the Pentagon to continue the occupation of Iraq should be challenged. The additional reconstruction funds should not come from ordinary taxpayers. They should be raised from (a) an excess profits tax on corporations benefiting from the war and post-war privatization in Iraq; and (b) the Pentagon budget lines currently directed at continuing war in Iraq.
- Reconstruction of Iraq should be based on rebuilding the economy to maximize fulfilling the needs of the Iraqi people. All contract processes should be completely transparent and accessible to Iraqis. The awarding of contracts should be done with preference given first to Iraqi companies, experts and workers. Preference should then be given to international humanitarian organizations with a record of performing similar reconstruction work. If a non-Iraqi private company must be used, the contract must be open to global competition and the profit margin must be held as low as possible at a fixed fee. Oversight must be transparent, public and thorough.
- Labor laws should ensure protection and security for local workers.
- A broad U.S. Federal Government investigation must be launched to scrutinize U.S. corporate expenditures and actions in Iraq, with the power to impose or seek punitive measures for contract violations and over-expenditure, and to provide oversight, regulation and accountability of U.S. contractor's work in the application of their contracts. The citizens of Iraq and the U.S. Congress and public should be informed of the findings.

- Iraq should be allowed to join the Worldwide movement for local sustainability by moving away from export oriented economics that make trade and multinational corporations the basis of economic development. Government spending, taxes, subsidies, tariff structures, etc. should be reoriented to support local environmentally sustainable production that meets local needs (these ideas are expanded upon in the IFG publication, Alternatives to Economic Globalization)

The Multibillion Robbery The US Calls Reconstruction & The shameless corporate feeding frenzy in Iraq is fuelling the resistance

<http://www.guardian.co.uk/Iraq/Story/0,2763,1247867,00.html>

Naomi Klein, June 26, 2004, The Guardian, UK

The Program Management Office, which oversees the $18.4bn in US reconstruction funds, has finally set a goal it can meet. Sure, electricity is below pre-war levels, the streets are rivers of sewage and more Iraqis have been fired than hired. But now the PMO has contracted the British mercenary firm Aegis to protect its employees from "assassination, kidnapping, injury and" - get this - "embarrassment". I don't know if Aegis will succeed in protecting PMO employees from violent attack, but embarrassment? I'd say mission already accomplished. The people in charge of rebuilding Iraq can't be embarrassed, because, clearly, they have no shame.

Their god is G: gold O: oil D: drugs

In the run-up to the June 30 underhand (sorry, I can't bring myself to call it a "handover"), US occupation powers have been unabashed in their efforts to steal money that is supposed to aid a war-ravaged people. The state department has taken $184m earmarked for drinking water projects and moved it to the budget for the lavish new US embassy in Saddam Hussein's former palace. Short of $1bn for the embassy, Richard Armitage, the deputy secretary of state, said he might have to "rob from Peter in my fiefdom to pay Paul". In fact, he is robbing Iraq's people, who, according to a recent study by the consumer group Public Citizen, are facing "massive outbreaks of cholera, diarrhoea, nausea and kidney stones" from drinking contaminated water. If the occupation chief Paul Bremer and his staff were capable of embarrassment, they might be a little sheepish about having spent only $3.2bn of the $18.4bn Congress allotted - the reason the reconstruction is so disastrously behind schedule. At first, Bremer said the money would be spent by the time Iraq was sovereign, but apparently someone had a better idea: parcel it out over five years so Ambassador John Negroponte can use it as leverage. With $15bn outstanding, how likely are Iraq's politicians to refuse US demands for military bases and economic "reforms"? Unwilling to let go of their own money, the shameless ones have had no qualms about dipping into funds belonging to Iraqis. After losing the fight to keep control of Iraq's oil money after the underhand, occupation authorities grabbed $2.5bn of those revenues and are now spending the money on projects that are supposedly already covered by American tax dollars.

But then, if financial scandals made you blush, the entire reconstruction of Iraq would be pretty mortifying. From the start, its architects rejected the idea that it should be a New Deal-style public works project for Iraqis to reclaim their country. Instead, it was treated as an ideological experiment in privatisation. The dream was for multinational firms, mostly from the US, to swoop in and dazzle the Iraqis with their speed and efficiency. Iraqis saw something else: desperately needed jobs going to Americans, Europeans and south Asians; roads crowded with trucks shipping in supplies produced in foreign plants, while Iraqi factories were not even supplied with emergency generators. As a result, the reconstruction was seen not as a recovery from war but as an extension of the occupation, a foreign invasion of a different sort. And so, as the resistance grew, the reconstruction itself became a prime target.

The contractors have responded by behaving even more like an invading army, building elaborate fortresses in the green zone - the walled-in city within a city that houses the occupation authority in Baghdad - and surrounding themselves with mercenaries. And being hated is expensive. According to the latest estimates, security costs are eating up 25% of reconstruction contracts - money not being spent on hospitals, water-treatment plants or telephone exchanges.

Meanwhile, insurance brokers selling sudden-death policies to contractors in Iraq have doubled their premiums, with insurance costs reaching 30% of payroll. That means many companies are spending half their budgets arming and insuring themselves against the people they are supposedly in Iraq to help. And, according to Charles Adwan of Transparency International, quoted on US National Public Radio's Marketplace programme, "at least 20% of US spending in Iraq is lost to corruption". How much is actually left over for reconstruction? Don't do the maths. Rather than models of speed and efficiency, the contractors look more like overcharging, underperforming, lumbering beasts, barely able to move for fear of the hatred they have helped generate. The problem goes well beyond the latest reports of Halliburton drivers abandoning $85,000 trucks on the road because they don't carry spare tyres. Private contractors are also accused of playing leadership roles in the torture of prisoners at Abu Ghraib. A landmark class-action lawsuit filed by the Centre for Constitutional Rights alleges that Titan Corporation and CACI International conspired to "humiliate, torture and abuse persons" in order to increase demand for their "interrogation services". And then there's Aegis, the company being paid $293m to save the PMO from embarrassment. It turns out that Aegis's CEO, Tim Spicer, has a bit of an embarrassing past himself. In the 90s, he helped to put down rebels and stage a military coup in Papua New Guinea, as well as hatching a plan to break an arms embargo in Sierra Leone. If Iraq's occupiers were capable of feeling shame, they might have responded by imposing tough new regulations. Instead, Senate Republicans have just defeated an attempt to bar private contractors from interrogating prisoners and also voted down a proposal to impose stiffer penalties on contractors who overcharge. Meanwhile, the White House is also trying to get immunity from prosecution for US contractors in Iraq and has requested the exemption from the new prime minister, Iyad Allawi. It seems likely that Allawi will agree, since he is, after all, a kind of US contractor himself. A former CIA spy, he is already threatening to declare martial law, while his defence minister says of resistance fighters: "We will cut off their hands, and we will behead them." In a final feat of outsourcing, Iraqi governance has been subcontracted to even more brutal surrogates. Is this embarrassing, after an invasion to overthrow a dictatorship? Not at all; this is what the occupiers call "sovereignty". The Aegis guys can relax - embarrassment is not going to be an issue. A version of this article first appeared in The Nation www.nologo.org

Arundhati Roy's Incredible Speech on US World Fascism (Sydney Peace Prize Nov 2004)

Today, it is not merely justice itself, but the idea of justice that is under attack. The assault on vulnerable, fragile sections of society is at once so complete, so cruel and so clever - all encompassing and yet specifically targeted, blatantly brutal and yet unbelievably insidious - that its sheer audacity has eroded our definition of justice. It has forced us to lower our sights, and curtail our expectations. Even among the well-intentioned, the expansive, magnificent concept of justice is gradually being substituted with the reduced, far more fragile discourse of 'human rights'. If you think about it, this is an alarming shift of paradigm. The difference is that notions of equality, of parity have been pried loose and eased out of the equation. It's a process of attrition. Almost unconsciously, we begin to think of justice for the rich and human rights for the poor. Justice for the corporate World, human rights for its victims. Justice for Americans, human rights for Afghans and Iraqis. Justice for the Indian upper castes, human rights for Dalits and Adivasis (if that.) Justice for white Australians, human rights for Aboriginals and immigrants (most times, not even that.)

It is becoming more than clear that violating human rights is an inherent and necessary part of the process of implementing a coercive and unjust political and economic structure on the World. Without the violation of human rights on an enormous scale, the neo-liberal project would remain in the dreamy realm of policy. But increasingly Human Rights violations are being portrayed as the unfortunate, almost accidental fallout of an otherwise acceptable political and economic system. As though they're a small problem that can be mopped up with a little extra attention from some NGOs. This is why in areas of heightened conflict - in Kashmir and in Iraq for example - Human Rights Professionals are regarded with a degree of suspicion. Many resistance movements in poor countries which are fighting huge injustice and questioning the underlying principles of what constitutes "liberation" and "development", view Human Rights NGOs as modern day missionaries who've come to take the ugly edge off Imperialism. To defuse political anger and to maintain the status quo. It has been only a few weeks since a majority of Australians voted to re-elect Prime Minister John Howard who, among other things, led Australia to participate in the illegal invasion and occupation of Iraq. The invasion of Iraq will surely go down in history as one of the most cowardly wars ever fought. It was a war in which a band of rich nations, armed with enough nuclear weapons to destroy the World several times over, rounded on a poor nation, falsely accused it of having nuclear weapons, used the United Nations to force it to disarm, then invaded it, occupied it and are now in the process of selling it. I speak of Iraq, not because everybody is talking about it, (sadly at the cost of leaving other horrors in other places to unfurl in the dark), but because it is a sign of things to come. Iraq marks the beginning of a new cycle. It offers us an opportunity to watch the Corporate-Military cabal that has come to be known as 'Empire' at work. In the new Iraq the gloves are off. As the battle to control the World's resources intensifies, economic colonialism through formal military aggression is staging a comeback. Iraq is the logical culmination of the process of corporate globalization in which neo-colonialism and neo-liberalism have fused. If we can find it in ourselves to peep behind the curtain of blood, we would glimpse the pitiless transactions taking place backstage. But first, briefly, the stage itself.

In 1991 US President George Bush senior mounted Operation Desert Storm. Tens of thousands of Iraqis were killed in the war. Iraq's fields were bombed with more than 300 tonnes of depleted uranium, causing a fourfold increase in cancer among children. For more than 13 years, twenty four million Iraqi people have lived in a war zone and been denied food and medicine and clean water. In the frenzy around the US elections, let's remember that the levels of cruelty did not fluctuate whether the Democrats or the Republicans were in the White House. Half a million Iraqi children died because of the regime of economic sanctions in the run up to Operation Shock and Awe. Until recently, while there was a careful record of how many US soldiers had lost their lives, we had no idea of how many Iraqis had been killed. US General Tommy Franks said "We don't do body counts" (meaning Iraqi body counts). He could have added "We don't do the Geneva Convention either." A new, detailed study, fast-tracked by the Lancet medical journal and extensively peer reviewed, estimates that 100,000 Iraqis have lost their lives since the 2003 invasion. That's one hundred halls full of people - like this one. That's one hundred halls full of friends, parents, siblings, colleagues, lovers.like you. The difference is that there aren't many children here today--let's not forget Iraq's children. Technically that bloodbath is called precision bombing. In ordinary language, it's called butchering.

Most of this is common knowledge now. Those who support the invasion and vote for the invaders cannot take refuge in ignorance. They must truly believe that this epic brutality is right and just or, at the very least, acceptable because it's in their interest. So the 'civilized' 'modern' World - built painstakingly on a legacy of genocide, slavery and colonialism - now controls most of the World's oil. And most of the World's weapons, most of the World's money, and most of the World's media. The embedded, corporate media in which the doctrine of Free Speech has been substituted by the doctrine of Free If You Agree Speech. The UN's Chief Weapons Inspector Hans Blix said he found no evidence of nuclear weapons in Iraq. Every scrap of evidence produced by the US and British governments was found to be false - whether it was reports of Saddam Hussein buying uranium from Niger, or the report produced by British Intelligence which was discovered to have been plagiarized from an old student dissertation. And yet, in the prelude to the war, day after day the most 'respectable' newspapers and TV channels in the US , headlined the 'evidence' of Iraq's arsenal of weapons of nuclear weapons. It now turns out that the source of the manufactured 'evidence' of Iraq's arsenal of nuclear weapons was Ahmed Chalabi who, (like General Suharto of Indonesia, General Pinochet of Chile, the Shah of Iran, the Taliban and of course, Saddam Hussein himself) - was bankrolled with millions of dollars from the good old CIA.

And so, a country was bombed into oblivion. It's true there have been some murmurs of apology. Sorry 'bout that folks, but we have really have to move on. Fresh rumours are coming in about nuclear weapons in Eye-ran and Syria. And guess who is reporting on these fresh rumours? The same reporters who ran the bogus 'scoops' on Iraq. The seriously embedded A Team. The head of Britain's BBC had to step down and one man committed suicide because a BBC reporter accused the Blair administration of 'sexing up' intelligence reports about Iraq's WMD programme. But the head of Britain retains his job even though his government did much more than 'sex up' intelligence reports. It is responsible for the illegal invasion of a country and the mass murder of its people. Visitors to Australia like myself, are expected to answer the following question when they fill in the visa form: Have you ever committed or been involved in the commission of war crimes or crimes against humanity or human rights? Would George Bush and Tony Blair get visas to Australia? Under the tenets of International Law they must surely qualify as war criminals. However, to imagine that the World would change if they were removed from office is naive. The tragedy is that their political rivals have no real dispute with their policies. The fire and brimstone of the US election campaign was about who would make a better 'Commander-in-Chief' and a more effective manager of the American Empire. Democracy no longer offers voters real choice. Only specious choice.

Even though no weapons of mass destruction have been found in Iraq - stunning new evidence has revealed that Saddam Hussein was planning a weapons programme. (Like I was planning to win an Olympic Gold in synchronized swimming.) Thank goodness for the doctrine of pre-emptive strike. God knows what other evil thoughts he harbored - sending Tampax in the mail to American senators, or releasing female rabbits in burqas into the London underground. No doubt all will be revealed in the free and fair trial of Saddam Hussein that's coming up soon in the New Iraq. All except the chapter in which we would learn of how the US and Britain plied him with money and material assistance at the time he was carrying out murderous attacks on Iraqi Kurds and Shias. All except the chapter in which we would learn that a 12,000 page report submitted by the Saddam Hussein government to the UN, was censored by the United States because it lists twenty-four US corporations that participated in Iraq's pre-Gulf War nuclear and conventional weapons programme. (They include Bechtel, DuPont, , Eastman Kodak, Hewlett Packard, International Computer Systems and Unisys.) So Iraq has been 'liberated.' Its people have been subjugated and its markets have been 'freed'. That's the anthem of neo-liberalism. Free the markets. Screw the people.

The US government has privatized and sold entire sectors of Iraq's economy. Economic policies and tax laws have been re-written. Foreign companies can now buy 100% of Iraqi firms and expatriate the profits. This is an outright violation of international laws that govern an occupying force, and is among the main reasons for the stealthy, hurried charade in which power was 'handed over' to an 'interim Iraqi government'. Once handing over of Iraq to the Multi-nationals is complete, a mild dose of genuine democracy won't do any harm. In fact it might be good PR for the Corporate version of Liberation Theology, otherwise known as New Democracy. Not surprisingly, the auctioning of Iraq caused a stampede at the feeding trough. Corporations like Bechtel and Halliburton, the company that US Vice-president Dick Cheney once headed, have won huge contracts for 'reconstruction' work. A brief c.v of any one of these corporations would give us a lay person's grasp of how it all works. - not just in Iraq, but all over the World. Say we pick Bechtel - only because poor little Halliburton is under investigation on charges of overpricing fuel deliveries to Iraq and for its contracts to 'restore' Iraq's oil industry which came with a pretty serious price-tag - 2.5 billion dollars.

The Bechtel Group and Saddam Hussein are old business acquaintances. Many of their dealings were negotiated by none other than Donald Rumsfeld. In 1988, after Saddam Hussein gassed thousands of Kurds, Bechtel signed contracts with his government to build a dual-use chemical plant in Baghdad. Historically, the Bechtel Group has had and continues to have inextricably close links to the Republican establishment. You could call Bechtel and the Reagan Bush administration a team. Former Secretary of Defense, Caspar Weinberger was a Bechtel general counsel. Former Deputy Secretary of Energy, W. Kenneth Davis was Bechtel's vice president. Riley Bechtel, the company chairman, is on the President's Export Council. Jack Sheehan, a retired marine corps general, is a senior vice president at Bechtel and a member of the US Defense Policy Board. Former Secretary of State George Shultz, who is on the Board of Directors of the Bechtel Group, was the chairman of the advisory board of the Committee for the Liberation of Iraq. When he was asked by the New York Times whether he was concerned about the appearance of a conflict of interest between his two 'jobs', he said, "I don't know that Bechtel would particularly benefit from it [The invasion of Iraq]. But if there's work to be done, Bechtel is the type of company that could do it." Bechtel has been awarded reconstruction contracts in Iraq worth over a billion dollars, which include contracts to re-build power generation plants, electrical grids, water supply, sewage systems, and airport facilities. Never mind revolving doors, this -if it weren't so drenched in blood- would be a bedroom farce. Between 2001 and 2002, nine out of thirty members of the US Defense Policy Group were connected to companies that were awarded Defense contracts worth 76 billion dollars. Time was when weapons were manufactured in order to fight wars. Now wars are manufactured in order to sell weapons.

Between 1990 and 2002 the Bechtel group has contributed $3.3 million to campaign funds, both Republican and Democrat. Since 1990 it has won more than 2000 government contracts worth more than 11 billion dollars. That's an incredible return on investment, wouldn't you say? And Bechtel has footprints around the World. That's what being a multi-national means. The Bechtel Group first attracted international attention when it signed a contract with Hugo Banzer, the former Bolivian dictator, to privatize the water supply in the city of Cochabamba. The first thing Bechtel did was to raise the price of water. Hundreds of thousands of people who simply couldn't afford to pay Bechtel's bills came out onto the streets. A huge strike paralyzed the city. Martial law was declared. Although eventually Bechtel was forced to flee its offices, it is currently negotiating an exit payment of millions of dollars from the Bolivian government for the loss of potential profits. Which, as we'll see, is growing into a popular corporate sport. In India, Bechtel along with General Electric are the new owners of the notorious and currently defunct Enron power project. The Enron contract, which legally binds the Government of the State of Maharashtra to pay Enron a sum of 30 billion dollars, was the largest contract ever signed in India. Enron was not shy to boast about the millions of dollars it had spent to "educate" Indian politicians and bureaucrats. The Enron contract in Maharashtra, which was India's first 'fast-track' private power project, has come to be known as the most massive fraud in the country's history. (Enron was another of the Republican Party's major campaign contributors). The electricity that Enron produced was so exorbitant that the government decided it was cheaper not to buy electricity and pay Enron the mandatory fixed charges specified in the contract. This means that the government of one of the poorest countries in the World was paying Enron 220 million US dollars a year not to produce electricity!

Now that Enron has ceased to exist, Bechtel and GE are suing the Indian Government for 5.6 billion US dollars. This is not even a minute fraction of the sum of money that they (or Enron) actually invested in the project. Once more, it's a projection of profit they would have made had the project materialized. To give you an idea of scale 5.6 billion dollars a little more than the amount that the Government of India would need annually, for a rural employment guarantee scheme that would provide a subsistence wage to millions of people currently living in abject poverty, crushed by debt, displacement, chronic malnutrition and the WTO. This in a country where farmers steeped in debt are being driven to suicide, not in their hundreds, but in their thousands. The proposal for a Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme is being mocked by India's corporate class as an unreasonable, utopian demand being floated by the 'lunatic' and newly powerful left. Where will the money come from? they ask derisively. And yet, any talk of renegotiating on a bad contract with a notoriously corrupt corporation like Enron, has the same cynics hyperventilating about capital flight and the terrible risks of 'creating a bad investment climate'. The arbitration between Bechtel, GE and the Government of India is taking place right now in London. Bechtel and GE have reason for hope. The Indian Finance Secretary who was instrumental in approving the disastrous Enron contract has come home after a few years with the IMF. Not just home, home with a promotion. He is now Deputy Chairman of the Planning Commission.

Think about it: The notional profits of a single corporate project would be enough to provide a hundred days of employment a year at minimum wages (calculated at a weighted average across different states) for 25 million people. That's five million more than the population of Australia. That is the scale of the horror of neo-liberalism. The Bechtel story gets worse. In what can only be called unconscionable, Naomi Klein writes that Bechtel has successfully sued war-torn Iraq for 'war reparations' and 'lost profits'. It has been awarded 7 million dollars. So, all you young management graduates don't bother with Harvard and Wharton - here's the Lazy Manager's Guide to Corporate Success: First, stock your Board with senior government servants. Next, stock the government with members of your board. Add oil and stir. When no one can tell where the government ends and your company begins, collude with your government to equip and arm a cold-blooded dictator in an oil-rich country. Look away while he kills his own people. Simmer gently. Use the time collect to collect a few billion dollars in government contracts. Then collude with your government once again while it topples the dictator and bombs his subjects, taking to specifically target essential infrastructure, killing a hundred thousand people on the side. Pick up another billion dollars or so worth of contracts to 'reconstruct' the infrastructure. To cover travel and incidentals, sue for reparations for lost profits from the devastated country. Finally, diversify. Buy a TV station, so that next war around you can showcase your hardware and weapons technology masquerading as coverage of the war. And finally finally, institute a Human Rights Prize in your company's name. You could give the first one posthumously to Mother Teresa. She won't be able to turn it down or argue back.

Invaded and occupied Iraq has been made to pay out 200 million dollars in "reparations" for lost profits to corporations like Halliburton, Shell, Mobil, Nestle, Pepsi, Kentucky Fried Chicken and Toys R Us. That's apart from its 125 billion dollar sovereign debt forcing it to turn to the IMF, waiting in the wings like the angel of death, with its Structural Adjustment program. (Though in Iraq there don't seem to be many structures left to adjust. Except the shadowy Al Qaeda.) In New Iraq, privatization has broken new ground. The US Army is increasingly recruiting private mercenaries to help in the occupation. The advantage with mercenaries is that when they're killed they're not included in the US soldiers' body count. It helps to manage public opinion, which is particularly important in an election year. Prisons have been privatized. Torture has been privatized. We have seen what that leads to. Other attractions in New Iraq include newspapers being shut down. Television stations bombed. Reporters killed. US soldiers have opened fire on crowds of unarmed protestors killing scores of people. The only kind of resistance that has managed to survive is as crazed and brutal as the occupation itself. Is there space for a secular, democratic, feminist, non-violent resistance in Iraq? There isn't really. That is why it falls to those of us living outside Iraq to create that mass-based, secular and non-violent resistance to the US occupation. If we fail to do that, then we run the risk of allowing the idea of resistance to be hi-jacked and conflated with terrorism and that will be a pity because they are not the same thing.

So what does peace mean in this savage, corporatized, militarized World? What does it mean in a World where an entrenched system of appropriation has created a situation in which poor countries which have been plundered by colonizing regimes for centuries are steeped in debt to the very same countries that plundered them, and have to repay that debt at the rate of 382 billion dollars a year? What does peace mean in a World in which the combined wealth of the World's 587 billionaires exceeds the combined gross domestic product of the World's 135 poorest countries? Or when rich countries that pay farm subsidies of a billion dollars a day, try and force poor countries to drop their subsidies? What does peace mean to people in occupied Iraq, Palestine, Kashmir, Tibet and Chechnya? Or to the aboriginal people of Australia? Or the Ogoni in Nigeria? Or the Kurds in Turkey? Or the Dalits and Adivasis of India? What does peace mean to non-muslims in Islamic countries, or to women in Iran, Saudi Arabia and Afghanistan? What does it mean to the millions who are being uprooted from their lands by dams and development projects? What does peace mean to the poor who are being actively robbed of their resources and for whom everyday life is a grim battle for water, shelter, survival and, above all, some semblance of dignity? For them, peace is war. We know very well who benefits from war in the age of Empire. But we must also ask ourselves honestly who benefits from peace in the age of Empire? War mongering is criminal. But talking of peace without talking of justice could easily become advocacy for a kind of capitulation. And talking of justice without unmasking the institutions and the systems that perpetrate injustice, is beyond hypocritical. It's easy to blame the poor for being poor. It's easy to believe that the World is being caught up in an escalating spiral of terrorism and war. That's what allows the American President to say "You're either with us or with the terrorists." But we know that that's a spurious choice. We know that terrorism is only the privatization of war. That terrorists are the free marketers of war. They believe that the legitimate use of violence is not the sole prerogative of the State.

It is mendacious to make moral distinction between the unspeakable brutality of terrorism and the indiscriminate carnage of war and occupation. Both kinds of violence are unacceptable. We cannot support one and condemn the other. The real tragedy is that most people in the World are trapped between the horror of a putative peace and the terror of war. Those are the two sheer cliffs we're hemmed in by. The question is: How do we climb out of this crevasse? For those who are materially well-off, but morally uncomfortable, the first question you must ask yourself is do you really want to climb out of it? How far are you prepared to go? Has the crevasse become too comfortable? If you really want to climb out, there's good news and bad news. The good news is that the advance party began the climb some time ago. They're already half way up. Thousands of activists across the World have been hard at work preparing footholds and securing the ropes to make it easier for the rest of us. There isn't only one path up. There are hundreds of ways of doing it. There are hundreds of battles being fought around the World that need your skills, your minds, your resources. No battle is irrelevant. No victory is too small. The bad news is that colorful demonstrations, weekend marches and annual trips to the World Social Forum are not enough. There have to be targeted acts of real civil disobedience with real consequences. Maybe we can't flip a switch and conjure up a revolution. But there are several things we could do. For example, you could make a list of those corporations who have profited from the invasion of Iraq and have offices here in Australia. You could name them, boycott them, occupy their offices and force them out of business. If it can happen in Bolivia, it can happen in India. It can happen in Australia. Why not? That's only a small suggestion. But remember that if the struggle were to resort to violence, it will lose vision, beauty and imagination. Most dangerous of all, it will marginalize and eventually victimize women. And a political struggle that does not have women at the heart of it, above it, below it, and within it is no struggle at all. The point is that the battle must be joined. As the wonderful American historian Howard Zinn put it: You Can't Be Neutral on a Moving Train.

Einstein, Jefferson, Lincoln, Jackson, Wilson & Iraqi assets sold off to the powers of Globalization

Iraq is the main front in the war for 'Globalization'! The agenda being forced upon Iraq is nothing new. 'Privatization' and 'liberalization of capital' have been buzzwords since the time of Reagan, although if you want to dig a little deeper you would have to go back to a previous Republican Administration, that of Nixon, and if you want to dig deeper still, you would have to go further back to another Republican Administration, that of Lincoln.

President Abraham Lincoln: "I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country.... Corporations have been enthroned, an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money-power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until the wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the Republic is destroyed."

Lincoln could have been speaking about our time, in that currently the money-power is working to prejudice the people against 'Muslim Terrorists' since this is apparently the ancient modus operandi. If it worked in Lincoln's time, it will still work today, and the end result is not only the looting of Iraqi oil, but the enormous transfer of wealth to the top that has been taking place since the time of Reagan, and which continues today. Following the process to its conclusion, the result is not just the destruction of the Iraqi nation, but the destruction of the American republic as well. The battle is never ending, and it has been fought daily since the birth of the nation. Listen to other past US presidents and Albert Einstein:

President Thomas Jefferson: "I hope that we shall crush in its birth the aristocracy of our monied corporations, which dare already to challenge our government to a trial of strength, and bid defiance to the laws of our country." The decades after Lincoln became known as the age of the Great Robber Barons of America. A similar situation exists today, except the development of technology has created a new phenomena, that of the Great Global Robber Barons. The monopolies that existed in the past are dwarfed by the huge monopolies that exist today in the age of 'Globalization'.

President Andrew Jackson: "The rich and the powerful too often bend the acts of government to their selfish purposes." (Remember what Kissinger said in the 70s, i.e. illegal we can do immediately, unconstitutional will take time to do)

President Woodrow Wilson: "If there are men in this country big enough to own the government of the United States, they are going to do it ... There was a time when corporations played a minor role in our business affairs. But now they play the chief part, and most men are servants of corporations ... The masters of the Government of the United States are the combined capitalists and manufacturers of the United States."

President Theodore Roosevelt: "There can be no effective control of corporations while their political activity remains."

Albert Einstein noted: "Private capital tends to become concentrated in few hands ... the result of these developments is an oligarchy of private capital the enormous power of which cannot be effectively checked even by a democratically organized political society. This is true since the members of legislative bodies are selected by political parties, largely financed or otherwise influenced by private capitalists ... Unemployed and poorly paid workers do not make a profitable market... The profit motive, in conjunction with competition among capitalists, is responsible for instability in the accumulation and utilization of capital which leads to increasingly severe depressions ... This crippling of individuals I consider the worst evil of capitalism." As Einstein noted above, the competition among capitalists to accumulate wealth at the top eventually destabilizes and then capsizes the entire economy causing those notorious Great Depressions (which happened over and over during the 1800s). This occurs because by firings and layoffs and low wages and sweat shops, the base of the market is eventually eroded, and thus a great collapse takes place. Einstein was on an FBI watch list established by J. Edgar Hoover and there was a movement to have him declared an 'enemy alien' during the age of the Witch Hunts under McCarthyism. However throughout American history, there were other loony leftists, "class warfare proponents", and socialist freaks who were saying similar things.

Rutherford B. Hayes "Abolish plutocracy if you would abolish poverty."

Henry Ford: "Do you want to know the cause of war? It is capitalism, greed, the dirty hunger for dollars. Take away the capitalist and you will sweep war from the earth."

Marine Corps Commandant Smedley Butler: "I spent thirty- three years and four months in active military service as a member of this country's most agile military force, the Marine Corps. I served in all commissioned ranks from Second Lieutenant to Major-General. And during that period, I spent most of my time being a high class muscle- man for Big Business, for Wall Street and for the Bankers. In short, I was a racketeer, a gangster for capitalism. I could have given Al Capone a few hints. The best he could do was to operate his racket in three districts. I operated on three continents."

The end result of this process of 'Globalization' is the destruction of democracy (which is now controlled or purchased by the Neo Barons/Feudal Lords). Unrestrained capitalism leads to monopoly capitalism = fascism = communism = imperialism. According to the President's recent speech at the United Nations, Iraq is the main front in the 'war against terrorism.' History repeats itself: the British fought a protracted Vietnam style conflict against 'terrorism in Iraq' earlier in the century. Now that the unelected 'government of Iraq' is auctioning off the country and generously 'liberalizing capital outflows' it has occurred to me that Iraq is now the main front in the war for corporate 'Globalization'. This week, at the meeting of the IMF and World Bank at Dubai, Iraq's unelected 'government' floated the idea of privatizing Iraq's oil industry. Prior to this they had already decided, as tyrants do decide, to sell off the entire country, while making an exception for the oil industry, not because they are fond of socialized oil, but because they are sensitive to American corporate concerns, which are also American government concerns. While the wholesale 'privatization' of Iraq must go forward, for the sake of appearances an exception must be made for the only thing in Iraq actually worth selling these days, the oil industry, so that it won't appear that American's invaded Iraq to seize oil. Now that American's are concerned about oil is obvious, since the first thing U.S. troops did during 'Operation Iraqi Freedom' was send troops to 'secure' the oil fields. This week a special rapid response Oil Pipeline protection force was established, and will be charged with protecting the oil industry infrastructure from suffering any more of that sabotage.

What is currently taking place in Iraq is no different from what has been taking place in other countries around the World, with one exception. Around the World the process of privatization and the auctioning off of the planet to place its into the hands of monopolists is taking place behind a veneer of democracy, a democracy which in fact no longer exists. No country on earth can disobey the dictates of liberalized international capital, or they will find their nation crushed, the people in revolt, and so governments always obey the orders which are fed to them through the mouth pieces of international capitalists. Even when these policies are ruinously harmful to the population at large, governments ram them through, usually using the fable that it is 'tough medicine' that is required. Tough medicine is never administered to powerful monied interests, who then proceed to ransack and loot the entire planet (notice the wide spread looting of the American treasury taking place via the privately owned Federal Reserve Banks, for which ordinary Americans will be paying to the tune of trillions in debt for a long time, and for which ordinary Americans will surrender Medicaid and Social Security and natal care for poverty stricken babies and Welfare and just about any other program that does not benefit rich tycoons, and all so that they can transfer trillions of dollars of wealth to rich tycoons. The pattern is clear and it is simple to see whose interests are served by the 'cut taxes' policy which is also part of the 'globalization' recipe.) In most nations the harmful policies of 'globalization' are rammed through by governments who at least maintain the veneer of democracy (although in such places as Brazil or Argentina the veneer is wearing pretty thin...this process of becoming aware that democracy does not exist takes some time, but after electing one government after another and getting that same 'globalization' rammed down their throats no matter who gets in, people suddenly awaken and understand that the end result of globalization is the destruction of their Republics, as Lincoln so astutely prophesied would be the case. This process is brought into sharp relief when one considers the contemporary example of Brazil, where the restless population, being hurt and harmed for years by 'globalization' has just elected a 'Communist/Socialist/Labor/Leftist coalition government, which is proceeding to continue to implement the policies of globalization and liberalization, which is remarkable, for a bunch of 'commies'.)

The example of Brazil, a supposed technical 'democracy' and the example of Iraq, a tyranny, when considered together demonstrate clearly that democracy no longer exists, and the planet is currently sliding into a new age of tyrannical dictatorship, covered with the veil of non-functioning democracy, until after one to many elections that doesn't work any more (a process now in its advanced stages in South America, as one example). The one must presume that we will enter into the age of absolute tyranny, which would be the same as it is today, except without the embarrassing need to have 'democracy' which in the end only reveals how tyrannical the planet has become under the regime of 'globalization'. This tendency towards naked tyranny is evident both in the naked tyrannical method of imposing 'globalization' on Iraq, and in the constant pushing to destroy liberty in the United States (where the Americans are now being faced with such pleasantries as 'secret arrest' and other bits and pieces of the forming totalitarian despotism, which is the future of the planet under 'globalization', since that democracy scam is already coming apart at the seams in poorer countries all over the World. Inspiring bigotry and prejudice will continue to be the favored method to force through dictatorship, as Americans 'fight Muslim terrorists' and surrender their freedoms while doing so, when actually what is happening is that they are looting Iraq, in a very naked fashion, and indeed the World is being looted for a select few, the monopolists and tycoons who are proceeding on plan, and destroying both the economy and the republics of the World while they are enriching themselves.

This is referred to as 'globalization' and that bag of tricks is a mix of policies that hurts everyone and benefits only tycoons and monopolists, and perhaps those politicians who become chummy with them, and thus get an invite to go in and out through the famous revolving door which has been conveniently installed between the tycoon's office and the government's office. In Brazil, as one example, the country is being sold down the river by castrated elected politicians (including castrated communists). In Iraq, the auctioning of the country is being done by unelected tyrants. The process is exactly the same - hold a fire sale and auction off the country, and then deregulate, to increase profits, and then liberalize, to allow capital to flow out of the country like oil. To paraphrase then, to the Iraqis fighting in the insurgency against American troops, this policy translates as "they will take the oil, then declare that it is sacrosanct private property, and then they will sell all the oil and take all the money.' Its called 'Globalization' and 'privatization' and 'liberalization of capital' and 'deregulation', not to mention 'The Free (Slave) Trade' (which promotes the destruction of jobs and the substitution of sweat shop labor, a policy which once again only serves the interests of capitalists, while working against the interests of ordinary people ... because the interests served by globalization runs directly contrary to the interests of most people on the planet. As Lincoln correctly described the process it is required to keep playing on the bigotry and prejudice of the population until finally all Iraq's oil and wealth is concentrated in just a few hands and Iraq (and America along with it) is finally completely destroyed at the end of the process).

This makes Iraq the front line in the war against Globalization. Iraq proves to be useful for a number of reasons. First, it is a naked tyranny, stripped of the usual facade of democracy that is disintegrating in any case in places such as Argentina or Brazil as just a couple of noteworthy examples. Second, the agenda of Globalization which is being imposed on Iraq is also stark naked and completely self evident. (Claim the oil as 'private properties, sell the oil, and keep the money: in Orwellian talk this translates as ... privatization, restructuring the economy to encourage investors, deregulating and liberalizing capital flow). The usual crappola lines just won't work to muddle the heads of the people (the bit about 'the strong need for foreign investors to develop Iraq' being the classic piece of shit among so many other brain washing pieces of shit people get told...when you consider how many countries are being 'developed' by all those 'outside investors' running high pollution, low health quality, buck and hour sweat shops' and you get a pretty good idea of how much dedication there really is for 'development'...)

Now other democracies have already been completely corrupted and destroyed, so they can vote and then all those wonderful 'restructuring policies' of 'Globalization' can be rammed through (even if it takes a bunch of communists and socialists to ram those policies through, like in Brazil, right now). Iraq cannot have a democracy however, due to the fact that they never had one before, and thus the place has not yet had the time to become completely rotted out and corrupted. Thus it would be quite likely that democracy would actually work in Iraq, and given the wide spread devastation of their country (an estimated trillion dollar price tag to fix the place after twelve years of bombings, war, and sanctions) you can understand how the Iraqi people might vote to just keep that oil socialized and not give it to tycoons. Rather than give their oil to tycoons, they would rather fight another one of those long protracted Vietnam insurrections, and since there is no way that tycoons are going to walk, in particular when it involves walking away from such super cheap to pump and refine oil such as that in Iraq, for that reason the Americans will be fed their daily bullshit diet of bigotry and prejudice, not to mention all that bullshit Orwellian 'globalization' talk, as a long, long protracted Nuremburg War Crime is committed on Iraqis, simply because democracy might actually work in Iraq, since they haven't had time to make sure it won't work, just like it doesn't work in Argentina, Brazil, or America for that matter, or any other country in the World.

There is much more that could be said here - in particular about 'People Power' and 'internationalism'. The old days of the sovereign nation state are over, and globalization is here to stay in one form or another. The strategy of divide and conquer has been so successful that even communist coalitions such as that in Brazil obediently force their citizens to forfeit what is good for them to benefit the monopolists. As well, as Einstein pointed out, politics has been so corrupted by corporations that all that remains is Internationalism and people power. Those who are looking backwards and dreaming about 'restoring our national sovereignty' and who believe in 'writing our congressman' or 'lobbying my MP' are looking in the wrong places for answers. People power has been tried before, in such places as the Philippines, where it was hijacked and went nowhere, and people power in Argentina or people power in Brazil will similarly be either hijacked, by people who want to get in the lead of that movement to make sure it don't go nowhere, or it will be crushed (divide and conquer). People power is a lot more challenging than simply finding some less involved way to run the planet (by lobbying politicians) but if there is going to be a way out of the morass, and if human culture is to avoid a disaster and survive, it is required that the principles advocated by Anarchists for years be brought to the fore...

If there are those who still believe that there is a political solution to be found to this current mess, then my advice would be as follows. If you are in the process of choosing a Democrat to run against Bush, my advice would be to ignore the policies of that Democrat. You see behind the scenes World Com and Tyco and Enron will make all the policies, whether you vote Democrat or Republican, and globalization will proceed under either a Democrat or a Republican, so why bother concerning yourself with policies. What you want when choosing a Democrat is to look for smoothness and a slick performance. You want someone who can talk the Orwellian double talk of Globalization and make it saleable and who is slick and smooth enough to not be as nakedly gross and ham-handed as the Bush Administration, thus exposing to the World the full obscenity of American culture. All the policies for Iraq, privatization, liberalization, and so on, will go through, Democrat or Republican, and what you want is some swanky Democrat who can hide the obscenity of it all by talking that Orwellian Globalization talk in a real slick smooth way. Then people can say, 'Well finally, at long last. Well that's a lot better than that crudely naked methodology of that Bush administration.' So a good speech for a Democrat, that includes all the Orwellian double talk would be as follows: Now first, we should begin with the raw naked truth, which is what you get from the Bush administration. "We are going to steal their oil, claim it as our private property, and then sell that oil and take all the money and put it in the Chase Manhattan bank in New York." Now the smooth, slicked down Democrat speech. "For Iraq to thrive, they need policies that will encourage outside investors to invest in the infrastructure and industry of Iraq, bringing on a new day of prosperity. By adopting policies that will encourage investment and growth, the industries of Iraq will be rehabilitated and the future of the Iraqi economy will be ensured. Iraqis must adopt policies that will integrate them into the global community and help their economy to make the transition to becoming a full partner in the global economy. Previous policies that discouraged investment and growth must be abandoned, and onerous regulations that discourage capital growth must be abandoned if the Iraqi economy is to revive. The forces of terror and violence in Iraq must not be allowed to prevent the revival of the economy, and so threaten the future of the Iraqi people. Blind Muslim fanaticism must not cower us. We must remain firm in our commitment to the revival of a healthy prosperity in Iraq, free of the ravages of religious extremism and fundamentalist violence. We will maintain our commitment to the people of Iraq, until the day comes when peace and order are established and the people of Iraq are ready to assume their place among the nations of the World, as a free and democratic people."

Certainly, that should satisfy great hordes of Democratic voters. Look for someone who can talk the Orwellian talk while walking the globalization walk (walk the double-talk instead of walk-the-talk!). The alternative is to give up on 'nationalism' and turn to International People Power. The agenda of 'globalization' benefits only a handful of rich tycoons, while hurting everyone else, and that agenda is also coming home to Americans (slashing services, slashing taxes, liberalizing capital outflows, privatization of services which jacks up the prices while leaving the infrastructure in woeful condition, job destruction and downward pressure on wages in concert with upward growth in profits, and on and on and on it goes...)

How Globalization works: the example of Brazil (we also have the example of Argentina where many of its oil and energy assets were sold off to Enron under Bush's urging). After having their radical program crushed by international capital, Brazil's Communist\Socialist\Labor\Leftist government is back to imposing the policies of globalization on Brazil. Their radical program was to supply snack foods to malnourished babies and introduce a one dollar a day welfare program, but before they were even voted into office, they were called onto the carpet in New York and Washington.

What happened is that as it became obvious that Brazil's restless and impoverished population was going to vote in the commie coalition, reports began to appear in the Western Press that stated such things as 'investors become nervous over Brazil's tilt to the left.' Now this is code word talk, and a little birdy flew down to Brazil to translate the message into Portuguese, and the translation was, 'We are going to brutally crush Brazil. Using the instruments at our disposal, including liberalized capital, we are going to crush and destroy the economy of Brazil, and then leave all you commies with a revolt on your hands, while you are helpless to do anything to stop it, and the entire left movement gets blackballed for ruining the Brazilian economy. Yes, we here on Wall Street and in Washington are getting quite 'nervous'.

Well, the Brazilian commies got the translated version of that message loud and clear, and thus they flew up to Washington and New York, where they got hauled onto the carpet, and disavowed of any notion to bring in social programs. The agenda of Globalization demands the destruction of all social programs and the drastic elimination of governments so that the World can be ruled underhindered by corporations and tycoons. Even the Americans will soon enough be giving up their social security and Medicare and other programs. As Bush quipped the morning of 9-11, 'Lucky me, I hit the trifecta,' which meant that he was going to be able to get 'lucky' and slash medicare and social security while jacking the Pentagon budget sky high. Well, now with Americans going trillions in the hole to give tax cuts to the rich friends of George Bush, they won't be able to afford programs, and there is no way Brazil is going to swim against the current and start putting in social programs, either. Brazil will also be giving huge tax cuts to rich people, just like Americans and every other country will do, and they will NOT be raising taxes on rich to fund a malnourished baby snack a day program. In America, it was called 'tax relief' during the election campaign, and then when the surplus vanished and the economy tanked, it was change to 'job creation.' Those Brazilians can feel free to indulge in whatever kind of Orwellian double talk they want, just as long the Globalization policy of cutting taxes for tycoons remains firmly in place.

Well, the commies of Brazil flew up to New York and Washington, where they got raked over the coals, and, chastised, they went back to Brazil to forget the whole 'revolutionary plan' for that malnourished baby snack food program and that dollar a day welfare program they had campaigned on. The Bush administration then gave warm congratulations to the communists for winning Brazil's elections, and Wall Street rallied, once they realized that even communists and socialist were utterly helpless before their power (thus cheering everyone up, and leading to that rare little Wall street rally that always follows a 'communist victory').

As for Brazil's commies, well they were trapped between a rock hard tycoon and the anger of those millions of impoverished Brazilians who were hoping to get a better standard of life by making it up to the dollar a day level and having their malnourished babies get at least one snack a day. Well, when in a difficult spot like that, the commies did the only thing they could do, and they hired a bunch of Brazilian celebrities, and then took out Television advertising. The theme was, 'this is little Joe. For less than a copy up coffee per day, you can see that little Joe gets a nutritious snack.' From what I heard that idea wasn't working worth a damn, since the people with all the money didn't want to get taxed to give little Joe a snack, and they aren't any more enthused about being taxed 'voluntarily' by donating some money to that snack food appeal fund. As for the growing rage among Brazil's population, now that the charade is exposed, and they understand that democracy does not exist, and the globalization agenda is just the tyrannical rule of tycoons, well the situation is getting ripe for something, like a ripe fat plum, like the grapes of wrath hanging heavily on the vine, waiting for harvest...

Multinationals are leading a "second invasion" of corporate interests seeking to seize control of Iraq's oil, water and other resources that belong to the Iraqi people. It's time to stop the war profiteers and corporate looters of Iraq.

Join the Campaign to STOP THE WAR PROFITEERS: Iraqi economist Basil Al Nakeeb discusses privatization in Iraq under the US plan. Focusing on the cell phone tender offered in September, his analysis reflects the entire scope of the privatization of the Iraqi economy for foreign investors. PrivatizingIraq.mp3 (8192 k)

More on Why Iraq was invaded? Money, Money, Money for the Illuminati and Zionists!

In addition to paving the way for the future expansion of the Masonic State of Israel, the Banksters/BankLords are also advancing their New World Order Tyranny agenda. First, let's have a look at the FRN (Federal Reserve Note) Dollar implications of Saddam's shift to the Euro for oil trading from <http://65.40.245.240/money/oilmoney.htm>.

Copyright 2003, The Halifax Herald Limited

Many third World countries and other countries propagandize to their citizens that they are holding large reserves of Federal Reserve Notes (FRN) also known as the US Dollars. The fact is that this only benefits the BankLords and does not benefit the citizens of these other countries. The FRNs represent an I OWE U by the Federal Reserve System Banks. When a country holds FRNs, it is actually losing purchasing power as the value of what goods and services one can acquire is constantly decreasing. Thus the citizens of that country actually gave something to the BankLords but never got anything in return as the FRNs will be waiting to be spent forever, and now with the large increase in oil prices, there are more FRN dollars floating and waiting to be spent forever. Richard Douthwaite explains further how Bush is working for Big Oil and the BankLords. He can't let the Euro replace the dollar for oil deals which was SADDAM'S UNFORGIVABLE SIN. Iraq has been accused of many crimes, but topping the list is the unforgivable sin of trading oil for Euros instead of American Dollars.

The dollar is the World reserve currency. This gives a huge subsidy to the US economy because if a country wants to hold lots of dollars in reserve they must supply the US with goods and services in return for those dollars. In return the US creates a bit more credit. The more dollars there are circulating outside the US, the more goods and services the US has imported virtually for free. This is how the US manages to run a huge trade deficit year after year without apparently any major economic consequences. No other country can run such a large trade deficit with impunity. It is in effect getting a massive interest-free loan from the rest of the World which it will never have to repay and which keeps growing. One of Europe's primary objectives, if not the primary objective, of setting up the Euro was to try and get some of this free lunch for Europe. If the Euro became a major reserve currency, or better still replaced the dollar as the major reserve currency, then Europe too could get something for nothing. This would be a disaster for the US. Not only would they lose their subsidy, which has been increasing in size and in importance to American economic well being as the years have gone by, but countries switching to Euro reserves would start spending their dollars in the US. In other words the US would have to start paying its debts to other countries. As countries converted their dollar assets into Euro assets the US property and stock market bubbles would, without doubt, burst. The Federal Reserve would no longer be able to print more money to reflate the bubble as it is currently openly considering doing. There is, however, one major obstacle to this happening: OIL! Oil is of course by far the most important commodity traded internationally, and if you want to buy oil on the international markets you usually have to have dollars.

Until recently all OPEC countries agreed to sell their oil for dollars only. This meant that oil importing countries, like Japan, needed to hold dollar reserves in order to be able to buy oil. So long as this remained the case, the Euro was unlikely to become the major reserve currency. There is not a lot of point to stockpiling Euros if every time you need to buy oil you have to change them into dollars. But in November 2000 Iraq switched to the Euro, with potentially perilous consequences for the US. Only one country has the right to print dollars: the US! If OPEC were to decide to accept euros only for its oil, then American economic dominance would be over. Not only would Europe not need dollars anymore, but Japan which imports over 80% of its oil from the Middle East would have to convert most of its dollar assets to Euro assets (Japan is of course the major subsidizer of the US). The US on the other hand, being the World's largest oil importer would have to acquire Euro reserves, i.e. it would have to run a trade surplus. The conversion from trade deficit to trade surplus would have to be done at a time when its property and stock market prices were collapsing and its own oil supplies were contracting. It would be a very painful conversion; potentially disastrous. The purely economic argument for OPEC converting to the Euro, at least for a while, seems very strong. The Eurozone does not run a huge trade deficit like the US, nor is it heavily indebted to the rest of the World like the US. Nearly everything you can buy for dollars you can also buy for Euros. Furthermore, if OPEC were to convert their dollar assets to Euro assets and then require payment for oil in euros, their assets would immediately increase in value. Also, since oil importing countries would be forced to convert their reserves into euros, whose price would therefore be driven up. OPEC could then at some later date back some other currency, maybe the dollar again, and again make huge profits. This would offer a virtually inexhaustible source of profit for OPEC. But of course it would not be a purely economic decision. The Eurozone countries do not threaten Middle Eastern countries militarily as the US does.

One article, written at the time the decision was made, claimed it made no financial sense and would cost Iraq millions. According to this "expert" the decision to convert was made by people who "are not experts, they are not central bankers, they are not even oil men". At the time the article was written, the Euro was worth 82 US cents. It is now worth about $1.05. So on economic grounds alone, the Iraqi decision has been a huge success (the $10 billion Iraqi fund at the UN, mentioned in the article, has apparently also since been converted). There may however be military consequences to it. The economic threat to the US may be influencing it in its belligerent stance towards Iraq. One other OPEC country has been talking publicly about possible conversion since 1999: Iran. And of course it has since been included in the "axis of evil". Everybody pretty much knew that sanctions and containment were working. Many companies around the World were preparing to do business with Iraq in anticipation of a lifting of sanctions. But the U.S. and the U.K. had been bombing northern and southern Iraq since 1991. So it was very unlikely that they would be in any kind of position to gain significant contracts in any post-sanctions Iraq. And those sanctions were going to be lifted soon, Saddam would still be in place, and they would get no financial benefit.

The illegal invasion of Iraq was about the oil, but not for the oil. We didn't go in to grab the oil. Just the opposite. We went in to control Iraq's oil and make sure we didn't get it. Note that the price of oil went from $15 to $75 quintupling the $ purchase requirements, i.e. from over $600 million daily to over $3 billion daily. To get the whole picture, you need to go back to 1920, when the major oil companies sat in a hotel room in Brussels and drew a red line around Iraq and said, "There'll be no oil coming out of that nation." Why? If they don't suppress oil coming out of Iraq, the price of oil will collapse, and OPEC and Saudi Arabia will collapse. Saddam was a serious thorn in their side because he refused to play ball. There is a 323-page plan, written by Big Oil, which is the secret but official plan of the United States for Iraq's oil. It was written out of the James Baker Institute in coordination with a secret committee of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). It's all about a plan to control Iraq's oil and make sure that Iraq has a system which "enhances its relationship with OPEC." In other words, the whole idea is to maintain the power of the US$ as a World currency that is printed because OPEC demands US$ for its oil which it promptly recycles back to the Federal Reserve thus allowing the US military-industrial feudal complex to get something for nothing. And this is one of the reasons "we" absolutely hate Hugo Chavez — and why Venezuela could well end up being the next nation (after Iran) on the Neocon's list to be accused of possessing hidden caches of "WMD". As you'll see in the recent issue of Harper's, Chavez has asked OPEC to officially recognize that he has more oil than Saudi Arabia. This is a geopolitical earthquake. And the inside documents from the U.S. Department of Energy, which is also in Harper's, say, yes, Chavez has got more oil than Saudi Arabia.

We're paying $3 a gallon. ExxonMobil is collecting $3 a gallon. When Bush came into power, oil cost $18 a barrel. Bush has successfully built up the price of oil from $18 a barrel to over $70. That's the "mission accomplished" he announced. He didn't make a mistake here. That was the "mission accomplished" in Iraq. ExxonMobil, after Enron, is the biggest lifetime donor to the Bush campaigns. The value of its reserves, because of the Bush wars and Bush actions, has gone up by almost $1 trillion in value. Just one company. A trillion-dollar windfall to a single company! Harper's actually got their hands on two different plans for Iraq's oil, a 101-page plan and a 323-page plan, which is all about, in great detail, what we are going do with Iraq's oil. And guess what? The number of Iraqis involved in writing this crucial document is exactly ZERO. So much for bringing "freedom and democracy" to the Iraqis.

It is now generally known what occurred in the secret discussions between the oil companies, Ken Lay and Dick Cheney. The verdict is about to come down. Why was Cheney in the meeting with oil companies, looking over the maps of Iraq? He was on this committee drafting up the program for what to do about Iraq. And for their plan to work, they absolutely had to get rid of Saddam because he was totally destabilizing the oil markets by jerking prices to low levels. Sir, wake up! As numerous administration whistleblowers have revealed, the plan for the invasion of Iraq was on the drawing boards LONG before 9-11. 9-11 was the trigger event to set that plan in motion by rallying the necessary support of the American populace. Do you see all those flag-festooned Hummers and pickups on the streets piloted by seething armchair-Rambo-like lunatics? This could never have happened if the nation didn't suffer another "Pearl Harbor" -- aka Nine-Eleven. The Neocons used 9-11 to terrify the American public, galvanize combative emotions, and win their support for the invasions of two sovereign nations. You know what's a real tragedy? A full one-third of the US population actually believes that Iraq was behind 9-11 and that Bush found the weapons of mass destruction in Iraq. Clearly, a large percentage of us believes Iran has nuclear weapons and that America is in danger of being attacked by Iran. No democracy can work when people take their responsibility as citizen so lightly as to be so totally and utterly ignorant.

In brief, the invasion is to establish the globalist economic colonization (see a section on this later in the book; as for Afghanistan, it's about controlling China, energy pipelines and reviving the multi-billion dollar drug trade which the Taliban had eradicated; see also THE CONNECTION BETWEEN MONEY, ISRAEL AND OIL). By invading Iraq, Bush has taken over the Iraqi oil fields, and persuaded the UN to lift production limits imposed after the Kuwait war. Bush could even attack the Opec oil-pricing cartel. Control over Iraqi oil should improve security of supplies to the US, and possibly the UK, with the development and exploration contracts between Saddam and China, France, India, Indonesia and Russia being set aside in favour of US and possibly British companies. And a US military presence in Iraq is an insurance policy against any opposition in Iran and Saudi Arabia. Overseeing Iraqi oil supplies, and maybe soon supplies from other Gulf countries, would enable the US to use oil as power. In 1990, the then oil man, Dick Cheney, wrote that: "Whoever controls the flow of Persian Gulf oil has a stranglehold not only on our economy but also on the other countries of the World as well." In the 70s, the US agreed with Saudi Arabia that Opec oil should be traded in dollars. American governments have since been able to print dollars to cover huge trading deficits, with the further benefit of those dollars being placed in the US money markets. In return, the US allowed the Opec countries to operate a production and pricing cartel. Over the past 15 years, the overall US deficit with the rest of the World has risen to $3 Trillion - an abuse of its privileged currency position. Although about 80% of foreign exchange and half of World trade is in dollars, the euro provides a realistic alternative. Euro countries also have a bigger share of World trade, and of trade with Opec countries, than the US. In 1999, Iran mooted pricing its oil in euros, and in late 2000 Saddam made the switch for Iraqi oil. In early 2002 Bush placed Iran and Iraq in the axis of evil. If the other Opec countries had followed Saddam's move to euros, the consequences for Bush could have been huge. Worldwide switches out of the dollar, on top of the already huge deficit, would have led to a plummeting dollar, a runaway from US markets and dramatic upheavals in the US.

Saddam made the switch from Dollar to Euro long before 9-11, in November 2000. The oil sales permitted in the oil for food program aren't very much. But when the sanctions would be lifted, the sales from the country with the second largest oil reserves on the planet would have been moving to the euro. The U.S. dollar is in a sensitive period because the US is a debtor nation. If oil, a very solid commodity, is traded on the euro, that could cause massive, almost glacial, shifts in confidence in trading on the dollar. So one of the first executive orders that Bush signed in May [2003] switched trading on Iraq's oil back to the dollar. That's in addition to buying out Iraqi companies at a penny on the dollar and taking over Iraq's Central Bank! Another reason has to do with US military-basing posture in the region. US Banksters had been very dissatisfied with US relations with Saudi Arabia, particularly the restrictions on US basing. And also there was dissatisfaction from the people of Saudi Arabia. So the Banksters were looking for alternate strategic locations beyond Kuwait, beyond Qatar, to secure something they had been searching for since the days of Carter — to secure the energy lines of communication in the region. Iraqis were not about to invite the US in and create its 800th base in the World (yes there are close to 800 known US bases around the World to ensure that the Banksters-BankLords get what they want).

The objectives of Bush, the new Hitler, are many. In the first place, to take over the gas tank of World capitalism, which is none other than the Persian Gulf. Bush knows full well that the oil produced by his country, the motor driving the production of the World economy, will inevitably be exhausted within 10 years. In 40 years there will be no more oil left on the planet. It's a race against time. According to the Statistical Review, the discovery of new energy reserves is falling off alarmingly. These have grown by only 5% in the last decade, compared to 45% in the decade before. Sixty-five per cent of the reserves are located in the Middle East. The US consumes 20 million barrels a day, compared to the 77 million produced each day throughout the World, of which only 10 million is produced by the North-Americans who therefore depend on the rest of the World so they can go on being an imperial power. The purpose of attacking Iraq, the World's second largest reserve of petroleum, is to control these deposits, control its price and control its production. It's nothing to do with hidden weapons or anything else. As Galeano says, if Iraq produced radishes instead of oil, who would even consider invading the country?

Bush's second game plan is to discipline his ally Saudi Arabia, the World's number one oil producer and largest energy reserve. The third aim, as revealed by the undersecretary of state, John Bolton, last February, is to invade Iran and Syria. And, if winds are favourable, why not include Libya and Sudan in the Holy of Holies? The fourth step is to destroy OPEC and control the World's fossil fuels. If it doesn't expropriate these and find alternatives in time, North-American capitalism will be forced to change its model of national consumption, and with it perhaps lose the fulcrum of its global hegemony. The fifth aim is the succulent bandwagon business of reconstructing Iraq, onto which are leaping many of the 500, mainly US, multinationals dominating the World. No less important is the sixth objective, which lives off the teachings of Lord Keynes; using the war industry to pull the US economy out of the deep zero-growth recession which it is in. Let's not forget that winning a war is not about imposing one's military supremacy over an adversary, but being able to reap the financial returns thereof, the reason why it was unleashed in the first place. I cannot help bringing up one last aim, which is perhaps the most important one of all in this war: imposing the supremacy of the dollar over the euro, which has recently been giving the dollar a thrashing on unexpected fronts, and threatened the privileged position of the US in the crude oil market. The dollar has been falling in relation to the euro, some 17%, figures that would have been hard to believe when the single European currency was set up. Part of this fall is due to the Iraqi decision to transfer 10 billion dollars of its reserves to the common European currency. Russia is also operating in petroeuros, and Iran and several other OPEC countries are considering whether to abandon the dollar and adopt the euro. Should this happen, the economists believe that the dollar will go through an unwanted depreciation, US share prices will plunge, and will generally bring the clay-footed giant to the brink of a financial collapse similar to the one it went through in the 'thirties.

The root cause of this invasion lies in the need to create a new redistribution of the planet's wealth after the failure of the triad accords (US, Europe and Japan) at the Paris OECD meeting in 1998, and the 1999 WTO meeting in Washington. No agreement was reached on how to share out a World market besieged by a diminished percentage of the Gross World Product, of which only 50% was in the hands of the triad and its multinationals at the end of the century. The inability of neoliberalism to maintain a maximum rate of exploitation of dependent nations, the fatigue and decadence of unipolar hegemony and the not-too-distant possibility of a World crisis which would transform today's arrogant domination into a tyranny in tatters, are the roots of this act of international piracy.

That's the war plan. The same reasons for economic dominance that threw Hitler in the arms of Mars, with a cry of "occupy, administer, exploit". Here's a poem to summarize: Bomb Iraq!

If you cannot find Osama, bomb Iraq. If the markets are a drama, bomb Iraq. If the terrorists are frisky, Allies are looking shifty, North Korea is too risky, Bomb Iraq. If we have no allies with us, bomb Iraq. If we think someone has dissed us, bomb Iraq. So to hell with the inspections, Lets look tough for the elections, Close your mind and take directions, Bomb Iraq. Its "pre-emptive non-aggression", bomb Iraq. Let's prevent this mass destruction, bomb Iraq. They've got weapons we can't see, And that's good enough for me 'Cos it's all the proof I need, Bomb Iraq. If you never were elected, bomb Iraq. If your mood is quite dejected, bomb Iraq. If you think Saddam's gone mad, With the weapons that he had, Bomb Iraq. If your corporate fraud is growin', bomb Iraq. If your ties to it are showin', bomb Iraq. If your politics are sleazy, And hiding that ain't easy, And your manhood's getting queasy, Bomb Iraq. Fall in line and follow orders, bomb Iraq. For our might knows not our borders, bomb Iraq. Disagree? We'll call it treason, let's make war not love this season, Even if we have no reason, Bomb Iraq.

Now, a poem in preparation for the next section on the New World Order:

Fellow travelers of the night, Walk by the darkness of their light. They speak with symbols and numbers rare, Are told by their elders that the truth is there. Through movies, televisions and books at hand, They inquire of Dark Secrets, unknown to man. If you see it on the screen they say, It was already done before yesterday. Then you should know that reality true, Is always far ahead of you. So open your eyes, and learn to see, Lest trouble come, and you cease to be. If you learn to connect the dots, You can unite the worst of knots. For it is a game the darkness plays, To fool the masses in many ways. To think, to learn, to listen true, Will gain you wisdom to live this through. So watch and learn, and don't be blind, Lest you fall in a ditch with no help behind.....

Economic Predators or Hit-Men on Behalf of Feudal Corporate Elite

<http://www.democracynow.org/article.pl?sid=06/02/15/1436221&mode=thread&tid=25> February 15th,
Economic Hit Man John Perkins: "We Have Created the World's First Truly Global Empire", 2006

For All...Important read....It explains the facts behind the US and other Governments being controlled by the international corporate barons and why no changes ever come about, even when the Party in power changes...There is a common thread that is woven into the fabric of the governments so tightly that no changes in the bureaucratic structure can penetrate its weave! It has one goal...One World fascist government under the aegis of the Feudal Elites behind the Military-Industrial-Congressional Complex as President Eisenhower had warned everyone on public television in 1961. The interview reveals the proverbial offer politicians cannot refuse and if they refuse, they will be terminated by the CIA, etc...if you've seen George Clooney's movie Syriana, and Hotel Rwanda and Good night and Good luck, you'll get the picture John Perkins is describing, hear it from the horse's mouth! John Perkins, author of "Confessions of an Economic Hit Man," reveals about his former work going into various countries to try to threaten leaders into creating a policy favorable to the U.S Corporate Lords. Perkins formerly worked for an international consulting firm and describes himself as an "economic hitman" for the World's banking and corporate dynasties.

RUSH TRANSCRIPT of the interview with "Democracy Now" This interview says it all:

AMY GOODMAN: We turn to someone on the inside who decided to speak out, and he is John Perkins, has written the book, Confessions of an Economic Hit Man. He came into our studios to talk about his former work, going into various countries to try to strong-arm leaders into creating policy favorable to the U.S. government and corporations, what he called the "corporatocracy." John Perkins says he was an economic hit man. I began by asking him to explain this term. JOHN PERKINS: We economic hit men, during the last 30 or 40 years, have really created the World's first truly global empire, and we've done this primarily through economics, and the military only coming in as a last resort. Therefore, it's been done pretty much secretly. Most of the people in the United States have no idea that we've created this empire and, in fact, throughout the World it's been done very quietly, unlike old empires, where the army marched in; it was obvious. So I think the significance of the things you discussed, the fact that over 80% of the population of South America recently voted in an anti-U.S. president and what's going on at the World Trade Organization, and also, in fact, with the transit strike here in New York, is that people are beginning to understand that the middle class and the lower classes around the World are being terribly, terribly exploited by what I call the corporatocracy, which really runs this empire.

AMY GOODMAN: Well, before we move further, your experience with it? Explain the vantage point you come from. What does it mean to be an economic hit man? JOHN PERKINS: Well, what we've done -- we use many techniques, but probably the most common is that we'll go to a country that has resources that our corporations covet, like oil, and we'll arrange a huge loan to that country from an organization like the World Bank or one of its sisters, but almost all of the money goes to the U.S. corporations, not to the country itself, corporations like Bechtel and Halliburton, General Motors, General Electric, these types of organizations, and they build huge infrastructure projects in that country: power plants, highways, ports, industrial parks, things that serve the very rich and seldom even reach the poor. In fact, the poor suffer, because the loans have to be repaid, and they're huge loans, and the repayment of them means that the poor won't get education, health, and other social services, and the country is left holding a huge debt, by intention. We go back, we economic hit men, to this country and say, "Look, you owe us a lot of money. You can't repay your debts, so give us a pound of flesh. Sell our oil companies your oil real cheap or vote with us at the next U.N. vote or send troops in support of ours to some place in the World such as Iraq." And in that way, we've managed to build a World empire with very few people actually knowing that we've done this.

AMY GOODMAN: And you worked for? JOHN PERKINS: I was recruited by the National Security Agency, the one that's in the news so much today because of spying on people, and I was tested by them, recruited by them --

AMY GOODMAN: What do you mean you were recruited by them? JOHN PERKINS: Well, while I was a senior in business school at Boston University, they came to me and suggested that I take their test. I had connections through my wife with people in the agency, and they put me through a series of tests, personality tests, lie detector, several days, and concluded that I would make a good economic hit man, and they also discovered a number of weaknesses in my character, which they could use then to hook me into the business, and then I ended up working for a private corporation.

AMY GOODMAN: Why didn't you work for the N.S.A.? JOHN PERKINS: Because these days it's not done that way. Nobody wants to be able to connect the dots. So the N.S.A., the C.I.A., these types of organizations often recruit economic hit men and the jackals, the assassins, the 007 types, but they will recruit us, maybe train us, and then turn us over to a private corporation, so that you really can't make the connection, so that if I were caught at what I was doing in one of these countries, it would not reflect on our government; it would only reflect on the corporation that I worked for.

AMY GOODMAN: And who did you work for? JOHN PERKINS: I worked for a company called Charles T. Main, a big consulting firm out of Boston.

AMY GOODMAN: And your job? JOHN PERKINS: Well, I started off as economist, became chief economist, and my job really – I had a staff of several dozen people. My job was to get them, and for me to convince these countries to accept these very large loans, to get the banks to make the loans, to set up the deal so that the money went to big U.S. corporations. The country was left holding a huge debt, and then I would go in or one of my people would go in and say, "Look, you know, you owe us all this money. You can't pay your debts. Give us that pound of flesh."

The other thing we do, Amy, and what's going on right now in Latin America is that as soon as one of these anti-American presidents is elected, such as Evo Morales, who you mentioned, in Bolivia, one of us goes in and says, "Hey, congratulations, Mr. President. Now that you're president, I just want to tell you that I can make you very, very rich, you and your family. We have several hundred million dollars in this pocket if you play the game our way. If you decide not to, over in this pocket, I've got a gun with a bullet with your name on it, in case you decide to keep your campaign promises and throw us out."

AMY GOODMAN: Well, explain actually how that plays out, because it's not really in this pocket and that. JOHN PERKINS: No, it's – what I'm saying is that, you know, I can make sure that this man makes a great deal of money, he and his family, through contracts, through various quasi-legal means, and I can also – if he doesn't accept this, you know, the same thing is going to happen to him that happened to Jaime Roldos in Ecuador and Omar Torrijos in Panama and Allende in Chile, and we tried to do it to Chavez in Venezuela and are still trying – that we will send in the people to try to overthrow him, as, in fact, we recently did with the President of Ecuador, or if we don't overthrow him, we'll assassinate him. And these people all know the history. They know that this has happened many, many, many times in the past.

AMY GOODMAN: Explain what happened to Torrijos, for example, in Panama, and what did you have to do with it? JOHN PERKINS: Well, this was back in the '70s, and Torrijos was making a lot of World headlines, because he was demanding that the Panama Canal be turned back over to Panamanians. I was sent down to Panama to bring him around, to convince him that he needed to play the game our way. And he invited me to a little bungalow outside of Panama City, and he said, "Look, you know, I know the game, and if I play it your way, I'll become very rich, but that's not important to me. What is important is that I help my poor people." Now, Torrijos wasn't an angel, but he was very committed to his poor people. So he said, "You can either play the game my way, or you can leave this country." And I talked to my bosses, and we all decided I should stay. Maybe I could bring him around. In the meantime, we could make some money, and so I stayed. But I knew the whole World was watching Torrijos because of this Panama Canal issue and that if he didn't come around, the jackals would be likely to come in. [inaudible] A man like Torrijos [inaudible] not only would we lose Panama, but he would set an example that others might follow. So I was very concerned. I liked Torrijos, and one of the reasons I wanted to bring him around was not just because it was my job, but because I wanted to see him survive, and because he didn't come around, sure enough, he was assassinated.

AMY GOODMAN: How? JOHN PERKINS: Fiery airplane crash, and afterwards, there was no question that – he had been handed a tape recorder as he got on the plane that had a bomb in it.

AMY GOODMAN: How do you know this? JOHN PERKINS: Well, I know the people that did the investigation afterwards, and this is pretty well-documented in many places also, but I, personally, was aware of what went on, and, of course, you know, our official line here was that, of course, that wasn't what happened. The plane simply blew up and hit a mountain. But there was no question, and in fact we were expecting this to happen. Three months before this, another president, Jaime Roldos of Ecuador, who I also was involved in trying to bring around, he very strongly opposed our oil companies. Not "oppose," isn't the right word. What he said is, "Oil from Ecuador has to serve the interest of the Ecuadorian people. Therefore, the oil companies are going to have to pay a lot greater share to the Ecuadorian people or we're going to nationalize them." And he'd run on a very, very strong anti-American campaign, and we knew that if he didn't change his ways, that something would happen to him. We were in his office making the same promises. You know, here we've got a couple of million dollars for you. Here we've got a bullet for you, basically. It's done a lot more subtly than that, but that's the short version. And three months before Torrijos, his airplane also exploded.

AMY GOODMAN: And what did the investigation reveal in that case? JOHN PERKINS: Well, if you're talking about F.B.I. investigations, it revealed that there was an airplane that exploded in both cases. If you're talking about local investigations and investigations that were done by many international journalists, there were explosives on those planes, both of them. And, you know, it's relatively easy to get to assassinate one of these presidents who has a security force that's well armed, that surrounds him all the time, and in the case of both Roldos and Torrijos, those security forces had been trained primarily at the School of the Americas, a U.S. training camp for South American armies. It's well known that when –

AMY GOODMAN: Which used to be in Panama, actually? JOHN PERKINS: Used to be in Panama, right, and it's well known that people that are trained this way stay pretty loyal to their trainers. And they didn't make a lot of money, and so if one of their trainers went back and said, "Hey, would you mind handing this tape recorder to Jaime Roldos?" And the security guy may very well know that there's a bomb in it, and I'm going to pay you several hundred thousand dollars or maybe in this case it's only $100,000, because these guys were not very well paid, or, "simply look the other way while we plant something on the plane." That's an easy thing to do, and incidentally, we also tried to do that to Saddam Hussein. When he didn't come around, the economic hit men tried to bring him around. We tried to assassinate him. But that was an interesting point, because he had pretty loyal security forces, and in addition he had a lot of look-alike doubles, and what you don't want to be is a bodyguard to a look-alike double and you think it's the president and you accept a lot of money to assassinate him and you assassinate the look-alike, because if you do that, afterwards your life and your family's isn't worth very much, so we were unable to get through to Saddam Hussein, and that's why we sent the military in.

AMY GOODMAN: Although Saddam Hussein was in the pocket of the U.S. for many, many years. JOHN PERKINS: He was and – but we wanted that final deal, similar to the one we'd struck with Saudi Arabia. We wanted to get Saddam Hussein to really tie in to our system, and he refused to do that. He accepted our fighter jets and our tanks and our chemical plants that he used to produce chemical weapons that we knew were being used against the Kurds and the Iranians. He accepted all that, but he wouldn't quite tie into our system in such a big way that he would bring in the huge development organizations to rebuild his country, as the Saudis did, in a Western [corporate] image. And that's what we were trying to convince him to do and also to guarantee that he would always trade oil for U.S. dollars, instead of Euros, and that he would keep the price of oil within limits acceptable to us. He would not go along with those things. If he had, he would still be president, Amy.

AMY GOODMAN: As a consultant, you did work in Saudi Arabia, John Perkins? JOHN PERKINS: Well, yes, in fact I put -- I was one of the ones responsible for putting together the main deal there in the early '70s. As you may recall, Amy, OPEC decided that they were going to clamp down on us, shut off our oil supplies. They didn't like our policies towards Israel, and so in the early '70s, the supply of oil was cut way back in this country. We had long lines of cars at the gas stations, and we were afraid we were going to go to another depression like the one that started in 1929, so the Treasury Department came to me and some other economic hit men and said, "Look, this is unacceptable." And I give all the details of this in the book, Confessions of an Economic Hit Man, but the short version is, they said, "Make sure that this doesn't happen again," and we knew that the key to stopping this sort of thing was Saudi Arabia, because it controlled more oil than anyone else. So again, the short version is we put together a deal whereby the House of Saud agreed to send almost all of the money it made from selling oil all over the World back to the U.S., invest it in U.S. government securities, the interest from those securities was used by the Treasury Department to hire U.S. companies to rebuild Saudi Arabia, power plants, desalination plants, in fact, entire cities from the desert, and in the process, to westernize Saudi Arabia, to make it more like us. And the other part of the deal was the House of Saud agreed to keep the price of oil within limits acceptable to us, and we agreed to keep the House of Saud in power, and that deal still holds. It's been holding for a long time. There's a lot of blowback right now that's occurring around it, but from our standpoint as economic hit men, it was an extremely successful deal, and it's the one we tried to replicate with Saddam Hussein in Iraq.

AMY GOODMAN: We return to our interview with John Perkins, author of Confessions of an Economic Hit Man. I asked him if he was the first person to coin the term "economic hit man." JOHN PERKINS: I think I may have been the first to use it in print, but we used it back in the '70s. We called ourselves -- and it was sort of a tongue-in-cheek term. Officially, I was chief economist, but we used that sort of tongue-in-cheek, because it described what we did. Since the book came out on hardback – yes, and there's a new epilogue in the paperback, which covers a lot of the new material -- a lot of people have stepped out of the shadows and approached me and talked to me, high people in governments and other economic hit men and jackals and wanted to share their story. A lot of them want to do it anonymously, which is a little tricky for a writer these days, as you know, but it's been fascinating to me how many have stepped out. I also have seen, Amy, I think, a tremendous change in attitude around the World. We're seeing people really rebelling and saying, you know, we understand what's going on. And to be honest with you, I attribute a great deal of that to your show and other shows like it. You're reaching people. The internet, for example, is working wonders. And there's a lot of books, there's a lot of movies like Syriana and Hotel Rwanda and Good Night, and Good Luck and so on and so forth. So, the information is getting out. And I think once Americans understand what we're doing in the World and how much hatred this is generating, we will demand change. And I think history has proven that when we demand change in any area, eventually -- it takes a little time -- but we do get it. So I'm very hopeful.

AMY GOODMAN: And these people who have come forward, are they active today? JOHN PERKINS: Well, yes, very much so. One of them – you know, there was a president elected, the President of Ecuador, Gutierrez, a few years ago and he ran on a very, very strong anti-U.S. ticket. And he said that if he was elected, he would make sure that the people of Ecuador get the fair proceeds from Ecuadorian oil. As soon as he was elected, he was visited by an economic hit man, whom I know personally, and read the Riot Act, told the things we mentioned earlier, you know, “I’ve got money for you or a bullet.” Within a month, he came to Washington. There was a famous picture shown all over Ecuador of him sitting, holding hands with George Bush. And very soon after that, he went against everything in his campaign promises. He cut sweet deals with the oil companies. He went back on the indigenous peoples, whose lands in the Amazon area he had promised to protect. And the Ecuadorian people went wild. They took to the streets. They protested and demonstrated and eventually threw him out of power. So this particular one backfired. But what -- the economic hit man did his job right. Gutierrez came around, and then the Ecuadorian people understood what was going on. I have good friends in Ecuador who called me shortly after that and said, “You know, when we elect someone democratically to do something and he doesn’t do it, democracy requires that we throw him out. Why don’t you the same thing in your country?”

AMY GOODMAN: John Perkins, what about Evo Morales? You talk about Gutierrez. JOHN PERKINS: Yeah, I spent a lot of time in Bolivia. In fact, at one time, I was offered the job as president of Bolivian Power Company, which is the second most important job in Bolivia, actually, behind the President. And Bolivia has this – and it was an American-owned company, incidentally. Bolivia has this long record of giving into the I.M.F. and the World Bank, privatizing their resources, like their power company and their water company. And the people of Bolivia were fed up with this. They had been exploited and exploited and exploited. And so Evo Morales ran on this ticket that said, “I’m not going to put up with this anymore.” And, of course, he’s getting a bad name in the U.S., because we want to portray him as a cocaine-raising farmer who’s all in favor of Castro and socialism and communism and cocaine. The fact is he did raise coca. He was a coca farmer. Coca’s a very legitimate product in Bolivia that is not just used for cocaine. It’s used for many other things.

AMY GOODMAN: Like? JOHN PERKINS: Well, for example, high altitude sickness. Coca tea is perfectly legal in this country, too, and it’s very effective against high altitude sickness, and derivatives of coca are used for many medicines. They’re very effective. But the reason he was elected had nothing to do with any of that. It simply has to do with the extreme frustration and anger of the Bolivian people, of how they’ve been exploited and how the I.M.F. and the World Bank have insisted that they turn their resources over to foreign corporations. And also, you know, part of the World Trade Organization policies is that we insist that countries like Bolivia not subsidize their local industries and products, but that they accept our subsidies of them, and that they not erect any barriers against our goods coming in there, but they accept the barriers that we erect against their goods. And people around the World, Amy, are getting fed up with this. 300 million Latin Americans -- South Americans out of 360 million, over 80% have voted for these types of candidates.

AMY GOODMAN: Not to be ethnocentric about it, but America is a tremendous power, especially military power. It has been diverted now to dealing with Iraq. President Bush declaring war on Iraq, not exactly officially declaring it, but engaging in it. Do you think that that has something to do with what is happening in Latin America, not to take power away from the people and what they are doing there? JOHN PERKINS: Well, certainly, I think that Hugo Chavez of Venezuela might not have survived his presidency. His presidency might not have survived had we not been in Iraq and Afghanistan, that we were so diverted. We -- the economic hit men tried to overthrow him, you know, a few years ago and were successful for about 48 hours. But then he had control over the oil company, and he was very, very popular. So he got back into office. At that point, had we not been involved in Iraq, I strongly suspect that we would have done something much more aggressive, as we’ve done so many other times. When the economic hit men fail, we take more drastic steps. Because we were so involved in Iraq, we didn’t do that. This gave great support to all of the other movements in Latin America. And these other candidates, people like Evo Morales, really looked to Hugo Chavez as an example of someone who’s had the staying power. He’s been able to stay there, despite the fact that the administration has spoken so strongly against him and is so angry. The other side of the coin is that Brazil is a World power. It’s one of the largest economies in the World, and it produces a tremendous number of military weapons that are used Worldwide. And Lula, of Brazil, he’s backed off a bit. And there’s an interesting story that I know behind that.

AMY GOODMAN: What? JOHN PERKINS: Well, I’ll get into that. But he’s backed off a bit. But he still – he’s made alliances with Chavez, with Kirchner of Argentina, with Morales of Bolivia. They’ve all agreed that if the United States does anything drastic, they’ll stand together and oppose us. So there is this coalition that’s happening. It’s quite loose. But nonetheless, there’s a tremendous amount of support there.

AMY GOODMAN: Lula, what do you know? JOHN PERKINS: Well, I was one of the speakers at the World Social Forum in Brazil in last February, and a man asked to meet with me who was a very high advisor to Lula. And he said, “You know, what you say in your book is all very true, but you just -- that’s just the tip of the iceberg.” He said, “You know, from the time I was a very young man, I was quite radical. And it was interesting to me, as I was going through university, how much sex, drugs, booze were available to me in the parties that I was invited to, and so on. And now that I’m in this position of power, I discover that somebody was taking pictures of all those things, that there’s a record of this.” And he says, “You don’t realize how all-pervasive your Secret Services are. It’s recruiting, in their own way, young people, even those that are extreme socialists and communists. Your people befriend us from very early ages and get a lot of information on us. So when we become high up in the government, they basically --” And I said, “They blackmail you?” And he said, “Well, you could use the word ‘blackmail,’ but I think I would prefer that’s ‘modern U.S. diplomacy.’” And I asked him, I said, “Well, is Lula a part of this?” And he obviously didn’t really want to answer this question. He hesitated, and he said, “Let me just say that nobody gets to power in Brazil these days without being very willing to make compromises to your corporations and your government.” He said, “I think Lula’s a very, very good man, but he also has to deal with reality. And certainly, he’s been watched all of his life, and I’m sure he’s had the same temptations I did.”

AMY GOODMAN: And he’s also engulfed in a major corruption scandal, which, for many of his long-time supporters, Brazilians and outside, are raising a lot of questions. JOHN PERKINS: And I think the fact that the scandal has come out and has been blown into such proportions is an indication that someone is sending Lula a very strong message. Incidentally, the jackal – I’ll call him – that was working with Gutierrez of Ecuador said to me, “You know, this isn’t limited to other countries. This happens in your country, too. Don’t you think that the assassination of John Kennedy and Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King and John Lennon and others like that, and the many senators that have died in airplane crashes and other things, has sent a strong message to your politicians? And don’t you think that --”

AMY GOODMAN: Who said this to you? JOHN PERKINS: The same economic hit man/jackal who visited Gutierrez and read him the Riot Act.

AMY GOODMAN: Would you care to share his name? JOHN PERKINS: No. I'll let him do that at some point, if he feels it's appropriate. Right now, he doesn't feel it's appropriate. He's still in the business. And so, many of these people are still very -- even the ones that have retired are getting pensions, and they've got loyalties, some of them. So, they'll talk to me on the side and say, "I want you to put this in your book, but I'm not ready to talk." A couple of them I am working with to write a book, and my literary agent is working with them. So hopefully some of them will come clean. But it's a slow process in making that happen.

AMY GOODMAN: And these people you know, who you call economic hit men, who are the first to move in to these men who gain power, where does - - what do you know about Evo Morales now? He's just been elected President? JOHN PERKINS: Well, I have no doubt that he has been visited by at least one of these men, who's known him beforehand. These are not strangers that walk in. They've been hanging around Bolivia for a while, as I did. And so, once the President is elected, they walk into his office and shake his hands and say, "Congratulations, Mr. President. You won. We launched a strong campaign against you, but now you've won. And now, I want to tell you the facts of life and make you --"

AMY GOODMAN: And you know someone who has talked to him in this way? JOHN PERKINS: Yes.

AMY GOODMAN: And what was -- according to you, what was President Morales's response? JOHN PERKINS: Morales was very diplomatic about the whole thing, but absolutely stood firm and said, "You know, my people have elected me for a reason, and I intend to honor that." This is what his initial response was. But what I will say is we can't imagine the pressure now that's being exerted on a man like Morales, as is true with all these other presidents. They know what's happened before their time. And they -- you know, the pressure will be put on them tighter and tighter and tighter. And imagine being in that position. Imagine being an integrity person and really wanting to help your country, being elected with a majority -- Morales got 54% of the vote, which is unheard of in Bolivia; he was up against many opponents -- and then, wanting to implement the policy, and somebody walks into your office and reminds you of what happened to all these other presidents. And perhaps the most scary one was Noriega, who did not get assassinated. He wasn't a martyr. Instead, he had to stand by and watch several thousand innocent Panamanian civilians bombed, slaughtered, burned to death. And then he was dragged off to a U.S. prison, where he has been pretty much in solitary confinement every since. Imagine thinking that might happen to you. And so, Evo Morales, the story has just begun for him. I sympathize with him very deeply. And I think from our standpoint, Amy, as American citizens -- and I look at myself as an extremely loyal American citizen. I believe in the principles of this country, which I think that in the past few decades, increasingly, we've put them way in the back burner. But as good Americans, we need to insist that our government and our corporations honor democracy.

AMY GOODMAN: John Perkins, author of Confessions of an Economic Hit Man. To purchase an audio or video copy of this entire program, click here for our new online ordering or call 1 (888) 999-3877.

Current State of Affairs \(as of May 2006\)

There is no question in our minds that the US will go bankrupt and there will be a debt workout of something like $0.30 on the dollar. Our country has been stripped of its ability to compete. We cannot compete with slave labor. Out of the social, financial and economic chaos that awaits us the Illuminati, our enemies, intend to impose a New World Order. This corporatist fascist movement came into being in 1980, and it plans to deliver America into slavery in the next ten years. All advanced in age, the trillionaire titans of conspiracy, want to see success before they meet their demise. Analysts have said that two factions are coordinating over the shape of the future Fascist New World Order. One faction, represented in the Republic party, are the Nazis (remember, the Bush Dynasty traded with the Nazis) and the other faction, represented in the Democratic party, are the Communists (remember, the Rothschild and Rockefeller banks also funded the Communists). They are of course working for the same Rothschild/Vatican-Jesuit/Masonic dynasties, using the rest of the World's peoples as their pawns. Now, let's see what some of these guys are up to lately towards their drive to create the U.S.S.A. modeled on the U.S.S.R./Nazism with more details from the International Forecaster's Bob Chapman (MAY 2006 #3 Vol. 10 No. 5-3, P. O. Box 510518, Punta Gorda, FL 33951-051800, International_forecaster@yahoo.com www.theinternationalforecaster.com).

I think Vice President Dick Cheney believes he is the reincarnation of Herman Goring. 9-11 was the elitist version of the Reichstag fire and it was the operative event that was used to introduce forms of dictatorship that had been formulated years before when Mr. Cheney was Secretary of Defense under George H. W. Bush. The vehicle for total control of the American people was the USA Patriot Act and following legislation. After that was accomplished military and intelligence operations were taken out of the hands of government and into the control of private and public corporations. This was the transition to the corporatist fascist state. After George H. W. Bush was defeated for a second presidential term Mr. Cheney took over as CEO of Halliburton. Later he and George P. Schultz, who was the CEO of Bechtel, formed the Bush-Cheney team for the presidency. We know what transpired and after in office with Cheney crony, Don Rumsfeld, the lies began and at the same time military and intelligence was in part turned over to Halliburton, Bechtel, Carlyle and other crony companies. This is when this triumvirate took over the entire American intelligence operation. What has followed is the worst corruption in modern times. Not only the stealing, but also the spying on Americans, privatized torture, abuse and murder and holding people without charges for years and kidnapping them off the streets of the World in violation of the sovereign laws of other countries. This is what murderous dictators do. Through globalization, private mercenary armies, private secret police forces all run by firms such as Halliburton and Bechtel, anyone who speaks out is hunted down and silenced or murdered. Via globalization, which is the elimination of the nation-state, power is transferred from the nation state to elitist transnational corporate cartels. The system becomes totally predatory. First it's the elimination of whole industries, then public investments, then governments and then the World.

The table is set by the creation of perpetual war for perpetual peace. The masses are eventually against the wars but are powerless to stop them. The wars are theatre devised as distraction to keep the citizens focused on what is a stage play, as the globalists steal your freedom, livelihood and your entire way of life. This is to be the recreation of Imperial Rome via the financier oligarchy and the control of America's vast military machine. A World system of interlocking syndicates, which rule people, not governments. This is how we know financial collapse is in process. It has been used many times before albeit unsuccessfully. This is a threat to civilized life, as we have known it. Justice is first perverted and then destroyed. You cannot defend your rights against the state if they own the system. Power is being transferred from the nation-state to the international financial interests. This is not only treason; it is the destruction of our laws and culture. This has to be reversed and the only way to affect that legally is to take over Congress in the next election, voting almost all of the participants out of office and then impeaching our President and Vice President. If we are unsuccessful in doing that, then the only resort left for the masses could be a new declaration of independence from the BankLords.

One of the top priorities on the Illuminati's agenda is the privatization of national security, better known as the Princeton Project. It is to affect the expansion of the privatization of military functions through private military companies, or private mercenary armies. This is funded in part by the Ford Foundation and is co-chaired by George Schultz of Bechtel and Felix Rohatyn, a powerful financier and strong backer of Israel. This group is attempting to eliminate the sovereign nation-state, by outsourcing to multinational corporations, virtually all national security and military functions, including all non-combat as well as core combat functions of the military itself. This transfer in power, privatization, will be justified by the perpetual global war on terrorism. It will be readily acceptable to the public because their children won't be drafted into the military. Those who choose the profession will eliminate the need for that. This process has already begun as quasi-private bands of commandos are sent around the World with a license to kill, and domestically to spy on American citizens. The personnel for these operations come from Delta Force, Navy Seals, Green Berets and other special military units. They are given temporary leave to work for private contractors and later can return to active duty with no loss of rank or service time. When killed on mission they are not counted among US casualties. In finality there is no difference between military and mercenary.

This marks America's slide back into feudalism. Needless to say, the public doesn't have a clue that this is what is being done to them. It is the intention to carry this kind of privatization beyond security services. Thus, our military will be run for profit by transnational conglomerates that have a vested interest in perpetual warfare for profit. This movement started with the demise of the Soviet Union, but the insider relationships go back to the 1960s. In fact, Schultz, Rohatyn and Kissinger were the key planners of the CIA overthrow and murder of Chilean President Salvador Allende, and the installation of the military junta of Augusto Pinochet, whom they later threw to the dogs. This is a key part of America's elite, those who hold all our institutions and people in contempt.

This is the beginning of the formation of an SS similar to that of Nazi Germany, Men and women who swear allegiance to corporations and not to America. These will be organizations in service to the state, which will be made part of the budget of the Defense Department and have special legal status. These mercenaries operate beyond the law and totally apart from what will serve as the American Army. Once all is in place we will have dictatorial government. In Iraq, these mercenary armies have received $150 million and $200 million additional that cannot be accounted for. These are overcharges by the contractors. We have already had massive privatization of military functions, logistical support, combat engineering, intelligence and interrogations not to mention combat. These contracts are so well entrenched that they already control our military. There are more than 150,000 contractors in Iraq alone. That really means we have 300,000 personnel in Iraq, not 150,000. One of the most freighting aspects is the DOD Counterintelligence Field activity whose mission is to develop and manage DOD counterintelligence programs, technology, critical infrastructure, economic security and US interests, against foreign influence and manipulation as well as to detect and neutralize espionage against the department is that it operates secretly. Its budget is classified and all we know is that there are 1,000 employees and that 70% of its work is contracted out. Their mission includes roving patrols around military bases and facilities to surveillance of potentially threatening people or organizations inside the US. It also identifies and assesses threats from foreign intelligence services, terrorists, and other clandestine or covert entities. They have psychologists for support as well as a team of renowned forensic psychologists who are engaged in risk assessments of the Guantanamo detainees. They are also used to direct torture. Talon, another arm, is engaged in a massive domestic surveillance program, targeting antiwar groups and other political activists, with no al Qaeda or other terrorist link. That is you and us. This is achieved in part by data mining, the cross-grid scores of government and commercial databases, containing credit information, employment records, and other personal data on millions of law-abiding Americans. This is a legacy of Adm. John Poindexter, who probably still is connected to CIFA.

The global association of mercenaries has its own association to promote the privatization of war, the International Peace Operations Association. That name is right out of Orwell's 1984. These are nothing more than murders for hire. The cabal has been successful so far. They are now supplying 50% of the personnel for war. The profits are giant and usually on no bid-contracts. This is where our country is headed and we had better stop it. If we do not, we'll all end up in internment camps. There is nothing random or unlucky about the coming fall of the dollar. Economic and financial policies in place for years guaranteed that we would have a dollar crisis. It has arrived and the carnage will be spectacular after all is said and done. Since 1971, the dollar has been a salvage operation. Bailout after bailout: 1974, 1982, 1990, 2000 and today. It's a wonder the dollar has held up as the World's reserve currency as long as it has. The dollar bubble has been pricked and it is headed down. The elitists cannot force the nations who continually revalue their currencies to stop. There are more than 150 currencies doing it led by China. The US rather than implement tariffs are devaluing the dollar. The problem is that will solve very little. The global savings glut as it is called is about to end. Nations won't have to borrow or buy dollars to keep their currencies weak. The dollar is officially going to devalue. In that process two-thirds of international reserves that are in dollars will suffer major losses. We would also expect the $2.6 billion in dollar flow each day will eventually cease and that problem will have to be solved by the Federal Reserve buying U.S. Treasury securities and monetizing them, which is highly inflationary. This is one reason why it's been so easy for us to predict interest rates. If the dollar is falling, higher interest rates are not going to help much. Investors are finally starting to catch on and they are bailing out of dollar-denominated assets. Next they'll be joined by small countries and then large countries. This will take two years and the fallout will be gruesome. This is why gold, silver and commodities are over performing and will continue to do so. Investors are saying where do I go that is relatively safe and that I can offset World inflation? They have no other alternative than gold and silver and commodities. We have been long gold and silver assets for six years and our subscribers are doing very well, but we are the exception.

International elitists and Fed policy now demand a weaker dollar; weakening as slowly as possible to avoid a panic. Those who believe the decline will be orderly are mistaken. The root of the problem has not been solved and that is excessive dollar liquidity creation and an incessant outbound flow. That creation of excess liquidity has not stopped; it has gotten worse. Look at our weekly statistics. It's no wonder M3 was terminated. Now we have an official policy of dollar devaluation and at the same time massive creation of monetary aggregates. A hyperinflationary depression is on the way and it is being aided and abetted by other major central banks that are raising interest rates like the Fed and at the same time increasing monetary aggregates by more than 10%. No one wants to be left out of the upside action while it lasts, because it won't last much longer. One of the reasons for this continued great outpouring of liquidity is that the US real estate market is dead and falling. All those cash-out and equity loans are history – at least as we have known it. In order to support and liquefy the economy, now that mortgage borrowing is going to be history, Americans have to be forced deeper into debt with freely accessible money. The consequence of a lower dollar is higher import prices and higher inflation. That will be accompanied by ever-greater volatility and more as more money and credit enters the system. That means World stock, bond and real estate prices will fall. As we just saw last week, import prices are moving aggressively higher. The G-7, IMF, "Plaza-lite" Accord will be anything but lite. This will be a blood bath. Even if the dollar decline is "orderly" it will none the less be nasty. All the central banks are doing is buying time.

This past week we saw the first trial balloon on the campaign of Jeb Bush to become the next Republican nominee for president. The neocons have been accumulating funds for Jeb for six years in an attempt to extend the dynasty. We are sure the voting fix is being prepared as well. Jeb Bush is far more dangerous than his lunatic brother because he's smarter. George's comment was prepared. These people only speak when it is to their advantage. This was no off-the-cuff remark. The neocon Gestapo marches on. A Cleveland woman was manhandled and charged with two felonies for trying to display anti-Bush posters. She was then jailed in a psychiatric unit, which was highly unusual and outrageous. The judge said she suffered from mental problems and that her opposition to Bush makes her delusional. Off to the gulag Soviet style. Only in America. Former NSA staffer Russell Tice will testify to the Senate Armed Services Committee this week that not only do employees at the agency believe the activities they are being asked to perform are unlawful, but that what has been disclosed so far is only the tip of the iceberg. He says former NSA head Gen. Michael Hayden, Bush's nominee to be the next CIA Director, oversaw more illegal activity that has yet to be disclosed. Tice will tell the NSA conducted illegal and unconstitutional surveillance of US citizens while he was there with the knowledge of Hayden. We suspect he'll go into the Echelon program, which is a massive system designed to intercept virtually all electronic communications throughout the World. Phone calls, fax traffic and e-mails are analyzed despite laws in every country banning such activity, including the US. The system was developed in 1947, and was taken over by the NSA in 1953. The operations at Fort Meade worked from Men with Hill in England. It was used during the Cold War era to keep an eye on the Soviet Union. We also had stations for all kinds of electronic intercepts throughout the World, we know we were there and we were involved in it. We can only remember of two instances in which we were aware of spying on others than the Soviet Union and its satellites - once on our own field units and other times on British and French aircraft.

Echelon was designed primarily for non-military targets: governments, organizations, and business in every country. It can also be considered industrial espionage. The analysis was based on key words like money, stocks, drugs, etc. We did not work on Echelon but we knew all about it. Echelon concentrated on foreign nations up until 1985 and it then started monitoring Americans. As we all now know, tens of millions of phone calls by US citizens and others in the US have been monitored by the government since 2001. The phone companies now must answer for this invasion of privacy and explain their willingness to violate the Constitutional protections of the Fourth Amendment, in addition to violating provisions of the 1978 law governing spying on US citizens. The bottom line is our government is at war with its citizens and we have our own government as our enemy. The corporate fascist interests that run our country want to establish unilateral control over everyone and everything, and if you expose the truth about what they are doing you are the enemy. We are the victims of state terrorism.

Two weeks ago the Iranian government said it would soon open its oil bourse. At the same time the G-7 said they were giving the job to the IMF of bringing about a soft landing for the dollar. Since then the dollar has plummeted from 90 on the dollar index to 84, and the euro has climbed from $1.21 to $1.29. The reality of the matter is the neocons couldn't find an excuse quick enough to invade Iran. Iran will trade oil in euros and after a few months that will put pressure on the dollar. It means that countries that have lots of dollars can sell dollars and buy more euros or gold. It will also end the era of the US dollar as the World's reserve currency. The dollar will correct 60%. The dollar index should fall to about 50 and the euro should rise to about $1.60 to $1.90. This event will transpire over the next few years and cause a crisis bigger than the depression of the 1930s. Generally speaking very few people know of this event and its ramifications. Our media has blacked it out. Foreign central banks hold two-thirds of their reserves in dollars so they will face severe losses as well. There is no question in our minds that the US will go bankrupt and there will be a debt workout of something like $0.30 on the dollar. Our country has been stripped of its ability to compete due to WTO, NAFTA, CAFTA and almost the complete destruction of our manufacturing capability. In order to revive our economy protective tariffs will have to be put in place because otherwise there will never be a recovery. We cannot compete with slave labor and we have not been able to do so since the inception of our country. Once the dollar falls we won't be able to service our debt in spite of hyperinflation and the bottom will fall out. That is when the new World Order elitists will use Worldwide depression to seize assets and implement a police state. This is why you have to get out of debt and into gold and silver related assets.

From time to time we hear about Non-Governmental Organizations, NGO's, many of which have gotten themselves in hot water and rightly so. Some countries now require them to register. George Soros' fronts, the "Open Society Institute" affiliates, have been shut down in Eastern Europe; and Venezuela has charged the Súmate NGO leaders with treason. These are the heirs of the missionaries who served as scouts for corporations and governments. Today NGO's may be international organizations or grassroots groups. Some of the funders are American Express Foundation, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, AID, Canadian International Development Agency, Bristol Myers Squibb, Ford Foundation, Harvard, Oxfam and the UN Development Programs, all controlled by the elitists to do what they cannot do under government auspices, like foment revolution or radical change. They, under the guise of bringing democracy, open the door for foreign capital and business, resource extraction and military adventurism or training.

Then there is the US National Endowment for Democracy, created by Congress in 1983 to do openly what the CIA had been doing during the Cold War as covert activities. Used as pass-throughs, under covert funding, are the NEA, American Newspaper Guild, the National Student Association Act and a myriad of other phony foundations, groups and corporations. You can include as well the Chamber of Commerce, AFL-CIO, the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs and the International Republican Institute. There are hundreds more funded by taxpayers or by the sale of narcotics. We must not leave out the Mott Foundation, Smith-Richardson and Mellon-Scaife Foundations. The list goes on and on and the US and Canada are not alone in using fronts to further their interests. Germany, France, the Netherlands, Greece, Italy and Sweden fund their political parties foundations. Then there is the EU, UNICEF, WHO, UNESCO, UNDP and FAO, all propaganda fronts for international socialism. Even the World Bank, WTO, IMF AND NAFTA. There are extensive grant programs from Rotary [Masonic], American Friends Service Committee and Oxfam, American Federation of Teachers Fund and Boeing Employees Fund. These public and privately financed fronts, called NGO's, have worked together for years – fund and direct violent and non-violent overthrows of governments and assist in assassinations. In the late 1950s we read a book entitled, "The Ugly American." It was about how USAID worked in Asia and was made into a movie, so this is nothing new. The specialty of almost all of these organizations is destabilization, the creation of mobs preventing elected governments from ruling, stuffing ballot boxes, chaos and violence. They funded the civic Forum in Czechoslovakia, Solidarity in Poland, Union of Democratic Forces in Bulgaria, Otpor, groups within the USSR and the Orange Revolution in Ukraine. The NED, Rockefeller, Ford and Soros groups move professional dissidents from one country to another fomenting problems. Wherever there is an opening these elitists' fronts step into fray and take advantage of the situation to further globalization or control. So when you hear NGO take a hard look because anything they are doing is not in your best interests.

Vice President Dick Cheney has just spit in our face again. He does the outrageous and hopes to get away with it. He continues to argue that NSA should intercept purely domestic telephone calls and e-mail messages without warrants in the hunt for terrorists. This in spite of the fact that the majority of Americans are against such violations of their personal rights. In actuality this program was designed and promoted by Gen. Michael V. Hayden when he ran the NSA in 2001. This man was the principal architect of the plan, so now they want to put him in charge of the CIA. Hayden really believes the spy program is legal. This man has to be a fascist sociopath. It is illegal for the NSA to violate FISA and it's as simple as that. In fact, it isn't even within his venue or job to defend such a program in behalf of the Neocons. If this man runs the CIA we all have much to fear. He is as crazy as the rest of the cabal in the White House. Kuwait has revalued the dinar for the first time in 17 months, which sparked a rally in regional currencies and intense market speculation that Saudi Arabia would follow. The devaluation is against the US dollar against which the dinar is pegged. That is a sterilization process to combat inflation. The Democrats won't attempt to impeach President Bush and VP Cheney. They don't want the issue as an impediment as they try to remove Republicans from office in November. In addition, many Democrats have been compromised or bought off. It is incredible that they can say they won't impeach even after the November election. The Army Corp of Engineers has cancelled the work remaining on a $70 million project to refurbish 20 hospitals in Iraq, deepening a dispute with Parsons Engineering, one of Americans largest contractors operating in Iraq. That leaves 8 hospitals to be completed by another operator. There were 150 that were supposed to be completed.

As we write this on Sunday we see versus the dollar over the last month the Yen is up 7.48%, the Euro 6.09%, the British pound 7.86% and gold moved up 19.33%. What would you expect when the Fed intonates that they'll have one or two more interest rate increases and the G-7 says the dollar has to be managed downward. Fed Chairman Bernanke has two choices, increase rates and have a slowly descending dollar, and a slowly descending economy, or keep rates the same and see the dollar plunge. Whatever the choice and we believe it will be higher rates, it will be a long time before rates can be cut. Every business day the US economy needs $3.5 billion of new net flow of money from foreigners to finance the current account deficit. If it stops the dollar plunges and perhaps the US slides into bankruptcy and the dollar is no longer the World's reserve currency. The World's other central bankers are sending a message as well, they sold a net $14.4 billion in US assets this month and we still have two weeks to go. That is the most since 8/98, which is significant. These banks cannot be aggressive. They do not want to drive the dollar lower if they can help it because their foreign exchange reserves are 45% to 63% in US dollars. This means the dollar can go nowhere but down, as we have predicted for some time.

Sir Alan Greenspan ducked out after he increased M3 $4.3 trillion in six years of the Bush neocon administration. That is about $717 billion a year. This of course is in part what is keeping the stock market at current levels and that credit and money Bernanke keeps pouring only adds fuel to the inflationary fire in an attempt to keep the US economy from deflating. Why would any sane person want to hold dollars? The trade deficit will be $800 billion and we believe foreigners have finally had enough of US monetary, fiscal and personal profligacy. It took them six years to catch on. Let's hope it doesn't take six years for them to discover their salvation, the only real currency gold and gold related assets. The kindness of strangers is at an end. US debt is increasing at five times GDP, as household debt knows no end, increasing 12%. As interest rates rise and house prices fall there will not be $640 billion available to spend from home equity like there was in 2005. Consumption will fall from 71% of GDP to 64.5% or less. That $2 trillion taken out of home equity over the past five years will no longer be available again. In the first quarter, 88% of loans that were financed were done at least 5% above their previous mortgages. This is the most since 9/90, when the last real estate collapse occurred. All the money has been spent, there is no savings and personal debt is colossal. Bernanke is still feeding the monster - just look at the credit expansion figures every week. They are out of sight. Credit of all types averages about 14% and the money supply is climbing at 9 1/2% to 10%. If you middle them you have 12% and most major countries are doing the same thing. The amount of money borrowed by Americans is far beyond sanity. It's like the one last big fling. No one, including government, seems to care as mortgage foreclosures jump 72% in the first quarter. As rates go higher foreclosures will mount exponentially. Home sales are off more than 2%, inventories have doubled in months and prices are down nationwide almost 4%. The market has topped and is descending as real estate loans expand 11%. What can they conceivably be thinking of? The economy has topped out and there is only one way to go and that is down. Wait until the rest of the home equity is gone. You will hear a great thud just like you heard in California in 1990.

These catastrophic circumstances are going to affect the entire World. None is going to escape unless they are in gold and silver. We are a year or two away from major bank failures. There has been no turning back for five years. The great purging has begun and it will last for a number of years. You have no idea how bad this is going to get. You must prepare yourselves. You must be in gold and silver assets. The current war in Iraq is destroying America's finances - $440 billion for 2007 - a budget for war bigger than the next 25 nations combined, spending this year will be more than $600 billion. This is a sure way to bankruptcy. It is no wonder the idiot in the White House has a 29% approval rating. The only positive side is Congress has a rating 5-points lower. The Democrats offer no alternatives. Then the only alternative left is, with minor exception, vote them all out of office. Both parties want to continue the war, but the Democrats say they know how to fight the war better – how stupid is that. We told you of China's $15.5 billion surplus, but didn't include other important numbers. March also saw a trade deficit for the US with Japan - $7.5 billion, up from $7.1 billion in February. The deficit with OPEC was -$8 billion, up from -$7.3 billion and with the EU -$10.1 versus -$8.3. Those are poor results with our largest trading partners. [but OPEC is saving us by recycling their Petro-Dollars into the Federal Reserve System by buying US Treasury Bills] It looks like Laura Bush is back on the weed. She says she does not believe opinion polls showing her husband's approval ratings at a new low of 29. Is it drugs, denial or insanity? It doesn't much matter. She has to be real dumb to get quoted in such a way. Net flows of capital into the US assets fell to $69.8 billion in March, which was sufficient to cover the trade deficit of $62 billion. International investors slowed purchases of US securities, as foreign central banks were net sellers of treasury notes for the first time in six months. In February, net purchases were $90.5 billion. There is no question there is a trend in the making. Experts expected the inflow to be $79.9 billion. Purchases of Treasury securities rose a net $3.07 billion, down from $21.9 billion in February. Foreign central banks cut their holdings by $6.3 billion, as demand for Agency debt increased by a net $19 billion. The UK, China and OPEC all increased their holdings again led by the US and Caribbean banking centers, which is a mixture of hedge funds and Treasury monetization purchases. They boosted holdings by $7.3 billion. Corporate bond holdings rose $48.1 billion. Japan continues to be a small seller, selling $18.2 billion and it holds a total of $640.1 billion. China bought a net $1.6 billion in US debt in March and holds $321.4 billion. UK holdings, which include investments from Middle East oil economies, recycled through British banks, rose in March by $16.8 billion to a total $171.5 billion. For almost a year the bulk of the buying has come out of the Middle East.

Although it is no laughing matter, we still had to laugh when VP Cheney said while in Russia that Mr. Putin's government in many areas of civil society from religion and the news media to advocacy groups and political parties, that the government has unfairly and improperly restricted the rights of people, and he warned the Kremlin against using oil as a tool to achieve political ends. No legitimate interest is served when oil and gas become tools of intimidation or blackmail, either by supply manipulation or attempt to monopolize transportation. Mr. Putin ignored Mr. Cheney's comments in the name of diplomacy. What he should have told Mr. Cheney was that the Patriot Acts are unconstitutional as is wiretapping and torturing and murdering people. We are not pro-Russian. We are pro-fairness and Russia is no less democratic than America. The difference is approach. Cheney then went on to Kazakhstan where he attempted a thinly veiled snow job. He wants the Kazak oil. [he was actually bribing the Kazak politicians]. He attacked Russian oil monopolization when only seven companies control our oil supply. Is there any difference? What about all the other countries that have nationalized oil – we don't see Cheney attacking them. The Kazak's await an offer from Cheney for a pipeline the US would run to Europe bypassing Russia through pipelines under the Caspian Sea. Kazak President Nazarbayev wants the offer so he can get more money for his oil from Russia. After all too many years in Eastern Europe and West Asia the US demanded what it wanted. That game is over like it or not and in spite of large war making skills. A lawsuit is in a federal court to order President Bush, the NSA and Verizon to end a secret snooping program. The suite contends such spying violates the Constitutional right to privacy and federal law. That is $1,000 violation and a $50 billion bill for Verizon.

Democrats are asking House Speaker Dennis Hastert about the mysterious disappearance earlier this month of legislation that would stop the sale of private telephone records over the Internet. The bill, which had cleared the Energy & Commerce Committee with unanimous support had been slated for an airing before the full House on 6/12. Republicans removed it from the House floor schedule and told no one. This is what passes for Democracy today. It is thought intelligence agencies had it killed. This is probably true because an exemption had been sought for intelligence gathering activities. What the spies want is our telephone records because they are building a profile on everyone in America. US industrial production rose 0.8% in April led by business equipment. Capacity utilization rose to 81.9%, the highest since 2002, from 81.4% in March. Further to foreign net capital flows, net foreign purchases of US Treasuries fell a large 86% to only $3.1 billion, a new 3-year low. Foreign central banks, doing something they had not done in three years, sold, net, $6.3 billion in securities. This is an ongoing reduction in foreign participation and in their exposure to US debt securities. They only bought 30% of last week's 10-year Treasury note auction. It was their lowest participation in 15 months. In this month's 3-year note auction they only took 24%, that's down from 45% participation in 2004. The 2-year best month had only a 24% participation, the worst since 11/04, and the 5-year had only a 21% foreign participation rate, the worst for that security since 10/03. It is now very obvious that foreign central banks are not going to accumulate further US assets and that means monetization and inflation. The National Association of Home Builders Index fell six points to 45 in May, an 11-year low. New housing construction fell for the third month in a row with starts falling 7.4%. The PPI, Producer Price Index, rose 0.9% in March. The pundits found this acceptable, but understandably no one said that's more than 10% a year. Each day we become more appalled at the stupidity of most all people throughout the World. In America, the dumbed-down capital of the World the people sit idly by as enemies within their Republic destroy all that has been accomplished since this country's inception. The question really is who is more corrupt, Congress or our President and his henchmen? One of the hottest real estate markets in the country, San Diego, saw a 60% jump in foreclosures in the first quarter, which was the largest since 1992. We believe in the coming year home equity will melt like sugar cubes dropped into a hot coffee cup. There are 241 foreclosures in San Diego County in the first quarter. Nationally, 323,102 properties entered some stage of foreclosure, a 38% increase from the fourth quarter and a 72% y-o-y increase. Riverside County, California had a 64% increase in default notices over the past year. The statewide increase was 29%.

The $500 billion deficit in just major company retirement plans is about to affect corporate bond investors. Thousands of companies are delinquent in contributing to pensions and they will have to disclose more information about retirement funds and health care costs in financial statements later this year. Congress is debating a new law that will force companies to start plugging the gaps in their pension plans. New rules may require companies to use cash or borrow to meet obligations to millions of pensioners. Fixing the retirement funds could cause bond losses of $24 billion, based on investor reaction. Legislators are not going to allow the taxpayer to bail out corporate malfeasance. Our estimate for under funding is more than $1 trillion. The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. insurer for companies with unfunded pensions, assumed responsibility for 120 plans with 235,000 members already and they are in debt some $28 billion. The plans will be fully funded, but almost all companies will abandon them now that they cannot screw their employees any longer.

It is small wonder the public holds Congress in such low esteem, only six months away from election, with a federal budget deficit out of control, a war that is a disaster in every sense of the word, with military spending totally out of control and with public services being slashed, Congress gives us $70 billion in tax cuts, mostly for the rich. This comes as middle-income workers face sky-high fuel prices, soaring health costs, and variable-rate mortgage payments that are going through the roof. Not only is the tax cut politically and fiscally irresponsible, but it is obscene. We have to include the two-year extension of capital gains and dividend cuts and a one-year extension of relief from the AMT. Eighty-seven percent of the benefits of tax cuts will go to 14% of households earning above $100,000 a year; 22% of the benefits go to the richest two-thirds of 1% of households earning more than $1 million a year. Why do wealthy Americans need a tax cut? That is when the gap between rich and poor is wider than it's been in a century. The rich now pay a smaller percentage of income in taxes than at any time in the last 75 years. We no longer have a graduated income tax, and the trickle down theory doesn't work. The rate of new investment during this recovery has trailed the rate of investment during the three previous recoveries. Almost nothing has trickled down. Productivity is up marginally, but the current median wage of about $35,000 is what it was five years ago due to offshoring and outsourcing. While top executives are raking in 7 and 8 digit compensation packages, middle-class workers are getting screwed. Remember, all this in November, and except for a handful throw every one of these Congressmen and women out of office.

Morgan Stanley's Stephen Roach has done a 180-degree turn. First he tells us the World financial situation is going to be just fine, now he tells us we have a commodities bubble. If he is wrong on these two issues, and he will be, his reputation will be destroyed. As we have said often, economists are captive to corporate and governmental interests and they cannot tell you the truth if they wanted to. Prices of commodities are up 200% over the past five years and they have to double again just to catch up with inflation. Mr. Roach seems to have overlooked that or the fact that inventories are at all-time lows. That doesn't matter though. When Morgan Stanley tells him to change his tune, he changes it. Thus, Mr. Roach tells us that, purely from the standpoint of global macro we have a bubble. Did it ever occur to this economist that all government statistics are bogus, particularly those of the CPI and unemployment? He obviously hasn't grasped that as yet. His masters, employers, could very well be short the commodities. He doesn't tell us whether they are or are not. If he doesn't know we suggest he find out. As per usual, he probably doesn't want to know. As Mr. Roach tells us the basic premise of this new era of globalization has unleashed a powerful strain of commodity-intensive global growth that has caught a supply-constrained World largely by surprise. He is right but fails to add that this same globalization is gutting the former industrialized World and that inflation is over 10% annually in spite of lower wages. The problem is the demand has run loose and the elitists cannot contain it. If they shut off the fiat money and credit the whole system collapses. This is not a bubble. The demand is there and the supply and inventory is not there. In the case of gold and silver, it is the same but they are also driven as the only real currencies. All these nations to varying degree have cheapened the value of their currencies and so there is a flight from these currencies into real unfettered assets such as gold and silver.

Mr. Roach tells us to play the commodity bubble at your own peril, yet we see no similar admonition regarding a stock market Mr. Roach has to know is rigged. He is not dumb, so he knows. Thus again, we are treated with elitist propaganda with no one in the mainstream media or among newsletter writers who dares challenge his fallacies. There is no question our government, England and Israel are engaged in a secret war against Iran that is similar to the part played in Afghanistan when the Soviets occupied that country. This time it's covert operations involve the Kurdish militias and rebel Iranian elements. This harks back to our creation and employment of Osama bin Laden. Our elitist Neocons are doing everything possible to foment war with Iran. Venezuela is considering selling its fleet of US-made F-16 fighter jets to another country, perhaps Iran, in response to a US ban on arms sales to Venezuela. It has already been a long time since sensitive upgrades and replacement parts were supplied by the US. We expect Mr. Chavez to purchase new jets from Russia or China shortly. George and the Neocons say Venezuela is not cooperating. What that means is Mr. Chavez is not lying down before the Illuminist masters in Washington and London. This means prohibition on all commercial arms sales and licensing of defense articles and services to Venezuela. The excuse is Venezuela is harboring and providing a safe haven to FARC and the National Liberation Army. There is no proof of that. We would expect that once all the Citgo interests in the US are sold off that Mr. Chavez will then wean the US off Venezuelan oil.

The Washington Post-ABC News Poll tells us 69% of our citizens believe our nation is now off track, 56% say they'd prefer to see Democrats in control of Congress after the elections. When asked if they were inclined to reelect their current representative to Congress, 55% said they would look for a change. That is almost the same percentage when the Republicans took control in 1994. Democrats have an edge, but 52% said Democrats offered no sharp contrast. That in turn leaves the door open to Independents and challengers. This poll shows Bush's approval rating at 33%, down 5% in barely a month and a new low in this poll. Bush's disapproval ratings among Republicans has nearly doubled in the past month from 16% to 30% while his approval rating fell below 70%. Ninety percent of Democrats and 70% of Independents do not like the job Bush is doing. Only 37% believe Iraq has been worth the cost, the lowest ever, and 63% believe the war has not been worth it – a view shared by 80% of Democrats, 70% of Independents and 33% of Republicans. Forty-six percent said Iraq was the main reason for Bush's disapproval. They found 33% approved of the job Congress is doing. This is in stark comparison to other polls that have Congress at 25% approval – 49% of Republicans approve while 47% disapprove, whereas 70% of Democrats and Independents disapprove. Only 39% approve of the job Democrats are doing, while 58% disapprove. Sixty-two percent said they approve of the way their representative is doing their job, up from 59% last month. Democrats hold an advantage of 52% to 40% when voters were asked whether they plan to vote for the Republican or Democratic candidate in their House district. Democrats had a double-digit lead over Republicans on 9 of 10 issues. By 2 to 1, or better, the public preferred Democrats to handle gas prices and health care. And, by double-digit margins, they preferred Democrats to handle (by 23%) education, by (18%) the economy, privacy by (15%) and by 14% Iraq, immigration and taxes.

Instead of enriching the seven major oil companies ["Seven Sisters"] we should be buying gasoline from Venezuela-owned Citgo, which helps provide medical care, food, housing and education for the poor of Venezuela. You will also be helping Citgo's 14,000 American employees. The bottom line on the Medicare Drug Program is that the program will eventually replace existing public and private spending on drugs with the taxpayer footing the entire bill. Once that is completed, all of medicine will be nationalized and we'll have the nightmare that Canada now has. Seventy-five percent of seniors already had some form of prescription drug coverage even before the hugely expensive Medical Drug Bill was passed in 2003. Eventually doctors and other healthcare professionals will become little more than employers of the state. All Congress had to do was target assistance to low-income seniors who needed the most help. Instead most of the Medicare beneficiaries enrolled in the drug program were enrolled automatically, whether by employers who are getting huge taxpayer subsidies, or through the new Medicare Advantage plans. About 6.4 million Medicare beneficiaries also eligible for Medicaid had no choice at all in the matter: They were simply transferred, en masse, into the new Medicare drug program. Congress created a universal entitlement, and a universal entitlement will eventually crowd out most alternative coverage, including employer-based coverage. While all this transpires, 75 year unfunded liabilities of the Medicare program have reached $32.4 trillion, $8 trillion from the drug entitlement alone. The hit will be heavy in 2011, when baby boomers start to retire. The answer is take everyone making over $50,000 a year and with more than $250,000 in assets off of Medicare. That will help save the system. Remember, that is us that will be cut off.

Consumer prices rose 0.6% in April led by higher energy prices. Higher rents finally figured in the increase. Year-on-year, CPI is up 3.5%, up from March y-o-y of 3.4%. For the first four months of the year, inflation is running at a 5.1% annual rate versus 3.4% in 2004. Our figures still show annualized inflation up over 10% annually for the past six years. More than a decade after US troops withdrew from Somalia, following a disastrous military intervention, the administration is secretly supporting secular [criminal] warlords who have been waging fierce battles against Islamic groups for the control of the capital, Mogadishu. If nothing else this looks like payback. The Islamic government wants the US involved in a more constructive way, but that is not going to happen. The administration refuses to answer any questions on the issue. We hear the justification for backing rebel [gangsters] warlords is to save Somalia from al Qaeda. Do they really expect us to believe that?

PIMCO's Bill Gross really blew it on projections of the 10-year US Treasury yields. His prior range was 3% to 4.5%, which we called him on when he made the projection. We made ours 5 1/4%. He just upgraded to 4% to 5.5%. How very convenient. He had lots of excuses, but that is a very bad major call. He also tells us that global inflation remains benign, averaging 1-3% and believes dollar bases assets and the dollar should under-perform global alternatives. It is absolutely incredible that a man who controls billions of dollars in US Treasuries, via his funds, can continually lie about the economy. How can a professional miss the interest rate rise structure by 1% or 25%? Worse yet, he knows the BLS figures are bogus, yet tells us inflation will only be 3% or less. He knows inflation is considerably higher. This shows you the tremendous pressure that is placed upon money managers. These projections make Gross look like an absolute fool. An estimated $2 trillion in home loans nationwide is expected to adjust upward in 2006-07. In Colorado, 28.5% of homeowners have 5% or less equity in their homes, and 47% have 15% or less. Only Tennessee homeowners, on average, have less equity. Increasingly, people who locked in 3-year ARMS with rates in the 4% range are finding loan rates rising by 50% or more.

Next, the downward spiral begins: They cannot afford the higher payment, they cannot sell their homes for profit, or they cannot refinance because they have little or no equity in their houses, or they're precluded from refinancing because of pre-payment penalties. They believed housing prices would go up forever. When you combine ARMS, 100% financing, negative amortization, seller-paid closing costs, rising rates, falling prices, rising inventory and a continuing sluggish economy, you have a recipe for 1988 to 1992 revisited and then some. A typical borrower who took out a 3-year ARM in 2003 at 4.18% could see that loan rise to 6.18% in 2006 and 7.625% in 2007. The first rise would move the payment to $1,699, a $528 increase from the initial amount, a 45% increase. Even worse, some have "Option ARMS" which gives consumers the choice of making minimum payments, minimum payments with interest, or payments with interest and principal. They can choose whether to amortize the loans on a 15-year or 30-year basis. Sometimes the rates change every month. If you don't pay the minimum payment it is added to your loan and it is called negative amortization, which means the loan can grow with every payment. The only regions that might get a break are those that didn't rise in value. 7.7 million borrowers took out $1.88 trillion in ARMS in 2004-2005, $368.3 billion of that amount are "loans with equity difficulty," that are at risk of going into default. It is thought 5% could default or $550 billion of $11 trillion of home equity in the US. That means lower prices and less consumption. We contend these loans should have never been made in the first place. The piper has to be paid. Rents, a large part of the CPI, rather than house prices, that lay dormant for six years are rising and so is the CPI, until, of course, they change the formulas again, which they do frequently. Rents in Los Angeles were up 7% last year, double the rate of increases of recent years. The occupancy rate is 97%. Two-bedrooms in Hollywood are $1,900 a month and in West LA it's $2,460. This situation will add to inflation for the next three years.

Emerging-market stocks are falling for the biggest losses in two years, on speculation that rising interest rates will cause bond yields to climb and reduce demand for assets in developing countries such as South Korea and Russia. If the Fed keeps raising rates, money will start flowing back into US Treasuries. There is also the added factor of the yen carry-trade, which is going to deprive these markets of money for investment as the trade ends. Manufacturing activity in the New York area continued to expand in May, but at its slowest pace in almost a year. The NY Fed's Empire State Manufacturing Index fell to 12.4 in May from 15.8 in April. This is the lowest since 10.2 in June 2005. The New Orders Index increased to 16.4 from 14.1 in April. Shipments rose to 17.3 in May from 14 in April, while the Unfilled-Orders Index rose to 2.1 from minus 2.9 in the previous month. Inventories fell to 0.8 in May from 1.6 in April. The Prices-Paid Index rose to 42.6 in May from 37.9 in April and the prices received held steady at 14.8 from 14.5. Expectations of price increases six months ahead jumped to 59.8 in May from 50 in April. That means higher inflation or less profits ahead. The SEC said actions it is planning to reduce the costs of complying with the Sarbanes-Oxley corporate governance law will not include an exemption for small public companies. This is another political sellout. Now companies will go private, not form businesses, or go out of business. This is an idiotic, expensive, dreadful law.

The NY Fed says credit derivative dealer banks risk weakening the financial system by allowing hedge funds to borrow too aggressively. They said underlying credit exposures totaling more than $17 trillion can throw up negative surprises. Visa USA, the largest US credit card association said its cardholders sent $318.2 billion in the first quarter, 17.4% more than a year earlier. The number of cards outstanding grew by 9.8% y-o-y. Credit card volume rose 10.1% and check card by 17.6%. Commercial and small business card volume grew 27.4%. Moody's is rolling out a new system later this year, which will raise credit ratings on most of the $1.2 trillion loans it monitors, potentially saving borrowers as much as $4.6 billion a year in interest. The perverse thinking is that loans deserve higher ratings because lenders usually get paid more than twice as much as bondholders when companies default on their debt or go bankrupt. If that is the case, why didn't we make the change 100 years ago? This move is simply to shore up corporate balance sheets for spurious reasons because of looming hyperinflation and recession. They must think we are dumb. The MBA says weekly mortgage applications rose 4.6% last week from the previous week. Year-on-year they are down 14.7%. Apps for purchases rose 2.4%, while refinancings increased 8.4%. Refinancings accounted for 35% of all loans, up from 33.8% the previous week. ARMS accounted for 29.9% of loans, up from 28.5%.

The failure of FTAA, thanks to Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez Frias, forced George and the neocons to end run FTAA and secure separate individual trade pacts. These bilateral pacts have forced Canada, China and Europe to seek their own separate deal at the expense of the WTO. The result is a number of conflicting agreements that will do more harm than good. This is shooting WTO, NAFTA and CAFTA full of holes and we are happy about that. The US tact of competitive liberalization is dead and that signals the beginning of the end of free trade and globalization, as we have known it. The failure of the Doha Round was the first step in the direction of failure. Another signal of failure was the appointment of a technocrat, Susan Schwab as US Trade Representative. She's a lightweight, which is another signal there will be a change in direction. These bilateral trade agreements won't stand up to any negative financial or economic pressure that a larger agreement like FTAA could insure. The Neocons have implemented trade agreements with eight countries so far and it's seeking nine more. The answer for us is an end to WTO, NAFTA and CAFTA.

There is no question in our minds that the dollar's days as a reserve currency are coming to an end, and there really isn't a viable replacement as World reserve currency. The Euro cannot do it. One interest rate fits all doesn't work, and the EU still doesn't have a Constitution and we don't believe they'll ever get one. They did things backward. It should have been the Constitution first and then the Euro, but greed and the quest for World government got in the way. That leaves the lone contender as the World's new currency to gold and oil. Gold has been stockpiled by the World Bank. Gold owes no one anything. It has been a store of value for centuries, a safe haven in a political, economic or financial storm. It can be used as an anchor for other currencies. The gold solution is simple – a no brainer. The opposition is the elitists, central bankers and politicians. They want the ability to create fiat currency. The excuse is in today's global economy a gold standard is too restrictive. They want leverage and gold doesn't allow that. We have already witnessed what shambles fiat currencies have led to in our monetary systems. Central banks cannot be trusted to apply the precepts of sound money effectively. They have already demonstrated that. We need transparency and direct financial responsibility for failure. We do not want to hear sorry about that and the culprits walk off into the sunset. A gold standard system has to be policed by private interests, not government hacks. Government bailouts have to end, and the US government either has to settle now with creditors or go bankrupt before venturing a gold standard. Fixed exchange rates will be official and operated by private interest. They would also declare devaluations. This way everyone knows where they are at all the time. It's easy, painful and fully achievable and it will happen, but only under the worst of circumstances.

We want to comment again because it's so important, on Rep. James Sensenbrenner's (R-WI) Internet Stopping Adults Facilitating the Exploitation of Today's Youth Act – or Internet Safety Act. If it becomes law it will be only a matter of time before the International Forecaster will no longer be able to publish. The proposal is that ISP's be required to record information about Americans online activities so that the police can spy on anyone on the net more easily to conduct criminal investigations. Sensenbrenner has deliberately written legislation that is deliberately vague; so that any agency of the government and law enforcement can do anything they please to invade your privacy. The very minimum is a collection of user names, physical addresses, Internet Protocol addresses and subscribers' telephone numbers have to be retained. That would allow our Attorney General to order Internet providers to retain records of e-mail correspondents, Web pages visited, and contents of the communications. So-called law enforcement takes total precedence over the rights of citizens. You will be spied upon 24/7. Furthermore anyone who publishes the truth will be regarded as an enemy of the state – a terrorist. If ISPS' don't comply they will be fined and imprisoned for up to one year. The supposed reason for the law is to catch child pornographers and pedophiles. If they want to do that all they have to do for openers is go to the White House or see George H.W. Bush and Henry Kissinger. The European Parliament has already approved such legislation for the Internet, telephone and voice over Internet Protocol (VOLP). The law opens the door to government fishing expeditions and unbounded data collecting. The first thing on Sensenbrenner's agenda is to go after all alternative news sources and get them off the Internet so the public cannot access the truth. It is very important this bill is defeated. Please send this message on to others, and you and they contact everyone in Congress to stop this monstrosity. Yes, and remove Sensenbrenner from Congress.

Scott Silverman, chairman of the Board of VeriChip Corp., has alarmed civil libertarians by promoting the company's subcutaneous human tracking device as a way to identify illegal aliens, immigrants and guest workers. Sorry, we'll find a better way Scott. Once they finished working on that group we'd be next. This we can promise you is something the government is seriously considering. They are presently considering chipping our troops with RFID chips to replace dog tags and to deposit medical records within the solder. The president says Congress can oversight security. This maneuver is just a method of letting a toothless and impotent Congress save face. The terms on which they receive the information he lets them have will include a promise not to publicly criticize its limitations. That will be deftly embedded in a general nondisclosure agreement. The threats are prosecution and jail if anyone breaks the promise, plus revocation of the entire oversight agreements for all persons. This and NSA spying is serious, but the administration is about to give itself permission to make an all-out attack on Iran. We'll see if it will materialize.

Taxpayers will soon get a surprise bill that could exceed $1 trillion for the cost of paying future medical benefits for state and local workers who retire. They have set aside $2.5 trillion to help pay for 190 million civil servants and 7 million retirees, but they have set aside almost nothing to pay for retiree medical benefits. We anticipate a taxpayer revolt. The burdens on local government are so great that we'll probably end up with national health care. As an example, NYC's liability is $50 billion and the city's entire budget last year was $53 billion. The federal government also has a $2.3 trillion unfunded liability for medical and disability benefits promised to civil servants and military personnel who retire. The shortfalls in Medicare is $33.4 trillion and in Social Security $4.6 trillion. It doesn't look good. The global derivatives market expanded to a record $298 trillion in the second half of 2005, led by a 34% increase in contracts to insure debt payment, says the BIS, Bank for International Settlements. Total credit-default swaps rose to $13.7 trillion. Sir Alan Greenspan says, "Home sales are off, applications are off, everything is going in the same direction. The boom is over, and you can say that with a fairly strong degree of confidence." No kidding Dick Tracy – we forecast the fall last June and it began last September. As always, Alan was one-year behind the curve. What Alan is really saying is prepare for the great dark pit, which I planned for you.

They are at it again. The Justice Department is accusing Abbott Laboratories of vastly inflating prices of its drugs as a part of a fraudulent billing scheme alleged to have cost government health programs more than $175 million over 10 years. They raised the price of the intravenous antibiotic Vancomycin as much as 18 times what it charged, knowing that the Medicare and Medicaid programs would reimburse the providers based on the manufacturer's price. This is a whistle-blower claim. Their greed has no boundaries. Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez Frias says he will consider putting the sale of oil in Euros. He said in London he felt the EU had made a great contribution with the euro. Since last October, Venezuela has transferred a large portion of its $30.4 billion of foreign reserves out of US Treasures and into banks and other financial instruments in Europe.

It is absolutely no wonder the Fed doesn't want to publish M3. Bank credit surged $43.3 billion to a record $7.890 trillion, with a y-t-d of $384 billion or 14% annualized. Year-on-Year its up 11.3%. Securities credit was up $8.6 billion. Loans and leases jumped $34.7 billion for the week which is out of sight, with a y-t-d gain of $121 billion or 11%. Commercial and industrial loans have expanded at a 16.5% rate y-t-d and 14.5% y-o-y. Real estate loans rose $9.4 billion, up 10.5% y-t-d and up 12.8% y-o-y. Consumer loans were up $1.2 billion and securities loans expanded $16.9 billion. Other loans were up $7.3 billion. Large time deposits gained $1.6 billion. M2 dropped $23.9 billion to $6.770 trillion. Year-on-year its up 4.4% and y-t-d 3.3%. Money market fund assets jumped $13.4 billion to $2.058 trillion. Total commercial paper jumped $8.1 billion to $1.767 trillion. Total CP is up 18.6% y-t-d and 16.6% y-o-y. Asset Backed Securities, ABS issuance, was up $17 billion. Year-to-date total ABS issuance of $261 billion is slightly ahead of 2005's record pace, with y-t-d home equity loan ABS sales of $184 billion, 10% above last year. Fed foreign holdings of Treasury paper and Agency securities increased $3.4 billion to $1.624 trillion. Custody holdings were up $105 billion y-t-d, or 18.0% annualized and $220 billion or 15.7% y-o-y.

The head of a group of Federal Air Marshals says the service is badly broken. Right now they cannot protect the public. It's not that they are not proficient, but because the Department of Fatherland Security, won't let them do their jobs. Air Marshals are not able to work undercover because check-in and boarding procedures at airports make it impossible for them to maintain their anonymity. Everyone on the plane ends up knowing who they are. They have pursued the matter for three years and there has been retaliation by the service. What a government. Boeing will pay $615 million to end federal investigations into its illegal hiring of a high-ranking Air Force official. This is the largest penalty ever paid by a defense contractor. As usual, the connected elitists don't go to jail.

Advanced Warning about Money & The New [Under]World Order/Illuminati Mafia Cabal!

We have already presented many quotes from many of researchers, politicians, writers, reporters and economists warning about the N.W.O. Others who have exposed this evil include Congressman Larry McDonald, Ron Paul, Cythia McKinney, Senator Jesse Helms, James Traffant, US Generals Smedley Butler and Douglas McArthur, and hundreds of others. Search for them at Amazon.com. Hope you read the previous poem to get in the mood. Here's more.

The New World Order (N.W.O.) Explained!

Dr. Henry Makow explains that the struggle is between an international financial elite dedicated to Satan, led by the Illuminati, and the remnants of humanity. The unsuspecting masses hang in the balance, inhabiting a fool's paradise like children. This struggle is not between nations, religions or between ideologies of Left or Right. This occult elite creates and controls both sides of every conflict in order to obscure and at the same time advance its long-term agenda [and the fooled masses fall into its trap]. The elite plan is to remake the planet as its private neo feudal preserve. This involves the reduction of the World's population through plague, catastrophe or war; mind control/breeding of the survivors as serfs; and the enshrinement of Lucifer as god. A cataclysm could happen within the next 10-20 years. We're living on borrowed time, duped by the media and distracted by sex while the elite tests and imposes various methods of manipulation and control. Thousands of organizations like the UN promote the elite's "World government" agenda with practically no public scrutiny. More recently, the elite instigated the Sept. 11 attacks in order to justify their "War on Terror" the repressive "Patriot Act", and Iraq War. The flooding of New Orleans, vaccinations and the bird flu epidemic are other tests or possible harbingers. Some sophisticated and dedicated people roll their eyes when told about this conspiracy. They are hypnotized by their false "education" and the mass media.

The "Illuminati", hidden within Masonry, is the Church of Satan. Its membership was known; its premises were raided. Plans and correspondence were seized and published. Defectors attested to the grave danger at formal inquiries. It was suppressed but went underground. It has since grown so powerful that it has literally defined the modern age (under the guise of "progress," "reform" and "revolution") and now threatens the future of humanity with dysfunction. The term "Illuminati" means "enlightened ones" and refers to Lucifer, the "light bringer." Its essential philosophy is to substitute "reason" i.e. expedience for "right reason" i.e. universal morality. "Do as thou wilt" was the Illuminati motto but talking about the Illuminati conspiracy is taboo. Illuminism or "humanism" is a secular religion and a transition to Satanism (i.e. "tolerance of all except God"). The decline of public decency makes this increasingly apparent. Look for the World to increasingly resemble the game "Grand Theft Auto" or an occult Hollywood feature. Whether it's a plant, a dog or a child, each flourishes naturally following its inherent design given a little nourishment and love. The Illuminati wishes to negate the inherent course of human development by promoting dysfunction under such guises as "freedom" and the cookie cutter of "equality." The Illuminati represents the traditional feudal power elite, the alliance of European aristocracy and Luciferian Pharisac moneylenders, united by money, marriage and the occult. In 1770, Mayer Rothschild hired the 22-year-old Adam Weishaupt, a university instructor (son of a rabbi raised as a Catholic) to attract the cream of European society to a secret cult designed to reverse the course of Western (i.e. Christian) civilization (hence the term "revolution.")

I am summarizing "Final Warning" an online book by David Allen Rivera and James Wardner's excellent book "Unholy Alliances" (pp.34-51). The Illuminati was founded May 1, 1776. Weishaupt wrote: "The great strength of our Order lies in its concealment, let it never appear, in any place in its own name, but always covered by another name, and another occupation. None is fitter than the three lower degrees of Masonry; the public is accustomed to it, expects little from it, and therefore takes little notice of it." An understanding was reached with the Masons at the Congress of Wilhelmsbad on December 20, 1781 to add the Illuminati hierarchy to the first three degrees of Masonry. On returning home, Comte de Virieu, a Mason from the Martiniste lodge at Lyons, reported: "I can only tell you that all this is very much more serious than you think. The conspiracy which is being woven is so well thought out that it will be impossible for the Monarchy and the Church to escape it." Nesta Webster in her book World Revolution describes the modus operandi of the Illuminati. It applies to Adolf Hitler as well as Timothy Leary: "The art of Illuminism lay in enlisting dupes as well as adepts, and by encouraging the dreams of honest visionaries or the schemes of fanatics, by flattering the vanity of ambitious egotists, by working on unbalanced brains, or by playing on such passions as greed and power, to make men of totally divergent aims serve the secret purpose of the sect." The Illuminati also used bribes of money and sex to gain control of men in high places, and then blackmailed them with the threat of financial ruin, public exposure or assassination. This continues to the present day.

Weishaupt wrote: "One must speak sometimes in one way, sometimes in another, so that our real purpose should remain impenetrable to our inferiors." And what was that purpose? It was "nothing less than to win power and riches, to undermine secular or religious government, and to obtain the mastery of the World." The first priority was to enlist writers, publishers and educators. The modern pantheon of great thinkers, from Darwin to Nietzsche to Marx, were Illuminati pawns or agents. Of one university, Weishaupt wrote: "All the professors are members of the Illuminati...so will all the pupils become disciples of Illuminism." (Wardner, 45)

As the Order spread throughout Germany, money was contributed from such leading [duped] Jewish families as the Oppenheims, Wertheimers, Schusters, Speyers, Sterns and of course, the Rothschilds. Gerald B. Winrod wrote in his book Adam Weishaupt: A Human Devil "of the thirty-nine chief sub-leaders of Weishaupt, seventeen were Jews." From Bavaria, the Order of the Illuminati spread like wildfire... Soon they had over 300 members from all walks of life, including students, merchants, doctors, lawyers, judges, professors, civil officers, bankers, and even church ministers. Some of their more notable members were: the Duke of Orleans, Duke Ernst Augustus of Saxe-Weimar-Coburg-Gotha, Prince Charles of Hesse-Cassel, Johann Gottfried von Herder (a philosopher), Count Klemens von Metternich, Catherine II of Russia, Count Gabriel de Mirabeau, Marquis of Constanza ("Diomedes"), Duke Ferdinand of Brunswick ("Aaron"), Duke Karl August of Saxe-Weimar, Johann Wolfgang von Goethe (a poet), Joseph II of Russia, Christian VII of Denmark, Gustave III of Sweden, and King Poniatowski of Poland. By the time of the 3rd Masonic Congress in Frankfurt in 1786, the Illuminati virtually controlled all the Masonic lodges, which represented three million secret society members across the various German provinces, Austria, Hungary, England, Scotland, Poland, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Spain, Sweden, Russia, Ireland, Africa, and America. (Wardner, p. 39)

In the 1790's there was an Illuminati scare in the United States. At Charlestown, in 1798, the Reverend Jedediah Morse preached: "Practically all the civil and ecclesiastical establishments of Europe have already been shaken to their foundations by this terrible organization, the French Revolution itself is doubtless to be traced to its machinations..." (Wardner 48) On Sept. 9, 1785, Joseph Utzschneider, a lawyer, and two other defectors revealed the Illuminati goals before a Court of Inquiry in Bavaria: Abolition of the Monarchy and all ordered government; Abolition of private property (which the Illuminati will assume); Abolition of Patriotism (nations); Family, (through the abolition of Marriage, Morality, and by government providing "Education" for children) and finally, Abolition of all Religion, particularly Christianity. These are exactly the goals of Communism, enunciated by Marx in 1848. The Illuminati and Communism go hand-in-glove. The term "Reds" originates with "Red Shield" the Rothschild name. The satanic five-pointed star is the symbol of both. In 1832 William Russell established a chapter of the Illuminati at Yale called the "Skull and Bones." President G.W. Bush, his father and John Kerry are members.

U.S. President Abraham Lincoln, Nov. 21, 1864 - (letter to Col. William F. Elkins) - Ref: The Lincoln Encyclopedia, Archer H. Shaw (Macmillan, 1950, NY)": "As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned and an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the Republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of war. God grant that my suspicions may prove groundless."

Justice Felix Frankfurter, U.S. Supreme Court: "The real rulers in Washington are invisible and exercise their power from behind the scenes."

US President Woodrow Wilson 1913: "Some of the biggest men in the United States, in the field of commerce and manufacture, are afraid of something. They know that there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it."

Winston Churchill to the London press in 1922: "From the days of Spartacus, Weishaupt, Karl Marx, Trotsky, Belacoon, Rosa Luxenberg and Emma Goldman, this World conspiracy has been steadily growing. This conspiracy played a definite recognizable role in the French Revolution [1789]. It has been the mainspring of every subversive movement during the 19th century. And now at last, this band of extraordinary personalities from the underworld of the great cities of Europe and America have gripped the Russian people by the hair of their head and have become the undisputed masters of that enormous empire."--

Joseph Kennedy, father of JFK, in the July 26th, 1936 issue of The New York Times: "Fifty men have run America, and that's a high figure."

U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt in a letter written Nov. 21, 1933 to Colonel E. Mandell House: The real truth of the matter is, as you and I know, that a financial element in the large centers has owned the government of the U.S. since the days of President Andrew Jackson."

H. G. Wells 1939: "... when the struggle seems to be drifting definitely towards a World social democracy, there may still be very great delays and disappointments before it becomes an efficient and beneficent World system. Countless people ... will hate the new World order ... and will die protesting against it. When we attempt to evaluate its promise, we have to bear in mind the distress of a generation or so of malcontents, many of them quite gallant and graceful-looking people." H. G. Wells, in his book entitled "The New World Order" (1939)

Adolf Hitler: "National Socialism will use its own revolution for establishing a new World order." Adolf Hitler during World War II

George Bush: The Unauthorized Biography by Webster G. Tarpley & Anton Chaitkin: "President Franklin Roosevelt's Alien Property Custodian, Leo T. Crowley, signed Vesting Order Number 248 [11/17/42] seizing the property of Prescott Bush under the "Trading with Enemy Act". The order, published in obscure government record books and kept out of the news, Note #4 explained nothing about the Nazis involved; only that the Union Banking Corporation was run for the 'Thyssen family' of 'Germany and/or Hungary' -- 'nationals ... of a designated enemy country.' By deciding that Prescott Bush and the other directors of the Union Banking Corporation were legally 'front men for the Nazis', the government avoided the more important historical issue: In what way 'were Hitler's Nazis themselves hired, armed, and instructed by' the New York and London clique of which Prescott Bush was an executive manager?"

J. Edgar Hoover, ex-FBI director on the New World Order conspiracy: "The individual is handicapped by coming face-to-face with a conspiracy so monstrous he cannot believe it exists." <http://savethemales.ca>

Bertrand Russell: 1953 - The Impact of Science on Society by Fabian N.W.O. Socialist Bertrand Russell is published in which he declares: "I think the subject which will be of most importance politically is mass psychology....Various results will soon be arrived at: that the influence of home is obstructive although this science will be diligently studied, it will be rigidly confined to the governing class. The populace will not be allowed to know how its convictions were generated. When the technique has been perfected, every government that has been in charge of education for a generation will be able to control its subjects securely without the need of armies or policemen....Educational propaganda, with government help, could achieve this result in a generation. There are, however, two powerful forces opposed to such a policy: one is religion; the other is nationalism....A scientific World society cannot be stable unless there is a World government.

Zbigniew Brzezinski: "...This regionalization is in keeping with the Tri-Lateral Plan which calls for a gradual convergence of East and West, ultimately leading toward the goal of "one World government"....National sovereignty is no longer a viable concept..." Zbigniew Brzezinski, National Security Advisor to President Jimmy Carter.

1985 -- Norman Cousins, the honorary chairman of Planetary Citizens for the World We Chose, is quoted in Human Events: "World government is coming, in fact, it is inevitable. No arguments for or against it can change that fact." Cousins was also president of the World Federalist Association, an affiliate of the World Association for World Federation (WAWF), headquartered in Amsterdam. WAWF is a leading force for World federal government and is accredited by the U.N. as a Non-Governmental Organization.

1987 -- The Secret Constitution and the Need for Constitutional Change is sponsored in part by the Rockefeller Foundation. Some thoughts of author Arthur S. Miller are: "...a pervasive system of thought control exists in the United States...the citizenry is indoctrinated by employment of the mass media and the system of public education...people are told what to think about...the old order is crumbling... Nationalism should be seen as a dangerous social disease...A new vision is required to plan and manage the future, a global vision that will transcend national boundaries and eliminate the poison of nationalistic solutions...a new Constitution is necessary."

George H.W. Bush's comment: "if the American people knew what we have done, they would string us up from the lamp posts." <http://savethemales.ca>

Daddy (poppy) Bush's admission: "Sarah, if the American people had ever known the truth about what we Bushes have done to this nation, we would be chased down in the streets and lynched." George Bush Senior speaking in an interview with reporter Sarah McClendon in December 1992

David Rockefeller's admission: "For more than a century, ideological extremists at either end of the political spectrum have seized upon well-publicized incidents to attack the Rockefeller family for the inordinate influence they claim we wield over American political and economic institutions. Some even believe we are part of a secret cabal working against the best interests of the United States, characterizing my family and me as 'internationalists' and of conspiring with others around the World to build a more integrated global political and economic structure - one World, if you will. If that's the charge, I stand guilty, and I am proud of it." David Rockefeller, Memoirs, 2002

David Rockefeller: "We are on the verge of a global transformation. All we need is the right major crisis and the nations will accept the New World Order." ... "We are grateful to the Washington Post, The New York Times, Time Magazine and other great publications whose directors have attended our meetings and respected their promises of discretion for almost forty years. It would have been impossible for us to develop our plan for the World if we had been subjected to the lights of publicity during those years. But, the World is now more sophisticated and prepared to march towards a World government. The supranational sovereignty of an intellectual elite and World bankers is surely preferable to the national auto-determination practiced in past centuries." David Rockefeller... Baden-Baden, Germany 1991; oil cartel owner, and builder of the World Trade Center destroyed by pre-installed explosive demolitions on September 11, 2001.

Henry Kissinger, Bilderberger Conference, Evians, France, 1991: "Today, America would be outraged if U.N. troops entered Los Angeles to restore order [referring to the 1991 LA Riot]. Tomorrow they will be grateful! This is especially true if they were told that there were an outside threat from beyond [i.e., an "extraterrestrial" invasion], whether real or promulgated [emphasis mine], that threatened our very existence. It is then that all peoples of the World will plead to deliver them from this evil. The one thing every man fears is the unknown. When presented with this scenario, individual rights will be willingly relinquished for the guarantee of their well-being granted to them by the World Government." "Oil is much too important a commodity to be left in the hands of the Arabs." --Henry Kissinger

Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark: "The United States is not nearly so concerned that its acts be kept secret from its intended victims as it is that the American people not know of them." –

Reference Op Ed page of the New York Times 9/24/01: "If the New World Order agenda is not realized by the terrorist attacks on America and if American's don't agree to give up their weapons and relinquish their sovereignty to the New World Order, the next attack will be the use of chemical, biological and/or atomic warfare against the American people. The architects of the New World Order will not hesitate to use as a last resort an atomic or hydrogen bomb in a major American city."

"The New World Order is a World that has a supranational authority to regulate World commerce and industry; an international organization that would control the production and consumption of oil; an international currency that would replace the dollar; a World Development Fund that would make funds available to free and Communist nations alike; and an international police force to enforce the edicts of the New World Order." —West German Chancellor, Willy Brandt.

Walter Cronkite: 1996 - A Reporter's Life by Walter Cronkite in which he proclaims: "if we are to avoid catastrophe, a system of World order--preferably a system of World government --is mandatory. The proud nations someday will see the light and, for the common good and their own survival, yield up their precious sovereignty, just as America's thirteen colonies did two centuries ago [defeating King George in the American Revolutionary War]. When we finally come to our senses and establish a World executive and parliament of nations, thanks to the Nuremberg precedent we will already have in place the fundamentals for the third branch of government, the judiciary." —Walter Cronkite, Satanic cultmember and voice of Satan at Bohemian Grove.

"By the end of this decade (2000 AD) we will live under the first One World Government that has ever existed in the society of nations ... a government with absolute authority to decide the basic issues of human survival. One World government is inevitable." —Pope John Paul II quoted by Malachi Martin in the book The Keys of This Blood

"The Persian Gulf crisis is a rare opportunity to forge new bonds with old enemies (the Soviet Union). Out of these troubled times a New World Order can emerge under a United Nations that performs as envisioned by its founders." —Sir President George Bush Sr., Knight of the British Empire, US Congress September 11, 1990; arrested when vice president after a drunk-driving crash with his mistress, member Council on Foreign Relations (CFR - wrote the charter for United Nations Corporation)

"The World can therefore seize the opportunity (the Persian Gulf crisis) to fulfill the long held promise of a New World Order where diverse nations are drawn together in common cause to achieve the universal aspirations of mankind." —Sir President George Bush Sr., KBE, in his State of the Union Address, January 29, 1991

"In defense of the World Order, U.S. Soldiers would have to kill and die. We are not going to achieve a New World Order, without paying for it in blood, as well as in words and money." —Arthur Schlesinger Jr, Foreign Affairs magazine (July/August 1995) of US-based Council on Foreign Relations Corporation (that wrote the charter for the Communist United Nations Corporation), "Back to the Womb," July/August 1993. Arthur Schlesinger Jr.

"Since September 11, the kinds of words that used to be coupled in the same sentence with 'Third Reich,' 'Gulag' and 'Pinochet' have actually crepted into the mouths of mainstream talking heads. Some in Congress are beginning to wake up and smell the coffee, and what's in the air isn't too fresh. They see a growing police state being implemented. While people may fear a downward spiral towards brown-shirts and book burnings, the truth is that an American police state may show up in a Brooks Brothers suit with an impressive law degree. What really galls is how the Bush administration has treated the American people like children. Anybody feeling the water temperature rising? Water or coffee may not be the right comparison. Maybe it's smoke. Maybe it's the smoke of the Reichstag burning."—Ellen Ratner, White House correspondent and bureau chief for the Talk Radio News service, Washington bureau chief and political editor for Talkers Magazine, Fox News analyst, "It can't happen here – or can it?" October 2001

For more quotes by N.W.O. operatives: <http://www.illuminati-news.com/Worldleaders-quote-nwo.htm> . New World Order Definition <http://www.threeworldwars.com/nwo.htm> . The following article is extracted from an excellent analysis of the New World Order by Ken Adachi which can be found at <http://educate-yourself.org/nwo> .

The term New World Order (NWO) has been used by numerous politicians through the ages, and is a generic term used to refer to a Worldwide conspiracy being orchestrated by an extremely powerful and influential group of genetically-related individuals (at least at the highest echelons) which include many of the World's wealthiest people, top political leaders, and corporate elite, as well as members of the so-called Black Nobility of Europe (dominated by the British Crown) whose goal is to create a One World (fascist, feudal) Government, stripped of nationalistic and regional boundaries, that is obedient to their agenda.

Listen to the banklord, James Paul Warburg: "We will have a World government whether you like it or not. The only question is whether that government will be achieved by conquest or consent." (February 17, 1950, as he testified before the US Senate; "Angel" to and active in the United World Federalists, son of Paul Moritz Warburg, nephew of Felix Warburg and of Jacob Schiff, both of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. which poured millions into the Russian Revolution through James' brother Max, banker to the German government - See the Sisson Report)

Their intention is to effect complete and total control over every human being on the planet and to dramatically reduce the World's population by two thirds. While the name New World Order is the term most frequently used today to loosely refer to anyone involved in this conspiracy, the study of exactly who makes up this group is a complex and intricate one. For further research sources, please see the side bar on the left. In 1992, Dr John Coleman published Conspirators Hierarchy: The Story of the Committee of 300. With laudable scholarship and meticulous research, Dr Coleman identifies the players and carefully details the New World Order agenda of Worldwide domination and control.

On page 161 of the Conspirators Hierarchy, Dr Coleman accurately summarizes the intent and purpose of the Committee of 300 as follows: "A One World Government and one-unit monetary system, under permanent non-elected hereditary oligarchs who self-select from among their numbers in the form of a feudal system as it was in the Middle Ages. In this One World entity, population will be limited by restrictions on the number of children per family, diseases, wars, famines, until 1 billion people who are useful to the ruling class, in areas which will be strictly and clearly defined, remain as the total World population. There will be no middle class, only rulers and the servants. All laws will be uniform under a legal system of World courts practicing the same unified code of laws, backed up by a One World Government police force and a One World unified military to enforce laws in all former countries where no national boundaries shall exist. The system will be on the basis of a welfare state; those who are obedient and subservient to the One World Government will be rewarded with the means to live; those who are rebellious will simply be starved to death or be declared outlaws, thus a target for anyone who wishes to kill them. Privately owned firearms or weapons of any kind will be prohibited."

Why the Conspiracy is Unknown

The sheer magnitude and complex web of deceit surrounding the individuals and organizations involved in this conspiracy is mind boggling, even for the most astute among us. Most people react with disbelief and skepticism towards the topic, unaware that they have been conditioned (brainwashed) to react with skepticism by institutional and media influences. Author and de-programmer Fritz Springmeier (The Top 13 Illuminati Bloodlines) says that most people have built in "slides" that short circuit the mind's critical examination process when it comes to certain sensitive topics. "Slides", Springmeier reports, is a CIA term for a conditioned type of response which dead ends a person's thinking and terminates debate or examination of the topic at hand. For example, the mention of the word "conspiracy" often solicits a slide response with many people. What most people believe to be "Public Opinion" is in reality carefully crafted and scripted propaganda designed to elicit a desired behavioral response from the public. Public opinion polls are really taken with the intent of gauging the public's acceptance of the New World Order's planned programs. A strong showing in the polls tells them that the programming is "taking", while a poor showing tells the NWO manipulators that they have to recast or "tweak" the programming until the desired response is achieved.

The NWO Modus Operandi

The NWO global conspirators manifest their agenda through the skilful manipulation of human emotions, especially fear. In the past centuries, they have repeatedly utilized a contrivance that NWO researcher and author David Icke has characterized in his latest book, The Biggest Secret, as Problem, Reaction, and Solution [Hegelian Dialectic]. The technique is as follows: NWO strategists create the Problem - by funding, assembling, and training an "opposition" group to stimulate turmoil in an established political power (sovereign country, region, continent, etc.) that they wish to impinge upon and thus create opposing factions in a conflict that the NWO themselves maneuvered into existence. In recent decades, so called opposition groups are usually identified in the media as 'freedom fighters' or 'liberators'. At the same time, the leader of the established political power where the conflict is being orchestrated is demonized and, on cue, referred to as 'another Hitler' (take your pick: Saddam Hussein, Milosevic, Kadaffi, etc.). The 'freedom fighters' are not infrequently assembled from a local criminal element (i.e. KLA, drug traffickers). In the spirit of true Machiavellian deceit, the same NWO strategists are equally involved in covertly arming and advising the leader of the established power as well (the NWO always profits from any armed conflict by loaning money, arming, and supplying all parties involved in a war). The conflict is drawn to the World stage by the controlled media outlets with a barrage of photos and video tape reports of horrific and bloody atrocities suffered by innocent civilians. The cry goes up "Something has to be done!" And that is the desired Reaction. The NWO puppeteers then provide the Solution by sending in UN 'Peace Keepers' (Bosnia) or a UN

'Coalition Force' (Gulf War) or NATO Bombers and then ground troops (Kosovo), or the military to 'search for Weapons of Mass Destruction', which of course are never found. Once installed, the 'peace keepers' never leave. The idea is to have NWO controlled ground troops in all major countries or strategic areas where significant resistance to the New World Order takeover is likely to be encountered.

Who is the NWO?

The corporate portion of the NWO is dominated by international bankers, oil barons and pharmaceutical cartels, as well as other major multinational corporations. The Royal Family of England, namely Queen Elizabeth II and the House of Windsor, (who are, in fact, descendants of the German arm of European Zionist Royalty - the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha family - changed the name to Windsor in 1914 WWI), are high level players in the oligarchy which controls the upper strata of the NWO. The decision making nerve centers of this effort are in London (especially the City of London), Basel Switzerland [B.I.S. Bank of International Settlements], and Brussels (NATO headquarters). The United Nations, along with all the agencies working under the UN umbrella, such as the World Health Organization (WHO), are full time players in this scheme. Similarly, NATO is a military tool of the NWO. [other infiltrated organizations include The Zionist MOSSAD, Rothschild dynasty's original mafia, Pilgrims and the Jesuits should be added above. The CIA is the Rockefeller's original mafia for external affairs while the FBI is for internal affairs (remember Cointelpro). The CIA and Masons also utilize charities and the Rotary Club as infiltrated fronts as shown in the previous chart in the section on Structure and Characteristics of The Families Owning the Major Banks.] The leaders of all major industrial countries like the United States, England, Germany, Italy, Australia, New Zealand, etc. (members of the "G7/G8") are active and fully cooperative participants in this conspiracy. In this century, the degree of control exerted by the NWO has advanced to the point that only certain hand-picked individuals, who are groomed and selected are even eligible to become the prime minister or president of countries like England, Germany, or The United States. It didn't matter whether Bill Clinton or Bob Dole won the Presidency in 1996, the results would have been the same. Both men are playing on the same team for the same ball club. Anyone who isn't a team player is taken out: i.e. President Kennedy (and the other 5 or maybe 6 US presidents who were assassinated William Henry Harrison, poisoned, in 1841, Zachary Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and John F. Kennedy 1963; and FDR's poisoning), Ali Bhutto (Pakistan) and Aldo Moro (Italy). More recently, Admiral Borda and William Colby were also killed because they were either unwilling to go along with the conspiracy to destroy America, weren't cooperating in some capacity, or were attempting to expose/ thwart the takeover agenda.

The NWO's Role in Shaping History

Most of the major wars, political upheavals, and economic depression/recessions of the past 100 years (and earlier) were carefully planned and instigated by the machinations of these elites. They include The Spanish-American War (1898), World War I and World War II; The Great Depression; the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917; the Rise of Nazi Germany; the Korean War; the Vietnam War; the 1989-91 "fall" of Soviet Communism; the 1991 Gulf War; the War in Kosovo; and the two Iraq wars. Even the French Revolution [1789] was orchestrated into existence by elements of the NWO. The instigation of a trumped-up war as a cover for amassing fortunes can be dated back to at least the 12th Century when only a core group of nine members of the Knights Templar, the military arm of a secret society known as the Priory of Sion, kicked off the The Crusades that lasted for over a century and a half. A rift later developed between the Templars and the Priory of Sion when Jerusalem was lost to Saracen Turks in 1187. In 1307, the king of France, Philippe the Fair, coveted the wealth and was jealous of the Templars' power. The French king, being a puppet of the Priory of Sion, set out to arrest all the Templars in France on October 13. While many Templars were seized and tortured, including their Grand Master, Jacques de Molay, many other Templars (who had been tipped off) escaped. They eventually resurfaced in Portugal, in Malta (as the Knights of Malta) and later in Scotland as The Scottish Rites of Masonry, with Albert Pike the Sovereign Grand Commander of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Masonry and the top Illuminist in America playing a key role in defining a plan for establishing a World government. The acquisition and consolidation of ever greater wealth, natural resources, total political power, and control over others are the motivating forces which drive the decisions of the NWO leaders. The toll in human suffering and the loss of innocent lives are non issues for these individuals.

Next: The New World Order Timeline. Previous: World War 1 and World War 2 compared. See Zionism for a discussion of the difference between Zionism and Judaism.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness." — Thomas Jefferson, American Declaration of Independence

WE HOLD THIS TRUTH THAT ALL HUMAN BEINGS ARE CREATED DIFFERENT. That every human being has the right to be mentally free and independent. That every human being has the right to feel, see, hear, sense, imagine, believe or experience anything at all, in any way, at any time. That every human being has the right to behave in any way that does not harm others or break fair and just laws. That no human being shall be subjected without consent to incarceration, restraint, punishment or psychological or medical intervention in an attempt to control, repress or alter the individual's thoughts, feelings or experiences. — UNIVERSAL DECLARATION OF MENTAL RIGHTS AND FREEDOMS

So, then, lets be unrestrained in our journey to follow the big money, I mean the mega or tera money! And follow the bloodlines of our leaders, I mean the lines of nobility! You will soon realize that it's not market forces which guide us but rather poli-tics' legislative forces controlled by the tera-money owners which enslave us. Please reread the Preface at this point to refresh your memory before continuing. Since ancient times, the elites have developed and evolved systems for controlling and ripping-off the masses whom they view as slaves, serfs, knaves, peasants, etc. in order to live like gods on Mount Olympus! Remember, its only recently that the European, Russian, American serfs were freed from bondage and that slavery was outlawed!! This is not the first time in American history that the elites have usurped political and financial power from the people.

The American Revolution was supposed to result in the creation of a republican form of democracy, with the various branches of government providing countervailing powers. However, the leaders of the clandestine 1787 Constitutional Congress concocted a flawed Constitution which made it possible for a plutocratic minority to seize all the reins of power and establish the private central bank known as the First Bank of The United States and then later on as the Federal Reserve System in 1913.

John C. Miller. (1943). Origins of the American Revolution: "[The Framers of the Constitution] . . . had no wish to usher in democracy in the United States. They were not making war upon the principle of aristocracy and they had no more intention than had the Tories of destroying the tradition of upper-class leadership in the colonies. Although they hoped to turn the Tories out of office, they did not propose to open these lush pastures to the common herd. They did believe, however, that the common people, if properly bridled and reined, might be made allies in the work of freeing the colonies from British rule and that they--the gentry--might reap the benefits without interference. They expected, in other words, to achieve a 'safe and sane' revolution of gentlemen, by gentlemen, and for gentlemen."

Patrick Henry refused to attend the Constitutional Convention, and genuinely democratic patriots such as George Mason, Luther Martin, John Francis Mercer, and Elbridge Gerry participated in the convention but refused to sign the new constitution because it lacked a Bill of Rights, provided inadequate representation for the people, and did not provide for a viable separation of powers.

George Mason said that the president and Senate would easily form "a combination that cannot be prevented by the representatives. The executive and legislative powers thus connected, will destroy all balances."

Thomas Jefferson was in France at the time of the Constitutional Congress, and he only later realized that the Federalist leaders had created a new form of tyranny by seizing all governmental powers. The reality became clear to Jefferson, Madison, the Democratic-Republican party, and the American people in general that the republic was being taken over by a new dictatorship: the Federalist Party and its tool, President John Adams.

Charles Townsend, Chancellor of the Exchequer (England) whose policies of money and taxation led to the American Revolution had hired Adam Smith to tutor his stepson, Henry the young 3rd Duke of Buccleuch, because of his work "The Theory of Moral Sentiment". Adam Smith penned "The Wealth of Nations" at a time when the mercantilist policies of England had proven antiquated and were no longer profitable. The Sovereign of England by this time was the Bank of England since 1694 for whom the Chancellor of the Exchequer was employed. Sovereignty having passed during the reign of Charles II who bankrupted himself to bestow favors on an unscrupulous Barbara Villiers, first to the Bullionists and William Patterson's East-India Company and subsequently to the Bank of England when it acquired that company. Charles also sired illegitimately James Duke of Monmouth and Buccleuch whose grandson was the above mentioned 3rd Duke. Smith wandered the continent, especially France, spending much time with the "physiocrats" and young Henry. Henry, 13 years later, paid his friend and tutor to write "Wealth of Nations" thus intellectually justifying a new era and a new philosophy to justify the change in methodology.

The Bank of England owners in 1694 recognized they could run the World's finances if they established private corporations in all the countries of the World. The combined debt of all the World's countries would create an income stream of unbelievable amounts. They learned this from their experience with the East-India company. The worst fears of Patrick Henry, George Mason, and many other anti-Federalists had been realized: the Constitution provided no viable means of making certain that the powers of government could not be appropriated by a single faction. In terms of providing for a government controlled by the consent of the governed, the Constitution proved to be a failure from its very beginning. In 1796, the Federalist party had gained an increased majority in both houses of Congress and had tightened its grip on the American mind through warmongering, fomenting super-patriotism, and silencing its enemies by enforcing the unconstitutional Sedition Act of 1796 (we have the Patriot Act today). But within one short year, the totalitarian Federalist regime was swept out of office and a new era of democracy began.

J. C. Miller, Crisis in Freedom: the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1796: "The Sedition Act was an implied acknowledgement by the Federalists that force and coercion rather than reason and argument were to be the ultimate arbiters of political controversy in the United States. Differences of opinion were to be erased and the American mind was to be forced into an intellectual strait jacket. . .Under the Sedition Act, by expanding the definition of seditious libel, an end might be put to all organized political opposition...By this means, the Federalists could ensure the perpetuation of their party's control of the national government."

The Federalists in 1796 had used the threat of attack by hostile forces as the excuse to enact the Sedition Act laws which like today's Patriot Act (déjà vu):

- branded their political opponents as traitors
- made it a crime for American citizens to "print, utter, or publish . . . any false, scandalous, and malicious writing" about the Government
- imprisoned their most outspoken verbal critics
- allowed aliens to be imprisoned or deported at the whim of the president
- had the intent of keeping the Federalists in power indefinitely, perpetuating its control of the government

The Federalists had almost declared war on France through their own bellicosity, not through any real threat to American security, just like Bush declared war on Iraq. The Federalists had only handed over power to the constitutionally-elected President, Thomas Jefferson, after the Federalist-controlled House of Representatives had prolonged the process through 36 ballots, leading Jefferson to wonder, understandably, if the Federalists were going to retain control of the government illegally.

The Supreme Court had construed the Constitution as allowing the Federal government to seize unlimited powers, restrained by no force other than its own will. The Federalists had lost control of the Presidency and both houses of Congress in the 1800 election. The lame-duck Federalist Congress, before adjourning in March 1801, passed a new judiciary act which created a number of new circuit court judgeships and increased the number of district court judges. Adams packed the new lifetime judicial posts with Federalist sympathizers and named John Marshall Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. However, in later years, Adams admitted that the Alien and Sedition Acts had been a mistake.

The Reign of Emperor George W. Bush

The reign of George W. Bush & company with the Patriot Act has taken us back to the situation in 1796 where the Federalist elite had taken full control of all levels of government with the Alien & Sedition Act. There is also a parallel with similar events that occurred in ancient Rome two thousand years ago. Let us first start with a hint of things to come before they might get better. (apologies for the language in the picture). The Bush secret tribunals convict people on circumstantial evidence. This book is full of empirical circumstantial observations about Bush & Company. The Bush gestapo wants to torture people into false confessions in order to brainwash the public. However, it's Bush & company who lie & let the masses die! The masses are being led by their lies (shades of the Pied Piper)!! Notice that history can be biased and incomplete and this book attempts to give a view based on all available solid facts with plenty of illustrations and discards fabricated facts and disinformation as much as possible! And, the theories contained in this book are corroborated by the empirical experiences of many many peoples!

Bush's Carlyle Group Subsidiary Named "MATRICS" is Brimming with NSA and CIA Operatives and pushing a Swastika-Shaped Tracker Chip. Here are actual US Postal Stamps today (Are the Nazis who were brought to the US after WWII saying something?) HINT HINT HINT... The Roman Empire's Imperial Eagle!

Hermann Goering, at the Nuremberg Trials after World War II said: "Why of course the people don't want war ... But after all, it is the leaders of the country who determine the policy, and it is always a simple matter to drag the people along, whether it is a fascist dictatorship, or a parliament, or a communist dictatorship . . . Voice or no voice, the people can always be brought to the bidding of the leaders. That is easy. All you have to do is to tell them they are being attacked, and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism and exposing the country to danger." In other words, the Illuminati nobility fool the masses into fighting for them by means of patriotism, race, ethnic and religious scaremongering. From the Revolutionary War to the Civil War to Vietnam to Iraq, the Illuminati propaganda machine has rewritten reality and molded opinion.

Mark Twain: "There has never been a just one, never an honorable one -- on the part of the instigator of the war. I can see a million years ahead, and this rule will never change in so many as half a dozen instances. The loud little handful -- as usual -- will shout for the war. The pulpit will -- warily and cautiously -- object -- at first; the great, big, dull bulk of the nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a war, and will say, earnestly and indignantly, "It is unjust and dishonorable, and there is no necessity for it." Then the handful will shout louder. A few fair men on the other side will argue and reason against the war with speech and pen, and at first will have a hearing and be applauded; but it will not last long; those others will out shout them, and presently the anti-war audiences will thin out and lose popularity. Before long you will see this curious thing: the speakers stoned from the platform, and free speech strangled by hordes of furious men who in their secret hearts are still at one with those stoned speakers -- as earlier -- but do not dare to say so. And now the whole nation -- pulpit and all -- will take up the war-cry, and shout itself hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth; and presently such mouths will cease to open. Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame upon the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience-soothing falsities, and will diligently study them, and refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus he will by and by convince himself that the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception."

Does the above sound like what Mr. Bush, Sharon & company have done? Remember, Grandpa Prescott Bush traded with the Nazis and was caught but was only spanked a little bit for his crimes!

Illuminist Banking Dynasties Trapped By Their Wealth

The Illuminists control the issuance of money and are ultra-mega-rich (this will be explained later in detail in this book). With this virtually unlimited supply of money, they are able to "buy" or "remove" anyone they need at a particular time to implement the steps in their plan towards further World tyranny and the 'almost-hidden' conspirators in politics, religion, education, entertainment, and the news media are working for a 'Banker-owned America' in a 'Banker-owned World' under a 'Banker-owned World Tyrannical Government' (would be fine if it were a benevolent government!).

The elite agenda has always been to grab the wealth of the whole World by playing with the masses. Remember, European Elites not so long ago, i.e. up to the 19th century, were still running a master-serf-slave system! And remember the days of slavery in America not so long ago!

Layers Of Darkness And The Culture Of Obscene Extremism

Here is a poem about what we, the masses have become:

Today we have higher buildings and wider highways, but shorter temperaments and narrower points of view.
We spend more, but enjoy less. We have bigger houses, but smaller families.
We have more compromises, but less time. We have more knowledge, but less judgement.
We have more medicines, but less health. We have multiplied our possessions, but reduced our values.
We talk much, we love only a little, and we hate too much.
We reached the Moon and came back, but we find it troublesome to cross our own street and meet our neighbors.
We have conquered the outer space, but not our inner space. We have higher income, but less morals.
These are times with more liberty, but less joy.
We have much more food, but less nutrition.
These are the days in which it takes two salaries for each home, but divorces increase.
These are times of finer houses, but more broken homes.

By the way, why haven't any weapons of mass destruction been found in Iraq? Maybe because they haven't finished planting them? However, if one were allowed to look into the forbidden country next door that was fraudulently named Israel and should really have been named Pharisee or Japheth or Yapheth (we'll explain this in detail later), the Illuminati's 3rd largest stockpile of WMDs of all kinds would certainly be found there (note the joint Israeli-Indian nuclear tests in India 1998). Also, could it be that the oil-soaked monopoly press, CIA and FBI are still busy creating facts to keep the official legend or myth of 9-11 alive? More on this later.

The War on Terrorism is to Hide the Real Agenda: Total World Tyranny by the BankLords

To learn just how fake the 'War on Terror' and Gulf War II (Operation Iraqi Liberation) are, go to the library and check out the book, "The Grand Chessboard" by Bzigniew Brzezinski, former National Security Adviser to Jimmy Carter. The book lays out the exact blueprint that the current administration's 'War on Terror' is following. As to Gulf War II, look up the P.N.A.C. group. The Project for a New American Century headed by Dick Cheney, Donald Rumsfeld and Paul Wolfowitz, who just by chance, were calling for Saddam's removal in 1997 and a shift to a more assertive role for the U.S. in the region, by force if necessary. In a report that the P.N.A.C. group released just shortly before resident-select George Bush 2.0 was installed as the new O/S of America, they predicted that this shift would come slowly unless there were, "some catastrophic and catalyzing event, like a new Pearl Harbor." One year later that event came, delivered on a silver platter in the form of the 9-11 'attacks'. The very same people that wished for this policy shift get into office when Bush is selected and all of a sudden, as if they had rubbed bin Laden's er, I mean Aladdin's Magical Lamp, their wishes were granted.

Another fact overlooked by the mainstream media is that the U.S.A. Patriot Act was written long before the 9-11 tragedy; it takes many months, if not years to draft legislative material such as that. Congressman Ron Paul was one of the few voices of dissent against this draconian piece of legislation. The Anthrax attacks (Anthrax that was produced in Fort Detrick, Maryland) in October, 2001 were not attacks on the government as a whole, they were simply an extortion warning to anyone that would dissent against the Bush administration's plan to 'legally' implement a Police State in America. Senator Patrick Leahy at the time was sending letters to Attorney General John Ashcroft demanding a response in writing about the illegal military tribunals for 'terrorism suspects'. The response in writing that he received was not about the military tribunals, it was an Anthrax letter.

Both Patrick Leahy and Tom Daschle were sent Anthrax letters on the very day, October 9th, 2001, that the Democrats blocked an attempt to rush the Patriot Act through the House without any of Congress even being given a chance to read a draft of the legislation. The other Anthrax letters were sent to Tom Brokaw at NBC, the New York Post and The Sun tabloid, thus ensuring the media's support of the new 'Enabling Act'. No Republican received an Anthrax letter, yet White House personnel were taking Cipro, an expensive Anthrax fighting antibiotic, on 9-11. This is several weeks before it was supposedly known that Anthrax had even been sent. The Anthrax attacks also lead to a new electronic mail system for Capitol Hill. Under this system all incoming mail from constituents is opened and scanned, the letter is then sent on as an email-like message. This process allows a Federal agency, such as the Information Awareness Office, to intercept any letter that is critical of any aspect of the government. The next angry letter of complaint that you send to your representative may end up in an electronic dossier of the Homeland Security Office, with the notation 'Potential Domestic Terrorist' as the heading.

One of the Illuminati Mason's favorite saying is to bring "Order out of the Chaos" and destruction they create. It sounds like the old trick of creating a problem and then getting credit for solving it! And so be it that George W. Bush himself spoke these words standing over some rubble at Ground Zero (by the way, the original use of Ground Zero was for referring to Hiroshima after it was nuked in 1945) ! Well, this book is attempting to make "Sense out of the Chaos" the Illuminati brotherhoods have created! The 'War on Terror' is a thinly veiled euphemism for genocide of Arabs today and the genocide of whomever the Bush Cabal deems as infidels tomorrow. It is a mechanism to create the precedent that the American government can force its will on any sovereign nation, at least any nation not already compliant to 'America's' wishes, with resources to plunder. This is not to say that every American supports this agenda, indeed most Americans just have been blinded to the true ambitions of their government, so many actually believe the Official Reason.

The word war is from the old Frankish word Werra, which means confusion and strife. Americans have been manipulated into believing that this 'confusion and strife on terror' is necessary for 'Reichland Security'. The mechanism that is being used to make you willingly accept this is a phenomenon called 'HATRIOTISM':

Hate: [noun], strong feeling of dislike or ill will: hatred

Patriotism: [noun], love and loyal or zealous support of one's country

Hatriotism is the merging of 'Your Hatred' with a 'Patriotic Theme'. Perception Control = Emotional Control = Behavior Control. Those that control your perceptions control every other facet of you as well. Hate and Patriotism are currently the opposite sides of the same coin being flipped by the Bush administration and their supporters. Hatriotism is the result of years of frustration and apathy caused by the increased depravity in society, coupled with recent traumatic events. The public has slowly been introduced to an ever-increasingly violent parade (negative input) of movies, games, T.V. shows and even newscasts. It is currently not beyond the mass media to televise even the most gruesome live deaths, at any time of day, over and over and over. All the death and destruction that the population absorbs through the guise of "Entertainment" and "Informative News" is creating an environment of total apathy towards each other.

If you are truly honest with yourself, most of you will see that at least some of your Patriotism isn't actually for America's Core Values, part of your Patriotism belongs to several corporate logos and Sound Bites. Real Patriotism includes such things as standing up for the rights of others that you do not agree with. For example just for the fact that you don't like what someone is saying, if you are truly Patriotic, you will fight for their right to say that which displeases you. There has been a steady escalation of anger in the mood of the general public for many years. The increase of incidents of workplace assaults, road rage and domestic violence are just a few of the indicators. These events, though not connected by specific victims or perpetrators, all have something in common; that is simply they are mostly caused by prior Negative Inputs, such as someone not receiving a promotion, some might be caused by a person being cut off in traffic or some other seemingly trivial event, but none have a common 'Villain', a stereotypical bogeyman so to speak.

This lack of an easily identifiable villain and in turn no way to really retaliate leads to the frustration that many people feel. Whether it is the indifference of some government bureaucrat or the taunts of a childhood tormentor, these incidents leave a lasting residue of negative emotion. This negative emotional residue was at one time, balanced out by the positive day-to-day experiences of the general public, such as family interaction, in a time when only one parent had to work to support their family. Couple these feelings of anger/frustration with a traumatic event, an event that was supposedly caused by a 'Cookie Cutout Bogeyman' and you now have the ability to focus the public's anger onto that target. The mass media has lead the 'Rant for Revenge' in the aftermath of the attacks of September 11, 2001. The same mass media outlets that are owned by some of the biggest corporations in the World, that have admitted to being run by the CIA and that answer to the corrupt F.C.C., are shaping your perception of the 'terrorists'. These media outlets are owned by the same corporations that also own some of the biggest weapon manufacturing cartels on the planet and are amongst the biggest contributors to BOTH political parties. Just read the words of these people and you will see that they are really just bloodthirsty zealots, begging for anyone to paint a target on themselves so they can satisfy their bloodlust by murdering people in 'the pursuit of justice'.

"FORGET JUSTICE: WE WANT REVENGE! We shouldn't lollygag...Justice should not take precedence over vengeance...we should turn their country into a glowing desert." New York Post

"I say bomb the hell out of them. If there's collateral damage, so be it. They certainly found our civilians to be expendable." Sen. Zell Miller, D-Georgia

"When we reasonably determine our attackers' bases and camps, we must pulverize them -- minimizing but accepting the risk of collateral damage -- and act overtly or covertly to destabilize terror's national hosts. The Pentagon's rebuilt fifth side should include a new Department of Pre-emption." William Safire

"The nation has been invaded by a fanatical, murderous cult. And we welcome them. We are so good and so pure we would never engage in discriminatory racial or "religious" profiling...We should invade their countries, kill their leaders and convert them to Christianity. We weren't punctilious about locating and punishing only Hitler and his top officers. We carpet-bombed German cities; we killed civilians. That's war. And this is war." Ann Coulter

"This nation is now at war. And in such an environment, domestic political dissent is immoral without a prior statement of national solidarity, a choosing of sides." Peter Beinart, editor in chief of The New Republic

This current era of demonization of Muslims in general is nothing new; the media's demonization of Arabs has been going strong for at least two decades. In the 1960's and 1970's the entertainment media had the Communists/Asians portrayed as the root of the World's evil. In the early 1980's there was a shift in the 'Enemy of the Generation' in movies and books. The focus of mankind's misery was no longer Communists/Orientals in general, the Commies were on our side now, Red Heat is an example and the Asians were now the heroes in numerous Ninja/Martial Arts movies. The new international 'bogeymen on the block' were the 'Islamic/Muslim Zealots' and the 'Angry Loners'. The Delta Force and True Lies are 2 of the more memorable examples of the rabid Arabs about to overrun the planet. Even comedy movies started to parrot this theme, Back to the Future, has the 'harmless and loveable professor' being gunned down by 'Arab terrorists' (probably one of those infamous 'Libyan Hit Squads' that just got lost while looking for Reagan). Rambo and The Manhattan Project are examples of the 'Angry Loner' with the mythical ability to do the near impossible. The Loner is also often portrayed as fighting/resisting an 'imaginary conspiracy'.

'Either you are with us or you are with the terrorists'. This was the call to arms used by George W. Bush, who surely suffers from worse ills than just Iraqophobia, to signal the start of the 21st century Feudal Imperial Crusades to be fought by the 'Nintendo Warriors' of the West. A call to arms in which he, the members of his administration and the corporate leaders have NOT enrolled their children to participate in, but demand that you send your children to war 'as your patriotic duty', to murder, torture and pillage others in their own countries. The New World Order operatives are relying on the following principle explained by Hitler in his 1925 book Mein Kampf: "The broad mass of a nation... will more easily fall victim to a big lie than to a small one." They are feeding us gigantic lies.

Illusion of Democracy

As the June 30 "handover" approached, Bremer unveiled a slew of new tricks to hold on to power long after "sovereignty" has been declared. Some highlights: At the end of March, building on his Order 39 of last September, Bremer passed yet another law further opening up Iraq's economy to foreign ownership, a law that Iraq's next government is prohibited from changing under the terms of the interim constitution. Bremer also announced the establishment of several independent regulators, which will drastically reduce the power of Iraqi government ministries. For instance, the Financial Times reports that "officials of the Coalition Provisional Authority said the regulator would prevent communications minister Haider al-Abadi, a thorn in the side of the coalition, from carrying out his threat to cancel licenses the coalition awarded to foreign-managed consortia to operate three mobile networks and the national broadcaster." The CPA has also confirmed that after June 30, the $18.4bn that the US government is spending on reconstruction will be administered by its embassy in Iraq. The money will be spent over five years and will fundamentally redesign Iraq's most basic infrastructure, including its electricity, water, oil and communications sectors, as well as its courts and police. Iraq's future governments will have no say in the construction of these core sectors of Iraqi society. Retired rear admiral David Nash, who heads the Project Management Office, which administers the funds, describes the $18.4bn as "a gift from the American people to the people of Iraq". He appears to have forgotten the part about gifts being something you actually give up. And in the same eventful week, US engineers began construction on 14 "enduring bases" in Iraq, capable of housing the 110,000 soldiers who will be posted here for at least two more years. Even though the bases are being built with no mandate from an Iraqi government, Brigadier General Mark Kimmitt, deputy chief of operations in Iraq, called them "a blueprint for how we could operate in the Middle East".

The US occupation authority has also found a sneaky way to maintain control over Iraq's armed forces. Bremer has issued an executive order stating that even after the interim Iraqi government has been established, the Iraqi army will answer to US commander Lt General Ricardo Sanchez. In order to pull this off, Washington is relying on a legalistic reading of a clause in UN Security Council resolution 1511, which puts US forces in charge of Iraq's security until "the completion of the political process" in Iraq. Since the "political process" in Iraq is never-ending, so it seems is US military control. In the same flurry of activity, the CPA announced that it would put further constraints on the Iraqi military by appointing a national security adviser for Iraq. This US appointee would have powers equivalent to those held by Condoleezza Rice and will stay in office for a five-year term, long after Iraq is scheduled to have made the transition to a democratically elected government. There is one piece of this country, though, that the US government is happy to cede to the people of Iraq: the hospitals. On March 27 Bremer announced that he had withdrawn the senior US advisers from Iraq's health ministry, making it the first sector to achieve "full authority" in the US occupation. Taken together, these latest measures paint a telling picture of what an illusionary "free Iraq" will look like: the United States will maintain its military and corporate presence through 14 enduring military bases and the largest US embassy in the World. It will hold on to authority over Iraq's armed forces, its security and economic policy and the design of its core infrastructure - but the Iraqis can deal with their decrepit hospitals all by themselves, complete with their chronic drug shortages and lack of the most basic sanitation capacity. (The US health and human services secretary, Tommy Thompson, revealed just how low a priority this was when he commented that Iraq's hospitals would be fixed if the Iraqis "just washed their hands and cleaned the crap off the walls".)

The Four Major NWO Interlocked Mafias (New World Order/Disorder)

There are four interconnected major power cooperative brotherhoods or infiltrated fronts that cooperate and compete with each other for World control (Fabianism, Marxism, Nazism, Communism, Fascism, Feudalism, Monopoly Capitalism, Synarchism). These fronts together form the web of the New World Order (NWO) all working together behind many other front organizations to be discussed later and detailed in the various sections and appendixes of this book, i.e. The Illuminati (Nazi and Luciferians Banking Dynasties headed by the Rothschild and Rockefeller Banking and Industrial-Military Dynasties), The Masons (Mystic Ancient Shrine Order of Nobles, Templars, etc.), The Zionists (Pharisees, Priore de Sion or Zion, Black Khazar Nobility, see the appendix on the Chabad-Lubavitchers sect) and The Vatican including its Bank (Opus Dei, Jesuits; see the later section and appendix on the signs of the ancient Occult in the Vatican and the Bank of Rome; remember The 1981 P2 Propaganda Due Scandal that was revealed in Italy, providing a Masonic link between Italian and American banking, the Vatican, the Mafia and the KGB). I recommend Mel Gibson's movie "The Passion of Christ" to learn more about Pharisees; also more details on the next section. According to some researchers, it is the Jesuits who are at the top of the control pyramid. They are interlinked via the London and New York based Pilgrims society and through intermarriage between European Ashkenazi/Khazar/Sabbatean Jews and European Nobles. Some of the major organizations they control include the Bilderbergers, The Trilateral Commission, the CFR Council on Foreign Relations, the IIE, the RIIA (Chatham), the Knights of Malta, and many more.

"A Secret Society gradually absorbing the wealth of the world."—Last Will & Testament of Cecil Rhodes

Please see "Structure and Characteristics of The Families Owning the Major Banks" at the beginning of this book.

I am not suggesting that everyone identified with these groups is intentionally evil. Good, evil and fooled people are found in all societies. The World masses are generally ignorant of the machinations behind these politico-religious systems, and of the identity of their masters. Also, I don't know if the Illuminati have spawned their Occult practices as red-herrings for their front organizations or to fool gullible followers. However, the Occult's real aim is to empower the elite.

Arthur Miller playwright said: "Few of us can easily surrender our belief that society must somehow make sense. The thought that The State has lost its mind and is punishing so many innocent people is intolerable. And so the evidence has to be internally denied."

Teddy and Franklin Roosevelt and Joseph Kennedy also talked about a small group of wealthy elites who operate as a hidden government behind the government. A multitude of quotes from hundreds of politicians and others will be provided to illustrate the hidden Illuminati government. I have a special section for skeptics with several examples that show a coordinated series of events. Take just the fact that 177 witnesses of the President John F. Kennedy 1963 assassination have been killed must lead one to suspect that a secret government is operating behind the scenes.

The Demonic Sabbatean [OC]Cult Rules the World

By Henry Makow Ph.D. <http://savethemales.ca/> "How can one chase a thousand, and two put ten thousand to flight unless...God had delivered them into enemy hands?" Deuteronomy 32:30

"Either convert to Islam or die." This [allegedly] was the choice the Turkish Sultan put to Sabbatai Zevi, self-proclaimed Jewish "Messiah" in 1666. By only pretending to convert, Zevi resorted to a common practice. But Zevi was not an ordinary Jew. He led a popular heresy, based on a satanic strain of Cabalism. The rabbis had denounced him and his followers. After his "conversion," over a million followers, who later included financiers like the Rothschilds, imitated his example. But they didn't just pretend to be Muslims or Christians. They pretended to be Jews as well. By adopting this chameleon strategy, this satanic cult infiltrated and subverted most governments and religions, and established an invisible tyranny without drawing much attention. In the words of the gifted researcher Clifford Shack:

"Through infiltration, stealth and cunning, this invisible network has come to rule us all. Forty-one years after Shabbatai Zevi's death, in 1717, they would infiltrate Masonry guilds in England and establish Freemasonry.... [Zevi's successor] Jacob Frank would have a great impact on the inner core of Freemasonry known as the Illuminati, formed in 1776. Freemasonry would become the hidden force behind events like the [American, French and Russian] revolutions, the creations of the U.N. & Israel, both World Wars (including the Holocaust!), and the assassinations of the Kennedy brothers who, together with their father, tried to thwart the efforts of the network on American soil.

Sabbatean/Frankists, also referred to as the "Cult of the All-Seeing Eye" (look on the back of your one dollar bill to begin to understand their influence in YOUR life), are political and religious chameleons. They are everywhere...there is power. They are the good guys AND the bad guys. The World War Two era is a prime example. The following leaders were members of the "Cult of the All-Seeing Eye" (Sabbatean/Frankists): Franklin D. Roosevelt; Winston Churchill; Adolph Hitler; Eugenio Pacelli (Pope Pius XII); Francisco Franco; Benito Mussolini; Hirohito and Mao Tse-Tung."

IMPLICATIONS

If Mr. Shack is correct, historians, educators and journalists collaborate by upholding a false reality and distracting us from the truth. Our World, our perception of the human experience, are shaped by an occult secret society. Our culture is an elaborate psy-op. Obviously, the Sabbateans and their descendants should consume our attention. Instead, they are hidden from view. They were decisive in the so-called "Enlightenment," "secularism" and "modernism," which are but baby steps to their Satanism. According to Rabbi Marvin Antelman, they believe sin is holy and should be practised for its own sake. Since the Messiah will come when people either become righteous or totally corrupt, the Sabbateans opted for debauchery: "Since we cannot all be saints, let us all be sinners."

Their blasphemous benediction "who permits the forbidden" later became the Illuminist "do as thou wilt" the expression of their "religious" feeling. Totally amoral, they believe the "end justifies the means." ("To Eliminate the Opiate," Vol. 2 p. 87) In 1756, Jacob Frank and his followers were excommunicated by the rabbis. Antelman says the Sabbateans were behind the Reform, Liberal and Revolutionary movements of the Nineteenth century. They were also behind the Reform and Conservative movements in Judaism, including the "Haskalah" i.e. Jewish assimilation. In other words, Jews have been influenced by the Sabbateans and don't even know it. That is their tactic. They don't advocate a Satanic kingdom. They gently steer you that way by questioning the existence of God, by demanding "sexual liberation," "independence" for women, "internationalism," "diversity" and "religious tolerance."

SEXUAL EXCESS AS A RELIGION

We are told "free sex" is "progressive and modern." In fact, the Sabbatean sect has indulged in wife sharing, sex orgies, adultery and incest for more than 350 years. They also promoted interracial sex. They have partly inducted us into their cult. Antelman cites the proceedings of a rabbinical court where Shmuel, son of Shlomo tearfully confessed he had rejected the Torah and had encouraged his wife to have sex several times with Hershel. "I am guilty. She did not want to." (111) Sexual abandon is characteristic of Communism, a direct outgrowth of Sabbateanism. . Jacob Frank pimped his beautiful wife to recruit influential men. Female members of the Communist Party were used in the same way. Adam Weiskaupt, the founder of the Illuminati, got his sister-in-law pregnant. A pertinent anecdote: In his book, "The Other Side of Deception," Mossad defector Victor Ostrovsky described how the Mossad relax. At a party, the staff, including many unmarried young females, congregated around a pool, totally naked.

THE "HOLOCAUST"

The influence of the Sabbatean conspiracy is hidden in plain sight. For example, the term "Holocaust" is used without regard to its true meaning. Rabbi Antelman states that well before World War Two, the term meant "burnt offering" as in sacrifice. (p.199) . He quotes Bruno Bettleheim who says "calling the most callous, most brutal, most horrid. most heinous mass murder a 'burnt offering' is a sacrilege, a profanation of God and man." (205) . Whose sacrifice was it? For what purpose? Obviously, it has something to do with the Sabbateans' occult practice. Every time we use that word, we unwittingly join in their sacrilege. According to Antelman, the Sabbateans hated Jews and sought their extinction. He cites rabbis who warned as far back as 1750 that if the Jews didn't stop the Sabbateans, they would be destroyed by them. (209) And indeed when some Jews tried to save European Jewry from genocide, Antelman says "the conservative and reform communities [in the US] went their merry way ignoring these activities. So called establishment organizations like the American Jewish Congress, American Jewish Committee, and B'nai Brith did virtually nothing." (217)

INTERMARRIAGE: Sabbateans only marry within their demonic sect.

Sabbateans only marry within their demonic sect. They often marry rich, influential Gentiles. Thus, the Fourth Baron Rothschild (Jacob's) mother was not Jewish nor is his wife. Another example is Al Gore's daughter Karenna's 1997 marriage to Andrew Schiff, the great grandson of Jacob Schiff. Gore's father was a Senator sponsored by Armand Hammer (Occidental Petroleum) whose own father was the founder of the American Communist party. Like Hitlery and Dubya, Al Gore is another Illuminati agent.

CONCLUSION

Mankind is in the grip of a vicious Satanic cult whose power is so great, they can make their war against humanity seem normal and inevitable. Even when their plot is exposed, they can convince everyone that it is racist and in bad taste to believe it. They have men fixated on porn while they erect a police state. Western society is morally bankrupt. This elaborate cult network controls politics, information and culture. Most leaders are dupes or traitors. The "Intelligentsia" has been bribed while the public is distracted and lives in a fool's paradise. Like most nations and religions, Jews have been subverted from within. Zionists are pawns of the Sabbateans who used the "holocaust" to engineer the creation of Israel. Millions of Jews been "sacrificed" to create a Sabbatean Homeland, a "burnt offering" to Satan. God gave man Life: a Miracle full of inherent Beauty and Meaning. He gave us everything we need to develop according to his Plan. But people who think limitless power and wealth are better than infinite love have hijacked humanity. They want to spoil our Divine Rendezvous and enslave us instead. This is the real meaning of our politics and our time.

Estonian President also.....and both Obamas.....

The 9-11 Conspirators & Their Zionist Judges Controlling the 9-11 Litigation

<http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum.cgi?read=110122> Bush Nominates 9-11 Zionist Judge as Attorney General Christopher Bollyn Exposing the 9-11 Cover-Up

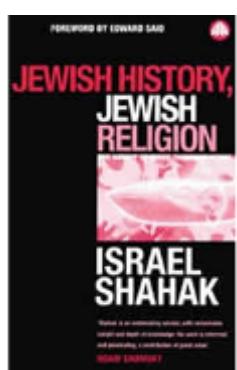

As expected, the nominee to be next Attorney General of the United States has a long history of obstructing justice, preventing discovery, and covering up the evidence of Israeli involvement in the terror attacks of 9-11.

President Bush with the nominee Michael B. Mukasey

If Israeli agents were not prime suspects in the "false flag" terror attacks on the World Trade Center, and if a passenger screening company owned by Israeli intelligence agents were not a defendant in the 9-11 litigation, the fact that the crucial 9-11 lawsuits have been handled by two Zionist judges from the same synagogue might be considered a coincidence. But with so much evidence of Israeli involvement in 9-11 in plain view, the intimate connection with the State of Israel of these judges can not be discarded as mere coincidence. It should rather be viewed as evidence of the on-going, high-level, and well-planned cover-up. The Zionist judges controlling the 9-11 litigation have acted like the Israeli bulldozers after the massacres in the Palestinian refugee camps of Sabra, Shatila, and Jenin. Like judicial bulldozers, the mission of these orthodox Jewish judges is to bury the evidence of Israeli involvement in the "false flag" terror attacks of 9-11.

ZIONIST JUDGES

In what might otherwise be seen as coincidence, the two presidentially-appointed federal judges who have presided over the most crucial 9-11 cases are both orthodox Zionists who attend the same Manhattan synagogue and support its Talmudic yeshiva. The federal judges Alvin K. Hellerstein and Michael B. Mukasey, the nominee to be the next U.S. attorney general, are both members of a Zionist congregation, the orthodox Kehilath Jeshurun synagogue of Manhattan, and are active supporters of its yeshiva, the Ramaz School. A yeshiva is an orthodox Jewish school affiliated with a synagogue where Talmudic interpretation of Mosaic law is taught. In an orthodox yeshiva, the Talmudic interpretation of the Torah is based on rabbinical teaching that completely changes the meaning of Mosaic law. Talmudic interpretation effectively negates the meaning of the Ten Commandments as the late Israeli scholar Israel Shahak pointed out in his book on Jewish supremacism, Jewish History, Jewish Religion: The Weight of Three Thousand Years.

To an orthodox Jew, Shahak wrote, Talmudic scholars interpret the commandment "Thou shall not kill," to mean that a Jew is proscribed only from killing another Jew. Non-jews, on the other hand, are fair game and can be killed like animals. The rest of the Mosaic law is interpreted likewise concerning treatment of non-Jews, according the Shahak's book. Unbeknownst to most Americans, the key judges who have overseen the most important 9-11 lawsuits and Michael Chertoff, the Asst. Attorney General who directed the non-investigation of 9-11, are all members of this extremely racist and un-American religious sect. They, like the other key officials involved in the 9-11 conspiracy, were all raised and educated in this tradition. The judges, officials, and advisors involved at every critical point of the 9-11 conspiracy and cover-up are all Jewish Zionists dedicated to the State of Israel. This is how Zionist agents have been able to cover up the truth of what really happened on 9-11. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales and Michael Chertoff, the former assistant attorney general responsible for the criminal division of the Dept. of Justice. Chertoff was the key Zionist gate-keeper and controller of the "non-investigation" of 9-11.

THE SYNAGOGUE OF SATAN

The Congregation Kehilath Jeshurun is a Zionist synagogue, according to its mission statement. It defines itself as a "modern Orthodox" synagogue, which is "deeply committed" to "an unbreakable bond with the State of Israel and its citizens." The orthodox branch of Judaism is a minority sect making up about 10 percent of American Jews. This minority sect, however, wields immense power in the government and courts of the United States. The Kehilath Jeshurun congregation has a long history of shaping the Zionist agenda. In the 1920s, for example, it hosted orthodox Zionist conferences where plans were discussed to bring all the Jews of Russia to the southwestern United States. "Our identification with the State of Israel and our fellow Jews extends well beyond the more conventional UJA/Federation, Israel Bonds and tree-planting campaigns," the congregation's mission statement says – and indeed it does. The Kehilath Jeshurun congregation acts as an agency of Israel on the Upper East Side of Manhattan and some of its members occupy positions of power within the government of the United States. The "modern" orthodox congregation also has a long history of calling for segregation and separation of Jews from Christians and Christian influences in the community. Like other orthodox Jews, the congregation is opposed to Reform Judaism, the largest branch of Judaism. Orthodox religious expression is the only form of Judaism that is recognized by the State of Israel. As a religious sect that is based on race, intermarriage between Jews and Christians is anathema to orthodox Jews like Chertoff, Hellerstein, and Mukasey.

Lookstein.

First class in the Ramaz School, 1937

ROOTS IN THE PALE OF SETTLEMENT

Like most Zionists, the parents or grandparents of Chertoff, Hellerstein, and Mukasey are from the largely uncivilized frontier region between the Russian and German spheres of influence known as the Pale of Settlement. The Pale of Settlement refers to the expanse that reaches from Lithuania to the Black Sea, a region between Prussia and the Russian Empire of Catherine the Great, who created the Pale in 1791. The Pale existed until 1917 and is occupied today by Ukraine, Poland, Belarus, and Lithuania. The areas around Brest-Litovsk, Grodno, and Byalystok had the largest concentrations of Jews and were hotbeds of Zionist activity in the late 1800s. Jews outnumbered Christians in some of the towns, such as Grodno, an old Lithuanian city. When Catherine the Great annexed this western region, she banned the Asiatic Jews who lived there from coming to Russia. These Jews were primarily descendants of the displaced Khazars who had converted to Judaism in the 8th Century. In the Pale of Settlement, the Khazar Jews, generally referred to as Ashkenazi, usually lived in communities separated from the non-Jewish people they lived among.

MUKASEY & HIS YESHIVA

Michael Bernard Mukasey and his wife are members of Kehilath Jeshurun, the orthodox synagogue that is connected to the Ramaz yeshiva. The Ramaz School was started in 1937 by Rabbi Joseph H.

Lookstein served concurrently as principal of the Ramaz School in New York and as president and chancellor of Bar-Ilan University in Israel, where he was chancellor from 1958 to 1979. This illustrates the intense Zionist character of the Ramaz school and synagogue. Mukasey attended the Ramaz School and graduated in 1959. His wife, the former Susan Bernstock Saroff, was a teacher and headmistress of the Ramaz Lower School. Both of Susan's children, who were adopted by Mukasey, attended the Ramaz yeshiva. Mukasey, the nominee for attorney general, attended the Ramaz yeshiva and reportedly "remains heavily involved in that community." That "community" would be the orthodox, Zionist, and Israeli community of Manhattan. In 1948, according to the Ramaz school's website, children of Israeli diplomats on "special missions" began enrolling in the Ramaz School. These Israeli students attended Ramaz with Mukasey, who speaks Hebrew. Isaac Herzog, the son of Chaim Herzog, the former president of Israel and head of the Israeli military intelligence, attended the Ramaz school in the 1970s. Isaac Herzog was government secretary under Ehud Barak and is currently a minister in the Israeli government. Mukasey will be the second Jewish attorney general, if confirmed. Ed Levi, who served under President Gerald Ford was the first. Mukasey was nominated as a federal judge in New York in 1987 by President Ronald Reagan and became the chief judge in 2000. Mukasey was elevated to Chief Judge of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York, succeeding Judge Thomas P. Griesa, on March 12, 2000. Mukasey remained in this position until August 1, 2006. As chief judge for New York City, Mukasey was well placed to control the entire legal process concerning 9-11. "From 1967 to 1972, Mukasey was in private practice, where his clients ranged from right-wing lawyer Roy Cohn to the Daily News," the newspaper reported. "He then switched sides and joined the Manhattan prosecutor's office, where he forged a life-long friendship with future Mayor Rudy Giuliani." In an article entitled "Local Rabbi Thinks Michael Mukasey Perfect for AG Job," the New York Daily News reported that after President Bush announced his intention to nominate Mukasey, the FBI called on his rabbi in Manhattan.

"Rabbi Haskel Lookstein said the G-men wanted to know if there was anything in the 66-year-old judge's background that could scuttle his nomination," the Daily News reported. Lookstein reportedly told the agents that Mukasey was "a mensch." "There's nothing wrong with him," the rabbi said. "He's as close to perfect as you can be. And that's the way he was at 15." Very little is known about Mukasey's family background. There are very few articles that mention the name Mukasey prior to 1960. The Mukasey name is a Jewish surname from a place named Lachowicze, in the region of Brest. Judge Mukasey's wife was the headmistress of the Ramaz Lower School in the 1990s when he was handling the case of the first "false flag" terror bombing of the World Trade Center. This case was primarily meant to prepare public opinion for what was planned for 9-11.

A "STRONGLY BIASED ZIONIST JUDGE"

At the beginning of the trial of Sheik Omar Abdul Rahman, the sheik's lawyers filed a motion requesting Mukasey recuse himself from the trial. The motion argued that Mukasey's allegiance to Israel created a bias against the Muslim defendants. Mukasey dismissed the motion as "utterly irrelevant." "A strongly-biased Zionist judge," is how Dr. Edward W. Miller described Mukasey in his 1997 article about the trial of the blind sheik. "Mukasey is a committed Zionist, a long-time supporter of Israel," Miller wrote. "His wife is also a Zionist." "Sheik Rahman was denied the lawyer of his choice by Judge Mukasey, and when he asked the court to permit an expert to explain the practices of Islam to an ignorant American jury, he was refused this due process. Eventually, on January 17, 1996, Sheik Omar Abdul Rahman was sentenced by a Jewish judge of strong Zionist leanings to imprisonment for life plus 65 years." "After receiving his lifetime sentence," Miller wrote, "this elderly, sick and blind sheik, standing before the Jewish judge, spoke quietly and at length in Arabic. "He pointed out the on-going 'historical junction' at which 'the spiritual power of Islam was confronting the military/material juggernaut of a Zionist White House.' "Sheik Rahman continued, debunking the prosecution's theory that he heads an international terrorist organization. He emphasized that he was sequestered in a jail in Cairo in the early 1980s at the time the so-called 'international terrorist group' was allegedly being formed. "Judge Michael Mukasey was visibly irritated by the Sheik's remarks, and interrupted the scholarly cleric repeatedly and rudely, finally remarking that 'religion has nothing to do with the case.' Source: Miller, Edward W., "A Political Prisoner In the U.S.: Sheik Omar Abdel Rahman," The Coastal Post, March, 1997. A lawyer who tried a case before Mukasey described him as "Dour and condescending; imperious and egotistic." "I seriously doubt whether he has the 'people skills' that the DOJ needs in a new AG," the attorney said.

HELLERSTEIN & RAMAZ SCHOOL

Alvin K. Hellerstein, who has presided over all the 9-11 cases brought by victims and relatives of victims, is also a trustee and sponsor of the Ramaz School on the Upper East Side, where his children also studied. Hellerstein has been president of the Board of Jewish Education of Greater New York and serves on a taskforce for the Jewish Orthodox Feminist Alliance, which addresses the needs of Orthodox Jewish women who want a divorce. Hellerstein's wife, Mildred, and Audrey Lookstein, the wife of the rabbi of Kehilath Jeshrun, are Zionist colleagues and senior officers of an Israeli organization named AMIT. Mildred Hellerstein is listed as being a National Treasurer of AMIT, an organization dedicated to fostering "religious values and Zionist ideals" in the Israeli children in its schools and programs in Israel. Lookstein has been vice president of AMIT several times and was chair of AMIT's national board of directors in 2006.

TEVI TROY – ASHCROFT'S POLICY DIRECTOR

Tevi David Troy, former policy director for Sen. John Ashcroft

Tevi Troy (formerly Troyansky), Deputy Secretary of the United States Department of Health and Human Service, is another graduate of the Ramaz School. Troy was the policy director for Sen. John Ashcroft (R-MO) in the late 1990s before he was appointed to be Bush's first Attorney General, an appointment Troy enthusiastically supported in his article "My Boss the Fanatic" published in The New Republic.

Attorney General John Ashcroft listening to his assistant, Michael Chertoff

Ashcroft now has a consulting business and earns much of his money by representing Israeli military companies. In 2006, Israel Aircraft Industries (IAI) was reported to be a major client of the Ashcroft Group, LLC. Prior to his May 2007 appointment as Deputy Secretary of the DHHS, Troy was Deputy Assistant to the President George W. Bush for Domestic Policy. In August 2003, Troy was appointed to serve at the White House as Deputy Cabinet Secretary and Liaison to the Jewish community. An orthodox Jew, Troy is the son of Elaine Gerson Troy and Bernard Dov Troy, the former "Executive Director of the Jewish Educators' Assembly in Manhattan." Troy is the grandson of Thomas and Pauline Troyansky, Russian Jewish immigrants who came to the United States in the early 1900s. He is married to Kami J. Pliskow, the daughter of Dr. Raymond and Vita Pliskow of Tacoma, Washington. Raymond studied medicine at the University of Michigan. The Pliskow family, a Russian Jewish family that immigrated to the U.S. in the early 1900s has its own interesting history of terrorism. Barbara Pliskow, a former instructor in psychology at Wayne State University in Detroit, attempted to hijack an American Airlines Boeing 727 on September 24, 1971 armed with a gun, dynamite, and other explosives. She was reportedly attempting to hijack the flight on behalf of the "Black Liberation Army" to free imprisoned members of the Black Panther Party. Pliskow was charged with the capital offense of attempted piracy of an airliner. Because the engines of the plane had not been started, however, Pliskow was not prosecuted under the federal skyjacking statute.

Christopher Bollyn is an independent journalist who depends entirely on the generous support of readers to fund his research and writing. If you appreciate his work, please visit www.bollyn.com and send a donation.

- Bush Nominates 9-11 Zionist Judge as Attorney General (views: 5450)

ChristopherBollyn -- Monday, 17 September 2007, 8:33 a.m.

- The 9-11 Conspirators & Their "Unbreakable Bond" with Israel (views: 928)

ChristopherBollyn -- Thursday, 20 September 2007, 10:02 a.m.

- Who Really is Michael Mukasey? (views: 262)

ChristopherBollyn -- Friday, 21 September 2007, 11:02 a.m.

- 9-11 - An American Holocaust (views: 642)

ChristopherBollyn -- Tuesday, 25 September 2007, 10:32 a.m.

- NOT HOLOCAUST, JUST A SIMPLE BUSINESS INITIATIVE... (views: 227)

IZAKOVIC -- Tuesday, 25 September 2007, 12:49 p.m.

- RUDY'S SUPPORTER IS THROWING A PARTY THAT AIMS TO RISE \$9.11 PER PERSON (views: 196)

IZAKOVIC -- Tuesday, 25 September 2007, 1:30 p.m.

- The Final Phase of the 9-11 Cover-Up (views: 1381)

ChristopherBollyn -- Thursday, 27 September 2007, 10:41 a.m.

- THE 9-11 COVER-UP -- The Italian Gangsters and Their Jewish Bosses (views: 1077)

ChristopherBollyn -- Monday, 1 October 2007, 10:26 a.m.

- GIULIANI & D'AMATO - Tied to Israeli Military Intelligence (views: 404)

ChristopherBollyn -- Friday, 5 October 2007, 6:31 a.m.

The Real Conspiracy Theorists exposed by the Conspiracy Factualists

Bush & the Neocons and their Illuminati masters create conspiracy myths such as Al-Qaeda & WMDs (according to Alex Jones' sources, who successfully predicted 9-11 and Saddam's capture before the fact, there is a plan for a fake Osama to be captured and to plant WMDs in Iraq from Eastern Europe; remember the fake Osama video that was certified by The US State Dept? in case you've forgotten, here is a comparison showing a real Osama and a fake Osama who was required to propagate the myth that Osama was behind 9-11). And now we have fake decapitation videos posted on fake Islamic websites! And we have a fake Saddam known as Shaddam; just look at his underbite and misaligned teeth compared to the real Saddam who has a normal overbite and perfect teeth! This book exposes the Bush Neocons as the real conspirators. One of the most common disparagements of the conspiracy model is that the conspiracy is "too big", that there are "too many people involved" to keep it secret. Hogwash. There is nothing in this World that cannot be solved with the judicious application of a little palm grease. Throw in the occasional threat of violence and blackmail, and it is amazing how many people keep their damn mouths shut. The mixture of complicity and fear that keeps the lid on the initial stages of a conspiracy are merely compounded by time. Like any other process, conspiracies can become institutionalized and as such, take on a life of their own. It is one thing to admit complicity in an event that has just occurred; how much worse does it look to admit knowledge of a conspiracy for say, 75 years? (Can anyone say Big Tobacco?) One other point to keep in mind is the sheer attraction of wealth and power, especially to those born into it. Conspiracies can also become institutionalized within families, especially the families of the extremely wealthy.

Long ago in the dark unwritten pages of human history, powerful kings discovered how they could control other men by torture, magical practices, wars, politics, idolatrous religions and interest taking. These elite families designed strategies and tactics to perpetuate their Occult practices. Layers upon layers of secrecy have hidden these families from the profane masses, but many an author has touched upon their existence. Men and women with sharp intellects like Edith Star Miller (author of Occult Theocracy) and Alexander Hislop (author of The Two Babylons) have tried to research the Occult World and the connections between the different groups. Hislop's book shows that there is a continuity between the ancient Occultism of the Mystery Religions and modern day religion. One of the bloodlines goes back to Babylon and is descended from Nimrod (see the two sections on the bloodlines of the Illuminati and of the US presidents!). Down through the years the Occult World has remained hidden from the history books. Publishing and education have been controlled privileges. The elites have ruled behind the scenes. The Mystery Religions each had their secret councils which ruled them, and these councils themselves came under the guidance of a secret supreme Grand Council or Governing Body. The Mystery Religions in turn ruled the masses and the political leaders.

Author/theologian David Ray Griffin: "Personally, I'm not into conspiracy theories except those that are true."

In fact, it is the Bush neocons who are the conspiracy theorists, i.e. they create conspiracies & lies & accusations such as WMDs and all the false intelligence theories created by the Mossad & CIA to justify their wars to steal others resources.
<http://www.guardian.co.uk/g2/story/0,3604,1254003,00.html>

When seen in better light, wars between kings no longer appear as wars between elite factions, but contrived wars to control the masses by their greedy elite masters. But who are these people? The answer may not be the answer some might expect, because power comes in many shapes and sizes. Power doesn't have to have high visibility to be active. The history books are full of information about the elites and the masses. Interestingly, upon very close scrutiny and examination the investigator finds that the elite have perpetuated their power for centuries, and have worked hand in glove with other elites to control the masses. Witnesses of these Satanic elites like Tom Collins, and John Todd, and David Hill have tried to testify what they themselves saw--they each were destroyed. But the truth will not die with Tom Collins or David Hill. The truth did not go out of fashion just because John Todd was framed and dishonored by the Illuminati's henchmen. Several people from different places have confirmed that there are 13 Illuminati bloodlines. Further, several ex-Illuminati people have confirmed 13 families. David Hill, who was investigating the Illuminati, lost his life because he had been close to the inside as a high ranking Mason who worked for the Mafia. For instance, in David's notes he writes, "Yes, it is a fact: the Mellons, Carnegies, Rothschilds, Rockefellers, Dukes, Astors, Dorrances, Reynolds, Stilimans, Bakers, Pynes, Cuilmans, Watsons, Tukes, Kleinworts, DuPonts, Warburgs, Phippses, Graces, Guggenheim, Milners, Drexels, Winthrops, Vanderbilts, Whitneys, Harknesses and other super rich Illuminated families generally get along quite well with Communists, who supposedly want to take away the wealth of these men and give it to the people. Some of the Illuminati allied families if not all of them probably have intermarried somewhere with one of these bloodlines. However, this is only double talk designed to bolster the superstructure of delusion that Communists are the enemies of all Capitalists. But Communists, like the super rich families, are not the enemies of MONOPOLY-CAPITALISM: they are the foes of FREE ENTERPRISE." (Untitled manuscript of David Hill, p. 215.)

Fritz Springmeier explains in his books how the Illuminati control the World, and what some of their beliefs are, and about their secret and semi-secret organizations. David Livingstone in his book "The Dying God" shows that the so-called post modern-secular culture is really a product of an Occult tradition that can be traced back to ancient Babylon through the myriads of secret societies, that do their bidding by proxy; Cabalists, Templars, Masons, Rosicrucians, Plato, France's Jacobins, German Austrian Thule Society, Covert Satanism Dienetics, Yale University's Skull and Bones of old Germanic secret society, and all other propagandist of the esoteric Occult practitioners of old and modern times. These are the layers of confusion that the Illuminati hidden ruling elites have set up for themselves. In essence, this tradition adopted Lucifer as a symbol of mankind's rebellion against God. It enshrined human reason, appetite and will as the ultimate standard of goodness and empowerment. However, the Occult's real aim is to empower the elite. The basic principle of most religions is to behave unto others as we wish to be treated...[In contrast] the Occultist...is lured by vanity to seek a type of knowledge that sets him apart from others, maintaining that it is the preserve of the elite. Livingstone shows how Occult dogma was secretly adopted by key elites throughout history and was behind the English [1649], American [1776], French [1789], and Russian Revolutions [1917], Philippines, WW1, WW2, Indonesia, South-American, Vietnam, Cambodia, and today's wars, many of which involved genocide.

The Occultist inspired the so-called Enlightenment (Illuminati), which defined modern culture. Francis Bacon was a Rosicrucian. Diderot, Rousseau, Voltaire, Newton, Christopher Columbus were all Masons or belonged to diverse secret societies. Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill were Masons as were many of the US Presidents, Carl Marx and Stalin were closet Satanist, as probably was Henry Ford. The plan of Washington D.C. was designed by Masons in the Shape of a pentagram as was the design of the Pentagon; the design of the Capitol buildings and ground depicts an owl, the Molec idol of the Canaanites of ancient history, of which the modern elite Bohemians worship today at the Bohemian Grove on the Russian River near Santa Rosa California. The significance of Livingstone's lucid, well documented book is enormous. It implies that a dominant segment of our leaders secretly serve Lucifer; as the god of the modern World; their sinister and corrupt influence is evident everywhere. Secularism is as much a religion as any other, except that it is Satanic. The "separation of church and state" is a stratagem to enshrine Lucifer as their god of the modern World. Masonic secularism's goal is to destroy genuine God-worship. This Satanic conspiracy only succeeds because people cannot believe something so colossal and monstrous actually exists even when presented with the evidences.

This conspiratorial view of history clearly lets us see that the World is at war between good and evil. The people who are pushing products of usury, gambling, drugs, violence, and sex porn are not operating on a random "whatever sells" basis. The top players are following a script designed to enslave humanity, body and soul. They are building a gigantic prison based on their own mental hell. THIS IS THE NEW WORLD ORDER; we are the inmates. Here are some important quotes regarding the Satanic Illuminati conspiracy by past World leaders (more quotes are available throughout this book and on the CD):

Benjamin Disraeli stood up in the UK House of Commons, on July the 14th, in 1856 and made the following pronouncement on the nature and designs of these secret societies and their subversive anti-religious intentions. He said: 'There is in Italy a power which we seldom mention in this House... I mean the secret societies... It is useless to deny, because it is impossible to conceal that a great part of Europe, the whole of Italy and France, and a great part of Germany, to say nothing of other countries, is covered with a network of these secret societies, just as the superficies of the earth are covered with railroads. And what are their objects? They do not attempt to conceal them. They do not want constitutional government, they do not want ameliorated institutions... they want to change the tenure of the land, to drive out the present owners of the soil [i.e. Palestine] and put an end to ecclesiastical establishments. Some may even go further.'

Theodore Roosevelt, 26th President of the United States during his election campaign in 1912: "Behind the visible government there is an invisible government upon the throne that owes the people no loyalty and recognizes no responsibility. To destroy this invisible government, to undo the ungodly union between corrupt business and corrupt politics is the task of a statesman."

Adam Smith, the father of modern economics (much-quoted by conservatives neocons), once said, "People of the same trade seldom meet together, even for merriment and diversion, but the conversation ends in a conspiracy against the public, or in some contrivance to raise prices." It's a description that fits today's Wall Street to a tee.

Nicholas Murray Butler, in an address delivered before the Union League of Philadelphia, Nov. 27, 1915: "The old World order changed when this war-storm broke. The old international order passed away as suddenly, as unexpectedly, and as completely as if it had been wiped out by a gigantic flood, by a great tempest, or by a volcanic eruption. The old World order died with the setting of that day's sun and a new World order is being born while I speak, with birth-pangs so terrible that it seems almost incredible that life could come out of such fearful suffering and such overwhelming sorrow."

Winston Churchill, stated to the London Press, in 1922: "From the days of Spartacus, Wieskopf, Karl Marx, Trotsky, Rosa Luxemburg, and Emma Goldman, this World conspiracy has been steadily growing. This conspiracy played a definite recognizable role in the tragedy of the French revolution [1789]. It has been the mainspring of every subversive movement during the 19th century. And now at last this band of extraordinary personalities from the underworld of the great cities of Europe and America have gripped the Russian people by the hair of their head and have become the undisputed masters of that enormous empire."

Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, president of the World Federation of Education Associations (August 1927), quoted in the book International Understanding: Agencies Educating for a New World (1931): "If there are those who think we are to jump immediately into a new World order, actuated by complete understanding and brotherly love, they are doomed to disappointment. If we are ever to approach that time, it will be after patient and persistent effort of long duration. The present international situation of mistrust and fear can only be corrected by a formula of equal status, continuously applied, to every phase of international contacts, until the cobwebs of the old order are brushed out of the minds of the people of all lands."

Professor Arnold Toynbee, in a June 1931 speech before the Institute for the Study of International Affairs in Copenhagen: "We are at present working discreetly with all our might to wrest this mysterious force called sovereignty out of the clutches of the local nation states of the World."

Joseph Kennedy, father of John F. Kennedy, in the July 26, 1936 issue of The New York Times "Fifty men have run America, and that's a high figure."

H. G. Wells, in his book entitled The New World Order (1939): "... when the struggle seems to be drifting definitely towards a World social democracy, there may still be very great delays and disappointments before it becomes an efficient and beneficent World system. Countless people ... will hate the new World order ... and will die protesting against it. When we attempt to evaluate its promise, we have to bear in mind the distress of a generation or so of malcontents, many of them quite gallant and graceful-looking people." .. the plan for the 'Modern World-State' would succeed in its third attempt [Third World War] and would come out of something that would occur in Basra, Iraq." Quote from H.G. Wells, The Shape of Things to Come (1933). "If this is neither a dream book nor a sibylline history, then it is a theory of World revolution. Plainly the thesis is that history must now continue to be a string of accidents with an increasingly disastrous trend until a comprehensive faith in the modernized World-State, socialistic, cosmopolitan and creative, takes hold of the human imagination. When the existing governments and ruling theories of life, the decaying religious and the decaying political terms of to-day, have sufficiently lost prestige through failure and catastrophe, then and then only will World-wide reconstruction be possible. And it must be the work, first of all, of an aggressive order of religiously devoted men and women who will try out and establish and impose a new pattern of living upon our race." The Shape of Things to Come: The Ultimate Revolution (1933)

Excerpt from A Memorial to be Addressed to the House of Bishops and the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church in General Convention (October 1940): "The term Internationalism has been popularized in recent years to cover an interlocking financial, political, and economic World force for the purpose of establishing a World Government. Today Internationalism is heralded from pulpit and platform as a 'League of Nations' or a 'Federated Union' to which the United States must surrender a definite part of its National Sovereignty. The World Government plan is being advocated under such alluring names as the 'New International Order,' 'The New World Order,' 'World Union Now,' 'World Commonwealth of Nations,' 'World Community,' etc. All the terms have the same objective; however, the line of approach may be religious or political according to the taste or training of the individual."

British military historian Major General J.F.C. Fuller, 1941: "The government of the Western nations, whether monarchical or republican, had passed into the invisible hands of a plutocracy, international in power and grasp. It was, I venture to suggest, this semi-occult power which....pushed the mass of the American people into the cauldron of World War I."

Excerpt from article by Ralph W. Page in The Philadelphia Bulletin (May 1944): "He [John Foster Dulles] stated directly to me that he had every reason to believe that the Governor [Thomas E. Dewey of New York] accepts his point of view and that he is personally convinced that this is the policy that he would promote with great vigor if elected. So it is fair to say that on the first round the Sphinx of Albany has established himself as a prima facie champion of a strong and definite new World order."

"We shall have World government, whether or not we like it. The only question is whether World government will be achieved by conquest or Consent."
James Paul Warburg, before the U.S. Senate, February 17, 1950

Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, 1952: "The real rulers in Washington are invisible, and exercise power from behind the scenes."

Senator William Jenner, 1954: "Today the path of total dictatorship in the United States can be laid by strictly legal means, unseen and unheard by the Congress, the President, or the people. Outwardly we have a Constitutional government. We have operating within our government and political system, another body representing another form of government - a bureaucratic elite."

